The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

This is an urgent matter. Please pass a bill that includes at a minimum the provisions of the senate bill.

Subject: Police Reform

Greetings,

I support police reform to get rid of bad police officers and police brutality but I do not support a removal of qualified immunity for police officers. If an officer has done anything criminal in performance of their duties, that person can be criminally prosecuted. It is however not fair to bankrupt a police officer by civil proceedings since by definition he is acting as an agent of the state in performance of his duties. He would not otherwise be arresting people. The same logic is applied to politicians who have complete immunity from personal civil prosecution for their legislative actions. Thank you for reading my input to the current proposed legislation.

Hello,

My name is Iris Toner. I'm from Raynham and am a Taunton Public School teacher. I am writing to you to please not move forward with the Police Reform Bill. I feel that the citizens from the Commonwealth of MA need transparency about this new Police Reform Bill. Politicians that passed this bill in the Senate did not hear their constituents nor did they present this bill to their community that they represent. My State Rep-Mark Pacheco who voted for this bill did not take any consideration that the majority of his constituents are NOT in favor of this bill. We need more transparency, more dialogue from all points of views, and more time. This shouldn't be rushed. Police Reform should be a thoughtful and methodical process, not rushed for to appease a political climate.

As a citizen of this great state and as a public school teacher, this not only effects adults from all walks of life, but also our children especially those who rely on School Resource Officers for their safety. For example, at our high school, our school resource officers are involved with the at risk students' lives more than a teacher could reach. SRO are an unusual hybrid of a counselor, educator, and a cop. Our SROs are important to our school community, but VITAL to our low income community with mainly single parent households. SRO provide guardians and parents with guidance/counseling, education, mentoring, a friend to lean on for help, and role model to the youth in the community.

If you ask many students in the Taunton Public School System, they would tell you not to pass this bill that could jeopardize losing their SRO who are the fabric of our school community, but also their friend and role model.

Thank you for taking the time to read my letter,

Iris Toner

Subject: Bill No. S2820

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Virginia Cassidy. I live in Billerica, MA. My husband, Patrick Cassidy, is a Police Officer in Everett, MA. He is also a father to our two little boys, a son, brother, friend, and role model. He works in Youth Violence and as a School Resource Officer. He builds positive relationships with ALL MEMBERS of the community. He has kept many kids from going down a dark road of drugs and crime. He is considered a role model to so many. He gets invited to be a part of these kids' lives far past when they graduate from school. He has EARNED their trust and their respect. He has run into burning buildings to rescue people he doesn't know. He has stopped known criminals from running from a crime scene and directly into innocent civilians homes. He HAS SAVED LIVES and KEPT EVERYONE SAFE.

He is part of the 99%. He teaches kindness and patience to all those around him. He is fair. He is just. He is proactive. He goes to work everyday, kisses his family goodbye, and prays he will come home. He sees that the power to not use force is the best power of them all. Our kids and I see him as a HERO and you will not find a soul who will dispute that.

Our friends and family? About 90% of them wear the badge. They also find it a privilege and calling to protect and serve the Commonwealth . They are also part of the 99%. They also have children, spouses, mothers, fathers, and other family who are proud of the way they protect the public, collaborate with their communities, and earn the respect and trust of the citizens they serve.

As a wife of a an exceptional law enforcement officer, I find the NON-TRANSPARENT, NON-COLLABORATIVE, LATE NIGHT, REACTIONARY acts of our State Senate to be a slap in the face of all law enforcement, law enforcement families and, quite frankly, anyone in the Commonwealth who values their safety and quality of life. The idea that the livelihood of my family could be in jeopardy because of an ignorant few is downright despicable. No officer wants to have to wonder if they are going to lose their home or retirement for doing a job that they feel is their calling in this life.

This bill does not just impact law enforcement. It also impacts nurses, firefighters, and other public servants. I have worked in Healthcare in Massachusetts for over 15 years. I have seen first-hand the impact of the quick actions taken by qualified first responders to save people's lives, minimize injury, and protect the quality of life of so many citizens of the Commonwealth. I am concerned this bill will negatively impact this valuable, critical decision-making and will INCREASE mortality, and injury, and be detrimental to the quality of life of the citizens of Massachusetts.

No good decision is ever made at 4AM. Never mind one that is RUSHED, NON-COLLABORATIVE, POORLY EVALUATED for LONG TERM CONSEQUENCES, and PUNISHES those who are QUALIFIED to serve and protect the Commonwealth.

We have the opportunity to stop a very harmful piece of legislation from passing. As a wife of a law enforcement officer, a member of the Massachusetts Healthcare Team, a Mom, a Daughter, and a Proud Citizen of the Commonwealth, I BEG you to reconsider this Bill and Vote a Strong "No."

I am sure you are getting lots of emails about his topic and I thank you for taking the time to read this one.

Please don't hesitate to reach out. I can be contacted via email or at 6179183360.

Regards,
Virginia Cassidy

Subject: Feedback for police reform and racial equity legislation

To Members of the MA Legislature

I write to offer the humble opinion of a concerned citizen regarding police reform and racial equality. This is simply my opinion on these topics and the scope of my opinion may go beyond what you are currently considering for active bills to date. But I feel compelled to ask that you work to bring about a more just and equal system for every human in this state.

Regarding police reform:

If Massachusetts were a private/public corporation, a school, small business, restaurant, etc - we would have a set of rules and expectations about what behaviors are acceptable and not acceptable for our employees. Should one of these employees violate those standards the employee would be subject to discipline up to and including termination. This is how it works in every place of business and that is a good thing. Accountability to one's actions is critical to a properly functioning and just society. Why should we expect anything less for our hired employees of the police force?

If anything, because these employees were hired to enforce the laws of our great state and represent all of us, we should expect more from them and at a higher standard. These are public employees whose employers are the citizens of this great state of Massachusetts. They are not a power or entity unto themselves. We the people of Massachusetts should have a say in what behavior is acceptable and not acceptable for our employees. These employees should not be protected and shielded from their own actions and behaviors when those actions and behaviors violate the trust and integrity we expect and demand from our employees.

It is time we decide what behaviors are acceptable and not acceptable. There is no reason to choke someone. There is no reason to put your knee on someone's neck. There is no reason to attack protesters. Employees that perform unnecessary acts of violence on another human are terminated and must face the consequences of their actions. It is time these employees be given proper guidelines that if crossed, they are terminated and face the consequences of their actions.

Think too about what the police force has grown into. We expect the police to handle every grievance, every complaint, every accident and everything we don't want to deal with ourselves. We ask them to show up at accident scenes to handle traffic, to handle traffic for construction crews and to babysit our roads to handle the high crime of forgetting to use your blinker. We ask them to show up in millions of situations, where a person with a gun is probably not in the top 10 of people who could best handle that situation.

It is time we step back and rethink our policing and ask them to do only what they do best and where the presence of a weapon may reasonably be expected. We must redirect funds from a runaway police force to resources that are better equipped to handle much of what the police face on a daily basis.

Regarding racial equality:

We are long long past when we should do everything, everything, in our power to bring about racial equality in our communities, our state, our nation, and the world. For far too long people of color have had to live with a system of "justice" that is racist, unjust and has treated them as if they don't matter, or at least that they don't matter as much as white people. Thank God for cameras that have exposed near daily instances of police brutality and abuse of power around the country. Without those cameras many of us would be ignorant and blind to the longstanding and continued injustices faced by people of color every day.

We must work to educate and retrain our police to eliminate racial biases, profiling, discriminating policies and hiring practices. We must change laws that were written to punish people of color and are enforced against people of color in far higher percentages than whites. We must change our criminal justice systems and enact prison reforms that incarcerate people of color at far higher percentages than white people. We must release people from prisons that are serving time for nonviolent crimes and reduce or eliminate prison times for nonviolent crimes, again, that impact people of color at far higher rates. We must overhaul our bail systems that put people in jail for the crime of being poor.

We must also change the foundations within communities to provide economic and educational equality throughout the state. Far too many schools receive far too little funds because they are not as affluent as another community. The foundations of future financial success are rooted in a full and enriching education from preschool through college, but we let the rich perpetuate inequality at these most basic levels and tell poor communities they just need to self fund like the rich do to be on equal footing. This is a lie that perpetuates a racist and unjust system. All too often the poorer communities are primarily people of color, all too often the affluent communities are primarily white. We should direct funds to communities that need more so they can be truly equal.

You have the power to stop perpetuating racial and economic injustice. You have the power to reimagine our communities in a truly equal way. You have the power to reimagine our policing in a more just way. You have the power to bring the State of Massachusetts closer to the ideals of what this great nation was founded on.

Act

Perhaps no one will read this. I am just a citizen. I am just one person. One voice. One vote. But I hope that we can all work together for a better community for all.

Best regards in these difficult times. Stay safe. Stay healthy.

Subject: Testimony in Support of Police Accountability -- Use of Force Standards, Qualified Immunity Reform, and Prohibitions on Face Surveillance

July 17, 2020

The Honorable Rep. Aaron Michlewitz
Chair, House Committee on Ways and Means

The Honorable Rep. Claire D. Cronin
Chair, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Re: Testimony in Support of Police Accountability -- Use of Force Standards, Qualified Immunity Reform, and Prohibitions on Face Surveillance

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

I write in strong support of the many provisions in S.2820 designed to increase police accountability. In particular, I urge you to:

1. Adopt strict limits on police use of force,
2. End qualified immunity, because it shields police from accountability and denies victims of police violence their day in court, and
3. Prohibit government use of face surveillance technology, which threatens core civil liberties and racial justice.

The Fraternal Order of Police acknowledges that the "enormous responsibility that comes with a badge" and that officers should be "held to a much higher standard of personal and professional conduct."

Unfortunately, this rhetoric does not carry over to the practice or structure in which law enforcement officers practice. Many professions have standardized education requirements, testing, continuing education, and licensing boards which uphold the shared values and standards of a profession. I support the creation of a Police Officers Standards and Accreditation Committee to provide independent oversight of the profession and uphold the standards of the profession. It is time for qualified immunity to be revoked and for law enforcement officers to be held to the same standard as other professionals who are accused of wrongdoing. In medicine, providers are held liable for mistakes that lead to death or injury and can be the subject of civil lawsuits, they are held to high standards of education, licensing, peer and societal review and must complete continuing education to ensure their practice is based on evidence. It should not be controversial to apply the same professional framework to that of law enforcement. S.2820 applies a reasonable person standard, and if brought to trial, the accused would be able to present evidence to a judge or jury, who would apply the reasonable standard to the case. Again, this is not a controversial process, it is not new and it is not remarkable in any way, it is the standard by which the residents of the Commonwealth can seek damages.

George Floyd's murder by Minneapolis police brought hundreds of thousands of people into the streets all around the country to demand fundamental changes to policing and concrete steps to address systemic racism. This historic moment is not about one police killing or about one police department. Massachusetts is not immune. Indeed, Bill Barr's Department of Justice recently reported that a unit of the Springfield Police Department routinely uses brutal, excessive violence against residents of that city. We must address police violence and abuses, stop the disparate policing of and brutality against communities of color and Black people in particular, and hold police accountable for civil rights violations. These changes are essential for the health and safety of our communities here in the Commonwealth.

Massachusetts must establish strong standards limiting excessive force by police. When police interact with civilians, they should only use force when it is absolutely necessary, after attempting to de-escalate, when all other options have been exhausted. Police must use force that is proportional to the situation, and the minimum amount required to accomplish a lawful purpose. And several tactics commonly associated with death or serious injury, including the use of chokeholds, tear gas, rubber bullets, and no-knock warrants should be outlawed entirely.

Of critical and urgent importance: Massachusetts must abolish the dangerous doctrine of qualified immunity because it shields police from being held accountable to their victims. Limits on use of force are meaningless unless they are enforceable. Yet today, qualified immunity protects police even when they blatantly and seriously violate people's civil rights, including by excessive use of force resulting in permanent injury or even death. It denies victims of police violence their day in court. Ending or reforming qualified immunity is the most important police accountability measure in S2820. Maintaining Qualified Immunity ensures that Black Lives Don't Matter. We urge you to end immunity in order to end impunity.

Finally, we urge the House to prevent the expansion of police powers and budgets by prohibiting government entities, including police, from using face surveillance technologies. Specifically, we ask that you include H.1538 in your omnibus bill. Face surveillance technologies have serious racial bias flaws built into their systems. There are increasing numbers of cases in which Black people are wrongfully arrested due to errors with these technologies (as well as sloppy police work). We should not allow police in Massachusetts to use technology that supercharges racial bias and expands police powers to surveil everyone, every day and everywhere we go.

There is broad consensus that we must act swiftly and boldly to address police violence, strengthen accountability, and advance racial justice. We urge you to pass the strongest possible legislation without delay, and to ensure that it is signed into law this session.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth Egan, MPH, LICSW

Subject: Pass a Strong Police Accountability Bill with Key Provisions from S.2820

Dear Chairs HWM & Judiciary,

I urge you to pass legislation that establishes real oversight and accountability for police.

Our law enforcement system is rife with systemic racism that manifests in poignant police murders of unarmed black people, brutality and excessive use of force, unlawful arrests, and unnecessary police contact. The House of Representatives and Senate should ultimately pass a bill that ends qualified immunity in most instances, reduces and oversees police use of force, removes police from schools, expands juvenile expungement, and establishes funds to improve re-entry from incarceration.

The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

Dear Representative Nguyen (Tram),

Thank you for committing to confront racial injustice in our communities. I am writing asking you to urge the Speaker to include these youth-focused policies in the House race equity bill. These proposals will address racial disparities in our justice system and hold law enforcement accountable when interacting with young people in our communities and in our schools:

* Require transparency and accountability by reporting race/ethnicity data at each major decision point of the juvenile justice system, as filed by Rep. Tyler (H.2141). Require law enforcement and other juvenile justice agencies to report data on young people at major decision points with the juvenile justice system to improve the state's policy and planning. It is really difficult to look at systemic change without access to data.

* End the automatic prosecution of older teens as adults, as filed by Rep. O'Day and Rep. Khan (H.3420): Massachusetts' youth of color bear the harshest brunt of our legal system with their over-representation in the adult criminal justice system. By raising the age at which a teenager can be automatically tried as an adult, we can hold young people accountable in a more developmentally appropriate setting, giving them a better chance to succeed and turn away from offending and reduce the harms of legal system involvement all while reducing crime in our communities. Raising the age of majority to 19 is the first step in increasing the jurisdiction of the juvenile court, where young people are treated in developmentally appropriate ways.

* Expand eligibility for expungement to rectify the collateral consequences of the over-policing and criminalization of communities of color, as filed by Rep. Decker and Rep. Khan (H1386) and as passed in S.2800: There is overwhelming evidence <[Expungement as passed was a hollow promise. Please make it a priority to give young people a clean slate.](https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A__www.washingtonpost.com_graphics_2020_opinions_systemic-2Dracism-2Dpolice-2Devidence-2Dcriminal-2Djustice-2Dsystem_-23School&d=DwMFaQ&c=1DF7oMaPKXpkYvev9V-fVahWL0QWnGCCAfCDz1Bns_w&r=FFzuTF14HHJEtOOWc-awL8LiFjtFfdoQgT3yGtkZXXK8&m=BW0aLTTdDSKOcKq0Wla0khWzkNFTcNu57A_OZ4BKUVg&s=vEXvBeKf2dnGHJnaWdb5hhYNMGjJpc6Nv-1mIeDqwGM&e=> that racial disparities against Black individuals at every stage of the legal system - from policing and profiling, court proceedings to sentencing and every stage in between. Expungement is an important tool to rectify the over-policing and disparate treatment of people of color by expanding. The current law limits does not distinguish if a case ended in a conviction or a dismissal. We ask that eligibility is modified so that (1) all non-convictions are eligible for expungement; (2) change the limitation on the number of cases on a record, to length of time since last conviction (3 years for misdemeanors and years for felonies); and (3) limit the list of offenses ineligible for expungement to only those resulting a felony conviction.<div data-bbox=)

* Prohibit law enforcement restraints of minor children in a prone or hog-tie position and require that de-escalation techniques are developmentally appropriate and require that law enforcement consider calling parents/guardians to de-escalate a situation with a child. Some of these provisions passed in S.2800 amendment 41.

* National and local studies have overwhelmingly shown that Black and Latinx students are significantly more likely to be suspended, expelled, and arrested in school than their white peers. Repeal the state mandate that every school district be assigned at least one school resource officer; require school committee approval by public vote for assigning SROs; require that law enforcement officers be stationed in a police station and on-call for schools, rather than being stationed on school property; and mandate that school districts and police departments comply with the reporting requirements of school-based arrests to qualify to have an SRO. These provisions passed in S.2800 amendments 25 and 80.

Thank you and I look forward to hearing back from about your position on these priorities.

I'm writing in favor of S.2820, to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law and strengthen it.

MA State and municipal police are notoriously corrupt. A full quarter of the officers at my local police department can't be called to testify during court cases due to being on the Brady List. This means they've lied in an official capacity, and are not reliable witnesses! Yet somehow they still have their jobs? Completely unacceptable.

I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no-knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

If you could take a full and committed step toward ending police brutality in our Commonwealth, that would be wonderful.

My name is Mark O'Brien and my family and I are Lynnfield residents. I am a State Trooper and have a combination of 16 years of law enforcement experience. I am writing on behalf of my family, specifically my two sons.

I consider us very fortunate to reside in Massachusetts. The Commonwealth is a wonderful place to live; however, the safety of our communities is at risk. If our public safety employees are no longer protected under the well established civil protection now afforded to us, there will be a stark drop in safety provided to our cities and towns. To no one's surprise, the fear of a civil suit will influence one's job performance; whether that job a police officer or a teacher, the fear is real. As police officers our number one priority is to ensure the safety of the communities and to hopefully act before someone is victimized. The fear of a civil lawsuit will drastically hinder the performance of those job duties.

There is potential for a drastic trickle effect caused by the recent bill passed by the Senate that would effect our future generations. The idea of my two sons growing up in an unsafe community is scary. In such an advanced society, why would the following generation suffer such mistakes made by the previous generation. I truly believe the Senate acted in accordance with an agenda; to wit a dangerous agenda.

As I grew up as a child in the lower middle class in an urban community, I knew if I worked hard I could become a civil servant and provide for a small family. Police and fire careers were a modest, worthwhile goal. I served in Operation Iraqi Freedom to become a police officer. If the senate bill were to pass, how will we replace the volume of police that will retire with new qualified candidates? We are striving to recruit candidates of every race, ethnicity and gender to work with. This will be near impossible. Representatives I assure you the quality of candidates will not be what they are today if the Qualified Immunity we are afforded now is changed. This in turn affects the quality of life my children will grow up in. I assure you, family is the reason we oppose any changes to qualified immunity. Massachusetts is a wonderful place to live. We should not suffer from tragic, wrong actions in the Midwest. Commonsense must prevail.

Dear Representative Aaron Michlewitz, Representative Claire Cronin, and to all the other elected officials.

My name is Julio Jose Quiles and I live at 24 Lawrence Street, Haverhill, MA 01830. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2800, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Please consider raising the age of placing offenders in adult prisons to at least 21. Could YOU be held responsible for your behavior at that age? Children need to be provided with care to make them into functioning adults. A juvenile facility could be their last chance at that.

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Good afternoon,

My name is Jessica Pero and I'm writing to you today about the police reform bill that has been brought before you.

My husband has been a Boston Police Officer for about 15 years. I have lived and worked in the city of Boston my whole life and I feel that the Boston Police do a great a job. I do not feel that Boston faces the same problems that face other states across the country and to blanket all police departments as one just isn't fair.

However, like most people, I do believe that some change is needed but this bill is NOT that change. This bill threatens to harm the neighborhoods throughout the state, as well as the well being of its police force. It's a large bill that needs to be broken down to the public so that everyone knows and understands what's in it, and how it will affect them and their safety. It seems as this was thrown together rather quickly to make a statement.

So I'm asking you to veto this bill so that we can affect the real change that is needed, for everyone, and not just a few.

Thank you,
Jessica Pero

I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July. It is imperative that we address the bullying culture that has been allowed to exist in our police force for way too long. The precedents have been set that allow white male police officers to bully and harass people from marginalized communities, some of our most vulnerable people, including women. It is time to watch out for them and give them some cover. This bill would be a start. Please make it happen before any further damage to our state's integrity is done by rogue police officers.

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Tyler Estrella and I live at 120 Hood ST, Fall River MA 02720. I work at the Bristol County Sheriffs Office and am a Correctional Officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. I'm writing in favor of S.2820, to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law and strengthen it. I am alarmed by the amount of pushback we are seeing for the bare minimum required for a safer criminal justice system.

The final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for certifying all officers and decertifying problem officers (I have learned that the time it takes to become an officer and the amount of training they get is minimum and the methods by which we remove problem officers hardly exist), and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Good afternoon,

I write to support the bill in front of the House to begin reform of police practice in Massachusetts. It is a good step in the right direction. All of good hearts and fair minds will agree we are in dangerous and unhealthy times. We have an opportunity to reach a little higher, to do better, to strive for peaceful settlements of disputes by strengthening the good that is being done already and requiring more thoughtful approaches to crime and punishment. Determent is best. Punishment was never meant to be meted out in the street by officers of the law.

Those who profess to protect and serve must be accountable to those people they protect and serve. It is those people calling for reform. We are all a community here, and all subject to the law, not above it, especially those who enforce it. In these days of rabid abuse of power and negligent disregard of human life, we in Massachusetts take the step toward peace, toward a better union.

We can do better. We can go forward. We can lead this crippled nation toward peace. In God We Trust.

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I particularly support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

Thank you,

Subject: S.2800

As your constituent, Tom Rock, from Mendon, I write to you again today to express my strong opposition to S.2800 which was passed by the Senate. I ask that you oppose this bill as constituted when it is debated in the House of Representatives.

I also ask that it be debated in the light of day and not voted on in the dark of night.

The bill is ill conceived and politically driven. I think that we all agree that police reform is important and needs to be addressed but passing a hastily thought-out bill just for the sake of passing a bill is not in the best interest of the Commonwealth.

This bill is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. It will cause many good officers to leave due to the new burdens and make it harder to recruit individuals into law enforcement.

S 2800 establishes a review committee with overly broad powers, including the power of subpoena, in active investigations. The current language sets the groundwork for unconstitutional violations of a police officer's 5th amendment rights against self-incrimination (see Carney vs Springfield) and constitutional protections against "double-jeopardy."

Qualified immunity protections are removed and replaced with a "no reasonable defendant" qualifier. This removes important liability protections essential for the police officers we send out on patrol in our communities and who often deal with some of the most dangerous of circumstances with little or no back-up. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers up to personal liabilities, or maybe more importantly the constant fear of personal liability, so they cannot purchase a home, a car, obtain a credit card, or other things for the benefit of them and their families. It will also expose LEOs to unlimited frivolous lawsuits and person legal costs associated with defending themselves in court. Good luck with police recruitment.

In addition S 2800 failed to follow the normal and appropriate legislative process of holding public hearings to accept testimony from citizens and experts. I ask that you vote NO when S.2800 comes to the House of Representatives for the reasons stated above, and others.

"We cannot support a measure which takes handcuffs off drug dealers and gang bangers and puts them on police, allows criminal records to disappear while tearing open police personnel files and allows criminals to appeal for monetary damages while denying police due process to appeal for their job," said James Machado, executive director of the Massachusetts Police Association.

Please have the courage to challenge the popular narrative and vote NO on S.2800

To whom it may concern,

Massachusetts must pass S2820.

I have been deeply disheartened by recent events across this country and in my city of Boston. As someone who has been in the streets demanding justice for the Black lives that have been murdered by police and white supremacists across the country, I have been disgusted by the response of state and local officials and law enforcement to the demands and the needs of the people. Time and time again, when communities rise up to make their voices heard and their demands clear, they have been met with a wall of police officers, armed and armored as if for war, with clearly visible detention and torture implements hanging from their belts and vests. The whole reason that people have been in the streets week after week is to show that the welfare of communities of color in our city and our state are more important than the semiautomatic weaponry, white supremacist indoctrination, and internationally criminal instruments of torture with which police forces are readily supplied. We are still in the streets because we have yet to see evidence that our representatives agree with this assessment. S2820 is the step we need to start to make this claim, that black lives matter a truth in our state and not simply a fantastical regulatory ideal. If the money spent on policing were spent on enriching communities, redistributing wealth, and providing health care and other essential social services, communities would be safer, happier, healthier, and better. I think we can all agree that empirical evidence shows the militarized, overpaid, unaccountable and improperly trained police forces of the state achieve none of these goals. S2820 is absolutely necessary if we are even to begin to consider Massachusetts a safe place for our communities and residents of color. I would be ashamed of my representative government if they were to reach an alternative conclusion.

Thank you for doing your jobs well, making Massachusetts a better place, and passing S2820.

Good Afternoon

I am writing to you in regards to the recent police reform bill (S.2800) that was carelessly rushed through the senate. I ask that you do not support this bill. This bill is nothing short of detrimental to law enforcement and the way that they serve and protect their communities. It is very clear that little research was done by the individuals who wrote this bill, not one has experience in law enforcement. Many black and Latino officers have stepped forward to challenge this irresponsible bill. They are frustrated that they, commonwealth chiefs and other law enforcement professionals were not consulted at all whatsoever. The boards, policies and the removal of all protections that this bill proposes is disheartening to myself, most Massachusetts residents, municipal and public employees and the men and women of law enforcement. We should all have had a voice on this matter and the senate effectively removed what rights we had to voice our opinions by sneaking this hastily written and irresponsible bill through to vote. This is not okay. This is not what they were elected to do.

If any reform is passed, let it be for more training and better equipment. If something is to be done, let us give police what is needed to keep everyone safe, from the residents of the commonwealth to the men and women who swore to protect it. Police departments in the state of Massachusetts are for the most part very progressive and extremely well run. Disrupting the way they are run with this bill is going to destroy policing in the state and could be catastrophic for all of us. Officers now are in fear for their future and reconsidering doing the job they love. What has happened in Massachusetts in recent years that we have to punish every officer in the state for? The terrible actions of one man in Minneapolis do not reflect a single officer at any level in the state of Massachusetts. They should not be subject to punishment for something they simply did not do or condone.

In closing, I ask that you do not support this bill. What the men and women in Law Enforcement is our support, not to be made out to look like animals and be stripped of any and all protections. They are not the enemy that S.2800 makes them out to be. We should all be most concerned about the senators who pushed this bill through.

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Honorable members of the House Judiciary Committee,

Please accept this email as testimony regarding the police reform bill you are considering with regard to the issue of "qualified immunity". As the father of a Swansea police officer, it is concerning that my son could potentially be sued for just trying to do his job. Being a police officer in today's society is hard enough (many think it is the toughest job in the country). These men and woman choose a tough profession and the majority perform their duties admirably every day. They take an oath to protect and serve us. Massachusetts Police Officers are among the best - trained and most professional officers in the Nation. This measure of weakening or eliminating the protections granted to Police Officers under "qualified immunity" seems to me will only make the job even more difficult and has the very real possibility of making them and the citizens they serve less safe. I fear 2 things: Hard - working, honest police will be forced to "reason" or second guess themselves if they should help in certain situations (as noted in a recent Boston Herald article) or we will see many of these officers (especially the younger officers) leave the profession and create huge gaps in manpower. I think you will agree that most police officers are good people who want serve their community and are now living in the shadow of what the few bad cops do.

I ask that when the House reviews police reform that you consider the issue of "qualified immunity" and how this will have a negative impact on police officers. The law - abiding citizens of the Commonwealth need our elected officials to support our police officers rather than enacting legislation that has the potential to put their futures in jeopardy.

I hope that you agree that weakening or eliminating "qualified immunity" with regard to police reform is not a good thing and should not be part of any police reform bill. This is how this is affecting my son: He has been an officer for 6 years, has taken the Sergeant exam and scored second within his department, has multiple commendations in his jacket and wants to remain on the force. If this passes, he will have to shift gears and start a new career out of frustration leaving his Bachelor's Degree in Criminal Justice and past 6 years of his life feeling wasted.

Please do the right thing and support our officers.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Good Afternoon,

We need to back our Police not harass them! We should be hiring more police on our streets instead of trying to find ways to destroy morale and put our officers in harms way! We were just fine in Boston but this is creating hatred that I've never seen before directed at our police officers! You are all more concerned about criminals than the law abiding citizens of the Comth. Stop pandering for votes and protect our Police and citizens! At the rate we are going you won't have to worry about police anymore because they will all quit then you will have regular citizens armed to protect themselves and their families and property. Stop this hatred and violence against our men in blue! They deserve respect and protection for putting their lives on the line every day!!!

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I'm writing in favor of S.2820, to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law and strengthen it.

I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Subject: Opposed to bill S2820, especially the qualified immunity section

To the honorable representatives of Massachusetts,
I am opposed to bill S2820 for Police reform and mainly to the qualified immunity section. Jobs that serve and help the communities need the up most protection we can legally give them. We cannot tell law enforcement officers or first responders to rush towards danger when help is needed. But not have their backs when they need help. We dont live in a perfect world, and these men and women do their best to protect is from the criminals and people who try to do us harm. Taking away the qualified immunity will only hurt the community further. Responding agencies with lower number of employees will now take longer to get to emergency calls. If you've never been involved with a medical call, seconds can be life saving. The first responders answering the call will now drive slower in fear of potentially getting into a fender bender or clipping another vehicle and being sued over it. Or detain someone who fits a suspect description, and be sued because it wasnt the right suspect.

Some changes are needed. But not this, and not in this way.

Thank you for your time.

House Committees on Ways and Means and the Judiciary

I am emailing you my concerns for any hastily written or rushed police reform legislation. As a former municipal and state police officer I hope the Senate and House can agree on a police reform bill that is based on facts and not emotions.

Any bill being proposed deserves proper process including vetting, hearings, debate and input from all groups including law enforcement.

A Certification/De-Certification Process for law enforcement in Massachusetts is well overdue but must include a Due Process/Right of Appeal.

The elimination of Qualified Immunity will be a morale killer for the hard working members of law enforcement that go to work everyday trying to do the best job they can for the community they serve. The

Qualified Immunity elimination will also keep the most qualified and educated candidate from applying for positions in law enforcement due to the possibility of being sued individually for "acting in good faith" in performing the duties of law enforcement.

Thank you for your consideration.

I respectfully request that the Massachusetts House preserve the vital reforms in the Senate bill and go further than the Senate bill by

- * Strengthening use of force standards, e.g., by outright banning chokeholds and tear gas
- * Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology (rather than imposing just a one-year moratorium)
- * Lifting the unnecessary cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund

Subject: Need Transparency on SB 2820

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

Transparency is critically important, particularly when it comes to fighting abuse issues and the work of special state police officers. Specifically, there needs to be transparency around number of investigations, arrests, and arraignments to avoid selective and unjust policing practices. Special state police officers who work to fight animal abuse must be required to follow public record laws if they are empowered with some of the rights of policing. In essence, they must be held accountable to the public and/or marginalized populations, just like any other police officer.

We ask that you adopt a provision ensuring that special police officers are NOT exempt from public record laws, as follows:

An Act relative to transparency for special state police officers

SECTION 1. Chapter 66 of the General Laws, as appearing in the 2016 Official Edition, is hereby amended by inserting after section 21 the following section:-

Section 22. A document made or received by special state police officers as defined in Chapter 22C, including but not limited to, special state police officers as defined in sections 51, 56, 57, 58, and 63 shall be considered a public record under this chapter and under clause twenty-sixth of section 7 of chapter 4 and subject to all applicable exemptions.

I know you believe that the Police needs reform, but I'll tell you this, I have been working for the City of Boston for almost 6 years and Boston Police is my family. They are there when we need them and who else will go into communities to kill each other. On another note, you think that Health Care workers are the solution to Domestic Violence, well that won't help, the victim will continue to be the victim when the suspect, continues the abuse of them and those of the Health Care, they should also be infear for their lives because the suspect will beat on them as well. This Commonwealth needs to have Police and I know as an employee that Commissioner Gross, keeps a tight house and that is all that matters. So with these words I oppose this bill as should all the public.

Subject: S.2800 (Police Reform)

Please accept my brief thoughts on S.2800.

I am a police officer with just over 29 years experience. Although some version of police reform is needed, I feel that the current attempt to rapidly change is a knee jerk reaction. Did something terrible happen in the Commonwealth during the pandemic? The answer is NO. I, along with the overwhelming (I would venture to say over 99%) of police officers continue to do the right thing every day. During the pandemic I went to work everyday. As always leaving my family not knowing what the day would bring. We went from hero's to being unwanted. I feel there are people that want nothing more than to see our mission fail. That mission is to care for and protect the citizens of this fine Commonwealth.

Please refer to the opinions of such professional groups as the Mass Police Association, MACOPS and the Mass Chiefs to name a few. Obviously we are not against well thought out and fair change. One area I personally take issue with is Qualified Immunity. Removing that puts all police officers (and others like Firefighters, Nurses and EMTs) in an unsafe position. QI protects the good police officer who act in good faith. It protects us from frivolous lawsuits that will be common if this becomes law. Please do the right thing and protect us who protect the Commonwealth.

Other issues again I ask you listen to the requests of our professional groups. Let us have a seat at the table.

I previously sent an email to Rep. Spiliotis. So if this is considered duplicate, I apologize.

Thank you for your time.

This is a copy of a letter I sent to State Representative Joseph Mckenna voicing my Opinion on this reform bill. and what my thoughts are about why it is being pushed through the process so fast , I ask of this Committee to think strongly about the true reasons that you are doing this . As a Citizen of the Commonwealth my entire 49 + years 15 of which I was a 1st responder covered by the Qualified Immunity system that you are trying to remove from our 1st responders . This will affect all citizens in the Commonwealth in a negative way. not to mention put an additional burden on the Court system that already has a hard time keep up on cases as it is now. again please see attached email that I sent to my State Representative.

Mr, Mckenna,

I am taking this time to express to you my disapproval of the Police Reform Bill and especially the section pertaining to the removal of the Qualified Immunity for this States 1st Responders .

Especially the Police , Fire & EMS parts . This will give the criminal the upper hand in a State that already is more stringent on Police and Law Abiding Citizens whom defend themselves .

We need Representation that will not be afraid of going against the main stream and Black Lives Matter . Please do not allow this bill to pass for the Citizens of the Commonwealth depend on our 1st responders a great deal. If this bill passes it will leave the common citizen protected by the good Samaritan Act more then our Police , Fire and EMS . Again please do not Pander to the Left and stand your ground for all of the Citizens in the Commonwealth.

Subject: Senate Bill 2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,
My name is D. Paluzzi and I live at 28 May Street Braintree, MA. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
D. Paluzzi

Subject: Senate Bill Police Reform

Good afternoon Rep. Michlewitz and Rep. Cronin,

I'm writing to you regarding the senate police reform bill, and specifically about qualified immunity, which has now been extended to nurses and firefighters. I'm beyond disgusted. Our police departments in MA are envied by other states for their general professional conduct. We've have not had an incident like Minneapolis for that reason, so why is this being applied to our police forces? Our public servants were called "heroes" throughout the pandemic by the public, and all on Beacon Hill. Are police, firefighters and nurses now villains? This bill is the ultimate non thank you and slap to the face. As a licensed nurse, why would I ever return to the profession when I could be exposed to unjustified lawsuits? Same for the police and firefighters - expect a mass exodus of experienced professionals. Yes, police reforms are needed for incompetent officers, but not to this extreme where we punish all. I am very upset by the growing civic ignorance of Beacon Hill, and how our elected officials are sending more support to those with extreme views, rather than the majority of citizens. We pay taxes for our laws to be enforced, and for a peaceful existence. I worry for the future of the state. Also, I have one more thought about the bill in general, in regards to limits on police tactics to subdue a suspect. I believe some of their present methods should remain intact, such as mace, pepper spray or a taser, if other physical methods are eliminated. Did you hear what happened to the two NY officers who just recently made an arrest of a known drug dealer and gang member? On the arrest, the suspect was resisting after being cuffed. A mob then descended on the police, and one of the officer's bodycams was purposely knocked off, which led to a physical scuffle. The officer in the scuffle was placed in a choke hold with maximum pressure and was rendered unconscious and defenseless. What if his gun was taken? What if the officer had another means to stop this? These men and women in uniform need our support. The criminals in NY were cheering that the policeman was placed in a choke hold, instead of the neighborhood cheering that a criminal was taken off their street. This is so backwards and so very wrong.

Thank you for letting me speak as a concerned citizen, and I hope for greater transparency with future bills in the house and senate.

Respectfully,

Lisa Morton

Subject: Bill S.2800

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

My name is Maria Minichello and I live at 52 Wordsworth Street, East Boston MA. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2800, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Maria Minichello

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz & Chair Claire Cronin,

I am writing about the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800). I am writing to express my support of this bill. I am grateful to the police officers who risk their lives to keep our communities in Massachusetts safe, but I also firmly believe that there needs to be greater accountability for our law enforcement, as the tragic and unlawful deaths of Breonna Taylor and George Floyd have demonstrated.

I support this bill to restrict qualified immunity, as well as ban chokeholds and tear gas, and I hope our House of Representatives will support it as well. We must put stronger accountability measures in place to preserve justice in our law enforcement system. Taking measure such as the ones outlined in the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800) hold us all to a desperately needed higher standard, a standard which our communities deserve and need.

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,
I am writing in support of S.2820, and urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, get it through a conference committee, and have it signed by Governor Baker by the end of July. This is of critical importance to me.

I am glad to see a number of features of this bill, which I believe will go a long ways towards reforming police in ways that reflect community standards and the quest for justice. A state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards and limiting use of force are important, as is specifying officers' duty to intervene when witnessing misconduct by another officer. In the interest of diminishing racial bias in policing, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops will be a solid start. As for demilitarizing the police, requiring civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment is a step forward. I am also in support of the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I have also been concerned about growing police presence in our schools and support leaving the decision of whether or not to have SROs to local Superintendents of Schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Above all, I am eager to see a good police reform bill enacted by the end of July. Thank you for attending to this historic bill and giving it priority. important priority.

Subject: Police reform Bill number S2820

Dear Representatives,

I am writing to you as a constituent regarding the current Police reform bill ( Senate bill S2800, House bill S2820) passed by the Senate and under review by the House.

I am strongly opposed to at least 3 aspects of the bill, and I therefore emphatically urge you to not support this bill as it is currently written. It is my opinion that these 3 below- mentioned aspects of the proposal are deeply flawed, fundamentally short-sighted, misguided and dangerous. They do nothing to facilitate the just and right cause of true racial and social equality and justice, (which I strongly support), and they will only serve to radically hinder our law enforcement in their ability to protect and serve the citizens of the Commonwealth. I think it's pretty obvious that the practical outplay of these 3 aspects of the bill, and their subsequent hindrance of Law enforcement, will simply be emboldened and increased criminal behavior. This is completely unacceptable.

The 3 aspects I am adamantly opposed to are as follows:

- 1) Any changes to Qualified immunity for state and city/town Police, Firefighters, EMT's, Paramedics.
- 2) A complete ban on chokeholds, even in legitimate cases of self defense. (A police officer should be allowed to utilize a choke hold in legitimate situations of self defense and/or protection of an innocent crime victim).
- 3) Restrictions on the use of tear gas. (I am also opposed to any further restrictions of other chemical agents such as mace or pepper spray, any further restrictions of the use of rubber bullets or pellets, and any further restrictions of the use of Tasers and any other electronic equipment).

That being said, some of the things i am in favor of are: increased training for police, a certification program, body cameras, a comprehensive database to keep up to date info on legitimate Police offences.

I would have liked to have had further time to review the bill for positive aspects and point them out, but because of the unreasonable submission deadline of 11am on 7/17, I am unable to do so.

As a long time Mass resident, law-abiding citizen and registered independent voter, I am very upset at the attempt to push this bill through so quickly and the borderline sneaky way in which the 30 senators passed it. That is unacceptable for a bill of this importance.

Finally, i am also very upset that the bill is such a "mixed bag" of some obviously good ideas, with some obviously horrible and destructive ideas sandwiched in.

To reiterate, my emphatic request as a constituent is: Do not pass this bill as it is currently written.

Sincerely,
C William Kettinger Jr

The House Committees on Ways and Means and the Judiciary,

I would like to share my opinion on the bill that just passed regarding police reform.

I feel it is a poorly written bill and although some reforms may be necessary this bill which takes away qualified immunity from first responders and teachers goes too far. I am all for education, extensive training and forbidding choke holds, however this bill goes too far.

I hope as my representatives you understand how strongly I oppose this legislation.

Thank you for your time.

Subject: Reform

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Matthew Tupe and I live at 85 Holly Rd, Marshfield, MA, work at Marble and Granite, Inc. and am a Sales Representative. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????????? ??????????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Subject: Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800)

Hello,

I am a resident of Boston, MA and I unequivocally support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800).

Massachusetts has always been on the forefront of states passing legislation to support the people that live here and I have taken pride in the fact that we never shied away from decisions that seemed radical at the time.

Since moving here I have always been proud of Mass being the first state to legalize gay marriage, and I hope to see us continue to make the right choices ahead of the curve and set the standard for the rest of the country to follow. I, like many others, believe it's time to eliminate qualified immunity, ban chokeholds, reallocate state funds to communities disproportionately impacted by the criminal justice system, and allow the Mass AG to file lawsuits against discriminatory police departments. I hope to see this legislation pass so I can continue to be a proud resident.

Thank you for your time.

Dear Mr. Chairman/Madam Speaker,

I ask that you support amendments 114, 116 ,126 ,134, 129, and 137 to the Senate Bill S2800. The amendments deal with due process and fair representation on the board as well as uniform accreditation standards.

I support enhanced training and appropriate certification standards and policies that promote fair and unbiased treatment of all citizens, INCLUDING POLICE OFFICERS.

The original version of the bill undercuts collective bargaining rights and due process. These amendments are an attempt to improve the bill in these areas. They do not lessen the training protocols and standards or general accountability for law enforcement as originally proposed. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Good afternoon,

As a concerned citizen I am asking that qualified immunity for police officers remain in effect. I think it is a disgrace that the lawmakers of Massachusetts would even consider this. Police officers need to do their jobs, which is protecting ALL OF US, without having their hands tied worryingly about a frivolous lawsuit which could cost their family their home and livelihood. Have we forgotten the Marathon Bombing already? As far as the argument made by Cindy Friedman stating that qualified immunity closes a loophole that enables cities and towns to deal with a bad cop I find that incredibly naive. The thought that she would want to punish the thousands of good police officers in Massachusetts to weed out a few bad officers is beyond outrageous.

I want the police officers in all cities and towns in Massachusetts to be able to do their jobs completely.

Thank you for reading this and I hope you will kill this bill.

My name is Jane Hearn, 508-612-2988, and as a lifelong resident of the City of Worcester and the mother of a Worcester Police Officer the the grandmother of a Shrewsbury Police Officer, I want to express my strong opposition to S.2820 the policing reform package. The bill is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities with honor and courage. Massachusetts has already undertaken many police reform bills and our officers continue to be trained and retrained throughout every year. As yourselves how you think the police departments in your area are performing in this very difficult time.

The language which authorizes any person to intervene if they believe an officer's use of force is excessive and will result in more police being hurt and killed.

Who wouldn't want police officers in schools when needed to keep track of the gangs in our areas.

Qualified immunity protections are removed and replaced with a "no reasonable defendant" qualifier. This removes important liability protections essential for police officers sent out to patrol in our communities and who often deal with some of the most dangerous circumstances with little or no back-up. Removing qualified immunity in this way will open officers up to personal liabilities. Imagine you are having a heart attack and the officer who arrives is afraid to perform CPR to save your life for fear of breaking a rib and being sued. This is not the community I want to live in. We do not want officers afraid of doing what they are trained to do for fear of opening those personal liabilities so they cannot purchase a home, a car, obtain a credit card or other things for the benefit of their families. GOOD LUCK WITH POLICE RECRUITMENT.

I ask you to look at and reconsider the make-up of the POSAC committee which will govern the conduct of police and judge police officer conduct, but unlike every other professional licensing board, does not have any law enforcement members. The Board of Plumbers is made up by a majority of plumbers, WHY NOT the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee. At the very least it should be made up of individuals who have been on the streets, walked the walk, in police officers shoes. Just do a ride along for a few shifts. This bill will handcuff police officers, and God help the rest of us.

This Anti-Labor bill effectively eliminates collective bargaining rights for police officers - the employees that need it most given the difficulty of their job. This anti-labor, anti employee bill essentially removes (only for police) the right to be disciplined only where there is just cause - a right enjoyed by virtually every other public employee in our state.

Massachusetts has one of the lowest annual rates for deadly use of force incidents in the nation.

Massachusetts Cities have excellent records with it comes to deadly force - look at Worcester - not one since 2013

During this time span police have successfully handled many millions of calls for help, often involving volatile and violent individuals, without incident

Most Massachusetts Towns have had no law enforcement related deaths during the tracked time period

Before you, our state legislators create a huge new State Agency or Agencies and destroy the morale and success of our public safety officers - PLEASE TAKE A LOOK AT HOW POLICE IN MASSACHUSETTS ARE PERFORMING. Please take a look at your own constituencies and see what needs changing and what is working....

I am not a member of any organization, just a proud constituent, proud to call my family members Police Officers.

Subject: Testimony in Support of Police Accountability -- Use of Force Standards, Qualified Immunity Reform, and Prohibitions on Face Surveillance

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

I write in strong support of the many provisions in S.2820 designed to increase police accountability. In particular, I urge you to:

1. Adopt strict limits on police use of force,
2. End qualified immunity, because it shields police from accountability and denies victims of police violence their day in court, and
3. Prohibit government use of face surveillance technology, which threatens core civil liberties and racial justice.

George Floyd's murder by Minneapolis police brought hundreds of thousands of people into the streets all around the country to demand fundamental changes to policing and concrete steps to address systemic racism. This historic moment is not about one police killing or about one police department. Massachusetts is not immune. Indeed, Bill Barr's Department of Justice recently reported that a unit of the Springfield Police Department routinely uses brutal, excessive violence against residents of that city. We must address police violence and abuses, stop the disparate policing of and brutality against communities of color and Black people in particular, and hold police accountable for civil rights violations. These changes are essential for the health and safety of our communities here in the Commonwealth.

Massachusetts must establish strong standards limiting excessive force by police. When police interact with civilians, they should only use force when it is absolutely necessary, after attempting to de-escalate, when all other options have been exhausted. Police must use force that is proportional to the situation, and the minimum amount required to accomplish a lawful purpose. And several tactics commonly associated with death or serious injury, including the use of chokeholds, tear gas, rubber bullets, and no-knock warrants should be outlawed entirely.

Of critical and urgent importance: Massachusetts must abolish the dangerous doctrine of qualified immunity because it shields police from being held accountable to their victims. Limits on use of force are meaningless unless they are enforceable. Yet today, qualified immunity protects police even when they blatantly and seriously violate people's civil rights, including by excessive use of force resulting in permanent injury or even death. It denies victims of police violence their day in court. Ending or reforming qualified immunity is the most important police accountability measure in S2820. Maintaining Qualified Immunity ensures that Black Lives Don't Matter. We urge you to end immunity in order to end impunity.

Finally, we urge the House to prevent the expansion of police powers and budgets by prohibiting government entities, including police, from using face surveillance technologies. Specifically, we ask that you include H.1538 in your omnibus bill. Face surveillance technologies have serious racial bias flaws built into their systems. There are increasing numbers of cases in which Black people are wrongfully arrested due to errors with these technologies (as well as sloppy police work). We should not allow police in Massachusetts to use technology that supercharges racial bias and expands police powers to surveil everyone, every day and everywhere we go.

There is broad consensus that we must act swiftly and boldly to address police violence, strengthen accountability, and advance racial justice. We urge you to pass the strongest possible legislation without delay, and to ensure that it is signed into law this session.

Sincerely,

Subject: Bill S.2800

Dear Members of the House Committee on Ways & Means,

I am writing to you today out of concern and extreme frustration over Bill S.2800 that was hastily passed by the State Senate. This bill has been is an attack on all public employees. People who are public employees work within the community to ensure the vital growth of the community. As you know, Massachusetts is the first in education and to take away rights from teachers is just ludicrous. For years, studies have shown that the number of people staying in the teaching profession is dwindling with the average new teacher lasting roughly 5 years. Additionally, across the Nation, there is a dire need for teachers who are people of color. This Bill sets yet another reason why young people would stay out of the profession. You know as well as I do that anyone can say what they want about anyone whether true or false and there just needs to be a modicum of doubt ruin a person's life.

Additionally, this attack on law enforcement is going to lead to a lack of law and order. It is happening every day and people just ignore it. This lack of law and order will flow through every community and school system in the state and what does that leave us?

Please do not do this to public employees and to the future of this state.

Thank you for your time.

Please do not pass S2820 and take QUALIFIED IMMUNITY from police officers/ firefighters/nurses. My grandfather was a Cambridge police officer: my brother-in-law was a Burlington Police officer and my sister is a nurse. She worked within a Covid unit at Lahey Clinic recently. to take away the protection of immunity of such first responders will put ALL of us at risk. I do not know anyone who would work such a job without qualified immunity. If you take away their qualified immunity, then take it away from all politicians to be fair.

if I have a car accident and my car is on fire, and a police officer or firefighter pulls me from my car and it leaves me paralyzed I should not be able to sue him for his actions and take his home and assets that he has worked hard for. I would not want to burn in my car because the police or firefighter are afraid he will be sued. this bill contains a double edge sword that is against public service. REASONABLENESS IS THE KEY and this bill is currently not reasonable.

it appears to me that because one police officer killed Mr. Floyd that all are labeled bad. From the Michael Jackson's song, "ONE BAD APPLE DON'T SPOIL THE WHOLE BUNCH".

PLEASE DO NOT PASS THIS BILL.

Subject: Public Testimony on S.2800 to the House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees

7/16/20

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice Chair Day, and Vice Chair Garlick,

I am writing to request your consideration to expand the existing expungement law (MGL Ch 276, Section 100E) as the House takes up S.2800 to address Racial Justice and Police Accountability. S.2800 includes this expansion and we hope you will consider it as it directly relates to the harm done by over-policing in communities of color and the over-representation of young people of color in the criminal legal system.

Our criminal justice system is not immune to structural racism and we join you and all members in the great work needed to set things right. The unfortunate reality is that people of color are far more likely to be subjected to stop and frisk and more likely to get arrested for the same crimes committed by whites. Black youth are three times more likely to get arrested than their white peers and Black residents are six times more likely to go to jail in Massachusetts. Other systems where people of color experience racism are exacerbated, and in many ways legitimized, by the presence of a criminal record. Criminal records are meant to be a tool for public safety but they're more often used as a tool to hold communities of color back from their full economic potential. Expungement can be an important tool to rectify the documented systemic racism at every point of a young person's journey through and past our justice system.

We also know that young adults have the highest recidivism rate of any age group, but that drops as they grow older and mature. The law, however, does not allow for anyone who recidivates but eventually desists from reoffending to benefit. Young people's circumstances and cases are unique and the law aptly gives the court the discretion to approve expungement petitions on a case by case basis, yet the law also categorically disqualifies over 150 charges. We also know that anyone who is innocent of a crime should not have a record, but the current law doesn't distinguish between a dismissal and a conviction. It's for these three main reasons we write to you to champion these clarifications and now is the time to do it.

Since the overwhelming number of young people who become involved with the criminal justice system as an adolescent or young adult do so due to a variety of circumstances and since the overwhelming number of those young people grow up and move on with their lives, we are hoping to make clarifying changes to the law. We respectfully ask the law be clarified to:

- Allow for recidivism by removing the limit to a single charge or incident. Some young people may need multiple chances to exit the criminal justice system and the overwhelming majority do and pose no risk to public safety.

- Distinguish between dismissals and convictions because many young people get arrested and face charges that get dismissed. Those young people are innocent of crimes and they should not have a record to follow them forever.

- Remove certain restrictions from the 150+ list of charges and allow for the court to do the work the law charges them to do on a case by case basis especially if the case is dismissed of the young person is otherwise found "not guilty."

Refining the law will adequately achieve the desired outcome from 2018: to reduce recidivism, to remove barriers to employment, education, and housing; and to allow people of color who are disproportionately represented in the criminal justice system and who disproportionately experience the collateral consequences of a criminal record the opportunity to move on with their lives and contribute in powerfully positive ways to the Commonwealth and the communities they live, work and raise families in. Within a system riddled with racial disparities, the final step in the process is to allow for as many people as possible who pose no risk to public safety and who are passionate to pursue a positive future, to achieve that full potential here in Massachusetts or anywhere.

Thank you for your consideration,

Susan Gladstone

Subject: Police Accountability

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

On behalf of The Episcopalian Immigration Partnership of the Diocese of Eastern Massachussets, I write in strong support of the many provisions in S.2820 designed to increase police accountability. In particular, our organization urges you to:

1. Adopt strict limits on police use of force,
2. End qualified immunity, because it shields police from accountability and denies victims of police violence their day in court, and
3. Prohibit government use of face surveillance technology, which threatens core civil liberties and racial justice.

As someone who has attended presentations of Lorrie Mills-Curran on understanding your rights, I recognize that being confronted by police can be most intimidating, especially for recent immigrants to our community.

This historic moment is not about one police killing or about one police department. Massachusetts is not immune to incidences of police brutality. Indeed, Bill Barr's Department of Justice recently reported that a unit of the Springfield Police Department routinely uses brutal, excessive violence against residents of that city. We must address police violence and abuses, stop the disparate policing of and brutality against communities of color and Black people in particular, and hold police accountable for civil rights violations. These changes are essential for the health and safety of our communities here in the Commonwealth.

Massachusetts must establish strong standards limiting excessive force by police. When police interact with civilians, they should only use force when it is absolutely necessary, after attempting to de-escalate, when all other options have been exhausted. Police must use force that is proportional to the situation, and the minimum amount required to accomplish a lawful purpose. And several tactics commonly associated with death or serious injury, including the use of chokeholds, tear gas, rubber bullets, and no-knock warrants should be outlawed entirely.

Of critical and urgent importance: Massachusetts must abolish the dangerous doctrine of qualified immunity because it shields police from being held accountable to their victims. Limits on use of force are meaningless unless they are enforceable. Yet today, qualified immunity protects police even when they blatantly and seriously violate people's civil rights, including by excessive use of force resulting in permanent injury or even death. It denies victims of police violence their day in court. Ending or reforming qualified immunity is the most important police accountability measure in S2820. Maintaining Qualified Immunity ensures that Black Lives Don't Matter. We urge you to end immunity in order to end impunity.

Finally, we urge the House to prevent the expansion of police powers and budgets by prohibiting government entities, including police, from using face surveillance technologies. Specifically, we ask that you include H.1538 in your omnibus bill. Face surveillance technologies have serious racial bias flaws built into their systems. There are increasing numbers of cases in which Black people are wrongfully arrested due to errors with these technologies (as well as sloppy police work). We should not allow police in Massachusetts to use technology that supercharges racial bias and expands police powers to surveil everyone, every day and everywhere we go.

Having listened to a number of DACA recipients, I have learned of so many members of our Latina community who have had unfortunate encounters with our police force.

There is broad consensus that we must act swiftly and boldly to address police violence, strengthen accountability, and advance racial justice. We urge you to pass the strongest possible legislation without delay, and to ensure that it is signed into law this session.

Sincerely,

Paula Bennett- 02116

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Robert Gariepy and I live at 113 W Shore Drive Ashburnham, MA 01430. I work at North Central Correction Institution at Gardner Ma and am a Correctional Officer 1. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

To Whom It may Concern,

I understand that the House is deliberating S.2820 which was hurriedly passed by the senate. I understand it eliminates "Qualified Immunity" for police, fire and nurses.

This is an enormous mistake. In the current political environment, police departments are already having difficulty recruiting replacements for retirements.

This will boost retirements/resignations and kill recruiting. No one will want to serve their community.

When you need help, when something goes bump in the night, you call 911 (police, fire) because you trust them to come and help you. All my life, that is what I have seen.

This legislation seeks to destroy that group of first responders. Anyone who votes to destroy that important government function will never get my vote again. Shame on anyone who votes for it.

With no law enforcement, we can disband the legislature because we would have no need of legislators to write laws which will not be enforced.

I always vote and my memory is long.

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I particularly support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

I am a Massachusetts resident who is excited and grateful by the progress being made by passing this police reform bill. However, Massachusetts can do better. I am writing to ask you to preserve the vital reforms which have been passed, including

- * Creating an independent and civilian-majority police certification/decertification body
- * Limiting qualified immunity so that victims of police brutality can sue for civil damages
- * Reducing the school-to-prison pipeline and removing barriers to expungement on juvenile records
- * Establishing a Justice Reinvestment Fund to move money away from policing prisons and into workforce development and education opportunities
- * Banning racial profiling by law enforcement and prohibiting police officers from having sex with those in custody, which can obviously never be consensual and is strikingly not yet illegal

As well as adding additional reforms to improve the lives of those in our state, by:

- * Strengthening use of force standards, e.g., by outright banning chokeholds and tear gas
- * Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology (rather than imposing just a one-year moratorium)
- * Lifting the unnecessary cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund

Lets end the violent policing that targets our most vulnerable communities and make a stronger, safer Massachusetts for all.

I was born and raised in Massachusetts and raised my own children here. I am writing now to support the police reform bill. Though we need more dramatic measures to direct funding away from police departments statewide and towards community-based stability, safety, clean energy, and justice services, the reform measures in the bill, including reducing qualified immunity, are necessary for making our communities (especially Black and Brown ones) safer and more just. Please pass this bill and continue making MA a leader in our country for just legislation.

Subject: Written Testimony/S.2820

Dear Rep. Michlewitz and Rep. Cronin;

Please accept the following written testimony as it relates to a Bill (S.2820) in front of the House.

I am a concerned Massachusetts citizen residing at 78 Equestrian Drive, North Andover, as well as the Owner and President/CEO of small security business (WBE/WOSB) based in Everett. I employ approximately 150 people providing security services throughout the region. As the industry serves a security and public safety function, I am cognizant of the repercussions this Bill will have on not only policing, but the security industry and private businesses, which protect people in the communities we serve, along with millions of dollars of assets.

I write today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Please confirm timely receipt of this e-mail to be included in the written testimony on S.2820.

Subject: Bill S.2820

Mr. Michlewitz and Ms. Cronin,

My name is Joseph Brooks, and my purpose in writing to you today is to oppose bill S.2820 as currently constructed. Some background on me, I have been working in law enforcement for the last ten years, beginning with campus law enforcement at Bentley University in Waltham, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, and for the past 7 years the Newton MA Police department. My father spent over 32 years serving the Waltham Community as a police officer, and two of his brothers served or are currently serving as police officers in the city of Boston. My mother has been a nurse for over 30 years serving the greater Boston community. My family is deeply rooted in public service, and are proud to serve our communities.

The death of George Floyd has brought a call for reform to law enforcement across the country. Every police officer is suddenly being judged by the actions of Officer Derek Chauvin, which departments around the country have vehemently condemned. Policing has been vilified in the media and activists are pushing for the defunding and abolishment of police departments.

Massachusetts has some of the most well trained and highly educated officers in the country. Our police academies do not train in the use of choke holds, and our use of force policies are designed around a sliding escalation scale. Many departments have social workers working alongside officers and offering jail diversion and counseling options for those suffering from mental health or addiction crisis. We received crisis intervention and de escalation training. Departments have created critical incident stress management units to offer peer support to officers, to prevent burn out and PTSD trauma from the calls officers respond to. Our law enforcement in this state is very progressive, and President Obama specifically mentioned Boston as a model for the rest of the country when talking about police reform. It's disheartening that the Senate passed this bill, and continued the narrative that policing in Massachusetts is broken.

I want to address a few sections of the bill that I hope you will take under consideration. The amendments regarding qualified immunity are going to have drastic and far reaching consequences if passed. I've attached a link highlighting some of these issues.

The section in regards to "military equipment" also should be left to the departments discretion, and not public scrutiny. How quickly the community forgets the Boston Marathon bombing, the murder of Sean Collier, and the ensuing shootout in Watertown. It's an unfortunate reality that police departments need to be prepared for extraordinary situations to protect the communities we swore an oath to serve. The North Hollywood shootout was a major eye opener for policing, when you have a bank robbery and the suspects are better equipped than your police officers. School shootings across the country have also brought to light the need for Officers to be prepared which brings me into the next portion of the bill that I feel needs to be addressed.

The lack of communication and information sharing between schools and the police is going to have very real consequences. School resource officers not only are a deterrent to immediate violence, but are able to intervene when the schools have concerns regarding their students behaviors. Looking at school shooting history, teachers, administrators, and other students often saw the signs that something was "off" with the shooter, whether that was mental health related or bullying. The current bill reads more towards gang affiliations but I would argue that the response from police would be the same in regards to early intervention. If the police are able to identify these problems early on, it may be possible to prevent future tragedies.

I would ask that you take the time to speak with law enforcement professionals and hear the realities of the job, before rushing to pass legislature based on an incident that happened half way across the country. Hastily moving through the legislative process without input from ALL community stake holders, and thinking about the long term impacts of the laws you are passing, will greatly diminish the public safety in the state.

Thank you for your consideration on the matter,

Joseph Brooks

Hi,

I would like to voice my support for the following parts of the Senate Police Reform Bill:

- * Creating an independent and civilian-majority police certification/decertification body
- * Limiting qualified immunity so that victims of police brutality can sue for civil damages
- * Reducing the school-to-prison pipeline and removing barriers to expungement on juvenile records
- * Establishing a Justice Reinvestment Fund to move money away from policing prisons and into workforce development and education opportunities
- * Banning racial profiling by law enforcement and prohibiting police officers from having sex with those in custody, which can obviously never be consensual and is strikingly not yet illegal

I would also like to ask that the following areas be expanded upon in the house bill:

- * Strengthening use of force standards, e.g., by outright banning chokeholds and tear gas
- * Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology (rather than imposing just a one-year moratorium)
- * Lifting the unnecessary cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund

Thank you for taking time to read my email. I hope you consider the aforementioned when amending the bill.

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

I write in strong support of the many provisions in S.2820 designed to increase police accountability. In particular, I urge you to:

1. Adopt strict limits on police use of force,
2. End qualified immunity, because it shields police from accountability and denies victims of police violence their day in court, and
3. Prohibit government use of face surveillance technology, which threatens core civil liberties and racial justice.

I am part of a group of Brigham residents investigating the movement of "Defunding the Police". After literature search and discussion, we have found that police brutality as a consequence of systemic racism is a public health crisis leading to the death of our Black patients. Use of force must be stopped and police must be accountable for their actions.

George Floyd's murder by Minneapolis police brought hundreds of thousands of people into the streets all around the country to demand fundamental changes to policing and concrete steps to address systemic racism. This historic moment is not about one police killing or about one police department. Massachusetts is not immune. Indeed, Bill Barr's Department of Justice recently reported that a unit of the Springfield Police Department routinely uses brutal, excessive violence against residents of that city. We must address police violence and abuses, stop the disparate policing and brutality against communities of color and Black people in particular, and hold police accountable for civil rights violations. These changes are essential for the health and safety of our communities here in the Commonwealth.

Massachusetts must establish strong standards limiting excessive force by police. When police interact with civilians, they should only use force when it is absolutely necessary, after attempting to de-escalate, when all other options have been exhausted. Police must use force that is proportional to the situation, and the minimum amount required to accomplish a lawful purpose. And several tactics commonly associated with death or serious injury, including the use of chokeholds, tear gas, rubber bullets, and no-knock warrants should be outlawed entirely.

Of critical and urgent importance: Massachusetts must abolish the dangerous doctrine of qualified immunity because it shields police from being held accountable to their victims. Limits on use of force are meaningless unless they are enforceable. Yet today, qualified immunity protects police even when they blatantly and seriously violate people's civil rights, including by excessive use of force resulting in permanent injury or even death. It denies victims of police violence their day in court. Ending or reforming qualified immunity is the most important police accountability measure in S2820. Maintaining Qualified Immunity ensures that Black Lives Don't Matter. We urge you to end immunity in order to end impunity.

Finally, we urge the House to prevent the expansion of police powers and budgets by prohibiting government entities, including police, from using face surveillance technologies. Specifically, we ask that you include H.1538 in your omnibus bill. Face surveillance technologies have serious racial bias flaws built into their systems. There are increasing numbers of cases in which Black people are wrongfully arrested due to errors with these technologies (as well as sloppy police work). We should not allow police in Massachusetts to use technology that supercharges racial bias and expands police powers to surveil everyone, every day and everywhere we go.

Our group also advocates for divesting from policing and investing in mental health first response teams, such as CAHOOTS which has effectively minimized the use of police and saved money for the city of Eugene, Oregon.

There is broad consensus that we must act swiftly and boldly to address police violence, strengthen accountability, and advance racial justice. We urge you to pass the strongest possible legislation without delay, and to ensure that it is signed into law this session.

Sincerely,

Subject: S.2800 Police Reform Bill

To Whom it May Concern;

I want to thank you in advance for your willingness to seek public input.

I have had the honor to serve my city and the commonwealth for 26 years as a sworn law enforcement officer. The following quote from Sir Robert Peel in 1829 still resonates with me today - "The police are the public and the public are the police."

We are the community because we are part of it, and we like many others are concerned about the murder of George Floyd. Since June an incident occurred more the 1,500 miles away, police officers have been vilified, threatened, killed or injured in the line of duty and labelled as racist killers.

However the narrative cannot be farther from the truth. Just look at the data from the Bureau of Justice Statistics In 2018 African-Americans made up 53% of known homicide offenders in the US and commit about 6-% of robberies, though they are 13% of the population.

Or look at the Washington Posts database - that in 2019 police fatally shot 9 unarmed blacks and 19 unarmed whites. In 2018 there were 7,407 black homicide victims, assuming that a comparable number of victims in 2019 the nine unarmed black victims represent 0.1% of all African-Americans killed in 2019. A police officer is 18 ½ times more likely to be killed by a black male than an unarmed black male is to be killed by a police officer.

While every life is precious and we should be concerned anytime a person regardless of race, creed, religion or color is killed - the charge of systemic police bias and racism does not hold up - unless you just want to perpetuate the also narrative.

Do I believe police reform is necessary, Yes I do, we always need to continue to change and adapt our policies and procedures to reflect the norms of society and to continue to uphold the rule of law.

Of most concern is the issue of qualified immunity. Qualified Immunity does not mean absolute immunity. In Malley v. Briggs, 475U.S. 335 (1986) it "As a matter of public policy, qualified immunity provides ample protection to all but the plainly incompetent or those who knowingly violate the law." What it does do is protect good police officers from frivolous lawsuits, just for doing their job.

Prior to this current environment my department already met the policy and training recommendations of the "8 Can't Wait." Chokeholds aren't part of the training curriculum of the MPTC, we require de-escalation training, and require Use of Force Reporting for any force that officers use. Massachusetts has some of the best trained officers in the country. Officers are screened (medically and psychologically) before being hired, are trained and attend between 60 to 80 hrs of in-service training, which includes Use of Force as well as Biased Base Policing Training and Mental Health Training. My department also has a social worker on staff as part of our Jail Diversion Program.

This is a challenging time, but we can move forward and be successful if we collaborate and developed police reforms that are part of a non-partisan, apolitical and well informed effort. We all must denounce racism and excessive force - that's a given. But at the same time Law Enforcement must be supported. They are not mutually exclusive.

I'd like to suggest you ensure you get input from the police unions, the chiefs of police as well the minority police officer groups.

Thank you in advance for your attention to this matter.

Testimony before House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees

via email

The Massachusetts Bar Association (MBA) urges your Committees to include the expansion of expungement when considering Racial Justice and Police Accountability legislation. Senate Bill No. 2820 contains this expansion.

The criminal justice reform legislation recently enacted contained special provisions to permit expungement of juvenile court records and adult offenses committed before the age of 21 if a judge finds that such expungement is in the interests of justice. G.L. c. 276, §§ 100F-100J. These provisions, however, are unworkable because an individual seeking to expunge an offense is not eligible unless he or she only has a single charge on his or her record. In practice, a case often includes more than one offense. Police also may overcharge a person with more than one offense related to a single incident. In addition, more than 150 common offenses are excluded from eligibility for expungement under the current law. As a result, attorneys are rarely able to obtain relief for clients under the present statutory scheme.

Expanding current expungement law would promote access to jobs and opportunities for professional success by permitting expungement even if a person has more than one charge and allowing expungement of all juvenile offenses except for never sealable sex offenses.[1] The right to expunge a record is of great importance because criminal record sealing only limits who has access to the record. Expungement, however, is "the permanent erasure or destruction of a record so that the record is no longer accessible to, or maintained by, the court, any criminal justice agencies or any other state agency, municipal agency or county agency." [2] As the Supreme Judicial Court has acknowledged, a "cloud of prosecution" remains even if a case ends favorably if law enforcement, employers or others can gain access to information about the case.[3]

Thank for your consideration of our views.

It's a start but it's so important to strengthen the senate bill by widening the definition of "chokeholds", allow for no loopholes in the teargas and no knock raids, limit the interactions with police in mental health or traffic issues and the doctrine of qualified immunity should be ABOLISHED.

Now is the time to make a real difference!!

Subject: Ensuring police accountability

Dear HWM Judiciary members,

I write to urge you to pass a bill similar to S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill, and to get both through conference committee and signed by the governor this month.

While I wish the Senate bill had gone further in some of its reforms, I suggest that the House bill should retain its provisions for limiting the use of force, requiring officers to intervene when colleagues engage in misconduct, for banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops. I want the House bill to require civilian approval for the purchase of military equipment; I want it to prohibit nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases--these encourage a problematic culture of silence. I also support the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I dislike the Senate modifications to the proposed restrictions on qualified immunity for police officers. Under their bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. I want an end to qualified immunity. In the interests of getting legislation passed, however, it might be necessary to keep the current version in. However you modify the bill, police officers should not be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

Thank you,

Kecia Ali

Subject: Strong Support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to voice my strong support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act. As a resident of Stoughton, I get to see and celebrate diversity every day. We are a community made up of many cultures, representing the full spectrum of race that this globe offers. My family and I have fed from that spectrum and we have given back as well. Right now, we are not safe. We have been unsafe for quite some time. We will remain unsafe as long as the current state of policing is maintained. We here in Stoughton are not the only ones.

Our State and Nation face a long postponed reckoning with race., We must keep a stern dialogue with how we police one another as part of that reckoning. The Reform-Shift-Build Act opens that dialogue in unprecedented ways. Stringent certifications, inroads towards banning excessive force, review boards staffed by community, and a stronger stance against surveillance technology are just some of the impressive pieces we will be bringing to the state with this Act. Perhaps the most impressive piece to this is a focused reform to the doctrine known as "qualified immunity."

Passing this act while keeping the reform of qualified immunity attached to it would be historical. It would send the appropriate message to the Nation. If we as a people are to be policed, it must be under an entirely reimaged officer. There are glimpses of good in all of us. There are glimpses of good in our law enforcement. But there is also an unspeakable bad in all of us. As it permeates all of us by degrees, so too does it fester in our law enforcement.

I have witnessed firsthand what can occur when unchecked racist thought and sentiment spills into human behavior. There is no thermometer check for hatred, dislike, annoyance, ambivalence. And that temperature rises and subsides throughout a life. Thoughts are truly free, and should not be governed. Action is governed. But actions are rooted in those thoughts. The action to take another's life, to choke another out, to abuse another, to dominate another, to correct another, without impunity is what I believe qualified immunity too often permits.

Reform, and regulation are necessities for police in Massachusetts and everywhere. But the protective mask of qualified immunity must fall. We face consequences as citizens. Those consequences do not police our thoughts, but they force us to think twice, or even just once before acting. For too long has our police force acted without impartial thought when it comes to another's life and rights.

and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.
????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.
????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Diego Paredes

Subject: S.2820 Public Testimony

Hello -

My name is Peter Wise and I'm a resident of Pittsfield. (52 Thomson Pl, Pittsfield, MA 01201) Please include my statement in the official public testimony on S.2820.

I'm writing today in support of strengthening some specific measures in the Police Standards Reform bill.

The Senate bill had stronger and clearer language on the creation of a truly independent and civilian-majority police certification board. The creation of such a body without giving it any real authority or power is lip service in place of the real systemic change the people of the Commonwealth are asking for. I ask that the House consider adopting the original Senate bill language.

Likewise, the language on limiting qualified immunity and making real efforts to reduce the school-to-prison pipeline have been watered down and I ask that the House restore the original Senate bill language on these topics. Without real reform to qualified immunity, not many other police reforms make much of a difference. The message our current system sends to officers is "please don't do bad stuff... but if you do, there's pretty much no accountability or consequences at all... but please, seriously, don't do bad stuff." How can we be surprised by the constant stream of video evidence of blatant abuse of power when this is our official public stance towards the police? Let's end qualified immunity for real in Massachusetts.

I also believe that we can and must go further than either existing bill in a number of areas. The outcry in this country after the deaths of George Floyd, Eric Garner, and many others choked to death by police has been loud and is righteous. And yet the current bill only dips its toe into the waters of strengthening use of force standards. The current language in the bill would allow what happened to George Floyd to be completely legal right up until the seconds before his death. Let's actually ban choke holds here in Massachusetts. This should be a really easy one.

Another issue that deserves attention is facial recognition technology. The uses of this technology by law enforcement are so troubling that even big tech companies like IBM are pulling out of the sector and calling for a national discussion about the potential abuses and consequences of using such technology. Let's fully ban facial surveillance tech instead of just vaguely implying that it's bad.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Peter Wise

Subject: Police Reform Bill

My name is Tatyana Gorlin, I live in Brookline, MA. It came to my attention that last night the MA Senate passed the bill to end qualified immunity for police officers. I am appalled that the legislature of such importance was passed without public hearing.

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified, but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

A horrible death happened in Minnesota and everybody condemned it. But why the whole profession of policemen is punished for that? I talked to Brookline police and there has been not a single incident of police brutality for the years of existence of Brookline police. Massachusetts police in general is an exemplary organization. Why are you in such a hurry of changing the law? This new law will harm not only police but the whole population of Massachusetts.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

Public Testimony on S.2800 to the House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice Chair Day, and Vice Chair Garlick,

I am writing to request your consideration to expand the existing expungement law (MGL Ch 276, Section 100E) as the House takes up S.2800 to address Racial Justice and Police Accountability. S.2800 includes this expansion and we hope you will consider it as it directly relates to the harm done by over-policing in communities of color and the over-representation of young people of color in the criminal legal system.

Our criminal justice system is not immune to structural racism and we join you and all members in the great work needed to set things right. The unfortunate reality is that people of color are far more likely to be subjected to stop and frisk and more likely to get arrested for the same crimes committed by whites. Black youth are three times more likely to get arrested than their white peers and Black residents are six times more likely to go to jail in Massachusetts. Other systems where people of color experience racism are exacerbated, and in many ways legitimized, by the presence of a criminal record. Criminal records are meant to be a tool for public safety but they're more often used as a tool to hold communities of color back from their full economic potential. Expungement can be an important tool to rectify the documented systemic racism at every point of a young person's journey through and past our justice system.

We also know that young adults have the highest recidivism rate of any age group, but that drops as they grow older and mature. The law, however, does not allow for anyone who recidivates but eventually desists from reoffending to benefit. Young people's circumstances and cases are unique and the law aptly gives the court the discretion to approve expungement petitions on a case by case basis, yet the law also categorically disqualifies over 150 charges. We also know that anyone who is innocent of a crime should not have a record, but the current law doesn't distinguish between a dismissal and a conviction. It's for these three main reasons we write to you to champion these clarifications and now is the time to do it.

Since the overwhelming number of young people who become involved with the criminal justice system as an adolescent or young adult do so due to a variety of circumstances and since the overwhelming number of those young people grow up and move on with their lives, we are hoping to make clarifying changes to the law. We respectfully ask the law be clarified to:

* Allow for recidivism by removing the limit to a single charge or incident. Some young people may need multiple chances to exit the criminal justice system and the overwhelming majority do and pose no risk to public safety.

* Distinguish between dismissals and convictions because many young people get arrested and face charges that get dismissed. Those young people are innocent of crimes and they should not have a record to follow them forever.

* Remove certain restrictions from the 150+ list of charges and allow for the court to do the work the law charges them to do on a case by case basis especially if the case is dismissed or the young person is otherwise found "not guilty."

Refining the law will adequately achieve the desired outcome from 2018: to reduce recidivism, to remove barriers to employment, education, and housing; and to allow people of color who are disproportionately represented in the criminal justice system and who disproportionately experience the collateral consequences of a criminal record the opportunity to move on with their lives and contribute in powerfully positive ways to the Commonwealth and the communities they live, work and raise families in. Within a system riddled with racial disparities, the final step in the process is to allow for as many people as possible who pose no risk to public safety and who are passionate to pursue a positive future, to achieve that full potential here in Massachusetts or anywhere.

Thank you for your consideration,

Scott Haskell

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I'm writing in favor of S.2820, to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law and strengthen it.

I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Subject: Community policing

Hello,

As a private citizen of western mass, I am grateful to live in a town where no firearm has been discharged by police in over 40 years.

Yet, I am dismayed by the omnipresence of guns and weaponry carried by police at all times. Police officers are required less training than licensed hair stylists, and yet are given graver responsibilities to intervene in a multitude of matters beyond their skill, resorting to brute force often resulting in catastrophic consequences related to incarceration even prior to any conviction.

Police require oversight and community resources with alternatives to force in order to help them provide safety and security to the communities they serve. They do not need more weapons, or to carry them at all times, or drug arrest incentives, or military surplus.

In addition, the prosecutorial process must be overhauled to ensure people who are arrested, particularly for non-violent crimes (Which are too broadly defined), do not lose their housing, public assistance, voting rights, children and freedom in general regardless of their suspected offense.

Police are the first point of contact for American citizens, the majority of whom are people of color, for entry into the unjust, destructive and racist judicial system that exists today. Let's ensure that these gate keepers are not alone and ill equipped to exercise good judgement, compassion and discretion when facing the challenges of being human. Money and weapons are crude and clearly ineffective in keeping our communities safe and our neighbors out of jail.

Sincerely,
Peter Wood, LICSW

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Dear Members of the House Committee on Ways & Means,

I am writing to you today out of concern and extreme frustration over Bill S.2800 that was passed by the State Senate today. This bill has been hastily thrown together and is a knee-jerk reaction to what is currently happening now in this war on police. As you know, Massachusetts has a fantastic police force at the municipal and state levels and yet there is an agenda some have to destroy the great policing that is done here. This Bill, as written, robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong. The fact that it has been so hastily pushed through the Senate without any transparency only leads credibility to my comment about a hidden agenda.

There are MANY aspects of this Bill S.2800 that I, and many of your other constituents, find troubling but I will just list a few here that are definitely of the greatest consequence if passed as written:

1. Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

3. POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA committee MUST include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

4. Removal of requirement for State Police Colonel to be appointed from within the department: This should NOT be removed as it should be extremely important for the Colonel of the State Police to have first hand working knowledge of how a department works and the appointment should definitely come from within the MA State Police department. If for some reason this requirement is removed there should be a requirement that the person have at least 20 years experience in law enforcement and at least 10 years in a high profile leadership role within law enforcement.

I hope you will be sure to stand against those that would do harm to our state by unfairly persecuting and removing rights from those people that put on a uniform to keep us all safe every day. It has never been more important that our elected officials fight for our brave men and women in blue. It is already a thankless job and it will be near impossible to get anyone to want to do the job if this horrendous reform bill is passed without some major overhaul.

Thank you for your time and serious consideration of the points I have made here today.

Regards,

Tina Collins

Subject: BILL S2800

Hello,

I am a Law Enforcement Supporter and am sending this email in opposition of the proposed bill. 99% police officers go to work daily and do the right thing and should not be in fear of being sued civilly. In the case of Chauvin, he is in jail... charged with murder... what did qualified immunity get him? He got exactly what he deserved.

Police need to be allowed to do their jobs and go hands on and keep us safe. If we are going to pass this bill why not take the reigns off and give the criminals the keys to the state. How come we are not watching NY as they are doing just that and seeing crime spike through the roof.

Taking immunity away from police will ruin the profession and 100% force police to not intervene as they used too. It won't matter to the rich cause they will hire private security but what about the middle class lady at the ATM who will get robbed and the police will not be in any rush to get there. Not that they don't want to help but that they don't want to get sued by the CRIMINAL.

Subject: Police reform bill

Hopefully someone will actually read this.

I would like to comment on the Police reform bill. I am a retired Massachusetts Law Enforcement Officer with over 30 years of service. I have no problem with reforms but you need to consider the following. Frivolous complaints against Officers or those that are not substantiated should not be part of the public record or count against them for purposes of certification. I didn't work with one Police Officer that did not get a complaint. Many of those were frivolous, you gave me a ticket and I want you in trouble. I can't count the number of times I had defense attorneys tell me that their client wanted to sue thinking it would help them get off on their charges.

I worked in traffic for a few years. Some of my complaints went like this. This officer wrote me a ticket. The Lt. in charge would ask was the officer courteous and professional. Yes. Did he explain the reason for the citation. Yes. Did he explain how to appeal it. Yes. What is your complaint. I wanted to talk about the ticket and he said I could give my side at a hearing if I chose to do so. He then said the stop was over and I was free to leave. What is your complaint. He wouldn't talk to me.

Remember, by case law, I cannot extend the stop past the reasonable amount of time it would take to write the citation after making computer checks. Nothing good can come of a conversation at the side of the road with an upset person where the conversation won't change anything at that time. So, they go into headquarters and file a complaint.

You are thinking, hopefully, as rational people that are not about to have their liberty taken away or are upset because they were issued a traffic citation. Think about how people react when they get a parking ticket. Most people are upset when Police interactions don't go their way and you don't want to give them an avenue to harass an Officer that did their job properly.

Some qualified immunity, as long as the Officer is acting lawfully, and within the training that is mandated by the training council, is needed to prevent frivolous complaints and unnecessary lawsuits. If the Officer acts outside his training or commits an unreasonable act, he does not have qualified immunity. Simple. Or, end qualified immunity for all government employees including yourselves.

You should also think about making A&B on Police Officer a Felony since it is now permissible to attack Police Officers with impunity. I had judges comment that they routinely dismissed A&B on PO complaints because Police should expect people to lash out and hit them. They never commented on my operations to repair torn cartilage, my bruises, scratches, bite marks or pulled muscles caused by the defendant. Make the judges enforce the laws instead of interjecting their private feelings.

Lastly. If you mandate civilian review boards, and you probably will, there should be people on them with Law Enforcement experience. It should be required. Just as I could not critique what an emergency room doctor did to a patient, it is impossible for a person to critique a Police Officer's actions without having ever done the job.

Please do the right thing, not the at the moment politically right thing.

Mike Foster

Good morning,

Thank you for the opportunity to submit comments on the Police Reform Bill that recently passed the Senate.

I agree with the main elements of the bill and support further training and police reform.

That being said, the scaling back of qualified immunity will have a myriad of unintended consequences. These are similar in nature to what we found with Officer Michael Chesna who lost his life as he hesitated in shooting an offender. This aspect of the bill harms the police unfairly. The entire industry should be overhauled, yes, but qualified immunity protections ensure that our officers are not second guessing their actions in the field. Second guessing leads to delays, panic, and further bad decisions. Those are good for no one.

Thank you for your consideration of this input and your aim to make our Commonwealth better!

To whom it may concern.

As a Veteran for 10 years serving my Country in US Army , and now currently serving my Community in Lowell Ma for the last 24 years as a Police Officer I have dedicated 34 years of my 56 years to protect and serve. I am appalled at the knee jerk reaction from our Elected officials. You are tone deaf and pandering to a small group of anti Police agitators. Votes maybe?

You have no idea how this state is about to become a crime infested cesspool. Cops are going to be leaving in masses and the ones that are staying are going to be so Reactive the criminal element are going to be controlling the streets.

You have painted every Police Officer in this Country with a broad brush based on the actions of one Bad Minnesota cop. Ive been trained constantly in this State regarding the recent issues we face, discrimination, racial profiling, ect, ect an ect. The response from our Elected officials concerning something that did not happen here is Pathetic.

If you think recruitment of new officers trained under Police Reform is goin to be the fix all think again you non police experts. Recently Lowell had 14 recruits in a Academy. 8 graduated. Go ahead lower the hiring Standards. More bad cops you idiots.

As a Independant voter I can honestly say I will never vote Democrat again. I am also looking to leave this state. Cant get out soon enough. You Clowns who won popularity contests ( Elected by nitwits), are going to have real problems at the polls come Election time. Yes us Cops talk with each other, family and friends. Nationwide Democrats are going to have election problems also. Trump 2020. You make it easy.

I wake up everyday with glee knowing I can walk over to the Retirement board and put in my papers. I will do my job as I always have, help the oppressed but will do so with a bare minimum attitude. Im going to treat every call with civil lawsuits in mind. This is the Attitude you have created.

After being away for a couple weeks I cant wait to read my department Emails. Im not a gambling man but I will wager that not a single Lowell politician or even our not so glorified CM has even issued a public show of support for Police.

So to all of you popularity contest winners who are going to support bill s2800 without facts, research or public input go Fuck yourselves assholes. I just dont care anymore about you.

As a resident of Walpole MA. I am opposed to this bill.

putting first responders in a position where they could be sued personally would only flood the courts with frivolous cases. Furthermore, it would scare away most future candidates.

I don't believe this bill is the way to go about reform. If reform is the goal.

Thank you for accepting testimony on this bill. I will not vote to remove qualified immunity from our Police force. This action will destroy our entire public safety force across our Commonwealth. This is a knee jerk response to recent issues and not an appropriate solution. We should perhaps put more emphasis on training to deal with these increasingly difficult encounters. We need a police force that is well trained, supported and respected by the citizens of our Commonwealth.

Subject: Public Testimony on S.2800 to the House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice Chair Day, and Vice Chair Garlick,

I am writing to request your consideration to expand the existing expungement law (MGL Ch 276, Section 100E) as the House takes up S.2800 to address Racial Justice and Police Accountability. S.2800 includes this expansion and we hope you will consider it as it directly relates to the harm done by over-policing in communities of color and the over-representation of young people of color in the criminal legal system.

Our criminal justice system is not immune to structural racism and we join you and all members in the great work needed to set things right. The unfortunate reality is that people of color are far more likely to be subjected to stop and frisk and more likely to get arrested for the same crimes committed by whites. Black youth are three times more likely to get arrested than their white peers and Black residents are six times more likely to go to jail in Massachusetts. Other systems where people of color experience racism are exacerbated, and in many ways legitimized, by the presence of a criminal record. Dear Representatives Aaron Michlewitz and Claire D. Cronin it is with great urgency that I write you this email. I am shocked and greatly disappointed at what the Massachusetts State Senate did with the passage of Senate Bill S2800. Not only did the Senate basically label all the honest men and women of law enforcement to include officers of color as racist but they also attacked every public sector employee and union with this poorly crafted bill.

The loss of Qualified Immunity is a principle that is fully supported by the United States Supreme Court in case law and protects public sector employees from good faith errors while in the performance of their duties. Qualified Immunity does not protect unlawful conduct by public sector employees, it never has and does not shield officers from unlawful conduct. The senate bill not only effects law enforcement but fire, medical and educational employees as well as municipal and elected officials. The potential financial cost to the commonwealth and individual public sector employees will be massive. In addition to this the effect on law enforcement will be profound with every officer in the commonwealth second guessing everything they do and choosing inaction over action out of fear of civil litigation for just performing their duties. This will transcend into every public sector job and field, how is this good for the state and its citizens. The Senate bill will create an potential atmosphere that emboldens criminals and clogs up the court system with frivolous law suits.

Another very important issue is the loss of collective bargaining rights and due process in the senate bill. The Massachusetts House has a long and proud history of supporting labor and unions in this state. Why has the senate decided to strip bargain rights away from workers in this state and on top of that take away a persons due process rights to appeal or and protection from over reach or retribution by employers for any reason that they deem fit. This is wrong on so many levels and violates basic human rights. I would hope that the House of Representatives is just that it represents a fair and impartial legislative body not like the senate that seemed to pander to a very dangerous progressive agenda that puts public safety and the financial well being of the commonwealth at risk.

The two above mentioned topics are of extreme importance not only to myself but all my friend and many of my neighbors. I have personally spoken to countless people in my community and they are afraid of some of the portions of the senate bill but are afraid to speak out about the senate bill out of fear of being labeled a racist. This process needs to slow down meaningful reform can take place but the input of all parties and sides needs to be heard. The senate failed to do this they rushed through their version of the bill without one single public hearing and the lack of input from all sides. Instead they listened only to one side the side that wishes to crush employee rights strip away hard fought legal employment protections and open up every public sector employee to crushing civil law suits, how is this good for anyone.

With all this said I do support the establishment of standards and accreditation for law enforcement but only if they are administered in a fair and impartial manner. I do oppose the current senate version of the proposed committee that will oversee accreditation. I agree that the make up of the committee needs to be diverse but why are there ACLU representatives on the committee. The ACLU has spent decades trying to destroy law enforcement they can not be impartial. I would suggest that the committee be made up of law enforcement, civilian use of force professionals as well as members of the Black and Latino caucuses. There is no need for the ACLU to have a person on the committee they will never be able to be fair or impartial in any way.

I do realize that there is need for reform but commonsense reform not radical losses of rights to public sector employees and the loss of previously agreed upon employment rights. I would be more than happy to discuss this matter or answer any questions that you may have. I truly do appreciate your time and consideration regarding this very important matter.

Sincerely,

Making it so that fire fighters, emts, and police can be sued individually in this bill is outrageous. I have a friend who is an EMT and he makes 18.00 per hour and is covered under the law against being sued for Breaking grandmas ribs during cpr. Now he says he wont perform cpr because he can get sued.

If a police officer puts cuffs on "too tight" he can get sued so guess what fewer arrests this bill that is Proposed will give criminals the power and we will all live in fear.

This bill you have enacted is anti police and anti labor. This bill puts the voice of the mob 1st the same mob that disregard the safety of Public by failing to follow all safety guidelines that were established to protect the public's from a virus that has taken so many lives around the world.

Now you want to take away our protection which is qualified immunity. So you want us to risk our lives but don't want to protect us.

Qualified immunity allows to act without be worried that we could lose are jobs, lively hood and no longer providing for our family. We work hard for what we have and what we provided for Our families.

Now not only is this bill taking away Our legal protection but also our right to collective bargaining. This bill is anti labor this country was built by Unions. Law enforcement Officer put their life's on the line on doing what we do. We have shown that when we came to work every day while millions of Americans were in their home quarantined. Subject: Police Reform Bill

I am witting in regards to the police reform bill. Although there are areas=

I agree with with such aS the chokehold and having to keep up with certific= ations, there are areas that I do not.

