Note: once you are logged in, we recommend that you use the navigation buttons within the online course, and not the “Forward” or “Back” buttons on your browser.
We strongly recommend that you take the “Student Orientation” module before beginning the course. The orientation will provide an overview of the course structure, system requirements, and course navigation.
This orientation can be completed in just a few minutes, and is highly recommended for all participants.

Within the Student Orientation is a “Setting Up Your Computer” link that will guide you through a quick technology check to ensure you have the proper settings to access all features for the online training.

Competency Assessments

All training participants will complete both a pre-and post-course self-assessment of their competencies in the skills and knowledge covered by the training. It is important to be as honest as possible with self-assessments; your responses are not shared with supervisors or other staff.

Opening the Assessment and Answering Questions

Use the table of contents to find the Pre-Course Assessment or navigate using the next arrow. Once on the Assessment page, use your mouse to "Click to Launch."

The assessment consists of multiple-choice and true/false questions. Questions are shown one at a time. All questions are randomized.

1. To answer a question, select your answer and click on the button next to your answer choice.
2. You can change your answers as many times as you want before submitting the assessment to be scored.
3. When you have completed the entire assessment and are satisfied with all of your answers click Save and Submit. A confirmation page will appear. Click OK in the lower right-hand corner to review your grade.
4. You will have 60 minutes to complete and submit the assessment. At the 60 minute mark, your assessment will automatically be submitted.

You will be asked to complete a similar assessment at the end of this course. If you have any questions about the assessment, please contact our office at cadet@hsu.edu or 617-338-2534.

Please take the time to complete this scale before beginning the online training program. You will be asked to complete a similar scale at the end of the training. Ratings collected at pre and post will be compared to determine if the training was effective.

Thank you for taking the time to complete this survey.

You may begin by clicking the following link: https://www.surveymonkey.com/s/SOSZrM
Throughout the course are “callout” boxes which direct you to specialized information: definitions of terms, links to additional resources, and case examples, among others.

David Smith is a 17-year-old with Down’s Syndrome who will be graduating from high school and turning 18 in 4 months. David lives with his parents and younger brother. Both of his parents work full-time. The family is covered by private health insurance through Mr. Smith’s employer.

At school, in addition to his regular classes, David has had the opportunity to participate in an afterschool supported work program. David has stated to his teachers and classmates that he is going to get a job and his own apartment after he graduates.

At home, David is never left alone. If his parents or brother are not going to be around, an elderly neighbor comes over to stay with him until they return. David’s parents cue him daily regarding appropriate dress, grooming, and hygiene. He is able to dress himself, wash his face, and brush his teeth. He needs some assistance with bathing and fixing his hair. His parents prepare his meals and watch his food intake so he doesn’t overeat, or overload on junk food. They help him manage his money. David’s parents or brother usually work together with him on a variety of household chores such as making beds, folding laundry, setting the table, and picking up the house.
Case examples enable participants to take course concepts and apply them to a practice scenario. As you read through the examples in the course, please consider how you would handle the situations in real life.

Example #1: Mr. Castro

Mr. Castro is 73-years-old and lives alone. He had hip replacement surgery a year ago and suffers pain from chronic arthritis of the spine and hands. Since his hip replacement, he has been taking Vicodan, a prescription pain medication. Mr. Castro has always taken his medication as prescribed and has not experienced any impairment related to its use; however, when he forgot to call the pharmacy for a refill on time and was without medication for a day, he began to experience nausea, vomiting, and cramping.

Example #2: Ms. Davis

Ms. Davis is a 66-year-old widow who was prescribed Marinol for nausea and vomiting while undergoing chemotherapy for breast cancer. Since her cancer is in remission, Marinol is no longer prescribed. A year ago, Ms. Davis began to smoke marijuana after learning that Marinol and marijuana share an ingredient that affects emotions and the sense of well-being. She is supplied on a regular basis by a neighbor, but the expense of daily use is beginning to hurt her financially. Ms. Davis is concerned and has tried to cut back, but has not been successful. Her long-time friends have noticed that she does not accept invitations as often as in the past, stating that she is just "too tired" or "not interested" in going out. What Ms. Davis has not told her friends is that in addition to being tired and not interested in social activities, she can no longer afford to go out due to the cost of purchasing marijuana.
Another essential component of the training is videos that introduce learners to real-life situations and reinforce course concepts.

Closed captioning is available for each video. Learners may expand the video to full screen mode as well.