Recently, there were riots in Brockton. Police had water bottles, fireworks= and rocks thrown at them. They responded with tear gas . How should they r= espond when being attacked. There was very little damage done to the city t= hat night. It could have been much worse. If the police had backed off aft= er being attacked, who knows what could have happened.

I work in the Brockton Public School System. I see the importance that scho= ol police and resource officers serve in the schools. More specifically, I w= ork at the alternative high school. I see the officers come in and have pos= itivity interactions with the students. I have witnessed conversations betw= een the officers and the students talking about how they feel about racial p= rofilng. To see them sit down and talk about things like that and really l= isten to each other. These conversations would never happen out on the stre= et.

Having a school resource officer has very often deescalated situations. The= y have gotten the student to take a walk with them, discuss what was going o= n and be able to pull themselves together. Before having the school resour= ce officer, many times a fight would break out and we would have to call 911= for assistance. Which situation do think is a better way to handle the sit= uation and had the better outcome?=20

Having school resource officers in the younger grades also is very important= to help develop positive relationships at an early age. The kids learn tha= t the police are approachable and want to help. Many are fearful of them be= cause of what their older siblings and parents tell them. =20

By having the resource officers, it also helps make them aware of things tha= t could be happening in the community as the overhear things or students wil= l let them know that something is going to happen after school. Again, they= can be prepared and be there before things escalate .

Thank you for taking the time to read my concerns. If you need to speak wit= h me about my concerns, I can be reached at 505-561-0393

Subject: Reform Shift and Build Act S.2800

Dear Committee and Community Members,

I am writing to voice my wholehearted support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act. As a resident of East Boston, I get to see and celebrate diversity every day. We are a community made up of many cultures, representing the full spectrum of race that this globe offers. My family and I have fed from that spectrum and we have given back as well. Right now, we are not safe. We have been unsafe for quite some time. We will remain unsafe as long as the current state of policing is maintained. We here in East Boston are not the only ones.

Our State and Nation face a long postponed reckoning with race., We must keep a stern dialogue with how we police one another as part of that reckoning. The Reform-Shift-Build Act opens that dialogue in unprecedented ways. Stringent certifications, inroads towards banning excessive force, review boards staffed by community, and a stronger stance against surveillance technology are just some of the impressive pieces we will be bringing to the state with this bill. Perhaps the most impressive piece to this is a focused reform to the doctrine known as "qualified immunity."

Passing this bill while keeping the reform of qualified immunity attached to it would be historical. It would send the appropriate message to the Nation. If we as a people are to be policed, it must be under an entirely reimagined officer. There are glimpses of good in all of us. There are glimpses of good in our law enforcement. But there is also an unspeakable bad in all of us. As it permeates all of us by degrees, so too does it fester in our law enforcement.

I have witnessed firsthand what can occur when unchecked racist thought and sentiment spills into human behavior. There is no thermometer check for hatred, dislike, annoyance, ambivalence. And that temperature rises and subsides throughout a life. Thoughts are truly free, and should not be governed. Action is governed. But actions are rooted in those thoughts. The action to take another's life, to choke another out, to abuse another, to dominate another, to correct another, without impunity is what I believe qualified immunity too often permits.

Reform, and regulation are necessities for police in Massachusetts and everywhere. But the protective mask of qualified immunity must fall. We face consequences as citizens. Those consequences do not police our thoughts, but they force us to think twice, or even just once before acting. For too long has our police force acted without impartial thought when it comes to another's life and rights.

I am asking you to support the Reform-Shift-Build Act for my family, for East Boston, for Boston, for Massachusetts, and for the entire United States of America. I am asking you to share my voice with your fellow legislators, and amplify it yourself in your championing of this Act.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Respectfully,

Matthew Joseph Brennan IV

S2820 [An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair, and just commonwealth that Black lives and communities of color] is not a fair and effective means of addressing the injustices that have been seen recently in national arenas. While education and training is absolutely necessary for so many in public eyes - and acknowledged by law enforcement - the limitations proposed in this bill hand-tie the majority of good public servants who have dedicated their life and careers to keeping each of us safe from harm and to uphold the very laws that you have created.

This Bill does nothing to impact the changes needed and only serves to make an already difficult and stressful job 10 times more difficult and dangerous for all police officers.

I respect and stand with my black and African American friends for justice and will stand for the changes that are desperately needed, but I also stand with those of my friends and family who have invested their lives to serve as genuine and honest law enforcement officers. We need to find other ways to root out the "bad individuals" throughout our society, but there are far more outside of law enforcement than within, and the limitations enlsted in this Bill are nothing short of signing death notices for good cops.

I ask that you PLEASE either strike this down or do not allow this to come for vote in the House - send this proposal back for deeper discussion in the Senate immediately and open the doors to hearing more taxpayer, professional and stakeholder input.

To members of the committee,
I am writing this testimony using both my experience and education. Here is my background:

I first worked in the navy, I operated a nuclear reactor on a submarine. Though this may be irrelevant to the topic at hand, I wanted to establish my commitment to service and also the level as which I may be able to comprehend data, statistics, and information. The schooling I went through is probably the most academically difficult and demanding 18 months, that probably exists in this world. I then worked about a year at the State House, so I understand the inner workings as to what goes on up there.

Now to the more relevant material. I worked for six years as a patrol officer for the Town of Falmouth, and have spent the past two years working the crime scene unit at the Barnstable County Sheriff's Office. During that time I also went to school full time and received an Associate of Science in Criminal Justice at Cape Cod Community College, which was more forensic based, and a Bachelor of Arts in Criminal Justice with a minor in psychology at Curry College, which was more criminology based.

So all and all I have the first-hand experience and have studied and continue to study and understand the theory behind criminal behavior and policing.

What happened in Minneapolis was a travesty, the police officer is a pathetic excuse of a human being and moreover a disgrace to the badge. It made me reevaluate my time working as a patrolman. And I recently sat down with one of my former co-workers from the Falmouth Police, an officer shot in the line of duty two years ago, an officer who also happens to be black. After not witnessing any racism on the job, I wanted to get his opinion, he agreed he also never witnessed or experienced racism from within the police department. However, we both also agreed there were officers who were quick to escalate and quick to use force.

I understand that I work in a small town (though in a normal summer our population went to around ~100k) and so I looked at the data. In 2017-2018, police in Massachusetts were responsible for the deaths of nine people. One black, one Hispanic, and seven white, all males. Of those nine, all were justified killings. In those same two years 308 people were murdered in Massachusetts, two of them being police officers, and another two officers in my town were both shot, unprovoked.

So I fail to see the necessity of much of this legislation, we are not Minneapolis, we don't have a scourge of police brutality and killings. In fact most of this legislation actually puts us more on par with Minneapolis, not further from it.

If this legislation passes, as written by the senate, you will see an exodus of police from Massachusetts. You will no longer have the best candidates for policing. You will see crime increase, and even if you just saw a very modest 10% increase in crime, that would equate to 15 extra murders a year. 15 every year, and since you don't have any unjustified killings by police, you won't even stop any of those. You'll actually probably see an increase in deaths at the hands of police, as you will have less qualified, less trained, and more overworked officers working.

In the end this bill as passed by the senate will make Massachusetts a far more dangerous place, for everyone. You may score political points, but at the cost of how many lives? The same lives you profess to be trying to help.

Thank you,

I'm writing to state my opinion on the S2820 bill. It cannot and should not pass!

The state has enough BS in the judicial system now, they dont need frivolous law suits against public employees!

Our beloved Officers, Firefighters, EMS and Teachers need to focus on their jobs, not the consequences of what may come about after the fact.

Mental health reform needs to happen! All of these professions need proper mental health support.

I went through a tragedy where my husband, who was a beloved teacher was murdered when we both stood up to save someone else- a deranged man, who was released from the hospital just ours before- not receiving the mental health support he needed from the state. He went out and crested mayhem in Taunton.

My life was saved by an off-duty Plymouth County Sherrifs Deputy during this event.

Thankfully, he was connected to a great support system. That helped him and his wife get thru the emotional trauma and continue his life in a fully productive manner.

This is not always the case. They need support, not defunding and frivolous law suits!

Do not allow this to pass!

To whom it may concern,

This bill that Senate just passed was a mistake. Maybe they were too many tired senators as they debated for 17+ hours.

If this bill passed, why has the entire world taken measures to stay home and do their part? To save lives... Our lives our neighbors lives.

If this bill passed, how are people's lives saved by BRAVE firefighters who run into burning buildings while everyone else is running out? When BRAVE police officers are in a position to tackle an armed robber who just shot a store clerk? A frontline essential ICU nurse who performs CPR on patient who flat lined and in process of saving their life, brakes a rib or 2?

If this law passes, how are firefighters, police officers, essential workers, etc. protected to do their job IN Protecting our community? Why would anyone want to have any of these professions that PROTECT and HELP people if law does not protect THEM?

Reform maybe needed BUT This is not the way.

Stabbing our essential workers, law enforcement, etc in the back... Is not the right way.

Frontline workers are trained to save and protect... Not question themselves on what they are doing. Not throwing their hands up out of fear of having a law suit.

Please, this is not the right bill. This bill passes, WE as a community will have bigger issues as we loose frontline/essential workers.

Subject: House police reform

Good morning,

My name is Jon Craven and I am a Police Sergeant with the West Bridgewater Police Department. I am writing to you in regards to the recent police reform currently going through the legislature.

I started my career working for the Department of Youth Services with our most at risk juvenile population and then moved to the Department of Children and Families working with our most at risk families. I was lucky enough to get hired as a Police Officer 10 years ago and work with my community. I am an active member in my community. I am an executive officer with our local youth athletic association and I have prided myself on building only the most positive relationships in the community. I make a sincere effort to engage the public in a positive manner as much as I possibly can. I am not a villain. I am the police officer that you pray comes to your home when you call 911 because I will be there for you and your family to the best of my ability. I understand that all cops are not like me but I know that 99.99% are. The men and women I work with in my community are some of the most hard working and community focused people I have ever met.

However the quick passage of these bills has shaken us to the core. The fact that the legislature can strip us of so many core rights with the swipe of a pen with zero input from us is astounding. So I just ask that you listen to us and understand where we are coming from before you hastily pass a bill that will cripple law enforcement as you know it in order to appease a small group of people who believe we are the enemy.

Regarding trainings. There is not a cop in this world that doesn't want more training. However we can't increase trainings for law enforcement without the funds to do so. Add any training you want to the MPTC curriculum! We are happy to go and learn about black history as well but what about all other state agencies. All municipal and state employees have to do a conflict of interest and ethics course every year. They should all be required to learn about this as well.

Banning of chokeholds. Not an issue for us unless in a life or death situation. If someone is trying to kill me I should be able to use whatever force necessary to live. What happened to George Floyd was disgusting and there's not one cop in the USA that feels otherwise.

POSAC. I support a certification commission for police officers and having a board to hear more about the bad actors that ruin the badge for the good ones. However this is the USA and we need due process. Police officers are often accused of wrong doing by the general public. They often will file false complaints against an officer that arrests them solely in an attempt to discredit them and have their criminal case dismissed. As a supervisor I hold our officers to the highest standard. They are not perfect but minor issues shouldn't decertify an officer.

Qualified immunity. No reason to beat a dead horse here but you already know that QI doesn't protect an officer that breaks the law. It protects the officers that do their jobs without obviously violating someone's rights. We have thousands of arrests a year. The court systems laissez-faire attitude towards the criminals puts us at severe risk without QI.

For example if I arrest someone for drunk driving (seized under the 4th amendment) and then once at court the case is dismissed because of a mistake I made somewhere in the process then technically they can sue because I unjustly detained them. If you allow restrictions on QI you will not only have a mass exodus of police officers here in the Commonwealth but you will also have officers out there that will hesitate to do even the simplest of tasks. Officers won't perform life saving measures at scenes out of fear of being sued. Please if you do nothing else leave this alone.

I know this isn't really an option but I would like to talk about Body cameras. Add body cams into your bill, or introduce a new one next session and fund them. Change the 2 party consent laws so we can effectively use them. You will see that most of the time the police are courteous and respectful and aren't the instigators. You will also be able to see the behavior of those officers that show concerning behavior. Without body cameras it's our version vs the complainants.

Thank you for the taking the time to hear us out.

Subject: Raise the Age

Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin

I am writing to ask you to support including language in S 2820 that would raise the age at which youth are automatically adjudicated as adults.

Not only will this improve community safety but it will advance educational and employment outcomes for some of the Commonwealth's most vulnerable young people. This legislation would allow the Commonwealth to hold them accountable while vastly reducing the chances of recidivism. One need only know that the recidivism rate of teens placed in the juvenile system is less than half that of young people automatically prosecuted as adults to know the proposal makes sense.

If you have any doubt about the real life impact of the legislation, hear the voice of young people in support of the bill

Subject: Removal of qualified immunity

Dear Sir/Madam,

Getting rid of qualified immunity just makes cops afraid to do their job. Cops will become reactionary, handling calls only.

In my 38 years of law enforcement I have learned that proactive policing is what makes communities safe.

If you remove qualified immunity, cops will become like firemen, waiting for the next call. In reality you will end up paying boatloads of money in police salaries, and getting very little in return on your investment.

I have easily made over 600 arrests and have filed close to 2000 criminal complaints in my career. If you remove qualified immunity bad guys will figure it out real quick. When bad guys realize there is no more push back, they will ramp up their game pushing more drugs for profit, resulting in increased usage, more addicts, more crime to feed the habit, more shoplifting, B&Es to houses and vehicles, larcenies, strong armed robberies etc.

The people affected the most will be people of color, the very people you are trying to help, because they lack the resources to get into the best treatment programs, make their homes safe with modern technology, and are more susceptible to violent street crime based on current crime statistics and trends.

Removing qualified immunity does not protect bad cops. It hurts good cops who are trying to do their job.

Respectfully,

Dear House

I do not agree with provisions of this bill.

- 1) Immunity needs to be maintained for all first responders.
- 2) Schools and other state and town organizations need to continue to report to police all incidents that occur in their facilities, like drugs, violence, gang activity and illegal immigrants.

The State needs to continue to protect it's citizens and first responders.

I do agree with certifications and other provisions.

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Hello,

I am writing to you regarding the police reform bill.

I am deeply saddened by the events that have led up to even discussing this bill. I have studied extensively the data and stats regarding police brutality, and firmly believe that the villianization of all police in this country for a statistically rare event that happened way across the country has caused this much hatred and violence towards our officers all across the country. It is the most hypocritical disgusting thing I have ever witnessed in my 48 years. Everyday these officers protect and serve our communities and clearly that has become a thankless job! The polls show 85% of Americans do NOT support defunding of police. I realize it will never be perfect but in my opinion they do not need reform, the general public does. Politicians have demoralised police and emboldened the criminals, what a recipe for disaster. Look at these cities already they are exploding in violence while these so call leaders watch it happen and even encourage it. Yet as the murder rate has gone up 246% in NYC their incompetent mayor is still slashing billions from police. They are being attacked in the streets, spit on, screamed at, and ambushed simply for attempting to do their job. I beg you not to follow this trend of acting on emotion rather than logic. My fear is no one will ever take this job and the quality of officers will plummet. Living in a world without quality police protection is absolutely terrifying to me as a woman and a mother of two children. The media in this country has manipulated the people to believe this is racism because they never show white people being killed by officers, that is by design to create racial division and it's so irresponsible and dangerous yet they do not care at all. This has already led to brutal killings of innocent police officers being assassinated and will continue! It's even more disappointing to see our government in Massachusetts jump on this bandwagon. The loss of immunity is the biggest assault and I'm shocked to see my state even think about it. The frivolous lawsuits that this will inspire will be devastating to our police and their families. I see countless cases of officers being attacked and blamed even when they have to kill someone in a very obvious case of self defense. The Michael Brown case is the perfect example of an officer having no other choice but to protect his life when after committing a strong arm robbery he is hanging through the cruiser window repeatedly punching the officer in the face while trying to remove the officers gun from his holster, yet that officer has been branded a racist cop with his face splashed all over the media, while they paint Michael Brown as a victim! I read the actual court documents so I know the facts not just the media spin like everyone else. Sitting in judgement of police from your living room is real easy, God forbid you ever had to make a split second decision to save your own! My biggest complaint is with taking away immunity! That should not even be on the table. Interestingly enough I saw a criminal with an officer in a choke hold yesterday, banning it all together could cost them their life. If 99% of us can show respect for the laws in place why do we make excuses for those that don't? I think there is a large silent majority that agrees with me! This is not the time to pander for votes or play politics with such a serious issue that could effect public safety!! As far as sending them to racism school I also think that is a slap in the face. We can see how well that has worked out for the generation who have been convinced they are oppressed in this country or they are automatically born racist because of the color of their skin! This BLM movement told us who they are Marxist/Communist Movement attempting to drag us into Communism under the guise of racism. They have a very different agenda then what they portray on their website. I am begging you to stop this war on police! Enough is enough! Please don't turn our beautiful state into a dangerous mess like NYC and Minneapolis! I hope all our representatives will do the right thing in a bipartisan fashion!

Thank you for the opportunity to be heard!

Subject: Bill s2800

Hello,

I am writing you today to tell you how disappointed I am in the proposed bill s2800.

This bill, if passed will be the beginning of the end. First responders effectively will have the worry of civil suits as a result of them trying to do their job, which In my opinion, will result in a dilemma in every situation our first responders are faced with. This will carry with it serious repercussions, whether a slight hesitation in action or less aggressive life saving measures. One could say that delaying or withholding crucial treatment is unethical but let's be honest, do you want to literally put everything on the line everyday you report for work? Do you want to worry about financial ruin? Run the risk of losing everything in legal and court costs even if you are found not at fault? The damage will already be done by that point.

I am a proud mother of 2 police officers. They put their lives on the line to protect us every day, often working double shifts, sacrificing family time, missing holidays all to protect and serve. I hope you will not support a bill that will make their job harder, that will tie their hands and ultimately put us all at risk.

Also at risk by the passing of this bill are the very people that are the backbone of our society, teachers, firefighters, EMT's, paramedics and several other public servants with the exclusion of our law makers, career politician and judges(!), the very people that should looking out for the safety of the citizens they serve!

The fact that this was pushed through committee at 4 am is reprehensible, and to start out as 13 pages and end up as 70+?? Its time for our elected officials to listen their constituents , WE are the people that will will be affected, WE are the people that will have to deal with the consequences of YOUR actions.

I thank you for reading this and I pray when the time comes you will do what you know in your heart is right.

Please do not hobble our police, firefighters, and nurses with this bill. Criminals smell this weakening of law enforcement coming and crimes like the robbery/murder of that 21 yr old Bangladesh immigrant store clerk will increase in frequency and audacity. Legislators are throwing out the baby with the bath water. Wake up. Look at your actions and the effects they will have on us little people.

And do not make mask wearing a requirement. Baker has slowed our reopening so that we do not need such draconian measures.

And do not extend the waiver of rent payments and evictions. You will turn this state into one large Detroit.

You are losing your way.

Ladies and Gentleman,

I am BEGGING you to CHANGE some of this BILL.
YOU MUST keep the "Qualified Immunity" part of the bill, IN THE BILL!
This is just wrong...If a Policeman, Fireman, Nurse or a Doctor stops at an accident and tries to help out and the person dies at NO FAULT of the person helping, they can get SUED!!! IS just wrong. IF this bill passes, I BELIEVE there will be a MASS EXODUS of these first responders. I agree in MORE training for the Police Officers in relations, and banning the CHOKE hold. I want to know, what happens when there are NO MORE Police..People will go and buy guns and DEFEND themselves.. I again beg/ ask REMOVE THE END OF QUALIFIED IMMUNITY wording, in this bill..

Copied form an article..
Massachusetts State Senate has passed a bill regarding ending "Qualified Immunity" for Firefighters, Nurses and of course Police Officers. These are the very professions that routinely act in "good faith" by making a split-second decision when it comes to helping others in emergency situations.

?. Good morning,

My name is Jill Cimildoro and I live at 36 Pleasant Garden Rd, Canton MA. <x-apple-data-detectors://0> As your constituent, and a wife of a MA LEO, I ask that you support amendments 114,116,126,134,129, and137 to Senate Bill S.2800. The amendments deal with due process and fair representation on the board as well as uniform accreditation standards.

I support enhanced training and appropriate certification standards and policies that promote fair and unbiased treatment of all citizens, INCLUDING POLICE OFFICERS.

The original version of the bill undercuts collective bargaining rights and due process. These amendments are an attempt to improve the bill in these areas. They do not lessen the training protocols and standards or general accountability for law enforcement as originally proposed. I ask you to not bow down do these BLM radicals. You took an oath and it includes morality and justice. Enough is enough.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Just the other night while transporting a patient in an emergency situation my partner tripped and almost fell. If this person was additionally injured while we were helping them because of an unfortunate occurrence I would now be able to be sued civically. That could potentially destroy my family and hurt them more then the person who actually got hurt while trying to be helped.

Subject: Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800)

Dear Committee,

I am writing to voice my wholehearted support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act. As a resident of East Boston, I get to see and celebrate diversity every day. We are a community made up of many cultures, representing the full spectrum of race that this globe offers. My family and I have fed from that spectrum and we have given back as well. Right now, we are not safe. We have been unsafe for quite some time. We will remain unsafe as long as the current state of policing is maintained. We here in East Boston are not the only ones.

Our State and Nation face a long postponed reckoning with race., We must keep a stern dialogue with how we police one another as part of that reckoning. The Reform-Shift-Build Act opens that dialogue in unprecedented ways. Stringent certifications, inroads towards banning excessive force, review boards staffed by community, and a stronger stance against surveillance technology are just some of the impressive pieces we will be bringing to the state with this Act. Perhaps the most impressive piece to this is a focused reform to the doctrine known as "qualified immunity."

Passing this act while keeping the reform of qualified immunity attached to it would be historical. It would send the appropriate message to the Nation. If we as a people are to be policed, it must be under an entirely reimagined officer. There are glimpses of good in all of us. There are glimpses of good in our law enforcement. But there is also an unspeakable bad in all of us. As it permeates all of us by degrees, so too does it fester in our law enforcement.

I have witnessed firsthand what can occur when unchecked racist thought and sentiment spills into human behavior. There is no thermometer check for hatred, dislike, annoyance, ambivalence. And that temperature rises and subsides throughout a life. Thoughts are truly free, and should not be governed. Action is governed. But actions are rooted in those thoughts. The action to take another's life, to choke another out, to abuse another, to dominate another, to correct another, without impunity is what I believe qualified immunity too often permits.

Reform, and regulation are necessities for police in Massachusetts and everywhere. But the protective mask of qualified immunity must fall. We face consequences as citizens. Those consequences do not police our thoughts, but they force us to think twice, or even just once before acting. For too long has our police force acted without impartial thought when it comes to another's life and rights.

I am asking you to support the Reform-Shift-Build Act for my family, for East Boston, for Boston, for Massachusetts, and for the entire United States of America. I am asking you to share my voice with your fellow legislators, and amplify it yourself in your championing of this Act.

Thank you for your time.

Respectfully,

Subject: Police reform bill

Dear Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin--

I am writing about the police reform bill currently under consideration, particularly the qualified immunity portion. I strongly believe that police cannot be protected by this clause. Unlike other public servants, police are armed (both with guns and batons) and in a position to inflict immediate harm on individuals without any due process. Moreover, some officers have been shown to abuse their roles in the community. If a teacher hit a child in school, there would be repercussions. Police training can certainly include an understanding of the limits on their use of force and the ramifications to them if they exceed those limits.

Second, I believe that civil or criminal penalties against officers that involve financial payment to the plaintiffs should be paid from police pension funds. It irritates me no end that taxpayer money ends up being used to pay for abuses, as determined in a legal process, to compensate victims while the police themselves bear no burden. I think that if pension money were on the line, officers would be more inclined to report abuses by their fellow-officers since it would be their own funds that are on the line. I am not sure how this would be operationalized, but I believe it bears looking into.

Thank you for reading this. I copied my district rep on this.

This Police reform Bill S2800 is a disaster. The bill was hastily put together and strips our heroic officers of their ability to do their jobs (qualified immunity). What happens if an officer breaks a window in a car to help a dog in distress? Now that officer can be sued for damages by the car owner. What happens if they perform CPR on someone and break a rib which almost always happens, now they could be sued? This bill does more harm than good. It is being rushed through without input from those that know, those who it affects the most. This is disturbing to say the least. Changes should be made But not like this. It will make it impossible for Police to do their jobs and what is right without having to go through frivolous lawsuits. Vote down bill S2800.

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz & Rep. Claire D. Cronin,

My name is Dennis Stampfl and I live at 91 Pioneer Path, West Barnstable. I am police officer for the town of Barnstable. I have 22 plus years in law enforcement.

I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2800, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation.

I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Dennis Stampfl

To whom it may concern

My name is Stacy Meulenaere and I live in Auburn, Ma. I write to you to express my support for our many first responders who put their lives on the line for the Commonwealth every single day. I also write to you as a state troopers wife, and mother to his kids who would like him to come home after every shift. Currently he is serving our country in Afghanistan which I feel he is safer over there than he is here working in law enforcement. Please read that again, I feel he is safer in Afghanistan than he is here in uniform as a state trooper!

As the House and Senate consider legislation revolving around public safety, and in particular police reform, I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity - legal safeguards that have been established over decades and refined by the some of the greatest legal minds our country has known. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability. Qualified immunity is the baseline for all government officials and critical to the efficient and enthusiastic performance of their duties. Qualified immunity is not a complete shield against liability - egregious acts are afforded no protection under the qualified immunity doctrine. Further, qualified immunity is civil in nature and provides no protection in a criminal prosecution. The United States Supreme Court and the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts through numerous cases have continued to uphold the value and necessity of qualified immunity. To remove or modify without deliberative thought and careful examination of consequence, both intended and unintended, is dangerous.

Due Process and Qualified Immunity are well settled in the law and sound public policy dictates that the Legislature not disturb these standards - certainly not in this bill so abruptly and certainly not without a vigorous debate both in the Legislature and in the court of public opinion.

We must remain focused on passing legislation that includes a standards and training system to certify officers, establish clear guidelines on the use of force by police across all Massachusetts departments, to include a duty to intervene, and put in place mechanisms for the promotion of diversity. This does not detract or reject other reforms, but rather prioritizes those that can be accomplished before the end of this legislative session on July 31st.

Please join me in demanding nothing less than sound, well-reasoned and forward-thinking legislation.

Thank you for your consideration.

Subject: Police Reform Bill

I am writing for my concern, fear, and uncertainty for what the future holds. If this bill passes in it'd current form, policing in Massachusetts will dramatically change for the worse.

Officers, like Michael Chesna (Weymouth PD Killednin the line of duty) will find themselves hesitating and afraid to act with their training and experience in moments of life or death. This bill is going to make every Officer I know FEAR going to work more than we already do. Opening ourselves up to civil litigation for doing our jobs to the best of our ability is no the answer to the tragedy in WI.

We should be sitting down, having a conversation and coming up with a solution together. It is already so difficult to find qualified, educated police officers in MA with the pay and being what they are. Creating this reform and changing so many aspects of the job; with literally no input for those on the front lines seems very reactionary and not proactive. Some thing that will become of the police. They will become reactionary and not pro active because of fear.

Thank you for your time, and we as police officers look forward to being involved in the change that those think we need.

Subject: Police Reform

Hello,

My name is Jessica Stimpson and my phone number is (774) 215-0608. I do not represent any organization nor am I affiliated with any however, I am an educator and have spent time working with underrepresented children in foster care.

I think that this police reform bill is a step in the right direction. I know that many people and organizations will be emailing to tell you how it's a bad idea but they're wrong. In my field, if I were to use any kind of restraint without proper training and licensure I would lose my job. If that restraint resulted in any bodily harm, I would go to jail. And that's the way it should be.

No one has the right to take a life or cause bodily harm to another human without consequences. It is the lack of consequences for years that I believe have led to the number of wrongful deaths at the hands officers.

Thank you for all the work that you do and for moving our state forward to rise to the occasion for social justice and equal protection under the law.

Subject: Bill S.2820

To Whom it may concern,

I am writing you today about Bill S.2820. I was extremely disappointed that this bill pass the senate at 4:30am with no chance for the public to have their voices heard. As a Massachusetts taxpayer I do NOT support this bill at all. I urge the Senate to veto this bill on Friday. I have made a list of a few a problems I see this with this bill.

Under Section 1

* (d)- This commision should be representing anyone at all that is being discriminated against. Race, Color, Religion, sex, height, weight, disability, etc. We should all be represented not just one race.

* (h)- The conflict of Interest Law states that an individual Shall Not receive more than $50 per year in any gift or donation who works for or with any public entity. The amount listed is illegal. Why just towards African Americans. What about the Irish, Italian, Latinos, Mexican, French, English, Canadian, Brazilian, Jamaican, people from Georgia, people from Colorado, people from Florida? My point is this should include all of us.

Under Section 2

* (c) I am not a lawyer so I don't know what this means. What are you saying here?

Under Section 3

* This committee should have NOTHING to do with our Police Officers, their training or how they do their job. I disagree with this whole section.

Under Section 4

* I disagree with all of Section 4. This new commission shall have nothing to do with our Police Officers.

This is a very long bill so I won't make me email equally as long but I don't agree with this bill at all. Our Police Officers need our support and whatever training and tools they need to keep us safe. Police Officers shall be able to perform their duties keeping the public safe with no negative consequences at all. If a Police Officer breaks a law they shall be held responsible as any other citizens but that is all.

Respectfully,

Subject: Support S.2800; Thank you for Reporting H3277

Dear Chairs:

I write to affirm the great importance of advancing legislation on police reform this session. I am fully in support of S.2800/S.2820 and urge you to take up this legislation. Should the house move to take up several pieces of legislation as opposed to an omnibus, I urge that H3277, previously reported by Judiciary and regarding reforms to Qualified Immunity, as well as HD5128, introduced by Rep. Miranda and regarding use of force and police militarization, be taken up.

While it is commendable for the House to hold an additional hearing, I am disappointed by the rhetoric around public process, particularly with regard to an issue that was heard last year and acted upon by the Judiciary Committee in February. It speaks volumes that the Judiciary Committee previously acted to reform qualified immunity by advancing H3277, and I commend the committee for acting on this legislation.

The doctrine of and legislative protections for qualified immunity create constitutional and civil rights crises, and if anything, the changes should be strengthened so that no person is above the law. As a public employee myself, I take very seriously the obligation to serve Massachusetts residents and do not believe any public employee should be effectively "immune" to appropriate recourse if they violate another person's rights. What use is the law if anyone is above it?

Good Morning Decision Makers,

As a woman of color I feel All Police/Law Enforcement should lose their pensions completely if they are fired or charged with using excessive force. Because if that becomes the law

Policemen/Law Enforcement would think twice about how they treat people and people of color in particular. They have to be held accountable regardless of the color of one's skin.

God Created All Of Us Equally some of us did not get the memo...This is why and how the Black Lives Matter Movement began and is so necessary today. No one is better than the next

Dear Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin,

Please increase, not decrease, police funding. I'd advise an amount equal to the CPI to account for inflation. The movement to decrease police funding is well-intentioned but ill-advised. Of course black lives matter but so do Asian, white or any other color. Is it any more racist to say that "White lives matter" or "All Lives matter" than "Black lives matter"?

I lived through the early 1950s and McCarthyism. I never thought I'd see an era of profound intolerance again in America. But, here we are again.

Please provide some guidance in these troubled times. Keep black people and all people safe. Do not defund the police.

COVID-19

This week I filed, with Rep. Jon Santiago and Sen. Harriet Chandler, HD 5181 to prioritize five public health policy interventions to reduce the likelihood and/or intensity of a second coronavirus surge. The policies include: (1) mandatory face covering to reduce COVID-19 transmission; (2) requiring a two-week quarantine for travelers entering Massachusetts to prevent community spread; (3) prioritizing COVID-19 testing for vulnerable populations (whether or not they have symptoms) to increase knowledge of infection and reduce transmission; (4) instituting enforceable workplace safety standards during reopening to protect workers, customers and communities; and (5) providing more resources and funding to local boards of health to build their capacity to be effective partners.

It's becoming clear that the pandemic will be with us for a while. This bill helps to amplify these issues and push the discussion around addressing the continued spread of COVID-19. I'll keep you posted on it's progress.

<<https://mcusercontent.com/7e976b7021c41e9bce64c8871/images/147411e8-1dbc-4264-8882-89c0738af590.png>>

In the past month, we've voted on several bills that may be of interest to you.

Supplemental Budget FY20 - COVID19

The House has passed a supplemental budget, and the Senate passed its. The two need to be reconciled and then sent to the Governor. I am pleased to tell you that both versions would make Juneteenth a state holiday. I am very proud that I joined a group of legislators and filed legislation to do just this, which was the inspiration for Rep. Bud Williams (D-Springfield) to introduce an amendment that was passed.

Vulnerable Children

Last week, the House of Representatives passed H. 4841 to address the imminent needs of children and families amplified by the COVID-19 crisis and illuminated through the lens of racial equity.

The bill requires:

- * The Department of Children and Families (DCF) to report monthly to the Legislature on changes in the numbers of child abuse and neglect cases.
- * DCF to implement a public information campaign to improve awareness of child abuse and neglect.
- * DCF to report on efforts to support the foster care system.
- * DCF to analyze the effect of virtual and video technology on services during COVID-19.
- * School districts to report the number of students who did not participate in a form of remote learning, including students with open DCF cases.
- * Department of Elementary and Secondary Education to develop a statewide plan to ensure that the most vulnerable and at-risk students and their families receive assistance to ensure remote learning works for them.
- * Establishes a Foster Parents' Bill of Rights outlining the relationship between the department and foster parents. By clearly articulating the rights of foster parents and the responsibilities of DCF, designed to retain and recruit foster families.

Arbovirus in MA

The House passed H.4842 to expand the state's efforts to address mosquito-borne illnesses such as EEE and West Nile Virus. The Joint Committee on Public Health, through its Chairs, Rep. John Mahoney and Sen. Jo Comerford, took 11 lines from the governor (that was the entirety of his EEE bill which essentially gave the state permission to spray, with little to no accountability to local communities) as an invitation to craft legislation, in the middle of a pandemic, that provided more community control, more environmental protection and more deliberation than the governor ever expected or demonstrated an interest in securing. The legislation creates a task force to develop a plan to control mosquitoes. I'm gratified that two amendments I proposed were accepted into the final legislation (requiring that the commission membership include a microbiologist with expertise in diseases transmitted by mosquitoes and ticks, and increasing the commission's role to identify known ingredients in pesticides that are used and determine a process that can be used to identify "unknown" ingredients).

The Department of Public Health is tracking EEE and West Nile Virus; you can find out more information here

Hello Mr. Michlewitz & Ms. Cronin,

I am writing to voice my full support of the Reform, Shift + Build Act. Specifically the restriction of qualified immunity.

As a white woman my experience with police has never felt like life or death. If I've been pulled over, my greatest fear is an expensive parking ticket and a higher insurance bill. This is not by chance.

And as a white resident of East Boston, my experience with the police has been positive. This is also not by chance.

I choose to live here because it is the most vibrant, diverse and welcoming neighborhood. But I know that my Black and Brown neighbors are not treated the same by police.

It is only fair that this Commonwealth is just as safe for our neighbors and friends of color.

Respectfully,

Sara Goldsmith

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

I urge your support of Senate bill #2800 if we are to make systemic changes in procedures to prevent the assaults and murders by police of our Black and Brown brothers and sisters. The time has come and it is now. We cannot let the status quo remain in our policing here and across the nation. What kind of country are we if we remain stuck in archaic regulations?

Your voice and support are needed at this juncture!

Subject: Input S2800 Police Reform Bill Please Do NOT Pass this bill as written

My wife and I do not support removing qualified immunity

The Reform Bill 2800 was surprisingly passed by the Senate without a proper review. We support Police reform but a quick, not properly vetted reform bill should not be approved.. Eliminating qualified immunity is a very dangerous action which will put all citizens in danger. Many frivolous law suits will jam the courts and burden police. Some of the cases may have merit but many others will not. Regardless, police officers will bear the cost of defending themselves and could effect police response. It's great for lawyers but bad for law enforcement and the general public. Responding to a call is stressful enough. .

Finally, does eliminating qualified immunity apply to other groups such as: first responders, city hospital nurses, teachers....others?

I, Nathan Arnold, hereby submit my personal comment concerning S.2800's removal of qualified immunity for law enforcement officers in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Let the record show that I am firmly AGAINST the removal of qualified immunity because this will undermine the hard, dangerous work our police officers do on a day to day basis. It will open agencies, municipalities and individual officers up to lawsuits that will cause a tectonic shift in the way agencies allow officers to do their jobs. This will create more problems than it solves. I strongly urge all parties involved in this legislation to amend it and keep qualified immunity fully intact.

Subject: Bill S.2820

To:
The Chair of the House Committee on Ways and Means
Rep. Aaron Michlewitz
Rep. Claire Cronin
Chair of the Joint Committee on Judiciary

My name is Alex Johnson and I reside in Worcester. I am a police officer in a town north of Worcester. I am writing you about Bill S.2820 that was just passed in the Senate and has moved on to the House of Representatives.

I am writing you with concerns of this bill specifically in regards to protecting our rights as police officers. This police reform Bill was rushed through the Senate without a public hearing. It was not well thought out nor drafted. It was pushed through to appease a group of people rather than actually studied by experts in the field. This is a very dangerous precedent that should not be set.

As a police officer, and speaking for the thousands of other officers in the state of Massachusetts, we all agree that we can do better. We are not completely against this bill as a whole. Rather, we are against some aspects of this bill that take away our rights. Massachusetts has some of the most educated and well trained police officers in the country. In fact, there are a lot of states outside of MA that actually try and recruit officers from this state due to our training and education.

Some key proponents of this bill that I and others officers are asking to be amended are the part about qualified immunity, the part about due process, and the part of allowing law enforcement representation on the proposed POSAC licensing system.

Qualified immunity is a very important protection that allows an officer to be protected if he/she is sued civilly. With the proposed bill, we will all lose that protection. Which means even if we acted in good faith, we could still be held civilly liable and the money will come from our pockets. This is not fair to us as public servants who put our life on the line every single day for the public.

As far as due process - it is not fair that we would not have the right to appeal a decision made by a board of members in terms of our license in the proposed system. Especially if that board does not have any law enforcement representation on it.

I hope that all of the Representatives in the House actually take the time to look at this bill and think about the outcomes that would come from it if passed. Our state will lose good cops who have put their heart and soul into this profession. It would cause officers to second guess themselves due to not wanting to be held liable for any damages resulting from a civil law suit. And most importantly, the crime rate would sky rocket in this state. The safety of all citizens in the Commonwealth would be jeopardized.

Very Respectfully,

Alex Johnson

Subject: Police Reform Bill S 2800

To Whom it May Concern,

The bill being pushed through the Senate without debate or any real consideration of consequences for not only major stakeholders, but our society, is not only wrong; it's foolish. First of all, we live in an incredibly litigious society; removing or scaling back the qualified immunity of police or any other civil servants is completely irresponsible. Why would anyone want to enter civil service with that kind of liability looming over their every move?? We need our civil servants, our first responders. Their job is already stressful and risky enough, they do not need to be worried anytime they have a contentious interaction with someone. I urge you to reconsider or amend this bill especially around the qualified immunity aspect. We can support the Black Lives Matter movement through proper legislation that doesn't punish all the amazing police, fire or whomever else this bill will or could impact with this knee-jerk reaction.

My daughter and I personally have had our lives saved, literally saved, by the Methuen Fire Dept in 2018 when at 6.5 mos pregnant I was unconscious seizing on the floor of my home due to pregnancy complications. The first responders who answered the call, in what was an incredibly delicate yet urgent situation, did so with full focus and attention without fear of retribution or a life-altering lawsuit. Would they have hesitated to try something heroic on me in case it didn't go quite right for fear of being sued personally? I shudder to think how their mindset could be impacted in a similar situation moving forward with those fears. Please consider this testimony moving forward on this matter or to contact me for more information if necessary.

Subject: MA Resident in Opposition of Bill S2800 / S2820

Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin:

I am writing in regards to proposed Bill S2800. As a constituent of Massachusetts, I am a registered Independent with very liberal views. I have registered as Independent because I cannot align myself with the Republican Party, but I have also lost faith in Democrats; even more so, now, in the manner in which the Mass Senate just passed S2800. Our Country has become so polarized that "the middle" seems like no-man's land. It's where I stand grounded - frustrated that common sense has become so lacking in the United States.

Today I am writing to you, not only as a registered voter in Massachusetts, but, as the wife of a Boston police officer. Law Enforcement, and their families, have become the scapegoats of the pervasive and systemic racism that has plagued our country for centuries, with reaches far broader than policing.

Where is the outrage that "In the United States, black women are 2 to 6 times more likely to die from complications of pregnancy than white women" as a result of the "quality of prenatal delivery and postpartum care" they receive (source <

If the mother should survive maternity and childbirth, her baby still has "2.3 times the infant mortality rate as non-Hispanic whites" (source <https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A\_\_minorityhealth.hhs.gov\_omh\_browse.aspx-3Flvl-3D4-261vlid-3D23&d=DwMFaQ&c=1DF7oMaPKXpkYvev9V-fVahWL0QWnGCCAfCDz1Bns\_w&r=uoevGInjCfTlguYncQubxpi5R6db\_gq1YmKr0SCk2EnIiuk13zIs16rchf\_GkGDD&m=FXvNnhYCpUDYwMcsHUheL166RL0W9\_cvJkE2a-On08&s=XdJQajFSC-yJ2QDYZr1qxtDj46r8YLjELZVesGk3eV8&e=>> ).

God-willing, when this child reaches school, they will, most likely, be met with racial disparity in their school system, whether it be the lack of qualified educators or resources enjoyed by their higher tax-paying counterparts. I understand that Bill S2800 calls for "the immediate creation of an independent Office of Police Standards and Professional Conduct to ensure minimum statewide policies and procedures for all law enforcement in the Commonwealth (including procedures on the use of force) as well as statewide oversight and accountability—including police officer certification and enhanced training" - a civilian majority board, nonetheless.

Will these civilians also review the standards and professional conduct of the Doctors involved in maternal or fetal deaths, and have the power to strip medical professionals of their license? Will these civilians be in charge of overseeing education and housing reforms, to ensure that minority children do not fall trap to the "school-to-prison pipeline"?

Better yet, will these civilians go through the Police Academy and patrol the streets to better understand policing?

If you are going to have civilians on a board with the authority to certify and decertify Law Enforcement, it seems to be common sense that these individuals be experts in the field of Law Enforcement. This simply doesn't suffice: individuals with "criminal law, civil rights law, the criminal justice system or social science fields related to race or bias". If you allow non experts on the board, then how can Law Enforcement be assured of impartiality and unbiased opinion? How do they know that the civilian authorized to strip them of their credentials doesn't operate with extreme bias based on personal experience?

In addition, this bill is so deeply flawed by the public's belief in the "Monday Morning <x-apple-data-detectors://1> Review". As a civilian, it is easy to say what could have, or should have, been done, once presented with all the facts and in an environment where the sympathetic nervous system is not in overdrive. It is very different when life-or-death decisions need to be made in a split second.

When pushing this Bill, Senators' brought to name the deaths of George Floyd and Breonna Taylor, Sandra Bland in Hempstead, Texas, and 12-year-old Tamir Rice in Cleveland, Ohio and the death of Michael Brown in Ferguson, Missouri. Yet, not one of these individuals was killed by Massachusetts Law Enforcement, who are among the best in the Country.

I can promise you one thing; this Bill, as it stands, will get people killed, but, the Country has made it abundantly clear that bloodshed is okay if it is that of a police officer. If you need a reminder, here are a few names:

Officer Tarentino
Sgt. Michael Chesna
Sgt. Sean Gannon

Or, Boston Police Officer John Moynihan who, by the grace of God, survived being shot in the face within 30 seconds of approaching the suspect's car.

My husband and I always say, when presented with those situations, you are already damned because you either end up in a box, or demonized. Sometimes I think it's better to end up in the box.

With that said, how about a civilian review board to review the decisions of judges in our State, that have indirectly lead to the deaths of police officers? Should Judicial Immunity be revoked?

We need police officers. We also need reform. Bill S2800 is NOT the reform needed.

The proposed "public database of complaints" against officers would only be accurate if the "tabbing" system of police officers is completely overhauled. It is an inherently flawed system where anyone can tab a police officer, for any reason, and that complaint remains on the police officer's record regardless of its veracity.

As a law enforcement family, I am deeply concerned with ending Qualified Immunity, which would not only punish police officers for trying to do their job, but would punish their families, spouses and children; your constituents. At what point do our rights matter? Furthermore, most people are completely ignorant to what Qualified Immunity does and does not protect.

We urge you to consider the following as the House continues to debate the elimination of Qualified Immunity, with a few reasons why Qualified Immunity should remain in-tact:

* Officers and public officials need qualified immunity to carry out their jobs. Public officials, and particularly police officers, perform vital tasks that may require split-second decisions in stressful circumstances. Taking away qualified immunity could lead to officers being hesitant to act when it is most needed.

* Removing qualified immunity could open up public officials and police to unwarranted lawsuits, in which judges and juries could second-guess split-second decisions and lead to significant costs for cities, police officers, and other public officials.

* Officers do not have absolute immunity, and they can be held liable when they violate a clearly established constitutional right.

* The narrow interpretation of clearly established precedent is appropriate. Officers should not be forced to apply an abstract right under the Constitution to specific circumstances in split-second decisions. Officers cannot be expected to be legal scholars or think through legal arguments when attempting to make an arrest.

* Officers must have room to make mistakes or have moments of bad judgment without worrying about being sued.

Ending Qualified Immunity is simply picking the low-hanging fruit. The pervasive racism in this country begins from the top-down. Politicians, BLM and news organizations need to stop vilifying Law Enforcement simply because they are the most "visible".

This Bill is simply giving the public more ways to sue Police Officers for attempting to do their jobs. Anyone can now say they were racially profiled, ignoring the fact that "there are differences across racial and ethnic groups in the frequency that they commit crime, which puts some groups in contact with the police at a rate that is disproportionate to their presence in the population". In addition, "the problem is made even further difficult because we also live in a racially segregated society. So, if you are going to send the police where there is the most crime, you're also going to wind up sending the police to what are typically racially segregated communities" (Professor Daniel Nagin). So, under the new Bill, an officer in the districts of Roxbury or Mattapan, for instance, are to do what to effectively do their job without being accused of racial profiling? If you are honest with yourself, you can say, without prejudice, that a resident of Roxbury or Mattapan is more likely to be a person of color.

As for the District Attorney, Judges and Legislators of Massachusetts - put some skin in the game. If you are going to revoke Qualified Immunity, then revoke Prosecutorial, Judicial and Legislative (Absolute) Immunity, as well. Make everyone accountable. Especially when the men and women of Massachusetts Law Enforcement start losing their lives because they begin to hesitate, questioning the outcome of their actions beyond their own mortality. Let the families of Law Enforcement have the same avenues for Civil suit against Legislators, that pushed through a rushed bill that did not include the input of key stakeholders, and puts our lives and well-being at risk. Truly, does that sound like fair, unbiased and representative legislation?

Honestly, in this day, what person would sign up to do this job? As a family, we have made so many sacrifices because my husband took an oath to Protect and Serve. Most days I am left parenting alone. We do not get to spend holidays or birthdays together. We do not get to plan vacations or have plans for days off, because, most likely, they will be cancelled. And all so the public can continue to enjoy their sports games, social events and, even, right to protest.

Every year, because my husband is a public servant, his salary is posted in the newspaper for all to see and scoff at, with no context. It doesn't tell the story of the many hours worked, one shift to the next, not by choice. It doesn't tell of the many days-off cancelled. It doesn't capture the sadness my children feel because their father belongs to the City, and not to our family.

My children both cry every time their Dad walks out that door because they know they might not see him for a few days. At 5 years old, my oldest son already understands that, one day, it might be permanent. Someone might take his Dad away from him. And I understand, this is the same fear Black families feel when their Dads, Brothers, Sons walk out the door. The fear is a dark cloud that hovers whenever they are not present. None of us get to own it as our own. My fear does not cancel their fear, and theirs, mine.

Over the years, I have become acquainted with many police officers. I know, from the depths of my soul, that not one sets out to inflict harm. They fear should that day ever come. And if that horrible day comes, it forever alters their life.

We have asked so much of our police. The public treats police officers as subhuman, but, at the same time, they are supposed to be superhuman. They are neither. We, the people, need to decide what we want, because we cannot have it both ways.

Police already feel abandoned by our nation. Is it any wonder why police officers have higher divorce, alcoholism and suicide rates? If you actually want to understand, read "Emotional Survival for Law Enforcement" by Kevin M. Gilmartin, Ph.D.

Please remember these are the same police officers who protected our City after the Marathon Bombings. How quickly we forget. They were loved for a week, maybe a month at best. We Americans love to forget... are we not seeing this everyday with Covid?

If you want true reform, include Law Enforcement in the conversation. What good does anyone think will happen when a complete overhaul of the system has been made, behind closed doors, without them having a seat at the table? Honestly, in what world will this strengthen the trust and relations between Law Enforcement and an unforgiving public? Furthermore, as a citizen, I believe the Senate set a dangerous precedent passing this Bill without a public forum or review. Should citizens be concerned as to what other Constitutional rights are being revoked, as we sleep at 4:30 <x-apple-data-detectors://4> in the morning?

To be honest, these men and women in Law Enforcement are neither hero, nor villain - they are people trying to do their job. They need the public's support and recognition that oversimplifying a complex matter, does not simplify anything.

All they want is to have a voice in the reform that affects their jobs and lives. Include them in the conversation. And please, don't punish the many exemplary members of Massachusetts Law Enforcement for the actions of a few.

Regards,

Elizabeth Crosby

Dear Aaron/Claire ,

First of all Claire thank you for your kind assistance to my elderly parents Sam and Inga Protentis.

I am a retired federal agent with 34 years of government service with the Bureau of Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms, US Immigration and Customs Enforcement formerly US Customs Service with details to the United States Secret Service and the Drug Enforcement Agency.

I spent my entire career based in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. I arrested and prosecuted hundreds of felons in US District Court and various State district courts. In addition, I conducted hundreds of investigations with the assistance of numerous local police departments as well as the Massachusetts State Police. The men and women from those departments exhibited the utmost integrity and professionalism during the execution and the arrest of suspects often times under the most difficult of circumstances.

My 34 years of experience revealed urban minority communities had the highest incidence of violent crime and illegal firearms possession. My first year with ATF was spent with a senior agent who was black. During enforcement activities with this agent, he was treated more harshly by citizens of the same skin color. Young members of the black community hurled racist slurs at this outstanding agent and ex-marine. However, older members of the community applauded his service. Increased presence of law enforcement in these communities resulted in sharp declines in violent crimes, gang activity and in particular homicide.

As we see across our great nation a cry for defunding police, especially in major cities we also witness a sharp increase in violent crime and homicides.

My 34 years experience clearly shows me that if we remove funding and resources from our great public servants who enforce the law without regard for their own lives we will see violent crimes savage our nation and the loss of life of many young innocent victims.

Thank you for your service.

?Dear Senators,

My name is Matthew Manning and I live at 7 Peters, Street, Apt 2, in South Boston. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2800, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

My Name is Trevor Eckhart, a resident of Westfield, MA. I am writing this quick email in hopes that you will support Bill S.2800.

I am specifically a proponent of limiting qualified immunity. Doctors and nurses do not have qualified immunity and are not afraid to do their job. Police should not have this special privilege which is clearly being abused.

I am also a strong supporter of enforcing body worn cameras. There is no good reason why an officer, paid by public taxes, should not be recorded while performing the job, ESPECIALLY if a weapon is being brandished. This ensures that even if a citizen isn't there recording, police can be held accountable.

I believe this bill is in the public's best interest and would put Massachusetts as a role model to others. I sincerely hope that you will support this.

To whom it may concern,

I have many concerns a with this bill. My main concern is the abolishment of qualified immunity in policing. As I hope you know already, this qualified immunity does not protect officers who act recklessly. Those officers are still held liable and can be personally sued.

The issue with this is ending qualified immunity. For instance, I, as a police officer have to perform CPR on someone and break one of patients ribs and bring them back to life. This allows them to personally sue me.

If this bill does go through, officers are not going to be proactive anymore because of the fear of being sued. It would be much more easier for an officer to sit back and answer calls to reduce the chances of being sued.

If this passes you will likely see a reactive police force across the board and crime drastically increase.

I am writing to strongly encourage the complete repeal of qualified immunity for state and local police officers. The Senate's version of this bill is unacceptable. Victims of police misconduct must have the full remedies of the law available to them for restitution. Additionally, the multiple State Police Superintendents, Governor Baker and Attorney General Healy have shown themselves incapable of curbing state police misconduct. A civilian review board—with full subpoena power and funding—must be authorized by the legislature to oversee state and local police departments. Additionally, funding for police should be reallocated to housing, health and education funding.

Thank you for considering my testimony.

Subject: Police reform testimony

Hello I am writing regarding the Police Reform Bill passed by the Senate. I am writing to beg the House NOT to pass it.

Some initial reasons are the clear rush job this has been to appease the new narrative that all police are racists. The fact the Senate voted on this overnight with no public hearing shows they even know they are stepping out of line. The fact that they did not speak to any law enforcement official to get a perspective from a person on the job, shows the absolute disrespect they have for officers.

Here are my more specific reasons. We (the people of Massachusetts) need our police. We need them to be there for us. We need them to stop drunk drivers, investigate drug, gang, sex crimes and homicides and put a stop to them. We need them to help us if we are injured or in a predicament that we may become injured. In any of these instances the officer will need to make split second decisions and should not have to worry if they will get personally sued. Hesitation can and have gotten officers killed. As well as innocent bystanders.

We need officers to know that their employers, cities, towns and the state, have their back. They need to know if they defend themselves against an attacker or defend another citizen they will be supported. Removing Qualified Immunity from policing does NOT show them that they supported.

As I am sure you are aware there has been a lot of discussion all over social media regarding this bill. There are few things that I would like to bring to your attention to think about while deciding what action to take.

On the surface a police reform is a good idea if done properly and well thought out. I however would like to point out some facts that have contributed to how we got to this place in Massachusetts. There was once a Quinn bill that was an incentive for higher learning. Having officers educated can only be a plus, education is never a negative. Now officers are not going to school because why would they, it changes nothing for them on the job. In any field someone with a degree is almost always higher on the list for promotions or raises. In law enforcement it actually means nothing. The Quinn Bill no longer exists, for the most part.

I also would like to point out specifically that the Mass State Police Academy has been shortened for the last few classes (I am not including this last class affected by COVID). I am not aware if local academies have been shortened. This was put in place by our last governor. One can only surmise that by reducing weeks, from 25 weeks to 20 weeks certain education was pushed aside. What education did they cut short or remove all together?

Another less discussed part of the bill that needs to be removed is that schools no longer need a resource officer. I don't think I need to list every school shooting to tell you we do need them.

Now finally my personal plea as a proud wife of a Massachusetts State Trooper who will have been on the job 14 years in September. I have seen my husband come home from a fatal car crash, a gang shooting, he has seen the absolute worst of the human race but still goes out to protect everyone. He has done multiple details and overtime shifts (many protecting state officials as well and their homes). He walked in our home from one of those details and ran out 20 min later when the Boston Marathon Bombing happened. I didn't see him for four days after that. I didn't know for hours upon hours if he was ok until I got a quick text. When the gas explosion happened in Andover and Lawrence he was there everyday, not sleeping to do what was asked of him. My husband has sacrificed a lot of family time, events and memories to do a job he once loved. It is getting increasingly difficult to love this job. If Qualified Immunity is removed my husband now has to add the additional worry of personal lawsuits. With everything that troopers have to deal with on any given shift that should not be one of them. I am proud of my husband, my children are proud of their father. They are 6 & 8 and I have to teach them not to talk about what their father does because some people don't like him. I do that out of fear. I ask you should that be how we have to live?

Please DO NOT Pass this bill

Thank you for you time.

Sincerely

Caitlin Topping

To the House Committee on Ways and Means & Judiciary:

I have been a Worcester Police Officer for 7 years. It has been an honor to protect and serve in the Commonwealth. I present this testimony in light of the recent Police Reform Bill proposed by the Senate that has quite frankly left me to feel unprotected & abandoned.

To my understanding the proposed bill is an Anti-labor bill. The language of this bill supports the elimination of Collective Bargaining and the right to Due Process. It is also my understanding that the majority of whom proposed this bill have been Labor/Union supporters.

I am also concerned in regards to the POSAC Board makeup. It should be made up of solely individuals who have background, education, and experience in law enforcement. No other public employee has a Board that can investigate any allegation made without having the necessary background in the respective profession. Ex. Teacher, Nurse, Doctor, etc,. If a complaint is issued these professions all have an internal body that will first investigate the allegation. Police Officer's should be treated no differently.

I understand that there a lot of questions about qualified immunity. However, it should not be abolished. This has implications not just on Police but also other public servants in the Commonwealth. I feel it is irrational to remove protections for those who serve and protect those who cannot protect themselves.

I would like to thank you all for allowing my voice to be heard. I respectfully request that the aforementioned concerns be reconsidered.

Respectfully,

Now you want to take away our protection which is qualified immunity. So you want us to risk our lives but don't want to protect us. Qualified immunity allows to act without be worried that we could lose are jobs, lively hood and no longer providing for our family. We work hard for what we have and what we provided for Our families. Now not only is this bill taking away Our legal protection but also our right to collective bargaining. This bill is anti labor this country was built by Unions. Law enforcement Officer put their life's on the line on doing what we do. We have shown that when we came to work every day while millions of Americans were in their home quarantined. You can say your gratefull by passing this bill has shown that you are not. To Chair Arron Michlewitz : I am writing to you today to strongly oppose bill S2820. I am a career firefighter of 28 years and work the streets everyday with my fellow agencies " IE : police and EMS workers". I feel we are very well respected and trained to the upmost standards in Massachusetts as professionals. We should not judge our state and emergency personnel to what has happened in other states around the country. Unfortunately, a few have made poor judgement calls and their departments/personnel are under review as they should be. I watched as our officers in Massachusetts got screamed at, provoked, abused, and assaulted by so called 'peaceful' protestors that have no solution other than to cause chaos and destruction in our Communities. These officers did not even flinch or hurt any protestors that were causing this mayhem here in our state. They all handle themselves with integrity and honor. We are in difficult times in Massachusetts with these protest groups that want to change everything in a few weeks by defunding our safety organizations. In my opinion, these groups have no real direction or solutions -they just want change. Please do not cave into their agendas, let the House form a commission to help the heads of these safety departments find the right fixes for Massachusetts. Do not make a hasty decision that will affect all our lives and families just to go along with protestor demands. These issues need to be thoroughly thought out and researched in order to make the proper decisions on change. Just remember when contemplating this bill of all the good our public servants have already done in this state. A few major examples are; the response at the Boston marathon bombing, The Worchestor Fire tragedies, and the current Pandemic we are all still working under. Please vote no to this bill S2820 and make it fair for all because ALL lives matter, no matter what! Be strong - Massachusetts Strong!

Thank You for your time and I hope you consider the safety and lives of first responders like myself.

* changes dozens of laws, creates and funds many new agencies and Commissions

* eliminates collective bargaining rights of police officers

- * removes authority from Cities and Towns to control their own employees
- * removes the rights of police to monitor gang activity in schools
- * removes the due process rights of public safety officers
- * exposes police officers and their families to personal liability even when acting in good faith
- * will open the floodgates for frivolous lawsuits against Municipalities and increase the cost to taxpayers to defend those cases
- * puts the lives of police officers in danger unnecessarily
- * creates a police licensing board that is staffed by organizations who sue our communities and advocate for the elimination of police services

Dear House Members,

My name is Ilian Jano and I live and work in the great City of Worcester as a Police Officer. I swore an oath to protect and serve the residents of this city with my life. It has come to my attention that you will be looking to remove my qualified immunity and as a result, I can get sued and loose my house and my family in the process just for acting in good faith and doing my job. If you pass this bill I will also be judged by biased anti police members of a board and also by criminals that my brothers and sisters have previously arrested. I can also be judged by a board that has no idea how police jobs are. This state does not appear to be broken yet so why try to break it and the Police that put their lives in the line on a daily basis. Why must you bow to the cancel culture when there is nothing wrong with the Police in Massachusetts? Please don't cancel and Modify our police we are doing a good job day in and day out for the citizens we serve.

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

This bill is essential to creating a more equitable and just policing system in our state. Specifically, I call on both the House and Senate to include language in the bill that allows for the removal of qualified immunity for police officers. As many have heard from law enforcement in their own lives, "if you have nothing to hide, you have nothing to worry about." We should not be shielding criminals who hide behind the badge from civil scrutiny when they commit heinous acts of violence against the citizens they are sworn to protect and serve. While good and honest police officers will have nothing to fear from the removal of qualified immunity, this action will allow those harmed by officers who disregard their commitments to their communities to secure justice for themselves. Follow the will of your constituents and include the proper language in the final version of the bill. Thank you.

Subject: Bill S.2820

Honorable Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I, James Simpson of Rockland Massachusetts, respectfully ask for your attention to my written email
In regards to Bill S. 2820.

I am currently a Sergeant with the Rockland Massachusetts Police Department. I'm also currently the Vice President of Rockland Police Supervisors Union Local 175 NEPBA.

Over my 26 years as a police Officer in the commonwealth I have held many instructor disciplines, I was a firearms instructor, use of force instructor, and taser instructor.

During this time the Commonwealth along with every officer I trained never learned choke holds, never skipped or took training as a joke, but took it very serious and continued the tradition of solid training and practical applications.

I ask you to reconsider the qualified immunity section of this bill. If a police Officer is acting within the law and policy we are protected when we're doing the best job we can. If there is any change it will leave an opportunity for an interpretation and possible liability on the officers behalf. This could cause unbelievable stress and hardship on officers and supervisors, causing to change our mindset and possibly become injured.

There has never been an officer who is guilty of misdoings being protected by QI, as it is currently written and enforced. So a change is not needed.

My next issue is with due process, this is America and everyone deserves due process, just because a certain group doesn't like law enforcement should never be able to remove such protections of due process, this is the main reason for having due process due to the process we're facing at this moment.

I'm a father of three, married, have been committed to my profession for many years, please don't pass this legislation, it will harm the law abiding hard working people of the Commonwealth, reducing communication between officers and schools, limiting the many years of community relations.

I've lost many friends due to just being cops, Robert P. Dana, Metropolitan Police Officer who was killed March 25 1984 on Blue Hill Ave by an unarmed Male, doesn't matter his race, when Bob was murdered that's when at 12 years old I decided to become a cop, an honest hard working, dedicated cop based off a true hero of a cops sacrifices. This is what this profession is about.

I appreciate your attention to this matter and my email.

Please consider the hard working police officers, reflect on the highly motivated training schedules, the extremely low acts of misconduct.

Respectfully submitted

Since the Massachusetts Senate deem it mandatory to remove Qualified Immunity from Police, Fire and other Medical Professionals, I would hope that the House Ways and Means sees fit to remove Qualified Immunity from those who have actually caused the most harm in the Commonwealth, such as Judges, Parole board members, District Attorneys and Probation officers. To whom it may concern,

I am writing to ask that bill S2800 NOT go through. This bill circumvented the legislative process, void of any public hearings, and lack the inclusion of dialogue from stakeholders, including communities of color and law enforcement. All law enforcement groups including the MA Law Enforcement Policy Group and the MA Association of Minority Law Enforcement Officers were not considered for input. This bill creates a dangerous environment, not only for law enforcement and their families but also for all public employees and their families and the general public. This bill will cause the crime rate to sky rocket in Massachusetts because the police won't be able to do their jobs without second guessing every move they make. The cost of this bill will be way over the projected 5 million. If you want to know who is rejoicing over this bill look closely. It is not the good citizens of Massachusetts I assure you. I beg you to reject this bill. Please consider all the good families that will be impacted by this. It won't just be police and their families effected.

To whom it may concern,

My name is Matthew Farnham from the Abington Massachusetts Police Department. I have been a police officer for about a year. I am emailing you in regards to the new Amendment that is in consideration of being passed. I understand there are many different viewpoints and different mindsets on this Amendment. I would like to first thank you for your time in reading this email. Everyday we deal with different people. Everyday is a different challenge. That being said some of the people I deal with love the police, some hate the police. Some wish us success, and some wish us death and suffering. That being said, I serve each and every one of them. I serve them if they dislike police or if they love police. That is what my job entails. I am not allowed to pick sides on who I protect, and honestly that is something I love about this job. My department head, its administration, the officers, we all uphold the obligation to do the right thing and to "protect and serve". I can speak on behalf of myself and on behalf of all the officers at the Abington Police Department, we strive to be the best we can be on each call we go to. That being said, I believe that eliminating qualified immunity would be a big mistake. I am saying this because most officers are not willing to lose their homes, families, and savings because someone we deal with decides they want to sue us for whatever reason they choose to. Having qualified immunity protects GOOD officers, doing the right thing. This is a punishment in my eyes and this will push away many of my coworkers and MANY officers on this job. How are we supposed to do a job when every call could escalate and now I/We are getting sued for trying to do the right thing? I am kindly asking on behalf of myself and all Massachusetts police officers that this Amendment gets more consideration on being denied.

Thank you for your time,

To whom it may concern,

The police reform bill is a reckless bill that will be coming before the house this week. This bill was rushed and not well thought out. There are far too many unknowns with this piece of legislation. The senators themselves had difficulty understanding and explaining qualified immunity. The Senators said that they were going into uncharted territory and didn't know what the ramifications would be for the people affected by this bill. It is obvious to the public that this bill was rushed, not properly put together and lacks important input from multiple members in the community. Please do not pass this police reform bill.

Good Evening,

Being the wife to a city police officer as well as an RN brings many life experiences to our family. As an RN I have heard the screams of a mother when she was told her child didn't make it. I have held a child's hand while they were removed from life support. Even in my darkest hour as an RN my experiences don't come close to the events and trauma my husband experiences as a police officer. He has had his thumb nearly severed when a domestic abuser bit him. He has had a beer bottle smashed and stabbed into his eye socket. He has seen child abuse and neglect that is unimaginable. He has seen children run over by cars, children that have drowned and so many other things that most people have never seen. He has been spit on, kicked, punched and berated by criminals daily. Imagine working in that type of environment everyday. I couldn't do it. My husband never complains. He loves his job more than any other person I know. I have to beg him to take a day off. He cares so much for the people in his community. I'm sure the bad days outweigh the good days but he will never say it. He continues to be as committed as the day he became an officer over 20 years ago. My husband is able to come home to me and our 6 children every day with a smile on his face. No matter what happened on his shift. This police reform bill has effected my husband. I have never seen him affected like this in the 15 years we have been married. As we watched the senate meeting into the wee hours of Tuesday morning <x-apple-data-detectors://0> I wept as the senators gave graphic, violent and one sided accounts of how terrible police officers are. Watching my husbands face as they spoke was like watching a candles flame dim. I could literally see how their words cut him to the core. Whoever coined the phrase that police do the unimaginable for the ungrateful couldn't have said it better. The way the senators spoke was like putting a nail in our police departments coffin. Right now the morale in police departments all over the country is low. They feel like the most hated profession in the world and yet they continue to go to work everyday to protect us. This bill is just another kick to our officers. Our officers didn't kill George Floyd. But the harshness of this bill seems to say they did. I have over 12 pages of notes on things wrong with this bill. This bill is far from where it needs to be and will do little to nothing to help combat racism. This bill takes away from the good citizens of Massachusetts and provides extra protection and financial gain for the criminals. The fact that the senate thought this bill was good enough for the commonwealth is concerning. If they want to develop a bill that really addresses systemic racism this isn't it. If you look closely the only people celebrating this bill are not the good citizens of Massachusetts. When I stated my dismay about this bill passing someone said to me "good now I can own that pigs house ACAB." This is the people who are celebrating this bill. Now more than ever when my husband leaves for work I fear he will be killed. This bill is seen as a punishment to police officers and the criminals are laughing. Let me be clear, I believe there is work to be done to combat racism in all municipalities including the police department but not with this bill. I agree bad officers should be held accountable for bad actions but this bill puts all officers at risk not just the bad ones. This bill also puts our good citizens at risk and makes are municipal employees liable. To all the senators that spoke so poorly about police, I encourage them to go on a ride along with an officer so they can see what it is like prior to writing the laws that govern them. I know that you will seriously consider the ramifications this bill will have on the citizens of Massachusetts. I urge you not to pass this bill.

I'm writing because I feel strongly that now is the time to make all the progress we can in creating safe communities in MA for everyone, especially Brown and Black people for whom our current policing system is anything but safe.

You have in front of you a not perfect, but quite strong piece of legislation (S.2820), passed by the Senate. It is my hope that you will vote quickly to pass it. It could use some additions: eliminate "no knock" raids; create standards by which police officers not following rules can be decertified; no chokeholds or tear gas; and a real must - end qualified immunity, or none of this really works.

Please do the right thing at this critical point.

Dear Honorable Committee Chairs,

I am writing to you with concerns about S.2800 which just passed the MA Senate.

The bill was passed with NO public hearing and NO input from police organizations. Thank you both for holding a virtual hearing on this bill, I appreciate your willingness to do so.

On to the bill: there are some good things in this bill about training, certification, etc. for police which make sense, but there are 3 aspects of this bill that are extremely concerning to me.

1. A complete ban on chokeholds by police, even in self defense.
2. Significant limitations on the use of tear gas in crowd control.
3. A limit on qualified immunity.

While I am concerned about accountability and police violence, I do not want to take away tools from the police. Education is the answer.

Here are further thoughts on the three areas that concern me.

1-The ban on chokeholds sounds good in principle, but in practice police officers need to use restraints such as these on occasion to subdue a hostile individual or to protect themselves.

2-The limitations on tear gas in crowd control. I strongly believe that police need this tool for large scale riots that get out of hand. Limiting this is a very bad idea.

3-The limit on qualified immunity is not just on state and local police, but all city and town workers, including firefighters, paramedics, EMTs and others. What this basically means is that all of these state and local first responders can be sued in civil court for all kinds of things. On a practical level this will decimate law enforcement. Within the current laws, police can be sued civilly if they break the law, which is fair. But, this would open the door to all kinds of frivolous lawsuits.

As the House debates police reform, I ask that any bill that emerges, do so without a complete ban on chokeholds or limitations on the use of tear gas by police. And finally, please do not limit qualified immunity for our police officers, firefighters and paramedics.

Sincerely,

Subject: Police Reform Bill S.2800

Good Afternoon, I just wanted to send a reminder of how this Bill S.2800 truly affects policing in Massachusetts.

1. Qualified Immunity - do not accept the talking point that there is not much of a change here. Not only did they make it more difficult to get Qualified Immunity (essentially turning it into a fact issue to be decided at trial, as opposed to a legal issue a judge could weed out early) - but - the real sneaky part is that they removed an element from the State Civil Rights Act, and also provided a provision for attorneys fees to be awarded to plaintiffs. These two changes are huge - will create tons of new state law claims against public employees to be brought in the state courts - as opposed to Federal Courts - where they will cost employees and Cities and Towns so much.

CLICK HERE FOR THE OPINION OF ATTY. LEN KESTEN WHO FOR 3 DECADES HAS REPRESENTED MUNICIPALITIES IN THESE CASES - PLEASE READ AND SHARE THIS WITH YOUR STATE REPS AND ESPECIALLY YOUR CITY COUNCIL AND SELECTMEN. HE EXPLAINS THE LACK OF NEED FOR ANY CHANGE, AND THE DAMAGING IMPACTS TO OUR MUNICIPALITIES THAT WILL COME. ATTY KESTEN DOES NOT REPRESENT UNIONS - HE REPRESENTS OUR COMMUNITIES.

2. Indemnification - Some legislators are pointing to the lack of changes in the State Indemnification Law (GL c. 258) as a reason that officers should just not worry - suggesting they will still be defended against all of this expected onslaught. DO NOT ACCEPT THAT. First - GL c. 258 discriminates against municipal officers. Indemnification for municipal employees (police, fire, local officials, etc.) is discretionary. They do not have to do it. On the other hand, people like legislators, and the State Executive branch enjoy mandatory defense and indemnification for up to $1,000,000.00 if they violate the civil rights laws

Also - don't forget - the Massachusetts State Police have a special statute of their own - GL c. 258, Sec. 9A - that provides mandatory defense and indemnification for up to $1,000,000.00 for civil rights violations as long as they are not willful or malicious. MUNICIPAL OFFICERS ARE THE ONLY ONES WORKING WITHOUT A NET.

3. Due Process Rights - Obviously there is so much wrong with this bill - but the idea that your careers may be put into the hands of an inherently political board, mostly non-law enforcement, many with anti-police agendas, and of the law enforcement is mostly management, is alone disheartening enough. Here are some thoughts:

First - That board should be made up of a majority of law enforcement professionals, with representatives of management and labor, with appropriate and limited non-law enforcement representation. JUST LIKE EVERY OTHER PROFESSIONAL BOARD IN THE COMMONWEALTH.

Second - the way the bill defines a "sustained complaint" is that it views it as final once the City makes its decision. It does not allow for an unbiased review by an arbitrator or civil service - both rights which most have relied upon forever. This is shocking. In fact, both bargaining law and civil service law acknowledge that the city level process is biased - and more, even says that employees have no right to a disinterested or unbiased or even full hearing at the city level. THE REASON FOR THIS IS THAT THE LAW PROVIDES THESE APPEALS TO ARBITRATION AND CIVIL SERVICE. So - with this bill, officers will be stuck with only the permissibly biased, final decisions of local officials. This cannot stand. Just cause protects good officers - not bad officers. Every good public manager and Chie knows that if they follow correct process, they are able to remove unfit officers.

Third - the Governor's bill did not allow the Board to do its own investigations into complaints, and to be a place where people could complaint directly. The Senate changed this and now allows this political board to ignore local IA findings clearing officers, to ignore arbitrators and civil service officers, to ignore DA findings of justified force, etc - and simply do their own thing. This is wrong. This review board should be required to use the facts and findings of unbiased officials, should not be independently creating their own fact findings (which are insulated from appeal other than a legal "abuse of discretion" type appeal). This independent function should be removed and it should be consistent with the Governor's bill in that the board has a review function only.

Sincerely,
Mike Wandell

Subject: Police Reform Bill

I am writing this email in response to the above mentioned bill.

The qualified immunity protection that police officers have under current law was replaced by a dubious provision. Firefighters and nurses would also fall under this new provision. You will find more police officers retiring, leaving the force for public sector jobs, and less prospective candidates applying to the academy. These first responders put their lives on the line each and every day for the public.

I am also opposed to a civilian review board that has control over police certification and discipline. We have courts of law, such as they are, to handle illegal police behavior.

Please do not punish all for actions of a few. This bill was not thought out and rushed. Please vote no.

Dear Ladies & Gentlemen;

With all due respects, I am saddened to see such a knee jerk response by the MA Senators, to punish our LEO's by proposing this Bill. While the protesters that took part in the never ending protests, death & destruction, walked away free with no consequences, you have fallen into their trap of demands to Defund the Police.

With this bill, you lessen the ability for Officers to gain control of dangerous situations and to protect themselves, victims, and the Public. And sadly, by threatening to remove Qualified Immunity is Spiteful.

Respectfully;

Please do not remove qualified immunity from first responders and nurses. Retrain society!

Please eliminate the rent-free, eviction-free extension. You're going to turn MA into one big Detroit.

Please do not mandate mask wearing. Shut down the tattletale hotline. You're turning us all against each other.

What a bunch of garbage legislation you've cooked up lately.

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I particularly support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

I implore you to amend S 2800 to make certain that this legislation will actually improve law enforcement in Massachusetts. As written, it does not.

All rational citizens support actions that will stop the use of excessive force and police brutality, however eliminating qualified immunity will not do that. Qualified immunity protects public employees who act reasonably and in compliance with the rules and regulations of their departments from false accusations and frivolous lawsuits. It does not protect bad cops. The murder of George Floyd has been condemned by law enforcement officials across the nation. The act clearly was "unreasonable" (in fact horrific) and there would be no protection afforded to this Minneapolis officer under qualified immunity; thus he is being tried for murder and most likely incarcerated for life.

Police and other public safety officials put their lives on the line to protect us. They never know each day when they go to work whether it will be the last day they hug their families; and now they not only have to worry about losing their lives, they need to worry about losing their homes and any financial stability they may have earned for their families. All just because they are trying to do their jobs and help us. You can't put a Police Officer in this untenable position when s/he is making life and death decisions - everyone will lose.

Yes, bad cops should be fired. But there are administrative and criminal processes already in place to prosecute any public employee who acts "unreasonably". Eliminating qualified immunity is not necessary and a disservice to the many fine men and women in law enforcement; do not make every Police Officer pay for the sins of a few.

Moreover, the proposed review/accreditation process will continually assess the integrity of the Police Officers; the board, if made up primarily of law enforcement officials along with qualified citizen representatives, will serve to identify and decertify/train those that dishonor the badge. I think it is important that law enforcement be amply represented here - like other boards where doctors evaluate doctors or lawyers assess lawyers. That only makes sense.

To be honest, since all of these riots and attacks on the law enforcement community began, I do not feel safe anymore. I have changed my lifestyle with respect to going out at night or going out alone. I need to know that law enforcement personnel have the resources and government support they need to do their jobs and protect all of us. Please don't make us another New York or Seattle by forsaking our Police Officers. Massachusetts is better than that.

Subject: Public Testimony on S.2800 to the House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice Chair Day, and Vice Chair Garlick,

I am writing to request your consideration to expand the existing expungement law (MGL Ch 276, Section 100E) as the House takes up S.2800 to address Racial Justice and Police Accountability. S.2800 includes this expansion and we hope you will consider it as it directly relates to the harm done by over-policing in communities of color and the over-representation of young people of color in the criminal legal system.

Our criminal justice system is not immune to structural racism and we join you and all members in the great work needed to set things right. The unfortunate reality is that people of color are far more likely to be subjected to stop and frisk and more likely to get arrested for the same crimes committed by whites. Black youth are three times more likely to get arrested than their white peers and Black residents are six times more likely to go to jail in Massachusetts. Other systems where people of color experience racism are exacerbated, and in many ways legitimized, by the presence of a criminal record. Criminal records are meant to be a tool for public safety but they're more often used as a tool to hold communities of color back from their full economic potential. Expungement can be an important tool to rectify the documented systemic racism at every point of a young person's journey through and past our justice system.

We also know that young adults have the highest recidivism rate of any age group, but that drops as they grow older and mature. The law, however, does not allow for anyone who recidivates but eventually desists from reoffending to benefit. Young people's circumstances and cases are unique and the law aptly gives the court the discretion to approve expungement petitions on a case by case basis, yet the law also categorically disqualifies over 150 charges. We also know that anyone who is innocent of a crime should not have a record, but the current law doesn't distinguish between a dismissal and a conviction. It's for these three main reasons we write to you to champion these clarifications and now is the time to do it.

Since the overwhelming number of young people who become involved with the criminal justice system as an adolescent or young adult do so due to a variety of circumstances and since the overwhelming number of those young people grow up and move on with their lives, we are hoping to make clarifying changes to the law. We respectfully ask the law be clarified to:

* Allow for recidivism by removing the limit to a single charge or incident. Some young people may need multiple chances to exit the criminal justice system and the overwhelming majority do and pose no risk to public safety.

* Distinguish between dismissals and convictions because many young people get arrested and face charges that get dismissed. Those young people are innocent of crimes and they should not have a record to follow them forever.

* Remove certain restrictions from the 150+ list of charges and allow for the court to do the work the law charges them to do on a case by case basis especially if the case is dismissed of the young person is otherwise found "not guilty."

Refining the law will adequately achieve the desired outcome from 2018: to reduce recidivism, to remove barriers to employment, education, and housing; and to allow people of color who are disproportionately represented in the criminal justice system and who disproportionately experience the collateral consequences of a criminal record the opportunity to move on with their lives and contribute in powerfully positive ways to the Commonwealth and the communities they live, work and raise families in. Within a system riddled with racial disparities, the final step in the process is to allow for as many people as possible who pose no risk to public safety and who are passionate to pursue a positive future, to achieve that full potential here in Massachusetts or anywhere.

Thank you for your consideration,

To whom it may concern,

Stripping Law Enforcement of qualified immunity takes away their protection and due process. This state is in for some tough times if that happens. It would be safer for police and fire to do the bare minimum if this bill is passed and the public deserves more.

Please DO NOT pass this bill.

Sincerely,

Subject: Testimony in support of the Reform Shift Build

Dear MA house of representatives. I am a constituent of Dan Hunt in Dorchester.

I am writing to voice my wholehearted support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act. As a resident of Boston. Our State and Nation face a long-postponed reckoning with race., We must keep a stern dialogue with how we police one another as part of that reckoning. The Reform-Shift-Build Act opens that dialogue in unprecedented ways. Stringent certifications, inroads towards banning excessive force, review boards staffed by community, and a stronger stance against surveillance technology are just some of the impressive pieces we will be bringing to the state with this Act. Perhaps the most impressive piece to this is a focused reform to the doctrine known as "qualified immunity."

Passing this act while keeping the reform of qualified immunity attached to it would be historical. It would send the appropriate message to the Nation. If we as a people are to be policed, it must be under an entirely reimaged officer. There are glimpses of good in all of us. There are glimpses of good in our law enforcement. But there is also an unspeakable bad in all of us. As it permeates all of us by degrees, so too does it fester in our law enforcement.

I am terrified of Police Officers and I am terrified that my children or husband may be at worst murdered and at best harassed by an officer. I fear that if something happens there will no one held accountable for it. I should not have to live with that fear.

Thoughts are free but, Action is governed, and actions are rooted in those thoughts. The action to take another's life, to choke another out, to abuse another, to dominate another, to correct another, without impunity is what I believe qualified immunity too often permits.

Reform and regulation are necessities for police in Massachusetts and everywhere. But the protective mask of qualified immunity must fall. We face consequences as citizens. For too long has our police force acted without impartial thought when it comes to another's life and rights.

I am asking you to support the Reform-Shift-Build Act for my family, for Boston, for Massachusetts, and for the entire United States of America. I am asking you to share my voice with your fellow legislators, and amplify it yourself in your championing of this Act.

Thank you for your time.

Respectfully,

Good afternoon,

I am a Quincy firefighter, and I am reaching out today regarding the police reform bill and how it will open people like myself up to litigation and possible charges for things that may happen through no fault of my own, or actions taken in self-defense while trying to administer medical aid to a citizen. I am 1000% for police reform, as I believe most people are, but to have such a knee-jerk reaction as to open up the door for action taken against someone who might slip on the ice while carrying a patient or have to act in self defense because a person is coming at you with a needle while you're trying to help them through a possible overdose is asinine. These are things that do and will continue to happen. It is not my job to take actions that may harm someone, even if it's in the public interest. My job is literally nothing but life safety and saving. Please think before passing ridiculous bills that will make life harder for people like myself. I'll tell you right now that if this bill passes as is, many of us, myself included, will not lay a hand on a patient for fear of being sued in the sue-happy country legislators like you have cultivated over the years. Do your damn job and write laws that make sense so I can do my job effectively.

Subject: Bill No. 2820

Dear Rep. Aaron Michewitz, Chair of the House Committee on Ways and Means

In regards to Bill No. 2820 I have concerns on the following:

My understanding of the 3 detrimental issues (that I'm aware of- there may be more) are as follows:

1) Places further limits on Qualified immunity on Police, firefighters, state and local EMT's and Paramedics and other state or city workers. This would open the door for frivolous civil lawsuits against Police and others and would very significantly and negatively handcuff them for fear of being sued.

2) Restricts use of tear gas.

3) Complete ban on police utilizing chokeholds- even in cases of legitimate self-defense. So, if a Police Officer is in a physical fight for their lives against a larger and stronger criminal suspect, it would be against the law for them to utilize any type of choke hold, even to save their own lives or the lives of another citizen.

Because of these concerns I so not support Bill 2820.

Very Truly Yours,

Deborah Claire

Subject: Testimony in Support of Police Accountability -- Use of Force Standards, Qualified Immunity Reform, and Prohibitions on Face Surveillance

The Honorable Rep. Aaron Michlewitz
Chair, House Committee on Ways and Means

The Honorable Rep. Claire D. Cronin
Chair, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

I strongly support many provisions in S.2820 designed to increase police accountability. I urge you to:

- Adopt strict limits on police use of force,
- End qualified immunity, because it shields police from accountability and denies victims of police violence their day in court, and
- Prohibit government use of face surveillance technology, which threatens core civil liberties and racial justice.

We must address police violence and abuses, stop the disparate policing of and brutality against communities of color and Black people in particular, and hold police accountable for civil rights violations. These changes are essential for the health and safety of our communities here in the Commonwealth.

Massachusetts must establish strong standards limiting excessive force by police. When police interact with civilians, they should only use force when it is absolutely necessary, after attempting to de-escalate, when all other options have been exhausted. Police must use force that is proportional to the situation, and the minimum amount required to accomplish a lawful purpose. And several tactics commonly associated with death or serious injury, including the use of chokeholds, tear gas, rubber bullets, and no-knock warrants should be outlawed entirely.

OF CRITICAL IMPORTANCE: Massachusetts must abolish the dangerous doctrine of qualified immunity because it shields police from being held accountable to their victims. Limits on use of force are meaningless unless they are enforceable. Yet today, qualified immunity protects police even when they blatantly and seriously violate people's civil rights, including by excessive use of force resulting in permanent injury or even death. It denies victims of police violence their day in court. Ending or reforming qualified immunity is the most important police accountability measure in S2820. Maintaining Qualified Immunity ensures that Black Lives Don't Matter. I urge you to end immunity in order to end impunity.

Finally, I urge the House to prevent the expansion of police powers and budgets by prohibiting government entities, including police, from using face surveillance technologies. Specifically, I ask that you include H.1538 in your omnibus bill. "Face surveillance technologies" have serious racial bias flaws built into their systems. There are increasing numbers of cases in which Black people are wrongfully arrested due to errors with these technologies (as well as sloppy police work). We should not allow police in Massachusetts to use technology that supercharges racial bias and expands police powers to surveil everyone, every day and everywhere we go.

There is broad consensus that we must act swiftly and boldly to address police violence, strengthen accountability, and advance racial justice. I urge you to pass the strongest possible legislation without delay, and to ensure that it is signed into law this session.

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

Police reforms are urgently needed and long overdue in our state. We urge you to not let this unique period of general popular consensus for reform slip by and support S.2820 in the House, and indeed should be strengthened.

We believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor. Research has indicated that tear gas alone has been proven detrimental to human health.

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I particularly support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

Sincerely,

Subject: Bill S. 2820

To whom it may concern,

My name is Kevan Spoor and I am a resident of Eastham, my phone number is 978-870-9378. I am employed as a police sergeant for a municipal police department on Cape Cod.

I am specifically writing to you about bill S2820 that passed in the Senate early Tuesday morning. It is my understanding that this bill now goes to the House of Representatives for your approval. I appreciate your leadership giving us the opportunity to have our voices heard, more than the Senate did for us. I have been reading, digesting and understanding all the changes and amendments that have been proposed. I must admit there are some unreasonable requests in this bill that will forever change the landscape of law enforcement, and not for the good. There are also some reasonable and well overdue changes to current police standards that will help improve this profession; however, I would like to specifically comment on and highlight for you some of the changes that I believe will be a detriment to law enforcement.

To provide some background, I have worked as a reserve police officer since 2007. I have been employed in a fulltime capacity for a municipal police department since 2011. I am currently a Patrol Sergeant within that department. I am a level 3 Defensive Tactics Instructor through the MPTC. I have been teaching Defensive Tactics since 2014. I specifically teach in the Plymouth Police Academy with the reserve and recruit officers. I work with other Defensive Tactics staff members in conducting annual in-service training within the Cape and South Shore. I recently oversaw the Defensive Tactics program for the Cape Cod Police Academy ROC #1 & #2. By no means do I claim to know everything about use of force and defensive tactics, but I do have a more-than-average education and experience in this field. I know that there are other police officers in this state with greater training, experience and expertise in defensive tactics, but I wanted to provide my perception of this new language, for what it's worth.

According to S2820 they are creating a new chapter, Chapter 147A, in this new chapter specifically, Section 2 subsection b, (lines 1302-1306) it states that officers may only use force that is necessary to

- i. Effect the lawful arrest of a person
- ii. Prevent the escape from custody of a person, or
- iii. Prevent imminent harm and the amount of force used is proportional to the threat of imminent harm

There are numerous problems with this language, first and foremost it is changing case law that has been established and has been challenged in court and withstood challenges throughout the years. Julian v. Randazzo (380 Mass. 391: 1980) says that police may use force that is reasonably necessary to:

1. Take someone into custody
2. Overcome resistance to arrest
3. Prevent an escape or recapture an escapee, or
4. Protect officers and others from harm before, during, and after the arrest

This new language created is narrowing when an officer may be able to use force. There are numerous instances that could be outlined for you when an officer may be taking someone into custody, but they may not be under arrest. Officers can detain individuals and conduct investigations based on reasonable suspicion. Officer's also take people into custody based on civil commitments, Protective Custody's due to alcohol or drugs, mental health protective custody, warrants of apprehension all of which are technically not arrests. If these individuals resisted or became assaultive it would be appropriate for an officer to use a reasonable amount of force to take them into custody, but now you are removing that option. Officers may also have to protect citizens who are being attacked and/or harmed but again you have removed this ability for officers to use force. Please let me explain in more detail.

In the new language subsection b (iii) says to "prevent imminent harm." It does not say who that imminent harm is directed toward. Additionally, this new language defines imminent harm as "serious physical injury or death." For example, if someone were fighting, punching an officer or another individual there is no likelihood of imminent harm, but there would be a potential for harm. How should an officer control this individual's actions if they are not allowed to use a reasonable level of force to stop their violent behavior?

Additionally, it continues to state that "the amount of force used is proportional to the threat of imminent harm." Nothing a police officer does when it comes to use of force is evaluated as proportional. Graham v. Connor, 490 US 388 (1989.) states that an officer's force should be reasonable based on specific facts and circumstances known to the officer at the time force is used. This case created what is known as "the reasonableness standard" which has been used since 1989 to evaluate the reasonableness of an officer's use of force. Officers are often forced to make split second decisions based on the facts and circumstances known to them at the time force is used. Their decision is based on what another reasonably trained police officer would do given the same information. It all comes down to what is reasonable, not proportional. By using the word "proportional" it is attempting to remove a federal standard of reasonableness, by doing this you are undoubtedly going to cause harm to police officers and members of the public since they will not be able to safely protect themselves or the citizens of our community.

Also, throughout Chapter 147A it references officers' force to be "proportional to the threat of imminent harm". Again, an officer may not always be confronted with imminent harm, they may be confronted with a harmful individual or even a resistant individual. It would be appropriate for an officer to use a reasonable amount of force based on the facts and circumstances presented to them at the time of the encounter to defend themselves, or another individual, against the level of resistance being displayed by that individual. An example of this may be if an officer is trying to take someone into custody under a section 12 (M.G.L. Chapter 123 Section 12 Emergency restraint and hospitalization of persons posing risk of serious harm by reason of mental illness). By statute this is not an arrest but a civil seizure for the purpose of transporting this individual to a health care facility for a mental health evaluation. In the course of attempting to take this person into custody they become assaultive and start to fight with a police officer. It would be appropriate for an officer to use a reasonable level of force to gain immediate control of them and stop their violent behavior. Under Randazzo it would be reasonable for an officer to use force to take someone into custody, as outlined in this example. Under the new statute this is not an arrest, this person would not be attempting to escape custody, nor are they a threat of immediate physical harm. So how under the new statute would it be reasonable for an officer to use force to protect themselves or others that may be in the room?

What you will be forcing an officer to do is to apply criminal charges to this person, potentially assault and battery on a police officer, disorderly conduct etc., instead of immediately bringing them to a hospital. This serves no purpose to someone in need of mental health services, the best place for them to be is a hospital. For an officer to comply with the law in using force this is what will have to happen. Instead of this person immediately going to a hospital they will go to jail and now enter the court system where they would have been best suited to get treatment and not have any criminal charges. If officers are restricted to only use force when there is a threat of imminent harm, then this bill is creating the potential for officers, as well as citizens, to be injured as a result of them not being able to safely protect themselves or the public.

Some of the changes presented in Chapter 147A make sense and are long overdue, for example banning chokeholds, requiring officers to intervene if they witness an officer using an excessive amount of force or report an officer, they know to use excessive force. These changes will better the law enforcement profession, but some requirements are creating the potential for an increase in officer injury, citizen injury and subject injury if they are implemented as written in this bill.

It is my hope that you do not just look at the national numbers but specifically look at what the numbers here, in Massachusetts will tell you. In Massachusetts we have one of the lowest annual rates for deadly use of force incidents in the Nation - in the last 5 years our rate is 0.5 incidents per million people where the national average is 1.5 incidents per million people. One of the main reasons for the low number of deadly use of force incidents is that we have well educated, well trained, professional police officers. Our officers are already using de-escalation tactics to gain compliance from individuals. On the flipside, with the low instances of deadly force encounters that officers are involved in, in the last five years we have had 4 officers killed in the line of duty while protecting their communities. Using the same analysis, the rate of officers feloniously killed in the line of duty in Massachusetts is 21.8 incidents per million officers. The national average is 38.1 incidents per million officers. Obviously, the numbers are higher because there is a lower number of police officers compared to the overall population. Even still this should show a clear indication that a police officer has a higher likelihood of being felonious killed in this profession than a citizen being involved in a deadly force incident.

I would also like to comment on the removal of some of the standards that apply to qualified immunity. I know that you, just like me, as government employees are also afforded the rights and protections of qualified immunity. I would assume that you understand the importance of having this in place. I have heard members in the Senate say that this will not have a negative effect on police officers and there will be no ill consequences from changing the standard, but I could not disagree more. This will open the door to numerous frivolous lawsuits that individuals will feel emboldened to file because of the language in this bill. Not only will these lawsuits be filed against a specific officer who could possibly lose all they have worked for, but they will include Municipalities. This will ultimately increase the cost to taxpayers to defend the increase in cases. Now officers acting in good faith, trying to do the right thing can be held personally liable. This will unequivocally lead to police officers hesitating and unsure of how to respond in situations for fear of being sued. This could lead to increase in injury for officers, and members of the community, with officers fearing how to help in a situation.

In this bill it seems to create a lot of new committees and councils with mandates for specific training that officers must attend. Undoubtedly it will cost money to staff individuals on these committees, have people develop training and implement the training. It is my understanding that we are already in a deficit for the budget. Law Enforcement just recently received approximately $10 million through the car rental tax, but this money is already earmarked for training in the MPTC. I am fearful of who will have to brunt the cost of these new mandates, will citizens see their taxes go up? Or will agencies have to fund these mandates on their own, I know in my department our budget is already tight, we are on a hiring freeze, and we are being asked to find ways to cut money from the budget. So how exactly do we pay for the members' time on these committees and the new training that must be created and implemented? I do not see anything in the bill that details this plan.

Passing this bill without considering how we are carrying out our duties and responsibilities here in Massachusetts, without considering the impact of this massive legislation, without even a thought of how it will impact the thousands of police officers and their families across the Commonwealth, is not only negligent, but will have a residual negative impact that our state and our families cannot afford. There has not been enough time vetting all the potential problems with the bill. There may be numerous unintended consequences from passing this bill that will not be realized until well after its implementation.

As a constituent of Massachusetts, I request and expect that you will do your due diligence. Please read and understand the bill. Please research how your own local police officers are carrying out their duties and realize we are doing what is expected and understand that what you are being told in regard to this bill, is not applicable to what is happening here in this state.

We, as law enforcement professionals, intend to hold ourselves accountable, and we trust that you will do the same. Please feel free to contact me with any comments or concerns you may have.

Respectfully,

Kevan Spoor

Subject: Reform Bill

Hello:

I hope I am understanding this bill correctly and if I am you are putting public servants in a bad unsafe situation. No Public Servant should be allowed to be sued, punished if inappropriate behavior yes but sued!!

No excessive force should not be used, but not all police officers use excessive force, so why are the good ones being penalized by some Rogue police officers?

No! officers should not cover up for one another and should intervene if another office is using excessive force, if not yes be punished for this.

You are putting stipulations on a lot of public servants who don't deserve this, no one is going to want to be a public servant so now where does that put MASS?

MASS/lawmakers are bending over a little too far when these issues have not been an issue in MASS.

Show people where Police and the black/brown communities have had issues? If anything black/brown communities have caused their own issues. People need to take their blinders off too really see where the issue(s) lie and not make public servants the scapegoats.

Subject: Please advocate for Expungement in Massachusetts in house bill focused on racial justice

Dear MA Judiciary,

My name is Natalie Penhale Johnson and I am from Somerville, MA. I am reaching out about the effort to expand the existing youth expungement law so that it is more accessible to young people in Massachusetts. As a public health professional, specifically working in community violence intervention and prevention, I want our state to commit to upstream solutions, such as financial investments in communities, housing first, and a robust social safety net, which all contribute to safer communities. I want to live in a society that prioritizes growth, not punishment.

Let's amend the expungement law applying our understanding of young adult recidivism rates (young adults have a 76% recidivism rate over three years), cognitive brain development (people are more risk averse before their mid-twenties), and the seven year expiration of a criminal record's effectiveness as a tool for public safety.

The current law is very exclusive and most young people cannot qualify. It doesn't even distinguish between a conviction versus a dismissed case. Race plays a central role in the problem with criminal records. Black youth are three times more likely to be arrested than their white peers. Black individuals are six times more likely to go to jail than whites despite being just 7.5% of the population. People of color are over-represented at every stage of the legal system and expungement will go a long way to undo the harm from this systemic racism. Criminal records stay with people forever and prevent many from getting good jobs and education which puts an unnecessary strain on our economy. Records also have a very negative impact on mental health and they particularly hurt communities of color.

We respectfully ask for an amendment that will:

- * Allow for multiple offenses to be expunged (prior to age 21).
- * Remove the list of 150+ charges that automatically disqualify and let the judge decide. Charges don't reflect the reality of an individual's character, guilt, likelihood of future risk, or ability to contribute to society in a positive way. Instead we should allow for judicial discretion. Since the 7 year felony and 3 year misdemeanor wait periods only begin at the end of one's sentence, the most severe charges like murder and aggravated rape which come with life sentences will never be eligible.

* Differentiate between convictions and dismissed cases. Not all charges are equal.

I know that the Legislature is planning to pass legislation to address police accountability and racial justice and I would really appreciate your support to make sure an expansion to the expungement law is included. As your constituent, I would appreciate your leadership on this issue.

Thank you for your consideration! This issue is very important to me, the young people in our community, and the entire Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Sincerely,

Natalie Johnson, MPH

Hi MA House,

I would like to provide my feedback on S.2820 - Police Reform Bill. I am an active resident in the Dorchester community. Though my organizations are not affiliated with my input today, I am also on the Board of Directors of two non profits in Massachusetts. I care deeply about the safety of our greater Boston community.

On S.2820 - Police Reform Bill:

Please preserve language around:

?Creating an independent and civilian-majority police certification/decertification body

?Limiting qualified immunity so that victims of police brutality can sue for civil damages

?Reducing the school-to-prison pipeline and removing barriers to expungement on juvenile records

I would like to see us go further than the Senate bill with regard to:

?Strengthening use of force standards

?Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology

?Lifting the cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund

Subject: S2820 Police Reform bill

Good morning,

I write to you today in strong opposition to the most dangerous bill to ever be considered in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, "An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color." I was able to read the entire 72 pages of this bill last week. While there are some positive merits of the bill, the negative aspects would have far reaching consequences that would negatively effect all residents of the Commonwealth, especially poorer communities. As a 22 year veteran police officer in the Commonwealth (4 as a municipal police officer, and the last 18 with the Massachusetts State Police), I wish to offer you a few examples of where police officers are currently indemnified but if this bill were approved, they would be opened up to liability.

Example 1:

Since police officers are usually "on the road" and an ambulance usually responds from a fire station or other fixed location, police officers are often the first person on scene with first aid training. In some places in the Commonwealth, like western Massachusetts, the police officer's arrival could be 15 to 20 minutes sooner than Fire/EMS.

Consider this scenario:

A State Trooper responds to a medical call on one of our interstates. A subject has had a heart attack and is in need of CPR. The trooper arrives well before the ambulance and performs CPR as trained. In the process the patient sustains broken ribs, but, they survive the heart attack. Currently, because the trooper acted in good faith and as trained, the trooper is immune from liability for any injuries sustained by the patient from the CPR. Under the negative consequences of this bill, the trooper is now open to liability and can be personally sued (for saving this person's life).

In my 22 year career, I have given CPR many times, sometimes it was successful, sometimes it wasn't. Even in the successful cases, the patient sustained injuries from the CPR.

Example 2:

A police officer responds to a call for a disturbance at a town-house condominium. Police officers arrive on scene and hear a woman screaming and sounds of an obvious struggle. The officers check the doors but they are locked. The officers force entry, locate a male subject on top of a female and smashing her head off the floor. The officers use force to remove the male from the female and he is taken into custody. This scenario happens every single day in the Commonwealth.

Often times, several months down the road, the couple has reconciled. By the time this case gets to court, the victim denies the assault and the case is dismissed. With the removal of qualified immunity, the couple can now go after the officers civilly for any damage that may have been done to their door while making entry. With the "POSAC" in place as described and composed in the original bill, with members that have little/no law enforcement background, the couple files a use of force complaint with POSAC for excessive force, saying that the police entered their residence for no reason and assaulted the male. The officers involved are now sued civilly and criminally charged... for saving this woman's life

Example 3:

I apologize if this is graphic, but with the recent news of one of the suspects in the Jefferey Curley case eligible for parole, I think it makes a good example. Police receive a report of a child kidnapped, a weapon was reported to be involved, Mass registration 123ABC is the suspect vehicle. An Amber Alert is issued and a police officer locates the suspect vehicle parked in an area notorious for sexual activity. The officer exits his cruiser and checks the area where he locates 2 naked men, 1 holding a gun to the head of the naked child, the other is about to rape the child.

Today, the officer would be justified using lethal force on both male parties to save the life of the child... With the passing of this bill, the officer runs the risk of the following: The subsequent investigation reveals that the gun is non-functioning (one of the internal components has been removed and the gun does not fire). In Massachusetts, prior court decisions rule that this gun can not be considered a firearm. The POSAC investigates the case. The officer is accused of using excessive force because he has shot two "unarmed" men. The officer is sued by the families of the suspects and charged with 2 counts of murder... He saved the life of this child but now spends the rest of his life in jail for doing so...

In addition to the issues with qualified immunity, there are several other issues with this bill.

Copy and paste, directly from the bill:

1104 (e) A law enforcement officer shall not discharge any firearm into or at a fleeing motor 1105 vehicle unless, based on the totality of the circumstances, such discharge is necessary to prevent

1106 imminent harm to a person and the discharge is proportional to the threat of imminent harm to a

1107 person. For purposes of this subsection, use of the vehicle itself shall not constitute imminent

An example..

On August 12, 2017, James Alex Fields Jr. deliberately drove his car into a crowd of people who had been peacefully[12]

This is a perfect example of how "use of a vehicle itself" actually did constitute imminent harm. If there was a police officer in a position to act, this tragedy could have been prevented. This proposed legislation prohibits law enforcement from acting in this instance.

Another issue with specific language from the bill, also copied directly from the bill:

941 (b) A law enforcement entity shall not engage in racial or other profiling.

We all know that racial profiling is wrong, however, "profiling" is good police work. Here is an example of "profiling":

You observe a man carrying a gun (not illegal,) put on a ski mask (not illegal) and walk into a bank. It is August. What do YOU think is about to happen? If you assume that he is about to rob the bank, you just "profiled" this subject. Under US Supreme Court case Terry v. Ohio, a police officer's reasonable suspicion, with the observed behavior, would allow a police officer to stop this armed and masked subject to investigate... This bill prohibits "other profiling" and would not allow the officer to intervene until the bank is actually robbed.

There are so many sections of proposed legislation throughout this bill that would have extremely negative consequences, not only to Law Enforcement, but to the general public, that I can not list them all. I strongly ask that the entire bill is defeated. There are reforms that need to be made throughout our Criminal Justice system, but this bill is not the answer. Please do not hesitate to contact me directly if you have any questions

Hello,

My name is Kieran Sheldon, and I am a registered voter at 85 Highland St in Holden (01520). I am writing to provide testimony on the Senate's Police Reform Bill (S.2820).

I strongly approve of the reform measures put in place by the bill, such as the limitation of qualified immunity, the establishment of the Justice Reinvestment fund, and the banning of sexual relations between officers and individuals in custody.

However, I believe that the bill should take further steps, by fully banning chokeholds and facial recognition technology. I also believe that the cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund is unnecessary.

Thank you for your time.

Subject: Opposition to Bill S 2800

As your constituent, Margaret Adams from Roslindale, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to S.2800 which was passed in the dark of night by the Senate. I ask that you oppose this bill as constituted when it is debated in the House of Representatives.

We also ask that it be debated in the light day and not voted on in the dark of night.

The bill is ill conceived and politically driven. We agree that police reform is important and needs to be addressed but passing a poor bill for the sake of passing a bill based is not in the best interest of the Commonwealth.

This bill is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. It will cause many good officers to leave due to the new burdens and make it harder to recruit individuals into law enforcement. To quote David DeCoste, 5th Plymouth District - "It eviscerates civil protections which are critical for police and other public safety personnel to perform their duties without jeopardy to the well being of themselves and their families. This is bad law and I oppose it."

S 2800 establishes a review committee with overly broad powers, including the power of subpoena, in active investigations. The current language sets the groundwork for unconstitutional violations of a police officer's 5th amendment rights against self-incrimination (see Carney vs Springfield) and constitutional protections against "double-jeopardy."

Qualified immunity protections are removed and replaced with a "no reasonable defendant" qualifier. This removes important liability protections essential for the police officers we send out on patrol in our communities and who often deal with some of the most dangerous of circumstances with little or no back-up. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers up to personal liabilities so they cannot purchase a home, a car, obtain a credit card, or other things for the benefit of them and their families. Good luck with police recruitment.

In addition S 2800 failed to follow the normal and appropriate legislative process of holding public hearings to accept testimony from citizens and experts. I ask that you vote NO when S.2800 comes to the House of Representatives for the reasons stated above, and others.

"We cannot support a measure which takes handcuffs off drug dealers and gang bangers and puts them on police, allows criminal records to disappear while tearing open police personnel files and allows criminals to appeal for monetary damages while denying police due process to appeal for their job," said James Machado, executive director of the Massachusetts Police Association.

Please plan on voting NO on this bill.

Thank you,

Sincerely,

Margaret Adams

Stripping Law Enforcement of qualified immunity takes away their protection and due process. This state is in for some tough times if that happens. It would be safer for police and fire to do the bare minimum if this bill is passed and the public deserves more!!

Subject: Testimony for S2820

Good afternoon,

My name is Michael Pollock and I live in Plymouth MA, and as a taxpayer and citizen of the great state of Massachusetts I would like to see a Police Reform Bill S2820 that receives input and hearings that involve who this effects most, police officers. Working with other officers we don't see race, color, gender. We have taken a sworn oath and answer every call for every person, we protect everyone's constitutional rights, even if we don't agree with politics involved. The largest issue that we have with the Senate S2800 bill is the rush and push of legislation that does nothing to address what police reform needs to be. And every officer officer of every rank should be allowed to be heard and the bill should take as long as it takes to make it right. Most importantly if you want to keep the best trained, the most knowledgeable and experienced officer's, S2820 shall not include any language that interferes or redefines the definition of qualified immunity. Not only keeping the senates version of qualified immunity in the bill, it would single handily destroy all the good work that police officer's of this state has done and relationships the police have built with the community. There's always room for improvement but I ask that qualified immunity be left for public employees and that you have police officer's at the table to help craft a great bill. You have our ears, let's all work together or many good officers will leave the profession.

Respectfully submitted,

Esteemed members of the Massachusetts House:

I'm writing in full support of S.2820, the final version of the Senate police-reform bill passed this past week. I urge you to keep all the vital reforms in the Senate version of the bill. But I know you can do better, too. I demand you also include the following:

- * Strengthening use of force standards, e.g., by outright banning chokeholds and tear gas. Tear gas isn't allowed to be used in war; why would we allow police to use it against our own neighbors?
- * Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology (rather than imposing just a one-year moratorium)
- * Lifting the unnecessary cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund

Massachusetts can lead on this. It's long past time we started investing in creating solutions in which people don't commit crime in the first place rather than focus most of our attention and funding on the often harmful ways we react to crime.

Thank you,

Subject: **** OPPOSE BILL NO. S2820****

<<mailto:Robert.deleo@mahouse.gov>> Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

As a resident of the Commonwealth, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to Bill #S2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement (fire, doctors, nurses, EMT's and teachers) efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and there are so many parts of this bill that are unjust.

This bill has immediate and long term detrimental ramifications on the men and women that serve our state, especially our police. This bill has not been transparent, vetted or had the full due diligence that it deserves. This bill, as written, is forcing far reaching changes that will impact every single resident of the Commonwealth and furthermore it is being done in a vacuum while only giving consideration to a small and loud group of people.

For lawmakers, representing the people of this state, engaging in back door politics, is unacceptable and despicable. The majority of people follow the rules, laws and do the right thing. We, those people, and the men and women in Blue deserve more than just a knee jerk reaction bill. We urge you to do the right thing.

I read through the bill, yes I actually did, and realize most people & most elected officials never do. Not only are there quite a few parts I disagree with, but I think it is absolutely disgraceful that changes of this magnitude, to a bill like this, are being rushed without thoughtful consideration as to both sides of the situation. This bill as proposed is reckless and this is a recipe for unintended consequences that will have a negative impact on this entire state and the residence of it. Your constituents should have a say and be heard. As elected politicians I urge you to represent all constituents and do what is morally and ethically right for all of the people and all communities you serve and not for personal political agenda and gain.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

Massachusetts has some of the most elite and world class police forces around. Your vote and the "going along with the herd" mentality, is going to destroy what has been built. Years of blood, sweat, and tears on the backs of officers that work hard every single day, to protect all of our families (including your own). The large majority of police officers do great things for their community, that go far above and beyond the call of duty and they do this because they love the job and believe in good.

That fact that legislation is being thrown together and hastily moved through the system to pacify a small group of people that are threatening and destructive to our communities, is very concerning. As an elected official, I ask that you represent the silent majority and DO NOT PASS THIS BILL in its current form.

Let's be very careful not to create a profession that will find no applicants or willing bodies to do the work very much needed. Lets not forget there are bad people in EVERY profession (Including politics), so let's not persecute an entire profession that a few bad apples find their way into, just as we don't persecute the masses of any other profession.

I know as elected officials you and all of your colleagues can do much better than this and we the people demand that of you and are looking to hold our House of Representatives accountable to fix the shortcomings of our Senate. Please remember to represent the great people of this state and not bow down to the people that don't care about our cities, town, flag, country. I would ask that you please remember who your constituents are and think long and hard before you vote.

My hopes are for you to be the leader you were voted in to be and stand behind and back the good men and women in our police forces throughout this state. The men and women in blue that go to work to protect and serve us. That put their life on the line every single day for us.....we all owe it to them.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they so deserve.

Respectfully,

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,
My name is Micayla Grew and I live at 620 Cohannet Street Taunton, MA. I work at Old Colony Correctional Center and am a Correctional Officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Micayla Grew

Representatives,

I apologize for the length of this email, but thank you for taking the time to read it. I want to inform you of my views, both positives and negative that I have of the Senate bill #S.2800, which is now Bill S.2820.

I believe my experience is important as it shapes my views. I am a supervisor of Police Detectives and Student Resource Officers in a Commonwealth town. More importantly I am a resident and have family in the Commonwealth in Mr Linskys District. As a supervisor I see areas of law enforcement differently than a line patrol officer. Additionally, I am the housing liaison and pre-covid I was meeting regularly with the managers of the multi family residences to learn how the police department can better assist families who may be in need of additional assistance.

I used to attend regular meetings with DCF Trauma informed leaders team and worked with them to create the DCF Community Provider Forum which partners DCF, Schools and Police Officers to identify how we can address the needs of children in their system and work together to support them.

As the supervisor of both Detectives and School Resource Officers I see the awful trauma that children experience especially with sex related crimes, and I see the frequency of these complaints.

I am part of a team of officers, fire fighters, teachers, and councilors that will immediately respond to other schools in the state to enhance either security in a dangerous situation, or to provide social emotional assistance if a member of the school or community suddenly dies.

If Qualified Immunity were to be removed or remodeled, I may question whether it is appropriate to focus on all these areas because ultimately I am fearful of the potential liability to get involved in social areas that are generally considered outside the normal scope of policing.

As for the bill, I do see some positives, but I think that this is just a starting point and rushing this bill in a week has the potential to do more harm than good.

First I am greatly opposed to the Qualified Immunity portion (starting SECTION 10 lines 549 -573. Even with a great amount of experience in criminal justice, 13 years employed, 2 degrees, and multiple training opportunities, when I reasonably discuss this matter with colleagues and associates with greater law expertise. I find the concerning issue is that nobody can fully define what this change does, or how poorly it may impact public servants as they serve the public. It is well documented that officers/firefighters/ teachers can be sued for negligent or illegal acts, this is a longstanding ruling of both state and federal court systems. My opinion is why do we need anything else, the current system actually seems very good if not perfect.

This section which changes MGL Chapter 12 subsection 11I (letter I as in India) , first changes language to be more inclusive, a good change. The next area on line 553 it adds "or attempted to be interfered with" this is dangerous language because an attempt is often subjective, even in criminal law it can be difficult to prove without the combination of "specific intent" and "overt act". This is one area I find fault with the Bill, because this language can lead to many frivolous lawsuits, especially since in an "Attempt", there is not a violation of constitutional rights, by definition it did not happen.

Second, topic POSAC

I support POSAC (Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee) is important but currently it is written in a way that I fear begins to dismantle Civil Service. Civil service is designed with a mission of creating diverse public service agencies. I think this needs to be vetted. In lines 513-517 it discusses the side stepping of MGL Ch. 31 (Civil Service) for complaints. Not only is civil service designed to enhance diversity, it is also something many labor unions and citizens are passionate about. Voting to remove the the Town where I work from Civil service was a long and well debated process that went to a town vote.

My other concern for POSAC is in the complaint process under Section 224 (a), starting on line 412. It is understandable that POSAC will hear some complaints, but this doesn't limit what complaints they will hear. Ultimately, this takes the ability to internally investigate our officers and brings it to POSAC , for instance, if a complaint is made (as there have been) about officers being outdoors, standing over 6ft away from others, without a mask. Does the agency have to report this to POSAC to be investigated, it seems that certain issues can be handled in the department. In my opinion police agencies should update policy and procedures for Internal Affair investigations and appropriate supervisory officers trained as such. These supervisors will investigate and if the complaint is sustained, then the chief should review and recommend a discipline, then send to POSAC for additional investigation and potential discipline review.

Third,

Motor Vehicle Stops and Data Collection

Section 52 of this bill deals with Motor Vehicle stops and Data Collection it starts on line 1132.

My concern is first with the removal of discretion to issue a verbal warning which is discussed on line 1180. If the law enforcement officer does not issue a citation they shall provide a receipt with certain information. Thus if I need to leave a stop for an actual emergency, I will be delayed so that I can write out a receipt. There needs to be language for situations where a receipt can not be provided.

Second, with regard to documenting Age, Gender, and Race, who identifies race, because it can be very difficult, we must be inclusive of all walks of life, we understand the importance of not assuming gender, and race can be just as difficult. As of now, the MA RMV lists both Age and Gender, but not Race. Police officers should not be placed in a position to assume a race, when the operator can identify their own race when applying for a license. Out of state and non licensed drivers represent a smaller portion of motor vehicle stops and some states do have this listed, as do some international drivers licenses. Ultimately, more correct data will be obtained, versus data that is subjected to a potential assumption based on physical characteristics. Data is important to monitor potential biases in policing, shouldn't we want the best data possible.

I have no disagreement with the banning of choke holds, but there could be a scenario where I am being strangled and my only option is to try and save my own life by placing my hands around the neck of my attacker. Granted very rare, but still something to consider for a very limited exemption.

Finally, there are a lot of good police officers, this bill has caused good experienced officers great concern. I know many who are considering a change in career. This would lead to many newly hired officers, who have little to no experience. I believe the current bill, as written, would do much more harm than good.

Thank you,

John Perodeau

Subject: Bill No. S2820

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin:

I think that Bill No. S2820 is a reactionary response to the current cultural turmoil and should be sent to committee for additional review.

I question the need for spending tax payer money on additional police training. My sense is that Massachusetts already has one of the most educated and trained police force in the country; thanks in part to the Quinn Bill.

To remove "qualified immunity" from police and other state and city workers will only expose these professionals to frivolous civil lawsuits. Police already can be held accountable for lawless acts.

The use of tear gas in Massachusetts is seldom used, and it just seems reactionary to remove an effective tool for crowd control.

A complete ban on self defense techniques such as a choke hold defy common sense when an officer is confronted with a larger or stronger suspect.

Massachusetts has done a fine job at educating and training its police force, and I would urge a less reactionary and more thoughtful approach.

To the House Ways and Means,

I strongly support S.2820, the police reform bill. I hope the House will enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I have been on the streets multiple times in the last months protesting along with so many others, calling on the legislator to make major changes to our police policies. I particularly support the creation of a state-wide certification board, the Senate bill's limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, and all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus. Police also need significantly more training in deescalation practices.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities, such as my own town of Arlington, should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I would like to see the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers be strengthened. Police officers should not, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Thank you for considering these point.

Respectfully,

Good Afternoon Aaron,

I reached out my state representative, Ken Gordon. Per his suggestion I am also reaching out to you.

This the first time I have ever voiced my opinion but I feel that with all the recent events that everyone is rushing legislation without taking the time to reach out to the citizens of the Commonwealth to hear them.

Everyone agrees that what happened to George Floyd was a tragedy. The officers involved are being held accountable. As they should. The incident has sparked intense emotions among people. That is important because it makes us all re-evaluate if change is necessary.

It is also important not to make mass judgements for all because of the actions of a few. No one disagrees that a review of law enforcement procedures needs to be done. The police are an important part of all civilized society. The Boston PD is a great example of how the police can work with the community. I fear that there are parts of the bill that will make it harder for them to do their job. We need law enforcement who has the faith of the community they are there to protect. They have one of the most difficult jobs and put their lives on the line for us every day. Reform needs to be balanced with support.

Thank you for taking the time to listen to my opinion.

I'm writing to you to express my concerns regarding S.2800: An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

While I understand the desire to pass legislation to prevent police officer misconduct and excessive force I have serious concerns with many provisions of this bill including the removal of Qualified Immunity. The concept protects public servants from frivolous lawsuits brought for by anyone who didn't like the way they were treated during a police interaction. Anyone could sue their arresting officer at anytime for basically any either real or perceived wrongdoings. Everyday Americans abuse civil court with frivolous lawsuits, I can only imagine the sheer number filed if this concept is removed from law. I'm also deeply disturbed that the Senate chose to pass this flawed legislation on the anniversary of a police officers death at the hands of an "unarmed man". Weymouth Officer Michael Chesna was murdered by a 20 year old man after that man attacked him with a rock, stole his firearm and then used it to kill him and an elderly woman in her home. Just because someone doesn't have a weapon on them does not make them not dangerous. Had the officer fired sooner he might still be alive. But then he would have been attacked by the media and public for shooting an "unarmed" kid.

Removing qualified immunity from public servants will not make streets any safer. Had officer Chesna fired his weapon during this altercation and wounded or killed the suspect he could be sued for wrongful death by the family and a civil judgement could ruin his life. How many officers will be willing to risk their lives in this instance? How many dangerous criminals will remain on the streets cause police refuse to give chase and risk an altercation? Everyday Americans sue McDonalds when they're burned by their coffee; you don't think criminals will use this to their advantage anytime they're arrested to make a false complaint?

Yes, trying to push reform to limit excessive force is good. Yes we don't want rouge cops going around shooting completely innocent people, but lets be clear; this legislation is not the way to do it.

The MA Senate knows the bill is flawed. They passed it overnight with zero public hearing and zero public input. This is not the way we make laws here in America makes laws. We are a government of the people,

FOR the people.

Please, I urge you to vote "NO" on S.2800.

Hi, I live at 42 Chauncy St, so I believe I'm a voting constituent of Rep Michlewitz. I called in yesterday to voice my support for criminal justice reform, and for ensuring robust oversight of our police officers. I think Massachusetts has done a much better job than most states, and that also means that the burden of oversight rules should require less change than in other states. I would love to see funds shifted to staff that supports smooth functioning of society! That's become too encumbered into the police force, but simple things like ensuring cross walks are respected, or giving directions, or reminding people to not litter. This nominally falls under the police, but they have more important things to do, so in practice there's no one minding the shop.

Let's focus the police on what they're most capable at, give them a span of responsibilities they can succeed at, and ensure a zero tolerance policy for abuse of their authority. I understand the background on where qualified immunity came from, but it's totally broken in practice. It's shocking that we don't do more to certify police officers, and in general I'm a fan of "stop killing or harassing our own citizens".

Thanks!

Dear Legislators,
I'm hoping we can count on your support to fix S2800. If qualified immunity is changed from its current definition, the safety of the public will be severely jeopardized.
It is unfair and immoral to change current collective bargaining agreements without negotiations

When you put these considerations along with other problems with the bill, no one will want to be a police officer. Look around the country and see what's happening. NYC officers are retiring in droves. Minneapolis officers are leaving on medical stress. Atlanta officers stopped answering calls for a shift.

Do you really want that for Massachusetts?

We try to recruit officers of color to no avail. No young people want to be cops any longer.

When cops are gone, there will be no one to protect innocent civilians of all colors from the evil that liberals refuse to acknowledge.

Please consider your actions on this issue carefully. Be aware of unintended consequences. You might find yourself living in a world without police officers.

From what I understand of the police reform bill as it passed the senate is that it takes great first steps, but I believe it can be enhanced by going even further. I support the points that the ACLU of Massachusetts are asking be added to the bill:

- * Prohibiting violent police tactics
- * imposing meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity
- * banning facial recognition surveillance

I'm glad that Massachusetts is taking this crucial first step, but we should take this opportunity to be a leader in the nation on this movement to improve policing by raising the bar even higher.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing.

I thank you for your work on this important legislation and encourage you to push even further.

Additionally, I would like to push you all to include the elimination of qualified immunity within this legislation. This loophole prevents holding police accountable for their actions, and leads to disproportionately Black and Brown members of our community to be killed or put in jail, with no justice. On top of this, I believe the final bill should also include introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

All of these things should already be part of our basic justice system, and is Massachusetts really wants to call itself a leader in civil justice, these things need to be implemented immediately.

Hello,

My name is James Hodgerney and I live on Brintnal Drive in Rutland. I currently work for the Worcester Police Department. I am writing to you to express the serious concerns with bill S2820. Should this bill pass as written, Police Officers in Massachusetts will be stripped of Qualified Immunity, and will be able to be personally sued for anything and everything they do while on-duty. There is no doubt in my mind this will lead to Police Officers who make a lot of (lawful) arrests being targeted with frivolous lawsuits, in order to curtail their proactive policing. The change also includes a section where they removed an element from the State Civil Rights act, and allowed a provision for attorney fees to be awarded to plaintiffs. This will create a ton of new cases to be brought to the state courts, and will cost the cities and towns as well as all public service employees so much. I am asking that you stand up for us and help make this bill the right way. We are not asking to be protected while being "bad cops" only to protect the good cops who put their lives on the line to protect their communities, and see the bill for what it is: a way to destroy proactive policing.

I am writing to ask you to please take time to review the new bill S 2820. This is being signed too quickly and I believe there is more thought and research to be done before passing. As a lifelong resident of the state of Massachusetts, I am against the passing of this bill. Please take the time and listen to the voice of the citizens of the commonwealth.

In response to Bill S.2820 I am urging you not to pass this bill with the qualified immunity being taken away from our police, fire and nurses. I believe their hands will be tied and it will be much harder for them to do their jobs. Potentially causing second guessing and delay in action which could effect the lives of people they are attending to. This will leave them open to frivolous law suits.

Subject: Police Reform

Dear Members of the Judiciary Committee,

I'm using text supplied by the ACLU of Massachusetts because, quite frankly, they cover everything I want to say, more clearly than I could say it.

As your constituent, I'm writing to ask that you include three essential measures in any legislation on police accountability and racial justice. Please prohibit violent police tactics, impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is NOT immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Mathew Price

My name is Andrew Gorlin, I live in Brookline, MA. I just learned about the passage of the bill in the Massachusetts senate to end qualified immunity for police officers. (The very fact that I, who closely follows the news, learned about the legislature of such importance from a friend, is truly appalling: there was no public hearing, or other discussions - just late night vote in the MA senate.)

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function - anybody, from public school teachers to senators, could find themselves frivolously sued for any action that made somebody unhappy. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified, but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

Subject: Fair and just policing for all communities

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin:

Please amend S.2820 to include Special State Police Officers' transparency. Currently, Massachusetts special state police officers are empowered with rights of policing without being accountable to the police, including BiPOC and other marginalized populations.

The lack of transparency around numbers of investigations, arrests, and arraignments means that private entities can continue with selective and unjust policing practices. My suggested language is below. Thank you for all that you do for people and animals in the Commonwealth.

SECTION 1. Chapter 66 of the General Laws, as appearing in the 2016 Official Edition, is hereby amended by inserting after section 21 the following section:-

Section 22. A document made or received by special state police officers as defined in Chapter 22C, including but not limited to, special state police officers as defined in sections 51, 56, 57, 58, and 63 shall be considered a public record under this chapter and under clause twenty-sixth of section 7 of chapter 4 and subject to all applicable exemptions.

Subject: Proposed Bill S.2820

To: The Chair of the House Committee on Ways and Means and Chair of the Joint Committee on the Judiciary

I am writing to you regarding the proposed Bill S.2820.

As being a law enforcement officer for approximately 12 years, I have seen a lot of change in this state that has brought good and bad to how we do our job daily.

I have served my country in the United States Air Force Reserve for thirteen years with multiple overseas deployments to Iraq, Afghanistan and Kuwait and also my community with the Wakefield Police Department because I care to serve and protect EVERYONE. I have worked hand and hand beside anyone to get the job done regardless of their race, color or origin.

My current position within the police department is being assigned as a School Resource Officer (SRO) for the past eight years to a twelve community technical high school with a diverse school culture and always treated everyone with the same respect.

After reading this proposed bill coming before you there are many things that need a lot more input from the everyday law enforcement representatives/officers in our great state.

This bill has been rushed through to your level based on the current movement going on throughout this country and it should not be the driving force to enact a bill like this that will negatively effect policing going forward for all citizens of the Commonwealth. Let's not forget the Commonwealth already has some of the strictest laws in the country that protects its citizens.

Currently in law enforcement we are already having trouble recruiting individuals into this job. If we continue to take away protections (ex. qualified immunity) that have been set in place to protect us from just doing our job no one will want to protect and serve our citizens. There is also the push in this bill to take away information sharing and tools we may need to do our jobs at certain times.

It is sad to see how all law enforcement officers are collectively being attacked based on the actions of the few who acted not appropriate in their position. Every profession or business sector has those few who do things not appropriate, but their actions should not discredit the whole body.

I can only hope you and your fellow House members do not pass this bill and stand behind the hardworking law enforcement officers in our state who serve and protect everyone everyday.

Respectfully,

Officer Michael Pietrantonio

Resident of Wakefield, Massachusetts

Subject: S.2820 Public testimony - concern about Police reform act

Dear House Committees on Ways and Means and Judiciary Committee,

My name is Renee Pierce and I live at 15 Woodhaven Drive in Andover Massachusetts. I write to express my concern about and opposition to Bill 2820. This bill puts law enforcement and citizens in danger!

I respect the dedication of police who choose to protect the people of Massachusetts. I understand the dangers faced and what they are up against when they head to work each day, evening and overnight shift. Though well intentioned, I do not believe that many of my neighbors are aware of the crime that does happen every day. For these reasons, they cannot imagine the need for some police protections, training, or reactions. They are insulated from crime because our police protect communities. If we do not continue to offer our officers protection and support, as they do a job that most would not attempt, we jeopardize the safety of everyone.

I believe ones experiences shape their opinions and I am a proud member of a law enforcement family. My husband is a State Trooper who has served for more than 15 years. I am also the daughter of a retired Lawrence Police officer who served for 30 years. I have seen their struggles and I have learned how scary our world can be. In the years my family has served they have been put in unthinkable situations, but still make the choice - everyday- to protect those in need and run at evil for the benefit of others.

Our police officers do not make the laws, but they are tasked with enforcing them. If we, as citizens of Massachusetts want to be safe, we need to support the effort of our officers so they can do the best job possible. I strongly believe that the bill proposed to reform police standards has the intention to make situations better for our people, but falls short and will make things worse. As a state with quality policing in place, we need to make sure that this level of policing is upheld, not diminished. Defunded police, and limiting the ability to identify and act on crime before it happens, or stop crime in process will result in less safe environments. It is the responsibility of our state government to support police policies that ensure that we continue to have educated officers that have quality training. We need to offer our law enforcement the respect they deserve and teach our community and our children to do the same.

This ultimately will result in professional officers who are skilled when interacting with the community.

Our police forces in Massachusetts are exceptional and should not be defunded or demoralized with policies that make their jobs even tougher. I restate my argument that more training and more support is what we need. It is the low income, crime-ridden cities that will first fall victim to more crime if the police presence and ability to maintain order is lessened. There will be no shortage of individuals looking to take advantage of unprotected communities because they know there are not enough police or police who cannot act with success because their power has been diminished. This bill will backfire and result in emboldened criminals, poorly staffed departments, poorly trained officers and police who may not act with conviction because they fear retaliation. This will create more problems than can be imagined. If being a police officer becomes more dangerous than it already is you will get more retirements sooner and less qualified applicants going forward.

Please do not put people at risk by passing this bill as is, which limits police response by removing qualified immunity and encourages criminals to fight back knowing police response has been stifled. Police deserve due process and access to defensive tactics that work in tough situations. Even though it is hard to imagine, bad things do happen. Criminals do exist and cause harm to innocent civilians. Finally, police oversight commissions need to include rank-and-file officers who know about the job. State police and local municipalities need to be included.

I ask that my representatives put themselves in the shoes of an officer. Go on a ride along in your city and in a city struggling with more crime than your community. I dare you to go out there and politely ask the bad guys to stop. Will that work? The good guys have to be able to do their job. It can be an ugly profession and the bad guys, in many cases, won't always listen to reason. Sometimes controlled force is necessary. Officers are asked to have countless negative interactions with the public we have to give them something positive rely on; our support, quality training and the benefit of protection when they have our best interests in mind.

The death of George Floyd was unnecessary and disgusting. His killer was wrong, his fellow officers were wrong, we are angry and upset at this ex-cop for what he did to that man and he is being brought to justice for his crime. He also might as well have pointed a gun at law enforcement. Police are now targets, officers will die and be hurt as a result, and their families will be afraid and possibly targeted.

I support funding, training and education for law enforcement and the public, I believe that those who patrol should be well informed and better prepared. We need mutual respect, quality policing and support for those men and women who go out there when bad things happen and bad people choose to hurt and hate. I hope that we get there someday.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 and treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

I would be happy to speak with you about my concerns.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Renee Pierce

A fact to consider taken from the Washington Post:

Based on the 2019 statistics -

In the United States, our nearly 700,000 police officers make 55,800,880 contacts with the public per year. Which, at the time of the last report, that led to 26,000 excessive force complaints against officers. That is 0.047% of all contacts. Only 8% of those complaints were sustained. That is 2,080 out of over 55 million contacts, or .0039%. The police are not a danger to our community!

Subject: S.2800

Good Afternoon,

My name is Kimberly Barrett and I live in Reading. As your constituent, I write to you to express my staunch opposition to S.2800, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, one, in particular, stands out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction.

Qualified Immunity does not protect problem police officers. Qualified Immunity is extended to all public employees who act reasonably and in compliance with the rules and regulations of their respective departments, not just police officers. Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously unrealistic lawsuits.

The lawsuits resulting from this, whether they're won or not, will result in personal time away from the job to attend court hearings and money lost on legal fees. This would result in MANY officers leaving their positions.

I know it would not be totally eliminated under this bill, but the rephrasing leaves much room for interpretation. For example, if an officer were to do chest compressions on someone for CPR and accidentally break their rib, would they be protected? If someone was resisting arrest and they broke their wrist in the scuffle, would the police be protected? How does this distinguish between a smaller female officer feeling as though their life is being threatened or a larger male officer?

In a society where the media and politicians are clearly against GOOD officers who are doing their job well, many people have turned their backs on police. They would jump at the opportunity to file a lawsuit against the person who arrested them.

Why the rush to push this bill through so quickly? What about public forums? Why not find a way to rephrase this that wouldn't put so many of our police officers in harm's way? Massachusetts' police are the country's best, most educated officers. That doesn't mean they're not open to reform, but it they do not deserve the treatment of this rushed, imperfect, and dangerous reform.

As a Democrat, I am extremely disappointed in my party that none of my representatives are stepping forward to voice their support in the good men and women who are serving as police officers in this state and country. Expressing gratitude toward police in a private email, while appreciated, is not public it will not help protect these innocent officers who are encountering growing hatred on the streets of the communities they serve. I strongly believe this is directly influencing many of the violent acts against police, including murders. When will someone speak up? Hopefully before it's too late.

My husband is a proud police officer. He puts his life on the line daily for people who are turning their backs on him and other men and women in blue. He's highly educated with a bachelors and a masters on the way. He is the type of officer you would want to protect and serve your community, but he puts our family first. He's ready to leave a job he's worked his whole life for because of this bill and the recent hateful actions against police. I'm sure many others will follow.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve. They're absorbing most of the blame for systematic racism of our entire society. While I would assume that it is already going to become more difficult to fill police jobs with educated, qualified individuals, instituting this rewrite on qualified immunity would make it nearly impossible to fill these positions.

Thank you,
Kimberly Barrett

To: Rep Claire Cronin & Rep Aaron Michlewitz:

We urge you to preserve and build upon the accomplishments of the Senate bill on police reform, especially the following:

- * Creating an independent and civilian-majority police certification/decertification body
- * Limiting qualified immunity so that victims of police brutality can sue for civil damages
- * Reducing the school-to-prison pipeline and removing barriers to expungement on juvenile records
- * Establishing a Justice Reinvestment Fund to move money away from policing prisons and into workforce development and education opportunities
- * Banning racial profiling by law enforcement and prohibiting police officers from having sex with those in custody, which can obviously never be consensual and is strikingly not yet illegal

We also urge you to go further than the Senate bill by:

- * Strengthening use of force standards, e.g., by outright banning chokeholds and tear gas

* Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology (rather than imposing just a one-year moratorium)

* Lifting the unnecessary cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund
* Abolish, rather than limit, the doctrine of qualified immunity -- which permits law enforcement to violate people's constitutional rights with virtual impunity.

To whom it may concern;

I write to you today regarding the proposal for S2800.

First and foremost are you aware of the standards that are in place today with regards to Police Officers in the Commonwealth? Do you know the current standards are bias and racist? Example: Two candidates take the same exact entry exam for the State Police Academy, one candidate scores a 96 on the exam the other candidate scores an 84, which candidate is chosen for the State Police Academy? The answer is the person with the skin color of black, the gender of female, or the person who has been labeled by society as anything other than a Caucasian male. How is this ethical, and how does this not violate the racism / bias that society is trying to currently combat?

I have been a part-time police officer for 21 years for the Town of West Brookfield. I have worked alongside some of the finest people I have met with every skin color, gender, religious background that one could imagine. I have never witnessed any discrimination against any citizen in the Commonwealth while working in the capacity as a sworn police officer. What I ask is very simple, do not put onto others what you would not want done to yourself. You want to limit qualified immunity for police officers, then the bill should also include the limited immunity for Judges, and every other employee of the Commonwealth including State Senators, and Representative of the house.

I certainly agree that society as a whole need to continue to adapt to changes in our world around us. However, is this bill being rushed through to make a positive difference in our society or simply appease a crowd and protests for an event that occurred over 1,000 miles away? My concern is the bill you are putting forward will force many of the officers in the Commonwealth to find alternative careers and we will lose a lot of knowledge and experience on the front lines. This bill should not be rushed through and done in haste but she be put before a study and verify what these changes will do for not only the society around us but the Police Officers who put on a uniform each and every day to make the Commonwealth a better place to live.

If you have any questions please don't hesitate to contact me.

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Kevin Zanardelli and I live at 18 Cardinal Circle, Weymouth, MA 02189. I work at Innovative Development, Inc. (Walpole, MA) and am a Director of Product Development. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I am writing in opposition to the police reform bill, specifically the limiting of qualified immunity for our police. I firmly believe these limits will endanger our communities and our police by forcing good cops to second guess their instincts out of fear that a frivolous lawsuit will cost them their home or worse. Qualified immunity is not a get out of jail free card and does not mean our police are not held accountable as is being widely reported.

Please do not follow in the footsteps of New York and handicap our officers to the point where they are afraid to do their jobs. These reforms are not working in other states, and while there are parts of the bill that we all can agree with, rushing this through to quiet a mob that bases its ideas on feelings instead of facts is a mistake. I trust you to make the right decision for the safety of the people who elected you as well as the officers who protect us.

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,
My name is John Davey and I live at 258 Arlington st Dracut. I work at MCI CONCORD and am a Sergeant. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

John Davey

Subject: Opposition to S.2800/S.2820

Dear Massachusetts State Representatives,

I am writing to you today in opposition to S.2820 (2800). As a lifelong citizen of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the daughter of two police officers who have dedicated themselves to the safety and security of Massachusetts residents (for over 24 years and 28 years), I feel this bill has been hastily written and is unfair to my parents and all women and men that serve as Law Enforcement Officers in the Commonwealth.

Please take time and use a common sense approach before passing this legislation. I call for you & your colleagues to go "on patrol" for a month with your state & local police departments. See what they face and how they interact with the public. You the law makers stand protected while the law enforcement officers risk their lives every day. You protect yourself with immunity and want to take it away from police officers. I don't know a lot about qualified immunity but I do know the women and men in blue suit up for their shifts not knowing who or what they will face and have to make split second decisions to protect themselves and the public. I've heard plenty of awful stories over the years growing up. Yet my parents and their co-workers continue to protect the community and give of themselves by raising money for organizations like Cops for Kids with Cancer or serving the less fortunate at food pantries on Saturday mornings.

What happened in Minneapolis is a disgrace! Why are the Law Enforcement Officers in Massachusetts paying for the failures of officers halfway across the country? You feel the need to do something? That something should be well thought out. If not, you will see those that can retire will be gone ASAP. Some will quit and those that stay will only respond to an emergency. New recruits? There won't be any because it's a thankless job. Is that what you really want?

For the first time in my life, I do not feel my safety is a priority. My views do not align with the message to "defund the police" yet I can't vocalize that for fear of reprisal. You, your children, your husbands and wives, your mothers and fathers, your brothers and sisters...you're all at risk as I am, along with the rest of the law abiding citizens in the Commonwealth.

I pray you do not destroy law and order for your family or for the citizens of the Commonwealth or for my family and for generations to come. Please, I implore you to vote "no" on S.2820.

Thank you,

Dear distinguished members of the House of Representatives
I am a 25 year veteran of the Worcester Police Department and member of the NEPBA local 911. I am contacting you today seeking your support in the issues of qualified immunity , due process, arbitration, and having members on the POSAC Board to contain people with a background and experience in law enforcement.
This is not a time for knee jerk reactions but rather a time for well thought out plans. I feel that Massachusetts law enforcement has always been ahead of the curve in many of the issues facing our profession today. I ask that you don't make judgments on Massachusetts officers based on what's happening in other parts of the country.

Thank you for your time and look forward to your support.

Subject: Testimony

To My Senate:

I am writing with great concern regarding MA House of Representatives Bill #5128. If your goal is to "build a more EQUITABLE, fair, and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color" you are gravely mistaken that this is the solution.

While there are many elements to this bill that cause great concern and quite frankly shock, I will focus my effort in explaining what I feel would be most damaging.

SAY NO TO #8 No more tear gas, rubber bullets, pepper spray, or K9's against another person.

Unless you are prepared and desire a max exodus, you must seriously reconsider what you are proposing. K9's are never deployed for apprehensions unless they are absolutely necessary. MA has the best K9 trainer in the US, Troy Caisey, who has dedicated his life and career to training dogs and their handlers from all over NE. He leads each and every handler to value the rights of ALL and to utilize their K9's abilities in apprehension only when necessary. Our K9 teams are the BEST in the country, due to his work and dedication. When his students graduate and certify, they sign on to a continued monthly training education for the life of the team. He makes himself available for support 24/7, far exceeding his position's expectations.

How do I know? Why do I care? Do I have anything to lose? I have been working with Troy for over 10 years now, breeding, raising, and training German Shepherds and Malinois for the region. I have countless dogs working in the Northeast as certified department K9's who are saving lives every day. Who's lives are they saving? Sometimes they are saving our officers, sometimes they are saving civilians, and sometimes they are even saving criminals' lives. If EQUITY is what you are striving for, K9's are absolutely the most special tool that we must preserve. While no one likes force, sometimes it is absolutely necessary. A dog bite doesn't kill and the pain inflicted is temporary and benign when compared to that sustained by a bullet or a stun gun.

For anyone who questions my agenda in my opposition of this bill, supposing that I am writing in concern of protecting income, I will have you know that raising and training police dogs is not a profitable venture. We do it because we truly care about giving back to our community. K9's are an invaluable asset to everyone in the commonwealth.

Please, if nothing else, think hard about the key word "equitable" in this proposed MA bill. To rush such a bill, with how it is currently written, will guarantee that that safety for all will NOT be equitable for our officers.

Subject: OPPOSE S.2820

To whom ever it may concern,

I am offering my testimony in regards to bill S.2820:

WHAT DOES THE PROPOSED POLICE REFORM BILL DO?

The proposed massive Police Reform Bill IS NOT BASED ON MASSACHUSETTS performance history and NOT BASED ON MASSACHUSETTS DATA.

The proposed bill will destroy the morale of our police departments, will put our officers' safety at great risk, and will expose them and their families to personal liability, will generate thousands of frivolous lawsuits to be paid for with taxpayer money, and even has provisions to pay the lawyer's fees for people who sue our communities.

For example - the legislation:

- ? Creates and funds at least 6 new Agencies, Commissions or Committees
- ? Eliminates Civil Service Protection only for Law Enforcement Officers; (Sections 41-43)
- ? Prohibits School Department Personnel from Providing Information to Law Enforcement regarding gang activity and affiliation; (Section 49)
- ? Expands the rights of individuals convicted of multiple crimes to expunge records of those crimes

? Requires that a lengthy record (receipt) be generated related to virtually any interaction between a police officer and a member of the public; (Section 52)

? Creates - but does not fund - mandates upon municipalities to gather, track, organize and report data, as well as unfunded training mandates; (Section 52)

? Creates a Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to govern the conduct of police and judge police officer conduct but - unlike every other professional licensing board - is made up of individuals nominated by groups which openly advocate against law enforcement. It would be similar to staffing the Board of Pharmacy with anti-vaccine advocates or staffing a medical board with lawyers who sue doctors. The Board of Plumbers is made up by a majority of plumbers. The Board of Accountancy is made of by a majority of Accountants. Same goes for nurses, electricians, etc. Law Enforcement should be no different and the committee that can take away our careers should not be populated with nominees that include law firms who claim to have made millions suing cities and towns and their police departments (Lawyers for Civil Rights, Inc.) or the ACLU. (Section 6).

? This bill effectively eliminates collective bargaining rights for police officers - the employees that need it most given the difficulty of their job. This anti-labor, anti-employee bill essentially removes (only for police) the right to be disciplined only where there is just cause - a right enjoyed by virtually every other public employee in our state. (Section 6)

? This bill creates a cottage industry for lawyers and another unfunded mandate upon Cities and Towns by greatly expanding liability on municipalities and officers. Under this Bill, every time a Court grants a motion to suppress evidence - because of any technical violation of the Fourth Amendment for instance - a per se violation of the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act will be created. The proposed Bill even provides for attorney fees to prosecute these actions. (Section 9). Even officers acting in good faith will be liable.

? This bill purports to regulate the Use of Force by Law Enforcement Officers without any recognition that police officers often must make split second decisions, often under extreme stress. Good faith actions will result in lawsuits and can result in the loss of a career. Even if those actions were deemed appropriate by an internal or District Attorney's review, the new committee can decide on their own to end a career. Nowhere in the bill is there acknowledgement that the reasonableness or necessity of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene and not from the perspective afforded by 20/20 hindsight. (Section 55). It is easy to make decisions in the comfort of a lawyer's office with the benefit of video, hindsight and knowledge of the actual outcome of an event. The law has recognized for years that hindsight judgment is unfair and not practical for the officer who may be faced with life or death situations in the heat of the moment.

The senate bill is an ANTI LABOR bill thats supporting the elimination of Collective Bargaining & the right to Due Process and is a major flaw and goes against the states platform as always being labor/union supporters.

DO NOT OVERLOOK THE SUCCESS OF MASSACHUSETTS POLICING

Don't believe the misinformation about the alleged need for emergency police reform here in Massachusetts - in reality, Massachusetts is a success story on Police Training and use of force results - even according those groups advocating national police reform. Our educated police force, competitive wages and mandatory training have produced excellent results.

For example, Massachusetts is among the very best in the nation when it comes to police use of deadly force:

? Massachusetts has one of the lowest annual rates for deadly use of force incidents in the Nation - at only 1.2 incidents per million people.

? Massachusetts Cities have excellent records when it comes to deadly force - In Worcester, there have been ZERO deaths caused by police since 2013 (excluding a taser related incident which was ruled a drug overdose) - in fact, Worcester has an annual citizen complaint rate of only .0002% out of 140,000 calls for service. In Lowell, there has been only one police related death (justified) in that same time period.

? During this span, the police have successfully handled many millions of calls for help, often involving, volatile and violent individuals, without incident.

? Most Massachusetts Towns have had no law enforcement related deaths during the tracked time period.

? When anti-police groups present data of people killed by police, they include people like the Boston Marathon Bomber, and others who murdered police officers during incidents.

Before passing a bill creating new state agencies and destroy the morale and success of our public safety officers - is it too much to ask that you first take a look at how police in Massachusetts are performing? Have you looked at your own constituencies - the Towns in your district to see what needs changing, and what is working?

Respectfully,

To whom it may concern,

You have probably received many emails similar to mine and I thank you for taking the time to read this.

My name is Michael C. Anderson and I have been employed as a Police Officer by the Town of Andover for 11 years. I moved to Andover in third grade from the City of Lawrence , graduated from Andover High School and decided to enter into public service. My wife, whom I met in college Fifteen years ago, decided two years ago to quit her private sector job and become a civil servant at the age of 34. Her decision to take the civil service exam to become a Police Officer was solely based on how she saw how the Andover Police Department truly cares, implements and impacts the lives of people in the community. She has been a Police Officer in the Town Of North Andover for the past two years.

The amount of training along with standards from both state and individual departments, holding Officers to the highest standards is something that can only be experienced first hand. I can assure you that this new bill will completely eliminate the level of customer service, respect and professionalism that the public expects and demands from Police Officers.

This bill is turning away very qualified applicants who are dreaming of careers in Policing and others that have invested the majority of their life to a career that is for the greater good to retire prematurely.

Understand the passing of this bill is going to completely change Policing forever... for the worse.

As a 75yo life long citizen of MA, I am respectfully requesting that you vote against the proposed removal of police immunity. I feel that they deserve a certain amount of respect and support. The majority of officers in MA, are college educated, many with advanced degrees. They take their jobs very seriously and put their lives in danger every time they leave their homes and families to report for duty. This is not Minneapolis. Even Pres. Obama related to the excellent manner in which our police depts. perform. I believe he was referring to Boston specifically. Training programs in our region are very rigorous. I feel that residents in the inner city will suffer more with a reduction of staff. New York is experiencing many murders as a result, a one year old baby was killed in the crossfire last night. I fear the changes that may come as a result of the passage of this bill, more than I do the Corona Virus!

Chairman Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

Your act to reform police standards and shift resources is both irresponsible and reckless given the dangerous climate and number of police "executions" we have seen over the past six weeks. The fact that you would even consider such a shift in police policy, demonstrates how very little regard you have for their occupation and how little value you place on their lives and those of their families. The fact that they put their lives on the line each and every day to keep you and the rest of the community safe, regardless of the race of those they protect and serve, should certainly make you reevaluate your dangerous and feckless decision.

There is good and bad in every profession, but the oath taken by police officers to keep the community safe, cannot be upheld if resources are denied and protocols and training challenged which have up to this time been effective in keeping the population safe. You obviously feel the welfare of the citizens of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is not important.

This bill is a big disappointment.

My name is David Holzman. I live at 603 South Street, Apt. 1, Roslindale, MA 02131. I urge you to SUPPORT POLICE REFORM by: preserving and building on the accomplishments of Senate Bill 2820:

- * Creating an independent and civilian-majority police certification/decertification body
- * Limiting qualified immunity so that victims of police brutality can sue for civil damages
- * Reducing the school-to-prison pipeline and removing barriers to expungement on juvenile records
- * Establishing a Justice Reinvestment Fund to move money away from policing prisons and into workforce development and education opportunities
- * Banning racial profiling by law enforcement and prohibiting police officers from having sex with those in custody, which can obviously never be consensual and is strikingly not yet illegal

Go further than the Senate bill by

- * Strengthening use of force standards, e.g., by outright banning chokeholds and tear gas
- * Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology (rather than imposing just a one-year moratorium)
- * Lifting the unnecessary cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund

Thank you in advance,

Subject: Fwd: S2820 Act to reform police standards

Dear Representative Michlewitz and Representative Claire Cronin,

I hope this email finds you both well. I am writing relative to S2820 An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color. The following is an outline of the issues I have concerning this Act.

* 1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety

The false narrative that Qualified Immunity (QI) prevents the public from suing Police Officers and holding them accountable which dominated the senate debate masked provisions in the bill which will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues.

Not only will the unintended and unnecessary changes to QI hamstring police officers in the course of their duties due the fact that they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions but hidden in the bill are various provisions which will protect drug dealers, human traffickers, gang activity in minority neighborhood schools, organized retail theft and terrorists.

* 2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and professional participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally non transparent.

The original version of the bill was over 70 pages, had hundreds of changes to public safety sections of the general laws and sound public policy sections, it was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for the members to digest/caucus and receive public comment thus creating a process which was a sham.

* 3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased.

The senate created a board that is dominated by groups who have stated anti law enforcement biases and preconceived punitive motives toward police. The board as proposed is unlike any other of the 160 professional regulatory boards in the Commonwealth that the Black and Latino Caucus and its individual members as well as the Governor repeatedly and publicly stated should be used as the example of the model to be used. Its composition is fundamentally incapable of providing regulatory due process. Furthermore, the proposed members are completely devoid of sufficient experience in law enforcement to create training policies and standards unlike members of the other 160 professional boards.

* 4. Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques which all police personnel unequivocally support.

Once we have uniform standards and policies and the statutory banning of use of force techniques both the officers and the individual citizens will know what is reasonable and have a clear picture of what conduct is a violation of a citizen's rights and that conduct cannot be protected by QI.

This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets.

• 5. Police officers are already subjected to suits and suits that are successful when their conduct warrants it. There is no legitimate need to change the law particularly when we get uniform standards

I would like to thank you for your consideration of my concerns.

Have a great day.

Thanks for responding. It is still very unclear what they did with qualified immunity. They actually stated they were worried about the nurses, teachers and firefighters. What that paints a picture of is that no one cares about us, we are all bigots, useless criminals in their eyes. I thought the meeting was shady and wrong. Here is an example that someone could now sue me for and take my home.

I respond to a patient having a heart attack, I do cpr, that person dies. The family thinks I didn't do it good enough because he was still breathing when I got there. They sue me.

A domestic violence call. Guy/girl is beating up their significant other. You intervene, the significant other is now mad you arrested them and that you came into their home without permission. They sue me

Anyone with enough money and hatred towards police can sue for anything. It will be a vicious cycle. They may not win in court but lawyers cost money and we don't get paid all that much money. My base salary to put on a Kevlar vest everyday, deal with today's media, work nights weekends and holidays is 50k. A teacher makes about 70k to work 9 months out of the year with weekends and holidays off.

Much more people die of medical malpractice every year then people killed by police. Guilty or innocent. We have a duty to act and taking away our qualified immunity in anyway, puts a real pause on what officers are going to do. Traffic accidents are going to skyrocket because cops are not going to want to pull cars over and be sued because someone thinks they got pulled over because of the color of their skin.

This is real and this is scary for us. Not one officer would tell you different. That's how I know Sen. hinds did not speak to any street cops.

Thank you for your time.

Joseph Lencki Quincy Police Dept. cell #617-827-7961

I am a 23 year veteran of the Quincy Police Dept and currently hold the rank of Sergeant. First off I condemn the actions of the Minneapolis Police Officers who killed George Floyd and their actions as I am sure most of you know are not representative of 99.9 percent of police officers in America today. Bill #S2820 as presently crafted will prevent good police officers from doing their jobs. To eliminate or change qualified immunity for police officers would cause a chilling effect on policing and the ability for our profession to protect the public when needed. I am not against POST licensing and increased transparency in policing as long as these as these new measures are implemented fairly to both the public and the police officer. Police Officers need to retain their due process rights just like any other citizen and should have a right of appeal if they are de-certified. A convicted first degree murderer has a right of appeal however under this bill a police officer will not. I have worked many of the protests in Boston and the surrounding communities and the vile / obscene language that has been yelled at me and my fellow officers is not being reported by the press and is described as "peaceful". I have also been spit at and had bottles thrown at me. I believe history will look back at this time of demonizing all police officers as disgraceful and comparable to when the Vietnam Veterans returned home and were vilified. As a supervisor in Quincy I am making daily decisions on a vast array of public safety incidents including Domestic Violence and Mental Illness. I shudder at the thought that me and my family could be financially ruined for any of these good faith decisions I make on a daily basis. With the increased scrutiny on police officers I think any police reform bill should mandate that all police officers in Massachusetts wear body cameras to protect them from false allegations. Body cameras would also provide a better picture to the public on what officers have to deal with on a day by day basis. Moral among Massachusetts police officers is at an all time low and I hope you will listen to our concerns about this bill. My family, friends and neighbors will be watching closely on how our representatives will vote on this issue. I hope you will vote against this bill in it's present form. Please don't hesitate to call me if you want to discuss this issue further.

Thank-you Joseph Lencki

Subject: Public Safety is in jeopardy

? Dear Representatives :

My name is Steve Flaherty and I live in Burlington . I write to you to express my support for our many first responders who put their lives on the line for the Commonwealth every single day. As the House and Senate consider legislation revolving around public safety, and in particular police reform, I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity - legal safeguards that have been established over decades and refined by the some of the greatest legal minds our country has known. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability. Qualified immunity is the baseline for all government officials and critical to the efficient and enthusiastic performance of their duties. Qualified immunity is not a complete shield against liability - egregious acts are afforded no protection under the qualified immunity doctrine. Further, qualified immunity is civil in nature and provides no protection in a criminal prosecution. The United States Supreme Court and the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts through numerous cases have continued to uphold the value and necessity of qualified immunity. To remove or modify without deliberative thought and careful examination of consequence, both intended and unintended, is dangerous.

Due Process and Qualified Immunity are well settled in the law and sound public policy dictates that the Legislature not disturb these standards - certainly not in this bill so abruptly and certainly not without a vigorous debate both in the Legislature and in the court of public opinion.

We must remain focused on passing legislation that includes a standards and training system to certify officers, establish clear guidelines on the use of force by police across all Massachusetts departments, to include a duty to intervene, and put in place mechanisms for the promotion of diversity. This does not detract or reject other reforms, but rather prioritizes those that can be accomplished before the end of this legislative session on July 31 <x-apple-data-detectors://8> st <x-apple-data-detectors://8> . <x-apple-data-detectors://8>

Please join me in demanding nothing less than sound, well-reasoned and forward-thinking legislation.

Thank you for your consideration.

Rep. Mark, Rep. Barret, Rep. Farley-Bouvier, Rep. Pignatelli,

I am taking the time to write to each of you, the Berkshire County Delegation to our Massachusetts House of Representatives, because although I am a Dalton Resident, my 30+ years in law enforcement has been spent in all the towns in this county, to include each of which you all serve. From my time as a Massachusetts Environmental Police Officer covering South County to my time in both the Lee and Cheshire Barracks as well as in the Berkshire County District Attorney's Office, I have had the opportunity to work with each of you toward the betterment of the residents of this county. It is for this reason that I write to all of you regarding S.2800: The Police Reform Bill which will soon be presented to the House after its passage in the Senate. I implore each of you to take a long hard look at this bill and the provisions that were included in it. I am 100% in favor of change and feel we need it within our ranks. Unfortunately S.2800 fails to properly address these needs in a way that will benefit both the public and the officers themselves.

I have been in law enforcement since 1988, with the majority of my career being spent here in the Berkshires. I was a member of the U.S. Coast Guard, a local police officer, a member of the Massachusetts Environmental Police, and am currently a member of the Massachusetts State Police. I was the lead defensive tactics/use of force instructor at the Massachusetts Municipal Police Training Academy and at the Massachusetts State Police Academy for over 10 years and have been deemed an expert by the courts in its application and use. I have given opinion and testimony for both the prosecution and defense in cases involving officer use of force. I was a narcotics officer assigned to the Berkshire Narcotics Unit and have conducted hundreds of investigations with the county. As a patrol officer I have had tens of thousands of encounters with the citizen of the Commonwealth. So I write to you from a position of experience and expertise in this specific area.

Police Training needs to be revamped. Police officers do not receive enough training in the use and application of force. Due to budget constraints, more and more information is being added to the basic training curriculum but the hours required is not changing. As the lead use of force instructor, I was dismayed as the hours dedicated to use of force training was continually cut back to accommodate other needs in both the academy and in service settings. Officers are currently trained in de-escalation techniques and in the application of proper force but are not given the time to properly become proficient in such techniques. This discipline requires practice and muscle memory. When someone is attacking, an officer does not have time to refer to a book to look up a proper response. It must be quick and instinctual. Think of how long it takes to acquire a black belt in martial arts...years. I was asked to make "black belts" of officers in less than 40 hours. This lack of knowledge is causing officers to react to situations with fear and emotion not confidence. When decisions are made out of fear and emotion, they are not usually good ones. We need to train officers better...now. I fully support mandated training, accreditation, and oversight.

I would apply this same thought process to S.2800. It is a bill that was hastily put together out of fear and emotion. While it's intent is a step in the right direction, its content has serious flaws that will have negative impacts on the future of Massachusetts; not just in policing but in the shape of the future of the entire Commonwealth.

What is Qualified Immunity and Why is it Important? One major part of S.2800, one that was fiercely debated in the Senate, centered around the limiting of Qualified Immunity for Police Officers. The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court addressed this issue in the case of Rodrigues v. Furtado, 410 Mass. 878: 575 N.E.2d 1124 (Mass. 1991). The Legislature, in enacting the SCRA, [State Civil Rights Act, G.L. c. 12, §§ 11H, 11I] intended to adopt the standard of immunity for public officials developed under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 (1988). Duarte v. Healy, 405 Mass. 43, 46, 537 N.E.2d 1230 (1989). The United States Supreme Court has held that most public officials who exercise [410 Mass. 882] discretionary functions are entitled to qualified immunity from liability for damages under § 1983. Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818, 102 S.Ct. 2727 2738, 73 L.Ed.2d 396 (1982).<sup>5</sup> The Court in Harlow concluded that "government officials performing discretionary functions generally are shielded from liability for civil damages insofar as their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known." The Court explained that qualified immunity is a necessary compromise between the need to provide remedies to individuals whose constitutional rights have been violated and the necessity of protecting public officials from "[i]substantial lawsuits" which may deter them from carrying out their official responsibilities. Id. at 814, 102

In Massachusetts, judges and prosecutors enjoy complete protection from liability for their official discretion under the principle of absolute immunity. So, even if completely wrong in bringing a case forward or in making a ruling on a motion or finding guilt or innocence, the judge or prosecutor cannot be sued for damages. Judges and prosecutors, in safe environments with hours, days, and weeks to make decisions enjoy complete immunity while police officers on the streets, in the midst of chaos, confusion, and violence with only seconds to decide, are now, if Senate Bill S.2800 passes, to be deprived of the limited immunity offered by qualified immunity. This immunity also covers many other public officials such as town clerks, selectmen, mayors, and various city and town board members. This provision of the bill is a knee-jerk reaction by some of your colleagues seeking political cover who, for their own political survival, are willing to endanger public safety and abandon loyal public servants by exposing them to financial and career ruin. Of note, private persons are entitled to qualified immunity when carrying out acts at the request of the police that would normally be executed by the police. In the Rodriques v. Furtado case above, the doctor who performed the body cavity search pursuant to a search warrant obtained by the police officer was granted qualified immunity along with the officer and was not held liable. So this provision in the bill does not just affect the police. Another point; the clerk-magistrate who issued the search warrant for the body cavity search enjoyed absolute immunity and was never even sued.

I honestly believe that any police officer must be held accountable for any violation of the public's trust. The officers involved in the George Floyd case were wrong and need to be prosecuted. What the public does not understand is that it is not qualified or absolute immunity that alleviates police officers from responsibility of wrongdoing. Police are criminally judged based on case law such as Graham vs. Connor 490 U.S. 386 (1989) that sets the standard for police conduct and use of force. Qualified immunity helps protect those officers that are doing it right and does not protect those that are doing it wrong.

I would like to bring up another point regarding this topic. Following the February 2018 shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Florida, some students claimed local government officials were at fault for failing to provide protection to students. The students filed suit, naming six defendants, including the Broward school district and the Broward Sheriff's Office, as well as school deputy Scot Peterson and campus monitor Andrew Medina. Last year, a federal judge ruled that the government agencies "had no constitutional duty to protect students who were not in custody."

That decision adds to a growing body of case law establishing that government agencies – including police agencies – have no duty to provide protection to citizens in general. To quote Darren L. Hutchinson, a professor and associate dean at the University of Florida School of Law, "Neither the Constitution, nor state law, impose a general duty upon police officers or other governmental officials to protect individual persons from harm – even when they know the harm will occur. Police can watch someone attack you, refuse to intervene and not violate the Constitution."

The US Supreme Court has made it clear that law enforcement agencies are not required to provide protection to the citizens who are forced to pay the police for their "services." In the cases DeShaney vs. Winnebago and Town of Castle Rock vs. Gonzales, the Supreme Court has ruled that police agencies are not obligated to provide protection of citizens. In other words, police are well within their rights to pick and choose when to intervene to protect the lives and property of others – even when a threat is apparent. In both of these court cases, clear and repeated threats were made against the safety of children – but government agencies chose to take no action. So what happens when the protections provided by the law under doctrines such as qualified immunity are taken away and the courts have ruled that the police are actually more protected if they don't act than if they do act? Officers won't act. They won't put themselves in a position of personal liability if they believe that the action they take, although legal and justified at the time, may lead to frivolous litigation. It's a very dangerous slope we are staring down.

Another point to consider is that I firmly believe that no person should be appointed as a police officer until the age of 25. I have seen various forms of legislation where the request is to raise the age of criminal responsibility above the current age of 18, citing that most persons do not mature or obtain rational thought until the age of 25. Yet we are allowing them to make life altering decisions as a police officer at age 21. We are giving them a gun without the life experience needed to make these decisions. Raising the minimum age allows future candidate to complete college or military service before joining the law enforcement ranks. This gives them valuable knowledge to fall back on in the exercise of their powers.

For the last 30 years I have put on my uniform and protected the citizens of Berkshire County and now I am asking that you help protect me by carefully considering some of what I have discussed here when the Police Reform Bill comes before each of you in the House. Thank you for your time, consideration, and for your service in these trying times. Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions regarding the above.

Stripping Law Enforcement of qualified immunity takes away their protection and due process. This state is in for some tough times if that happens. It would be safer for police and fire to do the bare minimum if this bill is passed and the public deserves more!!

Do NOT pass this bill!!!

Subject: RE: [External]: Police Reform

Paul,

Thank you for taking the time to read over my emails and for your response.

Yes, the portion of S.2800 you referenced is a portion of the legislation that deals with the issue of qualified immunity. There are a couple of facets regarding this. First is the current statute under MGL Ch12 section 11H which reads:

Section 11H. Whenever any person or persons, whether or not acting under color of law, interfere by threats, intimidation or coercion, or attempt to interfere by threats, intimidation or coercion, with the exercise or enjoyment by any other person or persons of rights secured by the constitution or laws of the United States, or of rights secured by the constitution or laws of the commonwealth, the attorney general may bring a civil action for injunctive or other appropriate equitable relief in order to protect the peaceable exercise or enjoyment of the right or rights secured. Said civil action shall be brought in the name of the commonwealth and shall be instituted either in the superior court for the county in which the conduct complained of occurred or in the superior court for the county in which the person whose conduct complained of resides or has his principal place of business.

If the attorney general prevails in an action under this section, the attorney general shall be entitled to: (i) an award of compensatory damages for any aggrieved person or entity; and (ii) litigation costs and reasonable attorneys' fees in an amount to be determined by the court. In a matter involving the interference or attempted interference with any right protected by the constitution of the United States or of the commonwealth, the court may also award civil penalties against each defendant in an amount not exceeding $5,000 for each violation.

So, the current civil rights protections as referenced in the above statute are written into S.2800 as referenced under Section 11I below. As noted, Section 11H calls for compensation for any litigation for which the attorney general prevails in a case of a violation of one's civil rights. I attached the above since it is referenced in the pending legislation.

As proposed in S.2800

Section 11I. (a) A person whose exercise or enjoyment of rights secured by the constitution or laws of the United States or the constitution or laws of the commonwealth has been interfered with, or attempted to be interfered with, as described in section 11H may institute and prosecute in their own name and on their own behalf a civil action for injunctive and other appropriate equitable relief as provided for in said section 11H, including the award of compensatory money damages. A person who prevails in an action authorized by this subsection shall be entitled to an award of the costs of the litigation and reasonable attorneys' fees in an amount to be determined by the court.

(b) A person whose exercise or enjoyment of rights secured by the constitution or laws of the United States or the constitution or laws of the commonwealth has been interfered with by a person or entity acting under color of any statute, ordinance, regulation, custom or usage of the commonwealth or, or a subdivisions thereof, may institute and prosecute in their own name and on their own behalf a civil action for injunctive and other appropriate relief, including the award of compensatory monetary damages. An action under this subsection shall be instituted either in the superior court for the county in which the conduct complained of occurred or in the superior court for the county in which the person or entity whose conduct complained of resides or has a principal place of business. A person who prevails by obtaining significant relief after the filing of an action under this subsection shall be entitled to an award of the costs of litigation and reasonable attorneys' fees in an amount to be determined by the court.

(c) In an action under this section, qualified immunity shall not apply to claims for monetary damages except upon a finding that, at the time the conduct complained of occurred, no reasonable defendant could have had reason to believe that such conduct would violate the law.

Above lies the problem. In the wording of S.2800 it allows for the filing of civil and criminal legal action against any person that the plaintiff believes has interfered with their civil rights. I believe this dangerous wording begins to open the door to where any person who thinks that their rights have been violated can begin legal proceedings without an investigation or without just cause. In my many years, I wish I had kept a running count of the number of times I have heard, "I'm going to sue you" or "I'm going to have your job", not because I was wrong in my actions but because they were retaliatory statements made by people who simply did not like the fact that they had been arrested for the crime to which they committed. I read this statute as providing an avenue to such retaliation. We have had discussions before about how the courts are currently overwhelmed and with the COVID-19 issue, it will be even worse. Imagine now how this will affect the court system with the number of frivolous lawsuits that this could potentially generate.

In looking at section (c), I believe the key word to be "reasonable". Who will decide what conduct is reasonable and whether it applies to qualified immunity? This is a sticking point with many police officers in that the reasonableness standard for those in the profession is found under Graham vs. Connor 490 U.S. 386 (1989), where the Court determined that an objective reasonableness standard should apply to a civilian's claim that law enforcement officials used excessive force in the course of making an arrest, investigatory stop, or other "seizure" of his person. This reasonable officer's standard is often misunderstood and misinterpreted. Even though it has been often tested, many do not agree with what is, through police policy, statute law, and case law, a reasonable officer's response to situations. Because of this, the reaction of officers in these situations will be subdued, knowing that if they take an action that they believe to be within their right as an officer of the law, that they will be brought into litigation based upon the wording of this statute. They will be sued in court and then will have to sweat through knowing that if, their actions are found unreasonable, that they then will be personally liable for monetary damages. As I mentioned in a previous email to you and the other members of the Berkshire Delegation, based upon the federal court rulings, officers will be protected more for not acting than to act. I have spoken with many officers regarding this and, in general, they are losing efficiency and enthusiasm because of the threat of frivolous lawsuits. They also feel that they are losing faith in their leaders to stand beside them and represent their interests. S.2800 has taken a toll on the morale of many in the ranks.

In my humble opinion, Section 11I was added to S.2800 as an attempt to appease those who want police to pay (both literally and figuratively) for their actions. It was drawn up out of emotion and put forth with little study or regard. While the original wording was disappointing, it was even more disappointing that the Senate refused to reverse this error by failing to adopt Amendment 137 which stated, "A special Commission will be convened to study qualified immunity, consisting of four (4) legal experts in the relevant areas of qualified immunity and its impacts on public safety appointed by the Governor, the Senate President, the Speaker of the House, the Chairs of the Ways and Means Committees, and the House and Senate minority leaders, and a designee of the Supreme Judicial Court is hereby created. The Commission shall study the issues of qualified immunity and file a report with the House and Senate Clerks within 180 days from its creation". This commission could have answered relative questions regarding this matter. Questions such as how often is the state sued and how often is qualified or absolute immunity used? Who benefits the most from qualified immunity? What case laws have addressed qualified immunity and is there already wording in place that provides better protection? I know other officers and I would welcome such a commission.

I once again thank you for taking the time out of your busy schedule to address this issue with me. We need change. We need to do things better, I agree. But we should not be taking away, we should be giving officers better training and more tools (knowledge) to properly serve the public.

Glenn

Thank you for this, I appreciate it and put a lot of weight into it. I know you have been an advocate to me for reform many times and I respect your service and concern for the community.

I do not think the Senate followed a great process, I don't like the rush and having votes overnight into 4am. That being said, I looked over the bill and this seems to be the relevant line on qualified immunity.

"(c) In an action under this section, qualified immunity shall not apply to claims for monetary damages except upon a finding that, at the time the conduct complained of occurred, no reasonable defendant could have had reason to believe that such conduct would violate the law..."

The House version, if there is one, may not contain any of this. But assuming that there is, what I am reading is that they are not trying to make a blanket end to qualified immunity. It seems more like they are adding a guideline in statute to clarify when it would not apply, and that seems to be in very limited cases where the defendant was clearly doing something they knew was illegal. If you have thoughts on that, if that seems reasonable or not, and if not what a better way to proceed is, I would greatly appreciate hearing them.

Thanks for the time. Hope you are staying safe during these crazy times.

Deal Paul,

Hope you are well in these crazy times. Although I know the Police Reform Bill is being debated in the Senate, it is my understanding that the House is drafting its own bill, which I assume will either be joined with the Senate version or debated within your own chambers. From our past conversations, you know that I am all for reform as it is needed on many levels. I fully support a change in the way police are trained, accredited, monitored, and are held accountable for their actions. I support an oversight committee, changes to laws that place minorities and those of low income at a distinct disadvantage (if you remember our conversation regarding the changing MGL Ch.90 sec 23 from criminal penalties to civil penalties), and better training for police officers, especially when it comes to dealing with de-escalation of confrontations. I recently emailed Senator Hines regarding the Senate Bill and cc'd you in that email.

What worries me in the Senate version of the Police Reform Bill is the removal of police officer's eligibility for qualified immunity. I would ask that you not support this if it were to come before the House. I am hearing that this push comes from citizens wanting police to be held accountable for their actions and the misinformation that qualified immunity takes away this accountability. This is false. Qualified immunity is the baseline for all government officials and critical to the efficient and enthusiastic performance of their duties. Qualified immunity is not a complete shield against liability - egregious acts are afforded no protection under the qualified immunity doctrine. Further, qualified immunity is civil in nature and provides no protection in a criminal prosecution. The United States Supreme Court and the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, through numerous cases, have continued to uphold the value and necessity of qualified immunity. To remove or modify without deliberative thought and careful examination of consequence, both intended and unintended, is dangerous.

As you know, I honestly believe that any police officer must be held accountable for any violation of the public's trust. The officers involved in the George Floyd case were wrong and need to be prosecuted. What the public does not understand is that it is not qualified or absolute immunity that alleviates police officers from responsibility of wrongdoing. Police are criminally judged based on case law such as Graham vs. Connor, that sets the standard for police conduct and use of force. Qualified immunity helps protect those officers that are doing it right and does not protect those that are doing it wrong.

As we have spoken about, I have been a law enforcement officer in Massachusetts for over 30 years. Every day, I have proudly put on my uniform and served the citizens of Berkshire County to the best of my abilities. This is the scariest time of my career. I leave my home fearful of the attacks that we in law enforcement are continually facing; the physical and emotional attacks and now, with such a legislative move, the potential of an attack by frivolous litigation that will affect me and my ability to support my family. Again, I ask that you not support any portion of a bill that takes qualified immunity away from my profession. As always, please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions or comments regarding this or any other legislation.

Thank you,

Glenn Lagerwall

Subject: Action on Reform, Shift, + Build Act

Hello,

My name is Sam Marchesi. I am a resident of Boston, MA and I unequivocally support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800).

Massachusetts has always been on the forefront of states passing legislation to support its constituents, and we've never shied away from decisions that seemed radical at the time. I feel a great sense of pride to be a resident of Boston. I have always been proud of - and bragged about - MA being the first state to legalize gay marriage, and I hope to see us continue to make the right choices ahead of the curve and set the standard. It's time to eliminate qualified immunity, ban chokeholds, reallocate state funds to communities disproportionately impacted by the criminal justice system, and allow the Mass AG to file lawsuits against discriminatory police departments.

I hope to see this legislation pass so I can continue to be a proud resident.

Thank you,
Sam

Subject: Regarding S2820

Dear Massachusetts House of Representatives,

When voting or amending the Senate bill 2820, please consider the following for preserving what has already been placed in the bill:

- * Creating an independent and civilian-majority police certification/decertification body
- * Limiting qualified immunity so that victims of police brutality can sue for civil damages

- * Reducing the school-to-prison pipeline and removing barriers to expungement on juvenile records
- * Establishing a Justice Reinvestment Fund to move money away from policing prisons and into workforce development and education opportunities
- * Banning racial profiling by law enforcement

Please go further than the Senate bill by proposing the following amendments:

- * Strengthening use of force standards, e.g., by outright banning chokeholds and tear gas
- * Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology (rather than imposing just a one-year moratorium)
- * Lifting the unnecessary cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund

These are important revisions to our vision of law enforcement in the Commonwealth to provide equal treatment, reduce systemic racism of the judicial system, and to fully support black and brown people and recognize their rights that for so long have been ignored or trampled on

Best,

Subject: Police Reform

Hi my name is Andrew Sluckis I have been the Chief of Police in Auburn for the past 15 years, a position I still hold. First, let me say thank you for accepting written public comment it is very much appreciated.

Personally, I have no issue with most of the proposed legislation such as certification or banning choke holds. Officer certification is the norm in a lot of states I see no reason why Massachusetts can't do that as well. Regarding choke holds, we here in Massachusetts don't teach them and don't use them. In my 33 years in law enforcement I have never seen one used.

With respect to qualified immunity, that must remain in place. Even before Covid and the Mr. George Floyd incident in which the officer was completely wrong, recruitment and retention of police officers was a national problem. People don't want to become police officers any longer. Things are so bad, the Los Angeles Police Department had to change their hiring policy with respect to previous drug use. Before if you answered yes to questions like cocaine use you were passed over now, as long as you have not used heroine, cocaine or methanfetimine within the 3 years you are welcomed with open arms. Are you kidding me? This profession is going to be so dumbed down by lack of quality candidates it's not going to even be funny.

Can you imagine getting arrested for an offense that's not even arrestable by statute and the officer then saying oh I though you could arrest for that... there are going to be morons policing your neighborhoods. You are going to have corruption like we have never seen before.

I tell anyone who asks about becoming a police officer to choose another career. My own son just entered the Army to become a Combat Medic, he told me he may want to follow in my footsteps when he gets out. I told him don't it's simply not worth it. I have officers currently working for me who have already said as soon as I they are vested at ten years they are out of here. Make no mistake, the folks who make the laws not only Massachusetts but the entire country are going to get exactly what they want and the old saying is true, the only reason history repeats itself is because nobody listened the first time... Defunding police or elimination of qualified immunity is going to lead to substandard unqualified candidates protecting the people who live and work here. I guarantee it and I don't say that lightly.

Listen, I have a short time left in my career and when I retire I am out of here heading south so whatever you guys and girls choose to do has no impact on me long term so I say do as you wish but please think of the people that will still live here, they deserve the best police officers we can create and train to stand up for and protect the people that live here and that includes all of you.

Laws are made to protect people so please protect the police so they are not afraid to do their jobs. I already see depolicing occurring in major cities and it will without question happen here. Don't let it.

Respectfully,
Chief Andrew J. Sluckis JR

Dear Senator Rush,

Thank you for committing to confront racial injustice in our communities. I am writing asking you to support youth-focused amendments to Senate Bill 2800 that addresses racial disparities in our justice system and holds law enforcement accountable when interacting with young people in our communities and in our schools. Please vote in YES on amendments #1, #3, #17, #25, #41, #80, and #108:

* Amendment #3 (filed by Sen. Creem): We don't solve institutional racism by making the racial impact of the legal system's decisions invisible. This amendment would require law enforcement and other juvenile justice agencies to report data on young people at major decision points with the juvenile justice system to improve the state's policy and planning. For too long, we have waited for transparency on how our legal system responds to children and youth by collecting and reporting race and ethnicity data <[https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=http-3A\_\_r20.rs6.net\_tn.jsp-3Ff-](https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A__www.cfjj.org_data-2Dcollection&d=DwMFaQ&c=1DF7oMaPKXpkYvev9V-fVahWL0QWnGCCAfCDz1Bns_w&r=uoevGIInjCfTlguYncQubxpi5R6db_gq1YmKr0SCk2EnIiuk13zIs16rchf_GkGDD&m=-Xk_etVR-7QDHmfSd3nuRKMim3G2YYG_jhArGOgCYRk&s=XFW2W6ZR1GbomRdmPath8t79YqjVundvDy5qo2RQbPM&e=> to allow us to see disparities where they occur and to identify policies or practices to reduce these disparities. * Amendments #1 and #17 (filed by Sen. Boncore and Sen. Creem):
Massachusetts' youth of color bear the harshest brunt of our legal system with their over-representation in the adult criminal justice system. Black and Latinx youth are 3.2 and 1.7 times, respectively, as likely to be imprisoned as their white peers. By raising the age at which a teenager can be automatically tried as an adult, we can hold young people accountable in a more developmentally appropriate setting, giving them a better chance to succeed and turn away from offending. Raising the age will reduce crime in our communities.

* Amendment #108 (filed by Sen. Jehlen and Sen. Rausch): End surveillance of students in schools by prohibiting school police from sharing student information they gather through their interactions with students that would eventually be placed in shared law enforcement databases. This amendment prohibits information-sharing from school staff and school police to the Boston Regional Intelligence Center and the Commonwealth Fusion Centers, closing a dangerous loophole in the current version of S. 2800. The amendment captures the various ways in which this information is collected including seemingly innocuous observations and conversations with students which are the basis of entries in law enforcement databases.

* Amendment #41 (filed by Sen. Friedman and Sen. Rausch): This amendment would create certain protections for children during interactions with law enforcement officials. It would prohibit restraining minor children in a prone or hog-tie position and requires that de-escalation techniques are developmentally appropriate, and requires law enforcement be trained in these techniques. The amendment also gives law enforcement the option to call parents/guardians to de-escalate. This amendment also corrects a significant gap by requiring SROs, constables and special service officers to also be subject to the use of force provisions of the bill.

* Amendment #80 (filed by Sen. Jehlen): Schools and police are not complying with state laws and this amendments aims to hold school districts accountable for compliance with the data reporting required by the Criminal Justice Reform Act. This amendment gives the authority to assign an SRO to the school committee, and requires that the district and police department comply with the reporting requirements of school-based arrests to qualify to have an SRO.

* Amendment #25 (filed by Sen. Boncore): This amendment requires the Municipal Police Training Committee (MPTC) to establish an in-service program to train School Resource Officers (SROs) on topics that are important to interacting with children and that SROs document that they are trained in these topics, as required by the Criminal Justice Act of 2018.

Thank you and I look forward to hearing back from you about how you voted on these amendments!

July 16, 2020

Representatives,

My name is Richard Vitale and I have been a police officer for nearly 30 years, half of which I have been a trainer in force related issues including, firearms, defensive tactics, TASER and use of force. I am asking you to take a moment and consider this legislation and ask, have we done our due diligence or are we making an emotional decision.

While there are many areas of concern that need our attention to ensure racial inequality and abuse of power are not tolerated in our society the focus is on law enforcement. This bill contains many positive aspects including the adoption of POST strategies and uniformity of training as well as oversight and development committees designed to broaden training and understanding of these issues. However, many aspects of the bill appear to have been put together without input from law enforcement professionals and without regard to the stresses that are inherent to police work and the decision making process.

The implementation of the POSAC as listed in this bill has several concerns. While we are looking to address the abuse of power it appears that this committee has absolute power to permanently revoke certification with no avenue to an independent appeal process. This is like the judicial system doing away with the appellate section and the appeal process being heard by the Judge that decided the conviction. As a legislator, I am sure you understand the absolute need for the checks and balance system that our government has been utilizing since its inception. This section eliminates the due process as it does not allow for an independent appeal process.

The section which addresses "Qualified Immunity" is of the utmost concern when it comes to the decision making process during times of extreme stress. The current concept of qualified immunity supplies officers with the confidence that decisions made in good faith will be supported. Not unlike medical malpractice insurance allows a doctor to make life and death decisions instantly knowing that if they are acting in good faith they have an umbrella of personal liability protection. The current concept has an avenue for damages through the municipality or overseeing entity and also holds the individual officer accountable for actions involving gross negligence or violations of the law. This proposed language is extremely vague stating, "...qualified immunity shall not apply to claims for monetary damages except upon a finding that, at the time the conduct complained of occurred, no reasonable defendant could have had reason to believe that such conduct would violate the law". The current qualified immunity statutes cover these areas and are more clearly developed. This language appears to have been worded in a particularly vague manner and included in the bill as a pacifying section instead of a thoughtful planned attempt at crafting logical and practical legislation.

Please take the time to consider this important legislation and to objectively look at the sections so that you may make an informed and logical decision. Reach out to those who perform these functions and ask if these are viable solutions or are they the result of an emotional outreach by the legislature during this time of civil unrest.

Take the time that the Senate refused to take and do your research so that you can make an informed decision. You should seek clarity where it is needed and input from stakeholders. You have an obligation to the people of Massachusetts to make objective decisions and to put forward bills developed by logic and debate not by an emotional response.

Thank you,
Richard Vitale

Subject: Law enforcement reform

July 16, 2020

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Joseph Ryan and I live at 23 Stearns Street, Chelmsford, MA 01824. I work at MCI Concord in Concord, MA and am a Corrections Officer I. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the floodgates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joseph Ryan

Subject: Police reform bill

Good afternoon;

My name is Jillian Donnelly. I am a police officer with the Everett Police Department. I currently work as the School Resource Officer for the Middle and Elementary Schools within my community. I have been an officer for the past four years. I have a Bachelor's and Master's Degree in Administration of Justice from Salve Regina University.

Prior to becoming a police officer I worked many years in human services such as the Department of Child and Family in Middletown Rhode Island, Riverside Community Care specializing in the treatment and rehabilitation of children suffering from mental and behavioral health issues as well as those who have been physically and sexually abused. I also worked at Riverside Community Care in Everett specializing in substance abuse and mental health. I then worked as a Public Safety Officer at Boston Medical Center before entering into the police academy.

The reform bill that has been proposed and passed by the Senate calling for "justice and reform" takes away justice from those of us who have dedicated our lives to protecting and serving our communities. This bill in and of itself is unconstitutional because it strips away our rights to Due Process which every American citizen has a right to.

This bill is a slap in the face to anyone who wears the badge. This bill single handedly strips away our ability to serve and protect because we are not protected! Our job requires us to go hands on in many different situations whether it is a use of force situation or saving a life. Without Qualified Immunity I cannot render aid or protect myself without facing civil litigation which I have to pay for. This bill has handcuffed me and placed me under arrest without even reading me my Miranda Rights.

This job in and of itself already puts a target on my back and because of the disgraceful display of media propoganda and now this "reform" bill I also have a monetary bounty on my back as well. I will be forced with the constant question any time I go into work, "if a kid has a cardiac arrest in front of me, if I render aid I could be sued and potentially fired if I break a rib and am found to use "excessive force" but if I don't do anything and let the kid die in front of me, I have to live with that as well as face the ramifications of being sued, being fired and potentially face federal prison time for failing to act.

It as a lose lose situation every single time and it truly disgusts me. I work in a school system where we have gang members who recruit within the schools. This bill will prevent me from getting information of these kids from school officials as well as not allow me to go hands on without facing serious consequences. When rival gang members start shooting and stabbing each other we will have another Sandyhook scene.

Society is in extremely grave danger because of this bill. The members of the Senate who voted to pass this bill will be responsible for the increase in crime, murders, deaths, lootings, rapes, robberies etc that have been going on in Seattle, New York and across the country with this bill. That will happened here!

Everyone will suffer. This is not why I became a police officer. I hold the line with members who have sacrificed their lives in Afghanistan to come home to be treated like this! This bill allows criminals to increase crime and prevents police from doing anything about it.

This bill allows a civilian counsel who knows absolutely nothing about the job I do be the judge, jury and verdict about my life. The members proposed in this civilian counsel represent the defendants that will be against me therefore creating a bias and verdict of guilty before I can even argue my case.

Any person with even a shred of intelligence would run for the hills from this job. The good cops like myself who actually do this job with pure motives will be forced to leave this profession because legislators have turned their backs on us who they expect to "hold the line." No one will want this job and without law there is no order. There will be civil unrest across the Commonwealth and once you open up Pandora's box it cannot be closed.

I truly and whole heartedly hope this email does not fall on deaf ears. Peoples lives are at risk. I would plead with you to vote no on this bill and to let this bill be tabled completely until law enforcement officials as well as legislators can communicate and come up with common ground reform.

I thank you for taking the time to read this letter. I hope and pray you take into serious consideration. My name again is Jillian Donnelly, I reside at 18 Maplewood Avenue Everett Ma 02149 and can be reached via email here as well as phone 617-823-7575. Again, thank you!

To whom it may concern:

Stripping Law Enforcement of qualified immunity takes away their protection and due process. This state is in for some tough times if that happens. It would be safer for police and fire to do the bare minimum if this bill is passed and the public deserves more!!

To: Rep. Aaron Michlewitz, Rep. Claire Cronin, and Rep. Natalie Blais,

My name is Justin Moody. I am a resident and registered voter in the town of Montague. I am also a police officer in town and I hope that does not disqualify my voice or opinion from the start, please hear me out.

I do believe that it is necessary and important to have a conversation on police reform especially because it seems that is what the people of our community want. They should be heard and appreciated. However, knee jerk reactions and laws passed on feelings or emotions without examination of facts is dangerous and irresponsible. I also appreciate that the House is taking testimonies and hopefully examining facts.

I think any bill ending qualified immunity is a knee jerk reaction based on feelings and emotions not facts. Qualified immunity protects public servants who are doing their job and acting in good faith from civil litigation. It does not protect us when we act outside of our scope of training. Ending qualified immunity puts public servants careers, homes, and families at risk.

I've only been a police officer for about 6 years. I chose this career path because I want to help people, I want to protect those that can't protect themselves, and I want to be a good example in my community. However, recently I have been disheartened by the lack of support from elected officials for good police officers. But I have had residents stop while on road details to personally thank me and all law enforcement, I have had residents pull me aside in stores and while walking downtown to personally thank law enforcement and to tell us to keep going. They have been incredibly encouraging to me. However, every time they have done it they have spoken softly and quietly, as if what they were saying was wrong or offensive. I just want you to know there are people in our communities who do appreciate law enforcement and who are encouraging us but I fear that they are not being heard or listened to simply because they are not the loudest even if they may be the majority.

Thank you for your time and consideration of my testimony. I urge you all to please vote no for any bill ending qualified immunity.

Respectfully,

Justin Moody

OPPOSE SB2820

SB2800 (now SB2820) is a bill that makes countless changes to our laws with no transparency in the development of the bill. To make matters worse, the bill circumvented the legislative process, void of any public hearings, and lacks the inclusion of dialogue from stakeholders, including communities of color and law enforcement. All law enforcement groups including the MA Law Enforcement Policy Group and the MA Association of Minority Law Enforcement Officers were not considered for input.

This is a divisive and politically driven piece of legislation.

We need to support police officers and make common sense decisions on police standards and training. Help protect our police and the public by working together for best practices and changes for all.

I am a Massachusetts voter and have lived here my whole life. I write in support of the police reform bill. Though we need more dramatic measures to direct funding away from police departments statewide and towards community-based stability, safety, clean energy, and justice services, the reform measures in the bill, including reducing qualified immunity, are necessary for making our communities (especially Black and Brown ones) safer and more just. Please pass this bill and continue making MA a leader in our country for just legislation.

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Peter Goldstein and I live at 44 Bel Air Road, Hingham, MA. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Peter Goldstein

Subject: Preserve the Strong Language in S. 2820

Hello,

My name is Jonathan Rodrigues, I live in Mattapan.

I am writing to please include the strong provisions out of the Senate bill, we can accept nothing less than:

- * Creating an independent and civilian-majority police certification/decertification body
- * Limiting qualified immunity so that victims of police brutality can sue for civil damages
- * Reducing the school-to-prison pipeline and removing barriers to expungement on juvenile records
- * Establishing a Justice Reinvestment Fund to move money away from policing prisons and into workforce development and education opportunities
- * Banning racial profiling by law enforcement and prohibiting police officers from having sex with those in custody

The house may actually strengthen this bill by:

- * Strengthening use of force standards, e.g., by outright banning chokeholds and tear gas
- * Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology (rather than imposing just a one-year moratorium)
- * Lifting the unnecessary cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund

Thank you.

As a wife of a Police Officer, I am disappointed in how this state has been gaslighted by these senators that passed a bill without a public hearing at 4am!

This bill is reckless and dangerous.

A few overlooked facts:

- Qualified immunity does NOT protect illegal actions by police officers.
- Abolishing or modifying qualified immunity will have severely negative unintended consequences for ALL Massachusetts citizens, courts, and public officials - NOT just police officers.
- Qualified immunity is NOT an absolute immunity from civil suit.
- The Massachusetts Civil Rights Act of 1979 (MCRA) allows civil actions against public officials who use force, intimidation or coercion to interfere with Constitutional or statutory rights.
- Current law - unchanged - still allows individuals to file suit against a police officer or other public official granted Qualified Immunity if they use force, intimidation or coercion to interfere with an individual's rights.

- The Senate bill approved at 4 a.m. on July 14 would dramatically lower the standards under which a civil action could be brought against a public official with qualified immunity.

- The use of force, intimidation or coercion would no longer be the standard under which such civil actions could be brought. Any simple disagreement, dispute or argument involving a public official could lead to a costly civil action. This would send a damaging chill through all areas of local government where public servants must deal directly with citizens:

- o Town managers
- o Selectmen
- o Fire chiefs
- o Commission appointees
- o Educators and school administrators
- o Police officers
- o Others

- Many, and possibly the majority, of MCRA complaints in the Commonwealth are brought against non-law enforcement personnel and do NOT involve allegations of police misconduct.

- The Senate bill passed at 4 a.m. on July 14 is a direct threat to the thousands of hard-working and dedicated municipal officials, commission appointees and employees in all 351 cities and towns across Massachusetts. It also threatens their households and their families.

- The consequences of the Senate bill would be damaging and disruptive to the Commonwealth.

- o State courts would be flooded with civil actions - as plaintiffs who would otherwise pursue civil actions in federal court seek an advantage in state courts.

- o Cities and towns across Massachusetts would be forced to absorb massive legal costs in defense of the municipality's role in the action - and almost certainly indemnify public employees against damages.

- o Municipalities will almost certainly incur burdensome legal costs - including plaintiff attorney fees - from litigation and settlement of meritless claims that would have been weeded out by QI.

- o The massive new financial burdens would come at the worst time possible: as cities and towns are bracing for devastating budget impacts from the COVID-19 pandemic and related economic shutdowns

- o Federal courts have a large body of case law on which to base interpretations and analysis of new QI cases. Under the proposed Senate bill changes, the state courts will have to develop a whole new body of case law to interpret the new language.

This will lead to uncertainty for municipalities, public employees and plaintiffs for years to come.

Please do not take away qualified immunity. This will severely impact the willingness of our public service men and woman, from taking action in a situation that warrants their expertise and experience, but may result in lawsuits against them. Subject: S.2820

I am writing for the purpose of offering my opinion of Bill S.2820. I will be direct.

I speak from 30 years experience as a public school teacher as well as 26 years as a Police Dispatcher. Like many teachers a part-time job was necessary. My Police "career" took on a life of its own and complete involvement including training, certifying, and recertifying was required in many facets of the job.

Still, I was a civilian. A civilian who lived and learned police policies, procedures, and protocol. On a personal level they became my brothers and sisters in Law Enforcement. As in many other vocations there are a few who step outside of the lines, some bring embarrassment to their departments and need to be disciplined within the perimeters of their collective bargaining code of conduct. I did not work or associate with any "rogue" officers. I did not work or associate with any officer who willingly broke public laws, broke public trust, or displayed abusive treatment of any citizen of any race, creed, or color. Nor would any officer have been supportive of any such abhorrent behavior. Nor would any fellow officers have been supportive of any form of misconduct .

With the full understanding that, as in all professions , there will always be those who deviate from standards. They and they alone must be dealt with. It is unfair, unjust, and a "systemic" failure of leadership to punish an entire states roster of police officers for the actions of a few in another state. This is one of my many arguments with Bill S.2820.

As a legislative body, you have failed to display trust, leadership, and transparency. This bill in its current state is slanted towards making "Serving and Protecting" a next to impossible task! This bill is an over reach, not to mention painting all LEO with a broad brush. I do not trust that you have looked at policy and procedures with an objective eye. You might consider the dangers that all officers face every shift. It has been stated many times that we are a nation of laws. All police officers are trying to work within that framework.

Of particular concern is the discussion of eliminating "qualified Indemnity" for police , Fire, and nurses. It was a very short time ago that first responders and front line workers were thanked and viewed as hero's. Indemnity will cause chaos, frivolous lawsuits, an exodus of good people from necessary public safety and nursing positions. I and my former acquaintances have multiple concerns about this bill. They range from make-up of the commissioners to the gathering and translating of data and information, to the watering down of police procedures. Actually this list is quite lengthy.

The senate has already failed in its attempt at police reform by passing this bill in the wee hours of the morning with no public debate. This bill was put together, hastily with no thought of leadership, transparency, and real concern for public safety or real reform with outcomes and expectations. Instead we have a document based on politics and misguided , vengeful policies.

My son is a police officer in a neighboring state. He is thoughtful, structural and with his rank is a leader in the station and out on the road. He assesses every situation carefully and avoids over reaction. Now, however, he may reassess his career. This is a shame, that a good officer like this has been put in this position. The real shame lies with any legislative body that could create such an unbalanced bill such as S.2820 over the horrific acts of a few roque officers! Please defeat, repeal, reject, turn away the cowardly passage of this bill by the Senate. Please provide real reform for all citizens of The commonwealth.

Sincerely,

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

I would like to provide written testimony in support of the proposed Reform, Shift + Build Act. I have lived in Massachusetts all my life, and I've witnessed firsthand how law enforcement in this state can work in favor of upper-class white communities while working against communities of color.

I grew up in a predominantly white suburb with ample resources where my classmates could commit dangerous crimes like DUIs and be punished with just a slap on the wrist if their family had the right connections.

I then moved to Boston and started working with children in the Orchard Gardens neighborhood of Roxbury, where I learned that the police can put minorities in more danger than they will protect them from. The kids I work with are often afraid of the police, and rightfully so given events that have unfolded in recent years.

The current law enforcement system in Massachusetts is not fair, and I believe there is a lot of work to be done before we can claim that our state is just and equitable for all. I think the Reform, Shift + Build Act is a great step to get us onto the right path, but it is a step that we must take right now. If we don't act now, the police will continue to be overfunded while institutions that promote restorative healing are underfunded. Students of color will continue to face the risk of being funneled into the criminal justice system after being labeled problematic by officers in schools.

Inaction on these issues will continue to put people's lives at risk, so it is up to the Massachusetts House of Representatives to pass this bill and enact real statewide change to begin the process of dismantling systemic racism in the Commonwealth.

I'm writing in favor of S.2820, to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law and strengthen it.

I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor. I also believe it should reduce the amount of public funding available to police and other security forces.

Subject: Immunity bill

Good afternoon,
Please do what's right and end this bill. This bill will have a trickle effect that most aren't considering. Public service will no longer be a career that most intelligent/ passionate people will choose should they be at risk of losing everything because of others opinions of how they may have been treated. If this bill were to just uphold the rules of wrongdoing that are already established and in place, then we should not It. I predict hurt feelings and people's opinions will be the grounds of most the lawsuits headed our way. This bill, in my personal opinion, is a lobbying move. I feel that the politicians in favor of this bill are more focus on the profits that could be made than they are in improving the system. The rules are already in place along with progressive discipline. Instead of holding the public servants responsible for the liability, it should fall onto the municipality to make sure their rules in place are followed according.
This will have dire consequences unless it's stopped. People need to be able to do their job without the fear of litigation based on someone's uneducated opinion on how the calls should've gone.
Do the right thing. Shut this bill down and stop catering to lobbyists.
Sincerely
Sarah Joy

To the members of the Legislature,

My name is Brian D'Amico and I am a Massachusetts State Police Trooper. Thank you for taking the time to read this and for having a public forum to discuss the topic of police reform unlike the Senate. I urge you not to accept the Senate bill, which was done without public input, and rushed. We at the State Police are not against police reform and believe like any profession there is always room for improvement. Most concerning from the bill from the Senate is the eroding of qualified immunity. Every government official in Massachusetts is covered by qualified or absolute immunity. To take this away from us in policing would be cruel. We are forced to make split second decisions to protect ourselves and others from violent criminals. We should not have to worry about our financial livelihood every time we go to work. Qualified immunity does not shield us from illegal acts. When someone in police breaks the law, we are held accountable. It does protect us from frivolous lawsuits and provides peace of mind when performing a dangerous job. Those of you in the Legislature are protected by absolute immunity, a higher level of protection than police, for actions you take over the course of weeks and months. To strip protection from police for actions we are forced to make in seconds is wrong.

Furthermore, the State Police Association of Massachusetts put forward a request for several common-sense amendments to the Senate Bill that would give law enforcement a voice in reforming policing. To reform policing you must include those of us doing the job. We only ask for a voice in this process so that the final product benefits everyone. I have included the State Police Associates recommendations below for you and urge you to consider them.

Again, thank you for taking the time to hear my voice and I trust that the Legislature will provide a more balanced and thoughtful bill than the one passed through the Senate.

Respectfully,

48 - State Police Colonel - Filed by Senator Rush

This amendment seeks to retain the rank of Colonel coming from within the ranks of the MSP. It states that the Colonel could also fill the dual role as a Superintendent (as is the case today), and if a civilian Superintendent was to be appointed, it greatly increases the requirements of a Superintendent, and retains the position of Colonel from within the ranks of the MSP. Further, if such an outside appointment was to be made, this amendment would ensure that the appointee would have the basic elements required to command and operate a diverse organization such as ours and would double the minimum years' experience required from 10 to 20 years.

74 - Qualified Immunity - Filed by Senator Tran

This amendment seeks to amend the bill in SECTION 10 by striking subsection (c) of section 11I. The following would be struck - "In an action under this section, qualified immunity shall not apply to claims for 431 monetary damages except upon a finding that, at the time the conduct complained of occurred, 432 no reasonable defendant could have had reason to believe that such conduct would violate the 433 law."

Complimentary to this amendment is #137 (filed by Senator Velis), which also strikes the Qualified Immunity section and adds a special commission to study Qualified Immunity.

"Qualified immunity balances two important interests—the need to hold public officials accountable when they exercise power irresponsibly and the need to shield officials from harassment, distraction, and liability when they perform their duties reasonably." Pearson v. Callahan.

77 - Discipline Changes - Filed by Senator Tarr

This amendment moves to amend the bill in SECTION 18 by striking in line 621 the words "1 year" and replacing therewith- "45 days". This would allow for our officers to seek an appeal of an administrative suspension without pay within 45 days, not the 1 year as drafted. This is an important Due Process piece for our officers and grants the Department of State Police more than the required 30 days to complete their investigation.

114 - Representation on POSAC - Filed by Senator Rush

This Amendment move to amend the bill in SECTION 6, by striking lines 164-192 in Section 221 and inserting in place thereof:-

"Section 221. There shall be an independent police officer standards and accreditation committee within the executive office of public safety and security consisting of: 13 members appointed by the governor, 1 of whom shall be the Attorney General or her nominee, 1 of whom shall be the Colonel the Massachusetts State Police (or a sworn Officer designated by the Colonel), 1 of whom shall be the Commissioner of the Boston Police Department (or a sworn Officer designated by the Commissioner), 1 of whom shall be a chief of police of a mid-sized municipality who is a person of color to be nominated by the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association Incorporated, 1 of whom shall be the President of the Massachusetts Association of Minority Law Enforcement Officers, Inc., 1 of whom shall be the President of the State Police Association of Massachusetts, 1 of whom shall be the President of the Boston Police Patrolmen's Association, 1 of whom shall be a sworn Police Officer nominated by the Massachusetts Law Enforcement Policy Group, 1 of whom shall be a retired judge, 1 of whom shall be a Professor of Criminal Justice from a Massachusetts College or University; 1 of whom shall be an expert in the field of use of force, 1 of whom shall be an expert in the investigation of firearms discharge; and 1 other member; provided, however, that non-law enforcement members shall have experience with or expertise in law enforcement practice and training, criminal law, or the criminal justice system. Appointments to the police officer standards and accreditation committee shall be for terms of 3 years and until their successors are appointed. Vacancies in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the original appointing authority for the balance of the unexpired term. Members of the police officer standards and accreditation committee shall be compensated for work performed for the police officer standards and accreditation committee at such rate as the secretary of administration and finance shall determine and shall be reimbursed for their expenses necessarily incurred in the performance of their duties."

I am writing to urge you to preserve the reforms in the Senate's police reform and to go even further in strengthening it. Now is the time!

Please preserve

- * the creation of an independent and civilian-majority police certification/decertification body
- * Limiting qualified immunity so that victims of police brutality can sue for civil damages
- * Reducing the school-to-prison pipeline and removing barriers to expungement on juvenile records
- * Establishing a Justice Reinvestment Fund to move money away from policing prisons and into workforce development and education opportunities
- * Banning racial profiling by law enforcement and prohibiting police officers from having sex with those in custody, which can obviously never be consensual and is strikingly not yet illegal

Also, please ask the House to strengthen the Senate bill by

- * Strengthening use of force standards, e.g., by outright banning chokeholds and tear gas
- * Fully prohibiting facial surveillance technology (rather than imposing just a one-year moratorium)
- * Lifting the unnecessary cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund

Thank you,

Subject: opposition to Bill S.2820 (as written)

> ?To Whom May Concern:

> Thank you for seeking input on the important issue of police reform and specifically, Bill S.2820. What occurred in the senate last week, under the figurative and literal cover of darkness, was a travesty. The essential process for transparency, stakeholder involvement, and true deliberation was nonexistent. Allowing a mere 48 hours for something this IMPORTANT is a clear indicator of the motives. Some of our state senators chose knee-jerk, partisan politics to make scapegoats out of ALL law enforcement in an attempt to settle society's ills. The bill (with the elimination of Qualified Immunity (QI)) is the antithesis of meaningful and effective reform AND and it is DANGEROUS for society, as a whole. The senators who voted for this were either willingly ignorant, which is shameful, OR they were deliberately trying to further an anti-police agenda, which is disgusting!

> So thank you for seeking public input and for making an attempt to LISTEN (and not just using that term as an "on trend" slogan). Ironically, some of these very same people have been stressing the need to "listen" to improve our society (and I don't disagree)... but apparently, for some of them, that means only "listening" to CERTAIN groups, not truly trying to create informed, common sense, much-needed reforms. It's furthering ignorance and it's dangerous!

> We are a police family so we are quite accustomed to living with stress that others cannot even fathom. We seek to be socially-aware, civically-minded, contributing members of our community. We have honest and tough conversations "on the regular" with a desire to understand others' struggles and view points. It is because of these values that we DO want reforms and have advocated for many of them, especially updated training and education for law enforcement officials. MA has historically been among the best-trained, well-educated police forces in the country!

> Unfortunately now our police family has even MORE to be worried about right now with the attempts to end QI in Bill S.2820. This will have a devastatingly negative impact on our society as it does not apply ONLY to law enforcement; it affects teachers, firefighters, healthcare workers, and other vital civil servants.

> It is important to note this legal explanation from Yarmouth's town counsel - "QUALIFIED Immunity does NOT protect illegal actions by police officers. Rather it safeguards ALL public officials in situations where the law is unclear. The doctrine allows lawsuits to proceed if a government official had fair notice that conduct was unlawful, but acted anyway. This common sense and reasonable approach explains why those seeking to abolish or modify QI CANNOT point to ANY situations in MA where wrongful conduct by police officers has been protected by the doctrine. As written in Bill S.2800, abolishing or modifying qualified immunity will have important negative, unintended consequences for ALL MA citizens, courts, and public employees, not just police officers."

> Police officers are simply asking for TIME for meaningful deliberation and for law enforcement professionals to have a seat at the table when it comes to the important and necessary conversations regarding reforms and improvements. They have unparalleled perspective from the literal front lines of daily battle and from thousands of rank and file interactions with both good and bad cops. They can offer critical insight that bureaucrats and activists cannot possibly comprehend. Ironically, good police officers have been asking for measures like the POST accreditation system for YEARS (the MA legislature was not willing to fully address that previously because of FUNDING, despite the LEO pleas).

> As we are tragically aware, on a deeply personal level, our dedicated police officers are willing to stand between us and a bullet. I will be unapologetic for my passion and unrelenting with my messaging on this particular topic. I have a deep desire and a responsibility to educate those who seek reforms but don't fully understand the consequences related to some of the proposed measures.

> I hope the House will also be persuaded to reject the Bill or fix it to remove the QI portion, so that we can get back to the important conversations that need to happen to make EVERYONE safer.

> Kind Regards,

>

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Todd Tigano and I live at 764 Norton Avenue, Taunton, MA 02780. I work at MCI-Cedar Junction as a Correctional Officer II. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

?????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

?????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

?????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-

trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Todd Tigano

I am so disappointed that the senate passed this bill without any input from we the people. Qualified Immunity should never be removed in any situation. Agree we need to make changes but our state is not like the rest of the country. We are strong, intelligent and very compassionate in Massachusetts. This state is from the beginning of this country and we can do better. Not put blame on one profession, our law enforcement. When we are in need of help the first thing we do is call 911. Stop and think do you really think someone will be there? I do not. Being a retired Registered Nurse who has stopped and save many addicts who have overdosed I cannot. I do not feel I am protect. Why are you protected, along with the Senate and Lt Governor and Governor? If you think this is so great then you should lose your Qualified Immunity.

I will always be on the side of Law Enforcement sad you are not.

I urge you not only to preserve but to expand upon the police reform measures outlined in this bill. Police are nothing more than ordinary citizens who carry a grave and sometimes dangerous responsibility, and they are capable of making mistakes and doing great harm, as well as falling prey to the biases that plague our society--whether or not the individual officers themselves are consciously prejudiced--and disproportionately inflicting harm upon marginalized groups. Many Black people in particular grow up and spend their whole lives frightened by police. A police officer has pulled a gun on my father, a Black man who was unarmed and not a threat, after pulling him over for going a few miles over the speed limit on the highway. Nobody should have to live in fear of the people who are tasked with protecting them.

I agree with all of the reforms outlined in the Senate bill. Limiting qualified immunity to allow justice in cases of egregious misconduct and easing expungement on juvenile records are particularly important to me--the latter will go a long way to restricting the school-to-prison pipeline that tears apart marginalized communities and keeps people trapped in generational poverty. I would also urge you to strengthen use of force standards by disallowing chokeholds and tear gas except as absolute last resorts, prohibiting the use of face-recognition technology (which has been shown in studies to carry a racial and gender bias, misidentifying women and people of color more often than white men) by police, and lifting the cap on the Justice Reinvestment Fund.

These are the ways we can reforge the broken relationship between communities and the police, reinvest in our communities, and create a better Massachusetts.

To the members of the Legislature,

My name is Eileen D'Amico and I am the mother of a Massachusetts State Police Trooper. Thank you for taking the time to read this and for having a public forum to discuss the topic of police reform unlike the Senate. I urge you not to accept the Senate bill, which was done without public input, and rushed. Members of the State Police are not against police reform and believe like any profession there is always room for improvement. Most concerning from the bill from the Senate is the eroding of qualified immunity. Every government official in Massachusetts is covered by qualified or absolute immunity. To take this away from those in policing would be cruel. They are forced to make split second decisions to protect themselves and others from violent criminals. They should not have to worry about their financial livelihood every time they go to work. Qualified immunity does not shield them from illegal acts. When someone in the police breaks the law, they are held accountable. It does protect them from frivolous lawsuits and provides peace of mind when performing a dangerous job. Those of you in the Legislature are protected by absolute immunity, a higher level of protection than police, for actions you take over the course of weeks and months. To strip protection from police for actions they are forced to make in seconds is wrong.

Furthermore, the State Police Association of Massachusetts put forward a request for several common-sense amendments to the Senate Bill that would give law enforcement a voice in reforming policing. To reform policing you must include those doing the job. They only ask for a voice in this process so that the final product benefits everyone. I have included the State Police Associates recommendations below for you and urge you to consider them.

Again, thank you for taking the time to hear my voice and I trust that the Legislature will provide a more balanced and thoughtful bill than the one passed through the Senate.

Respectfully,

Eileen D'Amico

508-533-7824

This amendment seeks to retain the rank of Colonel coming from within the ranks of the MSP. It states that the Colonel could also fill the dual role as a Superintendent (as is the case today), and if a civilian Superintendent was to be appointed, it greatly increases the requirements of a Superintendent, and retains the position of Colonel from within the ranks of the MSP. Further, if such an outside appointment was to be made, this amendment would ensure that the appointee would have the basic elements required to command and operate a diverse organization such as ours and would double the minimum years' experience required from 10 to 20 years.

74 - Qualified Immunity - Filed by Senator Tran

This amendment seeks to amend the bill in SECTION 10 by striking subsection (c) of section 11I. The following would be struck - "In an action under this section, qualified immunity shall not apply to claims for 431 monetary damages except upon a finding that, at the time the conduct complained of occurred, 432 no reasonable defendant could have had reason to believe that such conduct would violate the 433 law."

Complimentary to this amendment is #137 (filed by Senator Velis), which also strikes the Qualified Immunity section and adds a special commission to study Qualified Immunity.

"Qualified immunity balances two important interests—the need to hold public officials accountable when they exercise power irresponsibly and the need to shield officials from harassment, distraction, and liability when they perform their duties reasonably." Pearson v. Callahan.

77 - Discipline Changes - Filed by Senator Tarr

This amendment moves to amend the bill in SECTION 18 by striking in line 621 the words "1 year" and replacing therewith- "45 days". This would allow for our officers to seek an appeal of an administrative suspension without pay within 45 days, not the 1 year as drafted. This is an important Due Process piece for our officers and grants the Department of State Police more than the required 30 days to complete their investigation.

Subject: S2820 I strongly oppose

To whom it may concern,

?In the light of recent events, nobody will argue there is need for police reform. I do however take issue with removing Qualified Immunity (QI) for our officers. QI never protected Police Officers from suits over excessive use of force or malicious prosecution. It protected Officers from lawsuits; even if a ticket or case was thrown out, as long as it was in good faith an officer could not be held liable.

This bill as written, without QI opens the door for lawsuits when an Officer writes a ticket for speeding and it's thrown out of court for first offense, or an Officer makes an arrest for a crime and it's dismissed for the victim not showing up to court, which an officer has no control over.

Overnight the State Senate passed the police reform bill, so now it will hit the House, then Governor Baker's desk. Then it is law. "Police Reform" seems to be the new catch phrase, but I wouldn't say this was a reform. This is Police Impairment. Require body cams at every call, go back to two officers at every call. That's reform.

I'm literally disgusted, the non support from some of our senators is appalling and frightening. It serves to undermine police authority, to hinder their ability to do their job. What will happen when officers stop traffic enforcement, community protection and other aspects of their job for fear of being sued by criminals? Anarchy is what will happen!

If this law passes the House as written, it will remove our Officers' QI, resulting in many frivolous lawsuits against police officers and municipalities. All Officers will be at risk of personal lawsuits, more so the proactive Officers. So an Officer who goes out and actively seeks out criminals will face a greater likelihood of suits, but all Officers, just from their regular day to day call responses will be at risk as well.

Retirements will increase, proactive patrol will decrease, and high quality candidates will be in low supply resulting in lower quality candidates getting the job. I know many that already are going to retire, and the ones that aren't yet at retirement age will make their side jobs their full time ones.

Many police and firefighters have side jobs. They have to, especially here in MA, with the cost of living so high. We should be paying them enough so they don't have to work two jobs. Now on top of it all, if this gets passed, they are going to have to risk losing their homes, their freedom, their families-for what?

While there is room for improvement and reform is needed in many areas, this bill as written is not the answer. We need to back our Officers. We need to demand respect for our Officers who put their lives on the line every dam day!

I'm all for holding trainings and education as well as required re-certification but as written this is an attack against our Police Officers and I'm absolutely disgusted. We as tax paying citizens should have been given a say. Our Police should have been given a say.

Put this to the voters of the Commonwealth. Let the majority of the people speak for what we want, and you will see that this law is NOT what is wanted.

We owe our dedicated Officers something more than this ill conceived and politically driven bill. It certainly does not unite us or show any support. In my opinion the bill's main goal and objective was to attack and discredit law enforcement to appease certain groups.

Please do whatever possible to encourage Governor Baker NOT sign this bill into law. We the people and our incredible Officers should be able to have a vote.

To whom it may concern,

I respectfully ask that you Carefully examine and consider one but not all aspects of this bill. In its entirety, this bill is dangerous to the public. It allows the Small percentage of criminals to become increasingly Comfortable with furthering crime as police will have to question all actions with fear of lawsuits, placing police at a increased risk for their safety, lives, and families well being. If your job was to curb criminal acts however be placed at a great risk for a lawsuit, by a stranger to be able to possibly take away your livelihood that you and your family have worked hard for, would you? Furthermore, it's very disappointing to see the lack of support for officers who place their lives on the line, each and every day. If this bill passes, many will shy away from becoming officers, many will retire, crimes will increase. Who will protect us then? Please consider no chokeholds but qualified immunity should continue to exist.

Subject: Police reform bill

To whom it may concern,

I am writing in support of the Police Reform bill. I have worked in education for years-- in K-6 education, special education and early childcare, often as a substitute teacher. Even as a substitute, I was required to have my Early Childcare Certification to work with young children. This required regular updates and ongoing training/continuing education. Why should police be any different? They are often working with our most vulnerable populations. They should be required to have regular training, specific to their job and certification or licensure should be required as well.

As a teacher, every accident small or large required documentation by the staff who witnessed the incident including any injuries and first aid given. Copies of these reports went to the child's parent and my supervisor. If there were questions regarding the incident, the director/principal or even DCF would be involved in investigating and speaking with the parties involved. I was expected to document injuries/incidents and of course give aid when necessary. I was held accountable for my actions by everyone involved. Why would police not be held to this same level of accountability?

I am no longer working in the education field, but am director of a library. Because myself and my staff interact with children and vulnerable populations, we have to be CORI checked. If we had any serious complaints or charges against us, it would be in our records and we could not work with the public. There should be a similar database for police officers. Disciplinary reports should be recorded and stay in their record regardless of changing jobs or duration of their tenure.

Obviously as a teacher, I could not do anything that physically endangered the children I worked with. Even when I worked with special needs children with serious (and sometimes violent) behaviors, I could only use de-escalation techniques and as a last resort, physical restraints which could protect staff in a way that would not injure the children in any way. We were trained regularly in safe physical restraints. Certainly choke holds were not part of our training. I realize police are dealing with more dangerous situations, but increased training in de-escalation and non lethal restraints has to be the legal requirement.

Lastly, my daughter was assaulted by a Police officer last year. She was at a peaceful protest. She was not blocking a street or interacting with the police at all. Her friend was punched by a police officer (suffering a broken nose). My daughter shouted at the police officer (she yelled, "that's assault!") in defense of her friend and was shoved to the ground by the same officer. She suffered a concussion and leg injury. My daughter is 5'2" weighing 105 lbs. She was not a physical threat to the officer, but he knew he was a physical threat to her and used his size and authority to make that clear. Most of the police at this protest were good and hardworking people, doing their job. This police officer was a bully with a long history of disciplinary reports. I want police like this man to be held accountable and to be less powerful.

For my daughter and other victims of police brutality, and for all of the hardworking police who are just doing their job, please pass the Police Reform bill. They all deserve better.

I am writing to applaud the senate on passing this bill and urge the house to do the same.

The one smendment I would make is to outright ban the use of tear gas. It is a chemical weapon of war. Those sworn to serve and protect should not be using weapons of war on civilians.

Thank you for your service and God bless you.

Best regards,

Subject: Testimony regarding Reform bill

July 16, 2020

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,
My name is Adam Beck and I live at 153 Grove Street in Waltham, MA. I work at MCI-Framingham and am a Sergeant. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ???????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ???????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ???????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Adam Beck

Dear Judiciary Committee,

Please accept this email as my testimony for changes to the current Police Reform Bill. First, I would like to take this opportunity to identify myself. My name is Kathleen Sullivan Warnken and I have been a lifelong resident of Worcester, Massachusetts. My phone number is 774-239-3035.

I would like to address several amendments included in this bill:

1) The first amendment that I find concerning is the changes to Qualified Immunity. Qualified Immunity is necessary in order to protect all public servants from frivolous civil law suits. By making changes to qualified immunity we are freeing the criminals and putting handcuffs on the police officers. In my opinion, the general public who support these changes don't understand that Qualified Immunity doesn't protect law enforcement officers who are incompetent or those officers who knowingly violate the law. I'm in fear of what will happen in the cities and towns of Massachusetts if Qualified Immunity is changed. Please keep Qualified Immunity in tact for the reasons it was put in place to begin with.

2) The next Amendment that is concerning to me is recommended changes to due process and collective bargaining. This reads as an Anti-labor bill. This goes against the political landscape on the Left side who are supporting to eliminate Collective Bargaining & the right to Due Process for the police. The democratic platform has always been labor/union supporters. It appears to me that they are targeting the police who serve and protect us.

3) The POSAC board is also of great concern to me. This appears to be a voluntary committee and doesn't appear to include any frontline police officers. The amendment reads that it is an independent state entity comprised of a committee includes 7 civilians and 7 police officials. I think this needs to be changed to include frontline police officers from cities.

Thank you for taking the time to read my testimony. I hope you will take it into consideration during the hearing tomorrow.

Sincerely,

Subject: police reform (?)

As a citizen of Massachusetts I object to the police reform bill as it stands. Foremost, the fact that it was passed under the clock of darkness holds it up to scrutiny. It appears as if it was motivated by the social climate of today and the up-coming election. This is disappointing. It is an important conversation and I don't feel as if it was given the breadth of discussion it should have been given. Furthermore, it paints every police department with the same brush stroke. Isn't this what we are supposed to be guarding against? Stereotyping. I don't believe the statistics for most Massachusetts police departments warrant this all allencompassing reaction. Police officers who abuse their power should be held accountable but for the public to be able to sue individual officers is a short sighted and dangerous solution. This appears to be a punitive and inappropriate reaction. These men and women put their lives in danger for us. Most of them are good people. They should not be put in the position, ever, to stop for a second to consider how their actions will look to an onlooker who does not have the whole picture. Money should be allocated for more education, training and efforts which would create mutual respect between the police and the public. This bill, as it stands, will further polarize people. For these reasons I do not support the police reform bill as it stands.

House Representatives,

I am writing in opposition of bill S.2820 (formally S.2800).

This bill that limits protection for all public employees sets a terrible precedent, and limits protections for qualified immunity, due process, and limits collective bargaining. The collateral damage that this bill will do for the public employees of Massachusetts will not help recruit good candidates within public service, and will indirectly cost lives.

The Democratic party supported protections such as qualified immunity, and has been a staple for labor movement protections, and is now being attacked by the same Democratic party that union employees, like myself, have supported for years. I am a fulltime firefighter, and my wife is a full time police officer. We do our jobs with honor, and in good faith. We chose these occupations to help people, and to serve our communities, Limiting qualified immunity does not protect bad employees, it hinders good employees, and promotes second guessing. In our line of work, second guessing decisions can cost lives, including our own.

Attacking qualified immunity also attacks due process, and collective bargaining. Due process was implemented to ELIMINATE discrimination. Due process protects employees from being fired BECAUSE of actions that encompass discrimination. Collective bargaining promotes EQUALITY for all employees, and has been a Democratic supported initiative for over 100 years. Now, democrats are attacking the idea.

Any amendment that limits workers rights needs to be taken off this bill completely.

Respectively,

Marc Exarhopoulos

The lack of a Public Hearing on this Bill is an affront to the citizens of the Commonwealth and an undisguised effort to deprive us of our voice.

The assault on qualified immunity legal protection for police and other public employees that shields them from civil lawsuits unless there was a clearly established violation of law is wrongheaded and insulting to people who put themselves and their lives in jeopardy. Without this protection who would want to be a Public Employee? What immunity do Senators have and why should they have any? It has always amused me that it is a crime for me to lie to Congress but ok for Congress to lie to me. Would you approve a Bill to deprive you of your immunity?

I support the ban on chokeholds and limits on the use of tear gas. I vehemently reject any requirement that police receive training in the history of racism. That, in itself, is blatantly racist and one more divisive element where there are already too many.

Good Morning,

I am Lauren Ciccia and I am the fiancé of local Revere Police Officer. My fiancé and I have two children together and have been with one another for almost thirteen years. I didn't want to make this email solely about the politics of what is happening today. I wanted to make this email more personal. With everything going on in todays world my main purpose of this email, of course, is to politely request that the police department and all other public workers be protected by their amendments (#114, #134, and #137) to s.2800. It is VITAL to make this bill as just and fair as it can be. I am a full supporter of the black lives matter movement as is my fiancé and the rest of our family. We teach our children exactly what they're suppose to be taught which is every single person they come in contact with in life is to be treated the exact same. That is with honor and respect. The senate needs to take into consideration the vast majority of the police department that suit up every single day and honor their oath. The decision to take away qualified immunity is completely unjust and frivolous to the men and women who leave their families behind every day to protect the citizens and their families. Without qualified immunity you're leaving these officers second guessing themselves and putting them in harms way. You will be leaving their hands tied and not allowing them to perform the duties and requirements of their job to the best of their abilities. I strongly suggest taking this bill into serious consideration for the only people protecting the general public as well as for the community itself. How will situations be handled correctly with officers second guessing themselves during every call? It is becoming more and more terrifying to raise our children in this world. Please be the person that makes the change in making this world a better place for these kids to become something. They can not become something if they do not have people in their corner protecting them.

Respectful regards,

Subject: Bill S.2820

?I am writing to request your assistance with the S.2820 (Formerly S.2800) Act to Reform Police Standards. I am a Worcester Police Officer and 15 year veteran of the United States Air Force. Since I was 18 years old, I made a decision to put on a uniform and serve my country. After I served my country, again I put on a uniform in order to serve my community. As a country we are facing unprecedented times in light of recent events, specifically in Minneapolis that has sparked controversy across the entire world. We are being fed a misleading national narrative by news media outlets across the country about this idea of "systematic racism" that seems to only exist within law enforcement agencies. I am not denying the fact that racism doesn't exist nor that it is acceptable. What we must examine in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is (1) does systematic racism exist, and (2) are the police within the Commonwealth engaged in it? I have heard this term being thrown around during the Senate hearings for this bill, but what I did not hear is one example or fact laid on the table from this state. Although what happened in Minneapolis is a tragedy, the good men and women who protect and serve the communities within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts should not be punished because of it. Massachusetts police and training standards are already far above that of the rest of the country, which is why we don't gain national attention. The police reforms sweeping the nation is what Massachusetts has had in place for years. Anything further is simply dismantling the police.

?The Senate Bill S.2820 is a toxic bill that effectively ties the hands of police officers across the state, which will result in an unjustified negative impact on the very communities we serve and protect. If this Bill passes, GOOD police officers will retire, GOOD police officers will walk off the job, GOOD police candidates will not take this job and we will be left with the very people this Bill is trying to prevent because there will be no choice but to hire anyone willing to work. This Bill was hastily thrown together without even consulting the community and aims to remove qualified immunity and Due Process from police officers who may make a mistake while acting in Good Faith. The Sixth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States grants all people the right to be judged by a jury of their peers. Bill S.2820 calls for police to be judged by a committee who have no experience in policing. If you needed emergency heart surgery, would you want it performed by a doctor who refuses and lets you die because he knows if he makes a mistake he will lose his house, retirement, savings, livelihood, or the doctor who knows even if he makes a mistake he will be covered and tries his hardest to save your life? Well the same holds true for police, why would we want to arrest any criminals when we know at any moment we can lose everything because of a split-second decision? Bill S.2820 is completely erasing Unites States Supreme Court case law such as Tennessee v. Garner and Graham v. Connor. Both cases are surrounding use of force by police and state that force shall be justified based on what a reasonable officer would do. How is a person that has never been a police officer, never made a split-second decision, never put their life on the line for another human being, supposed to know what a reasonable officer would do?

?I have never heard of an unarmed person in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts being killed by police, but when I read this reform bill the names Michael Chesna, Sean Gannon, and Ronald Tarentino come to mind. These are all police officers in Massachusetts that were shot and killed by violent criminals. If this Bill passes not only will the list of fallen police officers in the Commonwealth grow, but so will the list of citizens that die at the hands of violent criminals. If we look at the number of murders across the nation and more specifically the Commonwealth of Massachusetts over the last month, they are up tenfold. The reason for this is because of Reform Bills like S.2820 that have handcuffed police. Police officers cannot and should not do anything other than the bare minimum because of the unnecessary dangers this Bill places them in. All of these Bills have been put together without consulting the community, specifically the minority community. Recently in New York City a Bill was passed that removed 1 Billion dollars from the budget, reduced the police force by 1,400 officers, canceled a police academy of 1,000 officers, and dismantled their Anti-Crime Unit (a unit designed to stop violent crimes and gun violence). All of this was done without consulting the community. Approximately, two weeks after getting rid of the Anti-Crime Unit murders and gun violence in the City is up 45% in just a matter of days. Leaders of the Black Community are now calling for Politicians to bring back the Anti-Crime Unit and stating they never asked for them to be dismantled to begin with. We have already had over 10 murders across the Commonwealth in the last two weeks so let's stop this before it's too late.

?We as police are not resistant to change and are open to make things safer for the communities we protect, but let's do it in a way that protects both the citizens and police in the Commonwealth. I am urging you to delay this Bill until we can work together as an entire community to come up with a plan that protects us all. We need to consult our communities and ask for their opinions, we need to consult our police and ask for their opinions, and most importantly we need to come up with a Bill that is reasonable for all. Please delay Bill S.2820 before crime in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts spirals out of control and cannot be stopped.

?Please feel free to reach out to me and discuss this matter further. Again, I thank you for time, dedication, and commitment to resolve the challenges we are facing in this extraordinary time.

Respectfully,

Stephen Germain

This legislation is the worst idea in the history of bad ideas. How the hell many more people have to be subject to violent crimes or even worse!!!!??

It seems to most people as though our supposed leaders have an agenda and the public's safety is not part of it.

The police are not there to coddle idiotic protesters they are there to maintain the peace!!!

Before George Floyd lost his life due to the incompetence of ONE cop you would have all fallen over yourselves to praise our 1st responders.

Now, in the face of an angry mob with an agenda the police have been stabbed in the back by their so called leaders.

I'm disgusted.....

Let them do their job, it will only get worse otherwise.

My name is Travis Perry and I live in Sutton. I write to you to express my support for our many first responders who put their lives on the line for the Commonwealth every single day. As the House and Senate consider legislation revolving around public safety, and in particular police reform, I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity - legal safeguards that have been established over decades and refined by the some of the greatest legal minds our country has known. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability. Qualified immunity is the baseline for all government officials and critical to the efficient and enthusiastic performance of their duties. Qualified immunity is not a complete shield against liability - egregious acts are afforded no protection under the qualified immunity doctrine.

Further, qualified immunity is civil in nature and provides no protection in a criminal prosecution. The United States Supreme Court and the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts through numerous cases have continued to uphold the value and necessity of qualified immunity. To remove or modify without deliberative thought and careful examination of consequence, both intended and unintended, is dangerous.

Due Process and Qualified Immunity are well settled in the law and sound public policy dictates that the Legislature not disturb these standards - certainly not in this bill so abruptly and certainly not without a vigorous debate both in the Legislature and in the court of public opinion.

We must remain focused on passing legislation that includes a standards and training system to certify officers, establish clear guidelines on the use of force by police across all Massachusetts departments, to include a duty to intervene, and put in place mechanisms for the promotion of diversity. This does not detract or reject other reforms, but rather prioritizes those that can be accomplished before the end of this legislative session on July 31 <x-apple-data-detectors://5> st <x-apple-data-detectors://5> . <x-apple-data-detectors://5>

Please join me in demanding nothing less than sound, well-reasoned and forward-thinking legislation.

Dear Ways & Means Committee Members,

I unequivocally support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800) and strongly urge my representatives and the House as a whole to ensure that it passes.

I am a resident of Brookline, MA who grew up in Massachusetts and went to school at Northeastern University. I have lived here my whole life and care very much about our state. Massachusetts has always been on the forefront of states passing legislation to support the people that live here and we've never shied away from decisions that seemed radical at the time, but which we now know to be correct, just, and necessary. This bill represents another chance to do just that.

I have always been proud of - and bragged about - MA being the first state to legalize gay marriage, to treat workers better in our own laws than federal law requires, to pass healthcare coverage laws before the country did as a whole. I hope to see us continue to make the right choices ahead of the curve and set the standard for the rest of the country to follow.

Please build on the work that our Senators have done to pass this bill over to you, and bring the Reform + Shift + Build Act to fruition. Doing so would continue the legacy of this state that makes me a proud resident and has kept me around for my whole life; failing to do so would be a huge disappointment out of character for who I know us to be as a state and as a people.

Thank you,

Dear Representative Michlewitz,

I am writing to you in regards to the proposed bill S2820, currently up for consideration in the house. This bill is dangerous for police officers across Massachusetts, and all municipal employees that will inadvertently be negatively impacted as well.

S2820 proposes dangerous changes for police departments across the state: particularly in the areas of qualified immunity and due process. It doesn't just impact police officers, but all municipal employees. How is anybody supposed to do their jobs with a constant threat of frivolous lawsuits? The truth is, we won't be able to. This bill will paralyze good police officers, dispatchers, firefighters, DPW workers, etc. in so many ways.

Qualified immunity does not protect anybody who is acting outside the law or violating someone's civil rights. People are still able to bring suit in those situations. Why are we taking away the ability to vet complaints before they result in a lawsuit? This bill is clearly a backdoor attempt to strip police officers' protections in support of the latest anti-police movement. The consequences will impact far more than just police officers. This bill is bad for everyone in MA.

Please fight for police officers, municipal employees, and for the voices of your constituents to be heard.

Thank you,

Diana Wells

Good Afternoon,

My name is Stacey Craven and I live in Reading <x-apple-data-detectors://0> . As your constituent, I write to you to express my staunch opposition to S.2800, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, one, in particular, stands out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction.

Qualified Immunity does not protect problem police officers. Qualified Immunity is extended to all public employees who act reasonably and in compliance with the rules and regulations of their respective departments, not just police officers. Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously unrealistic lawsuits.

The lawsuits resulting from this, whether they're won or not, will result in personal time away from the job to attend court hearings and money lost on legal fees. This would result in MANY officers leaving their positions.

I know it would not be totally eliminated under this bill, but the rephrasing leaves much room for interpretation. For example, if an officer were to do chest compressions on someone for CPR and accidentally break their rib, would they be protected? If someone was resisting arrest and they broke their wrist in the scuffle, would the police be protected? How does this distinguish between a smaller female officer feeling as though their life is being threatened or a larger male officer?

In a society where the media and politicians are clearly against GOOD officers who are doing their job well, many people have turned their backs on police. They would jump at the opportunity to file a lawsuit against the person who arrested them.

Why the rush to push this bill through so quickly? What about public forums? Why not find a way to rephrase this that wouldn't put so many of our police officers in harm's way? Massachusetts' police are the country's best, most educated officers. That doesn't mean they're not open to reform, but it they do not deserve the treatment of this rushed, imperfect, and dangerous reform.

As a Democrat, I am extremely disappointed in my party that none of my representatives are stepping forward to voice their support in the good men and women who are serving as police officers in this state and country. Expressing gratitude toward police in a private email, while appreciated, is not public it will not help protect these innocent officers who are encountering growing hatred on the streets of the communities they serve. I strongly believe this is directly influencing many of the violent acts against police, including murders. When will someone speak up? Hopefully before it's too late.

My husband is a proud police officer. He puts his life on the line daily for people who are turning their backs on him and other men and women in blue. He's highly educated with a bachelors, a masters, and a second masters on the way. He is the type of officer you would want to protect and serve your community, but he puts our family first. He's ready to leave a job he's worked his whole life for because of this bill and the recent hateful actions against police. I'm sure many others will follow.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve. They're absorbing most of the blame for systematic racism of our entire society. While I would assume that it is already going to become more difficult to fill police jobs with educated, qualified individuals, instituting this rewrite on qualified immunity would make it nearly impossible to fill these positions.

Thank you,

Subject: Opposition to Senate Bill 2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Janet E. Brown and I live at 163 Packard St, Lancaster, MA 01523. I work at MCI Concord and am a CO1. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Janet E. Brown

Subject: Bill S.2800

Dear Representative,

While I understand the events that have occurred in different parts of the nation are disgraceful, categorizing all law enforcement officers as the problem is not the solution. Frankly, it is a lazy way to deal with a larger issue. I cannot help but wonder why Massachusetts is never in the spotlight for these tragedies. I know it is due to the fact that the training in Massachusetts is significantly superior than those in most of the other states. In Massachusetts you have Officer's that attend a 26 week academy. Academies in other parts of the country can be only 14 weeks.

Does racism play a role in law enforcement? You bet it does, but I am here to tell you that it is not with the patrol officer. It is with the Massachusetts General Law. Changing the minimum mandatory sentencing or statues is difficult. So it is certainly easier to blame it on the cop who gets called to the scene of a crime, makes an arrest, files the appropriate charges then hands it off to the court house. A police department receives a report of a suspicious person. The officer is dispatched and responds to find a minority person. The officer has an interaction with this person and clears it out as unfounded. Now people hear about this and automatically blame the officer accusing him of being a racist. Is the cop a racist, or was he doing his job? What if the officer never responded, do you think the reporting party would have stopped calling?

You see, the officer is not racist, society is. The law is. The patrol officer is not. Yet the patrol officer is the easiest target to blame. There is always room for additional training for officers. I am not naive to the fact that not every police officer serves with integrity. But to take away basic protections and rights for the officers is absurd. Officers are willing to sacrifice their lives, but now they are being asked to sacrifice their family's wellbeing, all in the name of political pressure?

If you take away qualified immunity, you know what you are going to get? Less qualified police officers. Police departments nationwide are already scraping the bottom of the barrel to hire because the benefits of the job don't outweigh the risk. When good, honest officers walk off the job because they are not willing to risk their family's livelihood, you are only going to get less qualified people to do the job. Does that sound like the solution?

How about putting money back into the police departments for training. Police Officers have become social workers, marriage counselors, psychologists, teachers, parents and the list goes on. You will not find a police officer in the commonwealth who would be upset about having social workers respond to non-police related calls instead of them. But leave the police officer's protection with qualified immunity alone. The police officers rely on qualified immunity for the same reasons clerk magistrates, prosecutors and judges do; mistakes happen. Not due to maliciousness but due to the facts at hand. I strongly urge you to consider your position and ask yourself, if the majority of good and honest police officers walk off the job, who will you be left with?

This in combination with the portion of the bill encouraging private citizens to interfere in police business if they feel it is excessive is reckless. Have you ever been in a fight? If you have, then you know it never looks good. Ever. Now you are giving private citizens who have no knowledge of the use of force continuum officers abide by and courts rule on, the authority to assist the arrestee? You want officers to accept this? How do you think this will end? This is going to get people hurt and or killed. We ask too much of our officers and frankly, I could not blame them for wanting to walk away from their profession and show these extremists and reactionaries just how lawless society will be. I will again reiterate, if this passes, we will become a lawless society. Maybe that is what some people want, I do not. I do not want it for my young family, and I know the silent majority does not.

Many politicians believe if they do not support this, it will be political suicide. I am here to tell you the silent majority is disgusted by the events that have transpired since the Minneapolis tragedy. If you do support this, this will be political suicide. Once lawlessness takes over, people will remember who supported these bills and it will affect their voting. I urge you to consult with experts in this matter, and not just give into political pressure.

Respectfully,

John Annunziata

To Chair Aaron Michiewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

My name is Linda Harrington I live at 8 Esbjurn Drive, Rehoboth, Ma 02769 phone 774-203-3007.

I have concerns with a School Resouce officer answering to Superintendents. We had a terrible experience with our School District concerning our youngest daughter. Our case was brought to both the BSEA and Bristol County Probate Court. The District sent a signed Official Statement with Letterhead of all the Administrators names to the Probate Family Court to try to stop our daughter from obtaining a Protection Order against another student. We presented the Official letter signed by Judge Berman DOE contradicting what the District reported to Judge LaStaiti. We won both cases. Our family went through hell. My children were in that School District from 1980 with my first until our daughter was transferred to a private school by Judge Berman in 2006. Until then I was unaware of how difficult, expensive, and exhausting it can be when parents have a problem with a school tht has another agenda. I now know how often BSEA has to step in to correct these problems and that it's not uncommon to find schools at fault. If you have any questions or would like to see paperwork on my case please contact me. I will be more than happy to provide you with anything you need. Below are my concerns when it comes to putting a School Resource Officer under the control of the District.

1 A good school resource officer does more to promote trust between young people and the police. 2. School Districts and School Unions do everything they can to protect the Districts reputation. I have great concerns with Superintendents overseeing the policing the School Districts when another School employee or a student they have reason to protect acts in an improper or illegal way?

Thank you,

Hello

Just writing to tell you my concerns with getting rid of qualified immunity. I am concerned that this will turn away good, young men and women from applying for law enforcement jobs. I think if you take this out you will see more suits coming out of the woodwork suing our good law enforcement officers. Let's face it there is some responsibility for getting into these situations by the offenders, but everyone thinks they have the right to do illegal things and not get caught and arrested. Please reconsider this. If we continue on this path no one in this State will like the cops we will be left with.

Please find below my email to Speaker DeLeo with a copy to House Members outlining my concerns for the Police Reform Bill in its current state.

Mr. Speaker,

I am begging you to BE EVER SO THOUGHTFUL as you lead the house in a debate about the Police Reform Bill the Senate, I believe foolishly, passed in its current form. AND....I might add....STUCK IT TO FIREFIGHTERS AND NURSES by limiting and/or taking away their Qualified Immunity! OUR NURSES...?? REALLY....?? THE NURSES WHO SELFLESSLY MANNED

HOSPITAL EMERGENCY ROOMS, ICUs and COVID FLOORS during the COVID Pandemic.?? AND UNDER THE GUISE OF A POLICE REFORM BILL?

THIS IS A CLEAR MESSAGE THAT OUR ELECTED OFFICIALS TRULY HATE THEIR CONSTITUENTS!

Then why not take away Qualified Immunity from ALL who hold public office....senators, representatives, governors, mayors....?

One of the main reasons our country is unique and free is that at the very base of our freedoms is our Law and Order. IF WE LOSE OUR POLICE, WHICH WE WILL IF THIS BILL PASSES - POLICE OFFICERS WILL WALK OFF OF THE JOB (many have verbalized they will and many already have left). WE WILL HAVE NO LAW AND ORDER....WE WILL LIVE UNDER MOB RULE (criminals will be empowered)....WE WILL NOT HAVE A STATE or COUNTRY....

IS THIS WHAT YOU WANT FOR MASSACHUSETTS? IS THIS WHAT YOU WANT FOR OUR COUNTRY?

As I expressed to all Senate members before their final imposition of their overwhelming support of LAWLESSNESS onto the hard working, tax paying, law abiding Massachusetts citizens, my main concerns are as follows:

**DO NOT LIMIT OR TAKE AWAY QUALIFIED IMMUNITY FROM POLICE, FIREFIGHTERS AND NURSES! DOING SO WILL DIMINISH THEIR ABILITY TO DO THEIR JOB TO THE BEST OF THEIR ABILITY.

**THIS BILL SUPPORTS ABOLISHING THE POLICE! IT WILL FORCE POLICE OFFICERS TO LEAVE THEIR PROFESSION; YOUNG PEOPLE WILL BE DETERRED FROM SEEKING THIS PROFESSION.

We need our police to bridge the gap between our communities and law and order through relationship building, especially with our youth.

**CRIMINALS WILL BE EMPOWERED! THE PUBLIC WILL NOT BE SAFE! (especially the most vulnerable in low income communities)

**WE NEED A PUBLIC HEARING! THERE ARE MANY STAKEHOLDERS WHO HAVE NOT BEEN INVOLVED IN THIS PROCESS!

Supporting this Bill IS A STATEMENT IN SUPPORT OF LAWLESSNESS IN MASS AND IN THE UNITED STATES. Supporting this BILL TELLS THE hard working, tax paying, law abiding Massachusetts citizens OUR ELECTED OFFICIALS DO NOT CARE ABOUT US/OUR SAFETY AND SECURITY....SAFETY..Hmmm....Isn't this ONE REASON WHY WE PAY TAXES??

WE WILL NOT HAVE A STATE OR COUNTRY UNLESS WE HAVE LAW AND ORDER.

I AM BEGGING YOU....PLEASE DO NOT PASS THIS BILL....

EXTREMELY CONCERNED,
Massachusetts Voter

I have always been proud of MA being the first state to legalize gay marriage, and I hope to see us continue to make the right choices ahead of the curve and set the standard for the rest of the country to follow.

It's time to eliminate qualified immunity, ban chokeholds, reallocate state funds to communities disproportionately impacted by the criminal justice system, and allow the Mass AG to file lawsuits against discriminatory police departments. Good morning Ladies and Gentlemen;

As a pharmacist and community activist, I feel an obligation to express my opinion. If and only if, police reform is needed, I would hope you all took the proper time to debate this issue. A bill of this magnitude should be carefully studied and many people way in on, such as a citizens petition or whatever you call that.. These legislations being discussed throughout the country is being done in haste.

I for one can tell you my experiences with the police. As a pharmacist who graduated from Massachusetts College of Pharmacy in 1968 and the victim of holdups and robberies for controlled medications such as oxycontin and sometime money, with out the police I'm sure I would not be alive today. Defunding police departments etc could be the most important piece of legislation you will vote on this year. Police just don't serve in criminal matters, when I suspect a family member is abusing an elderly, I call Bristol Elder Services and the police department. When I am dealing with a mentally ill patient who has gone off of their medication or they are self medicating, I call their physician and the police, I hope you get my drift. If you would prefer, I would be happy to collect all my thoughts and travel to Boston to testify before your committee. For the sake of all citizens of the Commonwealth, I would hope you would postpone your vote tomorrow, in order for more data. I would think the members of the House of representatives would appreciate your studying issue further and not putting themselves in balancing house leadership and constituents.

Respectfully yours;

Subject: Opposition to bill S2820

As a Massachusetts voter, I am opposed to Massachusetts Senate Bill 2820 (S.2820). This proposed legislation will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. S.2820 robs police officers of the very constitutional rights extended to citizens across the nation.

There is a scarcity of respect and protection extended to police officers in this proposed law. While there is always room for improvement in policing, S.2820 has far too many flaws. There are three concerns that stand out and demand immediate attention, modification, and/or correction.

Due process: Police officers deserve fair and equitable processes under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. Law enforcement deserves the right to appeal, the right given to all of our public servants.

Police Officers Standards Accreditation (POSA) Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. In order to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, one must understand law enforcement. In the same way that doctors oversee doctors, law enforcement must oversee law enforcement.

Finally, those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are among the most highly trained law enforcement officials in the nation. In 2015, President Obama commended the Boston Police Department for its community policing.

I implore you to amend and correct Senate Bill 2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: please preserve qualified immunity

Dear House members,

I'm writing regarding the Senate's approval of Bill S.2800, specifically the part about qualified immunity. I understand you'll be taking this issue up next.

The removal of qualified immunity would not have prevented the murder of George Floyd. Currently, qualified immunity does not protect anyone against criminal prosecution, therefore, in its current state, it also won't prevent George Floyd's murderers from going to jail, where they should be.

Since the George Floyd tragedy is the catalyst to this bill, I assume those supporting it believe police officers, as a whole, are racist and therefore believe this bill will take significant steps toward stopping this racism. But if the intention is to stop racism, I ask how ending qualified immunity will do this? The racism allegedly occurs long before qualified immunity comes into play. Ending or curtailing qualified immunity will only open up the possibility of civil prosecution AFTER the racist act is committed.

Ironically those voting on this bill are protected by the very thing that's potentially being taken away from your fellow public servants. In addition to putting teachers, local selectmen and many other families at risk, removing qualified immunity will do nothing more than make a police officer fearful of doing his or her job due to the threat of frivolous litigation, which will create hesitation, similar to what killed Officer Chesna of Weymouth. It will decrease safety in the Commonwealth and make one of the most stressful jobs in the nation even more stressful. Officers will have to worry that something as simple as a traffic stop could now be cause for law suits and legal fees that could put them out of their home.

Did you ever arrive to work to have to direct traffic around remains of a human body left on a highway? Do you have doctors call you, asking for help in controlling their patient? When you go to work, do people scream in your face, nose-to-nose, calling you a racist pig? Do you strap on a bullet proof vest and chase someone down a street, who you know is armed and has just killed another human? Do people think you're a racist just because of your profession?

If you answered no to any of the questions above, I implore you to have deep conversations with someone in law enforcement before thinking that ending qualified immunity will do anything other than to increase frivolous litigation against - and the stress levels of - law enforcement officers. These men and women act in good faith with only split seconds to make decisions on how he or she may be able to save someone's life, perhaps even their own.

I'm the proud wife of a sergeant on the MA State Police. Prior to serving the state, my husband served on the Belmont Police Department, where we both grew up. My husband has dedicated his life to protecting you, the citizens of the Commonwealth, but if you chip away at qualified immunity, you'll be turning your back on protecting him, me and our three kids.

Every day, my husband and I teach our kids racism is a behavior, not a profession. We teach them to have compassion, love and caring for all skin colors, religions, political beliefs and professions. And now I'm asking you to do the same. Please consider focusing your bill on how to prevent the racist acts of a few before they occur. We will not stop racism by just redirecting hate - and ending qualified immunity for law enforcement is doing just that.

Thank you for your consideration.

Wishing you good health and safety,

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,
My name is Karen Furtado and I live at 301 High St, Somerset, MA. I work at MCI-Cedar Junction and I am a Sgt. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

?????????? ?????????? ??????????????????????????????????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise. ?????????????????? ??????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Subject: Police reform bill & qualified immunity

To whom it may concern,

Although I do agree that police reform is needed I feel that the current police reform bill gets one thing wrong which will undoubtedly make the public at large and first responders far less safe. Qualified immunity must not be taken away from any first responder. Bad police officers that break the law are not ultimately protected by qualified immunity if they knowingly break the law. That should continue to be the case. Removing qualified immunity from police officers & first responders that do their job in a professional and moral manner must continue to be protected at least until they have had an opportunity to have their day in court. This is what the constitution allows for any private citizen and this right should certainly not be taken away from any first responder. Doing so will fundamentally change policing as we know it. Every city and town will lose quality police officers and first responders as they will no longer feel any form of protection for doing their job correctly. It will give more power to potential and current criminals as they will be able to frivolously sue police officers and first responders. Not only will good police officers and first responders leave employment but future hires will be far less qualified choices of hire. I implore you not to let this happen. We have already seen a scary uptick in violence in major cities like New York City, Seattle and St Louis. Defunding the police and removing qualified immunity will lead to more of this and make the public far less safe. Passing this bill as is will have long term ramifications that will ultimately cost the Commonwealth of Massachusetts far too many innocent lives.

Thank you,

John Crowley

Subject: In Support of the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800)

To whom it may concern,

I would like to express my full support of the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800). As we have seen time and time again in this country, the force meant to protect and serve has not been held accountable when they abuse their power. The police force as we know it is – quite ironically – above the law; it is time that the country begins to combat this problem, and I have faith that the state of Massachusetts will spearhead this movement through S.2800.

All of the bill's components are of great importance to me, but the most important may be its provisions restricting qualified immunity for police, as well as its inclusion of reallocating state funds to communities disproportionately affected by the criminal justice system. We should not live in a society where those who enforce the law are not held to it, especially not while certain communities are consistently negatively impacted by their actions.

It is my sincere hope that the Massachusetts House of Representatives will move forward with this bill. Doing so would be a move toward justice and making the state of Massachusetts safer for its minorities.

Subject: House bill 2820 / Senate Bill 2800

Greetings House Representatives:

This morning, I would like to take a moment to address future concerns of Massachusetts regarding Police Reform.

Speaking for myself, I agree with change and support the Police reform bill. Though, the qualified immunity & due process portion needs to be revisited.

It will make it hard for Police & Fire to response & aid domestic violence & child abuse calls of service with 100% heart & soul to help victims & arrest the abuser with the bill written currently.

I truly believe, law-enforcement & first responder individuals will think twice & continue to second-guess themselves which could lead to injury to themselves or members of the public.

For the most part, the Commonwealth is safe to walk and enjoy. My concern is in the years to follow, will Police & Fire be less likely to be proactive resulting in rise in crime affecting young families.

For example, in the last five or six years, I have heard & witnessed "I'm Police off duty, call 911" then observed Police Officers provide medical care to a child hit by a car, another occasion an elderly man robbed and knocked over, the off duty officer stood by him providing comfort until EMS arrived. Sadly, those type of "good deed" actions will probably go away if we continue to treat the Police & Fire in the manner we are today. Public servants will be more concerned about getting sued in court than helping the public.

Side note: Surprisingly, there is nothing related to body worn cameras for police officers listed in this reform bill. Not another day should pass until all Police Officers are wearing body cameras documenting their behavior & members of the Public.

I would like to end with this nobody likes a dirty cop, but to punish all the good cops is wrong & will result in poor results for communities it's happening two states over.

NYC news this morning perfect example. CNN: Several boroughs of New York requesting for NYPD to bring back Non-uniform officers to their communities due to rise in crime. Please don't let Massachusetts turn into New York City.

Subject: Senate Bill 2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

I am writing to you as a concerned citizen in regard to the unintended consequences that may arise from the passing of the police reform bill, S.2820. Massachusetts has always been a state where it's citizens and first responders have worked together in order to combat threats to our health and safety. This bill would strain the relationship between our police officers and the community. In the last several weeks to months, we have seen violence and crime increase in our city and across the country. Now is not the time to impose new laws and regulations without doing the proper due diligence, especially when the event that caused this debate was in a location very different from the state we all love.

Our police officers in the state of Massachusetts are some of the highest trained in the country. They need the support of their state and local government in order to perform their job duties to the highest degree possible. If this bill passes, I fear that many excellent police officers will retire early, or leave the profession altogether, which would have catastrophic consequences. This bill could drastically reduce the number of individuals who enter into professions of public service, not only police officers, but other essential public workers as well.

I agree that there are issues in our society such as systemic racism that need to be addressed. However, this bill will not help this issue and will most likely make it worse. I urge you to think about the unintended consequences of this bill and bring all involved parties to the table to discuss how to handle this issue such that it is done in a productive and positive manner. We need people to come together during this trying and stressful time and not divide our community more than it already has been.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Nutile

This bill doesn't only affect police officers, but also the people living in the neighborhoods. This bill was hastily thrown together to please "the mob". This is a large bill and the public has a right to see what's in it before deciding if they are for it or not. We all believe that real change is needed, this is not real change. We need to stop this bill now, so that WE all can sit down and affect change the right way. Thank you for your time on this matter.

My name is Joseph Duca. I am a police officer in this fine state. You need to know that this has been the biggest knee jerk reaction by our legislators, of all time. Bill S.2800 needs to be thought through. It CANNOT pass as it stands. This is not something that can be rushed. It is going to affect more professionals than just police officers. I agree there needs to be reform, but we need to take a deep breath and think this through. This bill has the potential to be detrimental to our society and may very well be the biggest mistake ever made by our legislators. I ask that you please slow down, ask questions, and get facts before making any rash decisions. The senate screwed up BIG TIME!! THE HOUSE NEEDS TO DO THE RIGHT THING!

Vote YES on:

Amendment # 114
representation on POSAC

Amendment # 134
Opportunity for appeal

Amendment # 137
Qualified immunity

Lets be smart about this. I will be PAYING ATTENTION to the votes!

Subject: Testimony regarding S.2820

Dear Chairs Michelewitz and Cronin,

Thank you for your efforts to solicit public testimony as you work towards developing language for this critical piece of legislation that is before you. I am employed as a police officer but am writing this more as a concerned citizen of the Commonwealth.

The citizens of our Commonwealth are, and rightfully should be protected against unreasonable seizures by the Fourth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution as well as the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act (M.G.L. ch.12, §§ 11H, 11I). Qualified Immunity ("QI"), as it is currently applied DOES NOT protect illegal actions committed by public servants. Rather, QI protects individual public servants from being found personally liable for a violation of civil rights unless the public servant was aware that the committed act violated "clearly established." law. The protections of QI rely on the reasonableness standard, which is determined by "whether a reasonable official could have believed his actions were lawful in light of clearly established law and the information that the official possessed at the time of his allegedly unlawful conduct." It is important to note that this does not refer to the subjective beliefs of that particular official at the time of the alleged wrongdoing, but of the objective belief of a reasonable officer.

In support of QI, the Supreme Court has stated that "by defining the limits of qualified immunity in objective terms, we provide no license to lawless conduct. Based on the current application of QI, if public servants are found to have committed lawless acts, they should be held accountable and face sanctions that are commensurate with the severity of that illegal act. I don't know of anyone who disputes that.

QI, as it is currently applied in the Commonwealth, is an effective balance between preventing police misconduct and frivolous lawsuits brought against those officers who act appropriately in the function of their duties. If this legislation intends to reduce acts of misconduct committed by public servants, diluting QI will not serve that end. Instead, legislation should focus on increases in education and training of public servants, greater transparency at all levels of government, and through the increased deployment of both body-worn and cruiser cameras by police.

I appreciate the efforts and best intentions of those who worked to craft the language found in this current legislation, S.2800 and now S.2820. But like many, I fear that the bill as written will have several unintended negative consequences including, but not limited to our already burdened state courts being overwhelmed with a flood of litigation brought forth by plaintiffs seeking an advantage, extreme fiscal burdens being placed on municipalities that will be forced to defend the actions of indemnified public officials, state courts being required to interpret new QI language without the aid of case law, and the impact that new QI language will have on all public employees (firefighters, EMS personnel, teachers, police and corrections officers, etc.).

I am all for any legislation that holds bad public servants accountable. But good legislation that will stand the test of time cannot be rushed. I respectfully request that no action be taken at this time to change the doctrine of Qualified Immunity. I request that special commission, comprised of stakeholders be formed, and be given ample time to give thoughtful consideration to what changes, if any are needed to the doctrine of Qualified Immunity, and to the potential effect those changes will have on the safety and welfare of the citizens of the Commonwealth.

Respectfully submitted,

James A. Loynd

Hello,

There is absolutely nothing about this bill that is necessary. It is reactionary and was pushed through to pacify activists who do not represent the majority law abiding citizens.

If only other public safety bills like Melissa's Law was passed in such break neck speed.

Hello,

I am writing you with major concerns for myself as an employee of a municipality in the Commonwealth, my fellow co-workers, and all police officers and Municipal workers. This bill cannot pass as written without bringing major detrimental consequences to the entire infrastructure of our statewide governmental operations and the personnel that provide those services. This bill puts all of us in a position for legal ramifications while performing our duties a civil servants. The current laws do not allow for anyone that breaks the law to get away with anything without consequences. The bill as proposed exposes all of us to frivolous lawsuits from anyone that chooses to bring a case against someone for their own personal gains. Passing this bill only gives more leverage to citizens that already have the proper tools to legally pursue any injustice that they may have incurred.

Once again I urge and plead with you to NOT PASS this bill.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Hi,

I am a resident of Roxbury, MA and I support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800). I hope to see Massachusetts continue to make the right choices ahead of the curve and set the standard for the rest of the country to follow. It's time to eliminate qualified immunity, ban chokeholds, reallocate state funds to communities disproportionately impacted by the criminal justice system, and allow the Mass AG to file lawsuits against discriminatory police departments. I hope to see this legislation pass so I can continue to be a proud resident.

Thank you,

Subject: Police reform bill

Good morning my name is Jason Mosley I'm a 46-year-old black Father of three. As a child I have experience racism growing up going to a Catholic school including my is going to college I want to school that was predominantly white College so I have experience racism

I find that this bill does not solve the problem of systematic racism do I believe that there should be some type of police reform yes I do but this is done hasty in without conversation with the other side it puts a lot of police officers in jeopardy of losing their homes and putting their lives in jeopardy because they have to second-guess whether or not they're going to get sued yes police should be held accountable for taking away qualified immunity is not a way of making please being accountable

I believe there should be some type of committee to oversee the police officer being held accountable for police officer see that another officer may be violating someone's constitutional right but as a police officer working for 20 years I can say That 90% probably even 95% of the police officers in the Commonwealth do a great job protecting those who can't protect themselves and those people that are making up this bill to take those and make sure that they can sleep In peace at night.

By passing this bill within a year you got to see a rise in violent crime is going to have a lot of peace officers retire in five years has a huge drop in people want to become police officers which means you have less police on the road you won't have to worry about the funding I really would hope that you would take the time to speak to the other side the police unions the minority police unions people like myself

I've been a defensive tactics instructor for eight years and I have taught the program aNd trained police officers not to use excessive force We are probably on the best train states in United States as far as police training yes if there's was more funding for training We would be better police officers we don't have a problem that a lot of the other states are having .Because we have such a good friend but by passing this bill you're going to take away the ability for police officers to police protect people that put you in office

I'm disappointed that this input was put in by a bunch of white liberal legislators did not take any consideration or ask or spoke to any people of color but his bill was made up by some liberal out westWho's not even a person of color I strongly suggest that you take in consideration this letter that I'm writing and do some due diligence and talking to the other side what you were talking to police Officers that work on the job enough color

Subject: Testimony Bill S2820

To the members of the House of Representatives.

My name is Wayne Thornhill. I am a citizen, veteran and police officer in the Commonwealth. I am twenty nine years old and have dedicated my life to serving and protecting this country and our communities. As a citizen I am deeply concerned with the process that occurred in the Massachusetts Senate early this week. However, I am grateful and hopeful that I can reach some of you during this time.

Let me be clear that as a police officer I along with my colleagues agree that change and reform is good and needed for the justice system as a whole. What happened in Minneapolis to Mr Floyd is an outrage and has been condemned by every law enforcement officer near and far. That being said how can a former officer now incarcerated inmate dictate how policing is conducted in Massachusetts 1400 miles away. In what other profession do we punish the many for the sins of a few ? Certainly not your profession, or any others I can think of.

Law enforcement officers in Massachusetts are not asking for any favors. We agree that accountability, transparency and trust are crucial elements in our profession. All we are asking for is for a seat at the table and a fair representation. To be involved in the solutions and not treated as an enemy of the people.

There has been a real hatred for law enforcement the past few years and simply put we are tired. Tired of being abused, physically assaulted, dragged through the mud and yes even murdered. This week two years ago we were mourning a murdered officer. Sergeant Michael Chesna of Weymouth PD. And three months prior to that Sergeant Sean Gannon of Yarmouth PD. How quickly people forget it seems. Below are some of the important issues in this bill that need to be addressed. These issues not only affect police officers but all labor unions and public employees. I'd also expect to see your own profession in the mix as well if these amendments are not fixed.

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

I firmly believe that Massachusetts has the best law enforcement officers in the nation. The highest educated, trained, hard working and honest professionals. Law enforcement is a tough profession and it takes a special person to work in this field. We see the good, great and horrific sides of humanity. We are called into situations most of the time chaotic and expected to solve an issue we may not have the answers for. We don't ask what race, gender, ethnicity or beliefs you are before we show up and give 100 percent to help you.

We are begging to be part of the solution not against it. What we need is support from our communities not division. We need more quality training and funding that allows us to provide the highest of professional service to our communities. We want our communities to be engaged with us. We want accountability but we also deserve to be respected and protected when doing the right thing without fear of losing everything.

I fear that if these above amendments are not discussed and debated then the citizens of the Commonwealth will suffer. To put it simply no one will want this job. Good, educated, kind hearted professionals will retire, leave for other state's, and other jobs. The type of applicant you will get will not be of the same caliber. Policing is a melting pot of society. Officers from all walks of life, races, ethnicities, genders, and religions. We are and should be an image of our communities. I am proud to be a police officer. I am proud to continue to serve this country and its diverse communities. "The police are the public, and the public are the police"- Sir Robert Peel. Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully,

Dear Members of the House,

My name is Francesca Brecha and I am a resident of Mission Hill in Boston (02120) and former City of Boston employee. I am writing to you today to express my support for the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S2820).

When I read about the introduction of this bill by the State Senate, I felt incredibly proud to be a member of the second state in this country which will make progress toward ending qualified immunity and meaningful change to the way that policing works in this country. Of special significance to me is the "Shift" aspect of the bill, in which funding is reallocated from an over-militarized police force to communities that have long been in need. As a person who has volunteered in many different capacities in underserved Boston communities, I have seen firsthand the need for an increase in the financial resources going toward programs to help give hope to the next generation of Bostonians.

As I'm sure you are being overwhelmed with email testimonies I will keep this one brief, but I just want to mention again that this bill has given me and many others hope for the future of our state and country. Let Massachusetts pave the way for the country, and become an example of a strong and meaningful response to the current uprising for Black lives and communities.

All the best,

Francesca

Please see the letter that I emailed to Speaker DeLeo's office yesterday.

Dear Speaker DeLeo,

I'm writing as a concerned citizen of the Commonwealth regarding the Policing Reform Bill.

First and foremost, the way in which this bill passed the Senate was disgraceful. I trust that the House, under your leadership, will have a much more open process so that the public will be aware of everything that is in this bill.

I find the bill as a whole to be irresponsible. As a resident of the Commonwealth I am concerned with the consequences of police officers, firefighters and nurses losing qualified immunity. We are expecting our front line workers to come to work every day knowing that they can be personally sued for performing their job? Recently there was a story on the news about an officer who saved an infant's life by giving her CPR. It's all caught on his dash cam. It's a great story, but had something tragically gone wrong the officer could be sued without qualified immunity. (It's not a MA case, but the same would apply).

Under this bill, how are police officers expected to arrest someone who doesn't want to be arrested? Police are being asked to subdue violent criminals without using any force whatsoever. How will they defend themselves and us?

I'm not opposed to a review board for police but I am opposed to it being made up entirely by civilians and feel very strongly that police should have a seat at the table. I also think that any civilian on this board should be required to take the same use of force training that the police officers in the Commonwealth are required to take. Police officers, or any profession for that matter, being put under a microscope by people that have no idea what the job involves seem ludicrous to me.

Thank you for your time and I look forward to watching this bill as it makes its way through the House process.

Respectfully,

Lynn Romano

As a resident of Massachusetts, I am against removing the qualified immunity defense from public employees. The language in section 7(a) already allows for an exemption from protection if the employees' action is intentional or willful misconduct. ("except that any such person shall not be protected from suit or liability for any damage, loss, injury or liability caused by the intentional or willful and wanton misconduct of any such person").

Please consider expanding the language to include a more definite exemption, but do not remove protections for public employees acting and performing their jobs in good faith.

To whom it may concern,

My name is John Nunes, I am a citizen of the town of Berkley. I have read the bill you've passed and I find it disgraceful. It is a symbolic spit in face to every honest hard-working tax payer and law enforcement officer in the Commonwealth. Before I continue I know that not all of you have disdain and disrespect for the police. I know many of you are on the side of common sense and what is fair and just and I have no doubt you are as disgusted with your colleagues as I am.

You are going to destroy law and order and you will wonder why Police Officers refuse to do their jobs or why good, educated people will not take the job. You are going to see young, educated people leave this job and in case you didn't know this, we kind of need them to stay. You are going to drive them out! We will be left with people who are only looking for a paycheck and don't belong on the job. Leaving all of us unsafe and wondering who to call-when we actually need the police.

It is interesting that many of you are attorneys and what your doing is offensive to the United States Constitution, the Massachusetts Declaration of Rights, common sense, fair play and what's right. What are you going to do when Law and Order falls apart in the Commonwealth and the crime rate explodes like it is in New York City? Police Officers there are falling over each other to retire, and if you think it will not happen here, you are sadly mistaken.

I do not support this Bill in any way shape or form.

Subject: Opposition to S.2800

Dear Representatives of the House,

My name is Patrick Donnelly and I am a proud citizen of Quincy Massachusetts. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2800, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. These are the men and women who put their lives on the line for us. We don't call on police officers when we are enjoying a day at the beach, we call on them when we are in our darkest times. It's time that our leaders stand up for what is right, not what is easy. We need to protect the men and women who dedicate their lives to protecting us. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Patrick Donnelly

Subject: Fwd: S2820 - Police Reform Package

Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

I am writing to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation will be detrimental to public and personal safety of all Massachusetts residents, and will undermine some of the best residents the Commonwealth has, its police, fire, and other public employees. As a constituent I rely on the Senate and House to work to further enhance the safety and protection for my family and myself, not diminish. Passing this bill as currently drafted, would surely diminish and make it nearly impossible for public safety to perform their critical jobs in our society. We must also as a civilized society not turn our back on the Mothers, Fathers, Sisters, Brothers, Sons, and Daughters that don a uniform before every work day, and leave with the knowledge that if called upon they will sacrifice their own lives if needed to protect that public which they serve.

Qualified Immunity: Qualified immunity does not protect Officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who acted within the scope of their training and statutory authority. Furthermore, in its current draft form these protections would be eliminated from all public employees' (Public Health Nurses, Police, Fire, DPW Workers, School Teachers, Crossing Guards, etc.). This would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits against our public workers.

Less than Lethal Tools: Use of force protocols as taught in Massachusetts begin with an Officer's Uniform Appearance and Presence, and continue through deadly force. The existence of these steps is critical, as with a subject's action the officer can scale up reasonably and appropriately. Taking away steps in this hierarchy of response will lead to MORE death, not less. You cannot take tools away from our Officers and expect better outcomes. If anything the focus should be on adding tactics or techniques to avoid lethal encounters.

Civilian Oversight: Law Enforcement and Corrections are currently held to a higher standard than almost any other profession. The nature of the job makes it one of the unique workplaces in America. To expect someone inexperienced with Law Enforcement and the job they perform every day to make judgment calls ("Monday Morning Quarterback") is ridiculous. Adding to this is the selection of a convicted felon to service on the committee. That is both insulting and dangerous. There also does not seem to be the right for due process, or clearly lined out appeal process.

Training: Why is the focus of this bill dismantling policing as we know it, and not enhancing training? Our state's Law Enforcement Officers have one of the most complex jobs in the world and need to make potentially life and death decisions in a moment's notice. The fact that they receive a majority of their training at the beginning of their careers, and they are fortunate if they have in-service training throughout their careers is ridiculous. I would like to see 20% of their career spent on training and equipping them with the tools to be able to make these life or death decisions. Instead of defunding police, further fund police training. This training needs to be focused on tactics, de-escalation, identifying co-worker stress/ in crisis, and operation.

It has never been more important to take a pause, not pass a bill solely to be one of the first in the country to do so, and enhance the public's safety. You are in a position to ensure the safety of your constituents. Few politicians have had such a tremendous task in front of them, but you do. Conversely, you could make a headline one time as a legislative body, and propel the state into one of our darkest periods of crimes and loss of lives.

Please do the right thing, not the trending on Twitter thing.

Honorable Chair Claire Cronin and Chair Aaron Michlewitz,

I am emailing in support of the passage of the Reform, Shift, Build + Act and urge you to ensure the qualified immunity and Redirection of funding language remain in the Reform. I cannot emphasize enough the critical opportunity here for MA to be a leading national example in action to end Police violence.

As a resident of Boston, I see the abuse of over-funded police force acting out racist and inhumane, over-militarized policy every day. Policy which can improve to Save lives with the passage of this bill.

From harrasment and racial profiling of young Black students trying to go to class, to ignoring CDC regulations and not wearing masks while standing less than 3 feet away from each other (I have photos), this is the Boston Police conduct I see. This ingrained Police apathy for Public Health and Community Care is the rule not the exception and is just the beginning of why Reform, Shift, Build + Act Bill must be passed for the immediate and urgent Health and Safety of your MA constituents, most urgently your Black community. I must call you to defend Black lives today and pass this Bill.

Subject: RE: Bill S2820

My Name is Michael Barry (781-241-2339) I am retired and live in Lynn. I also have NO political party affiliations
I am writing to urge you to vote NO on the above bill (S2820) as it would be a disaster for Massachusetts Law Enforcement. I take great exception to the term used "shift resources" as it means nothing more the Defund the police. Cities and States across our great nation that are currently or have already done this are seeing nothing but disastrous effects for their decision. The BLM movement is NOT what it has been made out to be in the media, it is an apparent Anarchist group that has seized the moment with the Covad-19 Pandemic to further their cause WORLDWIDE . Evidence to this being riots in every country they have infiltrated.
If you look outside the state house right now you will see BLM groups demanding our state flag be changed and school mascots be changed. This proves if they are given an inch it will never stop. I will mention that Don Lemon of CNN has publicly stated (on air) the BLM ONLY concerns police brutality. Events of the last month or so have proven this to be true. All the innocent children and young adults that have been murdered by black on black crime has meant nothing to this group or it's alleged agenda. The unfortunate death of Mr Floyd and the covid-19 pandemic gave this group the perfect storm (so to speak) to cause as much havoc and insurrection as possible.
Massachusetts has the best, well trained and diverse police forces in the nation we need to stand by them at this critical moment in history NOT turn our backs on them and feed them to the wolves (as it were) for something that happened in a different state than ours.
Thank you for your time and again PLEASE support our brave men and women of Law Enforcement and defeat this bill.

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz & Chair Claire Cronin and Rep Tommy Vitolo:

Re: Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800)

This bill and an end to Qualified Immunity are key to a truly equitable and just policing of our communities. As a teacher and a mother I stand in complete solidarity with the move to demand police accountability and getting rid of QI.

My neighbors, friends and students of color will have no peace of mind until we address, once and for all, the issue of police brutality. It is not fair that my friends should fear for the well-being and lives of their children and grandchildren as they go about their daily lives.

The problem of police brutality is deeply embedded in department's culture. In 2016 this report showed that <https://www.pbs.org/newshour/nation/fbi-white-supremacists-in-law-enforcement> <[On June 8th, 2020 John Oliver documented police training that focused on police having a kill or be killed instinct and are exhorted to become predators or "... find another job". <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Wf4cea5oObY> <\[Detective Marie Clark and Sgt. justice. It is what prevents victims and their families from having a day in court. It is what shields the racist officers and allows them to violate the civil liberty of Black and Brown lives. We cannot talk about dismantling systemic racism in policing without ending QI.

Police accountability starts with getting rid of QI and mitigates the deeper problems we still need to grapple with.

We have a real problem and Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800) is simply a good and necessary start. Please pass it without delay.

Dear Representative Michlewitz and Representative Cronin,

My name is Christopher DeCarlo. I am a Sergeant for the Lynnfield Police Department and am proud to say I am approaching my 10th year as a police officer. In that time, I have graduated law school, became a member of the Massachusetts Bar, become a certified MPTC instructor in legal updates/education and have earned a promotion.

During my time as a law enforcement officer, student and educator; I have learned the value in keeping an open and objective mindset when approaching an issue. This is required when one is looking to reach a positive and productive outcome.

As the bill stands right now, it is evident that people in the Senate have failed in being open and objective when approaching the issue of Law Enforcement Reform. The importance of Due Process, adequate representation on the POSA Committee and the need to maintain Qualified Immunity were lost on the majority of senators when voting on this bill.

I spoke to senators who admittedly did not know or understand what Qualified Immunity is, which is troubling. How can one make an educated decision on a subject that he or she does not have an understanding of? Still, the amendment asking for an independent study on Qualified Immunity was voted down almost unanimously.

If the making of this bill continues on its current path, the outcome will not be a positive one. Instead, you will leave Officers unprotected and unable to do their job. You will see good officers walk away and make it difficult if not impossible to hire quality candidates. The costs to the state and municipalities will be tremendous.

As it stands, this bill does not accomplish the goal of positive reform, but is instead an attack on Law Enforcement and only hurts the profession. I hope you can understand this and I hope you can be open and objective, listen to the voices of Law Enforcement Officers and come to a positive and productive solution.

Sincerely,

As a resident of the State of MA I implore you to leave policing alone. I realize there are lots of things going on in the Country which are of great concern. I believe in the State of MA -Police organizations are doing an outstanding job in difficult situations. We can't have a knee jerk reaction to a horrible situation that occurred in another state.

Please allow Cities, Towns and Police leaders the ability to handle their departments as they have been doing so well.

We can't possibly legislate everything in this world. Please allow the training and procedures put in place by Police Departments to continue and and to manage their staff as they see fit.

Respectfully,

Hello,

I am a resident of Belmont, MA and I unequivocally support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800).

Massachusetts has always been on the forefront of states passing legislation to support the people that live here and we've never shied away from decisions that seemed radical at the time. I have always been proud of - and bragged about - MA being the first state to legalize gay marriage, and I hope to see us continue to make the right choices ahead of the curve and set the standard for the rest of the country to follow. It's time to eliminate qualified immunity, ban chokeholds, reallocate state funds to communities disproportionately impacted by the criminal justice system, and allow the Mass AG to file lawsuits against discriminatory police departments. I hope to see this legislation pass so I can continue to be a proud resident.

Thank you,

Yara

Subject: S. 2820 -- Police Reform

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin:

I am writing to urge you in the strongest possible terms to have your Committees and the full House adopt S. 2820, an Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

It is long overdue for Massachusetts to recognize the inequalities that pervade our criminal justice system, and improving police practices and accountability are essential steps towards remedying that situation. One major component of such reform is ensuring there are consequences for abuse by police; that is why it is imperative that the House bill ensure that police are accountable to the public in part by modifying qualified immunity. The already adopted Senate bill does not eliminate qualified immunity. It provides that qualified immunity cannot be applied in civil matters where the public official behaved in a way that they should know is unlawful. This equates roughly to not having qualified immunity when "a reasonable defendant would believe that such conduct would violate the law." This construct is extremely close to existing doctrine – it still would allow early dismissal upon a showing of objective reasonableness.

I understand there is strong pressure on the House to weaken or even decline to act on this measure, but I would consider it unconscionable in light of all the evidence of inappropriate and criminal activity by police == frequently resulting in the death of persons of color -- if the House gives in to this pressure.

Please act swiftly and decisively to ensure Massachusetts residents can be proud of and confident in our police forces by adopting S 2820.

Thank you for considering my views.

Sincerely,

Carol Jolly

Subject: Reforming Police Standards

Good morning -

I am writing in order to submit testimony on the proposed reform of police standards.

I am a life-long resident of Massachusetts, and I am presently employed as a police officer.

I would like to register my concerns about any proposal which would infringe on the well-established doctrine of qualified immunity.

Qualified immunity does NOT protect "bad cops". Qualified immunity protects police officers, and other government employees, from being held personally liable for suits which are brought against them for performing their duties.

Qualified immunity does NOT protect police officers that act outside of the scope of their duties and training.

I believe that any infringement on qualified immunity will result in disastrous consequences, not only for the police profession, but for the citizens of the Commonwealth.

Without qualified immunity, police officers will have to take on personal liability every time they make a decision on the street, interact with anyone, take enforcement actions, etc. This second-guessing is going to result in police officers being less pro-active, and thereby becoming completely reactionary.

Pro-active policing and community interaction have been proven to reduce crime and fear of crime in communities. Without qualified immunity, police officers may view pro-active policing as too much of a liability, and criminals will be emboldened, as they will recognize that the police will not actively seek to pursue them.

Furthermore, the removal of qualified immunity will result in a decrease of quality candidates for the law enforcement profession. As it is, the number of qualified candidates has been in steady decline over the past several years. Quality candidates will likely not be attracted to this profession if it continues to be vilified. Candidates will likely not be attracted to this profession if it requires them to take on personal liability for enforcing laws.

Conversely, the removal of qualified immunity will result in a mass exodus of currently employed, seasoned police officers. If faced with the prospect of assuming personal liability for the most mundane decisions and actions one makes in the course of their duties, a significant number of veteran officers can be expected to leave the profession. This will result in staffing shortages, inept supervision, and ultimately create a less effective and less efficient police force.

I recognize that as a free society, we should be continuously seeking to improve how we police ourselves. Removing qualified immunity and making police officers, and other governmental employees, personally liable for grievances which arise as a result of enforcing laws or policies of the Commonwealth is NOT the way to improve policing.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

To Claire Cronin,

I am a 60 year old white woman living in Amesbury MA.

I am writing to express my support to reform the behaviors allowed by the MA police in a way that limits the damage they can do to the health and well being of potential arrestees, particularly minorities.

I have a friend whose African American son goes to college in Boston. He suffered an incident in his dorm room that I prefer not to detail, but the result was a trip to the ER and multiple contusions. He was intoxicated, but in no way dangerous or belligerent. I realize this was not a Boston cop, but the message remains the same. If this had been a white kid, it never would have happened.

Please consider reforming the way police are trained to respond to incidents. Attitudes must change.

Thank you,

Subject: Opposition to S2800

Hello,

Thank you for the opportunity to have our voices heard. I am in staunch opposition of this bill as it is written. I am a Police Officer in Bourne and have served the public as an EMT since I was 18 years old. I believe there are some good points relayed such as more training for police officers and different ways in which to recruit good candidates for the position, and best of all having social workers and other professionals work with police during mental health emergencies. On the Cape we are lucky enough to have an agency that has psych clinicians and social workers that will come to the scene and assist us. Having worked on an ambulance and in an Emergency Room, I know not all the people we interact with that are having psychiatric or substance abuse issues need to go to the hospital. Unfortunately the way our ENTIRE system works, we are limited in our options to keep these people safe and often wind up transferring them to a hospital.

This hastily crafted and sneaky bill shows that it is clear that many politicians are out of touch with what the public wants and how police are trained. Massachusetts does not teach choke holds in the academy and they would be out of the scope in which we are trained (open for civil suit). The public in general is not familiar with the way the police operate and why they operate in certain ways. I don't expect them to, but to Monday morning quarterback an officers split second decision with absolutely no basis of knowledge is dangerous, and as Sgt. Chesna showed, deadly. Officers can not do their jobs when they will be crucified immediately after. It is as almost becoming better to be killed in the line of duty and having your family benefit from it then do the right thing and still lose everything you own. There will be no proactive policing which will lead to more violence and an essential open air drug market which will lead to even more violence and overdoses. I am scared for our future.

Getting rid of qualified immunity will immediately destroy this State. Policing will be at the forefront of this because they are called to things that no one else can or wants to deal with. Soon, police will not want to deal with it either and will give the minimum amount of effort for every call. That is assuming anyone will ever want to be a police officer again. Most that can retire, will. Well qualified officers will quit (which includes me) and actually make money in the private sector. That leaves few people to do this job and I can guarantee the candidates that do, will not be what your looking for in a public servant. Removing qualified immunity also will place every other public employee, such a fire fighters, paramedics, nurses, doctors, and teachers in danger to lose everything they own to frivolous law suits. These people, who are your constituents, have chosen to dedicate their lives to others and to stab them in the back is pathetic and an affront to the oath you took when taking office.

I could give hundreds of examples of how life in the Commonwealth would change for the worst, and very few, if any, examples of how it would change for the better. But if this bill passes you will see how bad this bill was in real life and you will wish you made the correct decision when you voted.

Thank you for your time and please do not let this bill pass.

Subject: Re: Bill no. S2820

I am writing to strongly support the passage of the Act to Reform Police Standards and Shift Resources toward equitable, fair and just valuing of communities of color! It is WAY past the time to look at the appropriate police tasks, skills and job descriptions - which DO NOT train or equip them to helpfully address the mental health needs of our communities of color. These needs so often get criminalized and the police get overburdened with issues they are not trained to handle. Social services, social community supports, education needs, health access and services -- these areas are where more funding is desperately needed !!! -- to build strong, emotionally and physically healthy families and communities that don't live in fear or in survival mode.

I , Jeffrey J. Brodeur, of Hyannis Ma formerly Brookline and West Roxbury , am against Bill S2820. The main issue I have with the bill is its limited immunity of our police and first responders.

I also believe bill has excessive oversight of the police and will prevent them to properly to keep the citizens of Massachusetts safe.

I do believe several issues in the bill are needed :

- 1) Getting rid of no knock warrants.
- 2) No choke holds.
- 3) Any officer who witnesses another officer committing abuse must intervene.

There should be complete immunity of police. Otherwise a house of cards will happen.

- 1) No one will want to be in law enforcement.
- 2) Police will second guess whether the next arrest they conduct will cost them their lives , jobs or homes.
- 3) As a citizen of Massachusetts, after watching what has happened in other cities such as chaos , lawlessness and disrespect of law enforcement, there is a chance that citizens of Massachusetts would move out if they felt it was not safe to live in the state.
- 4) As a leader in the Veterans community locally and nationally , I would think twice about bringing members and their families to any Conventions if their safety would be compromised.

I am a US Army Veteran who served in the Pacific and Asia, worked in downtown Boston, born in Boston, and graduate of UMass- Boston. I am presently the National President of the Korean War Veterans Association. We have members of all races including Tuskegee Airman, Native Americans and Hispanic Veterans. Many of these Veterans serve on the National Board of Directors with me. We all respect and care for each other.

I don't know one law enforcement officer that wakes up everyday looking to harm citizens of color. There are some who are bad apples and must be weeded out. There must be some reforms but don't tie the hands of police behind their back . That is exactly what this bill would do.

Finally , I will give you a history lesson on race from the Korean War. Massachusetts own Tom Hudner , Medal of Honor recipient during the battle of Chosin Reservoir was over North Korea with his wing man Jesse Brown providing air support for US ground troops . Jesse's plane was hit and Tom purposely ditched his plane to save his brother Jesse. Surrounded by enemy forces and trying to extract Jesse from the cockpit with the night creeping in, Tom stayed with Jesse until he died. Even though he risked being killed or captured, Tom Hudner stayed with his brother Jesse until the end.

Jesse was black and Tom was white.

I guarantee color was a non factor in these two brothers who risked their lives for each other and America over 70 years ago.

We need to emulate these two heroes today in society and not divide each other.

Freedom is not Free,

Honorable members of the House Judiciary Committee,

Please accept this email as testimony regarding the police reform bill you are considering with regard to the issue of "qualified immunity". My brother in-law is a police officer it is concerning that he could potentially be sued for just trying to do his job. Being a police officer; in today's society is hard enough (many think it is the toughest job in the country). These officers chose a tough profession and the majority perform their duties admirably every day. They take an oath to protect and serve us. The Massachusetts Police Academies are among the best in the Country. This measure of weakening or eliminating the protections granted to Police Officers under "qualified immunity" seems to me will only make the job even more difficult. After 911 occurred the Country for many years held police in such high regard and in just a few months because of the actions of a cop in Minnesota the whole profession is being demonized. I think you will agree that most police officers are good people who want serve their community.

I that as the House takes up police reform that you consider the issue of "qualified immunity" and how this will have a negative impact on police officers. I believe that police officers truly wants to serve his community and help people.

Thank you

Hello,

I am writing to encourage the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to pass Bill S2820: Reform, Shift + Build.

The past few weeks have made it clear to me what has been know you Black and minority populations across the state. Policing is violent; a tool used to enforce discriminatory systems. Dramatic change is necessary to save lives and improve our communities. That change begins with Bill S2820.

Qualified immunity and oversight needs reform.

Community based crisis response teams need to be funded and that comes form shifting resources away form a militarized police force.

There's needs to be tools to examine Black lives in Massachusetts. We need to build these tools together.

Please help bring change.

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Dear Honorable Committee Chairs:

I am a resident of Lowell, MA and I oppose the Senate bill that was passed with regard to police reforms. It is not a reform bill it is a dismantling of law enforcement in our communities. It will make places like Lowell unsafe.

Unfortunately the vast majority of our judges and elected DA's act more like criminal advocates than part of the criminal justice system. There is no telling how damaging or far reaching this legislation could be. Below are some issues to consider related to actual Law Enforcement issues. Bills like this will result in more violence, lower quality policing, and greater divide between police and the community.

BILL:

Allows a person to institute and prosecute a civil action for injunctive and other appropriate relief for infringement upon their rights by a person acting under color of law.

Specifies that qualified immunity shall not apply to claims of monetary damages under the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act unless no reasonable defendant could have had reason to believe that such conduct would violate the law.

Consequence:

The consequences of this portion of the bill reach beyond our streets and into the court rooms. When someone envisions a civil rights violation they picture Rodney King being arrested in the street. They don't think of a gang member stopped for a legitimate reason. Having his vehicle towed because the registration is expired. Then subsequently being charged with the illegal large capacity firearm located under his seat during a motor vehicle inventory prior to towing.

Unfortunately when a judge decides that the towing of the vehicle may have violated department tow policy for some reason the inventory is invalid or dismissed. Now the firearm, which is still very real, is lost and the charge disappears. It used to end there....cops lose in court, the defendant is not punished, and the gun is off the street.

Under this new Bill however, it appears the Officer may be "per-se" guilty of a civil rights violation for search and seizure. That individual officer, back-up officer, or supervisor may now be liable for "appropriate relief" all because a judge disagrees with the towing of a vehicle. Further cops will now push ADA's for enhanced prosecution of formerly "dismissable" violations. Charges like resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, and A&B on a police officer were all likely to be dismissed based on the severity of the act or resulting injury. Now it is unlikely any officer will agree to have charges dismissed, especially when force was used, and potentially expose themselves to financial liability.

Unfortunately this will likely affect those members of the community this bill seeks to protect at a much higher rate.

BILL:

*Clarifies that a person may petition for expungement of more than 1 record pertaining to certain charges or cases that occurred before the person's twenty-first birthday.

- Allows a person to re-file a petition for expungement if such petition was denied before the effective date of this act solely because the petitioner had more than 1 record as an adjudicated delinquent or adjudicated youthful offender or of a conviction.

But.....

- Requires the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to maintain a publicly available searchable database containing information about a law enforcement officer's appointing authority and certification status.

- Requires the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to maintain a publicly available searchable database containing de-identified information about complaints filed against individual law enforcement officers.

Consequence:

This is simply the concealment of criminal records and exposure of non-criminal complaints against officers. Cops are criminals and Criminals are not. This is also a nice response to the likely outcome of the previously discussed portion of the bill. While now more likely to be charged with crimes those individuals can also have them expunged from their record. All it means is more court/overtime/waste and fundraising for the criminal justice system. All on the backs of minority communities. In addition if there is a database the likelihood of bad actors and paid activists to assert a complaint against individual police officers will skyrocket in an attempt to remove as many of them from serving the public as possible in this climate of defund the police. It is a back door way to accomplish that goal.

BILL :

- Requires law enforcement officers to record statistical data whenever a person is stopped and frisked or searched.
- Requires a law enforcement officer to provide a receipt after a stop of a vehicle or pedestrian that did not result in a citation.
- Requires a police department to do a quarterly review of each officer's stop and search documentation and the entire department's stop and search data.

Consequence:

Any legislation regarding motor-vehicle stops has a direct effect on proactive policing and the seizure of Drugs and Guns. Restrict or hamstring police in the use of interdiction stops and you will see an immediate rise of gun violence and violence specifically related to gangs and drugs. Increased liability and rumored "per-se" civil rights violations, if seizures/searches are dismissed in court, will destroy violent gang suppression and VICE Narcotic units.

For politicians and wealthy communities this rise in violence will only be seen on TV. For those, largely minority black/hispanic communities, the violence will be in their neighborhoods taking their children. This is seemingly a simple concept but not the only unintended consequence for poor minority communities.

The legislature has also sought to eliminate the "verbal warning" from the tool belt of Officers. As the assault on officer discretion continues this is another element of the bill that is completely ill conceived.

-Minority Black/Hispanic communities account for some of the poorest areas in our State. Poor people drive older model vehicles.

-Those vehicles are more likely to have a broken windshield or rear view mirror, no blinker, headlight taillight out, no blue tooth capability. The people living in those communities are also struggling to pay for vehicle registration, inspection stickers, and license fees. All are reasons for potential stops.

-Now those stops under new legislation will require detailed paperwork and a receipt. The recourse for officers, to protect themselves from unfounded complaints, will be to issue a citation and allow the operator to fight it in court.

-As tickets pile up on drivers from poor communities they see their licenses suspended and are now subject to arrest while simply driving to work to pay their tickets.

How is this helping? It is a nice fundraiser for the state and Courts though.

You're seeing the direct effects of this in New York City as the city spirals into chaos, infants and children in minority neighborhoods shot and killed, all to further a political agenda. Now we're seeing leaders of the Black community asking for those units disbanded by the Mayor of NYC be reinstated so halt the bloodshed. Is that what we want for Massachusetts? I know it's not what I want to see as someone who resides in one of the poorer communities in Massachusetts.

Who will want to be a police officer if our lawmakers continually make them the scapegoats and villains? I have many friends who are officers and family members. They want out and they're the good ones. They're going to bide their time, avoid making any arrests, and retire or find a new career. Enough is enough. Every person with an ax to grind and those with political motives will sue cops indiscriminately.

If you pass this, which I plead you not to, include a database of those individuals that sue every police officer so that the officers know what they're dealing with. If you don't I can assure you one will be created by the officers themselves since these are personal civil lawsuits. I guarantee you it will be the same names over and over. This will also open up the ability of officers to sue the people they arrest if they are injured as well. It's a double edged sword.

Officers are acting on behalf of their communities i.e. "the state". They can't afford to pay for "malpractice" insurance like a doctor who can add it into the cost of doing business and pass that on to insurance companies. Officers do not make a lot of money. This bill also takes qualified immunity away from firefighters, EMT's and nurses. What a way to treat those individuals on the front lines of a pandemic. It's so disheartening.

I've lived in the City of Lowell my entire life and I love my community. But I'm very strongly considering moving to New Hampshire if this is the path we're heading down. I've heard this same sentiment from a number of friends and family members.

I ask that you reject this ill conceived bill and maintain qualified immunity for our police, fire, EMT's, nurses and all of those folks that are serving our community and trying to make it a better place to live for everyone.

Sincerely,

I am truly at a loss for words with this bill that is handcuffing police officers. 4:30am meeting to screw the police and people of Massachusetts!

You are not making this commonwealth a better place. You are actually becoming part of the problem. Less than 1% of police officers do something wrong while trying to handle a situation that has a response time of less than seconds!

Break it down.

Police officers retire and or quit. You don't care Ivory tower!

Crime escalates and why not NO COPS

Why are you protecting the criminals!! You don't care Ivory tower with private security!

Next you take our guns because why not this is the end game in a communistic state! Again, you don't care Ivory tower! You make the rules!

As it is Food and other commodities are being rationed due to this "pandemic"! Less than a 1% chance of death. When does it end Nov 4th if the other side (left) wins? Amazing right.

You do not care about this country, you do not care about it's people and you do not care about the safety of anyone! I have so much more to say and share on how ridiculous this is but as I type I know that this email will not be read by anyone in any position of authority.

Thanks for helping turn the Commonwealth of Massachusetts into the Socialistic Communistic State of Leftist Looneys.

Dear MA Representatives,
I'm writing to provide testimony to voice my support of the MA Police Reform Bill that passed the MA Senate recently. I am a 22 year old student who has lived in Massachusetts all my life and currently resides in Boston. I have witnessed instances of police misconduct at many many protests I have been a part of and also heard reports from friends and strangers alike of these sort of incidents. In August of 2019, I was brutally assaulted and maced by Boston Police while protesting the "Straight Pride March", along with a lot of my fellow activists. Despite our best efforts, no officers were held accountable for the injuries they dealt us (I was out of school for a week with a concussion) and no acknowledgement of these events was ever given by Boston Police or Boston leadership. Nearly a year later, Boston Police indiscriminately tear gassed protestors and bystanders alike in downtown crossing during the Georgy Floyd protests. Massachusetts, though a "liberal" state, is not immune to police brutality or issues of racial profiling. According to metro data, 69% of stops conducted by Boston Police are of Black people despite Boston being only about one quarter Black. We need reform and accountability immediately as well as an end to qualified immunity and this bill is an important step in that direction.

Thank you for your time.

Subject: Police Reform

To the Judiciary Committee,

I'm going to quote the ACLU of Massachusetts here because they have it down better than I can do on short notice.

As your constituent, I'm writing to ask you include three essential measures in any legislation on police accountability and racial justice. Please prohibit violent police tactics, impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is not immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights. Banning violent police tactics is meaningless if there is no way for people to hold the police accountable when they break the rules. Victims of police brutality deserve justice.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing. The dangers of face surveillance and systemic racism in policing will not evaporate in mere months. The moratorium on the use of this technology should not be lifted until the legislature enacts meaningful regulation to guard against racial bias, invasions of privacy, and violations of due process.

Subject: Massachusetts Police Reform Bill

Good morning:

My name is Marion Kaskiewicz and I am a resident of Scituate, MA. I can be reached at 781-545-6414.

I wanted to express the absolute horror I feel towards our elected officials for rushing this bill. The Governor should be ashamed of himself as well.....Have we learned nothing from that nightmare public records law that was rushed through???? You know, the sweeping reforms written in a manner that now requires municipalities to spend more of their precious tax dollars on lawyers just to figure out what the law says? It also allows for taxpayers to have to bear the brunt of the expenses associated with unscrupulous lawyers and reporters who seem to think that our tax dollars should be spent to pay the public servants who are now having to fend off these bottom feeders who will harass and browbeat public records employees to get what they want. By the way, the lawyers at Galvin's office who are supposed to help people decipher these poorly written laws are straight up useless. They will do nothing to help, but consider themselves worthy of passing judgement. Waste of public money if you ask me. This is the result of rushing through bills just to beat a deadline. We the public will be paying for that for years....so not necessary, and I would rather see that money re-directed to social programs that help people.

RUSHING THIS POLICE REFORM BILL IS A VERY BAD DECISION!!!! DO NOT DO THIS! There are more sensible ways to deal with bad cops instead of humiliating and spitting on all of the good ones, while simultaneously passing more "unfunded state mandates" on to the local taxpayers....We have had enough of this! The good cops FAR outweigh the bad, and you are going to make things much worse for law abiding citizens by pushing this through. You will be raiding our wallets, and providing us less protection from criminals....

I, as a survivor of domestic violence, demand that the Officers in Scituate be allowed to do what they need to do to keep my community safe. In no way do I want you to rush through this without fully realizing all of the implications. You are once again considering something that sounds like a good plan without discussing it with those who have an actual stake in the game. I fear that your plan is going to backfire, and you will be doing nothing but putting law abiding citizens at risk by pushing all of the decent men and women who have dedicated their lives to public safety out the door, leaving only those who join the profession for the wrong reason.....A hard-working honest cop should not be dissected on a daily basis because of the bad ones.....DO SOMETHING TO PREVENT THE WRONG PEOPLE FROM DONNING THE TIGHTS TO BEGIN WITH.

More State oversight is NOT the answer. As a matter of fact, I believe that abolishing the State Civil Service Division would be the best place to start in improving policing standards. How foolish is it that Cities and Towns are only allowed to interview or promote potential police candidates based on test scores, seniority and state rules....Wouldn't it make more sense to allow those in charge of hiring the opportunity to offer authority and a gun to people who pass the "Integrity and hard work" test instead???? Wouldn't that save millions of tax payer dollars by preventing those in charge from having to answer to nonsense appeals that are filed by people who are by-passed simply because they don't think they have to actually earn the privileges or are entitled solely based on seniority???? Why not let the Chiefs of Police and the elected authorities in each city and town be in charge of hiring and promoting police officers. They are the people who are held accountable to their residents. The Civil Service Division accepts no responsibility for the actions of those that they insist on pushing onto cities and towns, and I find that problematic.

Additionally, NOTHING happens to those who file false or frivolous claims through Civil Service and MCAD.....BIG issue if you ask me. Let's do something about that. Maybe a HUGE prohibitive fine for those who seem to think these Boards are in place to exact revenge....put that money into social programs to assist all people in need. I bet it would make a big difference.

Let me close by saying that I do believe that bad, abusive, morally bankrupt cops need to be dealt with, and nobody but criminals should live in fear of a police officer, but in no way do I see a one size fits all rushed law as being the answer.

Thank you.

Good morning, I am submitting this email regarding the police reform bill that the House of Representatives is discussing. There are major flaws with the current version of the bill.

My question is where is the due process for police officers? I feel that the current version of the bill opens up the door for frivolous lawsuits against them. I also don't understand the concept of non law enforcement civilians reviewing incidents and uses of force. Are they screened before being selected and how are they appointed. This would be equivalent of having me review a case of medical malpractice when I have no education, training or experience in the medical field.

I also don't understand why non lethal tools are being regulated by this legislation. The passage of this legislation will make it near impossible to do the job for Law Enforcement. It will also up the chances of more harm being done to a suspect or officer.

Former Officer Derek Chavin does not represent the 99 percent of law enforcement officers who do an incredible job in their community or behind the prison walls. This legislation in its current format is nothing but a "feel good" bill that would create numerous issues. Law enforcement officials should have a seat at the table with their legislators to craft a more efficient piece of legislation that could accomplish the objectives of this bill while also being practical and protect officers who act in good faith while performing their job duties.

Representatives,

I am writing to you to respectfully ask you to vote NO on the so called police reform bill. I know you are quite busy so I will try to keep this brief and please forgive my informality.

I am not sending you a form letter.

I am writing from my heart.

I have spent over thirty years serving in local, state and federal law enforcement. I have lived and served on the south shore and south coast my entire life with my family and extended family of over thirty of your constituents.

Many of these constituents have served or presently are in public safety and law enforcement.

I am a former Massachusetts State Police Major and retired in 2010. I have been awarded the Trooper George Hanna Medal of Honor, the American Legion Medal of Valor and the State Police Medal of Merit. I was chosen as Commissioned Officer Of The Year as well. I also served as a local police officer, a patrol Trooper, a homicide and narcotics detective, one of the State Police Air Wing helicopter pilots for 10 years and performed many other assignments.

I was nearly killed early on in my career in a gun battle with a wanted murderer who was armed with a rifle and had to use my duty firearm to save my life and the lives of others.

I do know what split second decisions are all about. I wish I did not, but I do.

I was fortunate that both I and my assailant lived. I say this because the narrative that police officers want to harm or kill anyone is just plain outrageous and untrue. The emotional burden of taking another life, no matter what the circumstances, is a lifelong one that no human being ever gets over. The outrageous and untrue characterizations of our Massachusetts Officers being wildly thrown about today are simply not true and frankly a disgrace. The very worst kind of labeling and broad brush slander one can imagine.

I also do hold a degree in Criminal Justice from the University of Massachusetts. It is worth noting that Massachusetts has some of the most highly educated police officers in the nation.

I only say all of this to relate to you my basis of knowledge and veracity to speak to this issue (and I rarely if ever get involved in anything political...but this bill is an unwarranted attack I can not ignore).

Lastly, and perhaps most importantly, I am a simple family man, a father to five children and I am worried more than ever about their future.

I do not write for myself and my benefit.

I do write to support the men and women who followed me into taking the on risks of public service and who took the brave step to serve, despite the ingratitude and danger because they believe in their calling and their vocation; so much so they are willing to put their ballistic vest on every day to leave their loved ones and protect and serve.

Representatives, this bill is more punitive than productive for a situation that occurred nowhere near here.

It is a knee jerk reaction to satisfy activists who are myopic and are blind to the risks and concerns of police officers and their loved ones.

We all have barely begun to heal (some never will) from the brutal murders of Sergeant Michael Chesna, Vera Williams and Sergeant Sean Gannon and we now face this? Here? A full pivot from wide based public support to a full blown attack on Massachusetts Law Enforcement Officers who have done nothing wrong.

I ask you; what if Sergeant Chesna (a resident of my home town) did not hesitate? What if he did have the full confidence that he could defend himself without being the next poster child excoriated in the court of public opinion?

Might he be with us today?

Might his killer's second victim Vera Williams be alive as well?

Are police officers now to wait until they are shot or disarmed by a mob or beaten unconscious to defend themselves for their very lives? The implications of this bill are chilling in this regard.

These are valid questions and it bears noting that Sergeant Chesna's brutal murder came in the wake and climate of the false narrative Ferguson/Michael Brown matter.

Representatives, I respectfully ask you to carefully listen to the professionals who administer the police departments In your district and actually do the work daily you ask of them in our communities both day and night 24/7 and 365.

Please do not simply fold in the moment and approve this short sighted, reactionary, unnecessary in Massachusetts piece of legislation. We are your voters. We will stand by you in the face of criticism. Your courage in the face of a mob mentality is required now more than ever.

The unintended consequences of this bill are wide spread and grave. The downstream effects of passage will not help. They will harm.

Please, do no harm.

I and my family and my entire extended family and many many friends of all walks of life are counting on you to stand for law and order, for public safety and security in our communities and for the true greater good. No one is against any positive progression...but take a lot of time to examine the consequences of this pending legislation as written.

I cannot stress this enough. This bill is punitive in its present form. Do you want to be part of punitive action branding an entire profession as doing wrong for something they had nothing to do with?

If you feel you must do something as a result of a far away tragedy that has and had nothing to do with Massachusetts...then please do not allow the ripping of qualified immunity from police officers (only).

There will be 1000 law suits filed daily on just about every interaction, call and arrest. Again, imagine the effects of this for victims of crime, general safety and security, on recruiting on resignations and on retirements en masse. Imagine less experienced and educated officers taking the jobs. I know with just a little thought you can envision what will happen if this disaster piece of legislation passes.

This bill is so directed and bald faced in its discriminatory intent. Imagine if you were subject to personal law suits every time you did your job.

The unintended consequences (emphasis added) of this bill must be considered very very carefully. We are counting on you to carefully craft a meaningful law...not a punitive and dangerous one one.

Please vote NO.

I would be happy to speak with you or your staff at any time about this matter.

Thank you for your time Representatives, If I may help you in any way to further understand the potential downstream and unintended consequences of the bill as written, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Support Amendments #1 and #17 to S.2820 – Raise the Age

Testimony of Hon. Gail Garinger (ret.)

To the Members of the Joint Ways & Means and Judiciary Committee

I write to urge you to support Amendments #1 and #17 to S.2820 that would raise the age of juvenile court jurisdiction.

I have spent my entire career focusing on the issues affecting youth in the Commonwealth. I served as a juvenile court judge for 13 years, the state's Child Advocate for seven years, and the Director of the Attorney General's Child & Youth Protection Unit for two years. In all of these roles, I regularly came in contact with young people who had experienced far too many childhood traumas: abuse or neglect, poverty, exposure to domestic or community violence, mental health issues, foster care and school failures. Any one of these early adverse life experiences could have proved overwhelming and predictive of an inability to succeed in life; yet, I often witnessed first-hand the capacity of youth to achieve great change if given the right opportunities. Based on my experience, as well as recent research in adolescent brain science and adolescent psychology, I am convinced that extending the jurisdiction of the juvenile courts in Massachusetts to include 18 to 20 year-olds makes good sense.

Committing older adolescents to the adult criminal system ignores that they are not adults in any meaningful developmental sense, and it ignores their capacity for change. The juvenile courts and the Department of Youth Services (DYS) are far better equipped than the adult criminal system to understand and tailor their assessments and programs to address this age group. Juvenile Court judges and probation officers, juvenile court clinicians, and DHS staff know best how to address the myriad issues that have led to youths' negative involvement with law enforcement and how to help them avoid further involvement and become productive citizens.

In 2011, 76 percent of 18 to 24-year-olds released from county jails and adult prisons were brought back to court within three years, the highest recidivism rate < rate for young people incarcerated in youth facilities was 26 percent, as opposed to 55 percent when they are jailed in adult facilities.

The juvenile justice system has the capacity: Case filings for all types of juvenile court cases have decreased by 56 percent since 2009. Since Massachusetts ended the automatic prosecution of 17-year-olds as adults in 2013, juvenile arraignments have dropped by 57 percent.??

Raising the age of juvenile court jurisdiction makes sense based on everything we know about youths' potential for change, recidivism rates and economics.? It's sound public policy; it's the right thing to do; and it's doable.?

I urge you to support Amendments #1 and #17 to S.2820 and raise the age of juvenile court jurisdiction.

Respectfully submitted,
Hon. Gail Garinger (ret.)

Subject: I unequivocally support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800)

Hi,

I am a resident of Cambridge, MA and I unequivocally support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800).

Massachusetts has always been on the forefront of states passing legislation to support the people that live here and we've never shied away from decisions that seemed radical at the time. I have always been proud of - and bragged about - MA being the first state to legalize gay marriage, and I hope to see us continue to make the right choices ahead of the curve and set the standard for the rest of the country to follow. It's time to eliminate qualified immunity, ban chokeholds, reallocate state funds to communities disproportionately impacted by the criminal justice system, and allow the Mass AG to file lawsuits against discriminatory police departments. I hope to see this legislation pass so I can continue to be a proud resident.

Thank you,
Brenna

Dear Representatives,

The Reform, Shift + Build Act is currently on the House floor and it needs to be passed. This bill is the first step on the way towards the major changes that need to be made at every level of our government to protect everyone in our community. It is especially imperative for the Black and Brown members of our community who are disproportionately affected by police brutality and systemic oppression. None of us are safe until we're all safe, and it is time we hold our police officers accountable and time we invest in our communities.

Please ensure this bill gets passed because while it is only the first step, if we cannot lay the groundwork we have already begun to fail those who need it most.

Subject: Testimony on Bill S.2820

Dear Honorable members of the House Ways and Means,

I am writing to ask that the Honorable members of the MA State Legislature take their time at reviewing the contents of Bill S.2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color. I believe the purpose of this Bill is important and long overdue, but the process that it puts forth appears extreme.

As the State has done in its response to the Covid-19 crisis, we should let the numbers (science) dictate the course of action. Massachusetts is not Minnesota and the Legislature should look at the numbers within our state of police complaints as a proportion of police interactions with the public. I believe the numbers will show that our police forces have a greater than 99.9% positive (no complaint) track record. I understand that the goal should always be 100%, but we know that is unachievable in any profession.

We need to ensure that the level of risk that that our police officers are under conducting their jobs is not so overly elevated by adding the risk of litigation and burdensome oversight that this Bill contains.

Best Regards,

Paul Halloran

H&W Committee:

Short and sweet; there MUST be real money connected to any mandates around new training and it must be enough to cover it completely. The Gateway Cities that need the training the most cannot bear to make even more difficult choices in their local budget and use this new mandated training as a scapegoat to make cuts in other places.

Please research and ask organizations like The Healing Racism Institute of Pioneer Valley out here in Springfield what costs would be so that you know.

The trainings are very necessary and you putting the dollars behind it would show that you believe so as well. Also be clear on what trainings are and what simple education is. Learning the history of the plight of African Americans is not training. Training yourself to recognize implicit biases and how to react when those biases manifest themselves is much different.

I believe police reform is needed but I do not believe that Bill S2800 that passed in the Senate is the right answer.

I strongly feel that the ending of qualified immunity is a mistake with serious consequences .

I believe the fear of being sued will cause good police to second guess their actions which will lead to more police deaths. This reversal hurts police families that may lose their loved ones, their homes , or their hard earned savings .

I ask you to please vote against this bill as it stands.

As a life long resident, and now senior citizen of Massachusetts, I am appalled by the rush to judgement, and knee jerk reaction to the protests of a few.

I agree that some changes are necessary.

But, careful thought and input from many sources, is the key to effective legislation and change.

I was active with coaching young men for many decades. While a few are legislators, there are probably a hundred serving careers in various law enforcement positions.

The people serving in these uniforms are mothers, fathers, and have responsibility to their families and children.

They serve in a very tough job. One I certainly never wanted.

Please stop reacting to the minority, screaming in the streets and a media that is always seeking attention.

Please, take the time to find the correct solutions, that those serving, and those that want to be protected, will also agree to.

Be assured, this is a subject, the silent majority is watching.

Slow down, listen, get it right. Two days to comment is absurd.

Take it up next session.

Subject: From a Swampscott Detective

The Massachusetts Senate hastily passed a bill on police reform without doing their due diligence, having hearings and educating themselves to what the serious consequences will be to their actions.

Under Senate Bill 2800 (2820 final version), the elected officials have effectively tied the hands of not only the police but all public officials. This bill removed qualified immunity from all public employees (except themselves of course).

What does that mean? That means that even if myself or my brothers and sisters in blue and red act in good faith under rule/color of law we will now be responsible and open to civil lawsuits. This also opens the municipalities we work for up to frivolous lawsuits for anything, costing you the taxpayers even more.

An example of this is we respond to a medical call where you have a loved one who requires CPR, we arrive on scene do everything we can within the scope of our training and department policies for your loved one but they unfortunately don't make it, we are now open to civil lawsuits for damages.

This is just one major issue with this hastily drafted and passed bill.

It is also important to know that the elected officials who sold us a bill of goods and promises of things they would do or stand behind are nothing but wimps who succumb to the bullying of higher ranking elected officials to ensure they keep their positions on appointed committees. I know this is probably no great shock to some but this is the stuff that needs to get out to the masses!!

People are calling for police reform for systemic racism and other injustices that occur. Well reform needs to and should start from the top. If our elected officials are so influenced by bullying and pressure from higher ranking elected officials then maybe the reform needs to start with our elected officials and work its way down. Our representatives, at least in the State senate don't give a crap about the people who they serve and the people who voted them into those positions. What they also don't realize is how easily it is for them to lose the support of their constituents and be voted out next election.

I have been a officer for 30 years. I do not understand how something can be filed and passed that is so erroneous. We are told that TRUST is the backbone for rising above a problem. How does Law Enforcement TRUST that the politicians have our best interest? We put the uniform on to help. If we are open to lawsuits for helping, what do you think will happen. Why are so many police chiefs retiring? They know the road we are going down is full of problems. TRUST me.

Respectfully

Subject: Wholehearted support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act

Dear HWM Judiary/Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin:

I am writing to voice my wholehearted support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act. As a 32-year resident and condo owner in Chelsea, I get to see and celebrate diversity every day. We are a community made up of many cultures, representing the full spectrum of race that this globe offers. Right now, we are not safe. We have been unsafe for quite some time. We will remain unsafe as long as the current state of policing is maintained. We here in Chelsea are not the only ones.

Our State and Nation face a long postponed reckoning with race., We must keep a stern dialogue with how we police one another as part of that reckoning. The Reform-Shift-Build Act opens that dialogue in unprecedented ways. Stringent certifications, inroads towards banning excessive force, review boards staffed by community, and a stronger stance against surveillance technology are just some of the impressive pieces we will be bringing to the state with this Act. Perhaps the most impressive piece to this is a focused reform to the doctrine known as "qualified immunity."

Passing this act while keeping the reform of qualified immunity attached to it would be historical. It would send the appropriate message to the Nation. If we as a people are to be policed, it must be under an entirely reimagined officer. There are glimpses of good in all of us. There are glimpses of good in our law enforcement. But there is also an unspeakable bad in all of us. As it permeates all of us by degrees, so too does it fester in our law enforcement.

I have witnessed firsthand what can occur when unchecked racist thought and sentiment spills into human behavior. There is no thermometer check for hatred, dislike, annoyance, ambivalence. And that temperature rises and subsides throughout a life. Thoughts are truly free, and should not be governed. Action is governed. But actions are rooted in those thoughts. The action to take another's life, to choke another out, to abuse another, to dominate another, to correct another, without impunity is what I believe qualified immunity too often permits.

Reform, and regulation are necessities for police in Massachusetts and everywhere. But the protective mask of qualified immunity must fall. We face consequences as citizens. Those consequences do not police our thoughts, but they force us to think twice, or even just once before acting. For too long has our police force acted without impartial thought when it comes to another's life and rights.

I am asking you to support the Reform-Shift-Build Act for my myself and my neighbors, for Chelsea, for Massachusetts, and for the entire United States of America. I am asking you to share my voice with your fellow legislators, and amplify it yourself in your championing of this Act.

Thank you for your time.

Massachusetts House of Representatives

Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee

Chairman of the Judiciary Committee

Dear Sir / Madam,

My name is Robert Swartz and I am a resident of Lakeville, Massachusetts. I am in my 31st year working in law enforcement. I have served as a patrolman, a K-9 handler, and currently am a Detective with the Taunton Police Department and the Director of the Southeastern Massachusetts Law Enforcement Councils (SEMLEC) Critical Incident Stress Management (CISM) / Peer Support Team. I am writing to you today to request your support of Section 78 of House Bill #2820 Critical Incident Stress Management and Peer Support Programs. To be transparent, I do not support this bill in its entirety, and have already seen the increasing stress it has caused on Law Enforcement. However, I do commend the Senate for introducing the topic of Police Stress Management as a vital part of reform and support for officers. The implementation of Critical Incident Stress Management and Peer Support Programs is very personal to me.

Eight years ago, I was involved in a shooting, while at work. I was forced to discharge my weapon in defense of my own life and the lives of my community members. Though I had been through countless tactical and professional training's on how to protect my life and others, nothing prepared me for the aftermath and impact this incident would have on me or my family. That day was life changing. Most, unless they too have been through an officer involved shooting, cannot comprehend the overwhelming stress and physiological changes your body and mind go through. I myself had not been prepared for what the days and weeks following would be like. Unfortunately, there was no Police Critical Incident Support Team in my area at that time, after all, officer involved shootings are not a daily event in our region. Fortunately, with the guidance of a fellow officer I was put in touch with the Boston Police Peer Support Unit. Within days I was connected to a group of Peers and Clinicians who helped me, my wife, and my children weed through our emotions and cope with our new norm. Have you ever had to explain to your child that you took another person's life? Or explain to your family your need to go back to work after nearly being killed yourself? Peer Support was instrumental in providing us the tools we needed to communicate effectively with our children, teach us how to navigate our emotions, and provide a stable environment both at home and at school to lessen the impact this would have on our lives.

Since that time it became important to me, along with the support of the Southeastern Massachusetts Law Enforcement Council, we establish a Critical Incident Peer Support Unit. Over the last few years our team has conducted over 115 one-on-one peer support sessions, debriefed 30 critical incidents, diffused 32 critical incidents, made 18 trips to mental health facilities that offer programs specific to law enforcement officers, and provided support at 3 officer suicide and 1 line of duty death funerals, as well as sponsored a 2 day wellness symposium attended by over 300 officers. Local agencies already have individual and regional Peer Support and Critical Incident Stress Management Units. The Massachusetts State Peer Support Network oversees several multi-discipline teams, Boston Police have an established Peer Support Unit, Massachusetts State Police have a Stress Unit and several of the Law Enforcement Councils (Southeastern Massachusetts Law Enforcement Council, Metro Law Enforcement Council...) have well established regional teams. These team members are officers from throughout the region and are well versed in assisting officers with mental wellness. And it is still not enough! Currently, there are departments not participating and therefore, their officers are not receiving services.

I feel it is important to get in front of these incidents in Law Enforcement by ensuring Mental Wellness Practices become part of the daily training's of officers. Training, that is not currently mandatory, should become a requirement. The National Institute of Justice states that an officer, on average nationwide, will be subjected to three traumatic events every six months. Put into perspective that just one critical incident could spiral a person into a lifetime of depression, substance abuse and struggle, yet Police Officers deal with these traumas routinely. To illustrate the point, a police officer with marital problems and financial struggles, whose family stress is compounded by shift work and lack of ability to be present at home or assist in child care. The officer now copes with this real-life situation by drinking and isolating himself. One can see how the combination of all these stressors can significantly affect how an officer responds or behaves. Without a proper outlet, awareness, education, healthy coping mechanisms, and training to relieve the stress and grow through life events, the likelihood of a negative outcome with the community is inevitable.

In closing, I respectfully request that you recognize the importance of, and support support Section 78 of House Bill #2820 Critical Incident Stress Management and Peer Support Teams. Please feel free to reach out to me if I can be of any assistance.

Sincerely,

Robert A. Swartz

Chair Cronin and Members of the Committee:

I am writing on behalf of Massachusetts Water Works Association, a nonprofit membership organization representing public water supply professionals in Massachusetts. On behalf of our 1,300 members, I am submitting this written testimony to ask the House to preserve qualified immunity for municipal employees under Chapter 258 of the Massachusetts General Laws.

Our members are licensed drinking water operators who work hard to protect public health each and every day. The provision of drinking water is highly regulated and quite complex. Federal law, under the Safe Drinking Water Act, requires our members to provide safe drinking water to all customers served by the Public Water System.

Unfortunately, despite the best procedures and protocols to ensure safe delivery of water, accidents can occur. Qualified immunity is an important law that our municipal drinking water operators work under; they need this important protection to ensure they are not held personally liable if a Civil suit were brought against them for incidents occurring in the course of carrying out their duties.

We respectfully ask you to ensure that the police reform legislation that you pass, not remove qualified immunity for other municipal workers.

Thank you,

Subject: Wholehearted support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act

Dear HWM Judiciary,

Representative Vincent has asked me to direct my concerns to you directly, rather than her office:

I am writing to voice my wholehearted support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act. As a 32-year resident and condo owner in Chelsea, I get to see and celebrate diversity every day. We are a community made up of many cultures, representing the full spectrum of race that this globe offers. Right now, we are not safe. We have been unsafe for quite some time. We will remain unsafe as long as the current state of policing is maintained. We here in Chelsea are not the only ones.

Our State and Nation face a long postponed reckoning with race., We must keep a stern dialogue with how we police one another as part of that reckoning. The Reform-Shift-Build Act opens that dialogue in unprecedented ways. Stringent certifications, inroads towards banning excessive force, review boards staffed by community, and a stronger stance against surveillance technology are just some of the impressive pieces we will be bringing to the state with this Act. Perhaps the most impressive piece to this is a focused reform to the doctrine known as "qualified immunity."

Passing this act while keeping the reform of qualified immunity attached to it would be historical. It would send the appropriate message to the Nation. If we as a people are to be policed, it must be under an entirely reimagined officer. There are glimpses of good in all of us. There are glimpses of good in our law enforcement. But there is also an unspeakable bad in all of us. As it permeates all of us by degrees, so too does it fester in our law enforcement.

I have witnessed firsthand what can occur when unchecked racist thought and sentiment spills into human behavior. There is no thermometer check for hatred, dislike, annoyance, ambivalence. And that temperature rises and subsides throughout a life. Thoughts are truly free, and should not be governed. Action is governed. But actions are rooted in those thoughts. The action to take another's life, to choke another out, to abuse another, to dominate another, to correct another, without impunity is what I believe qualified immunity too often permits.

Reform, and regulation are necessities for police in Massachusetts and everywhere. But the protective mask of qualified immunity must fall. We face consequences as citizens. Those consequences do not police our thoughts, but they force us to think twice, or even just once before acting. For too long has our police force acted without impartial thought when it comes to another's life and rights.

I am asking you to support the Reform-Shift-Build Act for my myself and my neighbors, for Chelsea, for Massachusetts, and for the entire United States of America. I am asking you to share my voice with your fellow legislators, and amplify it yourself in your championing of this Act.

Thank you for your time.

Respectfully,

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Good Morning,

My name is James Conway and I am writing this today with the hopes that the House of Representatives will reject the recently passed Senate Police Reform Bill/Anti Labor Bill S2820, formally S2800. I would like to start off by saying that I have read all pages of this bill and I am very familiar with its language.

I write this as an 8 year Police Officer who served with both the West Boylston and Boylston Police Departments and currently with the Worcester Police Department. This job is all I have ever want and worked extremely hard to get; I am proud to be a Cop. But, the recent Police Reform Bill will unfortunately make me and many other good Police Officers seriously consider walking away from the job we love, a job our families are proud of.

I will start by saying that recently I have to continuously hear how cops are racist. This truly infuriates me. I, along with every other Police Officer leave my house everyday, everyday not knowing if I will return to my wife and two daughters. Why? Because I am willing to place my life on the line to help others, no matter their race, sex or religion. I have to continuously hear that we, the Police kill unarmed black people. I have never hear of a Police Officer in the Commonwealth unjustifiably killing anyone in the last 30 years I have been alive. This is due to our excellent training on deescalation and use of force. What I have seen in my career this far is 3 police Officers from the Commonwealth and hundreds more across the country murdered for doing their job.

As you know, this bill was seriously rushed with no public hearing. This is due to the recent event that has happened in Minnesota and now legislators are making sweeping Police Reform across the country. I will tell you that Massachusetts is not Minnesota and that every Police Officer is disgusted with what happened to George Floyd. But, the actions of a former Minnesota Police Officer should not speak for the hard work of the Police Officers, including myself here in the Commonwealth.

This bill would take away qualified immunity. This leave us open to frivolous lawsuits, even if we do what we were trained to do, following policy and procedure. Not one of the thousands of good Police Officers agree with violating civil rights or excessive use of force but we need protection for doing our jobs. I cannot risk my families lively hood for do my job the right way. This will not only hurt us but the general public as well due to the fact that Police Officers will be afraid to do their job. I respectfully request that we keep Qualified Immunity.

This bill would also take away our due process and leave the outcome of the job we worked very hard for in the hands of people that have never been Police Officers. I, as a Police Officer would never be on a medical review board. This is because I have zero knowledge or training in the medical field. Why is it ok for us to be judged and possibly fired by people that have zero training or experience in Police Work? Why am I not entitled to the same due processes rights as a criminal that we arrest? I respectfully request that we are allowed to keep our due process which includes our Civil Service protection.

This bill would also take away our collective bargaining rights. On average, every three years Police Unions get together and negotiate with their City or Town on a contract. This contract includes many things such as pay increase, equipment purchase to better protect both us and the general public and a number of other things. If you were to get rid of collective bargaining this would make us all employees at will, practically robots, with no say on anything within the work place. I respectfully request we are allowed our collective bargaining and our Union can continue to have a legitimate purpose.

In closing I will say this "Courage is not the absence of fear, but rather the judgement that something is more important than fear". Outside of my family, nothing is more important to me than coming to work and protecting all citizens No matter my fears. I love this job and will continue to work tirelessly to be a symbol for great Police work. Please seriously consider rejecting this bill and do not fear repercussions from the minority of people who wish to pass this bill. It will not only hurt the Police but also the general public, this is important.

Respectfully,
James Conway

To whom it may concern,

As a resident of Massachusetts I am vehemently against this bill. It is completely misguided and will make policing virtually impossible. You will hurt the communities it is supposed to help the most. Policing will become completely reactive. Proactive policing will become a thing of the past.

You will have officers retire in droves and no one to replace them. Why take a job where you can be sued civilly for just doing your job?

This bill will make a tough job all that much more difficult if not impossible.

I am a police officer as well. This bill has given me serious thoughts of retiring early and moving away from Massachusetts. The effects of this bill will be devastating and living in a society with those effect is frightening.

Honorable members of the House Judiciary Committee,

Please accept this email as testimony regarding the police reform bill you are considering with regard to the issue of "qualified immunity". As the father of a police officer it is concerning that my son could potentially be sued for just trying to do his job. Being a police officer; in today's society is hard enough (many think it is the toughest job in the country). These men and woman choose a tough profession and the majority perform their duties admirably every day. They take an oath to protect and serve us. The Massachusetts Police Academies are among the best in the Country. Massachusetts Police Officers are well trained and are among the most professional officers in the Nation. This measure of weakening or eliminating the protections granted to Police Officers under "qualified immunity" seems to me will only make the job even more difficult and has the very real possibility of making them and the citizens they serve less safe. It's ironic that after 911 occurred the Country for many years held police in such high regard and in just a few months because of the actions of one bad cop in Minnesota the whole profession is being demonized. I think you will agree that most police officers are good people who want serve their community. Further; according to a recent Boston Herald article "the state's largest police union singled out that provision as one that would leave police officers second-guessing themselves on the job".

I ask that as the House takes up police reform that you consider the issue of "qualified immunity" and how this will have a negative impact on police officers. The law abiding citizens of the Commonwealth need our elected officials to support our police officers rather than enacting legislation that has the potential to put their futures in jeopardy. My son has chosen law enforcement for his career. He truly wants to serve his community and help people. He's just starting out his career and he shouldn't have serve the community for the next 30 years or so with the extreme uncertainty of what weakening or eliminating "qualified immunity" would put on him and his colleagues.

I hope that you agree with me that weakening or eliminating "qualified immunity" with regard to police reform is not a good thing and should not be part of any police reform bill.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

I would like to weigh in on the bill that is currently in the House, S. 2820. I believe that the Senate did a disservice to the citizens AND police community of Massachusetts by keeping police officers wide open for frivolous law suits by eliminating QUALIFIED IMMUNITY.

Unlike the absolute immunity that you enjoy, qualified immunity is given to police officers who do their job the right way. It allows them to do their job without concerning themselves with how some detail of an arrest or traffic stop might play out in some future litigation. Qualified Immunity DOES NOT protect rogue officers who break the law. This bill contains language that will knee-cap the police community. I urge you not to pass this bill, but if you must, I ask you to keep QUALIFIED IMMUNITY.

DUE PROCESS is another ball dropped by the Senate. This is something that is rightfully given to all citizens of the commonwealth and this great country. Essentially, by eliminating due process in their bill, the Senate has deemed all police officers second class citizens. It seems immoral (if not illegal) for a political body in our country to strip a person of their livelihood without allowing that person the ability to defend themselves.

I ask that you do not pass this bill, but if you must, i ask that you keep DUE PROCESS.

Please do no be anti police.

Please do not open all cops in the commonwealth to the burden of undue litigation.

Please listen to the voices of your constituents and protect those that protect us.

Thank you.

Dear Legislators,

I thank you for allowing me to voice my opinion on the proposed Senate Police Reform Bill. I think this bill was rushed and did not give the public time to give input.

I have been a volunteer most of my adult life in my suburban town. I have worked closely with our Town Administrator and all departments including Police and Fire. I have the utmost respect for the individuals who protect and serve our community. Having said that I know our suburban departments are not nearly as pressed with violent crime as the departments that protect and serve the urban areas/neighborhoods. I feel our Community Policing programs in Massachusetts have been effective and the unjustified horrible deaths by the hands of police in other areas of the USA have not and will not happen here. In my opinion racism is not a product of the police departments. Racism is a product of our society and I would argue it is mostly a financial and educational problem.

I feel that with the current proposed Senate bill you would be constraining police departments' ability to hire and retain the highly educated qualified police officers like those we currently employ. By allowing a perpetrator to civilly sue a police officer you would be taking away the officers' protection from erroneous accusations and create hesitation to perform their job to the best of their abilities in a violent situation. These are situations that take split second decisions with minimal background information. These are situations where the police officers are doing their jobs to protect the public.

I also worry that this is the tip of the iceberg. As a volunteer Town Councillor I was protected by the same Tort that currently protects the police officers, fire personal and EMT's. I hope you take my words in serious consideration and thank you.

Dear Representative Michlewitz & Representative Cronin,

I hope my email finds you both well during these unsettling times.

I have been a proud member of law enforcement in Massachusetts for over 24 years. I have lived in the Commonwealth for over 50 years receiving a Bachelors Degree in Criminal Justice at Northeastern University and a Masters Degree in Criminal Justice from Boston University. I became a police officer because I wanted to help people. I wanted to make a difference. When I attended the academy 24+ years ago I had no idea my career would take me down its current path. Most of the last 12 years of my career have been focused on protecting children from predators. I have helped people and I have made a difference. The men and women I work with have dedicated themselves as well to this noble cause. As you know, we in law enforcement have been demonized recently because of the actions of a very few in other parts of the country. Frankly, I find it beyond insulting to be targeted in this manner. I strongly believe there has been a rush to judgement on policing in Massachusetts. Policing is a local issue and each department has it's own leadership, demographics, culture, community norms and so much more. I believe it's a disservice to the people of Massachusetts to pass legislation based on the actions of a few in the Midwest.

I have personally observed and been part of the great work of the women and men (federal, state & local) I serve with on a daily basis. I believe some of the best policing in America happens right here in Massachusetts. The number with regards to use of force particularly deadly force are very low from the homework I have done. I ask that you take the time to learn more, ask questions and not rush to judgement.

I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for myself and my co-workers, the women and men in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

who act reasonably and in compliance with the rules and regulations of their respective departments, not just police officers. Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously lawsuits. This bill removes important liability protections essential for all public servants. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Amie Geary and I live at 16 Candlewood Road, Lynnfield, MA 01940. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong. I am so sad that I even have to write this email.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

Subject: Fairness

To whom this may concern,

My name is Aaron O. Butler, I am a black Police Lieutenant in the City of Springfield and I am assigned to the Internal Investigations Unit. I read the bill your trying to pass and I find it disgraceful and a symbolic spit in my face and the faces of every honest hard-working Police Officer in the Commonwealth. Before I continue I know that not all of you have disdain and disrespect for us, I know many of you are on the side of common sense and what is fair and just and I have no doubt you are as disgusted with your colleagues as I am.

The idea that a person does not get due process in the United States before being deprived of their liberty and hard work is an absolute shame and is offensive to the principles that this country was founded on and what the court system is based on, being treated fairly and with respect, it's obvious some of you do not care about these things for the people who risk their lives to keep your cities and towns safe.

You obviously have a feverish need to do "something" because of this silly idea that black men are being hunted down by racist white cops. Nothing is further from the truth, you feel this need to do "something", only the something is disgraceful. I do not have any problem with a POST system, no Police Officer I have spoken to does it's the lack of common sense and fairness in the bill that we a problem with. And what happened to George Floyd, which obviously prompted this has nothing to do with any Police Officer in the Commonwealth, stop punishing us for what some filthy excuse for humans did on the other side of the country.

Let me tell you what is going to happen, first no Police Officer will do anything other than what is absolutely necessary because our supposed leaders have stabbed us in the back over pressure to do "something" even the something is reckless and disgusting, which I am sure is the reason why some of you tried to sneak this bill through when no one was looking.

I suspect a vast majority of Police Officers who can retire, will, others with less time will just quit and the ones who have to stay will be disgruntled and will not engage in any type of activity unless they get a call and they absolutely have to do something. At some point when the ranks gets drastically low, the only people foolish enough to take this miserable and thank less job will be the people you don't want and who had tried in the past to get on the job but were rejected. Chiefs will have no choice but to hire them because someone has to the job.

You are going to destroy law and order and you will wonder why Police Officers refuse to do their jobs or why good, educated people will not take the job. I have spoken to a few of the younger Officers who are confused and very angry and have asked me what to do, I told them to get out now, why the hell would anyone do this job with political leaders stabbing them in the back. You are going to see young, educated people leave this job and in case you did not know this, we need them to stay and you are going to drive them out and like I said we will be left with people who are only looking for a paycheck and don't belong on the job.

It's clear that a lot of you have no idea what qualified immunity is, you seem to think cops just run around punching people, like the liars in the DOJ and the AG's office think of Springfield Police. It is far from that. It simply means without being too complicated that if a Police Officer is doing the right thing you cannot sue him/her. Which makes perfect sense, how are Police Officers supposed to do their job if they are getting sued every time they turn their head.

Maybe the flood gates should be open to sue Politicians for laws that are passed where someone gets falsely accused, you would not like that, would you? You need to ask yourselves why anyone would want to do this job with no protection. This bill is the exact type of discrimination you are complaining about, you want to penalize Police Officers, unjustly for what a few, and yes, a few bad apples have done, that are being dealt with. And please stop listening to NAACP, they have not been a civil rights organization in years, they are just a political action committee.

It is interesting that many of you are attorneys and what your doing is offensive to the United States Constitution, the Massachusetts Declaration of Rights, common sense, fair play and what's right. What are you going to do when Law and Order falls apart in the Commonwealth and the crime rate explodes like it is in New York City? Police Officers there are falling over each other to retire, and if you think it will not happen here, you are sadly, sadly mistaken.

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: Bill S.2820

? To the Chair,

My name is Tyler Dow. I am a resident of Harwich, MA and a police officer for the Town of Provincetown. I worked for the town in a part time capacity from 2012-2015, and in 2015 I was hired as a full time police officer. Along with my role as a patrol officer, I am also a Use of Force/Defensive Tactics instructor in the State of MA. I am also a Taser instructor and Field Training Officer for my department and am involved with planning and carrying out various trainings several times a year. One of my passions is training new recruits and fellow officers, as I believe keeping the public, as well as police officers safe is of utmost importance. The new bill which was made public this week and will be voted on shortly, produces concerns as a police officer and person of the commonwealth. While I do not claim to be an expert in the fields I mentioned, I wanted to write to you before this bill was voted on to voice some of these concerns. I understand there needs to be change in order to offer the best possible services for our communities, but I feel as though there needs to be further discussion with more law enforcement or criminal justice representatives.

The first portion of the proposed bill refers to a Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee which I can understand the rationale behind. However, if law enforcement is going to be regulated by a committee such as this, it should be done by more people who have a criminal justice background. I am not suggesting all members of the committee need to be active or retired law enforcement, however there are other professions or positions people hold which would offer a better understanding of law enforcement. If this committee is to be responsible for investigating complaints and possible revocation of officer's certifications, there needs to be a complete understanding of law enforcement, and the make up of the committee does not appear to lend itself to that. One of the concerns regarding investigations of complaints is one person could have a vendetta against a police officer, and make several complaints about the same officer directly to the committee. Even if these complaints were frivolous and unwarranted, the committee would now be directly investigating these complaints if they so choose, separate from the internal department investigation. The committee could now sustain complaints made against an officer and revoke said officer's certification regardless of department action (even though it could be taken into consideration). As proposed, the committee has been handed great power concerning an officer's livelihood and I feel as though there needs to be more refining to the actions the committee could take as well as the actual make up of the committee. The due process for an officer needs to remain in place for police just as there is due process for a civilian.

In regards to the use of force aspect of the proposed bill, I have an immense fear that if passed, this bill will get more police officers hurt, as well as civilians. The language currently used in training when it comes to use of force is based off the "reasonableness standard" which is directly from "Graham v Connor 490 U.S. 386 (1989)". This standard gives police officers the right the use force that is objectively reasonable, not "proportionate" given the facts and circumstances at the time. It also recognizes police officer need to make split second decisions in circumstances which are tense, uncertain and rapidly evolving. The language in the use of force chapter in the bill regarding "imminent harm" is alarming. By the definition of "imminent harm" provided, officers would need to believe they would suffer "serious physical injury or death". With this language, it presents as though I would need to be nearly rendered incapacitated by an assault in order to use force. Force is defined as physical effort used to compel, repel, or restrain. Therefore there are times when police officers need to use "force" in order to restrain someone who is trying to break from our control. They may not be trying to hurt us, but it could be dangerous for that person to be out of our control but I would not be able to restrain this person properly by the "imminent harm" definition. There are times when trying to speak with someone and de-escalate a situation just simply isn't feasible and the person needs to be restrained so they don't hurt themselves or others. There is a difference between serious physical injury and physical injury, which I teach through my trainings. Officers cannot predict whether a punch or push might result in serious physical injury or not. A punch could leave a simple red mark, or it could cause me to be unconscious and have my firearm or other items exposed to the subject. Also if officers cannot use force based on anything but an "immediate" assault resulting in serious physical injury, it could be too late for the officer to take measures to stay safe.

Officers needing to wait until there is an immediate threat of serious physical harm will cause a greater amount of force to be used on a person in all cases. Instead of being able to restrain a person the way we have been trained, officers will only be able to use force in the most dangerous circumstances where a higher level of force will be reasonable. As an example, if I am trying to escort someone to an area to speak with them, and they begin to pull away from me or push away from me, I would not be able to properly restrain that person using a reasonable amount of force. Now say that person is carrying a weapon on them and that is the reason he/she is pulling away from me, so I don't find it. Now because I can't use any force to restrain them, they access that weapon and use it against me. Force in this situation would not dictate me delivering any sort of strikes against the person, there are control tactics police can use in these situations which are still technically "force" by definition. Now that I fear "imminent harm", I will need to use a great amount of force, possibly resulting in that person's death. This could have been avoided with levels of force that are immensely lower, where the likelihood of injury is no where near as high as a lethal threat.

Another item which will result in officers or the public being injured is in section Of use of force, where it states "any person in the commonwealth shall have a right to the intervention of officers in the circumstances described in this section." In Commonwealth v Adams 416 MA

at. 565, it describes police officers having a duty to intervene when excessive force is being used. This is appropriate because other officers will have a better understanding of what is excessive and what is not excessive. The average citizen does not perceive actions, language or situations in the same way a police officer does during their course of duty, therefore there could be a justified use of force happening. However, if a citizen deems the officer's actions excessive, with their lack of law enforcement knowledge, they can intervene in a dangerous manner. A person may be walking by a scene in which an officer is on the ground with a subject trying to restrain them because the officer knows the subject has a weapon. The person walking would likely not know this and could legally intervene and stop the officer from restraining a dangerous person under this bill which puts everyone there at risk. The totality of circumstances begins from the time of the radio call to an officer and police officers are reacting to subjects on a split second basis, a person seeing an incident taking place may not see some subtle dangerous moves made by the subject leading to a use of force.

One of the most dangerous aspect of this bill is eliminating qualified immunity for police officers. Qualified immunity is a doctrine that shields police officers and all public employees (and other governmental officials) from personal liability in civil lawsuits unless they violate "clearly established" legal principles. In cases claiming excessive force, an officer's use of force must be reasonable under the Fourth Amendment in order to avoid liability. In cases alleging false arrest, an officer must have arguable probable cause for the arrest in order to escape liability. It is these police officers who are protected by qualified immunity. Qualified immunity is in place when officers act lawfully and in good faith, not when an intentional unlawful act was carried out. Being able to file actionable complaints against an officer is understandable, but to be able to file civil lawsuits against an officer for performing lawful duties will likely cause officers to hesitate in situations when action should be taken. If an officer arrives at a house for a report of someone screaming inside, glass breaking and there is a history of violence in the house, and there is no answer when the officer tries to contact someone inside, that officer may need to break a door or window to gain access and make sure everyone inside is ok. If the officer does so, and the screaming/breaking glass wasn't because of anything criminal, the people in the house may now want to sue that officer for property damage or whatever else they could think of, even though the officer was acting in good faith and lawfully there to stop a possible violent crime. Qualified immunity is not and should not be there to protect unlawful acts committed by officers, but when a decision is made to act lawfully and in good faith, officers don't want to worry about their home or livelihood taken from them time and time again.

Police officers are held accountable if there is misconduct. Police officers are routinely, and often times successfully, sued for their on-duty conduct. The City of Boston has paid millions of dollars to settle lawsuits and jury verdicts against police officers. The Chicago Tribune reported that in 2018, the City of Chicago paid $97.9 million in settlements and judgments in cases involving police misconduct. In most cases, a municipality or a municipality's insurance company will bear the expense of settling a lawsuit against an officer or paying a jury verdict against an officer. If the law is changed to make officers personally liable for wrongful conduct, this will likely result in some situations the person who was injured by an officer's wrongful conduct will not be able to recover if the officer is the one who has to personally pay.

I understand there needs to be changes in some of the language with which police operate regarding policies and procedures. In the commonwealth, our standards for use of force are not like other states and I strongly believe MA is ahead of the curve in use of force and policing as a whole. To radically make so many changes to law enforcement through this bill will not generate the reform people are seeking. We do need to get any and all people out of this profession who should not be, we do need more training, and we do need to have more discussions with leaders in the State, but passing this bill will be detrimental to public safety. I know we all want change for the better, so before this bill is passed, I feel there needs to be further discussion with law enforcement representatives so our stand point can be shown to those who might not understand yet. I want to thank you for your time and your dedication to this State.

from S.2820

Dear Chairs HWM & Judiciary,

I urge you to pass legislation that establishes real oversight and accountability for police.

Our law enforcement system is rife with systemic racism that manifests in poignant police murders of unarmed black people, brutality and excessive use of force, unlawful arrests, and unnecessary police contact. The House of Representatives and Senate should ultimately pass a bill that ends qualified immunity in most instances, reduces and oversees police use of force, removes police from schools, expands juvenile expungement, and establishes funds to improve re-entry from incarceration.

The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

This is an urgent matter. Please pass a bill that includes at a minimum the provisions of the senate bill.

Sincerely,

Julie Dahlstrom

Subject: Fwd: S.2820

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Eve Paone and I live at 6 Norris Rd, Lynnfield MA. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Eve Paone

I'm writing on favour of S.2820 to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to act as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law AND strengthen it.

The final bill should:

- eliminate qualified immunity (loophole that prevents holding the police accountable)
- introduce robust standards for decertifying problem officers/ officers who pose a risk to any citizen (especially in terms of race, income, sexual orientation, gender identity, etc.)
- completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raise (like the one that killed Breonna Taylor)

Feel free to call me for further discussion.

Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: Police immunity

It came to my attention that last night the MA Senate passed the bill to end qualified immunity for police officers. I am appalled that the legislature of such importance was passed without a public hearing.

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

A horrible death happened in Minnesota and everybody condemned it. But why the whole profession of policemen is punished for that? I talked to Brookline police and there has been not a single incident of police brutality for the years of existence of Brookline police. Massachusetts police in general is an exemplary organization. Why are you in such a hurry of changing the law? This new law will harm not only police but the whole population of Massachusetts.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

I am a resident of Massachusetts and I urge you to transform Public Safety by:

- * banning chokeholds
- * banning no knock warrants
- * banning tear gas
- * and firing abusive officers.

In addition, officers should have a duty to intervene and to de-escalate situations. And records of officer misconduct should be maintained and available to the public. .

In addition, Massachusetts should end the practice of qualified immunity, making it possible for police officers to be personally liable if they are found to have violated a person's civil rights. Police officers have more power and with more power comes more responsibility. They are intended to protect civil rights, not violate them. The laws should reflect that.

Support HD.5128 and get rid of qualified immunity.

Subject: In Re S.2800

Judiciary Committee,

Hello and thank you for the opportunity to share my concerns about S.2800 (Reform, Shift + Build Act). There are a number of good provisions in this bill. I appreciate the data collection requirements on all stops. Although even this could be improved by requiring data collection on all protected classes, not just race and ethnicity. For example, Massachusetts law includes people living with disabilities among its protected classes but data collection on that is not currently required in this bill. Given that a significant number of police abuse of power incidents involve people living with mental health or cognitive challenges, this too is important to track.

However, there are several areas that need significant improvement if the Commonwealth is serious about addressing police abuse of power, creating mechanisms of accountability when police violate an individual's constitutional rights, and starting the process of de-militarizing our local police departments.

The easiest modification that should be made in this bill is the outright prohibition on the use of tear gas for any reason. The use of tear gas is already prohibited in international law during military conflicts. There is absolutely no reason for a local police force to be using tear gas, most especially if its use is prohibited by actual military personnel. This bill should be amended to explicitly prohibit the use of tear gas and other chemical weapons for any reason. If the Army can't use it, why should Boston Police be allowed to?

Critically important is strengthening the qualified immunity provisions. As passed, the bill does not meaningfully change the immunity from civil damages that have protected individual police officers from being held accountable for civil rights violations. There needs to be explicit language that directs the courts to allow litigation on civil rights violations. The current bill uses vague language and relies on the courts to divine the intent of the legislature. Given existing case law, anything short of explicit direction that specifies when qualified immunity does not apply (or even better - when it only applies) puts an unnecessary and irresponsible burden on the courts.

In terms of accountability, the bill raised the standard for decertification of police officers. This is clearly going backwards. Removing this provision should be easy.

Finally, the bill needs to provide greater consequences to police departments who have demonstrated by their own data to have engaged in patterns of racial profiling or patterns of abuse against protected classes. I am one of those people who professionally does what you all call implicit bias training and similar education. I can tell you from my professional experience that implicit bias training cannot undo the deep cultural problems that tolerate of police abuse of power. Police officers and their leadership are so resistant to such training as to render it absolutely useless. Policy change that explicitly states what is not tolerated with material consequences for violating such standards can are needed to provide any chance for such learning and skill development to work. Both incentives and disincentives are needed to compel behavior change and to support the efforts of city/town governments in changing policing practices in the Commonwealth. Perhaps removing the accreditation status of police departments could be considered when there is documented patterns of police misconduct and patterns of illegal profiling against any protected class. T

I am happy to continue the conversation at any time. My contact information is below.

I thank you for trying to make consideration of this bill more transparent than was observed in the Senate process.

Subject: Senate Bill S2820 written testimony

A Letter regarding Bill S2820

I, Timothy Sullivan, as a member of The Peabody Police Department, am writing to express that I am opposed to Massachusetts Senate Bill (S2820). If passed, this bill would prohibit officers from effectively executing their duty each day.

The main areas of concern, among others, are the following:

Due Process: Under the law, Police officers deserve the same due process that are given to citizens and have been in place for years. All law enforcement employees deserve the right to an appeal, the same right given to other public servants.

Qualified Immunity: Contrary to what most think, qualified immunity does not protect bad police officers. What it does is keep officers, acting in good faith while making split second decisions, out of frivolous lawsuits that not only waste time, but millions of tax - payer dollars. All officers are bound to policy and procedures within their department and are subject to internal investigations.

Police Officer Standards Accreditation Committee: People have the right to be judged by their peers. It is difficult for any person to judge situations which they are not familiar with, or have never been involved in. In order to properly review Police conduct one must understand the role of being a police officer. Being tasked with regulating police action, including termination should be done by those who have an intimate knowledge of the profession.

At this time Massachusetts Police Officers are among the most trained Police Officers in the country. There have been no acts toward the public by any law enforcement officials that warrant such sweeping legislation. I urge you to reconsider the parameters of S2820. Please provide the men and women of Massachusetts law enforcement with the respect they deserve.
Respectfully,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin

I am writing to you in regards to the Police Reform Bill that is said to be heard at the House. Growing up as a son of a Police Officer, I began to understand how men and women of law enforcement put the lives of their communities before their own. Growing up in a small town (Easton), I quickly saw how law enforcement officers were a part of their communities and how police officers served the communities also as coaches, role models, and other roles where they interacted with the children of the communities. After seeing how involved police officers were with the members of their communities, I quickly decided that I wanted to be a police officer and here I am today. I have been a police officer for approximately 9 years (7 years with a municipality). I am writing to you today because I do not want to see the communities and police officers to spread further apart than continuing the idea of community policing. I loved knowing that my coaches were also members of law enforcement such as police officers I work and how they serve as coaches in their community. I feel that this bill will hinder the relationship that we have when we need to be getting closer together.

I understand we as a society need to work together and there needs to be progress but I have certain issues with the following:

Qualified Immunity: As we see in other states, police officers are already second guessing themselves and how they react to situations because of what issues they could face down the road. Police Officers have minutes to seconds to make a decision and then they will have the rest of their lives to be second guessed. I feel that if we get rid of qualified immunity then officers will THINK about reacting instead of reacting which could hinder the members of their communities.

Review Board: As I just stated, as a police officer we have seconds to make that decision. I feel that the members need to be trained as police officers and to work with police officers in the following areas: Defensive Tactics, Constitutional Law, and Psychology and how the officer perceives incidents. I feel that having a committee who is not trained in the same areas as us would hurt the decisions being made.

I understand we need to continue to make our Commonwealth better than how we started, but as how the bill stands today, I ask you to Vote NO on the Police Reform Bill S.2800.

from S.2820

Dear Chairs HWM & Judiciary,

I urge you to pass legislation that establishes real oversight and accountability for police.

Our law enforcement system is rife with systemic racism that manifests in poignant police murders of unarmed black people, brutality and excessive use of force, unlawful arrests, and unnecessary police contact. The House of Representatives and Senate should ultimately pass a bill that ends qualified immunity in most instances, reduces and oversees police use of force, removes police from schools, expands juvenile expungement, and establishes funds to improve re-entry from incarceration.

The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

This is an urgent matter. Please pass a bill that includes at a minimum the provisions of the senate bill.

Sincerely,

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Melissa Wilson and I live at 14 Swan Pond Road in North Reading <x-apple-data-detectors://1> . As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to Bill 2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives: I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership. Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated. Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status. Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers. I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation. Sincerely,

Good Morning;

I am writing to raise my concerns with the above-listed bill and the effect that it will have on police officers in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, but I am also writing in support of my family, mainly my cousin, my uncle, my aunt and her whole family who represent at least 3 generations of "GOOD" police officers. In the little time I have had to review the bill, I do think that it addresses some necessary faults in our current system throughout the Commonwealth. However, I am concerned with the a few provisions, which I will address individually, but I am especially concerned with the hastiness in which this bill is being pushed through. There has not been enough research or debate and not nearly enough input from the law abiding officers within the Commonwealth. At one level, it seems as it is a panicked/rushed decision to a current problem and we all know how those usually work out. On another level, it looks as though it is a pandering to the masses or the mob. Which I hope is not the case because there are too many "good" police office within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts that are being hung out to dry here based on the actions of a few bad seeds.

As any sane and moral individual would agree, what happen to George Floyd was downright wrong and an act of murder, no matter how you look at it. There is no disputing that and there is no disputing that throughout this Country and even here in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts there are events and cases like George Floyd that should never happen and the perpetrators should be punished to the full extent of the law. However, and I stated before, the actions of some do not establish precedent for the whole. Like any profession, there are people who are good at their jobs and care about the work product or the people they come in contact with, but there are always, in EVERY profession, people who aren't good at their jobs or just don't care enough to abide by laws of the land or by the rules, regulations or codes of conduct of their profession.

As an Attorney, I can speak to this as well as anyone. My first internship was with one of the smartest people I had ever met and he was fantastic in the courtroom, however he did not think laws, rules, regulations or codes of ethic applied to him and he is still serving time in prison for a large scale mortgage fraud scheme. Before being brought up on charges by the government, he was brought before the Board of Bar Overseers and was subject to discipline for his ethics violations. The Panel that revoked his license to practice was made up of lawyers and the same happens at medical review boards. The same should be done for Police Officers, but with some civilian input. The Bill addresses civilian review boards, but is not fair or just to police officers as there is not nearly enough representation of law enforcement professionals on these panels. Civilians are not trained to be police officers just as I am not qualified to sit in on a review board that addresses someone's right to practice medicine.

Secondly, I am concerned with the elimination of Qualified Immunity for police officers. This immunity is not there to protect the officers in the George Floyd case or any officer who violates the laws of this Country, the Commonwealth or the Municipality in which they serve. This Immunity is there to protect the "good" offices who are performing their duties in good faith and within the confines of the oath they swear to serve and protect.

As I stated earlier, I am in support of the idea of this bill and police reform throughout the Commonwealth, including standardized training for all of current and future officers. Unfortunately, I feel that this bill is being rushed through, but it needs to be discussed further to hone it to a more appropriate and more effective reaction/solution to the overall problem. Please consider bringing this bill back for more discussion and fine tuning because, in its current form, it is merely putting a Band-Aid on a gunshot wound and not a real solution to the problems within the system.

Sincerely,

Rick Payne

Hi,

I'm writing to urge the committee and full House to keep the Senate's *critical* Qualified Immunity reforms, the ban on facial surveillance, and to really ban chokeholds/tear gas/no-knock raids/other abusive tactics, rather than insert squishy and toothless recommendations. Citizens need real security. Not the worse-than-none false security which comes from ceding all personal authority to uniformed, pressure groups.

Thank you.

Subject: Police reform bill

Hello,

I would like to urge the house to pass the police reform bill in the form that it was approved in the senate.

I am a college educated, retired, successful individual yet in my circle of friends and family, I know of three different cases of police misconduct. First was a friend of mine who was repeatedly beaten by Cambridge police in the 1980s because of his homosexuality. He was missing his front teeth because of these beatings.

Second was a friend of mine who was walking home in the wee hours of the morning and was followed to his home by police in Waltham. They broke into his home. One officer held him up against the wall and the other one searched the house. There was no warrant, no reason. These were two notorious cops referred to as "Mutt and Jeff" who were searching for drugs that they could plant on other suspects. My friend's wife wanted to do something about this but was told by the niece of the chief of police in Waltham that there would be bad consequences if they did so.

The third case I know of was my sister's ex-husband, who during a messy divorce managed to get a judge to sign a court order and persuaded his friend to serve it to charge her with assault on a police officer (himself) in order to prevent her from going on vacation with their kids. While married he had never let her take a vacation.

Of course none of these cops were ever held accountable for their behavior. It was futile to even report it.

This has to change.

Thank-you

Subject: Support for S.2820

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

I am writing in support of S.2820, an act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just Commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

Massachusetts must protect the public by banning chokeholds, the use of tear gas, chemical weapons, and no-knock warrants. Accountability and transparency by law enforcement organizations is necessary. Certification of officers, an end to qualified immunity, strengthening use of force rules, establishing a "duty to intervene," and ensuring that police misconduct is public record must be part of this legislation.

I urge you to vote in favor of S.2820.

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: Testimony on S.2820

To: Representative Aaron Michlewitz, Chairperson, House Committee on Ways and Means Representative & Claire Cronin, Chairperson, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Good morning, my name is Jamie Merrill with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 50 Boylston St, Jamaica Plain, 02130.

I am writing to plead with you and the House to pass without delay police reform that includes:

- * Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

I strongly implore you to adopt the Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity. This reform will allow the few applicable cases to be heard by a jury without being dismissed because the particular violation of 4th amendment rights by a public official, such as a police officer, has never been previously contemplated by a statute or a court precedent. Those cases deserve to be heard on their merits, not thrown out using a non-statutory legal doctrine. It is simply outrageous that those who have suffered from the egregious violations of police officers can not get their day in court. As the birthplace of this nation, the Commonwealth must lead in the quest for justice and fairness.

In addition, it is clear that qualified immunity reform will not have devastating financial impact on any police officers as they are indemnified by the municipalities that employ them. Any such claims are not based on fact and should not be considered as you consider this reform.

Thank you very much for your thoughtful consideration.

I'm writing to address S2800 today being the wife of a police officer. What has happened in the last two weeks with the Senate is beyond me. My husband has been a officer for 24yrs. He has been spit, peed vomited on even exposed to HIV. Missed holidays, birthdays, anniversary's etc. that we all understood. But for me what finally broke me was when my husband asked me maybe we should take off any stickers on my car about police for my safety. I responded don't you dear. I'm very proud of my husband he has sacrificed a lot for his profession with family's support. I heard a Senator compare his profession to Doctors and lawyers not having immunity privileges why should they Really do I need to explain the difference. Many years ago when I was new to this special family a wife told me the best sound you will ever hear is the sound of the velcro at the end of his shift I hold that sound with me still to this day. As early as this week when he was called to a armed robbery. Please don't single out this profession because of few bad apples and at the end of the day my husband will put his uniform on for his shift I will kiss him goodbye tell him to stay safe and wait for that sound of Velcro at the end. Sincerely, The wife of a police officer. Donna Pepicelli 508/942-0491

Hi Chief,

Well I agree with you. I oppose dealing with QI in this bill that came up very quickly at the end of a session. I do support some elements but QI and the lack of respect for the collective barging on the creation of a certification program are troubling to me. We can and should respect collective bargaining in creation of the officer certification portion of this bill.

Dear Chair Aarin Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820- an act to reform police standards.

I pen this letter to affirm my strong concurrence with the testimony submitted by Chief Brian Keyes on behalf of the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association.

In the vain of brevity, I will not regurgitate his salient points. I do offer this; however, what will this bill SB2820 accomplish? It will not improve the life of anyone of color not one bit. It is a bill laden with bureaucracy, rhetoric and distraction from the real problems in this country which are poverty, homelessness and drug addiction.

Where is the data to support this bill : there is none. There is not one community in the Country that wants to have less Police Protection and involvement. This bill will not feed, educate or house one person of color. It will not stop one person from overdosing on illegal drugs.

What this bill will do is further divide the minority communities from the Police Officers that are sworn to protect them.

I strongly urge you to consider working with the stakeholders of this bill to carefully craft a bill that will accomplish a shared goal of providing a safe community for all the great citizens of this commonwealth.

Yours truly,

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership.

Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP.

To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated.

SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated.

Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status.

Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers.

I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Sincerely,

Subject: PLEASE PLEASE OPPOSE sb2820

I understand that the House is considering SB2820 now and some part of it are very troublesome and diminishes the tools that the police now have to keep us safe. There is a provision that removes protections for the law enforcement authorities, and installs an unelected commission with biased views to make policing recommendations. Please oppose SB2820.

Another example of making us less safe is the following. Reminds me of the Marathon bombers who had been identified, known to several law enforcement agencies, but no one put the pieces together, until after the terrorist attack. Collecting facts should not be prohibited.

SECTION 49. Section 37L of chapter 71 of the General Laws, as appearing in the 2018 Official Edition, is hereby amended by inserting after the third paragraph the following paragraph:-

School department personnel and school resource officers, as defined in section 37P, shall not disclose to a law enforcement officer or agency, including local, municipal, regional, county, state and federal law enforcement, through an official report or unofficial channels, including, but not limited to text, phone, email, database and in-person communication, or submit to a the Commonwealth Fusion Center, the Boston Regional Intelligence Center or any other database or system that tracks gang affiliation or involvement any information relating to a student or a student's family member from its databases or other record-keeping systems including, but not limited to: (i) immigration status; (ii) citizenship; (iii) neighborhood of residence; (iv) religion; (v) national origin; (vi) ethnicity; (vii) native or spoken language; (viii) suspected, alleged or confirmed gang affiliation, association or membership; (ix) participation in school activities, extracurricular activities both inside and outside of school, sports teams or school clubs or organizations; (x) degrees, honors or awards; and (xi) post-high school plans. Nothing in this paragraph shall prohibit the sharing of information for the purposes of completing a report pursuant to sections 51A or 57 of chapter 119 or filing a weapon report with the local chief of police pursuant to this section.

Representative Claire Cronin, Chairperson, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

I am writing this morning to express my support for Police Reform Legislation pending before the House, and to urge you to pass a strong bill before July 31st. As co-chair of Temple Beth Elohim's Racial Justice Initiative, and a member of the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization, we have been deeply engaged with issues around criminal justice reform and most recently with the opportunity to enact police reform. Please help the House of Representatives pass these critically needed reforms including:

- * Implementation of Peace Officer Standards & Training (POST) with certification
- * Civil service access reform

- * A commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force, and
- * Qualified immunity reform

Thank you for your leadership and support of this crucial legislation,

To: Representative Aaron Michlewitz, Chairperson, House Committee on Ways and Means,

cc: Representative Tommy Vitolo, 15th Norfolk

Hello, my name is Carl Berke and through Temple Israel in Boston, I am affiliated with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 330 Clark Road, Brookline, MA 02445.

I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- * Standards/training and accountability. Certification/decertification of police is necessary in any police reform package.
- * Creating racial equity through civil service access reform is long overdue.
- * Clear Statutory limits on police use of force.

* Qualified Immunity reform

* Commission for ongoing work around dismantling structural racism and racist procedures and policies.

Senate Bill S2820 is a good bill worthy of guiding you to put out a strong police reform bill.

I am strongly in favor of professionalizing the police force through licensure. I am a parent in a multi-racial blended family which has provided me with special insight into the differential treatment of citizens by our community and state police. The Black Lives Matter movement has given voice to what I have experienced and felt for a long time.

I further urge you to adopt the Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity. This reform will allow the few applicable cases to be heard by a jury without being dismissed because the particular violation of 4th amendment rights by a public official, such as a police officer, has never been previously contemplated by a statute or a court precedent. Those cases deserve to be heard on their merits, not thrown out using a non-statutory legal doctrine.

It is simply outrageous that those who have suffered from the egregious violations of police officers can not get their day in court. In addition, it is clear that qualified immunity reform will not have devastating financial impact on any police officers as they are indemnified by the municipalities that employ them. Any such claims are not based on fact and should not be considered as you consider this reform.

Thank you,

Carl Berke cberke@partners.org

I am a mom and a Black women who is afraid for my children, my husband and my own safety from the threat of police violence. My son is a teenager with Austism and I fear his Blackness and disability combined make him a threat to officers. If officers have no personal accountability for their actions they will continue to harm us and our community.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Subject: To Support POLICE

Dear MA House of representatives!

It came to my attention that last night the MA Senate passed the bill to end qualified immunity for police officers. I am appalled that the legislature of such importance was passed without a public hearing.

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

A horrible death happened in Minnesota and everybody condemned it. But why the whole profession of policemen is punished for that? I talked to Brookline police and there has been not a single incident of police brutality for the years of existence of Brookline police. Massachusetts police in general is an exemplary organization. Why are you in such a hurry of changing the law? This new law will harm not only police but the whole population of Massachusetts.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

Regarding Bill # 2820

As the Senate passed a similar bill which seemed in undue haste, we are hoping that the House delay the vote on this bill, Until a review can be made on the effects of eliminating Qualified Immunity for SOME Public personnel. The Senate appears to not have included themselves in the bill that they passed. Eliminating qualified immunity for teachers , fire personnel, police will Open the door for Frivolous law suits, Many of which will be a waste of time and Money for everyone . Please take a step back and look at everything. Training is usually always an asset, but this bill seems to put our much needed teachers , firemen/women and police at a great disadvantage.

Studies and common sense needs to be used here in conjunction with racial training.

Qualified immunity never protected cops from suits over excessive use of force or malicious prosecution. It protected cops from suits where even if a ticket or case was thrown out, as long as it was in good faith.. you can't sue. Now this opens the door to a lawsuit if a cop writes a ticket for speeding and it's thrown out in court because it's your first one or a cop makes an arrest for a crime and it's dismissed for the victim not showing up to court, so even something not in their control.

This will result in loads of frivolous lawsuits against police officers and municipalities. All cops will be at risk of garbage lawsuits, more so the proactive cops. So a cop who goes out and actively seeks out criminals will face a greater likelihood of suits, but all cops, just from their regular day to day call responses will be at risk as well.

Retirements are going to increase, proactive patrol will decrease, and high quality candidates will be in low supply resulting in lower quality candidates getting the job.

You wanted reform, you got it. Lawlessness will prevail because cops aren't gonna lose their homes to protect anyone.

Dear House of Representatives,

My name is [INSERT NAME] and I live at [INSERT ADDRESS]. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Although I appreciate the good intentions of this police reform bill, I have found that it contains several troubling flaws that can result when all stake holders are not brought to the table. I ask that you not support the bill at this time, or at least carefully consider the important amendments proposed by the MPA and SPAM.

When I watched the video of the murder of George Floyd, I was horrified, but also proud to think of the great training I've received as a police officer in Massachusetts. Over the past few years, I've received, and embraced training on unintended bias, deescalation techniques, positional asphyxiation, and most importantly in this case, the duty to intervene if another officer behaves improperly. Police officers have a great deal of power and we need to be proactive in improving police procedures. But, frankly, the anti police rhetoric we've endured recently from the public and many members of the legislature for the abhorrent actions of a police officer from another state hundreds of miles away has been blatantly unfair. It has been a punch in the gut to those of us who have committed most of our lives to treating people fairly and constantly seeking self improvement.

This bill contains important reforms such as the licensing of police officers. However, even the wording of this reform was originally ill conceived as it sought to restrict due process for police officers with no right of appeal to civil service and did not allow for police representation on the licensing board. I have arrested people for committing horrific crimes over the years, but have never questioned their right to due process.

The bill also allows the public to intervene if they observe what they perceive to be an unlawful arrest. This measure is extremely dangerous as it encourages bystanders to fight with the police. The courtroom is the place to address these grievances, not a dark street.

The bill also seeks to stem the use of chemical agents for riot control. Police officers are always greatly outnumbered in cases where an unlawful crowd has assembled, and these agents have proven to be an effective way to disperse an unlawful crowd with minimal injury the rioters as well as the police.

The most troubling aspect of this bill is the attempt to eliminate qualified immunity for police officers. Police officers currently can be sued (and are sued routinely) under section 1983 of the US code for civil rights violations. Most public officials enjoy "absolute" immunity, whereas a police officers immunity is limited, or "qualified" to situations where they intentionally violate someone's civil rights based on clearly established law. This only protects officers from frivolous lawsuits. Police officers are duty bound to respond to all calls for service. They deserve to know that the people who recruited, selected and trained them have their back.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joe Ballou

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

respective departments, not just police officers. Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously lawsuits. This bill removes important liability protections essential for all public servants. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

To Whom It May Concern:

I write to you today as the wife of a man who has dedicated his entire adult life to protecting and defending this country. My husband is a Lieutenant Colonel in the MA National Guard as well as MA State Trooper. There are many things about this bill I do actually agree with, for example POSA Committee. However, I do not support these components without further research, deliberation and changes, that are fair and allow for due process. As far as qualified immunity and fair due process what I would like to convey to you is this, as the family of a law enforcement officer we all took the oath together the day he was sworn in and we understand every day that we may all pay the ultimate price for his service and we make peace with that. What we didn't agree to was to have our family's livelihood and financial security come under attack should he have to make a split-second decision that no law enforcement officer wants to have to make. I realize that much of this bill will be put into place because there is a small percentage of officers that are not meant to be in the position that they are in and I can respect that; however, I implore you to do your due-diligence to understand that when you question the integrity of the "good guys" and when you make them have to stop to check in with their integrity and decision making skills you will inevitably find that a. law enforcement will be less likely to act and crime will go up and the law abiding citizens and their communities will suffer for that and/or b. you will have more law enforcement officers suffering the ultimate sacrifice because asking them to hesitate even for one second could cost them their lives. Another concern that I have is for the future of the quality of law enforcement officers. If we as a community are constantly questions the integrity of our officers and making it too difficult to do the job that they are tasks with I am concerned that the "good guys" will find other ways to make a positive impact of their communities and then what will the quality of our force look like. Sadly, it will take time to see the lasting and negative effects on the moral and the quality and by then what will we have lost? I ask you to consider what your integrity is worth and how often you would defend it in an arena before you would simply walk away.

Though I am white, I have personal experience with Police injustice and prejudice in the treatment of a Black immigrant. My family expanded in 2005 to include a South Sudanese "Lost Boy" resettled to the US after two years of being a child migrant in dangerous territory and eight years in a refugee camp. He is an upstanding citizen today, working full time at Beth Israel Hospital, and during the COVID crisis, he stepped up to stock grocery shelves as a second job for another 30 hours per week.

This young man has called 911 twice, both times when he felt he was in danger - the first time when he was attacked by someone and the second time when he found himself in a car with someone who proved to be not sober and who would not stop the car. Both times, he was arrested.

My son says that he "arrested himself" because he now believes that he was foolish as a Black man to have ever called 911. He says that no matter what the situation, he will never call 911 again.

Within the family, I am the person that has spent the most time with Samuel, teaching ESL at the kitchen table, tutoring him, preparing him for citizenship, helping him sort out life in a vastly different world. Samuel has made great strides in his communication, but he has a strong accent and a tendency to overtalk situations as he struggles to find the right words.

In the second situation, he was arrested with the great misfortune and humiliation to have had the State Police Officer refuse to allow him the opportunity to urinate despite his begging to do so. When nature overtook him in the cruiser, his pants and the seat were soaked. When asked to leave the cramped back seat, this tall, skinny, immigrant struggled to exit. His heavy wet pants were falling to the ground, his hands were cuffed behind his back, and it was at this moment that Samuel's flailing legs may have been extended toward the officer, who rather than assisting him marched him pants down and handcuffed across the public parking lot, up stairs where he fell hitting his chin, and into the station. He was made to spend the night without pants and was only given dry clothing in the morning. It made me weep to hear of his humiliation. No man would invent such an embarrassing story.

It took me weeks to get the police report though we knew he was charged with assault on an officer with a dangerous weapon ("shod foot"). When I called asking for the report, the State Police officer said "What do you think we are - a paper factory?". When I got the report, it had little resemblance to the facts and included purported quotes in street language that I doubt Samuel has ever heard, nor would ever use. I was disgusted that they thought they could get away with a report so falsely constructed to cover their egregious behavior.

I was angry then and I remain angry. We need police reform now. Please pass a strong reform bill that includes the five points listed above.

Thank you, Barbara Berke

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Marjorie Doto and I live at 314 Albion St Wakefield, MA . As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Doto

Subject: Senate Bill 2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Shawn Turner and I live at 7 Eleanor Drive in Worcester. I work at MCI-Norfolk and am a Correction Officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

Qualified Immunity: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system costing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

Less Than Lethal Tools: The fact that you want to take away an Officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from yelling "Stop", to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

Civilian Oversight: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, while we are not opposed to getting better, it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask that you think about the correction officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed, that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Shawn Turner

Subject: Police Reform Bill #S2820

My name is Ralph Anderson and reside on the South Shore. I am not affiliated with any group and am a registered independent that truly is a moderate. I do have a family member in Law Enforcement. What that officer and his family and coworkers are experiencing right now is reprehensible.

While I have concerns with several specific provision within the bill, it is the underlying impetus behind the introduction of the bill, and you unprecedented timeliness for the passing into law of these changes.

I find the language divisive and stability exclusionary from the title and throughout the content, and it is obvious it was written and acted upon to placate the vocal and the (justifiably so) segment of the population.

The bill does little to address many of the main issues that need to be addresses. Power and the need for personal responsibility and accountability.

We need a cultural change with Law Enforcement as well as a society. Uou are looking to sacrifice the safety and possible livelihoods of our policing community with little to guarantee the they will be treated with fairness and equality.

The current state of the cancel culture, with media, politicians, corporations and educational institutions running scared and afraid of of this organized opposition that resorts to threats and name calling instead of meaningful dialog. We are not moving forward as a society as long as you remain politicians and not the leaders we desperately need.

I urge you to put the breaks on the hasty urge to pass this bill through. The opportunity for progressive change has been there for years. Now it needs to be done in 2 weeks? To my knowledge there as not been any overt abuses or crimes ny Massachusetts Law Enforcement. With the overwhelming public scrutiny, I feel safe that none will occur under the current guidelines.

You have time to reach out to your constituents. Walk around your communities and find out concerns and solutions. Don't listen to community activists. Don't listen to Union leaders. Listen to the average person just trying to live their lives. Find out their experiences and desires. Same with police officers. Talk with them.

Lead. Do not follow. Be responsible with your power. Help move forward and not pander to the fals narratives.

Thank you

7/17/2020

To the Legislators on the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing as a citizen who resides in Middlesex County. I am also a Licensed Mental Health Counselor (LMHC) and one who works alongside law enforcement officers in both Middlesex and Essex County. As a citizen and given my current occupation, I feel the need to express my strong disapproval for the recently passes Senate Bill S2800 which was just sent to the House under Bill S2820. I am against the bill for several reason, the first being that I was only informed yesterday that I could submit testimony, which did not allow me ample time to prepare this letter. Therefore, I apologize that it will not as thorough, well-written, or as comprehensive as I would have written had I been given more time. Massachusetts senate passed senate bill s2800 early Tuesday morning without a public hearing and without input from law enforcement officers, leaders, and agencies to whom the impact of this bill will directly impact. It is without input from the community too, whom will indirectly feel the impact if this suggested bill is pass into law.

I am against the Bill because I believe it is a rushed effort to appease members of the public who are upset and angry (and rightfully so) but these individuals also represent a group in our society whom are not fully aware nor educated regarding the current laws, regulation, and other safe-guards that exist in Massachusetts to hold officers accountable and ensure the safety of its citizens. They are also not aware of the realities that law enforcement officers face on a daily basis and the threats the general public will faces if this law were passed.

In particular I am against limiting the statute on Qualified Immunity allows officers to be protected from frivolous lawsuits while in the performance of their duties. Officers who follow the law and their department policies and procedures should not be subject to personal liability. We are in a "sue happy" society and everyone feels entitled or justified to complain and be compensated even if their complaints are unfounded. Currently officers can be charged civilly if they violate the department laws or act in an egregious manner however, if they are not citizens still have the opportunity to take charges out again the towns/cities if they feel compelled. If this were to be passed officers would retire early, many officers would leave their positions due to not being able to afford to remain in their role, and others will be less likely to act and perform their duties for fear of being sued.

I am in a unique position, one in which has changed my personal view as a citizen. I have always had respect for the police and the work that they do but I never truly understood the impact they have on communities, the impact that their jobs have on their physical, emotional, and interpersonal lives, nor the impact it has on their families. I would like to see how we can have more public forums to increase public awareness, have public forums where we create reasonable and incremental changes to help support our officers and better our communities.

I would love to have the opportunity to speak with someone in more detail and describe my personal experience surrounding this matter if given the opportunity because I know that I was unable to write what I had wanted to write about given the deadline.

Thank You for your time. I hope we can postpone making any drastic changes until we can have more public discussions.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Waczkowski, LMHC

Good Morning,

I am writing to you in support of our police .....times are absolutely crazy!
Our officers are being treated with such disrespect it's horrible and troubling .....these days right seems to be wrong and wrong is right....
I pray for our United States that it becomes more united. There seems to be so much division it's very sad...scary times.
During these troubling times all we need now is our police department getting more abuse.....not supporting them....taking away their rights.
No one will want to be in law enforcement ...why would they? They are being treated unjustly.
A world without law enforcement is basically telling the people we're on our own....defend yourselves.
Please vote in support of our police ....or no one will want to be one.
God be with you and guide you.

Subject: FW: Expanding Expungement Limits under S. 2800

7/17/20

Public Testimony on S.2800 to the House Ways and Means and Judiciary
Committees

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice Chair Day, and Vice Chair
Garlick,

I am Jay McManus and I direct the Children's Law Center of Massachusetts, based in Lynn. Our agency provides legal assistance to low-income children in a range of matters including juvenile justice. The overwhelming majority of our clients are of color.

I write to echo the request of scores of organizations from across the state who have urged you to expand the existing expungement law (MGL Ch 276, Section 100E) as part of bill, S.2800. We agree that the protections provided under this expansion directly relate to the harm done by over-policing in communities of color and the over-representation of young people of color in the criminal legal system.

The issue is one with which the Children's Law Center is familiar as some of our clients through the years have been adversely affected by the limits of the existing law. Our agency has targeted those restrictions through individual court cases but c. 276, S. 100E has stymied those efforts. Still we have remained fully cognizant of the harms wrought by insufficient expungement safeguards for youth, and it is for this reason that we fully support the Expungement Movement's request to clarify the law.

Our clients fit the statistical and historical profiles cited by the Expungement Movement in its July 16 letter to your committee. It is beyond dispute that our justice system is, and has been, imbued with racism.

Data referenced in the letter and throughout local and national media clearly supports this point.

Data also supports the premise that the adolescent mind--that precipitated the actions of many of our clients and other youth which landed them in the justice system and with criminal records-- is ever-evolving, and maturing, up to at least age 25. That well-documented, now accepted, theory is the basis of several high profile court cases, including at the US Supreme Court level, touching upon several critical societal issues as serious as life sentences without parole for juveniles. Those decisions have argued, in essence, for more compassionate treatment of young offenders. We view the effort to modify c. 276, s. 100E as tied, at least in part, to the adolescent brain science issue and we ask that you consider it as you debate this important matter.

At the Children's Law Center we have seen or been made aware of youth who, having reached majority age and adulthood, have faced struggles associated with the restrictions imposed by c. 276, s. 100E. It is heartbreaking to see them start their work or academic careers with criminal records tethered to their ankles. As events of the past few months have shown, that symbolism is, sadly, no coincidence.

The Children's Law Center respectfully requests that you add its name to the list of organizations, advocacy and otherwise, that have endorsed the Expungement Movement's July 16 letter. For the reasons stated so articulately in that letter, and for those also referenced herein, I urge you to give your utmost consideration to expanding our state's expungement rule under 100E to include the three clarifications referenced below:

- Allow for recidivism by removing the limit to a single charge or incident. Some young people may need multiple chances to exit the criminal justice system and the overwhelming majority do and pose no risk to public safety.

- Distinguish between dismissals and convictions because many young people get arrested and face charges that get dismissed. Those young people are innocent of crimes and they should not have a record to follow them forever.

- Remove certain restrictions from the 150+ list of charges and allow for the court to do the work the law charges them to do on a case by case basis especially if the case is dismissed of the young person is otherwise found "not guilty."

As the Expungement Movement has made clear, this is a defining moment in our state's and nation's history. We ask that you seize it on behalf of the many young people who will benefit from these clarifications.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Jay McManus

Subject: Fear and Concern re: Current Proposed Changes to S2820

My name is Cynthia Stork. I am a life long resident of MA and last year retired from serving the Commonwealth as an early childhood educator for 25 years in Lakeville. I am proud to have immediate family members currently serving the Commonwealth in law enforcement, corrections, and child support enforcement.

I am in need of your assistance and continuation of my personal protection as you consider "Qualified Immunity" and the role it plays in our society. As you well know, it does not apply if the law is knowingly broken. This protects public servants that act in good faith in the course doing their jobs. Removal of Qualified Immunity, in my opinion, will foster hesitation in those serving this commonwealth and result in less safety than we currently exist with.

Should I ever need to call 911, I want/need those public servants who arrive to serve me (police, fire, EMT) to be confident as they do their job. It will not benefit me to have one moment of hesitation during my crisis.

I have lived long enough to understand we live in a "lawsuit happy" society. My fear and concern is that removal of Qualified Immunity will result in the escalation of frivolous lawsuits, filed by those wanting to create monetary gains or 'get even'. The only ones who win in an environment like that, are the attorneys, hired by public servants who didn't hesitate and find themselves in need of defense for performing their duties in good faith.

Please! Let common sense prevail and keep the Commonwealth of MA safe for me and my family. Reject the removal of Qualified Immunity!

Thank you,

Testimony for S.2820: "An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color"

I am writing both as a concerned resident of Arlington, MA, and as an Associate Professor Emeritus at Tufts University. I am a specialist in justice and reconciliation after violence. I have studied this through first-hand field research since 2001, have taught it in my "After Violence" seminar for ten years, and have published a book (Localizing Transitional Justice [coedited], with Stanford University Press) and eleven journal articles and book chapters on this subject. I have received grants and fellowships from the United States Institute of Peace in DC, the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, the Carr Center for Human Rights Policy at Harvard, and the Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation.

I am also concerned as an Arlington resident. In 2018, Lt. Richard Pedrini of the Arlington, MA, Police Department wrote three articles in the Massachusetts Police Association newsletter (The Sentinel 34/1:6-11). Pedrini railed against those who had killed two MA police officers in the line of duty, which is understandable. However, he went on to assign collective guilt to several marginalized groups: he called drug addicts "maggots" and "vicious animals" who "can only be 'rehabilitated' when they are put down." He compared "illegals...traveling up through Mexico" with Japanese planes in 1941 Hawaii, adding, "We shot at them." Black Lives Matter also came in for attack. "It's time we forget about 'restraint', 'measured responses', 'procedural justice', 'de-escalation', 'stigma-reduction'," he declared before issuing this challenge: "Let's meet violence with violence and get the job done."

These are classic characteristics of hate speech: dehumanize members of a group by describing them as animals or enemies of the state. And call for their deaths. Such words, often precursors of direct violence, explicitly incite police violence here. Nor did Pedrini limit himself to words alone: his record includes several restraining orders and a harassment complaint.

Police officers who use lethal violence against civilians—especially against African American, LatinX, and disabled civilians—often have a record of prior complaints. Derek Chauvin, who murdered George Floyd on May 25, had seventeen. Complaints are not trivial: when police misconduct is tolerated, minimized, and covered up, failures of accountability build up. A climate of impunity develops that fosters violence.

Arguing that it was not possible to terminate Pedrini's employment with the Arlington PD because of the many obstacles to police accountability, Arlington Town Manager Adam Chapdelaine instead embarked the town on a deeply flawed and inappropriate process of restorative justice (RJ). Arlington PD has never criticized his writings. As a result, many people of color, LGBTQ, and disabled residents of Arlington are afraid of the police, and of Lt Pedrini in particular,

S.2820 would go a long way toward correcting such failures of accountability for police misconduct. I ask for your votes.

S.2820 represents minor progress. It leaves too much power in the hands of an excessively armed, largely unaccountable police force. I support the bill, but I'm not remotely satisfied by it. I expect more and will vote accordingly.

Subject: Qualified Immunity

As a Registered Nurse, wife of a Suffolk Count Deputy Sheriff, and daughter of a former Commissioner of Public Safety for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts I am writing to express how appalled I am at the plan to limit the qualified immunity of our first responders! I ask that you vote against the passage of bill S.2800.

If you were in need of the assistance of a police officer or other first responder, would you want them to hesitate to help you based on the fact that they may get sued? I assume not! You would want them to do whatever they could for you. This bill will limit the ability of our first responders to fully perform all aspects of their jobs as they have been trained to do. I don't think that laws need to change in Massachusetts based on the acts of a few incompetent employees in other parts of this country. If anything, more resources should be put into the recruitment and training of first responders to be able to protect and serve this Commonwealth effectively.

I urge you to vote against the passage of this bill!

Thank you,

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:

My name is Troy Gayle I am a resident of Dorchester and a member of March like a Mother: for Black Lives. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Sincerely,

Troy Gayle

Subject: House bill S.2820

Dear House of Representatives,

My name is Joanne McMath and I live at 9 Drury Lane, Wakefield, MA. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Joanne McMath

Hello,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Respectfully Submitted,

Jean Murphy

?Good morning,

I am a Massachusetts police officer serving for about 7 years.

The events that took place in Minneapolis were egregious and highly unjustified. Every officer I know- and I know a wide variety- has completely condemned the officers involved in the death of George Floyd.

The events led to a widespread cry for reform. This has been as wide ranging as simply more accountability and training for police to cries to disband police departments altogether.

I can say that Massachusetts police training is standardized. There is minimum and strict standards which must be met through the entry/academy level and proceeding through an officers career that he must have certain training hours every year. We are the example for the nation as far as use of force and other training measures for our officers. I have spoken to officers in other parts of the country- one for example a NC state trooper- and he informed me that up until recently, they were allowed to perform chokeholds. Chokeholds were never taught through MA police training standards- and would only be accepted to occur if that officer was in a fight for their life in a deadly force situation.

Some of the comments by politicians in our state has been incredibly offensive. This bill, which was created in an incredibly short period of time, does exactly not fix the issue of police brutality. Officer Chauvin for example was even wearing a body camera and operating under reforms. I believe that nothing could have prevented that incident- besides possibly a duty to intervene. The officer involved in the George Floyd death was just overall a bad person and did not seem to care. Unfortunately there will always be a bad cop somewhere out there, as we pull recruits from the human race. That being said the vast majority of police officers do their jobs honorably and are NOT racist.

What is concerning to me, as I have previously stated how well trained Massachusetts officers are- it has been brought to my attention speaking with numerous union officials and police officers all over the state, that some legislators did not even read the whole bill or even fully understand it. Even more concerning is that many of our state politicians who are involved in this bill did not even understand our training: how we are trained, even what the MPTC is and what it does. Some did not understand the true concepts and legal workings of qualified immunity, use of force etc- yet they are trying to change something that is not broken? Opinions and many false narratives have been put out there- but actual data and factual evidence tells a different story.

While some common sense things could be tweaked in law enforcement- I believe a duty to intervene act for example, and some other accountability measures. However that being said- this bill is overreaching and unrealistic brought by many individuals that do not understand the complexities of the criminal justice system, of law, policing or use of force.

Qualified immunity for example does not protect bad cops like Officer Chauvin. Part of it is set up to protect officers who are out in the field who may make a procedural mistake- but did not act malicious and were operating in good faith- from frivolous lawsuits. Taking away qualified immunity is going to ensure many experienced officers leave the profession, go federal or apply for police jobs in neighboring states. It will also ensure that officers who remain in this state will completely reactive and just take their calls and hide. Proactive policing will come to an end- and communities, especially in urban areas will suffer a great deal because of this. Baltimore, Chicago and other areas can be good examples as seen through the last 7 years or so.

Reasonable people expect police to go out and do their jobs. They expect police to target high crime areas and work to catch criminal offenders doing bad deeds. They also demand police do not overstep their bounds, do not racially profile or use excessive force. I believe, while there may be rare and isolated incidents here or anywhere else in the country- the vast majority of Mass law enforcement officers perform honorably and to a standard of excellence.

With the loss of qualified immunity- if I pull a person out of a burning vehicle and they break their neck in the process- I could be liable for a lawsuit- even though with a mistake being made, maybe I didn't properly support their head enough because I was trying my best to ensure they don't blow up and burn to death- I was acting in good faith and did what I could to help that person. In real life situations, especially with the types of encounters police deal with- not everything goes as planned, hoped for or predicted.

If I pull over a vehicle and observe several men inside acting nervous and I observe flashlights, a knife, ski masks and rope in plain view- if I question them about it, or inquire further into that suspicious activity- I should be only and most concerned about being sued? In the real world that could be a situation where those individuals then go off and commit a home invasion and end up murdering a family. If you put police officers in a position where they cannot operate in good faith without fear of being sued or losing their job- be prepared to have officers that do nothing. As we saw in NYC after the crime rate has skyrocketed after disbanding the anti crime unit- many in the community have made cries to bring back the recently disbanded anti crime unit- which was a group of proactive officers targeting high crime areas and high impact criminal offenders.

If there was a serial killer roaming the streets in a particular city at nighttime- you would not want officers going out and proactively trying to deter and locate this offender to prevent more homicides? You would rather have them hiding for fear of being in a situation where they are sued, or can't take reasonable steps for their safety if the situation is going wrong? The list of examples could be endless, and people need to be very careful with what they think they may be doing out of concern and goodness- but do not comprehend or understand what exactly they are changing.

Some other bad points about this bill:

-If a police officer today loses a motion to suppress evidence the case will get dismissed and the officer is not in trouble as long as he was acting in good faith. Sometimes cases get dismissed due to a small procedural mistake, bad report writing etc. Law can often be interpreted by judges through case law and it is sometimes through opinion and interpretation of laws and of what occurred during the incident. If an officer loses a motion to suppress- an automatic civil rights case would be opened and the state will pay for the defendant to sue the officer. What officer would arrest anyone unless they truly had to? What kind of society would we turn into? There is language in this bill that I believe people do not fully grasp or see the unintended consequences.

- We also lose our collective bargaining rights. Police officers should have rights as well.

- On the proposed committees there is little to no law enforcement that would lend their opinion and ultimately decide the fate of officers working in the field if a case of alleged wrongdoing was brought forward. These officers working the streets make split second decisions in often tense circumstances. We do not get 20/20 hindsight during situations. We have to deal with it in the moment and use our best judgement. That's why cases go to motions to suppress for example- judges and lawyers get ample time to analyze cases and then interpret them through careful study of the law. That's why it is essential police performing their duties are given benefit of the doubt and only IF they are working in good faith. It is a complex situation that few understand or even care to. As already stated- it has come out that political leaders do not understand many portions of this bill, and many also do not understand Massachusetts police training and use of force policies. This rushed legislation proposes that incidents will be judged by people with no law enforcement experience. This is absurd. If a lawyer or doctor will be disbarred- their case will be brought by and decided by SUBJECT MATTER EXPERTS. I believe it is common sense and an explanation for that is not really necessary. If you do not understand the complexities of both law or use of force situations as you have not been in law enforcement- you are essentially saying that someone as myself could be placed to disrupt and change the policies and operations of doctors or medical personnel in the field for surgeries and practice. Or that I could be placed in NASA to decide how astronauts or scientists operate- it simply does not make sense. We are dealing with both public safety and officer safety- much is at stake here when changes like this are both rushed, NOT understood by lawmakers, and with little to no input from those in law enforcement whom are actually in the field.

- There is also safety frisk and use of force changes and language in this bill that is concerning. There also needs to be careful studies of this as well. I point to the killing of Officer Michael Chesna of Weymouth. If officers are expected and asked to run into dangerous situations- such as home invasions, active shooter incidents, etc- we also should be given the tools needed to take steps to ensure our safety when dealing with violent people or hostile, uncertain and rapidly evolving circumstances. Use of force is based off the Graham VS Connor case. I'm sure most have not read this case. But use of force standards are based off an objective reasonable officer standard. If political leaders would like to change use of force I believe they themselves should go through police use of force classes and trainings. I'd feel that not only would they have a different perspective, they probably wouldn't rush to change standards that are both reasonable, and that many of them do not understand.

We were told there would be a public hearing on this bill. We were also only given two days to skim 89 pages of the bill before the 11 a.m. deadline on July 17th. I sincerely hope that this process is slowed down. Officer safety, as well as public safety is at risk with this. We are human beings as well and only want the best for everyone in our communities. We are not against oversight or common sense reform. This bill however lacks common sense and logic.

Thank you,

Subject: Testimony re. SB2820

This email comes from a citizen with years of involvement in our Commonwealth's criminal legal system, including mentoring prisoner scholars through Partakers, observing court sessions, and advocating for CORI reforms and the recent criminal justice reform package.

I want to register support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill, and I urge the House to enact a similar bill. All this needs to happen with concentrated effort in order to get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

First, changes in qualified immunity for police officers are key to a successful reform bill. Police officers should not be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious. Under SB2820, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act reasonably, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities.

Second, the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus are also important, and I ask the House to pay close attention to them. These are the communities that have suffered the most from over policing; we must collectively hear their voices and act on their recommendations.

I also support the Senate bill's approach to these reforms:

- * State-wide certification and training standards. Massachusetts needs to get off the list of states that lack this set of standards.
- * Limits on use of force.

- * Duty to intervene when officers witness misconduct by another officer.

- * Ban on racial profiling and mandate on the collection and public access to racial data for police stops. It should not take a lawsuit to obtain this data from police departments.

- * Civilian approval for the purchase of military equipment.
- * Prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases.
- * Ability to select a colonel from outside the state police, an organization that desperately needs house-cleaning from the outside.

Your constituents are asking much of you in these final days of the 2020 session. We count on you to pursue the enactment of a good police reform bill by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority.

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

Subject: Police Reform bill

My name is Dyan Patient. I am a detective with the special crimes division of the Worcester Police Department. I am a Latina, who grew up in the Main South are of Worcester. First and foremost I would like to thank you for the opportunity to voice my opinion for this bill, since I feel that I was not allowed to have an opinion when this bill was held by the senate. Consequently, leaving me to feel disenfranchised and ostracized by my own city government. A government which is put in place to represent me as a resident of the city of Worcester.

In listening to the media you would think that growing up as a person of color in the inner city, my interactions with police were abundant and overreaching. However in all of the years prior to me being a police officer, I had two interactions with the Worcester Police Department, both as a teenager. Once when I was walking barefoot along Maywood Street and happened upon a freshly poured concrete sidewalk, where I stopped to think with a juvenile mind about how I would leave my mark on the world. Then just as I lifted my foot to leave that mark, a male officer in a cruiser happened upon me and yelled, "Don't even think about it".

The second time was in my high school with the gang unit.

This was because a small number of the young men in my school thought that it would be fun to start a gang, as a way to deal with the pressures of the street gangs that surrounding our school. Our principal at the time, decided to call the gang unit of the Worcester Police Department and needless to say, the entire gang unit showed up. To this day, I have no idea what the gang unit said to those young men. However I can tell you that after that interaction, there was never a mention of gangs with them ever again. Today, those young men have gone on to become business owners, doctors, relators, bankers, and over all upstanding citizens in society.

Since becoming a Police Officer, and having firsthand knowledge of the practices, and training of a Worcester Police Officer, the examples I could give of Worcester Police Officers being exemplary at their jobs is innumerable.

That is my Worcester Police Department. That is who I proudly work for. Men and women who care for this city. So I hope you understand how I must feel in reading this bill for the "reform" of a Police Department that I believe to be the example for others to follow.

The forms of "reform" suggested in this bill, which is proposed as a way to better the relations between people of color and the police department, is the type of change that has the potential to turn an exemplary police department, into a deplorable one.

The senate bill that was passed was anti-labor legislation. Essentially removes our rights as police officers to due process, collective bargaining & inserts a board that has no training, experience or background in law enforcement. I graduated high school, graduated college, am working towards my masters, I attended a rigorous 6 month long Police Academy, attend yearly in-service training, not to mention the countless number of trainings I attend on my own to further develop myself as a law enforcement professional. So I have to ask, what kind of training will this board have to be able to dictate what my training should be? Doctors are not overseen by civilians because they have not attended medical school, Attorneys are not overseen by civilian because they have not attended law school so why do think that Police Officers should be treated differently.

We police are merely foot soldiers to the laws that you create. I urge you to do what is right by the city and the police department that I love.

Respectfully,

Dyan Patient

Subject: In support of the House police reform bill

Dear Massachusetts state representative,
I'm a Massachusetts resident submitting testimony for the House hearing on the police reform bill. I strongly support many provisions of the Senate bill and it is imperative that the House include these provisions in their version of the bill:

- The same limits to qualified immunity that the Senate included. This is vitally important to protect the constitutional rights of Massachusetts residents.
- Amendment 80, which gives superintendents and school committees the ability to authorize a school resource officer, rather than the current unfunded mandate for every district to have SROs. Districts should have local control over their own budgets and policies.
- Amendment 108, which prevents schools from sharing personal information about students into local, state, and federal databases.
- Amendment 65, which bans tear gas, a chemical weapon banned in warfare. Please enact these vital protections for MA residents and to ensure that police are held to ethical standards of behavior.

Sincerely,
Clara Stefanov-Wagner

Good morning,

I am opposed to this bill as there have been no public hearings and it feels rushed, particularly the changes to qualified immunity and the impact that would have on municipalities, cities, towns and taxpayers, not to mention police officers. Does this open the way for changes against firefighters, emergency medical persons and other public workers. More time is needed to explore the impact.

Thank you

I am Joshua M. Ulrich, Mass. State Police Trooper/ (978) 210-5307.

I am a resident of Gloucester, MA

I am troubled by this bill for a number of reasons. The police are presently under attack for reasons manufactured by radical Marxists flying under the flags of black peoples' rights. One of the best-performing government agencies, in fact, that deals well with minority and poor communities everyday are the various police organizations. They serve those communities. 99% of the time, they do it admirably.

I strongly suggest that you spend some time speaking to some of the muted voices on this issue. Talk to families of the victims of gang violence and homicide who live in Lawrence, Lynn, Dorchester, etc. Find out how they feel the police treated them. Talk to the Boston PD commissioner and non-white police officers. Listen to some of the thoughtful national voices--Candace Owens, Sheriff David Clarke, Pastor Tony Evans.

In passing this bill, you will be cowing to a knee-jerk, media-agenda-driven hysteria. You will hurt disadvantaged communities more than the police, themselves. Trying to appease the bullies perpetrating this myth on all of us will eventually bring the monster to your very doors.

Please reject this bill. Vote against it.

Thank you,

Joshua M. Ulrich

Please consider the harm this bill will cause your constituents.

Subject: S.2820

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Paul Powell

I have family members and friends who are proud to serve in law enforcement, some retired and others still serving, and none of them ever wished they chose a different career path. None of them have a single blemish on their record of service and I believe this is true of the majority of those who serve the public. The nature of the jobs these men and women perform put them at risk of harm and liability that those of us working in the private sector could never imagine and I do not believe that the protections they are afforded should be taken away from them. Rather than condemning all because of the actions of a small percentage, I would like to see greater effort placed on proper and ongoing training and identifying and removing those who do not perform their jobs as required and expected. I also believe pressure should be brought upon unions to stop protecting habitual offenders...everyone should be afforded the opportunity to learn and redeem themselves but there should be limits on the number of times a union will stand behind such behavior. Please, please, please focus on strengthening training, community outreach, positive changes and less on penalizing and attacking the integrity of those who serve proudly and honorably.

Subject: Bill to end qualified immunity for police officers

It came to my attention that last night the MA Senate passed the bill to end qualified immunity for police officers. I am appalled that the legislature of such importance was passed without a public hearing.

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

A horrible death happened in Minnesota and everybody condemned it. But why the whole profession of policemen is punished for that? I talked to Brookline police and there has been not a single incident of police brutality for the years of existence of Brookline police. Massachusetts police in general is an exemplary organization. Why are you in such a hurry of changing the law? This new law will harm not only police but the whole population of Massachusetts.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Kelly Regan and I live In Mansfield and I also work at MCI-Norfolk and am a Correctional Officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

Qualified Immunity: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system costing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

Less Than Lethal Tools: The fact that you want to take away an Officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from yelling "Stop", to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

Civilian Oversight: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, while we are not opposed to getting better, it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask that you think about the correction officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed, that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Kelly Regan

On May 31, there was a riot in the Back Bay and Beacon Hill. Some 28 members of the Boston Police Department were injured, eight treated in hospital. Some 20 police vehicles were vandalized, one torched. The police were pelted with debris and harrassed with obscenities. Their restraint was remarkable.

Since May 31, the police have been attacked by the media, particularly newspapers, and some elected officials. Misleading information has been trumpeted as fact.

One of the great stories in this town over the past 25 years has been the transformation of the Boston Police into a progressive, community responsive force. There is more work to be done. Is there an institution where that is not true?

Morale and recruiting in the BPD have been severely damaged. Their reputation has been unfairly tarnished. S2820 has been rushed forward. In this delicate moment in our city, please table this bill. Then the true work of evaluation and accountability can begin. Thank you.

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

Dear Senators,

My name is Amy McElman and I live in Sagamore Beach, MA. As your constituent, I write to you today to express staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Amy McElman

Subject: MA Police Reform Legislation - Bill S.2820 Written Testimony

Hi All,

I write to you today as a concerned citizen of East Boston. I would like to voice my support for the Massachusetts Police Association's written testimony submitted for consideration in regards to Bill S.2820.

I support the association's willingness and desire to work with the state legislature to remove bias, racism, and prejudice from policing. I also believe further training and education for law enforcement would benefit all citizens of the state - law enforcement included. However, I am very concerned about the decertification process, makeup of the board, and qualified immunity as discussed in the current version of Bill S.2820. We should not allow the actions of the few bad officers to drive legislation that infringes on the rights of the many good officers who protect and serve the citizens of their respective jurisdictions every day.

As you consider further amendments and edits to the bill, I would ask you to strongly consider the written testimony of the Massachusetts Police Association and my unaffiliated support of the association's concerns. Thank you.

Regards,
Sean MacLeod

I am writing in support of this important bill. I am a Cambridge resident and retired social work professor. I have worked in the public health system (Cambridge Health Alliance) and in domestic violence prevention (Cambridge's Domestic and Gender-based Violence Prevention Initiative) in Cambridge. I have seen in this town two progressive Commissioners work to shift police culture toward a public safety (guardian) approach from the old warrior approach -- against heavy odds. The police unions, the difficulty of holding officers accountable for bad behavior, the civil service requirements, the preference to veterans, and the Academy training are all obstacles. This bill addresses some, but not all, of those obstacles, and I am very hopeful that will make the culture change more possible.

I have also seen more and more functions that belong in public health or human services move into the domain of the police. Even if they do a decent job, this is a mistake. Other people have better training, and the possibility of lethal escalation is much less with unarmed intervention. However, the public sector services in mental health and substance abuse and housing services are often not currently ready to retake responsibility -- even in Cambridge. I particularly support this provision of this bill:

* Create a Community Policing and Behavioral Health Advisory Council on which NASW-MA, NAMI, MOAR, and other groups would have a seat. The Council's charge is to review and evaluate current and potential crisis intervention models that delivers non-police alternative emergency services and programs.

I hope such a state board would facilitate the local collaborations necessary to shift responsibility for social service needs back to the social service/public health sector. I also particularly support this provision, for which our Commissioner has argued:

* Require the use of racial data for all police stops

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives: I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership. Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated. Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status. Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers. I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation. Sincerely,

To Chair Michlewitz, and honorable members of the Committee,

I'm writing today in support of the S. 2820 the Reform, Shift, and Build Act. Please support a strong bill that improves police accountability, including:

- * A ban on racial profiling and racial data collection on all traffic and pedestrian stops, including ones that do not result in a citation;
- * Creation of the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to certify and decertify police officers, and to ensure that police officers who commit misconduct cannot simply move from town to town and remain officers;
- * A moratorium on the use of facial recognition technology;
- * Restrictions on the use of tear gas (which the Geneva Convention holds to be a chemical weapon, the use of which is banned in warfare) and other use of force policies; and
- * Reform of qualified immunity so that officers are no longer immune from violating our basic constitutional rights.

Most importantly, please retain the qualified immunity reform in Section 10 of S. 2820!!! Under current law, a plaintiff virtually cannot sue unless a previous court has found that the exact same conduct, in the exact same circumstances—no matter how egregious—was a constitutional violation. This includes situations such as the one Senator Brownsberger described in detail on the Senate floor in which officers in Massachusetts forced a woman to have her vagina searched. Civilians deserve the ability to hold police officers accountable for egregious violations of their rights - no one should be above the law, including and especially those charged with upholding it!

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I write in support of S.2820. I urge you to pass an even stronger version of this bill into law. In particular, I would like to see the final bill completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no-knock raids; these militarized police tactics have no place in our commonwealth.

We also need clear legal standards for police behavior and employment: the final bill should set standards for decertifying officers that behave badly on the job, as well as eliminating qualified immunity.

People want to see that officers can be held accountable for their actions. This is the right moment to have Massachusetts law reflect those concerns.

To Whom it may concern:

Many have been outspoken in protest to police brutality through the black lives matter marches across the nation. This has obviously been a catalyst in drafting legislation like this bill and other similar bills. As a city councilor for 4 terms over the last 12 years, I have come to appreciate our local law enforcement personnel and have had conversations with commissioners, chiefs, captains, sergeants, and officers. I fully rely on their expertise to manage the police department. They live here and know the community and the management and commissioners know the department well. Well enough to train and operate effectively and without bigotry towards any group.

This bill, although having good intentions to reform our law enforcement, is managing local police on a state level. This is once again state government overreach and micromanaging. I implore you to let the local police departments continue to train and manage their teams. I encourage you to perhaps form a task force consisting of a mix of local police and experts in law enforcement that will take the next year or so to improve our system. This will bring real change if needed in the departments across the commonwealth instead of creating more legislation that is redundant and frankly a disrespect to the hard work that each local law enforcement entity carries out on a daily, weekly, and monthly basis. They know how to enforce the law effectively and fairly, train the team, discipline, watch for injustice, promote their staff, etc. Let's not allow a few incompetent cops amongst nearly 700,000 across the nation to drive overreaching legislation. Stop reinventing the wheel that is driving our law enforcement system very well in our commonwealth and instead give local departments a platform on how to improve on an already successful system. I oppose this bill wholeheartedly and speak for several residents and other elected officials who have spoken to me.

Respectfully Yours,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank- and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

To Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Cronin:

I am writing to you to provide testimony in support of the passage of S2820, concerning police reform in Massachusetts. Though I do not write as a representative of my employer, it is important to establish what I do professionally as it relates to my support of this bill. I am the Director of Social Services Advocacy for the Committee for Public Counsel Services Public Defender Division. I have worked for CPCS first as a Social Services Advocate in the Boston Trial Unit, then as a regional supervisor in both Central/ Western MA and Eastern MA for 10 years prior to my current position, which I began last fall. Social Services Advocates function as integral members of the defense team - we work with the attorney and with the client to secure necessary treatment services, and to give voice to our clients' life experiences in mitigation and sentencing advocacy, with the hope that they will be treated with fairness in the criminal legal system. In our role, we are privy to the most traumatic and painful moments of our clients' lives, past and present. A theme that has been consistent throughout my work with clients over my years with CPCS has been the trauma and violence experienced at the hands of police - particularly within our Black and Brown communities. While some experience direct incidences of traumatic police violence, the kind that can result in a diagnosis of PTSD, many many more experience the environmental trauma of the constant threat of police violence. Police loom in these communities - not as protectors, but as intimidators - their presence resulting in hypervigilance and distrust. This distrust, founded in very real and measurable abuses by the police towards their communities, results in exactly the opposite of what police exist for; communities who are overpoliced are much less likely to seek police intervention when it is actually needed.

This is not to say that people who live in over-policed want police to cease to exist. People who are over-policed tend to want what everyone wants - to feel safe, and to know that if they call the police due to a threat to their safety that they themselves will not be put at risk in doing so.

This bill is woefully overdue, and is a first step in the right direction to ensure that ALL residents of the commonwealth will be treated equitably by the police, and particular attention will be paid to the inequities, biases, and policies that have led to the over-policing and police violence targeting Black and Brown communities.

Police interaction and police reporting is the gateway to the criminal legal system - it sets the tone for the treatment of the individual as they move into the court system and beyond. Bringing more equity, and more attention to the treatment of Black and Brown people by police could change the course of their interfacing with the criminal legal system, which as we all know is a system that disproportionately affects Black people and People of Color and negatively impacts communities of color.

Thank you for your consideration, and thank you for voting to pass this bill.

Sincerely,

Carrie Burke, LICSW

Please update the Massachusetts expungement law in Ch 276 Section 100 to allow for multiple offenses to be eligible and to distinguish between dismissed cases and guilty cases. Innocent kids who get into trouble more than once go on to live normal positive lives and they shouldn't be denied jobs, school, or housing opportunities.

Police standards and accountability fix one problem, but the harm done to so many kids of color needs to be addressed as well. This is the time to do it.

Hi,

I'm writing this testimony today to express my concerns about the legislation on Police Reform, S.2820. My husband is a retired (35 years) Police Officer. My daughter is on the Police force, and has been for approximately 7 years. We have 3 other Police Officers in the family.

We acknowledge that no Police department is perfect, but we are proud of the Worcester Police Department. In the last 30 years we have strived towards great communication and listen to the needs of the community and continue with essential community programs and partnerships.

I feel this bill is being rushed. I feel it's prohibiting people from having their voices heard, not being able to be there in person.

The Senate bill that passed was anti labor legislation. It removes our rights to due process, collective bargaining and inserts a board that has no training experience in law enforcement. This bill can not pass as written; it destroys protections that police need to properly do their jobs.

I'm asking that you listen to the people of this community. Reevaluate and adopt. Quality Immunity, Due process/collective bargaining, Make up POSAC board.

Thank You,
Sincerely,

Subject: S2820

Dear Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin,

My name is David Moore and I live in Ipswich MA. I am writing to you today to express my opposition to S.2820 as it is written which will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth and have dire unintended consequences that will trickle down to every town and city in the Commonwealth. As it is this bill robs Police Officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

I, along with most of the silent majority, are dismayed at the utter lack of respect and protections extended to Police Officers in this proposed bill. While there is always room for improvement in policing and I agree with a majority of the bill, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws that can't be overlooked. I am all for more training and higher standards for Police Officers but there are many major concerns I have with this proposed bill. The following three major issues stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those three issues are:

(1) Due Process for all Police Officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to Police Officers has been in place for generations. We deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants. The killers of Sgt Gannon, Officer Chesna and Officer Tarentino all are being afforded their due process protections so how is it fair to strip them from the people sworn to protect the public?

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee NEEDS to include and be a majority of rank-and-file Police Officers either retired or current. This is of absolute necessity! If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement. The general public has no idea the intense and unique training and demands of Police Officers. Our training and job is beyond unique and always ever changing. It is so complex and ever changing that the US Supreme Court has time and time again upheld the use of force/excessive force standards in Graham vs Conner stating that the life and death split second decisions made by Police Officers in regards to use of force scenarios should be "judged from the perspective of a reasonable Officer on the scene, rather than with 20/20 vision of hindsight." How can you have a committee who doesn't know what the job of a Police Officer entails? Have a committee that has never experienced a life and death scenario where you have to make a split second decision? How can you judge the actions of a Police Officer never having experienced the physiological and psychological aspects of tunnel vision, auditory shut down and the total break down of fine motor skills due to the overwhelming stress the body goes through during such a scenario? Police training is geared specifically around these very unique physiological and psychological changes.

There are also some legislative developments of late that the citizens of Massachusetts and the House should be paying attention to as well in regards to this proposed bill. Recently in the wake of the Parkland shootings in 2018 the US Supreme Court ruled that Police Officers are under no legal obligation to assist someone in a life threatening situation.

With the Commonwealth trying to pass legislation that would end qualified immunity for Police Officers and the fact that the US Supreme Court ruled that Police Officers have no legal obligation to assist the public creates a scary recipe of a Police force that would be so reactionary and afraid to act that it would lead to a more dangerous Commonwealth with higher crime rates. Look at NYC the minority groups that the so called restrictions and reforms placed on law enforcement to protect their communities are pleading to get rid of some of those restrictions due to their huge uptick in crime. Again to be clear, qualified immunity does not offer legal protection to Officers who willingly break the law. It protects Officers who act in good faith to assist the public by shielding Officers from frivolous civil actions.

The Police force that protects and serves communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Again this bill will create a Police force in MA that has the potential to have better protection by not doing anything and being completely reactionary inevitably leading to an increase in crime across the Commonwealth. The idea of this hastily not fully thought out knee jerk reaction legislation that was thrown together based on the misguided notion that due to the infinitesimally small actions of bad Police Officers out there that all Police Officers are bad sickens my stomach. There are bad sections of every profession, bad doctors, bad teachers, bad mechanics and so forth. The aspects of Qualified Immunity, due process for Police Officers and a proper oversight committee are so complex and detailed there is no humanly way it can be properly discussed and voted on and passed this quickly. It takes months and months if not years for most bills/laws to be passed and this bill should be no different.

I dreamed about being a Police Officer since I saw my first set of flashing blue lights as a small child. I get to go to work everyday doing something I love. I go to work everyday knowing I could give the ultimate sacrifice and lay down my life to protect a complete stranger and I do it without hesitation each and everyday. If S.2820 passes as it was presented I will have to seriously have to think about giving up my lifelong dream job as it would cause me to unnecessarily hesitate in a life or death scenario which puts my life, the public's life and my coworker's lives in danger. I am more than willing to risk my life to protect and serve as that is how I've been trained and that is how I am wired but I am not willing to protect and serve unsafely and I fear the passing of this bill would create an unsafe Policing environment causing myself and fellow Officers to hesitate.

The other unintended consequence of this bill is the mass exodus of good veteran Officers across the Commonwealth which would further add to the complete uptick in crime do to a severely understaffed Police force.

I again implore you to fight for Police Officers in the Commonwealth that protect the public without hesitation day in and day out and amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat myself and my brothers and sisters in law enforcement with the respect and dignity we deserve. In today's Policing environment which already shuns and despises Police Officers more and more each day the passing of S.2820 would further be another possibly unrecoverable slap in the face to law enforcement. If society can't take care of and respect the very people that are tasked with protecting it what kind of society are we living in?

I would like to close out this email by saying the silent majority do appreciate the Police and never in my career have I been thanked for what I do for a living than these past few months. The amount of people that send the station food and gift cards is amazing. I get thanked constantly everyday even after pulling over cars and giving out tickets. I would hate to not be there for the silent majority who do appreciate Police Officers and the rest of society who either are unwilling or unable to protect themselves from the evil in the world.

I hope I can count on your opposition and the rest of the House on the current version of S.2820 and continued support of law enforcement. Again I agree with most of the points and aspects of the bill and at a bare minimum this bill should be tabled so it can be properly studied and have Law Enforcement involved in future discussions and the bill.

Sincerely,

This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I would like to reiterate that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again entreat you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I'm writing in favor of S.2820, to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law and strengthen it. I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Sincerely,

Jessica Farrell

Objections to S.2800

Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin

Massachusetts House of Representatives

24 Beacon Street

Boston, MA 02133

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Christina Heacock and I live at 615 Boxford Street in North Andover, Massachusetts.

I am writing to express my opposition to the current Senate bill S.2800, which was passed in the Massachusetts Senate this week and is being heard tomorrow by you the Massachusetts House of Representatives for consideration.

My oppositions to this bill are very simple and straightforward. First, this bill will change the current legal standard of the Qualified Immunity doctrine in Massachusetts state courts. The present standard allows the courts to consider past precedent and established legal authority, and the information the public official possessed at the time of their alleged illegal action when determining whether the doctrine will apply to a public official defendant before a case can go forward.

S.2800 would change the established legal standard to only allow the court to consider what every reasonable defendant would have understood as being illegal at the time of their alleged illegal action before allowing the case to go forward. This shift in legal doctrine would completely ignore the bedrock legal doctrine of stare decisis and legal precedent, and prohibit courts from benefiting from past decisions, both mandatory and persuasive, that would apply to the case at bar.

This will completely erode Qualified Immunity because it places far too much subjectivity into the decision whether to bring forward cause of action against a public employee. A finder of fact will be left to make their decisions in a vacuum, without the benefit of fairness and established legal precedents.

Secondly, I oppose S.2800 because of the changes it makes to the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act or "MCRA." Currently, under the MCRA, a plaintiff's case may only go forward against a public employee for acts that interfere with the exercise and enjoyment of [a citizen's] constitutional rights, as well as rights secured by the constitution or laws of the Commonwealth, where such interference of constitutional or statutory rights were achieved or attempted through threats, intimidation or coercion.

The proposed changes in § 10(b) of S.2800 completely delete the requirements of threats, intimidation and coercion be present in a public employee's alleged violation of the plaintiffs constitutional rights. This will, in effect, open the flood-gates for causes of action to be brought in Massachusetts state courts under the MCRA under this weakened standard. As you are aware, causes of action that lie under the MCRA are eligible for consideration of awarding attorney's fees if there is a favorable verdict for the plaintiff. What will stop unscrupulous plaintiffs and their attorneys from filing suit under this weakened standard in an attempt to exact a quick settlement that includes attorney's fees? The gatekeeper will be asleep at the wheel, as the finders of fact will have no way to dismiss these frivolous claims before they make their way into court.

Finally, please consider the families, children, spouses and public employees themselves when making your decisions regarding this piece of flawed legislation. Qualified Immunity was established to shield public employees who act in good faith from frivolous and exhortative law suits. The erosions of S.2800 will place hardworking and dedicated public employees in a position where personal liability could apply in situations where it never should. Are their homes, college savings accounts, retirement accounts and personal assets so under-valued that they should be forfeited to settle damages in these cases? Our public employees, especially our police officers, deserve better.

I implore you to take more time and truly consider the far reaching implications of this bill. There is no doubt that there are things that need to change in law enforcement, but this is not how they should change. A bill that is filed as a knee-jerk reaction in attempt to solve a real problem will only create more problems. Discussion, conversation, debate, opposition and objection, are all cornerstones to our democratic process. We must use them, even embrace them, in order to find a solution to police reform that is both meaningful and pragmatic.

Sincerely,

Christina Heacock

I would like to weigh in on the bill that is currently in the House, S. 2820. As it stands, I am deeply concerned with the way the bill is in the Senate by keeping police wide open for frivolous law suits by eliminating qualified immunity. As you know, unlike absolute immunity which is something you all are given and enjoy, qualified immunity is given to police officers who do their job the right way. Not rogue officers or cops who break the law. Because of that, I urge you not to pass this bill, but if you must, I ask you to keep qualified immunity.

Another concern in the Senate bill was something that is rightfully given to all citizens of the commonwealth and this great country, and that is due process. Please allow for police to receive due process. Anything short is Un-American, and history will judge you and the body harshly

Please do not pass this bill, but if you must keep all due process in. The job of law enforcement is difficult as it is. Don't make it harder.

Please do not be anti police, please do not open all cops in the Commonwealth to frivolous law suits, please be a leader and hear the voices of your constituents and do the right thing.

Thank you.

Respectfully,

Greg Nolan

Dear Senator,

My name is Karen Assad and I live at 94 Meadowbrook Road, Mashpee, MA 02649. As your constituent, I write to you today to express staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

My husband has been a police officer for 17 years with the town of Mashpee. Prior to this service, he was a police officer with the city of Laconia, New Hampshire. During this time, he has done tremendous work building strong connections/relationships with the Mashpee community (including with residents, businesses and schools). He has served his community with honor and integrity at all times and this proposed bill is quite frankly a kick in the teeth to police officers like my husband all over the Commonwealth. To speak honestly, I am not quite sure how you claim to support the law enforcement officers in your constituency whilst also pushing this bill forward so hastily. As the wife of a law enforcement officer, I am concerned for the future of our elected leaders feel that this justified.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. Subject: Senate Bill 2800

Dear Representative Dooley,

My name is Erica Thomas and I live in Norfolk, MA. I am writing this letter to voice my concern that again no public hearing was held on this matter and given no other choice, I am submitting this letter as my written testimony. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my disagreement with any hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth and encourage you to vote against Senate bill 2800 submitted to the House of Representatives. It deprives police officers of Massachusetts any basic protections afforded to all other public employees in Massachusetts. It is a rush to judgment being developed behind closed doors. Issues of policing, health and human services, and race are too important to be rushed. Of the many concerns, the following in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety because police officers may become more concerned about personal liability than public safety.

The proposed changes to QI will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues.

Unintended and unnecessary changes to QI will hamstring police offices in the course of their duties because they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions. Officers may second guess doing what is necessary for public safety and protecting the community because of concerns about legal exposure.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse, and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and policy participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally nontransparent.

The original version of the bill was over 70 pages and had multiple changes to public safety sections of the general laws. It was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for Senators to digest/caucus and receive public comment. This process was a sham.

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased.

The Governor and supports of the bill promised to use the 160 or so professional regulatory agencies as a guide for police certification. The senate instead created a board without precedent. The 15-member board proposed to oversee, and judge police officers includes no more than six police officers and four of those police officers will be management/Chief representatives. The remainder of the committee will be dominated by groups critical of law enforcement, if not parties that regularly sue police and law enforcement. The civilian members on the board will lack any familiarity with the basic training, education or standards that apply to police officers. All the other 160 boards include a strong majority of workers from the profession supplemented by a few individuals to represent the general public. Imagine if police officers were appointed to a board to oversee teachers licenses!

4. The removal or any change to Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques that all police personnel unequivocally support.

All police organizations support major parts of the bill: strengthening standards and training; having a state body that certifies police officers; banning excessive force techniques and enhancing the diversity process. Once we have uniform standards and policies and a statutory ban of certain use-of-force techniques then officers and the public will know the standards that apply to police officers and conduct that is unaccepted and unprotected by QI.

This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets.

5. Police Officers Deserve the same Due Process Afforded to all Other Public Employees

Public employees and their unions have a right for discipline to be reviewed by a neutral, independent expert in labor relations - whether an arbitrator or the Civil Service Commission. This bill makes the Commissioner's decisions or the new Committee's decisions the final authority on certain offenses.

We should affirm the right of all employees to seek independent review of employer discipline at arbitration or civil service.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,

Erica Thomas

I am writing to express my opposition to House Bill 2820. I am a taxpayer and resident of Mansfield Ma. I do not want to see my taxes increase to pay for unnecessary lawsuits should Qualified Immunity for police and other public servants be eliminated. I also oppose the removal of school resource officers from the public schools. These officers know the students and the students know the officers. This is a very successful program in Mansfield. As a parent it provides peace of mind, knowing officers are on site. It also provides peace of mind for teachers and students. In this time of negative stories regarding the police why are we removing them from schools. Isn't this an opportunity to strengthen the public's interaction with police, which should start with the children being comfortable around law enforcement, not fearing officers. I also oppose banning facial recognition. Isn't this how the Marathon bombers were identified? What happens next time there's an attack? How will the suspects be identified? If there are flaws in the system I am sure they can be fixed with all of the new technology available. I also feel these police reform bills should be put on the ballot for all citizens to vote on. I hope that all public comments are read and acknowledged.

Subject: Police Reform

I first want to state that I appreciate the sacrifice law enforcement contributes to our state. Reform of law enforcement is an innate doctrine of democracy. It's mantra of "protect and serve" is a necessary guideline to insure the purpose of law enforcement is unobscured. I my city, Boston, real "community policing" is needed. Tantamount to that goal is a police force that reflects the population it serves. It is evident a the multiple crime scenes in the communities of color, this is not the case. Police have and continue to maintain a non-diverse force, hierarchy and deployment of resources. Policing is simply better when the police are from or live in a neighborhood. Police who live in the community have a greater stake in the effectiveness of law enforcement and clearly create a greater deterrence to crime. Public hearings/interviews should occur for command staff. Areas predominantly occupied by people of color should be led by people of color. It would have natural link and greater credibility in deterring and resolving crime. This would by no means insure success in policing, but increases chances for success.

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

Please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

MACLEA seeks to include a representative of the Association to serve on the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee created by section 6 of Senate Bill 2820. MACLEA's member departments are responsible for the safety and wellbeing of the hundreds of thousands who live, learn, work, and visit our member institutions.

We are in favor of the creation of a Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee (POSAC) and our representation on this committee would add valuable insight and information. It would also ensure that the safety and security of all of those on campuses across the Commonwealth are the highest priority. Thank you for your service, time and consideration.

Subject: S.2820

Good Morning,

My name is Meghan Fogarty. I live at 23 Brantwood Road in Norwell. I write to you today with regards to S.2820. This is a bill that has the attention of many in our Commonwealth. Most particularly, it has the attention of Police/Law Enforcement officers, those that love them and those that support them.

I write to you as the wife of an active Weymouth Police Officer and the daughter of a retired Boston Police Officer. As the wife of a Police Officer in today's world things are different. Like all police wives, I watch my husband leave every night and hope and pray that he comes home safely every morning. My last words to him every time he leaves are "be careful". For Father's Day last year our children had a coffee mug inscribed with the words "Be careful dad, we love you". In our world this is "normal" but not everyone lives in the same world we do, not all wives need to say "be careful" and not all children have to be concerned about the safety of their parent when they leave for work.

I also write to you as a proud member of a larger family - the Blue Family. This week, Wednesday July 15 to be specific, my Blue Family and I remembered one of our own, Sergeant Michael Chesna. On July 15, 2018 this husband, father, son, brother and uncle who just also happened to be a Police Officer was murdered. I will never forget where I was when my husband got the initial call about Mike - packing for a trip to Story Land, one that we never made it to. I will never forget attending Mike's wake and funeral with my husband, my Blue Family and the Chesna Family. Having the feeling that this could have happened to any of us. Knowing their children will never see their father again, that if it had happened to my children, they would not only never see their father, but have very little memories of him as they are so young. Sitting in St. Mary of the Sacred Heart Church in Hanover with my fellow police wives is something none of us will never forget. A police wake and funeral are things NONE of us EVER want to attend again.

As I noted above, S.2820 has caught our attention. There are pieces of S.2820 that are acceptable and appropriate when we think of a bill with a goal of constructive Police/Law Enforcement reform.

Like many, my husband included, I support enhanced training and appropriate certification standards that apply to individual officers. I also support accreditation of police departments. Certification and accreditation both serve as a commitment to excellence in training and promote each individual's and department's maintenance of the highest professional standards. Certification and accreditation also serve to enhance public confidence. Public confidence, and I might offer respect, is critical to police officers being able to do their job on a daily basis. I also support the ban of the use of excessive force by police officers as well as the proposal that every individual officer has the duty to intervene if they witness excessive force. These parts of S.2820 all make sense when we focus on the idea that this bill is about constructive police/law enforcement reform.

S.2820 has also caught our attention because there are pieces of it that do not allow for the fair and unbiased treatment of Police Officers. Most importantly, the removal of Qualified Immunity for Police Officers is unfair and potentially dangerous. Qualified Immunity, as I understand it, does not excuse criminal conduct. It is, instead, a legal protection offered to all public employees and serves as a protection against losing one's home or life savings in a civil suit. As many people know, Police Officers need to make in the moment decisions every day when they put on their uniform. If they don't make those decisions quickly enough, they face the very real chance of death or injury. Police Officers CANNOT do the job they were hired to do safely and effectively if they are worried about liability. They CANNOT do the job they were hired to do safely and effectively if they are worried about losing the home their family lives in. They CANNOT do the job they were hired to do safely and effectively if they are worried about how they will support their loved ones. Is there a chance that Sergeant Michael Chesna chose not to use his weapon on the morning of July 15, 2018 because he was worried that such use would have been viewed as use of excessive force? Was he worried that if he used his weapon, he could potentially lose his family's home? The answers to those questions we will never know. It does seem reasonable to assume, however, that had Sergeant Michael Chesna chosen to use his weapon to shoot Emanuel Lopes he would still be here today. He would still be here with his family who miss him every single day. Police Officers need to be able to make quick decisions and act in good faith without fearing that each and every decision they make could lead to a lawsuit against them. Police Officers who are forced to stop, pause, and think about potential liability before they act are Police officers whose lives are at risk. The removal of Qualified Immunity should NOT be part of the final police/law enforcement reform package.

As I stated, there are parts of S.2820 that are acceptable and appropriate when we think of a bill with a goal of constructive Police/Law Enforcement reform. The bill as it currently stands before you is NOT acceptable as a total package. If Legislation such as that tied to S.2820 is to be effective, appropriate and just for all citizens of our Commonwealth it takes time along with careful thought and consideration. Reactive and rash decision making do not serve the citizens of our Commonwealth. The early acts in the Senate to rush a vote on this bill and to not study pieces like Qualified Immunity further have been extremely disheartening. I appreciated those Senators who called for more time and for a closer look at the bill in order to produce a product that was fair and just for all citizens of our Commonwealth. I also appreciate the willingness of the House to hear from the citizens of the Commonwealth. Legislation such as S.2820 impacts all citizens so all of those citizens should be allowed to share their thoughts.

In closing, I urge you to take the time that is necessary to make the best decision for ALL citizens of our Commonwealth. We have some of the most well trained Police/Law Enforcement Officers in the country. They need to be able to do the job they were trained to do in a safe and effective way. My husband has taken an oath to serve and protect his community. As our elected representative, I implore you to please do your duty to protect and serve the Police Departments. I urge you to correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in Law Enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Meghan Fogarty

Hello,

I am writing in support of the Reform-Shift-Build Act (S.2800). I am an East Boston resident who has serious concerns with the current state of policing, especially considering the negative consequences of qualified immunity such as continued use of excessive force, primarily used on people of color, and a rise in distrust of police due to these un-checked actions.

The time is now to make change, and I trust in you, as the people who represent our communities' best interests, to endorse this act as well.

Thank you,

Subject: Oppose Bill 2820

Good morning,

You do not know me, but my name is Gia Johnson and I am the wife of Michael Johnson who has been a police officer with the Wilmington Police department for 8 years. I know that you are getting inundated with calls and emails for and against this new bill, but I was wondering if I could steal a moment of your time and to bear with me.

You see there is nothing special about me, I am just your average run of the mill 30 something year old woman. I am able to go to work without having to fear for my life. I go out in public with my family and do not think about checking my surroundings. I am even able to enjoy a dinner at a restaurant with my back to the door. All things I take for granted. You see I am able to do these things, while my husband along with his brothers and sisters in blue are not.

Every day they put on their uniform and pray that it is not the last time. Every day they kiss their wives, husbands, sons, and daughters good-bye not knowing if or when they will see them again. These BRAVE (yes I said it), these brave men and women suit up everyday and protect the VERY people who are against them.

Is it not bad enough that there are songs written about how corrupt they are, is it not enough that social media has crucified them for their chosen profession. Is it not cruel enough that they had to attend rally's and protest and were forced to hold their composure while they were spat on, threatened, and had feces thrown at them. ALL things that they could arrest citizens for, but couldn't even touch them because these "protesters" were just expressing their first amendment. The answer to the question is No none of those things was bad enough. None of it was bad enough for those men and women to stop protecting and upholding the oath they took the day they put their badge on.

These are good men and women, and I am not naive to the fact that not every single one of them has the purest intentions. But no profession has a 100% when it comes to having good people. Some may say it's a "cop out," but it's not. Think of it. When a teacher gets in trouble for being inappropriate with a student, society doesn't condemn the whole teaching profession. They condemn that ONE person. When a doctor takes advantage of their title, there isn't an outcry from the public demanding all doctors need to be defunded. That one particular doctor loses his or her license. When a politician is found lying or having an extramarital affair there is no mutiny planned from the civilians for all politicians, they just want that particular politician to be outted and held accountable. All three of these professions hold some sort of authority, all three professions have to answer to the "everyman." So why are all cops called into question and punished, when one does something wrong? It doesn't make sense.

It's truly one thing if the citizens they protect are against them, they are use to having insults thrown at them about themselves, about their families and about their professions. THAT is what they signed up for. They signed up to do a job that NO ONE wants to do. They signed up for a job to protect all not just some.

What they didn't sign up for, is for their own state to turn on them for the actions of a few. A few may I remind you that are hundreds of miles away. This new bill that the state wants to pass is absolutely appalling. We as a society deserve to have good men and women protecting us. The state wants to license them, have at it. The state wants to revoke their license, because they made an egregious error or lapse in judgment, that is understandable. What is not understandable is to have civilians, the SAME civilians who hold a deep seeded disdain for these police officers, prosecute them. When a defendant goes on trial they are awarded due process and a jury of their peers. Putting an officer on "trial" and not allowing the same and just treatment as a criminal is absolutely repugnant. Why can no one else see that?

Why can no one who passed this bill see what they are doing to these men and women. I have watched my husband who IS a GOOD man consider giving up his dream job. I have seen the light slowly dim in his eyes. I have watched him scroll through social media and read hate comment after hate comment. I was there yesterday when he found out that the bill passed. I could hear his mind turning, I could see it on his face: he was defeated. He was defeated because those who could give these men and women a voice during this trying time, decided to mute them.

My question is what is this bill going to do, except make good men and women afraid to do their job. People could argue that those men and women if they were actually "good" they would continue to do their job regardless of the bill. But would you? Would you want to do your job if everyone was against you and now they held the power to take your job, your house, your family with JUST a few simple words. Did anyone think about what would happen when they gave civilians this type of power? Why is no one caring about these officers? Why is no one realizing that catering to these nay sayers is destroying the very country that they claim to care so much about. Why is no one seeing the hypocrisy in any of this. Those in the state house who agreed to pass this bill are the same people who call the police to be their security detail, they are the same people who would call the police if something tragic was happening to them. They are the same people who would beg a near by police officer to help them if their loved one was dying. Yet, they want to take qualified immunity away from those officers. The very doctrine that states those officers can do what needs to be done to help those in need. Those in the state house could say, "I would never fault an officer for doing their job," and they may be right. But those in the Statehouse can't speak for society as a whole. There are people out there who would try to persecute the same officer who helped them for doing his or her "job." Why? Because there are bad people EVERYWHERE, not just in policing. There will always going be people who take advantage of the system.

I agree that more should be done, but this isn't the way. Stripping these men and women of any authority, will not help the problem it will only pacify it. Because that is what then State house is doing, they are stripping these men and women of any authority they have if this bill makes it's way through the house. This profession as a whole is not respected, imagine what giving civilians power over LEOs will do. I do not want to find out, do you?

So, I leave you with this quote from an anonymous source: "Bravery is not the absence of fear, but action in the face of fear," and that is why these men and women are the epitome of brave. They face their fears head on, with no hesitation. Something that should be commended and not punished.

Sincerely,
Gia Johnson

Subject: FW: house representatives bill

Attn: Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Clair Cronin,

I am glad that you are addressing police standards but disagree with everything else. As a white person, I do not appreciate being discriminated against by the government that I pay taxes into. When you right bills that are specifically worded for one or more races or colors while excluding one race or color, you are automatically discriminating against the one excluded race. In fact, this bill specifically states to me that perhaps the author needs to take a good long look in the mirror to realize that he/she is the actual racist and not the rest of society. I have traveled all over this country for work and pleasure for over 25 years and never had an incident with anyone in a store, restaurant, gas station, hotel, etc by any race. It is abhorrent that the government representatives are behaving like racists and prejudice people under the guise of helping communities of color while tossing aside the Constitution that states "all men are created equal". How is this bill, discriminating against one race, supposed to fix anything while treating people unequally? This bill and bills like it are the cause of racism and further discourse in this state among its citizens of all colors.

The police issue is not a race issue, for how can a white community experience police brutality with so few colored people when the representatives are saying it only happens to colored people? I know for a fact as a personal witness to a police brutality incident, that was a white officer on white citizen, that this issue affects every race and should be treated as an equal issue for all. If the Representatives true intention is to help all citizens while upholding the Constitution that they are supposed to be adhering to, then they would not be sending the message to all citizens that we are not all equal.

One incident was an officer that I called to the scene because 2 men were exchanging fists in the middle of an intersection. By the time the police arrived, both men were back in their vehicles but were still sitting in the intersection. The white officer went over to one of the vehicles and commanded the white male out of his vehicle in which the white male complied with his hands raised in the air. The white officer then proceeded to throw his chest against the white males chest in a clear attempt to re-escalate a situation that had de-escalated on its own. I don't know how the white male kept his head cool enough to keep his hands clearly in the air the entire time and not fight the officer that was clearly trying to provoke him but he did while I was on the phone with the 911 dispatcher, I even stated, "what is that officer doing". The officer must have realized he was on full display in the intersection or realized that he wasn't going to provoke the white male and finally stepped back. What I witnessed prior to the police arriving was that the other male was the aggressor in the situation as he was the one to exit his vehicle and go after that male that the officer was trying to provoke. That poor young, white male, was brutalized twice during this incident. Once by the perpetrator and once by the police. There were no people of color involved so I guess this police brutality incident isn't good enough to be rectified.

A second incident is online involving a Chelmsford white police officer that lives in Tyngsboro and is revered by many but I watched him bully a 22 year old white male online because the young man was asking questions on how things worked. He called him stupid and other names and all because he was asking for information in a forum. I pray at night that he stays on the Chelmsford police force as their liability and does not end up transferring to the Tyngsboro police department because I know he is a lawsuit liability waiting to happen and as a taxpayer, I do not want to pay for it. This is a deep issue because his friends on the force won't do anything about it because they have to know he has their back in violent situations so the answer is that the oversight board of the police departments has to be a board that is completely removed from police officers and comprised of people with the ability to investigate and stand up to these officers that are nothing but bullies with badges and don't belong in the police department.

A third incident was my rights being violated and I was discriminated against based on my gender ON MY OWN property by the animal control officer who as I understand reports to the police department. I have called the animal control office in the past for a feral of 4 cats that moved into my husband's car engine one night only to have my call go unanswered. No phone call back, nothing. Luckily after 4 or 5 days, the cats moved on but that is derelict of duty and I am not the only complaining that he doesn't call people back. On the flip side, when there is something in it for him, like valuable venison meat, he shows up and yells at everyone there so he can take the meat. There was a deer hit and it was laying on my front lawn, its back legs were mangled so it had to be put down. I did not know people were outside the front of my house and when I went to take my dog out pee in the morning, I saw a NH plate car parked in my driveway. I went out with my dog to see what they were doing since I am a MA resident, and the animal control officer barreled across my front lawn yelling at me that I couldn't be out there with my dog. I turned and saw the deer and even though my dog is used to seeing the deer in the yard and doesn't usually bark at the deer, I put him in the house anyway without having had his morning bathroom trip. I came back outside to watch and see when the officer was done shooting the deer so I could take my dog out and start getting ready for work and was met again with the animal control officer (not the police officer who appeared to just want to get on with his day also) yelling at me that I shouldn't be out in my yard because the officer was going to shoot the deer. I yelled back at him that I know he is going to shoot the deer, he can't leave the deer like that, get on with it. I waited a few seconds and decided to go in and watch from the window so I could get on with my day, and again the animal control officer ran across my front yard about 30 feet to my window to yell at me again to which I threw open my window and told him again to get on with it. I don't know who this animal control officer thinks he is but he clearly is uneducated to realize that he has gender discriminated against me on my own property, he does not deserve to work for the Town of Tyngsboro. I know that if I was a man, he would not have been chasing me around my own yard like that as he didn't chase away any of them men that stopped to ask if they could have the meat, he just simply told them no. My guess, based on the animal control officers historical behavior and comments from fellow citizens that he took the venison for himself and that is the only reason he showed up. If the intestines were disturbed thus making the meat no good, he probably would have had the office put the deer down, and leave the carcass for me to bury or dispose of. There was no need for the animal control office to waste all that time chasing me around my own yard and in my own house, when the first time I acknowledged that I knew that the officer was going to shoot the deer should have been the end of our interactions. This animal control officer was running around in a panic about me, you will never be able to convince me that he can handle any kind of pressure situations. He can't even handle not violating someone's rights as an animal control officer.

My thought is that you need real and in depth psychological profiles of police officers to determine if they are of an aggressive personality which does not work and if they can handle pressure so taking money away from the police departments is not the answer....putting the money to better use is the answer.

I also don't understand why they are retiring at young ages with full pensions so they don't have to ever work again. That sends the message that you only have to put in your time and get out, not that you have to care about the job that you are doing. They should be under the same retirement age of 67 to get full pension like everyone else. Perhaps then, that will stem the "I am superior" to the citizens that I protect from surfacing from the few.

I don't believe all cops are bad but I do believe that there are several that need to be removed. The way we revere an officer needs to change. We need to shine lights on the ones that understand about racism, bias, and prejudice and remove the ones that cannot model that behavior.

Over the course of my life, I have had my own experiences with officers that I knew the officer was being a jerk but luckily I kept my cool and let it go so since they couldn't provoke me, I was no fun for them and they either ticketed me or moved on. I had one officer while reading my license say to me "what kind name is this", I thought he was referring to my maiden last name that no one ever pronounced correctly but he was referring to my first name "Meredith". How sad is this officer that he couldn't even make a guess on a phonetically spelled name.

I have had both good and bad experiences with officers and I am not jaded by the few that are ignorant. There are still good officers out there, the good officers and the citizens NEED a valid place to report such incidents where they will be investigated objectively.

The language in the proposed bill where this is written to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values black lives and communities of color as it is discriminatory language and redundant. We already have laws about equality, fairness and being just, the laws on the books need to be enforced, which a lot of them are not, and they need to be written in language that does not discriminate against one race.

Defunding the police or taking any money away from the police is the worst thing that can be done with irreparable consequences. Even with all my experiences with the police over the years, I am an adult that knows that not all officers are bad and when I need help, I still call the police! Going forward, I still expect them to show up.

Thank you,

Meredith Paige

Can you send this by 11 am via email :

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

My name is Michael Livingston. I have been a police officer for over 21 years. I am African American and I am a patrol sergeant working for the city of Brockton. I am in agreement that a reform or an improvement in standardized training and education will place all Massachusetts law enforcement officers in better position to serve the public.

I stand with my brothers in the Massachusetts Police Association in that the subjects of decertification process, qualified immunity, and allowing civilians without experience or expertise to decertify officers are so convoluted and complex that they can not be decided on in such haste, potentially yielding to the political climate of today. I implore, any decision must be thoroughly deliberated over in a sufficient, thoughtful, and appropriate period of time in the interest of the entire commonwealth.

Sincerely,

Michael Livingston

Cc: Vitolo, Tommy - Rep. (HOU)
Subject: Please pass a strong omnibus bill to increase police accountability

Dear Rep Vitolo and House Judiciary Committee-
As your constituent, I'm writing to ask you to include three essential measures in any legislation on police accountability and racial justice. Please prohibit violent police tactics (especially chokeholds and tear gas), impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is not immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity (QI) to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights. Banning violent police tactics is meaningless if there is no way for people to hold the police accountable when they break the rules. Victims of police brutality deserve justice. This is the provision I am most strongly in support of. QI has defined away police responsibility for violating citizens' rights on a flimsy and logically-flawed basis that leaves us as citizens without recourse. QI must be legislatively revoked and police must be held accountable.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing. The dangers of face surveillance and systemic racism in policing will not evaporate in mere months. The moratorium on the use of this technology should not be lifted until the legislature enacts meaningful regulation to guard against racial bias, invasions of privacy, and violations of due process

Massachusetts has an opportunity to be a leader in this nationwide movement—and as your constituent I implore you to take that opportunity to do the right thing. We need to deliver racial justice to Black and Brown people in our state, and that starts with baseline police accountability through robust legislation. Please work to include the above provisions in the final version of this bill.

Sincerely,

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Jenna Lamusta and I live at 9 Carol Ann Road in Lynnfield. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

The Honorable Rep. Aaron Michlewitz

The Honorable Rep. Claire D. Cronin

Chair, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Re: Testimony in Support of Police Accountability

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

I write as a concerned citizen to offer my support for the many provisions in S.2820 designed to increase police accountability and safety for our broader community.

In particular, I want to urge you to: 1) adopt strict limits on police use of force, including the prohibition of methods more likely to result in serious injury and death, like chokeholds and no knock warrants; and 2) alter qualified immunity standards which shield police misconduct from civil accountability and deny victims of police violence an avenue for legal redress for their injuries.

Massachusetts can and should be a leader in remedying the kinds of structural racism that causes communities of color to fear violence and death at the hands of police. We are not immune from these systemic problems. Indeed, the Department of Justice recently reported that a unit of the Springfield Police Department routinely uses brutal, excessive violence against residents of that city.

We must address police violence and abuses, and hold police accountable for civil rights violations. These changes are essential for the health and safety of our communities here in the Commonwealth, and the credibility of our law enforcement agencies.

Thank you for your consideration of these critical reforms.

RE: Concerns to Senate 2820 as Amended

Honorable Chairpersons:

The Union Body of Winthrop Police Department is writing to express our outrage over the potential stripping of necessary police protections offered through Qualified Immunity.

We respectfully ask that you do not give in to the misinformed perception of many who are the loudest in the public arena and stand strong with good police officers across the Commonwealth who put our lives on the line daily as we try to maintain order. Society as a whole has become litigious and without qualified immunity police officers and municipalities will find themselves defending frivolous lawsuits which will ultimately send the message to police officers not to be proactive within their community. Qualified Immunity is here to protect good proactive police officers who are only interested in using reasonable means to exercise their police discretion.

Good morning,

My name is Patrick White and I am a PROUD Union Police Officer in Worcester and a lifelong resident of Worcester as well. I am writing to you today to state that the bill recently Passed by your colleagues in the MA Senate, was hastily put together and at its very heart a piece of ANTI-LABOR LEGISLATION.

This legislation removes Police Officer's rights to due process (a fundamental piece of law... THAT WE UPHOLD), the rights for collective bargaining that so many other PROUD UNION members have fought for previously, and finally it inserts an advisory board that has ZERO training, ZERO experience, and ZERO background in actual Policing.

I know that the House can come together and make some sense of this Bill and hopefully it is done with input from actual Police Officers. Give us a seat at the table is all we are asking. We are willing to change, but change should ultimately require some input from Police.

I thank you for your time!

Good Morning,

I would like to ask the Legislature to approach police reform with "common sense". Please don't make laws (changing qualified immunity for example) that discourage police officers from doing police work. If police officers are afraid of frivolous lawsuits that hurt them and their families proactive police work will cease to exist.

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership.

Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP.

To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated.

SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated.

Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status.

Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers.

I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Sincerely,
Mary Clerc

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I'm writing in favor of S.2820, to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law and strengthen it.

I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Sincerely,

Subject: URGENT. PLEASE HELP POLICE!!!

It came to my attention that last night the MA Senate passed the bill to end qualified immunity for police officers. I am appalled that the legislature of such importance was passed without a public hearing.

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

A horrible death happened in Minnesota and everybody condemned it. But why all policemen in our state are punished for that? I talked to Brookline police and there has been not a single incident of police brutality for years of existence of Brookline police. Massachusetts police in general is an exemplary organization. Why are you in such a hurry of changing the law? This new law will harm not only police but the whole population of Massachusetts.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

Subject: End Qualified Immunity

To whom it may concern,

I have lived in Massachusetts almost my entire life, and I am writing in support of the senate police accountability bill, especially section 10 regarding qualified immunity.

On June 16th, the Supreme court declined to reexamine qualified immunity. This move makes it clear that the court feels it is the responsibility of congress and/or individual states to act on this matter. Qualified immunity erodes our communities access to life and liberty, and weakens the safety of all of our community, especially people of color. Our own high court said in 2016 that black men may have cause to run from police. Of course they do, the police are armed with guns and can shoot to kill with immunity. Who does that protect other than the police themselves? The police are charged with saving and protecting lives, so are doctors. We have the right to file a malpractice lawsuit when a doctor makes a mistake that leads to death or injury. How can we not have the same right when police make mistakes that lead to the same consequences? How can Black and Latinx mothers and fathers raise their children to meet their highest potential as they move through life in fear that the people who are charged to protect them can and do kill them with immunity? Police violence against Black and Latinx community is a public health crisis that must be addressed in our country. Ending police immunity is a vital step in that process.

Best,

Elissa Bowling

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Dear members of House leadership;

My name is Emma Feynman, and I live in Allston. I believe that S.2820 does almost nothing to prevent state violence against Black people or stop the flow of Black people into jails and prisons.

I believe S.2820 will cause more harm than good by increasing spending on law enforcement through training and training commissions, expanding the power of law enforcement officials to oversee law enforcement agencies, and making no fundamental changes to the function and operation of policing in the Commonwealth. Real change requires that we shrink the power and responsibilities of law enforcement and shift resources from policing into most-impacted communities. The definition of law enforcement must include corrections officers who also enact racist violence on our community members.

Through my experiences working in Boston Public Schools, instead of funding for police training and commissions, communities need investments in their schools. It's ridiculous that we continue to throw money at the police when our schools are so desperately underfunded. We must go to the source of the problem and ensure that every child, no matter their race, ethnicity, economic standing, or disability status receives the kind of excellent education I know BPS would be capable of giving them, if only with enough funding.

If the Massachusetts legislature were serious about protecting Black lives and addressing systemic racism, this bill would eliminate cornerstones of racist policing including implementing a ban without exceptions on pretextual traffic stops and street stops and frisks. The legislature should decriminalize driving offenses which are a major gateway into the criminal legal system for Black and Brown people and poor and working class people. Rather than limiting legislation to moderate reforms and data collection, the legislature should shut down fusion centers, erase gang databases, and permanently ban facial surveillance by all state agencies including the RMV. I also support student-led efforts to remove police from schools.

The way forward is to shrink the role and powers of police, fund Black and Brown communities, and defund the systems of harm and punishment which have failed to bring people of color safety and wellbeing. S.2820 does not help us get there.

Thank you,
Emma Feynman, Allston

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your public service to this great State of Massachusetts and for also allowing us the great opportunity to submit written testimony relative to Senate Bill 2820. Please keep in mind throughout this letter that I am in agreement that there are some changes that need to be made in how we "do business" going forward, but the way they are proposed will not only put the lives and safety of the Officers putting their lives on the line, but will

SEVERELY put the safety of those very same residents we are trying to protect in jeopardy.

I feel that I cannot plead my case without giving you some of my background. Although it is extensive with my Law Enforcement/EMT experience, training, and life experiences, I will just give you a little bit of it not to bore you. I have over 27 years of Law Enforcement experience with 3 years of EMT experience. My career started out in 1993 in the NYPD for 12yrs. I then moved onto Boston College for a year before making my most recent move to The Kingston Police Department where I have spent the last 14 years. I can honestly say that I have a very extensive career and have been through many different changes due to situations that have arisen.

My career started in the 73rd Pct in Brownsville Brooklyn (3rd worst in all of NYC in 1993 for violent crimes) as a foot patrol officer utilizing my "people" skills and learning about community policing. The community was approx 90% African American, 8% Latino and 2% other and I was the "minority" in that neighborhood. I was always a community oriented person and loved to chat which is where you learn about people. There were days where this paid off multiple times and was proud of it. I then moved into a sector car answering over 41 calls in a 1.5 square mile command and multiple projects with heights that were unheard of out here (minimum of 35 stories with over 10 families per floor). Because of my activity I was able to move into a plain clothes position in the Street Narcotics Unit and began arresting what I call the "core" criminals. I applied to make a career move into the Organized Crime Control Bureau of the NYPD where I was assigned to the Gang Unit and made 3rd grade Detective. Before leaving for Mass, I was on track to becoming a 2nd Grade Detective and had a very well established and honest arrest history that I was proud of! During my time in The NYPD, I wrote and executed my own search warrants, attended multiple trainings, was engaged in civil unrest, was shot at by a 13 year old as I chased his friend for an armed robbery, assaulted with a 2x4 loaded with nails on the end where I had 2 puncture wounds through the vest, attended hostage negotiations training, HIDTA Trainings, had a sink thrown from a 35 story building at us, was present through 911 and was there for Tower 2 coming down, besides working the site and morgue, and attended MULTIPLE FUNERALS for classmates, house mates, and friends from the job. Don't get me wrong, I also had some of the most memorable encounters with good people that just wanted to live and survive in the neighborhood they were born in, raised, or "stuck in". You can never take away these memories and feel I got the foundation for being a great Police Officer, at least in my opinion!

My next move was to Boston College where I dealt with a different class or group of people. These were young kids learning their way and trying to have fun while getting an education. Some were entitled, some were down to earth, and some were even confused and looked to me for guidance. I was asked to join the SRT Team for BC and also enjoyed it. Especially when I was there and able to diffuse a situation just from my presence and encounters with some of the kids involved and gained their respect. This too was another "feather in my hat", or tool on my belt with successfully dealing with people..

My last and current stop was here on the South Shore in the Town of Kingston. Here I wear more hats than anyone would want, but because I love my job and the community I just take more on. I earned my Bachelor's Degree in Criminal Justice and a minor in Psychology (2 VERY important degrees to have to effectively do this job). I also saw the need to help my fellow FireFighters in their job and put myself through EMT School so that I had a better idea of what they would need before they were on scene to give my residents every available opportunity to survive their injuries and come home to their loved ones once again! From there I was made the EMT Coordinator for the department and the liaison for my department and became a member of the South Shore Behavioral Health Collaborative helping people in need and involved in Mental Health related issues (sort of like a social worker). I also started the K9 Unit program, became attached to the SWAT Team, a member of SAR, and very involved in community policing related programs (ride to school in a police car, National Night Out, Scout visits and demonstrations, etc.).

Lets not forget community involvement too. I was a member of the school committee for 3 years, on the board for Kingston Youth Baseball, coach and coordinate youth baseball for the last 6years plus, volunteer at the Kingston Council on Aging, have delivered meals on wheels, was responsible for the startup of the Kingston Police FOP Lodge #64 to help the community in which we also serve (my version of civilian community policing), and I am active independently in the town with other organizations.

Hopefully this will help you understand that I am not like some of the people you may be speaking with in regards to this Bill. I am the hands on "boots on the ground" officer that will tell you from first hand experience on what is good and bad with this bill and I would GLADLY speak more in depth with my thoughts and even my suggestions in putting a successful bill on the table. But right now I will tell you and even go as far as warn you in a friendly manner that the bill proposed will be the start of the downfall of having any kind of order or respect for Law Officers. Talking with the Chiefs and Commissioners is great, but they hear from a chain of different people that may even distort the story by the time it gets to them. WE see and experience what is going on out there NOW. The unions also present our best interests to you as a whole and grouped. I felt you should hear from the individual DOING the job now and has history in a wide variety of environments.

Please consider just some of the key points:

1. Qualified Immunity is there for the GOOD OFFICERS, not the bad. The bad will be punished accordingly and will ultimately lose in court. Even the good Officers have a bad day or may step out of line, but they will be reprimanded. They are human as well but if they are good, they will have a track record showing it. I am not and never will be a fan of dirty or bad cops. My first vision was a cop being walked out of the station in NY on day 1 because he was part of a scandal (morgue boys). That is why they had Internal Affairs investigators. The good families should not be punished for what the bad cop does! There will always be a bad apple in every bunch. The bigger the bunch, the more bad apples there may be in there. But you can't group all the departments together or all the Officers and then say we have soooo many bad apples making us all look bad.

I strongly urge that you leave QI the way it is and do not let the Senate change what is in place. The system itself can use some tweaking procedures and allow officers to report the bad cops without fear of repercussion. I guarantee you will weed them out then.

2. The oversight committees proposed are tainted and would be made up of groups that may not be educated on what goes on out there and may have an unrealistic point of view of what transpires. You don't have civilians in charge of a doctor's license or civilians in charge of an attorney's license. You have a board of their peers. We also have a "license". It is called certifications and re certs every year. If we don't meet the requirements, we cannot "practice". We attend an academy for 7 months and go for 40hrs of refresher and updates every year. That is a total of 1,120 hrs of initial training and 40 every year thereafter. That's not counting additional training and Firearms qualifications, etc.

Changing this to a license isn't my main issue, it is the committee portion.

3. This entire bill is being pushed through on account of what happened thousands of miles away in a matter of days where most bills take, as we all know, 6months to a year if not longer. And that's for a single issue to be addressed.

4. Training NEEDS to be enhanced and if you are considering defunding police departments, please consider putting it into realistic training where people that have had a bad experience with the cops can be involved in the training of the new recruits. There they will see where and how Officers react and where they can be corrected or educated.

5. I feel you should already have a degree before getting this job with some classes required prior to the academy. Make the requirement in history or develop a course that can be taught tailored to this job.

6. My last point, since I only have 10 minutes to submit this is that we should have Regional Policing. For example, Plymouth County Police Department and have Districts or divisions or Pcts (Kingston or K1 or 4th Division, etc.). This in turn opens MANY doors to types of discipline and staffing as well as oversight and monitoring. It worked fantastic in the NYPD because Officers did not want to be punished and lose a position in a good "house" and at the same time Officers were rewarded by going into an areawide unit or closer to home. When you apply, you can be sent wherever there is an opening or need. Down the road after probation is up you could apply to a different station. Officers would be forced to deal with and understand their residents more or face the punishment and could be forced out for "new blood". Plus the active Officers that want to learn the job may request to go to a busier house while the officer about to retire goes to a slower inactive house to finish out. This would have to be done at the bottom with new recruits and offer a different retirement package. I am a fan of the 25/75 (25years of service and 75% salary) or like I was 20yrs and "out". Offer a buyout package now to get the "salty" old timers out and get these new impressionable kids on the street molded correctly before they can be tainted by the salty veterans that now hate the job and are waiting to get out.

Please reconsider just some of the points I have thrown together and keep in mind there are MANY more that will keep both sides happy. But you just can't do this 89+ page Bill hastily without good valuable OPEN MINDED people working on it or involved.

I appreciate your time and apologize for the long winded letter, but this is only because there are so many points that can be mentioned and worked on. The way the bill is presented now by the Senate, and before you present the House Bill, I will honestly say that yes, the bad cops will be scared to do anything, but you will also have the GOOD cops afraid to do their job correctly because the criminals will have more power and control than we do and can easily take advantage of the system to hurt us.

Thank you for your time reading this as well as the time and lengthy hours you are putting into this! Please feel free to contact me at any time for any reason!

Subject: S2820

Good Morning,

My name is Susan Fuller-DeAmato and I live in Somerville, Massachusetts. I am also a police officer. I am emailing regarding the Bill S2820.

I support using de-escalation techniques and support a duty to intervene (both which most departments already have policies for and train for).

I understand that other issues are being discussed. Such as banning officers from shooting into moving vehicles, except in certain situations. This must be spelled out to include the safety of officers and the public. It also prohibits police from using chokeholds. I just graduated from the police academy last year. Chokeholds were not taught to us in defensive tactics. The lawmakers and people writing this bill should do their research and understand what techniques are approved by the Municipal Police Training Committee (MPTC). The academy stresses the importance of de-escalation techniques, including teaching ICAT: Integrating Communications, Assessment, and Tactics.

I strongly do not agree with removing qualified immunity. This will make officers hesitant and less pro-active which is the opposite of police reform.

With regards to The Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee. The accreditation committee is to set standards for police conduct in large crowds. And what happens when the crowds don't follow the same rules? One of the biggest tools in our police tool-box is discretion. This bill ties our hands and removes so much of our discretion.

The bill is also going to require police departments to seek "civilian authorization" before buying military equipment for use on citizens. I disagree with this strategy. If a teacher proposes that they need a specific tool to their job more effective. Why should I (the public) have a say if they need it or not. Should the oversight committee be comprised of educators and researchers who understand education and what is needed for the best of the teachers and students they serve? The "civilian authorization" instead should be comprised of law enforcement professionals and criminal justice researchers who understand the criminal justice profession.

I also understand that the bill will ban schools from feeding information about students' immigration status or suspected gang affiliation to police. The immigration status I agree with. However, school educators and school resource officers should be allowed to share information with local law enforcement departments about suspected gang affiliation. This is vital to community safety and keeping our youth safe.

Speaker DeLeo is committed to working with the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus and House colleagues. Why are lawmakers, who have no idea what it means to be a police officer, make split seconds decisions, coming up with regulations for our profession. Speaker DeLeo should also be committed to working with the Black and Latino law enforcement groups (such as the Massachusetts Latino Police Officers Association, the Massachusetts Minority Law Enforcement Officers Association, and the Latino Law Enforcement Group of Boston). These associations, among others, like Massachusetts Association of Women in Law Enforcement, should be at the table and be providing their expertise in drafting a reform bill.

Thank you for your time.

Respectfully submitted,

Susan Fuller-DeAmato

I am writing in support of the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800). I am a pediatrician and have been living in the Boston area for almost 15 years. I am a current resident of East Boston.

I have deep concerns about the impact of systemic racism in our society and on my patients. The systemic racism that pervades our society cannot be addressed without addressing the impact of policing on communities of color.

As a physician, I know that I am responsible for the decisions I make that impact the lives of my patient. Beyond the moral obligation that I feel to provide my patients with the best care, I know that if I do not, I could face professional and legal consequences. Police officers are professionals who are trained and also need to face the consequences for their decisions. That is why it is important that the practice of qualified immunity end.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

My name is Denise Richard. I am a resident of Dorchester, MA and a member of March like a Mother: for Black Lives. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

Our family has pledged to do our part to end systemic racism and excessive force by police in our city, Commonwealth and nation. We feel that this Bill is just the beginning to ensuring that our Commonwealth is able to provide a more fair and equitable society that values black lives and communities of color. This is a critical time and we feel that all lives can not matter until the Black Lives Matter movement is taken with the utmost seriousness.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Subject: Bill 2820

Dear Representatives,

My name is Nicole Badoud and I currently live at 84 Walpole St 4B, Canton, MA but will be moving to 6 Stonehouse Hill Rd, North Easton, MA in the next week. I have been in contact with Representative Galvin regarding my concerns about this bill. I work in Human Resources and from my professional point of view, there are items in the bill that are disturbing like providing access to an officer's medical files under a misconduct investigation. This violates their HIPPA protection and, if the information isn't relevant to the investigation, the Commission shouldn't have access to it.

In addition, the Permanent Commissions on the status of African Americans and Latinxs should include representation of Law Enforcement people of color as they are able to provide a unique perspective as part of those communities. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. This would be the same type of professional oversight applied to certifying bodies for medical and legal professionals. The Commission members need to complete the same classroom training curriculum that MPTC will require for officers, so that the Commission is familiar with the training that MA Law Enforcement officers receive.

The Commissions shouldn't receive settlement funds. When you incentivize something to drive a certain behavior, there are often unintended consequences and behavior that result from that incentive system. I think you need to take more time to think through what those potential pitfalls might be especially because the Commissions will be new as well.

While an understanding of the historical impact of slavery and lynching is good for setting context, the type of training that should be happening is Unconscious Bias training. This is what they use in most professional workplaces to drive a culture of Diversity, Inclusion and Belonging. In addition to law enforcement, all elected representatives including yourselves should also go through the same training.

On the topic of the review of the municipal police training committee's curriculum, the minimum requirement should be at least 3 people affiliated with an academic institution and make sure you have representation for each: expertise in law enforcement, expertise in criminal law, expertise in civil rights law.

If the independent police officer standards and accreditation committee is for law enforcement standards and accreditation then you should have an even split between the 14 members between law enforcement and non-law enforcement and at least have 2 officers nominated by the MA Association of Minority Law Enforcement Officers. Also, you shouldn't limit the MA Black and Latino Legislative Caucus from nominating law enforcement individuals for their list if those are candidates they wish to nominate.

The info in the police officer standards and accreditation database with regards to complaints against officers shouldn't be public record. They should have the same due process rights as every other American citizen.

The information regarding complaints should only be available to the committee in the course of it's work.

As the wife of a law enforcement officer I ask that you do not eliminate qualified immunity. The appropriate protections are there currently and eliminating this will result in many frivolous civil lawsuits that could bankrupt law enforcement families. In addition you are putting law abiding citizens at risk by creating a situation that makes officers have to second guess taking action at the risk of being sued. You put EMTs and fire at risk for civil suits for not being able to save someone's life. Eliminating qualified immunity doesn't improve the conditions for the African American community in MA - you can better accomplish that through improving access to education, housing, employment and community improvement programs.

If despite the vocal opposition you've received on this topic you still proceed with eliminating qualified immunity, then you need to eliminate it for all elected officials including yourselves, judges, the Attorney General and district attorneys given that you are also part of the system that develops and enforces the laws of the Commonwealth.

As for treating all citizens of the Commonwealth fairly, if a law enforcement officer is in a self defense situation, they should be able to use a choke hold if that is the only means available to prevent the loss of their life. Also, the use of a vehicle should constitute imminent harm. You should all attend use of force training so you have better understanding of how these situations unfold as you contemplate how to change these laws.

In closing, I agree that police reform is important and needs to be addressed but passing a poor bill for the sake of passing a bill isn't in the best interest of the Commonwealth. Those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Respectfully,

Nicole Badoud

All,

I am writing to express my disagreement with this hastily crafted bill as it applies to our first responders. I would appreciate and request that you vote this bill down and then take the necessary steps to work through a more thoughtful and productive bill that does not limit these important jobs from doing the best they can do to provide protection and in many cases life saving responses to situations that may warrant above and beyond efforts to effectively remediate certain life and death situations.

Thank you for your consideration of my input in this extremely important matter

Subject: We oppose S2820!

Good morning,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

My name is Gabby Reinold and I live in Braintree, Massachusetts.

I am writing to express my opposition to the current Senate bill S.2800, which was passed in the Massachusetts Senate this week and is being heard in the Massachusetts House of Representatives for consideration.

My oppositions to this bill are very simple and straight-forward. First, this bill will change the current legal standard of the Qualified Immunity doctrine in Massachusetts state courts. The present standard allows the courts to consider past precedent and established legal authority, and the information the public official possessed at the time of their alleged illegal action when determining whether the doctrine will apply to a public official defendant (most likely a police officer) before a case can go forward.

S.2800 would change the established legal standard to only allow the court to consider what every reasonable defendant would have understood as being illegal at the time of their alleged illegal action before allowing the case to go forward. This shift in legal doctrine would completely ignore the bedrock legal doctrine of stare decisis and legal precedent, and prohibit courts from benefiting from past decisions, both mandatory and persuasive, that would apply to the case at bar.

This will completely erode Qualified Immunity because it places far too much subjectivity into the decision whether to bring forward cause of action against a public employee. A finder of fact will be left to make their decisions in a vacuum, without the benefit of fairness and established legal precedents.

Secondly, I oppose S.2800 because of the changes it makes to the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act or "MCRA." Currently, under the MCRA, a plaintiff's case may only go forward against a public employee for acts that interfere with the exercise and enjoyment of [a citizen's] constitutional rights, as well as rights secured by the constitution or laws of the Commonwealth, where such interference of constitutional or statutory rights were achieved or attempted through threats, intimidation or coercion.

The proposed changes in § 10(b) of S.2800 completely delete the requirements of threats, intimidation and coercion be present in a public employee's alleged violation of the plaintiffs constitutional rights. This will, in effect, open the flood-gates for causes of action to be brought in Massachusetts state courts under the MCRA under this weakened standard. As you are aware, causes of action that lie under the MCRA are eligible for consideration of awarding attorney's fees if there is a favorable verdict for the plaintiff. What will stop unscrupulous plaintiffs and their attorneys from filing suit under this weakened standard in an attempt to exact a quick settlement that includes attorney's fees? The gatekeeper will be asleep at the wheel, as the finders of fact will have no way to dismiss these frivolous claims before they make their way into court.

Finally, please consider the families, children, spouses and public employees themselves when making your decisions regarding this piece of flawed legislation. Qualified Immunity was established to shield public employees who act in good faith from frivolous and exhortative lawsuits. The erosions of S.2800 place hardworking and dedicated public employees in a position where personal liability could apply in situations where it never should. Are their homes, college savings accounts, retirement accounts and personal assets so under-valued that they should be forfeited to settle damages in these cases? Our public employees, especially our police officers, deserve better.

I implore you to take more time and truly consider the far-reaching implications of this bill. There is no doubt that there are things that need to change in law enforcement, but this is not how they should change. A bill that is filed as a knee-jerk reaction in attempt to solve a real problem will only create more problems. Discussion, conversation, debate, opposition and objection, are all cornerstones to our democratic process. We must use them, even embrace them, in order to find a solution to police reform that is both meaningful and pragmatic.

Very truly yours,

Gabby Reinold

Subject: Senate Bill S2820

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

I ask that you support amendments 114,116,126,134,129, and137 to the Senate Bill S2820. The amendments deal with due process and fair representation on the board as well as uniform accreditation standards. I support enhanced training and appropriate certification standards and policies that promote fair and unbiased treatment of all citizens, INCLUDING POLICE OFFICERS. The original version of the bill undercuts collective bargaining rights and due process. These amendments are an attempt to improve the bill in these areas. They do not lessen the training protocols and standards or general accountability for law enforcement as originally proposed. Thank you for your time and consideration.

These are the important points that I would really like to highlight and bring to everyone's attention:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety. The false narrative that QI prevents the public from suing Pos and holding them accountable which dominated the senate debate masked provisions in the bill which will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues. Not only will the unintended and unnecessary changes to QI hamstring police offices in the course of their duties due to the fact that they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions but hidden in the bill are various provisions which will protect drug dealers, human traffickers, gang activity in minority neighborhood schools, organized retail theft and terrorists.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and professional participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally non transparent. The original version of the bill was over 70 pages, had hundreds of changes to public safety sections of the general laws and sound public policy sections, it was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for the members to digest/caucus and receive public comment thus creating a process which was a sham.

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased. The senate created a board that is dominated by groups who have stated anti law enforcement biases and preconceived punitive motives toward police. The board as proposed is unlike any other of the 160 professional regulatory boards in the Commonwealth that the Black and Latino Caucus and its individual members as well as the Governor repeatedly and publicly stated should be used as the example of the model to be used. Its composition is fundamentally incapable of providing regulatory due process. Furthermore, the proposed members are completely devoid of sufficient experience in law enforcement to create training policies and standards unlike members of the other 160 professional boards.

4. Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques which all police personnel unequivocally support. Once we have uniform standards and policies and the statutory banning of use of force techniques both the officers and the individual citizens will know what is reasonable and have a clear picture of what conduct is a violation of a citizen's rights and that conduct cannot be protected by QI. This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets. Police officers are already subjected to suits and suits that are successful when their conduct warrants it. There is no legitimate need to change the law particularly when we get uniform standards

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership. Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous.

Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated. Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status. Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers. I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Sincerely,

Niccole M Emery

Subject: Police Reform Bill.

My name is Brad McNamara and I am the President of IBPO Local 353, which represents the men and women of the Lunenburg Police Department. I was hoping I could speak with you about the Police Reform Bill that the house is currently taking up.

There have been a number of recent high-profile events far outside of Massachusetts that have resulted in the arrest of police officers. These events have taken place in other states, yet we some politicians in Massachusetts have deemed all Massachusetts Police officers to somehow be responsible for the reprehensible actions of a few individuals in other states.

We are certainly not perfect, and do support change for the better. What I am asking is that instead of rushing to judgement and assuming all Massachusetts Police Departments are broken and doing something wrong, politicians take the time to ask what Massachusetts Police Departments are doing right. I am asking that you take those best practices from departments across the state, take input for Police Chiefs, unions, and members of communities across the state and use that information to craft legislation that will truly be beneficial to communities across the state; not something that was thrown together in haste that history will look back on as extremely flawed.

We at the Lunenburg Police Department are proud of what we do, and of the Town of Lunenburg. We take pride of the positive light that the citizens of Lunenburg view us in, and the members of this department expect one and other to be positive role models for the community, without exception. The level of trust and respect in our community is something that we are extremely proud of.

The bill that was hastily put together and passed by the Senate, under the cover of night is deeply flawed. They have stripped qualified immunity from not only Police Officers, but Teachers, Fire Fighters, EMTs, and all other public employees, except lawmakers. Lawmakers enjoy absolute immunity, which is a lot different than qualified immunity, which a public employee must qualify for. The determination to apply qualified immunity is currently determined by a judge. Qualified immunity does not protect officers who violate someone's rights. Instead, it protects government employees who perform their job to the best of their ability and in a way that is consistent with their training from frivolous lawsuits that could cost them everything that they have worked for.

The officers of the Lunenburg Police Department have always strived to do better, and implement programs to engage and benefit the community. With the loss of qualified immunity some of these programs are in jeopardy of ceasing to exist.

I know you're probably extremely busy, but if you get the chance could you give me a call 508-768-5985. I'd like to talk to you about what the men and woman of the Lunenburg Police Department are doing right and the negative impact that the Senates Bill will have on them, their families, and the Lunenburg Community as a whole.

Respectfully,

Brad McNamara

Subject: s2800 VOTE No-MAINTAIN QUALIFIED IMMUNITY FOR OUR CIVIL SERVANTS

We have become a society where we all believe that we are experts IN EVERYTHING! We know more than everyone else simply because we have a built in public forum virtually sewn into our palms through our cell phones.

We second guess the men and women who risk their lives day in and day out to keep law and order in the communities we share. We second guess our teachers who are some of the most highly educated and regulated public service workers in this country.

Oh, and when we don't like the way that a professional does his or her job? Why just call any attorney with an available billable hour and they will gladly try to get you some free money-because if you didn't like the way something was done, you should be paid!

We owe our civil servants, the backbones of our society, the right to be protected when they are doing their jobs to the best of their ability, based on extensive, on-going training and in accordance with our extremely high expectations.

Sometimes policing looks ugly, particularly to an untrained eye. No one wants to see another human being slammed to the ground violently. And yet, sometimes that action is called for based on the judgement of a trained professional. Ask yourself if you really could do it better.

Sadly, our cities are filled with drugs, guns, and violent crimes-from armed robberies to rapes and other assaults. Sadly, we are coming to the realization that racism in this country is alive and well. As we strive to resolve the many issues at the roots of these injustices, we also need to provide minimal protections to our law enforcement officers who deal with the results of our shared societal, political, familial failures. Together we have made this mess and we ask them to keep it away from our doorstep by positioning themselves between us and the crimes that threaten us.

The indignation that has been aimed at our Law enforcement officers is a distraction from the reality of the role that we all (black, white, gay, straight, trans, etc...) play in our current divide. We have welfare, addiction, education, societal, psychological, family issues that as improved will all help us to move forward. At the same time, we have police officers who are on the receiving end of the damaged caused by our failures, working day and night to protect law abiding citizens from the offshoots of our many failings.

Police reforms that make sense are coming but we MUST MAINTAIN qualified immunity (not absolute immunity) for our civil servants.

Kindly,
Jessica Farrell

Subject: S2820

Good morning representatives,

Thank you for citizen input on this important bill, S2820. I am writing in strong support of this bill. As a licensed mental health counselor I have seen both sides of what police officers can do with in their role and power. It is with adamant belief that sweeping police powers and a lack of officer accountability more often than not are barriers, not aids, to effective policing. S2820 will more effectively position law enforcement to act with only the tools, tactics, and mentalities appropriate for the job. My time in mental health counseling serving DYS, residential and community positions strongly informs this position.

In my career, I have learned, practiced, implemented and learned again deescalation techniques and tools. Although I have also been taught defensive interventions and even restraints. By far, the deescalation tools have helped me the most effectively and the most frequently. For the majority of my career, I worked in a residential setting, where I had the privilege of training non-clinical colleagues on the principles of deescalation and safe, compassionate physical restraint. We always taught that going "hands on" was an absolute last resort, but, due to the acute nature of the population we served, I, unfortunately, had to engage physically several dozen times over the course of a few short years. In that work, I was bit, punched, stabbed, spit on, kicked, grabbed between the legs and pulled by the hair.

Never once, in my career, have I had the luxury of a combative union which would fight for my job if I choked someone to death. Moreover, never once have I felt as if the free reign to strangle even the most violently dysregulated client would have made me any safer in the long run. This distinction is important for those using the narrow lens of exclusive prioritization of officer safety at any cost. Even ignoring the rampant brutalization of disproportionately Black, Brown, poor, and mentally ill civilians in crisis, different tactics will also translate into greater officer safety. In my residential work (and elsewhere in my career), we saw every day that the safest strategy for client safety was also the safest strategy for our own: responding with calm compassion and connection.

Thank you for your time and movement forward of a bill the will increase ALL of your safety and well-being.

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

Massachusetts can take a necessary step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S.2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair, and just commonwealth that values Black lives and people of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, chokeholds, tear gas and other chemical weapons that have no place in our communities.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms. Act for your Black constituents and communities.

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Kerry Dipietro and I live at 6 Cooks Farm Lane, Lynnfield. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are: regulations of their respective departments, not just police officers. Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously unrealistic lawsuits.

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Seth Wyatt and I live at 30 Pond St, Bridgewater, MA 02324. I work at Old Colony Correctional Center and am a Correction Officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

Qualified Immunity: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

Less than Lethal Tools: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

Civilian Oversight: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Seth Wyatt

Subject: S.2820

Good morning,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

I am a Black man, a Black son, a Black brother, a Black dad, a Black uncle, and a Black grandson in America. What more do I need to say to you? The fact that I am urging you to support such a common-sense bill is why we say Black Lives Matter. In my opinion, this bill does not even go as far as I would like to see in police reform. It is a simple police accountability bill. It bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment. And if we can't get behind in simple act, I don't know what we will.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Please do the right thing and support this bill SB.2800.

Subject: Fwd: [External]: Police Reform Bill

Good morning,

I am writing to you in regards to the Police Reform bill that was just passed in the Senate, I am not sure what all 143 amendments entail on the bill, but I am NOT in favor of removing "qualified Immunity " as it is written in this bill.

I strongly believe that this will create a much more dangerous environment for EVERYONE , but especially for the police. An officer should be able to do his job without fear of being "sued" while performing the normal duties of a police officer. We live in a society where we make it easy for people to do just that already, and I believe this will just give them the "green light " for it to be done even more.

My hope is that the House will not rush this bill, as the Senate did, without speaking with those who actually serve in law enforcement and really seeing that "item" will have a tremendous impact on their everyday decisions on duty and whether or not it is actually worth the risk to stay in law enforcement .

My understanding of "qualified immunity" is that an officer is not exempt from being sued if he is in violation of his duty, so not sure why the push to do away with it. I don't understand why their cannot just be punishment or removal of an office who actually does something bad or illegal, without jeopardizing the livelihoods of all of the police who actually do the right thing.

In our normal jobs, we are give verbal , and written warnings and then let people go . Why can't this apply to police? I also think it is "insane" for people to think," well, I could be sued " at their normal job, when, lets be honest, the 99 % of people that police will have interactions, are not law abiding citizens.

I also fear, that instead of this helping to get good qualified candidates for policing, you are now going to have a much smaller pool to choose from, because, quite honestly, who would want this job. It is already stressful enough, this would make it more so and right or wrong, is it really worth the risk. Its one thing to be killed or hurt on the job, because you want to make a difference, but it is entirely different to go to work everyday, knowing that no matter what you do, someone could file a lawsuit against you.

I hope you will carefully consider this item in the bill before voting to pass it.

Reform with training, remove the police who have a long record of abuse but don't hurt the good Police.

Dear Governor Baker,

My name is Jane Mauro and I live at 256 Halfway Pond Rd, Plymouth, Mass. As your constituent, I write to you today to express staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously unrealistic lawsuits.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Jane Mauro (for all my voting family)

I am a resident of Milton and a Sergeant for the Norwood Police. I, like any decent person, was horrified to watch George Floyd's murder. I realize that people in my profession have caused a great deal of damage to minority communities in the past, and I am motivated to make law enforcement better in the future. I am saddened that it took Mr. Floyd's murder to get people moving.

I am seriously concerned with a few of the items put forth by the Senate, and I am entrusting the House will correct these things. One of these items that I feel will have an extremely negative impact on my profession is ending qualified immunity. Police officers make split second decisions in rapidly evolving and dynamic situations, and we do so to protect the public. Qualified immunity DOES NOT and SHOULD NOT protect us, should we violate clearly established law, or prove to be incompetent. Qualified immunity does shield police, and many other public officials, including yourself, from frivolous lawsuits. In a recent study done by UCLA, researchers found that courts only accept a qualified immunity defense around 12% of the time.

Ending qualified immunity will have a disastrous effect on police hiring. It will be harder to attract quality candidates to effect the change that the profession needs. This comes at a time when our candidate pools are already at all-time lows. We desperately need to attract the best people from our communities to work in law enforcement. Ending qualified immunity for police will be counterproductive to that. Please consider opposing ending qualified immunity for police.

I am also concerned that the Senate's bill takes away due process in disciplinary matters. A right that the Supreme Court has upheld in all civil and criminal cases since the birth of our nation, and a right that organized labor has fought for since its inception. The Senate wishes to create a disciplinary review board with no law enforcement representation to sit in judgement after the fact, to judge an officer's reasonableness. Reasonableness being the key operating term set forth by the Supreme Court in many landmark use of force cases. Unless politicians and activists can say that their knowledge supercedes the US Supreme court, then it becomes essential that the review boards are compromised at least partially by law enforcement. What can a community activist speak to in terms of reasonableness of a job they know nothing about, except as an uninformed observer?

I ask you to help law enforcement effectively keep our communities safe. The unintended consequences of the Senate's bill will reap a whirlwind of consequences for our communities if left unchecked by the House.

Dear Committee Chairs:

Thank you for considering the concerns and views of all citizens when working to reform police standards and resources. This bill impacts my family greatly as we are a police family and I am a public school educator. My family is fully committed to our community on Cape Cod and across the Commonwealth.

What happened last week in the Senate was incredibly discouraging to all public servants. We were particularly disappointed in our local elected officials who either did not speak with local police departments or chose to "ride the wave" of the media who generalize our population as "Black lives" or "Blue lives." We are also voters; many of whom will be voting differently when our senator's term is up for reelection. But, above all else, we are humans and it is our job to take care of each other. We simply ask that our representatives remain transparent, research this bill from all perspectives before making a decision and consider repercussions of proposed changes to Qualified Immunity.

It is a common occurrence in our home to discuss how we can work as a family to increase awareness of communities of color, particularly on Cape Cod, and increase diversity in our neighborhoods. We also discuss who would choose to become a police officer during these times? Without the support from our elected officials, who understand the challenges and trauma officers (and their families!) face on a daily basis, we are afraid we will not have quality law enforcement to keep us safe. My husband, who has been in law enforcement for over 25 years, has always said, "Everyone deserves to get home safely at the end of the day. That's my number one job." Please consider these words as your job, too, when considering the police reform package. I welcome a conversation with anyone who wishes to hear from a family with a long history of public service.

Greetings;

I stand with you as you work to advance the profession of policing to a more fair, just, equitable and transparent system that is free of racism, bias, brutality and injustice. As a veteran police officer with over 20 years of experience I know that all of those things; racism, bias, brutality and injustice, exist in our society.

I believe that black lives matter...black lives are important and they should be valued no more or no less than any other lives. We are one, or at least we should be. I also recognize that for too long injustice has existed on city streets, in small towns, in schools, the business world, courtrooms as well as other institutions that should discourage and prevent injustice.

When I think of the magnitude of the problems we as a society face, I am frightened at the idea of the size, scale and magnitude of a solution that will be needed for a meaningful impact in our society.

Any process implemented to BEGIN to address these issues must be a reflection of the desired outcome; fairness, equity, transparency...and my favorite word as a police officer; REASONABLENESS.

I urge you to ensure that members of a certification/decertification review board for police conduct are qualified as a professional in a field or discipline that reflects some of the many issues police officers are faced with. These include; law, social services, defensive tactics, de-escalation, mediation, conflict resolution, use of force, psychology, juvenile issues, addiction, domestic violence, etc.

I wish you all the best as you work toward improving and advancing the profession of policing. Your is no easy task.

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership.

Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP.

To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated.

SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down qualified immunity in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated.

Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status.

Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers.

I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, and 52, as well as amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Dear Chair Michlewitz, and honorable members of the Committee,

I write today in support of the S. 2820 the Reform, Shift, and Build Act. Please support a strong bill that improves police accountability, including:

- * A ban on racial profiling and racial data collection on all traffic and pedestrian stops, including ones that do not result in a citation;
- * Creation of the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to certify and decertify police officers, and to ensure that police officers who commit misconduct cannot simply move from town to town and remain officers;
- * A moratorium on the use of facial recognition technology;
- * Restrictions on the use of tear gas (which the Geneva Convention holds to be a chemical weapon, the use of which is banned in warfare) and other use of force policies; and
- * Reform of qualified immunity so that officers are no longer immune from violating our basic constitutional rights.

Most importantly, please retain the qualified immunity reform in Section 10 of S. 2820. Under current law, a plaintiff virtually cannot sue unless a previous court has found that the exact same conduct, in the exact same circumstances—no matter how egregious—was a constitutional violation. This includes situations such as the one Senator Brownsberger described in detail on the Senate floor in which officers in Massachusetts forced a woman to have her vagina searched. Civilians deserve the ability to hold police officers accountable for egregious violations of their rights.

It came to my attention that last night the MA Senate passed the bill to end qualified immunity for police officers. I am appalled that the legislature of such importance was passed without a public hearing.

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

A horrible death happened in Minnesota and everybody condemned it. But why the whole profession of policemen is punished for that? I talked to Brookline police and there has been not a single incident of police brutality for the years of existence of Brookline police. Massachusetts police in general is an exemplary organization. Why are you in such a hurry of changing the law? This new law will harm not only police but the whole population of Massachusetts.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

To Whom It May Concern;

I write to give testimony on the bill before the House. I understand some points of this bill are to codify actions and non-actions that many of our police departments already do, however I am confused why it is necessary to change the "qualified immunity" of first responders. Why is that necessary when there is already a mechanism in place for victims to sue if there is negligence on the part of the first responder? If there is no negligence - why would it be necessary to sue? Who is going to pay for the first responder's attorney? How long will a first responder's family have to endure a court process for something they did while DOING THIER JOB without negligence? Not only is it unjust, it is going to clog our, already overloaded, court systems with petty lawsuits.

I just don't understand why this is necessary?

I believe limiting qualified immunity is the absolute wrong decision here and will have far-reaching consequences that are not currently apparent. This is a heated world we are living in and there is a rush to judgment here.

By all accounts, we have the finest, most courageous first responders in the entire country - the Boston Marathon bombing was a true testament to that. Please ask yourself do we want that care to change? Do we want their reactions to situations to change because they are concerned about being personally sued?

Is this really necessary?

Sincerely,

Subject: Testimony Regarding S.2820

Dear members of House leadership;

I am writing to you today in regards to proposed legislation S.2820. I am concerned that this bill does almost nothing to prevent state violence against Black people or stop the flow of Black people into jails and prisons.

I believe S.2820 will cause more harm than good by increasing spending on law enforcement through training and training commissions, expanding the power of law enforcement officials to oversee law enforcement agencies, and making no fundamental changes to the function and operation of policing in the Commonwealth. Real change requires that we shrink the power and responsibilities of law enforcement and shift resources from policing into most-impacted communities. The definition of law enforcement must include corrections officers who also enact racist violence on our community members.

Instead of increased funding for police training and commissions, communities need investments in healthcare (including mental health services, trauma healing, and non-punitive non-coercive substance use treatment), dignified and truly affordable housing, access to nutritious food, clean well-maintained parks, art and cultural opportunities, education, and living-wage jobs. We must fund these resources in a way that builds power for members of directly-impacted Black and Brown communities to lead in developing the programs and services that are most needed in their own neighborhoods. Investment in and connection to community, not law enforcement, is the key to true public safety. People need to be able to move safely throughout their communities and stay connected to their neighbors without fear of surveillance or police harassment.

If the Massachusetts legislature were serious about protecting Black lives and addressing systemic racism, this bill would eliminate cornerstones of racist policing including implementing a ban without exceptions on pretextual traffic stops and street stops and frisks. The legislature should decriminalize driving offenses which are a major gateway into the criminal legal system for Black and Brown people and poor and working class people. Rather than limiting legislation to moderate reforms and data collection, the legislature should shut down fusion centers, erase gang databases, and permanently ban facial surveillance by all state agencies including the RMV. In addition we must also support the demands of student-led efforts to remove police from schools.

The way forward is to shrink the role and powers of police, fund Black and Brown communities, and defund the systems of harm and punishment which have failed to bring people of color safety and wellbeing. S.2820 does not help us get there.

Thank you for your attention on this important matter.

Sincerely,

Melanie Patten

Subject: Opposed to S2800

My name is Nicole E. Medina and I live at 33 Dietz Road, Hyde Park. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2800, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It strips Constitutional Rights from police officers, the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction.

Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

reasonably and in compliance with the rules and regulations of their respective departments, not just police officers. Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously unrealistic lawsuits.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, and law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

You have been elected to make decisions for US and I urge you to support legislation not motivated serving to retaliate in anger and malice. I also urge you to consider giving up your own legislative immunity to show your confidence if you choose to support this bill.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Nicole E. Medina

Subject: Objections to S.2800

Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin

Massachusetts House of Representatives

24 Beacon Street

Boston, MA 02133

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Michelle Wilson and I live at 769 Forest Street, North Andover, Massachusetts.

I am writing to express my opposition to the current Senate bill S.2800, which was passed in the Massachusetts Senate this week and is being heard tomorrow by you the Massachusetts House of Representatives for consideration.

My oppositions to this bill are very simple and straight-forward. First, this bill will change the current legal standard of the Qualified Immunity doctrine in Massachusetts state courts. The present standard allows the courts to consider past precedent and established legal authority, and the information the public official possessed at the time of their alleged illegal action when determining whether the doctrine will apply to a public official defendant before a case can go forward.

S.2800 would change the established legal standard to only allow the court to consider what every reasonable defendant would have understood as being illegal at the time of their alleged illegal action before allowing the case to go forward. This shift in legal doctrine would completely ignore the bedrock legal doctrine of stare decisis and legal precedent, and prohibit courts from benefiting from past decisions, both mandatory and persuasive, that would apply to the case at bar.

This will completely erode Qualified Immunity because it places far too much subjectivity into the decision whether to bring forward cause of action against a public employee. A finder of fact will be left to make their decisions in a vacuum, without the benefit of fairness and established legal precedents.

Secondly, I oppose S.2800 because of the changes it makes to the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act or "MCRA." Currently, under the MCRA, a plaintiff's case may only go forward against a public employee for acts that interfere with the exercise and enjoyment of [a citizen's] constitutional rights, as well as rights secured by the constitution or laws of the Commonwealth, where such interference of constitutional or statutory rights were achieved or attempted through threats, intimidation or coercion.

The proposed changes in § 10(b) of S.2800 completely delete the requirements of threats, intimidation and coercion be present in a public employee's alleged violation of the plaintiffs constitutional rights. This will, in effect, open the flood-gates for causes of action to be brought in Massachusetts state courts under the MCRA under this weakened standard. As you are aware, causes of action that lie under the MCRA are eligible for consideration of awarding attorney's fees if there is a favorable verdict for the plaintiff. What will stop unscrupulous plaintiffs and their attorneys from filing suit under this weakened standard in an attempt to exact a quick settlement that includes attorney's fees? The gatekeeper will be asleep at the wheel, as the finders of fact will have no way to dismiss these frivolous claims before they make their way into court.

Finally, please consider the families, children, spouses and public employees themselves when making your decisions regarding this piece of flawed legislation. Qualified Immunity was established to shield public employees who act in good faith from frivolous and exhortative law suits. The erosions of S.2800 will place hardworking and dedicated public employees in a position where personal liability could apply in situations where it never should. Are their homes, college savings accounts, retirement accounts and personal assets so under-valued that they should be forfeited to settle damages in these cases? Our public employees, especially our police officers, deserve better.

I implore you to take more time and truly consider the far reaching implications of this bill. There is no doubt that there are things that need to change in law enforcement, but this is not how they should change. A bill that is filed as a knee-jerk reaction in attempt to solve a real problem will only create more problems. Discussion, conversation, debate, opposition and objection, are all cornerstones to our democratic process. We must use them, even embrace them, in order to find a solution to police reform that is both meaningful and pragmatic.

Sincerely,

Michelle Wilson

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms."

Subject: Written Testimony

I would like to thank you for allowing a to submit my thoughts on An Act to Reform Police Standards (S2820). This will shape the future of policing here in the Commonwealth. I have seen my share of changes in the over two decades that I have been a police officer, but I have not seen the kind of vitriol that has been aimed at Police in general over the last month or so. I am a Grafton police officer and take pride in the fact that we in Massachusetts are ahead of the curve in the way we do things and the way we deal people. I believe S2820 is well intentioned, but does actually hinder police officers in their jobs in several important areas. The last thing we need is a police officer hesitating to decide if he can afford to make a life or death decision based on financial reasons and possible liability.

I want to state that I believe that almost all police officers do what they believe is right at the time without malice trying to get the best outcome for everyone involved. I believe the training we receive now is ahead of the curve for most of the country. I am all for more training because a smart police officer is a better police officer but I also don't believe we do not need to reinvent the wheel. The most important issues being the following. The first being Decertification process. If POSAC claims jurisdiction after one year regardless of of any local investigation it will circumvent on the rights of the officer to collective bargaining rights and due process they have negotiated. Next, I feel the the Board for decertification should have a background in such things as law, use of force, defensive tactics, firearms, psychology and social science. Having civilians without experience or expertise to decertify an officer runs contrary to any other such oversight board in the Commonwealth. Are other professionals such as doctors or lawyers are not judged by civilian review boards and neither should professional police officers. Finally, The issue of Qualified Immunity is not cut and dry. It is a very complex issue. It is far from guaranteed for police officers and is only granted if specific criteria are met. This issue should be addressed very carefully by a board or committee made up of legal experts and the judges who have experience in these matters. They can make recommendations based on their discussions.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions or if you wish further input.

To whom it may concern,

I have no other way to express the outrage I feel towards the proposed S2800 Bill.

I am sure you are being inundated with similar emails so I will keep this short:

The lack of due process is appalling. The complete disregard for the challenges and situations that police officers and other first responders are faced with and the decisions they have to make within seconds are being totally ignored. I have serious concerns that passage of this bill will negatively impact the ability of law enforcement and other first responders to properly perform their duties and the public will suffer because of this.

Please take these concerns and all others seriously when voting on this Bill.

Thank you.

Subject: S.2820

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin

My name is Zhanna Chatsman. I reside at 422 Boston street, North Andover, MA, 01845.

I've been a naturalized US citizen for decades.

First of all - we appreciate all the great work you personally make for the good of our community.

I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, which to me and to many of my friends gives an impression as being a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong. Any legislation with such a profound effect on public safety should be brought up to a voters referendum. We, the public whose safety is at stake, should be able to have a vote and say on it.

In addition to the above point, I as a Jew, being born in Soviet Union, who personally experienced antisemitism and racism in the old world, view this bill as racist. We are all equal here in this great country. We have no institutionalized racism and I urge you to keep it that way. A bill that specifically calls out one race is racist.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction.

Subject: [External]: Please pass a strong omnibus bill to increase police accountability

Dear Rep. Domb

As your constituent, I'm writing to ask you include three essential measures in any legislation on police accountability and racial justice. Please prohibit violent police tactics, impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is not immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights. Banning violent police tactics is meaningless if there is no way for people to hold the police accountable when they break the rules. Victims of police brutality deserve justice.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing. The dangers of face surveillance and systemic racism in policing will not evaporate in mere months. The moratorium on the use of this technology should not be lifted until the legislature enacts meaningful regulation to guard against racial bias, invasions of privacy, and violations of due process

Massachusetts has an opportunity to be a leader in this nationwide movement—and as your constituent I implore you to take that opportunity to do the right thing. We need to deliver racial justice to Black and Brown people in our state, and that starts with baseline police accountability through robust legislation.

Please work to include the above provisions in the final version of this bill.

* Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification

I strongly believe that these reforms are in the best interest of every citizen, and that ultimately they will restore full confidence in the integrity of all branches of law enforcement in the Commonwealth. I personally believe that a very small number of officers have damaged this confidence, and that because of the current lack of accountability and regulation confidence in the entire system has been eroded. This is unfair to the vast majority of dedicated law enforcement professionals who serve us, often at great risk to themselves.

Subject: S2820 & Qualified Immunity - Volunteer Fire Services

Hi:

I realize that the move to modify or eliminate qualified immunity is focused on police and policing, and I fear that without any analysis at all we are going to modify or eliminate it for fire and rescue personnel. I am the chief of a combination fire department (mostly volunteer fire department) and suddenly without any data, analysis, or discussion I'm told that this legislation will eliminate qualified immunity for fire and rescue personnel, including volunteers. (About 40% of Massachusetts firefighters are volunteers.) We in the fire service haven't had any chance to study or consider this issue as it relates to our staff, and in particular how it relates to those departments that rely upon volunteer or call firefighters.

I feel that before making any changes to qualified immunity we need to understand how it will change the rights and responsibilities of fire and rescue personnel and their departments. Will a person be able to bring suit personally against the fire officer commanding a fire if the house burns down claiming some hidden intent? Is that the intent, or will this be an unintended consequence of rushing to judgement on this issue. Will volunteer rescuers have to hire lawyers or worry someone could place on their house while suing them for failing to rescue a drowning family member? There has been no opportunity to explore these issues and their impact on the provision of fire and rescue services, particularly by volunteers.

Please keep in mind, that qualified immunity does not shield fire and rescue personnel from intentional crimes, and that we are not immune from negligence while driving or malpractice while treating patients.

I urge you take the time to look at the potential for widespread unanticipated consequences before enacting this particular change.

Thank you,

Chief Joseph V. Maruca

Subject: Veto Police Reform Bill

Good Morning,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Good morning,

I think what saddens and frustrates me the most about this bill is that it is very evident that those who created it have not taken the time to actually educate themselves about policing in the state of Massachusetts.

Folks, we don't practice nor does any department condone the use of a chokehold. It is not part of our use of force continuum training...educate yourselves please!!

There is language in this bill that requires training of police in Massachusetts in order to de-escalate situations, particularly when encountering people with mental health concerns. It's already being done, and has been part of our training for quite awhile now. Educate yourselves please.

And speaking of education, I wonder if anyone on this committee has ever actually asked to see the levels of education that are held by people in this profession? They might be surprised to learn just how well educated this profession is.

It is extremely insulting, alarming and demeaning to have myself and my colleagues' integrity, professionalism, courtesy, civility, capability, life experience and education, called into question without an actual discussion or educated evaluation before implementing such gross changes to the law enforcement profession.

Hey folks, you represent us ALL and you have done us a HUGE disservice to push such language through without the benefit of educating yourselves as to what services we actually provide and the exceptional work we do within our community, on a daily basis, even in the midst of this maelstrom we find ourselves in currently.

My department has implemented innovative means to deal with homelessness and addiction problems. My colleagues have worked hand in hand with local and state personnel to make these changes. My colleagues, not you, have written grants to get social workers attached to us to help with these programs. WE ARE ALREADY DOING those things that you want to mandate. Educate yourselves please!!

In summary, this push for reform, without any (clearly) intent to educate the decision making members, frustrates, saddens and angers me. There is always room for improvement, opportunity for discussion, opportunity to make changes, but this is clearly not the way to go about it. I will be leaving the profession that I've worked very hard at earlier than I intended as I am tired of being the target of people's wrath, disdain, and ignorance. My family deserves a happier and healthier mom.

Sincerely,

A Barnstable Police Officer

Subject: PLEASE SIGN THE REFORM SHIFT AND BUILD ACT

Hello - my name is Jessica Goodman and I am a resident of Somerville, MA (zip code 02143).

I am writing to urge the House to sign the Reform, Shift and Build Act for several reasons.

* I strongly support the measurements in this act that hold police accountable and creates a process for certifying and decertifying police officers. MA deserves to trust the police officers that are helping to keep our communities safe and to remove officers from duty if they are abusing their power.

* Banning the use of chokeholds and limiting the use of tear gas is an important step to removing these inhumane practices.

* Making school resource officers optional is an important step to reducing the school to prison pipeline that affects so many minority students.

* Creating a Community Policing and Behavioral Health Advisory Council will help give communities the care they need.

I also urge you to add the following provisions to the bill

- * ban the use of no-knock warrants
- * raise the age of juvenile jurisdiction to 21
- * ban the use of facial recognition technology

Please pass a STRONG Reform, Shift and Build Act that prioritizes police accountability and racial justice.

Thank you,
Jessica

Subject: Vote NO to S.2820

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: [External]: Please pass a strong omnibus bill to increase police accountability

Dear Rep. Domb

As your constituent, I'm writing to ask you include three essential measures in any legislation on police accountability and racial justice.

Please prohibit violent police tactics, impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is not immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights. Banning violent police tactics is meaningless if there is no way for people to hold the police accountable when they break the rules. Victims of police brutality deserve justice.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing. The dangers of face surveillance and systemic racism in policing will not evaporate in mere months. The moratorium on the use of this technology should not be lifted until the legislature enacts meaningful regulation to guard against racial bias, invasions of privacy, and violations of due process

Massachusetts has an opportunity to be a leader in this nationwide movement—and as your constituent I implore you to take that opportunity to do the right thing. We need to deliver racial justice to Black and Brown people in our state, and that starts with baseline police accountability through robust legislation.

Please work to include the above provisions in the final version of this bill.

Sincerely,

Subject: Reforming Police Standards. House Bill 4398

To House of Representatives,

What do Police, Fire, Ems, Nurses, and Doctors all have in common? They all chose a career path that serves the public. Most of these people chose this path to make a difference. These jobs are stressful and often thankless. Some people say "well they get paid well", and that may be true, however the abuse that first responders deal with is not worth the money. The positive changes that first responders make in people's lives every day is worth every penny. When you save a life and you are able to tell a family that their loved one is ok is truly the best feeling in the world. But when you have to tell a family member that their loved one did not make it, it is devastating for all involved. First responders are human and have feelings too. They do not deserve the abuse they deal with every day. If you are a victim of a crime you want the police to respond to help you. If you are in car accident you want police, fire, ems, and the medical team to care for you. If you take Qualified Immunity away from these individuals you are taking their protection away. They set out every day to serve and protect. They run towards the emergencies as others are running away. They risk their lives to save others. They should be able to do the jobs they are trained to do without fear and hesitation. They should be able to return home every night to their families. They should be protected.

Qualified Immunity was designed to protect first responders from harassment, distraction, and liability when they perform their duties responsibly. I am not saying that those who commit crimes should not be held accountable for their actions.

I would say most go to work every day and perform their duties responsibly and they never plan on causing harm intentionally. As a nurse taking qualified immunity away would make me hesitate to stop at a car accident to help, because of the fear of if there is a poor outcome what could happen to me.

When a police officer responds to a call they should do the job they are trained to do. They should not have to second guess whether or not they are doing it correctly or what the consequences are if the call ends poorly. They should know that if they do the job they are trained to do then they will be protected and supported. Not crucified.

Taking Qualified Immunity away puts a target on all first responders. People are always looking to make money they will sue anyone they can. They are always looking to put the blame on someone else. Taking Qualified Immunity away will leave first responders second guessing if they should help someone or if they should wait for more support to arrive, in some cases seconds mean life or death.

Every area of public service has review boards and every time there is a question about an outcome the case is reviewed. All of the boards that review these cases are panels of experts that are familiar with that specialty. You can not have regular civilians reviewing these cases because they do not have the knowledge or qualifications to make those judgements.

Instead of taking Qualified Immunity away, why not put more education in place so all first responders can have the best training possible. So they can do the job they all love to do.

Subject: Norfolk Resident, Vote AGAINST S2800!

Dear Representative Dooley,

My name is Shana Cottone and I live in Norfolk, MA. I am writing this letter to voice my concern that again no public hearing was held on this matter and given no other choice, I am submitting this letter as my written testimony. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my disagreement with any hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth and encourage you to vote against Senate bill 2800 submitted to the House of Representatives. It deprives police officers of Massachusetts any basic protections afforded to all other public employees in Massachusetts. It is a rush to judgment being developed behind closed doors. Issues of policing, health and human services, and race are too important to be rushed. Of the many concerns, the following in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety because police officers may become more concerned about personal liability than public safety.

The proposed changes to QI will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues.

Unintended and unnecessary changes to QI will hamstring police offices in the course of their duties because they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions. Officers may second guess doing what is necessary for public safety and protecting the community because of concerns about legal exposure.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse, and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and policy participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally nontransparent.

The original version of the bill was over 70 pages and had multiple changes to public safety sections of the general laws. It was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for Senators to digest/caucus and receive public comment. This process was a sham.

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased.

The Governor and supports of the bill promised to use the 160 or so professional regulatory agencies as a guide for police certification. The senate instead created a board without precedent. The 15-member board proposed to oversee, and judge police officers includes no more than six police officers and four of those police officers will be management/Chief representatives. The remainder of the committee will be dominated by groups critical of law enforcement, if not parties that regularly sue police and law enforcement. The civilian members on the board will lack any familiarity with the basic training, education or standards that apply to police officers. All the other 160 boards include a strong majority of workers from the profession supplemented by a few individuals to represent the general public. Imagine if police officers were appointed to a board to oversee teachers licenses!

4. The removal or any change to Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques that all police personnel unequivocally support.

All police organizations support major parts of the bill: strengthening standards and training; having a state body that certifies police officers; banning excessive force techniques and enhancing the diversity process. Once we have uniform standards and policies and a statutory ban of certain use-of-force techniques then officers and the public will know the standards that apply to police officers and conduct that is unaccepted and unprotected by QI.

This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets.

5. Police Officers Deserve the same Due Process Afforded to all Other Public Employees

Public employees and their unions have a right for discipline to be reviewed by a neutral, independent expert in labor relations - whether an arbitrator or the Civil Service Commission. This bill makes the Commissioner's decisions or the new Committee's decisions the final authority on certain offenses.

We should affirm the right of all employees to seek independent review of employer discipline at arbitration or civil service.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,

Shana Cottone

Dear Senator HWMJudiciary

My name is Jane Mauro and I live at 256 Halfway Pond Rd, Plymouth, Mass. As your constituent, I write to you today to express staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously unrealistic lawsuits.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

"Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin, please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color".

Please consider the concerns raised below by my fellow Chiefs of Police raised in a letter submitted by Chelsea Police and Major Cities Chiefs President Chief Brian Keyes and Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association President Chief Jeff Farnsworth. As Chief's we place great value on training and education for our staff and welcome improvements to the existing system in the state. Concerns about altering the longstanding practice with respect to qualified immunity must be carefully considered if there is potential for unintended pitfalls that will adversely impact the quality of police service and exposure to municipalities. Thank you for your consideration.

Ron Madigan

Chief of Police Swampscott

The list that follows corresponds to the Section Numbers in Senate 2820 with the applicable line numbers:

- SECTION 4 (line 230): Under (iv), the provision states that there shall be training in the area of the "history of slavery, lynching, racist institutions and racism in the United States." While we certainly welcome any and all training that enhances the professionalism and understanding of our officers, we are somewhat perplexed as to why law enforcement will now be statutorily mandated to have such a class to the exclusion of any other government entity?

One would believe that based on this particular mandate that the issue of what is inferred to as "racist institutions" is strictly limited to law enforcement agencies which aside from being incredibly inaccurate is also insulting to police officers here in the Commonwealth.

- SECTION 6 (line 272): In terms of the establishment of a POST (Peace Officer Standards and Training) Program, the various police chief's organizations here in our state wholeheartedly support the general concept. That said, the acronym of POSAC (Police Officer Standards Accreditation and Accreditation Committee) is causing significant confusion both in this bill and in the Governor's Bill. POST has nothing to do with Accreditation per se but has everything to do with Certification - and by implication "De-certification". In this state, there currently exists a Massachusetts Police Accreditation Commission (MPAC) for over 20 years which is made up of members of Law Enforcement (Chiefs, Ranking Officers), Municipal Government, and Colleges/Universities (Chiefs) in which currently 93 police agencies are accredited based on the attainment of national standards modeled from the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA). Utilizing the word "Accreditation" in the title is definitely misleading and should be eliminated. To the best of our knowledge 46 other states use the acronym POST which seems to work without any problems or a need to create a new description of the important program.

- SECTION 6 (line 282): The Senate Bill states that POSAC shall be comprised of "14 members", however as outlined there are actually 15 positions. The MCOPA is strongly advocating for two (2) seats on the POSAC to be appointed by the MCOPA Executive Committee.

- SECTION 6 (line 321) : It appears from the language of the POSAC provision that the committee shall have the power to conduct what is referred to as "independent investigations and adjudications of complaints of officer misconduct" without any qualifying language as to how that would be implemented in terms of what type of alleged misconduct (law violations, use of force, injury, rude complaints, etc.) and when and under what circumstances will adjudications be subject to review resulting in a proposed oversight system that could go down the slippery slope of becoming arbitrary and capricious at some point and subject to a high level of scrutiny and criticism.

- SECTION 10(c) (line 570): Section 10 of "An Act to Reform Police Standards and Shift Resources to Build a more Equitable, Fair and Just Commonwealth that Values Black Lives and Communities of Color" (the Act) is problematic, not only for law enforcement in the Commonwealth, but all public employees. In particular, Section 10 calls for a re-write of the existing provisions in Chapter 12, section 11I, pertaining to violations of constitutional rights, commonly referred to as the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act (MCRA). The MCRA is similar to the provisions of 42 U.S.C. § 1983 (setting for a federal cause of action for a deprivation of statutory or constitutional rights by one acting under color of law), except however, that the provisions of the MCRA as it exists today, does not require that the action be taken under color of state law, as section 1983 does. See G.L. c. 12, § 11H. Most notably, Section 10 of the Act would change that, and permit a person to file suit against an individual, acting under color of law, who inter alia deprives them of the exercise or enjoyment of rights secured by the constitution or laws of the United States or the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. By doing so, the Senate is attempting to draw the parallel between the federal section 1983 claim and the state based MCRA claims. The qualified immunity principles developed under section 1983 apply equally to claims under the MCRA. See Duarte v. Healy, 405 Mass. 43, 46-48, 537 N.E.2d 1230 (1989). "The doctrine of qualified immunity shields public officials who are performing discretionary functions, not ministerial in nature, from civil liability in § 1983 [and MCRA] actions if at the time of the performance of the discretionary act, the constitutional or statutory right allegedly infringed was not 'clearly established.'" Laubinger v. Department of Rev., 41 Mass. App. Ct. 598, 603, 672 N.E.2d 554 (1996), citing Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818, 102 S.Ct. 2727, 73 L.Ed.2d 396 (1982); see Breault v. Chairman of the Bd. of Fire Commrs. of Springfield, 401 Mass. 26, 31-32, 513 N.E.2d 1277 (1987), cert. denied sub nom. Forastiere v. Breault, 485 U.S. 906, 108 S.Ct. 1078, 99 L.Ed.2d 237 (1988); Duarte v. Healy, supra at 47-48, 537 N.E.2d 1230. In enacting the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act, the Legislature intended to adopt the standard of immunity for public officials developed under section 1983, that is, public officials who exercised discretionary functions are entitled to qualified immunity from liability for damages. Howcroft v. City of Peabody, 747 N.E.2d 729, Mass. App. 2001. Public officials are not liable under the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act for their discretionary acts unless they have violated a right under federal or state constitutional or statutory law that was "clearly established" at the time. Rodriguez v. Furtado, 410 Mass. 878, 575 N.E.2d 1124 (1991); Duarte v. Healy, 405 Mass. 43, 537 N.E.2d 1230 (1989). Section 1983 does not only implicate law enforcement personnel. The jurisprudence in this realm has also involved departments of social services, school boards and committees, fire personnel, and various other public employees. That being said, if the intent of the Senate is to bring the MCRA more in line with section 1983, anyone implicated by section 1983, will likewise be continued to be implicated by the provisions of the MCRA. Notably, the provisions of the MCRA are far broader, which should be even more cause for concern for those so implicated. Section 10 of the Act further sets for a new standard for the so-called defense of "qualified immunity." Section 10(c) states that "In an action under this section, qualified immunity shall not apply to claims for monetary damages except upon a finding that, at the time the conduct complained of occurred, no reasonable defendant could have had reason to believe that such conduct would violate the law" This definition represents a departure from the federal standard for qualified immunity, although the exact extent to which it departs from the federal standard is up for debate, at least until the SJC provides clarification on it. The federal doctrine of qualified immunity shields public officials of all types from liability under section 1983 so long as their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known. Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800 (1982). Stated differently, in order to conclude that the right which the official allegedly violated is "clearly established," the contours of the right must be sufficiently clear that a reasonable official would understand that what he is doing violates that right. Anderson v. Creighton, 483 U.S. 635 (1987). It protects all but the plainly incompetent and those who knowingly violate the law. Malley v. Briggs, 475 U.S. 335 (1986). As a result, the standard sought to be created under Section 10 of the Act would provide public employees with substantially less protection than that afforded under the federal standard.

"Qualified immunity balances two important interests - the need to hold public officials accountable when they exercise power irresponsibly and the need to shield officials from harassment, distraction, and liability when they perform their duties reasonably." Pearson v. Callahan, 555 U.S. 223 (2009). Furthermore, although the Senate's version of "qualified immunity" would only apply to state-based claims under the MCRA, what Section 10 proposes is fairly similar to that proposed by the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals in various decisions. In those instances where the 9th Circuit sought to lower the standard applicable to qualified immunity, the U.S. Supreme Court has squarely reversed the 9th Circuit, going so far as scolding it for its attempts to do so. See Kisela v. Hughes, 138 S.Ct. 1148 (2018); City of Escondido v. Emmons, 139 S.Ct. 500 (2019). Although legal scholars and practitioners have a grasp as to the meaning of qualified immunity as it exists today, uncertainty will abound if this standard is re-written, upending nearly fifty years of jurisprudence. Uncertainty in the law can only guarantee an influx in litigation as plaintiffs seek to test the new waters as the new standard is expounded upon by the courts.

- SECTION 39 (line 1025): The provision to inform both the appointing authority and the local legislative body of the acquisition of any equipment and/or property that serves to enhance public safety makes perfect sense. That said, to have a public hearing available for all in the general public to know exactly what equipment the police departments may or may not possess serves to put communities in jeopardy in that those with nefarious motives will be informed as to what equipment that the department has at its disposal. This is very dangerous.

- SECTION 49 (line 1101-1115): This provision prevents school department personnel and school resource officers (who actually work for police departments), from sharing information with law enforcement officers - including their own agency - when there are ongoing specific unlawful incidents involving violence or otherwise. This quite frankly defies commonsense. School shootings have been on the rise since 2017. Did the Senate quickly forget about what occurred in Parkland, Florida on February 14, 2018? The learning environment in our schools must continue to be safe and secure as possible and information sharing is critical to ensuring that this takes place. Public Safety 101.

- SECTION 50 (line 1116): There seems to be a slight nuance to the amended language to Section 37P of Chapter 71 replacing "in consultation with" to "at the request of." Many police departments have had school resource officer programs in this state for 25 years or longer. The only reason why officers are assigned to the schools are because they have been "requested" to be there by the school superintendents - period. The reality is that many school districts even reimburse the police budgets for the salaries of these officers who serve as mentors for these young middle and high school students. If the Senate is being told that police chiefs are arbitrarily assigning officers to schools without first receiving a specific request from the school superintendents, they are being misled. The 2018 Criminal Justice Reform Act has very specific language that outlines the qualifications of an SRO, the joint performance evaluations that are to be conducted each year, the training that they shall have and the language specific MOUs that must exist between the Schools and the Police Department. We are very confused as to why this provision needs to be included.

- SECTION 52 (lines 1138-1251: There are several recommended changes to data collection and analysis as it pertains to motor stopped motor vehicles and pedestrians in this section. The Hands Free/Data Collection Law was signed into law only a few months ago before the onset of the pandemic. The new law contains a comprehensive system of data collection, benchmarking, review, analyses and potential consequences. While we continue to welcome data that is both accurate and reliable, the issue pertaining to the classification of an operator's race has still yet to be resolved. Before any data from calendar year 2020 has yet to be collected by the RMV and subsequently analyzed by a College/University selected by the Secretary of EOPSS, these provisions now look to complicate the matter even further before a determination has actually been made as to whether any problem of racial or gender profiling actually exists here in our state. We won't belabor the point, but this language appears to be what did not make its way into the Hands-Free Law which as you know was heavily debated for several months based strictly on the data collection component.

- SECTION 55 (line 1272)

To be clear, we do not teach, train, authorize, advocate or condone in any way that choke holds or any type of neck restraint that impedes an individual's ability to breathe be used during the course of an arrest or physical restraint situation. That said, we respect the discussion and concern pertaining to what is now a national issue based on the tragedy in Minneapolis. Under part (d) the language states that "[a] law enforcement officer shall not use a choke hold. [...]" What should also be included is a commonsensical, reasonable and rational provision that states, "unless the officer reasonably believes that his/her life is in immediate jeopardy of imminent death or serious bodily injury." There needs to be a deadly force exception to eliminate any possible confusion that this could cause for an officer who is in the midst of struggling for their life and needs to avail themselves of any and all means that may exist to survive and to control the subject. This is a reasonable and fairly straightforward recommendation.

- [Recommended New Section] Amends GL Chapter 32 Section 91(g): In order to expand the hiring pool of trained, educated, qualified and experienced candidates with statewide institutional knowledge for the Executive Directors' positions for both the Municipal Police Training Committee as well as the newly created POSAC (or POST), the statute governing the payment of pensioners for performing certain services after retirement, shall be amended to allow members of Group 4 within the state retirement system to perform in these two (2) capacities, not to exceed a three (3) year appointment unless specifically authorized by the Governor.

Legislators,

Thank you for accepting public testimony on your impending work on wide ranging policing reform. My name is Jeff Carlson and I am a Patrol Sergeant with the Worcester Police Department. I am writing to you as a voter and a citizen with experience in policing.

Writing "bright line" laws with regard to the use of force is rarely a good idea. If I were called to your home due to an emergency and we both feared serious injury or death, you could lawfully use a chokehold but I could not if 2800 was signed today. I could write numerous glaring examples of why firing at vehicles may be necessary but I think you understand my point.

Police Officers currently have two venues to challenge discipline or termination. Removing one of those venues, a neutral arbitrator, flies in the face of organized labor and part of the system that makes Massachusetts well known as a National model for Professional Police Officers. We should all be proud of how we are viewed around the country. We should support and enhance our Civil Service system and not dismantle it.

My co-workers and I know that change is needed and is inevitable. We are not blind to societal issues. We live these issues every day as we serve the members of our community. Experts in policing, use of force, and Constitutional Law should have a seat at a broad table when attempting to endeavor in such sweeping, transformational legislation.

I believe that there are other serious issues with Bill 2800, as currently written, but I will keep this short. I do not believe that this legislation, as is, will have the intended consequences of enhancing the public safety of our Commonwealth.

Thanks and Best Regards,
Jeff Carlson

Hello,

My name is Julia Smith and I am writing to strongly encourage you to pass the Reform Shift and Build Act. This act could stop abuses of power and halt systemic racism in our policing. Now, more than ever, it is essential that we take this step to acknowledge the faults in the system and put a stop to them. So many of my friends and family members have felt the injustice of this system. From POCs being racially profiled, and stopped on streets for no reason other than the clothes they wear, to the deaths of people like George Floyd, Elijah McClain and Breonna Taylor- there is really only one right answer here. Please consider this Act as a small step in the right direction. I urge you to do the right thing.

Thank you for your time,

To Whom It May Concern,

Please allow the Massachusetts Police an opportunity to present their concerns about the recent police reform bill that passed the Senate. This was a rushed legislation that requires a more thorough examination of what the revisions to "Qualified Immunity" will mean to the police and their ability to protect the public with out fearing unjust legal action.

Police deserve to be heard, and share their testimony and concerns because they are the ones out on the streets facing real time situations.

This may also impact many others in how they react to situations where they either choose to step in and help - or walk away in fear of an overly litigious society.

Yes, there are things that need addressing, however rushing something through so it appears you are doing "something" is NOT the right answer.

Subject: S.2820- Trust and respect for those who put their lives on the line to serve and protect us all

To the Leaders of the House,

My name is Jennifer Mullin. I am a resident of Brimfield in Hampden County.

I write to you today to express my strong opposition to parts of the hastily passed S.2800/ S.2820. I am not typically a very politically-involved person, but the recent events in our country and this bill specifically have been catalysts in moving me toward a much greater interest and understanding of the way things work in our government and the parts of the political process.

In my opinion, there are many traditional practices in this country (and some in this state) that need to be looked at and revised. Unfortunately, time and careful curation of those revisions based on the needs of Massachusetts specifically, has not been provided in the process for this bill.

I spent many hours watching the Senate discuss S.2800 and the recommended amendments. There are parts of this bill that are clearly misunderstood, as evidenced by the information (accurate or not quite so) shared during the debate. There are voices that have not been adequately represented in the short period of time the bill has been available to the public. Based on what I've seen on social media, many people think the goal is to teach the police a lesson, for being bad, more or less. Overwhelmingly, Massachusetts law enforcement officers are not bad when the data is broken down. Nor do they need to be taught a lesson.

Individuals should be held accountable when they do something wrong. I am a third-grade teacher in Sturbridge, and I'm extremely proud to have worked in public education for 15 years. I LOVE what I do. I love helping children grow and learn and discover who they are inside. I help children understand how their actions affect others. I share multiple viewpoints when I teach, especially when it comes to the beginnings of the commonwealth and the country. I model respect.

I'm disheartened when people who don't work in education and are not "in the trenches" get to make many of the decisions.

My husband has wanted to be a Massachusetts State Trooper since he was a little boy growing up in Boston. His dream came true just a few years ago with lots of hard work and dedication. He is a member of the U.S. Coast Guard Reserve who spent most of 2019 away from his family to serve this country. My husband is extremely proud to serve the people of Massachusetts the United States of America.

He's disheartened when people who don't work in policing and are not "in the trenches" get to decide how the future should look in law enforcement.

We have a ten-year-old son. We work hard to teach him to do the right thing even when it's really hard or when no one is watching. We teach him that people are not perfect, nor have they ever been. People make mistakes, but the great thing is- we can learn and grow by making them. A safe future is what I wish for him. I don't know how a future without enough people willing to serve and protect can be safe.

My family does it's fair share to serve others. I dream of a day when more people use their hearts and their knowledge of what's right and just to drive their actions.

I know you know that this is not a popularity contest. It's people's lives and livelihoods on the line.

Thank you for listening. I look forward to your support in treating those who put their lives on the line to serve and protect us all with trust and respect.

Respectfully,

Jennifer Mullin

Dear Rep. Domb,

This follows up on my email urging your vote for S. 2800, the police reform act.

It does not do everything needed to preserve our civil liberties, what little is left of them.

However it does a great deal that we, alas, must put solidly in the Mass. General Laws now for the purpose.

You know that I am a former federal prosecutor. So please feel free to cite me if appropriate.

It is shameful that Massachusetts still needs a law to forbid police rape of people in custody.

Let's be real: Someone in custody has no capacity to consent to sex by a police or corrections officer, and no physical or other ability to resist.

For officers, therefore, rape is free. Enough said.

Thanks for everything you are doing to protect your constituents in this strange time!

My you and yours stay safe -

Best regards,

Sarah

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin and members of the Committees:

I write in support of S.2820, "An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just Commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color."

It is long past due for the state of Massachusetts to show up for its Black and POC residents. We've seen from countless efforts and reports conducted throughout the weeks since the murder of Mr. George Floyd at the hands of Minneapolis police that communities in this country have spent far too many resources on policing and not enough of social, mental, educational and vocational resources that will actually make us safe and help us all step toward a better, more inclusive community together.

For S.2820, I support strong use of force standards as set out in Representative Liz Miranda's An Act to save Black lives, including a complete ban on chokeholds, no knock warrants, and all other police tactics using an excessive use of force.

I support strict limitation on qualified immunity to ensure police can be held accountable when they violate another human's civil rights. If we can't do that we have no business pretending the myth of equality in this country is anything more than a myth. I do not believe limiting qualified immunity on any public servants is a bad thing - we're being held to standards that these public servants are working to uphold and they should be held to the same in any civilized society.

I further support an unequivocal ban on facial recognition technology that has proven time and time again to have an adverse effect on communities of color allowing racist policing to be supercharged in our neighborhoods.

Thank you all for the work you are doing to safeguard the Commonwealth through the pandemics of COVID-19 and systemic racism. Now that we know better we must do better and it's on you to show up for us all.

Sincerely,

Subject: Bill S.2820

Good morning,

I am writing to ask that you DO NOT support bill S.2820 as written and presented to the House. This is in line with my opinion regarding the Senate hastefully passing bill S.2800 without public input, debate and thorough review of a 70+ page bill to fully examine the consequences of the bill to ensure they are not unintended.

The senate version of this bill, as written, will significantly (and seriously) undermine public safety by limiting police officer's ability to do their jobs while simultaneously allowing provisions to protect criminals. Furthermore, the process employed by the Senate to push this through with such haste, without public hearing or input of any kind, was extremely undemocratic and nontransparent. Some of the comments made by the members of our own legislature about our police officers was HURTFUL!

I can tell you that police across the Commonwealth support uniform training standards and policies. We have been fighting for more training, as well as appropriate funds for YEARS! As a Law Enforcement officer here in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts over the past 7 years, I can speak from experience when I say that I have been denied training opportunities that I have requested due to inadequate budgets. I receive the bare minimum training as required by the MPTC each year ("in-service training"). I know the legislature had recently voted to add a fee on rental cars that support police training, $5 surcharge to traffic citations for public safety, etc. however, Cities and Towns haven't seen that money in order to provide additional training.

The Senate version of a regulatory board is unacceptable as it strips officers of the due process rights and does away with the protections currently set forth in Collective Bargaining Agreements and Civil Service Law. The Senate created a board that is dominated by anti-police groups who have a long-detailed record of biases against law enforcement and preconceived punitive motives towards police. ANY police reform bill that is drafted should include the SAME procedure justice safeguards that members of the communities that we serve DEMAND and ENJOY.

The proposed makeup of the oversight board is one sided and biased against law enforcement. It is unlike any of the 160 other regulatory boards across the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and as constructed is incapable of being FAIR and IMPARTIAL. -- I support the Massachusetts Police Association's request for an advisory board that includes individuals from or related to our profession. -- Just like you don't have a civilian oversight board for a doctor.

What the Senate has tried to do is pass a knee jerk reaction to an incident that happened thousands of miles away. I agree that it was egregious (and I don't know one person, one police officer, ANYONE that doesn't think this).

Massachusetts Police Officers are among the highest educated and trained in the country. As a matter of fact, BEFORE DUVAL PATRICK REMOVED THE QUINN BILL, that provided base pay increases for degrees in Criminal Justice. There was an incentive for officers to seek HIGHER education. HOW ABOUT WE BRING THIS BACK?? (10% for Associates, 20% for Bachelors, 30% for Masters)??

This bill directly attacks qualified immunity and due process. Qualified immunity does not protect bad officers. It protects good officers from civil lawsuits. We should want our officers to be able to act to protect our communities without fear of being sued at every turn, otherwise why would they put themselves at risk? A large majority of law enforcement officers do the right thing and are good officers, yet there is a real push to end qualified immunity to open good officers up to frivolous lawsuits because of the actions of a few who, by their own actions, would not be covered by qualified immunity anyway. It just doesn't make any sense why we are endangering the livelihood of many for the actions of a few. Changes to qualified immunity would be unnecessary if the legislature adopted a uniform statewide standard and bans unlawful use of force techniques which all police personnel unequivocally support. If the senate bill is passed in its current form the costs to municipalities and the State will skyrocket from frivolous lawsuits and potentially having a devastating impact on budgets statewide.

Sincerely,

Thomas Ashley

Subject: Testimony re S.2820

I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I particularly support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

STOP THE MADNESS!!

Support our Public Servants. Police, Nurses, Teachers and our Firefighters!!

I have made many calls this week to many Politicians. Let's see how many of you can stand up for what is right.

What happened to George Floyd was wrong and should never have happened and should never happen again. Are we to punish ALL for the actions of one? Police keep us working and Law abiding Citizens safe.

My Family, my Friends and myself are watching how you will proceed so we will keep in mind when voting in the near future.

Back the Blue

Vote NO on Bill S2820.

Subject: Police Reform Bill

To the Massachusetts House of Representatives,

I would like to submit my comments on the police reform bill approved by the Massachusetts Senate. Thank you for putting in the effort to reform police standards and build a more equitable environment for people of color. I am wondering how we will ensure that suggestions made by the commission (Section 72 a, Section 72 d) will be taken seriously and used to create laws by our local and state government officials/state legislature. I don't want the commission's feedback or recommendations to fall by the wayside.

I would also ask that you please maintain a limit (or even better and end) to qualified immunity in order to ensure that police are held accountable for their actions. I need our congress to support police accountability.

Thank you for considering this feedback,

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Nancy Lowry and I live at 35 Woodbriar Road in Wakefield MA. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Nancy Lowry

Subject: House bill S.2800. Police Reform Bill

I want to voice my outrage and concern that the bill passed was done in the dark of night without any public input. I am totally outraged that "one bad apple is being allowed to spoil the whole bunch"!! I know many police officers and have nothing but respect for them and the job they do. If there is going to be a true reform, then it must be done during regular hours versus the dead of night, and public input should be allowed. I am afraid if this bill goes through, we will not have any good candidates to become police officers, which in turn would put all civilians at risk!! I beg you to consider the consequences of your action!!!!

Respectfully,

Dear representative Aaron Michlewitz and representative Clair D. Cronin, I strongly believe the Police Reform Act as it is will bring not repairable harm. We need to improve police work, not to destroy it. We need to help to educate young policemen, not to turn them off the profession. They will be less willing to go to the profession and , the most dangerous, to enforce the laws.

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. Subject: Support Bill s2820- BLACK LIVES MATTER

Honorable Chair Claire Cronin and Chair Aaron Michlewitz,

I am emailing in support of the passage of the Reform, Shift, Build + Act and urge you to ensure the qualified immunity and Redirection of funding language remain in the Reform. I cannot emphasize enough the critical opportunity here for MA to be a leading national example in action to end Police violence.

As a resident of Boston, I see the abuse of over-funded police force acting out racist and inhumane, over-militarized policy every day. Policy which can improve to Save lives with the passage of this bill.

From harrasment and racial profiling of young Black students trying to go to class, to ignoring CDC regulations and not wearing masks while standing less than 3 feet away from each other (I have photos), this is the Boston Police conduct I see. This ingrained Police apathy for Public Health and Community Care is the rule not the exception and is just the beginning of why Reform, Shift, Build + Act Bill must be passed for the immediate and urgent Health and Safety of your MA constituents, most urgently your Black community. I must call you to defend Black lives today and pass this Bill.

Thank you very much,

Subject: Concerns with S.2800

To the House of Representatives for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts,

I am writing this letter to voice my strong opposition to Senate bill 2800 in its current form. While the tragedies that sparked this new energy for police reform were saddening, I do not feel that some of the measures taken within this bill are productive in healing, growing, and prospering as a society. Specifically, the compromising of qualified immunity for law enforcement officers does nothing to help contribute to the namesake of this bill. I feel that this erosion of qualified immunity will cause good officers to have fear of frivolous civil lawsuits. This measure is not going to increase good community policing with the ideology that the officers will be individually held accountable. Instead, this is going to make officers hesitant to make arrests, handcuffed so to speak. Criminals will stay on the street with mere court summons and the ability to continue their illegal behavior. It would put even more reliance on a judicial system that is broken and backlogged. Judges setting low or no bail for dangerous actors is already seen regularly in the commonwealth. The solution to police reform is not punishing the good majority of law enforcement personnel for the actions of the few. The solution is training and community Involvement. But society also needs to be trained. Society needs to work with police and not against. These brave men and women go to a job where they encounter the criminal sect of society. The true "bad apples" that do not follow a moral code and are not complimentary to any call for reform by our state legislatures. If we continue to alienate the people who made an oath to protect us as citizens of this great Commonwealth, I feel that someday in the near future, we will not have those brave individuals there to protect us. If we continue to blame the police while not giving any accountability to bad actors, it will be easier and more appealing for that young aspiring police officer to take an office job or learn a trade. If that happens, we will be left to our own demise.

I ask you emphatically to think about the families of these brave men and women in blue before you cast your vote on S.2800. Think about the spouse that kisses their loved one before they leave for their shift, hoping they will return in eight hours. Do not think about the narrow example that the media gives you. Think about the officer first on scene to save a choking baby. Think about the officer that stops to play a game of kickball with the youth. The brave individuals of the law enforcement community made an oath to protect us as a commonwealth and you as our legislatures have a duty to protect them. Please vote no on S.2800 in its current form

Subject: Qualified Immunity is necessary

Dear Chairman Michelwitz & Chairwoman Cronin,

I am reaching out to you regarding Senate Bill 2820 and its affect on Qualified Immunity. As professional firefighters for the city of Quincy, it's me and my colleague's job to respond along side Police and EMS to calls for help and protect our neighbors regardless of the danger that exists at the source of the call. I can attest for me, my department colleagues, and the Police and EMS that I've worked along side with and have responded to thousands of calls for help with that we do our very best to protect the lives and livelihoods of the citizens of Quincy regardless of their color or creed. It's my professional opinion that if Full Qualified Immunity is removed because of this bill that the Firefighters, Police and EMS that protect our great city will not be able to safely or fully assist our neighbors when they call and need our help. Please help maintain Full Qualified Immunity for our Police, Fire and EMS.

Subject: Objections to S.2800

Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin
Massachusetts House of Representatives
24 Beacon Street
Boston, MA 02133

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Colleen Leary and I live at 4 Hillside Ave in Winchester, Massachusetts.

I am writing to express my opposition to the current Senate bill S.2800, which was passed in the Massachusetts Senate this week and is being heard tomorrow by you the Massachusetts House of Representatives for consideration.

My oppositions to this bill are very simple and straight-forward. First, this bill will change the current legal standard of the Qualified Immunity doctrine in Massachusetts state courts. The present standard allows the courts to consider past precedent and established legal authority, and the information the public official possessed at the time of their alleged illegal action when determining whether the doctrine will apply to a public official defendant before a case can go forward.

S.2800 would change the established legal standard to only allow the court to consider what every reasonable defendant would have understood as being illegal at the time of their alleged illegal action before allowing the case to go forward. This shift in legal doctrine would completely ignore the bedrock legal doctrine of stare decisis and legal precedent, and prohibit courts from benefiting from past decisions, both mandatory and persuasive, that would apply to the case at bar.

This will completely erode Qualified Immunity because it places far too much subjectivity into the decision whether to bring forward cause of action against a public employee. A finder of fact will be left to make their decisions in a vacuum, without the benefit of fairness and established legal precedents.

Secondly, I oppose S.2800 because of the changes it makes to the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act or "MCRA." Currently, under the MCRA, a plaintiff's case may only go forward against a public employee for acts that interfere with the exercise and enjoyment of [a citizen's] constitutional rights, as well as rights secured by the constitution or laws of the Commonwealth, where such interference of constitutional or statutory rights were achieved or attempted through threats, intimidation or coercion.

The proposed changes in § 10(b) of S.2800 completely delete the requirements of threats, intimidation and coercion be present in a public employee's alleged violation of the plaintiffs constitutional rights. This will, in effect, open the flood-gates for causes of action to be brought in Massachusetts state courts under the MCRA under this weakened standard. As you are aware, causes of action that lie under the MCRA are eligible for consideration of awarding attorney's fees if there is a favorable verdict for the plaintiff. What will stop unscrupulous plaintiffs and their attorneys from filing suit under this weakened standard in an attempt to exact a quick settlement that includes attorney's fees? The gatekeeper will be asleep at the wheel, as the finders of fact will have no way to dismiss these frivolous claims before they make their way into court.

Finally, please consider the families, children, spouses and public employees themselves when making your decisions regarding this piece of flawed legislation. Qualified Immunity was established to shield public employees who act in good faith from frivolous and exhortative law suits. The erosions of S.2800 will place hardworking and dedicated public employees in a position where personal liability could apply in situations where it never should. Are their homes, college savings accounts, retirement accounts and personal assets so under-valued that they should be forfeited to settle damages in these cases? Our public employees, especially our police officers, deserve better.

I implore you to take more time and truly consider the far reaching implications of this bill. There is no doubt that there are things that need to change in law enforcement, but this is not how they should change. A bill that is filed as a knee-jerk reaction in attempt to solve a real problem will only create more problems. Discussion, conversation, debate, opposition and objection, are all cornerstones to our democratic process. We must use them, even embrace them, in order to find a solution to police reform that is both meaningful and pragmatic.

Sincerely,

Colleen Leary

As a police officer you are exposed to extremely dangerous, unpredictable and delicate situations on a daily basis. I know that eliminating the right for Police Officers to have Due Process is 100% wrong and will have a negative impact. Removing our right to collective bargaining, qualified immunity and also having a POSAC board with no Law Enforcement experience or training is deeply troubling and will cripple the Police Officer proffession. Subject: Senate Bill 2820 Public Input: Professionalize, Not Politicize Policing

Rep. Aaron Michlewitz: Chair House Committee Ways and Means;
Rep. Claire Cronin: Chair Joint Committee on the Judiciary;

Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to write in support of all the hard work that public servants of this great Commonwealth do every day, whether they be elected or appointed. The mere fact that your respective committees, and the House chambers as a whole, are reaching out to the stakeholders throughout the Commonwealth to solicit input as to the implications of a sweeping piece of legislature. Unfortunately, this was not the case, when the Senate put forth S. 2800 and later approved as S.2820. So I thank you.

As a police administrative professional in central Massachusetts, I am concerned that if this bill were to be passed as is, the citizens of this great Commonwealth will ultimately be the ones that suffer the consequences. The many facets of this bill were designed without any input from those in the profession and as such, the bill has serious flaws that will not only set policing in the commonwealth back years, it will set back police and community relations back even further. The mere title of this bill implies that policing in Massachusetts is faulty and needs to be "reform"ed. I respectfully offer that in my 25 years in law enforcement I have only seen policing become more professionalized. Is there room for improvement, absolutely, as there is in any profession; improvements can be realized in every profession, whether it be in policing, medical or governmental.

I look to the body of the Massachusetts House of Representatives to, as they review this bill and what is at stake, continue to Professionalize, not Politicize policing in the Commonwealth.

A major step in the continued professionalization of the policing in the Commonwealth would be to create a Police Officer Standards and Training (POST) system, a system that has successfully been put in place across the country. There is a version of this kind of system in the Senate Bill 2820, but it is problematic as it was created without input from any of the stakeholders that would need to operate within and manage such an encompassing program. The mere title of the proposed Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee (as listed in the bill) exasperates the lack of insight that the authors have about policing in the Commonwealth, where we have a Municipal Training Committee (MPTC) and a Massachusetts Police Accreditation Commission (MAPAC). This piece of legislation would create a third governing body to policing in the Commonwealth; I would think that if this important piece of legislation would have followed a more sensible track and allowed for input and study, a successful POST system could be identified and put into place, while at the same time be responsible to the taxpayer by not creating and funding a whole new agency.

I would be remiss if I didn't speak to the proposed changes to qualified immunity. I am not going to any "legal ease", but rather am simply going to point out that there has been so much mis-information as to what Qualified Immunity is. There are two main points that I want to make: 1. Qualified Immunity is a doctrine that has been affirmed and re-affirmed by both the United States Supreme Court and the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, and 2. Qualified Immunity is not a "get out of jail free card".

Processes are already in place at the judiciary level to determine if Qualified Immunity applies to given circumstances. If an officer is civilly sued, a judge will determine if the actions of the officer were reasonable under the circumstances and not in violation of "clearly established law". Changing Qualified Immunity will not only place officers at the peril of frivolous lawsuits, but will also have negative long term societal effects on the citizens of the Commonwealth because of a lack of qualified and professional officers willing to work under the condition.

There are other items in the Senate Bill 2820 that I can see as being problematic, such as why is there a move to limit, if not eliminate School Resource Officers. Their connection to the students they serve is imperative, and it seems this bill wants to create a divide there.

In closing please take time for Due Diligence...
Professionalize, Do Not Politicize.

Respectfully,

Deputy Chief Brian Gill

I am writing in lack of support for this bill. While there are ongoing issues in the country, Massachusetts remains ahead of the curve when it comes to policing and training. I stand with our police and reject this proposed bill. Further demonizing our police force is going to result in no honorable men and women serving. There will be a mass retirement.

Thank you

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

Please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color".

MACLEA seeks to include a representative of the Association to serve on the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee created by section 6 of Senate Bill 2820. MACLEA's member departments are responsible for the safety and wellbeing of the hundreds of thousands who live, learn, work, and visit our member institutions. We are in favor of the creation of a Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee (POSAC) and our representation on this committee would add valuable insight and information. It would also ensure that the safety and security of all of those on campuses across the Commonwealth are the highest priority. I also urge the congress to review the bill as pertains to Qualified Immunity, which should remain.

Rep. Aaron Michlewitz

Chair of the House Committee on Ways and Means

Rep. Claire Cronin

Chair of the Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Good morning Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

I would first like to take this opportunity to thank you both for your dedicated public service to the people of the Commonwealth and for allowing us the opportunity to submit written testimony on Senate Bill S2820. While I am disappointed it could not be in person, I understand the times we are in and am still appreciative of the opportunity to voice my concerns.

My name is James Franco and I live in Attleboro, MA. I am a police officer in southeastern MA and have 26 years of law enforcement experience. During my career, I have both city and town experience. I have served as patrol officer, detective, school resource officer, motorcycle officer, with local and DEA drug task forces, Sergeant and Lieutenant, and in various other roles. I am also a member of the Massachusetts Fraternal Order of Police and currently serve on the board of both my local and the state lodge. I have been with the FOP for approximately 15 years. I am writing to you today to voice my opposition to S2820 as written and submitted to the House.

In my experience with both the FOP and my career here in the Commonwealth, I have had the distinct privilege to meet some of the best, good hearted, family oriented, service minded men and women you could ever imagine. These men and women put on police/sheriff/corrections uniforms every day and go out and put their lives on the line selflessly for the good of the people they serve. They follow the rules, and treat all people with respect, dignity, and fairness. While I can say there are areas in the country where there is still a large racial divide and much work to be done, in Massachusetts we have always been ahead of the curve in promoting social equality. In fact, Boston Police Department is often cited as being one of the best in the nation in promoting community engagement and building trust and legitimacy within the community.

Which brings me to S2820. While I completely understand the well-intended meaning behind this bill, I truly feel in its current form it does more harm to our communities than good. It was rushed through the Senate without public hearing and without input from the very people it is affecting the most, the law enforcement community. Any attempts at communication were feeble at best.

Conversations could have and should have been had, as there is much agreement on many points. We agree there need to be more training and have been calling for it for years. Yet every time there is a cut it seems police training is at the top of the list. There needs to be standardized training across the commonwealth, again, something police groups have been saying for years. I am not against licensing of officers, but the oversight board as recommended is stacked with groups that have documented anti police histories and the few law enforcement members allowed are large city, minority law enforcement groups and chiefs. Local officers barely have voice or a chance as the system is currently set up. Furthermore, this system absolutely does away with any type of due process for officers. Established systems of appeal through collective bargaining agreements and civil service are rendered void. This board is composed of members whose collective composition is unlike any other of the 160 professional oversight boards around the commonwealth, and this is not showing the law enforcement community the same procedural justice the community members we protect demand and enjoy.

Qualified immunity is also needlessly and senselessly under attack. If uniform standards and policies are put in place, and certain use of force techniques outlawed (which by the way in 26 years I have never seen, heard, or been trained in any type of choke hold in Massachusetts), there would be no need to attack qualified immunity. Also, this offers all civil employees protections so they can do their jobs without fear of being sued at every turn. Without this protection why should anyone put themselves at risk of civil litigation simply for behaving as they have been trained? The increase in litigations will no doubt create huge impacts on the finances of the communities and the commonwealth. I would think we would want our police officers and others to be able to act to protect us and enforce our laws without fear of being sued for doing what they were trained to do and how they were trained to do it. Let's not forget, qualified immunity does not protect bad officers who, by virtue of their actions are not covered anyway, it covers good officers acting on good faith within the scope of their training. Again, I would think we would want them to not fear acting when they need to.

I am sure you are getting many responses and I thank you for your time. In the end, I feel this bill, while well-intended, misses the mark on the type of reform that is really necessary and will expose the good men and women of law enforcement to unnecessary civil lawsuits. I stand against S2820 as proposed.

Thank you

Respectfully,

James Franco

Subject: Feedback: Bill S.2820

Good morning, I implore the lawmakers of the Commonwealth to step back and take into account science, public feedback and law enforcement feedback before passing such a large and impactful bill for police reform.

I also request that the bill remove all items not related to police reform, including the ability for lawmakers to receive monetary gifts of any amount. This inclusion is a misuse of the public's trust that the bill is solely focused on equality and fair treatment of all by law enforcement in the Commonwealth.

In addition, why are lawmakers taking away tools - pepper spray, use of a K-9 - that police officers need in order to do their job safely and are additional ways to assist in the capture/arrest of criminals? Taking away tools and expecting law enforcement to do a better job than what they already are is completely irresponsible. Lawmakers rarely need law enforcement other than to guard you from the public. The public needs law enforcement on a daily basis to assist in preventing crime, responding to crime, and investigating crime. When you take away non lethal tools, all that is left is a leap straight from non lethal force to lethal force.

Having a law that someone cannot be arrested after 24 hours of already being arrested seems to be a ridiculous use of reform. Do we not recall in 2013, Jared Remy was released from jail, where he was arrested for domestic violence, and killed Jennifer Martel? What about the other victims of domestic violence that are now at risk? What about those released on gun charges and continue with whatever crime they were intending to commit because now they are untouchable for 24 hours? Do lawmakers understand the communities they serve and the crimes that are committed?

Lastly, removing Qualified Immunity from police officers, teachers, nurses, firefighters is probably the most irresponsible decision you could make. You have been thanking them for the last few months during this pandemic for their service, their sacrifice and how much you need them. Now you are taking away a protection that means that their whole life and their families life can be taken away because someone is angry? We live in the most litigious country in the world, opening the door for civil litigation because someone was trying to do their job with the correct intentions means lives will be ruined. This needs to be reconsidered and not decided by a jury or a committee. Having others decide what is within the law by those who do not know or understand the law?

Sitting from your seat, passing judgement, and making decisions on a job you know nothing about will cause great harm to the Commonwealth. Taking the team to really determine what is in the best interest of the Commonwealth, soliciting feedback, taking a ride along, meeting with the community, knowing the stats and the numbers will allow for reform that will help keep the community safe and provide law enforcement the tools they need to do their job.

I am one of many in this Commonwealth who has a voice and I will continue to use my voice for the benefit of my neighbors, my family, and especially my daughter. As the decisions we make today will impact the future of this Commonwealth.

Thank you, Christa Bradley

Subject: S.2820

To whom it may concern,

My name is Sarah Brush, I am a Massachusetts resident, a registered voter, and I am strongly opposed to S.2820.

I am deeply concerned about the effects this bill will have on the safety and security of the residents of the Commonwealth. This bill could financially ruin the people that risk their lives to protect us - ALL of us. The bill is dividing the state, and painting the officers of Massachusetts in an extremely unflattering light. These are our sons, daughters, significant others, parents, and most importantly our neighbors. Their morale is low, they feel the hate that is spiraling out of control as a push is made to get this bill signed into law and signed in FAST.

We are not in a crisis situation in Massachusetts. The death of George Floyd did not happen here, and it was not condoned by our law enforcement agencies. However, I fear that if this bill gets signed in we very much will be in an emergency situation. We will see good officers walk away from their careers (careers that they love, that they are dedicated to, that they refer to as their "calling") in HUGE numbers. These officers who show up everyday, who ran to Boston after the Marathon bombings when everyone else ran out, who showed up to the Merrimack Valley as fires were erupting EVERYWHERE and offered any and all help they could, that put their lives on the line everyday.

We need to come together, we need to find a way to support all races, all professions. This bill is not the solution to that. Additional training, more mental health evaluation at the academy level, support - these are the things that might help to begin to bridge the divide we are all seeing and all feeling. A well thought out, collaborative response that is develop over time, with input for all sides is what we need. Slow down, work together. Discriminating against police will not erase the emotion that black and brown are feeling. Adding fuel to the fire is not the situation.

We vote for leaders that will speak on our behalf - you speak for ALL of us, not just the loudest of us. Please, take the time needed to find the correct solution, a solution that follows due process, a solution that unifies us rather than divides us. And most importantly, a solution that does not put our safety and the safety of our children, our future, at risk.

Sincerely,

Sarah Brush

Subject: S.2820 - Public Comment

As a constituent, I write today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope we will prioritize support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If a committee is going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, they must understand and hear from law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind everyone that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore that S.2820 be amended and corrected so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Subject: Testimony on Bill 2820

Please accept this written testimony regarding House Bill 2820.

My name is Elizabeth Corbo. I am a resident of Hanover. I am a former municipal attorney and am currently an elected official within the Town of Hanover. I am familiar with the doctrine of Qualified Immunity (hereinafter abbreviated as "QI") and the standards required to invoke that protection under the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act. In my legal experience, I have relied upon the doctrine to defend municipal officials and employees from questionable, often frivolous, lawsuits. In my experience as an elected official, the doctrine protects my good faith efforts on behalf of the residents within the town of Hanover. Please note I speak only as an individual, not on behalf of the Hanover School Committee.

The current legislation seeks to change the existing QI standard. In simple terms, the current standard protects a defendant unless there is a demonstrated violation of a clearly established constitutional right which a reasonable person should have known existed. The proposed standard would only allow QI protection if a defendant could demonstrate every reasonable person would have known that their conduct was lawful. The proposed standard, in my opinion, makes it nearly impossible for a public employee or official to involve the protection offered by QI - even when they are acting in good faith. I am aware that my concerns regarding the significant changes to the Qualified Immunity standard are shared by many and I do not need to repeat those concerns as others can undoubtedly express them more eloquently than I can, but I will share briefly why I may have a unique perspective on why this change should not be enacted.

Prior to working at a municipal law firm where I defended public employees and officials, I worked as an attorney for the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination. I am fiercely committed to protecting the civil rights of all citizens and believed working for the Commission was my "dream job." In fact, I was so committed to the mission, while many other recent law school graduates were seeking high paying jobs to pay their oppressive student loans, I accepted a decrease in salary to work for the Commission. Unfortunately I left what I believed was my dream job after only a year and moved to defending municipal employees. For someone devoted to protecting civil liberties it may seem like a drastic change of heart to move to defending employers - but it wasn't. While working as an attorney for the Commission, I vetted discrimination complaints submitted by employees - against employers. In a year's time I was astonished by the amount of frivolous claims submitted by disgruntled employees hoping to deflect attention from their own performance or seeking a nuisance settlement from the employer's insurance company. Many insurance companies will settle a claim - even those that are clearly baseless - rather than pay attorneys fees to defend it. The amount of time required to process these frivolous claims, as well as the stress these claims put upon employees, employers and the expense involved in defending these suits was disheartening. I soon came to the realization that my efforts would be better spent defending employers against baseless claims, advocating training and education programs for employees and finding a solution to cases that truly had merit. By relaxing the QI standards, it invites additional frivolous claims that will only serve to clog the courts, burden municipalities, public employers, employees and officials - and most importantly - distract from meritorious claims.

I have worked professionally and in my volunteer capacity with members of municipal police departments, fire departments, department of public works, selectmen, school committees and officials, and municipal boards and committees. I know the vast majority work diligently to protect the rights of all citizens and the vast majority operate with good faith belief that their actions are helpful, lawful and necessary. I hope that you will consider the effect this legislation has on those individuals and the overall public good as you consider the implication of this Bill. While there may be portions of this Bill that have merit and are beneficial to the public good, the Bill as written is not in the best interest of the public.

By the way, I'm still paying those oppressive students loans, so any efforts to mitigate those insane burdens on our graduates would be greatly appreciated.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if I can be of further assistance.

Warm regards,

Subject: Opposition to S.2820

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Michele Cole and I live at 6 Baldwin Lane, Lynnfield. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank- and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Dear Representatives,

My name is Rebecca Lydon and I live at 67 Magnolia way in Bridgewater, Ma. As a professional in corporate America, and from my professional point of view, there are items in the this bill that are disturbing. For example providing access to an officer's medical files under a misconduct investigation. This violates their HIPPA protection and, if the information isn't relevant to the investigation, the Commission shouldn't have access to it.

In addition, the Permanent Commissions on the status of African Americans and Latinxs should include representation of Law Enforcement people of color as they are able to provide a unique perspective as part of those communities. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. This would be the same type of professional oversight applied to certifying bodies for medical and legal professionals. The Commission members need to complete the same classroom training curriculum that MPTC will require for officers, so that the Commission is familiar with the training that MA Law Enforcement officers receive.

The Commissions shouldn't receive settlement funds. When you incentivize something to drive a certain behavior, there are often unintended consequences and behavior that result from that incentive system. I think you need to take more time to think through what those potential pitfalls might be especially because the Commissions will be new as well.

While an understanding of the historical impact of slavery and lynching is good for setting context, the type of training that should be happening is Unconscious Bias training. This is what they use in most professional workplaces to drive a culture of Diversity, Inclusion and Belonging. In addition to law enforcement, all elected representatives including yourselves should also go through the same training.

On the topic of the review of the municipal police training committee's curriculum, the minimum requirement should be at least 3 people affiliated with an academic institution and make sure you have representation for each: expertise in law enforcement, expertise in criminal law, expertise in civil rights law.

If the independent police officer standards and accreditation committee is for law enforcement standards and accreditation then you should have an even split between the 14 members between law enforcement and non-law enforcement and at least have 2 officers nominated by the MA Association of Minority Law Enforcement Officers. Also, you shouldn't limit the MA Black and Latino Legislative Caucus from nominating law enforcement individuals for their list if those are candidates they wish to nominate.

The info in the police officer standards and accreditation database with regards to complaints against officers shouldn't be public record. They should have the same due process rights as every other American citizen. The information regarding complaints should only be available to the committee in the course of it's work.

As the wife of a law enforcement officer I ask that you do not eliminate qualified immunity. The appropriate protections are there currently and eliminating this will result in many frivolous civil lawsuits that could bankrupt law enforcement families. In addition you are putting law abiding citizens at risk by creating a situation that makes officers have to second guess taking action at the risk of being sued. You put EMTs and fire at risk for civil suits for not being able to save someone's life. Eliminating qualified immunity doesn't improve the conditions for the African American community in MA - you can better accomplish that through improving access to education, housing, employment and community improvement programs.

If despite the vocal opposition you've received on this topic you still proceed with eliminating qualified immunity, then you need to eliminate it for all elected officials including yourselves, judges, the Attorney General and district attorneys given that you are also part of the system that develops and enforces the laws of the Commonwealth.

As for treating all citizens of the Commonwealth fairly, if a law enforcement officer is in a self defense situation, they should be able to use a choke hold if that is the only means available to prevent the loss of their life. Also, the use of a vehicle should constitute imminent harm. You should all attend use of force training so you have better understanding of how these situations unfold as you contemplate how to change these laws.

In closing, I agree that police reform is important and needs to be addressed but passing a poor bill for the sake of passing a bill isn't in the best interest of the Commonwealth. Those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Respectfully,

Dear Mass Legislators,

I am a Massachusetts citizen and I believe that bill S2820 still needs revisions before being put into effect. I feel that the bill ignores Mass law enforcement voices and that the law makers should hear more input from our many officers, who serve and protect people like you and I.

I understand with the current political climate distrust with law enforcement is on the rise but to rush a bill that does not let regular officers have their voices be heard is not right. I just heard about this bill this morning and I feel as though this bill is going to cause a lot of change to how police can operate for many years to come. I am not saying that all of the bill is bad but I feel as though rushing a bill that has only been up for the public to read for a couple of days and if it were to be rushed in the same week is irresponsible. Let us have more debate and have discourse and see if there could be a compromise. Now more than ever do we need police and communities to work together and have positive relationship and this bill I feel will make officers feel like they are not having their voices be heard.

I urge you to please reconsider and hear some of the grievances of our officers and maybe we can find some common ground.

Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin

Massachusetts House of Representatives |
24 Beacon Street
Boston, MA 02133

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is James Sullivan and I live at 18 Plantation Road in Hatfield, Massachusetts.

I am writing to express my opposition to the current Senate bill S.2800, which was passed in the Massachusetts Senate this week and is being heard tomorrow by you the Massachusetts House of Representatives for consideration.

My oppositions to this bill are very simple and straightforward. First, this bill will change the current legal standard of the Qualified Immunity doctrine in Massachusetts state courts. The present standard allows the courts to consider past precedent and established legal authority, and the information the public official possessed at the time of their alleged illegal action when determining whether the doctrine will apply to a public official defendant before a case can go forward.

S.2800 would change the established legal standard to only allow the court to consider what every reasonable defendant would have understood as being illegal at the time of their alleged illegal action before allowing the case to go forward. This shift in legal doctrine would completely ignore the bedrock legal doctrine of stare decisis and legal precedent, and prohibit courts from benefiting from past decisions, both mandatory and persuasive, that would apply to the case at bar.

This will completely erode Qualified Immunity because it places far too much subjectivity into the decision whether to bring forward cause of action against a public employee. A finder of fact will be left to make their decisions in a vacuum, without the benefit of fairness and established legal precedents.

Secondly, I oppose S.2800 because of the changes it makes to the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act or "MCRA." Currently, under the MCRA, a plaintiff's case may only go forward against a public employee for acts that interfere with the exercise and enjoyment of [a citizen's] constitutional rights, as well as rights secured by the constitution or laws of the Commonwealth, where such interference of constitutional or statutory rights were achieved or attempted through threats, intimidation or coercion.

The proposed changes in § 10(b) of S.2800 completely delete the requirements of threats, intimidation and coercion be present in a public employee's alleged violation of the plaintiffs constitutional rights. This will, in effect, open the flood-gates for causes of action to be brought in Massachusetts state courts under the MCRA under this weakened standard. As you are aware, causes of action that lie under the MCRA are eligible for consideration of awarding attorney's fees if there is a favorable verdict for the plaintiff. What will stop unscrupulous plaintiffs and their attorneys from filing suit under this weakened standard in an attempt to exact a quick settlement that includes attorney's fees? The gatekeeper will be asleep at the wheel, as the finders of fact will have no way to dismiss these frivolous claims before they make their way into court.

Finally, please consider the families, children, spouses and public employees themselves when making your decisions regarding this piece of flawed legislation. Qualified Immunity was established to shield public employees who act in good faith from frivolous and exhortative law suits. The erosions of S.2800 will place hardworking and dedicated public employees in a position where personal liability could apply in situations where it never should. Are their homes, college savings accounts, retirement accounts and personal assets so under-valued that they should be forfeited to settle damages in these cases? Our public employees, especially our police officers, deserve better.

I implore you to take more time and truly consider the far reaching implications of this bill. There is no doubt that there are things that need to change in law enforcement, but this is not how they should change. A bill that is filed as a knee-jerk reaction in attempt to solve a real problem will only create more problems. Discussion, conversation, debate, opposition and objection, are all cornerstones to our democratic process. We must use them, even embrace them, in order to find a solution to police reform that is both meaningful and pragmatic.

Sincerely,

James Sullivan

July 17, 2020

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

Thank you for accepting written testimony on S.2800, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color, the Reform, Shift, Build Act.

After 400 years of white supremacy in Massachusetts, in this moment when millions of people are standing up and demanding an end to racial oppression, police brutality, and all of the structures that maintain the status quo of systemic racism, I want to encourage all of us in the House of Representatives to embrace the inspired movement to abolish the police and recognize that an understanding of the history, structure, and implications of the institutions of policing in our Commonwealth compels us to take swift action for systemic change. For too long, Black people, Indigeous people, and People of Color (BIPOC) have been criminalized for simply existing – and as legislators it is our duty and our responsibility to meet the demands of this moment and advance proposals to drive systemic change.

We should also look to embrace calls to defund the police and shift funding to the programs and social supports that will help to reduce crime in our Commonwealth. We need to shift funding away from militarized police departments and toward healthcare, housing, trauma centers, drug and alcohol treatment programs, and restorative justice programs. We need fewer first responders with guns, and more social workers and other professionals trained in de-escalation and mental health intervention.

With that as my starting point, I want to recognize and acknowledge the efforts of our Senate colleagues in engrossing the Reform, Shift, Build Act earlier this week. This bill contains provisions designed to 1) strengthen the use of force standards for law enforcement; 2) create a majority-civilian Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Commission with the power to decertify law enforcement officers; 3) set a moratorium on facial surveillance technology; 4) establish a Justice Reinvestment Fund to shift resources away from policing and prisons and into education and other social programs; 5) prioritize student safety over criminalization; 6) remove barriers to expungement of juvenile records; 7) ban racial profiling in law enforcement, and 8) clarify that police officers and other law enforcement officers can never obtain consent to have sex with someone in their custody. In sum, the Senate bill is an admirable starting point for our efforts next week. I support these provisions, and along with many other reform provisions found in the Senate bill.

Furthermore, I want to encourage us in the House to follow the lead of members of the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus. We should be particularly grateful to the leadership of Caucus Chair, Rep. González. I fully support the legislative efforts of Rep. Holmes to advance a Peace Officer Standards and Training Commission, and I am proud to be an original co-sponsor of Rep. Miranda's bill, HD.5128, An Act to Save Black Lives by Transforming Public Safety, which would limit the use of force by police and other law enforcement in our state. Among its many provisions, this legislation includes a necessary ban on the use of chokeholds, rubber bullets, tear gas and other chemical weapons. It also establishes a "duty to intervene" when an officer witnesses an abuse of force and makes public the records of police misconduct investigations and outcomes, and it prohibits "no-knock" warrants, roots out abusive officers, and establishes that unnecessary use of force is a civil rights violation. Additionally, I encourage us to advance measures to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools and to further promote expungement of criminal records.

Finally, I ask that we in the House take a strong stand in support of ending qualified immunity. For far too long, the doctrine of qualified immunity has been used to protect police officers who have clearly committed serious civil rights violations, resulting in disproportionate impacts on BIPOC. The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity.

Thank you for your consideration of this testimony.

Yours in service,

Rep. Mike Connolly

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

I am typing furiously to meet the 11 a.m deadline to let my feelings be known as a concerned citizen , mother/ mother in law.

Over the last few days I have tried to educate myself by reading the bill, reading about Qualified Immunity, Watching the local news which I was appalled to find that the day of the Senate vote ,Channel 5 made no mention of the results. In my search I came across the video of Senator Fattman who so eloquently put into words my feelings on this bill. Reform is necessary, this Extremely important bill that will affect so many is being rushed through without public hearings, The issue of Qualified Immunity needs to be studied further for the ramifications that could have for so many.

Dear Representative Chairperson Ways & Means,

My name is Joseph Cheevers and I live in South Boston, MA. I am writing this letter to voice my concern that again no public hearing was held on this matter and given no other choice, I am submitting this letter as my written testimony. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my disagreement with any hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth and encourage you to vote against Senate bill 2800 submitted to the House of Representatives. It deprives police officers of Massachusetts any basic protections afforded to all other public employees in Massachusetts. It is a rush to judgment being developed behind closed doors. Issues of policing, health and human services, and race are too important to be rushed. Of the many concerns, the following in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety because police officers may become more concerned about personal liability than public safety.

The proposed changes to QI will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues.

Unintended and unnecessary changes to QI will hamstring police offices in the course of their duties because they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions. Officers may second guess doing what is necessary for public safety and protecting the community because of concerns about legal exposure.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse, and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and policy participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally nontransparent.

The original version of the bill was over 70 pages and had multiple changes to public safety sections of the general laws. It was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for Senators to digest/caucus and receive public comment. This process was a sham.

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased.

The Governor and supports of the bill promised to use the 160 or so professional regulatory agencies as a guide for police certification. The senate instead created a board without precedent. The 15-member board proposed to oversee, and judge police officers includes no more than six police officers and four of those police officers will be management/Chief representatives. The remainder of the committee will be dominated by groups critical of law enforcement, if not parties that regularly sue police and law enforcement. The civilian members on the board will lack any familiarity with the basic training, education or standards that apply to police officers. All the other 160 boards include a strong majority of workers from the profession supplemented by a few individuals to represent the general public. Imagine if police officers were appointed to a board to oversee teachers licenses!

4. The removal or any change to Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques that all police personnel unequivocally support.

All police organizations support major parts of the bill: strengthening standards and training; having a state body that certifies police officers; banning excessive force techniques and enhancing the diversity process. Once we have uniform standards and policies and a statutory ban of certain use-of-force techniques then officers and the public will know the standards that apply to police officers and conduct that is unacceptable and unprotected by QI.

This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets.

5. Police Officers Deserve the same Due Process Afforded to all Other Public Employees

Public employees and their unions have a right for discipline to be reviewed by a neutral, independent expert in labor relations - whether an arbitrator or the Civil Service Commission. This bill makes the Commissioner's decisions or the new Committee's decisions the final authority on certain offenses.

We should affirm the right of all employees to seek independent review of employer discipline at arbitration or civil service.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Subject: Bill No. S2820 - Police Reform

Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

Growing up in Quincy, I always dreamed of becoming a Police Officer. From a very young age, I watched police officers all over help people. Many of my classmates dream of being hockey players, baseball players, President of the United States, and astronauts. When I was asked, I proudly stated I want to be a police officer. I am one of the few people that I know that got to live my dream. Thousands of years ago, Confucius said "Choose a job you love and you will never have to work a day in your life."

Unfortunately, this is no longer true, as I feel I am being pushed out of the job which I love. If Bill S2820 - An Act to reform police standards - passes I may be forced to choose between my family and the job which I love. Let me explain.

I wholeheartedly believe that the vast majority of Police Officers are good, honest people with high integrity. I took this job to help people. I have been in patrol, and am now a School Resource Officer at North Quincy High School. I have also been involved in community outreach programs for several years, including integrated programs with The DARE Program and Quincy Recreation Department Cops in Parks programs.

This reform act is being pushed through with little or no input from the police who protect the commonwealth and its citizens everyday. The specific issue I am writing about is the change in Qualified Immunity. As I am sure you are aware, Qualified Immunity does not protect illegal actions by Police Officers, but it serves to protect police officers who act in good faith and their behavior is deemed "reasonable." Police Officers can still be sued for illegal actions and violations. Limiting my protection civilly will open me and my colleagues to frivolous lawsuits for doing our jobs.

This is causing me to consider extreme measures, including changing professions. Talk among police officers includes filing for divorce, and turning homes over to ex-spouses to protect their family's financial well being. COULD YOU IMAGINE HAVING TO CHOOSE BETWEEN YOUR FAMILY'S WELL BEING AND A JOB YOU LOVE?

Even politicians pushing this bill through admit that the vast majority of police, especially in this state are "good cops." But yet they vote for the bill and push these "good cops" out the door.

Please do not vote for this bill.

Sincerely

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Elizabeth Irons and I live at 38 kimball ave Ipswich ma. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Irons

To Representative Michlewitz, Representative Cronin, and other concerned representatives,

Dear Representatives,

I am requesting that you seriously consider a no vote on Bill No.S2820. While I understand that there is a need for police reform across the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the nation, the current version of the bill puts police officers at a serious disadvantage when performing their duties. The current version,if passed, will lead to a multitude of frivolous lawsuits that will only hinder law enforcement and make society a more dangerous place. Indeed, many police officers, today diligent in enforcing laws and maintaining public safety, will likely be reluctant in performing their duties if faced with the possibility of being sued for professionally conducting their duties.

The push for this reform was brought forward by numbers of people who have legitimate grievances regarding how some people, especially minorities, have been treated by various police departments. These are legitimate grievances, and need to be addressed. However, the movement to reform departments to adopt fairer and more impartial standards had been hijacked by fringe groups whose ultimate goal is now to change the current political system into some type of "Socio-Anarcho-Communist Society". I ask all of you to sincerely research the various groups such as Anifa and Workers of the World. Seattle and Portland are excellent examples of what these groups have in mind for the entire American landscape. Please research these fringe groups, who have hijacked the legitimate groups demanding reform, and understand that theses fringe groups (Antifa and related groups) have a clandestine plan that is ultimately to replace the current system with some type of "Socialist Utopia" that only exist in their minds. Please do not succumb to their reckless demands to abolish/defund the police, as this is only their first step in their ultimate goal of overthrowing the government. This will ultimately affect everyone: think Venezuela, once the most prosperous nation in South America, now a starving apocalypse.

I ask all of you take a serious, measured and thoughtful approach to police reform, and not hastily pass a destructive bill that will likely have detrimental effects for everyone. Please vote no on this bill and take your time and thoughts to draft a more reasonable bill that will benefit everyone. Thank you for your consideration.

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your public service and allowing me to submit written testimony on behalf of the Police Officers in the Commonwealth with regard to Senate Bill 2820.

My name is Stephen Tomasia. I've been a New Bedford Police Officer for close to 3 years now, a career to which I love and consider a high calling. I am a first generation Portuguese American, raised in a Christian/Catholic family that emphasized sacrificial love and respect for all people. We were encouraged to serve and protect the less fortunate in our family. This heritage came down from my immigrant grandparents on both sides, who loved this country to the core and the freedom and opportunities that it extended to them. My last name may be familiar to you. My aunt is Maria Tomasia the former New Bedford Election Commissioner who served for over three decades in the City of New Bedford. My aunt is an incredible woman who had a reputation for serving the minority community in the City of New Bedford and still does. Her son Eric Tomasia works for the Bristol County Sheriff's Department and this bill will affect him negatively as well.

I have an Associates Degree from Bristol Community College and a Bachelor's Degree from Bridgewater State University in Criminal Justice. My core major was Criminal Justice and the application of it, however there was a strong emphasis on sociology, including social justice and diversity education. After college I worked for the Department of Youth Services for over 10 years, working with a very diverse population of youth and adults. I then was hired by the New Bedford Police Department.

After an intensive and thorough background check, physical and psychological screening by the New Bedford Police Department, I entered a 6 month Police Academy. I graduated from the MPTC Plymouth Police Academy, 64th ROC in 2017, which was a lifelong dream. One of the finest academies in the Commonwealth and I beg to say the country. The training was 6 months of criminal law, procedural law, PT, defensive tactics, and use of force. De-escalation techniques were taught first and foremost. We also had extensive diversity training. Along side of this curriculum, we had the constant pressure of instructor's pressing us, stressing us, in an attempt to break our patience and self-control. This was designed to prepare us for hostile agitators/aggressors that we would encounter as a result of the occupation we were in. This was the toughest 6 months of my life, however, I met some of the most caring, self-less people I have ever known from all walks of life, and with different backgrounds than me, with the same ethos to serve and protect their communities.

And because this Bill addresses racial issues, I'll point out that not once was I taught or did I see any sort of racism in the Academy. On the contrary I observed servitude, diversity, and teamwork and that was what our training encouraged. If our legislature wants to change laws governing the police, I would first suggest that you study and begin sitting in our Police Academies and talk to our recruits. What police officers need is more training and instruction like the MPTC offers in the Commonwealth.

I've been on the New Bedford Police Department for close to 3 years now. We are a department of approximately 250-260 police officers, in a city that is known for its diversity and multi-cultural demographic. Because this Bill addresses racial issues in policing, I will note that not once in my 3 years on the department have I witnessed any form of racism in or outside of the department. And I have worked every shift and every area of the city. I have not once seen any officer respond to color, on the contrary every response I've observed and have been a part of, has been in accordance with behavior. In fact the officers that I work with are some of the most professional, fair, giving, and compassionate people I've ever worked with. And I believe most of our officer's in the Commonwealth are similar. This bill will hurt and affect us all, the officer's that represent our neighborhoods and it will affect our families as well. Please reconsider this bill especially in regard to due process and qualified immunity. And before you pass police reform and institute a review board with individuals with no experience and training in the realities of law enforcement, please if you truly care about our communities and the way we operate, visit us and join us in ride-a-longs. Don't just pass law based on politics and perception. Observe how we respond to people, and conflict, both verbally and physically. I believe your perspective would change.

Please don't judge police policy in the Commonwealth by the few bad cops like Derek Chauvin who horrifically took the life of George Floyd. Not one officer I spoke to wasn't sickened by that video. Every good Police Officer knows when he or she takes that oath, his or her obligation is to serve and preserve life, all lives. And Chauvin was the worst of the worst and deserves to get the full measure of the law. I think most of us aspire to live by the golden rule to treat others as we would want to be treated. Unfortunately, this has not been the case for the police occupation in the last several weeks. Do I judge all politicians, because of the one corrupt one and say the whole governing body is corrupt. Do I judge the entire hospital for one bad doctor and say the whole hospital is corrupt, no. This is hypocrisy at the highest level. I guess we have soon forgotten 9/11 and Patriots Day and the hundreds of law enforcement and first responders that put themselves in harms way daily. How about the birthday parades in the last couple of months that we voluntarily gave our time to? The same politicians that applauded our parades for the kids have now disowned us. Please put yourselves in our shoes, if you can.

In closing, I want to address the reality of complaints because of the nature of our occupation. Some of our interaction with the public is not going to be pleasant, especially if that person of the public is breaking the law. It is most often than not that the violators of the law, when encountered by police do not want the police applying the law against them and will do whatever it is possible to avoid that, whether it be a charge being brought against them or an arrest. As a result, the encounter from the violator's perspective is rarely going to be positive or a comfortable experience, and this negative experience is often correlated or manifested into fear. This is a natural human response to not wanting be held accountable, because it comes at a cost, whether monetary or an arrest. Before I was a police officer, I was stopped a couple times for speeding. That encounter was never comfortable because I was in fear of being held accountable. I have had encounters with the public as a police officer where people have threatened to file false complaints stating I was going to lose my job or claimed I was profiling etc, because of the negative interaction of not wanting be held accountable under the law. As a result because of the nature of police work these frivolous complaints are numerous. Now if there is a valid complaint of excessive force and of police misconduct it should be rightly investigated and judged. We have numerous cases across the U.S. where police are disciplined, fired, or prosecuted under the rules of law, and regulations they violated every year. However, if this Senate bill passes in its current form the costs to municipalities and the State will skyrocket from frivolous lawsuits. This will potentially have a devastating impact on budgets statewide and may not be sustainable.

You are already aware of the points of this Bill that most, if not all of the police officers in the Commonwealth are deeply concerned about so I will not get into them. My fear is if the Senate Bill 2820 becomes law as is, I and my fellow brothers and sisters who took this job to help people will walk away from a career that we love because the risk to our lives and families is just too much to bear. As a result our communities will become unsafe and you will lose good police officers.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully,

Officer Stephen Tomasia #4055

Subject: Testimony on S2820

To Whom It May Concern,

My name is Anthony Bavosi and I am a police officer in the town of Bellingham. I am also the union president for the Bellingham Police Association. I have taken the time to read the 89 page bill (S.2820) passed at the Senate and I am left with a multitude of feelings. First, I am extremely disappointed that our Senate felt the need to draft and pass a bill without even consulting with the people who put their lives on the line and actually do the job everyday. We live in a democratic state and our voices are supposed to be heard. We are supposed to have input in things that happen especially if they will impact our lives and careers. A committee of my peers should have been established and our opinions and needs should have brought to the table. A committee that consisted of Chiefs, union officials and other officers should have been formed and given a place to speak on this proposed police reform bill. We take pride in being a democratic state that believes in giving the people a voice yet you completely circumvented the democratic process. You didn't hold hearings or accept testimony and you did this behind our backs in the middle of the night and early morning hours. I want to thank the house for at least allowing testimony and open hearings on the matter. I think you'll find that we don't object to sitting down to discuss the issues and challenges facing our country and profession. You'll see that we are open to discussing things that could be done to help the overall cause. I don't feel it requires a bill to reform police but I know that things could be addressed to improve things and satisfy all involved.

Second, I am shocked and saddened by the fact that our government felt the need to pass a police reform bill in a state where our officers are known to be some of the best, most educated, well trained, diverse law enforcement officials in the country. The number of cases that come out of this state is almost non existent when it comes to excessive force and racially bias incidents. Why then did you feel the need to fix something that is not broken? Are you really that consumed with the false social narrative that you felt the need to address it by hurting those that protect you each and everyday? Are you not aware of the initial training that we have in the MPTC academy and the annual training we receive at the in-service sessions? Did you not realize that some of the things you are proposing already take place? If you sat down at the table with us I think you would have a better idea but you bypassed that right afforded to us.

Third, I am insulted and betrayed that my government feels the need to strip some of the rights we have bargained for and earned over the past 100 years. How can you justify taking away rights and protections that have been afforded to us for decades. These rights and protections are necessary for us to be successful in our careers. I thought our democratic state was supposed to protect and encourage our collective bargaining rights and process? Why then is it being ignored and slowly dismantled? Do you not realize that by doing this you are making the job less and less appealing to people looking to make a career in law enforcement? What type of quality officer do you think you are going to get in this job when you take away protections such as qualified immunity and our right to appeal to civil service?

Fourth, I am nervous and uncertain as to what this bill will bring to my profession for many reasons. When I read certain things in the bill that include a civilians right to intercede if an officer is using unreasonable force I ask myself what type of danger this will bring to all of us. Who is judging the "unreasonable force?" Are we going to allow civilians to judge what they consider unreasonable? What if someone thinks a distraction technique, wrist lock or any other tactic used to handcuff a non compliant individual is "unreasonable"? Are they then going to intercede and cause injury to themselves, the officer or the suspect? This is a very dangerous piece to include in your reform. I certainly wouldn't blame a citizen for wanting to get involved if they saw an officer beating someone senseless but you are opening things up to different interpretations which is dangerous to us all. The state is opening itself up to lawsuits from all sides as well. When I read other articles in the bill that speak to law enforcement being subject to frivolous civil law suits I am really scared for this profession and it's people. Who is going to want to take a job where they have to worry about loosing their house or assets? Who is going to want to stay in the career when everything they have worked so hard for over the years is subject to a frivolous civil law suit. I read the piece on the qualified immunity where it states a reasonable person wouldn't have reason to believe a law had been violated. Who is judging the officers actions and wether a reasonable person should have known the actions to be unlawful? What if the attorney general or a prosecutor wants to make an example of an officer to satisfy a false narrative or feed into social influence or climate? What about our families? Do you not realize that you will be ruining our lives and more importantly the lives of our families? I agree that an officer should be held accountable for illegal/unlawful actions. From what I've seen, officers have been held accountable both criminally and civilly for criminal acts. So why are we trying to reinvent the wheel?

In closing, I have so many other feelings on this matter but in the interest of time I will summarize by saying this. I have spoken to those I represent and officers from other departments. We all feel very similar about this bill. Many question how they can be proactive officers when they are open to so much risk. They question how bad things in the community will get with the introduction of some of these programs and the changes and defunding of the police. My officers question if they will be able to do the job efficiently if they are always worried about their safety and livelihood and that of their families. They fear that they could lose their certifications based on some false or frivolous claim and it can't be appealed. They worry that their lives are in serious danger every time they go to arrest someone for a criminal act. Do we want officers to second guess everything that they do? Do we want to see more and more officers hurt or killed because they hesitated to act? A hesitation caused by fear of what would happen to them civilly or criminally or how they would be viewed in society. Do you not realize what will happen to our state and country when police are forced to take a "back seat" approach? Do you not see crime skyrocketing in this state and around the country? It's already happening in other states like New York. I ask that you please listen to my brothers and sisters and truly hear their voices. Sit down and come up with something that both sides can agree will help improve the profession and our relationship with those in society that look down on the profession. Let's teach people respect and to get behind our law enforcement officials. The same people that put their lives on the line each and every day to protect EVERYONE in society. Let's not encourage people to question everything police do and say. I want to stay in the profession and make a difference in my community. Not look for another job where I don't have to be subject to these dangers.

Sincerely, Officer Anthony Bavosi

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:

My name is LuAnn Silva. I am an educator in the Boston Public Schools and a Dorchester resident (02124). I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

I have seen too many people I care about be racially profiled by law enforcement in this state, because of the poor training and lack of policy to safeguard the citizens these folks are meant to protect and serve.

For example, as an educator in BPS I have also witnessed school police officers throwing middle school students (13-14 year olds) to the ground and cuffing them for "not following directions". This is beyond outlandish. It is criminal and it's at the root of the school to prison pipeline.

Our law enforcement is taught to act first (often based on bias –whether subconscious or not) and then think later. This is a vicious and dangerous cycle that negatively impacts the communities that they've sworn to protect and serve.

In light of the spotlight that's been shined on the centuries of racial inequity and oppression during the COVID-19, now is the time to pass this bill to begin the difficult, but necessary, work of: changing the culture, ingrained behavior, and problematic mindsets of this institution.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

I have learned a lot over the last 10 years about the ways our systems were created to uphold white supremacy and what it will take to break that down. I believe this bill is a critical step in the right direction and shows a commitment to rethinking policing and its impact on communities of color. Subject: Bill S.2820 Concerns

Good morning,

I'm writing to express my opposition to Bill S.2820.

As has been noted elsewhere, the lack of public forum on this wide-sweeping reform bill has been particularly troublesome. Even now, with this email format, the general public has been given less than 48 hours to voice their concerns. How about those elderly citizens who may not be comfortable with this format? Or those who may not have access to the internet?

As far as the bill is concerned- I can't think of many professions where the employee (in this specific example a law enforcement officer) can be sued for failing to act in the performance of their duties, AND for acting as outlined in their duties (all in dangerous and often split second circumstances).

In an ideal world, only officers (or any public employees) who display the most egregious conduct would be negatively impacted by the removal of QI; but that is simply not reality. This will leave public employees vulnerable even when performing their duties to the best of their abilities and with good intentions.

More likely than not, officers in MA will be required to carry personal liability insurance (similar to medical doctors) but with a fraction of the experience and training that medical doctors received and an even smaller percentage of pay. This is now the case in NYC- Officers have to have personal liability policies. Due to this, and other reform factors, The NYPD is now seeing officers retiring at unprecedented rates (in some cases up 41% over last year). The liability simply outweighs the benefits of the job.

I was extremely frustrated with the lack of understanding of Qualified Immunity many of the state senators displayed during the live sessions. Several stated that there won't be any significant changes to QI if this bill passes (which is completely false), while others stated that officers would continue to be indemnified (only marginally true). Municipalities MAY choose to indemnify officers (or teachers, or DPW workers, or firefighters etc). Not SHALL. And in the event said officer's certification is revoked by POSAC (without a right to appeal) and that officer is then sued within the 3 year timeframe allowed by the courts in civil suits, I doubt very much that the municipality will choose to indemnify its FORMER employee.

My next major concern is the lack of due process. Leaving an individual's career and livelihood in the hands of a committee, who (in some cases) don't understand the nature of the work (with regards to policing) is nonsensical. Then combine that with an inability to appeal to the Civil Service? How could this be seen in any other light except that as a move against labor unions and collective bargaining rights?

Quite frankly, this bill has been hastily put together and rushed through the Senate without any transparency or input from public stakeholders (save for this less-than-48 hour email submission window).

To completely alter the entire profession of policing, alter the landscape of public sector work, and increase the liability of these workers and their employers all within a 30-45 day window is reckless and irresponsible.

This bill is a knee jerk reaction to the sins of law enforcement officers from other parts of the country. The actions of those officers have been condemned across the board, but should not impact the labor rights of public employees in Massachusetts.

For a state that has led the way with its strong middle class, and as a progressive beacon of hope for so many, to back door the legislative process in the waning hours of a 2 year session is reprehensible.

If I understand it correctly, if this bill passes, state is on the hook for $5mil for implementation. That will be a small drop in the bucket compared to what the towns and cities of Massachusetts will have to pay. Given the budgetary shortfalls so many of these municipalities are facing after COVID, this would be a financial doomsday for many of them.

In short, thank you for this forum, however abbreviated it may be. At the end of the day, this bill is, without a doubt, an anti-labor Bill. It strips the way the rights of workers, and the checks and balances that so many have worked so hard to earn and keep. It is an attack on the middle-class, which in recent years has too often bared the brunt of politically driven policy making .

I hope the House is more thorough and detail oriented in its processing of this bill than its counterparts in the Senate.

Subject: S.2820 - DO NOT PASS

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

I think the bill that was passed is blatantly unfair and unjust to the police/first responders. Removing due process is a clear violation of the Subject: Please vote to protect our police officers ?????

Dear Ms. Gregoire, et al:

I would like to voice my concern over the Senate's bill to do away with qualified immunity for police officers. Qualified immunity is given to ALL members of state, municipal and federal employees in the course of the performance of their job for a reason. It is a protection for the employee and their families to not have worry about losing their home or life savings because someone didn't like the way they did their job. Qualified immunity as written does not protect individuals that violate the constitutional rights of others. But it does protect them and their families from frivolous lawsuits.

If you take it away from only one group - then that is discriminatory. And where does it end - EMT's, fire personal, DCF workers, city councilors, state reps?

If qualified immunity is no longer given to police officers, I believe the Commonwealth will lose a lot of qualified law enforcement officers.

While I understand the need for reform, please do not go overboard by punishing all police officers. They are not the enemy.

Thank you for your time.

Subject: Public Testimony on S.2800 to the House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice Chair Day, and Vice Chair Garlick,

I am writing to request your consideration to expand the existing expungement law (MGL Ch 276, Section 100E) as the House takes up S.2800 to address Racial Justice and Police Accountability. S.2800 includes this expansion and we hope you will consider it as it directly relates to the harm done by over-policing in communities of color and the over-representation of young people of color in the criminal legal system.

I work at UTEC in Lowell and have seen first-hand how the restrictions of the current expungement law negatively impacts otherwise bright futures of young adults who want to turn their lives around and become successful, contributing members of society as well as good parents. The expansions proposed would allow them to succeed - which is their great desire, and they are putting in all the hard work to do so. It is unfair that the current system makes it so difficult for non-violent offenders who made mistakes when they were younger be plagued by them and put down for the rest of their lives.

Our criminal justice system is not immune to structural racism and we join you and all members in the great work needed to set things right. The unfortunate reality is that people of color are far more likely to be subjected to stop and frisk and more likely to get arrested for the same crimes committed by whites. Black youth are three times more likely to get arrested than their white peers and Black residents are six times more likely to go to jail in Massachusetts. Other systems where people of color experience racism are exacerbated, and in many ways legitimized, by the presence of a criminal record. Criminal records are meant to be a tool for public safety but they're more often used as a tool to hold communities of color back from their full economic potential. Expungement can be an important tool to rectify the documented systemic racism at every point of a young person's journey through and past our justice system.

We also know that young adults have the highest recidivism rate of any age group, but that drops as they grow older and mature. The law, however, does not allow for anyone who recidivates but eventually desists from reoffending to benefit. Young people's circumstances and cases are unique and the law aptly gives the court the discretion to approve expungement petitions on a case by case basis, yet the law also categorically disqualifies over 150 charges. We also know that anyone who is innocent of a crime should not have a record, but the current law doesn't distinguish between a dismissal and a conviction. It's for these three main reasons we write to you to champion these clarifications and now is the time to do it.

Since the overwhelming number of young people who become involved with the criminal justice system as an adolescent or young adult do so due to a variety of circumstances and since the overwhelming number of those young people grow up and move on with their lives, we are hoping to make clarifying changes to the law. We respectfully ask the law be clarified to:

- Allow for recidivism by removing the limit to a single charge or incident. Some young people may need multiple chances to exit the criminal justice system and the overwhelming majority do and pose no risk to public safety.

- Distinguish between dismissals and convictions because many young people get arrested and face charges that get dismissed. Those young people are innocent of crimes and they should not have a record to follow them forever.

- Remove certain restrictions from the 150+ list of charges and allow for the court to do the work the law charges them to do on a case by case basis especially if the case is dismissed of the young person is otherwise found "not guilty."

Refining the law will adequately achieve the desired outcome from 2018: to reduce recidivism, to remove barriers to employment, education, and housing; and to allow people of color who are disproportionately represented in the criminal justice system and who disproportionately experience the collateral consequences of a criminal record the opportunity to move on with their lives and contribute in powerfully positive ways to the Commonwealth and the communities they live, work and raise families in. Within a system riddled with racial disparities, the final step in the process is to allow for as many people as possible who pose no risk to public safety and who are passionate to pursue a positive future, to achieve that full potential here in Massachusetts or anywhere.

Thank you for your consideration,

Dear Chairs Michlewicz and Cronin,

Thank you for extending the opportunity for the public to render testimony on a subject as important as this bill (SB2820). I know you are receiving numerous emails and suggestions, so I will keep my comments brief.

1- Qualified Immunity. Many public servants are protected by the doctrine of qualified immunity because their jobs require them to make 'in the moment' decisions in situations that are often unclear and confusing. The doctrine has limits and is not absolute as some people are being lead to believe. I would ask that you not give in to fear and misinformation, but take the time to fully research and debate this topic before rendering a decision that would adversely impact the ability of our public safety professionals to effectively and safely do their jobs.

2- School Resource Officers. I understand the sensitive topic of protecting student information; however, I am concerned that the current language may go too far and compromise the ability of the SROs and school staff to effectively provide for the safety of the school community.

Thank you for your time.

Subject: S2820 Tesitmony

Dear Representatives,

I am writing this email in regard to bill S2800 now known as S2820. After watching S2800 pass through the Senate with no public input or debate and with a vote at 400AM I can say at the very least I am very worried looking at S2820 as it stands now. As a proud police officer and former corrections officer whose given almost 10 years of his life to the state of Massachusetts and the communities within I must say I do not know my fate should this bill pass as it stands currently. One of the bigger concerns revolves around Qualified Immunity. Legislators point out the lack of changes in the states indemnification law C258 as reason we should not worry. Suggesting we will be defended against the massive onslaught of frivolous lawsuits that are sure to follow this bill. But there is one issue no one seems to bring up.... C258 DISCRIMINATES AGAINST MUNICIPAL OFFICERS. Indemnifications for municipal employees (police, fire, local officials ect) is DISCRETIONARY. It is not required. BUT on the other hand people like yourself and other legislators and state executive branches enjoy MANDATORY defense and indemnification for up to $1,000,000.00 if they violate civil rights laws. Oh also I do find it quite unfair that the Massachusetts State Police have their own special statute C258 S9A that provides MANDATORY defense and indemnification for also up to $1,000,000.00 for civil rights violations so long they are not willful or malicious. Municipal officers are the only ones working (if not doing more) without a safety net.

My next worry is in regards to DUE PROCESS. Something the justice system was built on but with this bill it's seemingly wiped away...FOR POLICE OFFICERS. The idea that my along with fellow officers careers may be put in the hands of an inherently political board, mostly NON law enforcement, many with ANTI POLICE agendas, and of the law enforcement representation on this board are administrative in nature. If the board must stand here are some thoughts on what should take place. The boards should be made up of a majority of law enforcement professionals with representatives of management and labor, with appropriate and limited non law enforcement representation. JUST LIKE EVERY OTHER PROFESSIONAL BOARD IN MASSACHUSETTS. Next...the way the bill defines "sustained complaint" is that it views it as final once the city makes a decision. It does not allow for an unbiased review by an arbitrator or civil service..both rights which most have relied upon forever. This is shocking to say the least. In fact both bargaining law and civil service law acknowledge that the city level process is in fact BIASED, and more ever says that employees have no right to a disinterested or unbiased or even full hearing at this city level. The reason for this is that THE LAW PROVIDES THESE APPEALS TO ARBITRATION AND CIVIL SERVICE. So in summary with this bill officers like myself will be stuck with only three permissibly biased, final decisions of the local officials. This simply cannot stand. Just cause protects good officers - NOT BAD OFFICERS. Every good public manager and chief of police knows that if they follow the correct process they are able to remove UNFIT OFFICERS.

Third and lastly the Governors bill did not allow the board to do its own investigation of complaints and to be a place where people could make complaints directly. The senate changed this and now allows for political board members to ignore local IA findings clearing officers, to ignore arbitrators and civil service officers, to ignore DA findings of JUSTIFIED FORCE ect and simply do their own thing. This is wrong on so many levels and truly worrying. This review board should be required to use the facts and findings of UNBIASED officials, it should not be independently creating their own fact findings (which are insulated from appeal other than a legal "abuse of discretion" type appeal) This independent function should be removed and it should be consistent with the Governors bill that the board has a review function ONLY.

The entire reason public employees need just cause prosecutions and appeals are to protect against political influence, just like what is going now ACROSS THE COUNTRY.

I find it also fitting that these decisions take place around the same time almost two years ago when Weymouth Police Sgt. Michael Chesna was violently and ruthlessly killed. Resulting in another innocent member of the public being killed shortly after. On that day did Sgt. Chesna not know what to do when confronted by a criminal holding a large rock getting ready to take his life? Sgt. Chesna an upstanding and "squared away" officer and military vetran? No. He knew he had to defend his life with lethal force, but were the worries of being legally and socially "crucified" running through his head? "Will this be justified? Will I be arrested? Will I be sued?" And as a result tragedy ensued.. Unfortunately if this bill passes as it stands now this will NOT BE the last time something like this happens. You will see officers avoid situations like this all together out of the same fears. Crime will sky rocket and the Commonwealth will suffer. Look at New York City after passing similar bills and laws, shooting and crime have taken over the city and now city officials are actually asking the police to return to doing their job with the rights and protections they stripped from them. It only took New York City weeks to see the error of their ways...how long would it take Massachusetts to see the err of their ways should this bill pass?

Respectfully,

Officer Deven O'Brien

Subject: Testimony in Support of S2820

To Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin:

I am writing to you to provide testimony in support of the passage of S2820, concerning police reform in Massachusetts. Though I do not write as a representative of my employer, it is important to establish what I do professionally as it relates to my support of this bill. I am the Director of Social Services Advocacy for the Committee for Public Counsel Services Public Defender Division. I have worked for CPCS first as a Social Services Advocate in the Boston Trial Unit, then as a regional supervisor in both Central/ Western MA and Eastern MA for 10 years prior to my current position, which I began last fall. Social Services Advocates function as integral members of the defense team - we work with the attorney and with the client to secure necessary treatment services, and to give voice to our clients' life experiences in mitigation and sentencing advocacy, with the hope that they will be treated with fairness in the criminal legal system. In our role, we are privy to the most traumatic and painful moments of our clients' lives, past and present. A theme that has been consistent throughout my work with clients over my years with CPCS has been the trauma and violence experienced at the hands of police - particularly within our Black and Brown communities. While some experience direct incidences of traumatic police violence, the kind that can result in a diagnosis of PTSD, many many more experience the environmental trauma of the constant threat of police violence. Police loom in these communities - not as protectors, but as intimidators - their presence resulting in hypervigilance and distrust. This distrust, founded in very real and measurable abuses by the police towards their communities, results in exactly the opposite of what police exist for; communities who are overpoliced are much less likely to seek police intervention when it is actually needed.

This is not to say that people who live in over-policed want police to cease to exist. People who are over-policed tend to want what everyone wants - to feel safe, and to know that if they call the police due to a threat to their safety that they themselves will not be put at risk in doing so.

This bill is woefully overdue, and is a first step in the right direction to ensure that ALL residents of the commonwealth will be treated equitably by the police, and particular attention will be paid to the inequities, biases, and policies that have led to the over-policing and police violence targeting Black and Brown communities.

Police interaction and police reporting is the gateway to the criminal legal system - it sets the tone for the treatment of the individual as they move into the court system and beyond. Bringing more equity, and more attention to the treatment of Black and Brown people by police could change the course of their interfacing with the criminal legal system, which as we all know is a system that disproportionately affects Black people and People of Color and negatively impacts communities of color.

Thank you for your consideration, and thank you for voting to pass this bill.

Sincerely,

Carrie Burke, LICSW

Subject: S2820

Good morning,

As concerned citizens of the Commonwealth, we write to you today to express our STRONG opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I would like to reiterate that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the RESPECT and DIGNITY they deserve.

Good Morning Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

Senate Bill S.2820 must be passed immediately. Our police standards should be progressively changed amidst what is going on with the current political climate and recent events happening all throughout the county.

However, more importantly, we must shift resources to more positive community resources and initiatives that do not generate unnecessary harm and further divide our communities and our environment even further. We must divert and reinvest revenue into mental health resources and new community-based initiatives that allow Black lives and people/communities of color to be able to live freely within the Commonwealth and within our communities while also them having the same equal opportunities allowing them to grow. There must be a weaving of positive community and positive engagement with police enforcement and the community instead of increasing such already strong separation and dividing matters even further.

Please take into consideration my testimony and I appreciate the hard work of what you, Senators, and Representatives and Chairs in the Legislature are doing currently right now. Thank you.

Very Respectfully,

police accountability measures that include:

- * Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification

PLEASE do adopt the Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity. Currently applicable cases cannot be heard by a jury as they are dismissed because the particular violation of 4th Amendment rights by a public official, such as a police officer, had not been previously contemplated by a statute or a court precedent. Those cases deserve to be heard on their merits, not thrown out using a non-statutory legal doctrine. It is time to put an end to this outrageous injustice preventing those who have suffered from the egregious violations of police officers from getting their day in court.

Do not be swayed by claims that qualified immunity reform will have devastating financial impact on individual police officers as they are indemnified by the municipalities that employ them. Any such claims are not based on fact.

We are calling for real reform to bring justice to our communities.

Thank you.

As a resident and police officer of the the City of Newburyport I request that the Massachusetts House of Representatives do not pass Bill 2820 in it's current draft.

The Bill was so hastily put together that it has numerous flaws which will put police officers as well as the citizens of the Commonwealth at risk. A few examples of the flaws are the changes in qualified immunity, police officers right to due process, and police losing the right to defend themselves effectively in a life or death situation. These are just a few examples.

I thank you for your time and hope that the House of Representatives takes a long look at the Bill in it's current draft and sees the changes that need to be made so the bill protects ALL the citizens of the commonwealth. PLEASE VOTE NO ON BILL 2820.

Subject: opposition to S.2820

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Sarah Kelley and I live at 2 Daventry Court, Lynnfield MA. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

I am writing in favor of S.2820 to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass the bill into law and strengthen it. I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Subject: Testimony for S2820

Dear members of the House of Representatives of Massachusetts,

This morning I write to you as a mother and a wife - my husband is a patrol officer in the town of Southwick, Massachusetts. We have been together since college and he started his career as a police officer immediately after he received his bachelors degree in criminal justice in 2004. Never, in all of our time as a couple (and now as a family with our two young sons) has he ever spoken of considering another line of work to provide for our family. This is a man who as a kindergarten student said he dreamed of being a police officer so that he could help people. Yet, this bill that you are entertaining, An Act to Reform Police Standards (S2820), has affected him to the extent that he has begun to consider leaving his calling. This is a man who has saved countless lives, responded to all sorts of medical calls as a first-responder, comforted families as they experience tragedy and grave loss, deescalated violent and angry individuals, taken reports on sexual assaults, and more recently joined the public schools as their full-time School Resource Officer. This man, my husband, has done all of his work for over the last 15 years with complete professionalism and care. He is now considering doing something else because he fears for the safety and well being of his wife and children, his whole world. He fears that if this bill passes, he cannot protect our home and all that we possess and have worked so diligently to provide for from being unjustly taken from us. His family's well being is at risk... an that is a risk any good father and husband cannot take.

Please hear me when I say that you do not want to lose people like my husband from doing police work... he is the type of person you need doing the work. Passing this bill will cause good, hardworking, honest, fair, and conscientious individuals such as my husband to seek alternate employment in order to minimize the threat to their family's home and financial security.

Thank you for your time and service. Please consider my husband and our family when you decide how you will vote.

Respectfully submitted,

Subject: Testimony on Bill S2820- Please Pass

Hello,

My name is Katie Owens and I am a resident of Roxbury, MA.

In Massachusetts, we need a police force that protects and serves, not one that terrorizes and disrupts. The Reform, Shift, Build Act is a necessary first step in ensuring that our communities are actually safe from racially charged violent policing. I have personally worked with formerly incarcerated men to get them back on their feet and into meaningful employment. When people are given a second chance, or more accurately given their first real chance to succeed in life, they do. Racial Profiling, Excessive force, ignorant police, military weapons that signal "war!", a teenagers fate being determined by misbehavior in school are all egregious things that we currently call protecting and serving. In reality they are costing this state million of dollars annually and far too many lives of valuable and worthy, black and brown residents.

Please make these reforms. Stop feeding into bad policing and mass incarceration. Give people the chance to be better- the same chance that you are now getting.

Change now,

Katie

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Good morning,

My name is Sean Riley I've been a police officer for almost 25 years and a resident of Rutland MA. I wanted to voice my concerns over the recent "Police Reform Bill" recently passed in the senate. I find it disturbing at how "Anti Labor" and prejudicial this reform bill is; it removes our rights to due process. It further eliminates our right to collective bargaining & then inserts a board that has no training, experience or background in law enforcement. Please consider voting against this reform bill & thank you for your time.

Subject: Public Testimony on S.2800 to the House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice Chair Day, and Vice Chair Garlick,

I am writing to request your consideration to expand the existing expungement law (MGL Ch 276, Section 100E) as the House takes up S.2800 to address Racial Justice and Police Accountability. S.2800 includes this expansion and we hope you will consider it as it directly relates to the harm done by over-policing in communities of color and the over-representation of young people of color in the criminal legal system.

Our criminal justice system is not immune to structural racism and we join you and all members in the great work needed to set things right. The unfortunate reality is that people of color are far more likely to be subjected to stop and frisk and more likely to get arrested for the same crimes committed by whites. Black youth are three times more likely to get arrested than their white peers and Black residents are six times more likely to go to jail in Massachusetts. Other systems where people of color experience racism are exacerbated, and in many ways legitimized, by the presence of a criminal record. Criminal records are meant to be a tool for public safety but they're more often used as a tool to hold communities of color back from their full economic potential. Expungement can be an important tool to rectify the documented systemic racism at every point of a young person's journey through and past our justice system.

We also know that young adults have the highest recidivism rate of any age group, but that drops as they grow older and mature. The law, however, does not allow for anyone who recidivates but eventually desists from reoffending to benefit. Young people's circumstances and cases are unique and the law aptly gives the court the discretion to approve expungement petitions on a case by case basis, yet the law also categorically disqualifies over 150 charges. We also know that anyone who is innocent of a crime should not have a record, but the current law doesn't distinguish between a dismissal and a conviction. It's for these three main reasons we write to you to champion these clarifications and now is the time to do it.

Since the overwhelming number of young people who become involved with the criminal justice system as an adolescent or young adult do so due to a variety of circumstances and since the overwhelming number of those young people grow up and move on with their lives, we are hoping to make clarifying changes to the law. We respectfully ask the law be clarified to:

* Allow for recidivism by removing the limit to a single charge or incident. Some young people may need multiple chances to exit the criminal justice system and the overwhelming majority do and pose no risk to public safety.

* Distinguish between dismissals and convictions because many young people get arrested and face charges that get dismissed. Those young people are innocent of crimes and they should not have a record to follow them forever.

* Remove certain restrictions from the 150+ list of charges and allow for the court to do the work the law charges them to do on a case by case basis especially if the case is dismissed of the young person is otherwise found "not guilty."

Refining the law will adequately achieve the desired outcome from 2018: to reduce recidivism, to remove barriers to employment, education, and housing; and to allow people of color who are disproportionately represented in the criminal justice system and who disproportionately experience the collateral consequences of a criminal record the opportunity to move on with their lives and contribute in powerfully positive ways to the Commonwealth and the communities they live, work and raise families in. Within a system riddled with racial disparities, the final step in the process is to allow for as many people as possible who pose no risk to public safety and who are passionate to pursue a positive future, to achieve that full potential here in Massachusetts or anywhere.

Thank you for your consideration,

Shaun McCarthy

Subject: Bill No. S2820

Good Morning,

As someone who has been a police officer for the past nine years, I would like to express my extreme concern with the passing of bill S2820. I believe that the senate version of this bill as written will be detrimental to police and safety of the public alike.

This biggest problem outlined in this bill is the attack on qualified immunity and due process for police officers leaving them susceptible to be sued for any reason even when acting lawfully. The vast majority of police officers are good police officers that always do the right thing with the up most integrity and risk their lives every day. Taking qualified immunity away from good police officers acting within the parameters of the law will only create fear of being sued and losing their livelihood, doubt in their abilities to do the job and hesitation to act amongst police officers when conducting everyday police work. Unfortunately, I believe this doubt, fear and hesitation will cost some officers their lives when making split second decisions in a dangerous situation. In addition, if this bill is passed it would cost the Commonwealth as well as cities and towns within the Commonwealth a fortune in lawsuits.

I also believe The Senate version of a regulatory board described in this bill is unacceptable as it eliminates officers of the due process rights and abolishes protections currently set forth in collective bargaining agreements and civil service law. The Senate created a board that is dominated by anti-police groups who have a long-detailed record of biases against law enforcement and preconceived punitive motives toward police. As a police officer, I cannot support any bill that does not include the same procedural justice safeguards members of the communities we serve demand and enjoy.

The Senate has tried to pass a knee jerk reaction to a single, isolated incident that occurred over a thousand miles away that everyone agrees was egregious. Without a doubt, I believe that this bill is an attempt to gain political clout and legacy rather than protect the citizens and better the communities within the Commonwealth.

I ask that you take these concerns into consideration prior to voting on this bill.

Respectfully,

Jordan Ferreira
Police Officer
New Bedford Police Department

Constituent of the 12 th Worcester District
July 17, 2020

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

Please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color".

I have copied and pasted the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association's letter to you, which I fully support as a resident of the Commonwealth, a Lieutenant with the Clinton Police Department and an associate member of the Association. Please carefully consider the Chief's letter and ideas.

Thank you, Brian W. Coyne

This morning members of the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association Executive Board and representation from the Massachusetts Major City Police Chiefs Association had the opportunity to give a thorough reading and comprehensive review of the recently amended Senate 2820, " An Act to Reform Police Standards and Shift Resources to Build a more Equitable, Fair and Just Commonwealth that Values Black Lives and Communities of Color" submitted to the House on 7/15.

As we have mentioned to both the Senate President and the Speaker of the House during various conference calls over the last couple of weeks, we, as dedicated and committed police leaders, will continue to embrace the challenges that lay ahead, instill strong values into our respective agencies at all ranks, hold ourselves completely accountable for all our actions, and work through these difficult and turbulent times to build a more cohesive future for our communities. With that, we would very much like to be part of this continuing conversation as it pertains to any contemplated police reform, fully realizing that time is of the essence as the legislative formal 2019-2020 session begins to wind down rather quickly.

In the interest of expediency we would like to submit a brief list of bulleted comments in the paragraphs that follow in the hopes of providing some potential insight from our law enforcement/policing perspective that is laid out in this comprehensive 89-page Senate bill. To the extent that we do not have an issue or concern with a specific provision of Senate 2820, or we view it as beyond the scope of local law enforcement we will not mention it in this communication.

The list that follows corresponds to the Section Numbers in Senate 2820 with the applicable line numbers:

*       • SECTION 4 (line 230): Under (iv), the provision states that there shall be training in the area of the "history of slavery, lynching, racist institutions and racism in the United States." While we certainly welcome any and all training that enhances the professionalism and understanding of our officers, we are somewhat perplexed as to why law enforcement will now be statutorily mandated to have such a class to the exclusion of any other government entity? One would believe that based on this particular mandate that the issue of what is inferred to as "racist institutions" is strictly limited to law enforcement agencies which aside from being incredibly inaccurate is also insulting to police officers here in the Commonwealth.

*       • SECTION 6 (line 272): In terms of the establishment of a POST (Peace Officer Standards and Training) Program, the various police chief's organizations here in our state wholeheartedly support the general concept. That said, the acronym of POSAC (Police Officer Standards Accreditation and Accreditation Committee) is causing significant confusion both in this bill and in the Governor's Bill. POST has nothing to do with Accreditation per se but has everything to do with Certification - and by implication "De-certification". In this state, there currently exists a Massachusetts Police Accreditation Commission (MPAC) for over 20 years which is made up of members of Law Enforcement (Chiefs, Ranking Officers), Municipal Government, and Colleges/Universities (Chiefs) in which currently 93 police agencies are accredited based on the attainment of national standards modeled from the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA).

Utilizing the word "Accreditation" in the title is definitely misleading and should be eliminated. To the best of our knowledge 46 other states use the acronym POST which seems to work without any problems or a need to create a new description of the important program.

* • SECTION 6 (line 282): The Senate Bill states that POSAC shall be comprised of "14 members", however as outlined there are actually 15 positions. The MCOPA is strongly advocating for two (2) seats on the POSAC to be appointed by the MCOPA Executive Committee.

*

* • SECTION 6 (line 321) : It appears from the language of the POSAC provision that the committee shall have the power to conduct what is referred to as "independent investigations and adjudications of complaints of officer misconduct" without any qualifying language as to how that would be implemented in terms of what type of alleged misconduct (law violations, use of force, injury, rude complaints, etc.) and when and under what circumstances will adjudications be subject to review resulting in a proposed oversight system that could go down the slippery slope of becoming arbitrary and capricious at some point and subject to a high level of scrutiny and criticism.

*

* • SECTION 10(c) (line 570): Section 10 of "An Act to Reform Police Standards and Shift Resources to Build a more Equitable, Fair and Just Commonwealth that Values Black Lives and Communities of Color" (the Act) is problematic, not only for law enforcement in the Commonwealth, but all public employees. In particular, Section 10 calls for a re-write of the existing provisions in Chapter 12, section 11I, pertaining to violations of constitutional rights, commonly referred to as the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act (MCRA). The MCRA is similar to the provisions of 42 U.S.C. § 1983 (setting for a federal cause of action for a deprivation of statutory or constitutional rights by one acting under color of law), except however, that the provisions of the MCRA as it exists today, does not require that the action be taken under color of state law, as section 1983 does. See G.L. c. 12, § 11H. Most notably, Section 10 of the Act would change that, and permit a person to file suit against an individual, acting under color of law, who inter alia deprives them of the exercise or enjoyment of rights secured by the constitution or laws of the United States or the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. By

* doing so, the Senate is attempting to draw the parallel between the federal section 1983 claim and the state based MCRA claims. The qualified immunity principles developed under section 1983 apply equally to claims under the MCRA. See Duarte v. Healy, 405 Mass. 43, 46-48, 537 N.E.2d 1230 (1989). "The doctrine of qualified immunity shields public officials who are performing discretionary functions, not ministerial in nature, from civil liability in § 1983 [and MCRA] actions if at the time of the performance of the discretionary act, the constitutional or statutory right allegedly infringed was not 'clearly established.'" Laubinger v. Department of Rev., 41 Mass. App. Ct. 598, 603, 672 N.E.2d 554 (1996), citing Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818, 102 S.Ct. 2727, 73 L.Ed.2d 396 (1982); see Breault v. Chairman of the Bd. of Fire Commrs. of Springfield, 401 Mass. 26, 31-32, 513 N.E.2d 1277 (1987), cert. denied sub nom. Forastiere v. Breault, 485 U.S. 906, 108 S.Ct. 1078, 99 L.Ed.2d 237 (1988); Duarte v. Healy, supra at 47-48, 537 N.E.2d 1230. Section 1983 does not only implicate law enforcement personnel. The jurisprudence in this realm has also involved departments of social services, school boards and committees, fire personnel, and various other public employees. That being said, if the intent of the Senate is to bring the MCRA more in line with section 1983, anyone implicated by section 1983, will likewise be continued to be implicated by the provisions of the MCRA. Notably, the provisions of the MCRA are far broader, which should be even more cause for concern for those so implicated. "In an action under this section, qualified immunity shall not apply to claims for monetary damages except upon a finding that, at the time the conduct complained of occurred, no reasonable defendant could have had reason to believe that such conduct would violate the law" "Qualified immunity balances two important interests - the need to hold public officials accountable when they exercise power irresponsibly and the need to shield officials from harassment, distraction, and liability when they perform their duties reasonably." Pearson v. Callahan, 555 U.S. 223 (2009). Although legal scholars and practitioners have a grasp as to the meaning of qualified immunity as it exists today, uncertainty will abound if this standard is re-written, upending nearly fifty years of jurisprudence. Uncertainty in the law can only guarantee an influx in litigation as plaintiffs seek to test the new waters as the new standard is expounded upon by the courts.

* Furthermore, although the Senate's version of "qualified immunity" would only apply to state-based claims under the MCRA, what Section 10 proposes is fairly similar to that proposed by the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals in various decisions. In those instances where the 9th Circuit sought to lower the standard applicable to qualified immunity, the U.S. Supreme Court has squarely reversed the 9th Circuit, going so far as scolding it for its attempts to do so. See Kisela v. Hughes, 138 S.Ct. 1148 (2018); City of Escondido v. Emmons, 139 S.Ct. 500 (2019).

* This definition represents a departure from the federal standard for qualified immunity, although the exact extent to which it departs from the federal standard is up for debate, at least until the SJC provides clarification on it. The federal doctrine of qualified immunity shields public officials of all types from liability under section 1983 so long as their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known. Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800 (1982). Stated differently, in order to conclude that the right which the official allegedly violated is "clearly established," the contours of the right must be sufficiently clear that a reasonable official would understand that what he is doing violates that right. Anderson v. Creighton, 483 U.S. 635 (1987). It protects all but the plainly incompetent and those who knowingly violate the law. Malley v. Briggs, 475 U.S. 335 (1986). As a result, the standard sought to be created under Section 10 of the Act would provide public employees with substantially less protection than that afforded under the federal standard.

* Section 10 of the Act further sets for a new standard for the so-called defense of "qualified immunity." Section 10(c) states that

* In enacting the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act, the Legislature intended to adopt the standard of immunity for public officials developed under section 1983, that is, public officials who exercised discretionary functions are entitled to qualified immunity from liability for damages. Howcroft v. City of Peabody, 747 N.E.2d 729, Mass. App. 2001. Public officials are not liable under the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act for their discretionary acts unless they have violated a right under federal or state constitutional or statutory law that was "clearly established" at the time. Rodriguez v. Furtado, 410 Mass. 878, 575 N.E.2d 1124 (1991); Duarte v. Healy, 405 Mass. 43, 537 N.E.2d 1230 (1989).

* • SECTION 39 (line 1025): The provision to inform both the appointing authority and the local legislative body of the acquisition of any equipment and/or property that serves to enhance public safety makes perfect sense. That said, to have a public hearing available for all in the general public to know exactly what equipment the police departments may or may not possess serves to put communities in jeopardy in that those with nefarious motives will be informed as to what equipment that the department has at its disposal. This is very dangerous.

*

* • SECTION 49 (line 1101-1115): This provision prevents school department personnel and school resource officers (who actually work for police departments), from sharing information with law enforcement officers - including their own agency - when there are ongoing specific unlawful incidents involving violence or otherwise. This quite frankly defies commonsense. School shootings have been on the rise since 2017. Did the Senate quickly forget about what occurred in Parkland, Florida on February 14, 2018? The learning environment in our schools must continue to be safe and secure as possible and information sharing is critical to ensuring that this takes place. Public Safety 101.

* • SECTION 50 (line 1116): There seems to be a slight nuance to the amended language to Section 37P of Chapter 71 replacing "in consultation with" to "at the request of." Many police departments have had school resource officer programs in this state for 25 years or longer. The only reason why officers are assigned to the schools are because they have been "requested" to be there by the school superintendents - period. The reality is that many school districts even reimburse the police budgets for the salaries of these officers who serve as mentors for these young middle and high school students. If the Senate is being told that police chiefs are arbitrarily assigning officers to schools without first receiving a specific request from the school superintendents, they are being misled. The 2018 Criminal Justice Reform Act has very specific language that outlines the qualifications of an SRO, the joint performance evaluations that are to be conducted each year, the training that they shall have and the language specific MOUs that must exist between the Schools and the Police Department. We are very confused as to why this provision needs to be included.

*

* • SECTION 52 (lines 1138-1251): There are several recommended changes to data collection and analysis as it pertains to motor stopped motor vehicles and pedestrians in this section. The Hands Free/Data Collection Law was signed into law only a few months ago before the onset of the pandemic. The new law contains a comprehensive system of data collection, benchmarking, review, analyses and potential consequences. While we continue to welcome data that is both accurate and reliable, the issue pertaining to the classification of an operator's race has still yet to be resolved. Before any data from calendar year 2020 has yet to be collected by the RMV and subsequently analyzed by a College/University selected by the Secretary of EOPSS, these provisions now look to complicate the matter even further before a determination has actually been made as to whether any problem of racial or gender profiling actually exists here in our state. We won't belabor the point, but this language appears to be what did not make its way into the Hands-Free Law which as you know was heavily debated for several months based strictly on the data collection component.

*

* • SECTION 55 (line 1272) To be clear, we do not teach, train, authorize, advocate or condone in any way that choke holds or any type of neck restraint that impedes an individual's ability to breathe be used during the course of an arrest or physical restraint situation. That said, we respect the discussion and concern pertaining to what is now a national issue based on the tragedy in Minneapolis. Under part (d) the language states that "[a] law enforcement officer shall not use a choke hold. [...]" What should also be included is a commonsensical, reasonable and rational provision that states, "unless the officer reasonably believes that his/her life is in immediate jeopardy of imminent death or serious bodily injury." There needs to be a deadly force exception to eliminate any possible confusion that this could cause for an officer who is in the midst of struggling for their life and needs to avail themselves of any and all means that may exist to survive and to control the subject. This is a reasonable and fairly straightforward recommendation.

* • [Recommended New Section] Amends GL Chapter 32 Section 91(g): In order to expand the hiring pool of trained, educated, qualified and experienced candidates with statewide institutional knowledge for the Executive Directors' positions for both the Municipal Police Training Committee as well as the newly created POSAC (or POST), the statute governing the payment of pensioners for performing certain services after retirement, shall be amended to allow members of Group 4 within the state retirement system to perform in these two (2) capacities, not to exceed a three (3) year appointment unless specifically authorized by the Governor. We appreciate the opportunity to weigh in with our concerns and recommendations and hope that you would give due consideration to what we have outlined above. Should you have any follow up questions and/or concerns please do not hesitate to contact either of us in the days or hours that lay ahead. We respect that time is of the essence regarding this important legislation and stand ready to assist if and when called upon. Respectfully Submitted: Chief Brian A. Kyes Chief Jeff W. Farnsworth

*

* We will continue to be bound by our duty to public service, our commitment to the preservation of life, and our responsibility for ensuring our communities are safe. We will not waver. Thanks again for your diligent efforts in drafting this comprehensive legislation for the House and in continuing to add credibility and transparency to our valued partnership in serving our respective communities.

Hello,

My name is PhiYen, and I am a resident of Boston, MA and I unequivocally support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800).

Massachusetts has always been on the forefront of states passing legislation to support the people that live here and we've never shied away from decisions that seemed radical at the time. I have always been proud of - and bragged about - MA being the first state to legalize gay marriage, and I hope to see us continue to make the right choices ahead of the curve and set the standard for the rest of the country to follow.

It's time to eliminate qualified immunity, ban chokeholds, reallocate state funds to communities disproportionately impacted by the criminal justice system, and allow the Mass AG to file lawsuits against discriminatory police departments.

If the House does not pass this bill now, we all know that it will never get passed. And if the House does anything to this bill, they should be expanding on it, not taking away from it.

I hope to see this legislation pass so I can continue to be a proud resident.

Thank you,

PhiYen

Dear Committee Members,

I am a retired Norwood police officer of twenty-six plus years. I continue to serve my community performing traffic safety details.

I am concerned about the recent passing of this bill in the senate without public in-put. I think it was emotionally declared in the Emergency Preamble that without immediate reforms black lives and others of color are not valued. This is being done hastily.

There are some reforms that are met by police officers with little or no resistance. Training has always been valued at my department, and standards throughout MA benefit all officers, especially when a situation arises when you are working a scene with another jurisdiction.

One of aspect of this bill which is demoralizing to police officers is the change to qualified immunity. I believe this jeopardizes an officer's life. If an officer has to respond to a volatile situation and has to be concerned with his/her response, fearing criminal liability, they may hesitate to take the correct action.

Another aspect of the bill that I believe is demoralizing is the creation of a board/agency to conduct misconduct investigations of police officers. Why does it not make sense to have this group staffed by law enforcement officers who have done the job, know the fear, know the split-second decision making that has to be done, and know what a reasonable police officer would do in a given situation? What qualifies a civilian to judge a performance they have never had to do themselves?

I hope that more time will be taken to examine this bill more closely, and to accept in-put from law enforcement professionals.

Respectfully submitted,

Maureen Murphy-Payne

The League of Women Voters advocates against systemic racism in the justice system and supports preventing excessive force and brutality by law enforcement.

We urge you to support the inclusion of the following measures:

HD.5128, An Act Relative to Saving Black Lives and Transforming Public Safety, State Representative Liz Miranda bans choke-holds, no knock warrants, tear gas, and hiring abusive officers; creates a duty to intervene and to de-escalate and requires maintaining public records of officer misconduct.

HB.3277 An Act to Secure Civil Rights through the Courts of the Commonwealth, State Representative Michael Day which ends the practice of qualified immunity, making it possible for police officers to be personally liable if they are found to have violated a person's civil rights.

Dear Representatives,

I'm writing to express my strong opposition to the Police Reform Bill recently passed by the Massachusetts state senate. This bill undermines the ability of first responders to do their jobs and thereby jeopardizes the safety of all citizens of the Commonwealth. It will impact minority neighborhoods disproportionately and its difficult to understand how legislators could be so clueless not to see this! More importantly, are the lives and safety of our brave, professional men and women, who selflessly put on a uniform and go to work protecting and serving all of us.

The citizens of Massachusetts have elected you to represent us. Use your good judgement and common sense; stand up for what is right and vote to defeat this egregious law.

Subject: S.2820 from Female Police Officer (NAPD)

Good Morning.

My name is Julie Nigro and I'm a police officer in North Andover, in my 11th year.

I'd like to ask that three pieces of the legislation be removed and I'll go into further details below:

- (1) Qualified Immunity
- (2) Due Process and
- (3) Makeup of the Committee/Boards

First of all, having spoke with several senators and some representatives, it appears there is still some monumental misunderstanding surrounding qualified immunity so I'm going to try my best to explain it.

To GOOD police officers, Qualified Immunity is exactly how it sounds... one needs to "qualify" in order to receive "immunity." Being a police officer in and of itself does NOT "qualify" you for immunity. It is not a blanket immunity either. It is looked at in a case by case basis.

Simply stated, when I became a police officer, I knew that if I did certain things, I would be protected from being sued... (1) Don't break the law (2) Don't violate department policy (3) Don't violate civil rights or (4) Don't act outside the scope of my training...

So, if I do my job within those parameters, I will qualify for immunity. That makes me feel safe that I can trust my instincts, experience and training when I need to make a split second decision because I know I'm one of the good guys and my actions will show accordingly... even if there are mistakes made, as all humans err.

Egregious acts, like in the George Floyd case, would not be covered by qualified immunity. Rightly so.

However, there is also language regarding previous litigation and granting immunity on what was done in the past. I am all for the language to be revisited surrounding past practice, and perhaps maybe setting a new standard (such as leaving it to the 4 points mentioned above)... but abolishing QI completely will most likely drive good police, including me, out of this profession. It's bad enough the state already pulled the funding for the Quinn Bill to attract educated individuals to this field.

I, myself, studied and Graduated from Merrimack College in 2002 with two bachelors degrees in Psychology and Sociology. I then attended Suffolk University and graduated in 2007 with highest honors (Suma Cum Laude) with 2 Masters Degrees in Mental Health Counseling and Criminal Justice. I missed out on the Quinn Bill because it was pulled. Luckily we have a stipend in place but it's far less than what I would have received had I received Quinn Bill. Some departments lost any incentive at all to go for higher education.

I disgress, Qualified Immunity is one of the reasons I'm able to do my job to the best of my ability. I feel secure that as long as my intentions are good, I'll be protected and my family will be protected.

Let me give some examples:

Some towns, like mine, have policies that state you need to stop at every red light and stop sign when responding to emergency calls with lights and sirens activated... but if I were to be going to a call and blow through a red light without stopping and kill someone, I would not, and should not, be covered by qualified immunity. This is what the state legislatures are failing to see.... QI is to protect those doing things in GOOD faith and that's why it NEEDS to be removed from this bill. You don't need to throw out QI in order to protect citizens and expose bad police. The language needs to be edited, such as past practice litigation being a determinant... the QI should not be removed altogether.

Honestly, I'm not surprised most people do not understand it because most people are not police. What I am shocked about is how little politicians know about what we do as police in THIS state as far as our education and training, compared to other states, not to mention the lack of understanding on the issue of QI.

Think of this scenario... I respond to a person trapped in a burning car. I pull them out and inadvertently cause a spinal injury. Now they decide to sue me for the injury, even though I saved their life. QI protects us from those lawsuits. With this law, anyone can sue us for anything... and guess who picks up the tab for the legal fees incurred by the plaintiff? The taxpayers. The state (YOU) will provide the attorney fees for those frivolous lawsuits. Now during the process of the suit, the officer is probably put on leave... Nevermind the stress of being under constant scrutiny and a microscope for every little decision you make with only seconds to make them in??

Another point is if we go to court for a motion to suppress and it's granted by the judge (meaning whatever they want to suppress gets tossed)... the state then opens up an incident of a civil rights violation and tracks all of them. So basically ONE judge determines if the motion is granted and now we have this record of a violation? What happened to having a jury or a panel decide. Judges' rulings get overturned all the time in court cases... which shows they are subject to their own human errors as well... and where is our right to appeal this if it happens?

In addition, we know that about 70% of motions get granted (a number given to us by a union lawyer who is involved in these types of proceedings) and did you know that a judge can grant a motion to suppress and still say they found the officer credible.... that it could have been something minor that caused the suppression... or possibly just bad report writing.... 70%!!!! That's a lot of lawsuits... just saying...

Finally, making up a panel to decide on our certifications and discipline that's not made up of subject matter experts??? Lawyers have review boards made up of lawyers and judges, Doctors have review boards made up of doctors.... I feel there should be at the very LEAST 50% of police on the board... not to mention judges, lawyers, etc.... and it does not seem racially equal. It seems to be all minorities. Sorry but every demographic needs to be represented... White, Latino, Black and Asian, equally across the board. If you truly want to be fair.

In addition, you are also taking Union rights away from everyone when you allow this civilian review board to take on a case even after its cleared by civil service. What's the point then of civil service if it's ruling does not matter? It's also allowing this board to conduct their own investigation where they won't be required to use the evidence or facts that may have already been used during arbitration or civil service... I should've even have to express how this causes issues of double jeopardy and violation of fifth amendment rights (self incrimination).

No one is saying we don't need to improve because there is ALWAYS room for improvement. Training? We all LOVE training! The more the better. MA has some of the BEST police depts in the country and I feel it's due to our higher standards and excellent education and training!

I'll draw from some personal experience... When I was a rookie, only in my 15th month working full time, I was dispatched to a stabbing. When I got there, alone, I observed a man sitting on the sidewalk all bloody with bystanders around him pressing towels and shirts against his wounds. I then asked where the suspect was and was directed to a driveway. The individual was covered in blood holding a butchers knife. I drew my weapon and ordered him to drop the knife. Another officer arrived and he drew down on the suspect as well. We ordered him to toss the knife and he eventually threw it in an open window to a parked car next to him. We then ordered him to put his hands in the air and he to get on the ground but he wouldn't comply after several attempts. He then reached into his coat and pulled out his wallet. It could have been a gun he was pulling out and I probably could have shot him justifiably to protect myself from a possible threat. But we had such restraint to wait to the absolute last second. That shows you we have excellent training, calm demeanor, and that just because we carry a gun does not mean we want to use it.

Unlike some cops, who can go their whole career without ever taking their gun out of the holster aside from training, I've had to pull mine out on several occasions. But I never pulled the trigger.

I'll give you one more personal example. We got called to a house by two teenage boys about their father who was drunk. The mom and sons wanted him to leave for the evening but he did not want to go. Went to officers arrived, they discussed bringing the gentleman to his mothers house to sleep it off. Initially he was very cooperative and understanding and was gathering his belongings. Myself and another officer had arrived outside the home because the two officers inside we're fairly new. They radioed to us that everything was all right so we stayed outside just in case.

After a few minutes, we noticed some unusual activity through the living room window where we saw the two teenage boys running towards the other end of the house. The other officer and I entered the house and found the two officers talking with the now irate father who did not want to cooperate anymore and wanted to remain in the home.

As the veteran officer in front of me entered the room, the father punched him in the face. The two new officers and the vet officer ended up on the bed with the suspect, who was lying face down and would not put his hands out from underneath him. One officer was holding one arm, the other holding the other arm, and the veteran officer was kneeling on the end of the bed. I pulled out my taser and instructed the father to put his hands out by his side because he was under arrest for assault and battery on a police officer. When the father refused to do this, I press my taser against his thigh and gave what's called a drive stun for 1 second. When he did not comply, I tased him again for what I thought was 2 seconds. When he did not comply, I tased him again for what I thought was 3 seconds. And finally, I tased him a 4th time for what I thought was for 4 seconds and we were are able to get him into handcuffs.

When I was done with my report and after a day or so when my DT instructors were able to review the recording of the tase, he told me I had been wrong in my thought on how long I tased the father. He told me I had only tased him for 1 second every time. I was so concerned about not overdoing it that I actually did less. This is attributed to my training and education and that I'm a good police officer who keeps calm and uses the best judgment I can in tense circumstances.

So with that being said, all we ask is that you don't act in haste, especially in regards to these 3 points. You can still pass a reform bill and leave these items out for further review and more research.

That would be the intelligent, rational thing to do here, especially when no one is an expert on these matters.

I feel that if you remove these protections, then those of us with good training and higher education will find other places to work... whether it be another state LE agency or possibly outside of law enforcement altogether, both of which offer us better working conditions.

Voting on issues you don't fully understand is very troubling to me, and it should be to you. These issues need to be removed and should have never been thrown into this bill frivolously, especially when it's going to ultimately jeopardize everyone's safety.

Thank you for your time!

Subject: RE: S2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin:

On behalf of the NAACP Boston Branch, I submit the following priorities for your consideration. We believe it is an imperative that the Commonwealth moves swiftly to bring about meaningful policing reform and to address structural racism. Though not strong enough, we believe S2820 could be a meaningful start. It is our hope that the House will take steps to strengthen S2820 and that you will prioritize the following:

1. Use of force- We are engaged in this debate today because of excessive use of force on the part law enforcement. To be clear the death of George Floyd is not a unique situation and we in the Commonwealth are not immune from this type of action on the part of enforcement. If every life is valued then we must have laws in place that protect all life. The primary focus of the legislature should be on protecting life and our use of force laws must be strengthened in order for that to happen. Ban chokeholds, knee-holds, and the use of other tactics known to have deadly consequences. The language proposed by the Senate is woefully insufficient and perpetuates the loop hole used across this country to justify the murder of Black people. The current system is what has, for generations, led to the brutal and senseless murder of Black people at the hand of law enforcement. Well trained, anti-racist have nothing to fear when we have strong use of force laws.

2. Standards, Training and Licensure- Both the Governor and Senate have advanced this legislation in a meaningful way. This is one of the structural changes that has been a long time coming. As one of only six states without licensing standards, we are behind the rest of the nation. It is imperative that our standards, training and licensing process is strong and has participation from community for it to have integrity. The composition of the licensing board matters. It must not be filled with members of law enforcement. It must be inclusive of civil rights advocates, the defense bar, and victims of police violence. To have credibility, those seats must hold the majority.

3. Civil Service- Systems are facilitated by people. Currently, law enforcement across the Commonwealth is overwhelmingly white. Is this intentional? The civil service system perpetuates the lack of racial, ethnic and gender diversity in our law enforcement ranks. That lack of diversity impacts how policing is executed in cities and towns across the Commonwealth. Civil Service is a contributor to racial exclusion, and we need to find a way to continue supporting access to good jobs for our veterans while also removing the exclusionary barriers for Black, LatinX, AAPI people and women across all races.

4. Qualified Immunity- The Massachusetts Civil Rights Act contains language making it virtually impossible for a victim's family to have all options available to them when the life of a loved one has been unjustly taken away from them by law enforcement. A grieving mother is a grieving mother. Our current system does not have any meaningful support for the mothers and family members of police violence. Our current system tells those mothers that the lives of their sons did not matter- they are expendable. Eliminating the barriers for civil lawsuits would allow these mothers and family members to pursue justice. It would give them a tool to hold rogue police officers, operating outside of their training, to be held personally responsible for their actions. This action would place the life of a person over the personal property of another. Do we value life or material items?

5. Structural Racism- The work of our legislature cannot begin and end with policing reform. Law enforcement is not the only place we find systemic racism. Indeed, it is in our education system, which is why we must fund the Student Opportunity Act, our economic system, which is why the Governor's economic bond bill is so important, how we respond to environmental issues, which is why the Environmental Justice Act is so important, and as we well know our voting system. We need the legislature to remain focused on these issues long after this bill becomes law. To that end we strongly encourage your support of the African American Racial Equity Commission.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Tanisha Sullivan, President

Subject: S.2800 opposition

To whom it may concern,

My name is Tim O'Brien and I live at 6 Beechtree Circle in Wakefield, Ma. I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2800, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously unrealistic lawsuits.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Tim O'Brien

Subject: Qualified immunity for police officers

MA House of representatives:

It came to my attention that last night the MA Senate passed the bill to end qualified immunity for police officers. I am appalled that the legislature of such importance was passed without a public hearing.

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

A horrible death happened in Minnesota and everybody condemned it. But why the whole profession of policemen is punished for that? I talked to Brookline police and there has been not a single incident of police brutality for the years of existence of Brookline police. Massachusetts police in general is an exemplary organization. Why are you in such a hurry of changing the law? This new law will harm not only police but the whole population of Massachusetts.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

Dear representatives,

We are against of the provisions in the Police Reform Act that will restrict qualified immunity for police in Massachusetts. The number of frivolous lawsuits will be increased without improving of police work. Before decide on this drastic measures you need to consider all effects of this.

Please consider changing the incoming legislation in the way that does not have these extremely negative consequences.

I feel strongly that input from the public and key minority groups was lacking and this bill should not have proceeded through the Senate. The bill is well-thought out,, responsible or equitable. All parties need to be brought to the table in crafting a bill of this importance.

Thank you for taking and considering my comments.

Subject: S.2820 Reforming Police Standards Hearing Notice

Honorable Committee Chairs:

I write to you today to comment on S.2820 and express the hope of the people of my district, who wish to see profound changes in the way that policing is conducted in Massachusetts. I have had the opportunity to observe police officers and departments; my father was a police officer for part of his working life, and for the first eight years of my professional life as a lawyer, I worked in two municipal law departments, where I defended many lawsuits brought pursuant to 42 USC section 1983. I also advised police departments, and was involved in internal investigations, disciplinary matters, and other matters.

There are many examples of civic-minded and selfless conduct by police officers, but I've observed a tendency on the part of too many police officers to behave as if they were a law unto themselves. I've also learned that many ordinary, law-abiding, white people are deeply afraid of the police. In in all my years in public office, I've had many, many constituents approach me with serious, credible complaints about police misconduct; almost none wished to make official complaints, for fear of some sort of retaliation.

Such a situation is unwholesome anywhere, and I would guess that it's fairly widespread. It is painful to imagine how police are perceived in communities of color. There is widespread demand that we as legislators rebalance this power dynamic, and not just our impose more limitations and accountability on police, but embrace a more transformative approach to keeping the peace and good order of our communities.

I generally support S2820; most of the changes it makes are so innocuous that it's hard to see what the fuss is about. The police standards and accreditation process of section 4 introduces a system well overdue. The improvements to training are good, though it's not clear to me that they will be sufficient to effect cultural change.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees:

I'm writing in favor of S.2820, that will bring dire reform to the first stage in the criminal justice system. I thank you for the past work done on the recently passed Criminal Justice Reform Bill.

I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law, and strengthen it in future years.

I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity, (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Subject: Objections to S.2800

Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin
Massachusetts House of Representatives
24 Beacon Street

Boston, MA 02133

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

My name is Candace Berrena and I live at 144 Hyde Hill Road in Goshen, Massachusetts.

I am writing to express my opposition to the current Senate bill S.2800, which was passed in the Massachusetts Senate this week and is being heard in the Massachusetts House of Representatives tomorrow for consideration.

My oppositions to this bill are very simple and straight-forward. First, this bill will change the current legal standard of the Qualified Immunity doctrine in Massachusetts state courts. The present standard allows the courts to consider past precedent and established legal authority, and the information the public official possessed at the time of their alleged illegal action when determining whether the doctrine will apply to a public official defendant before a case can go forward.

S.2800 would change the established legal standard to only allow the court to consider what every reasonable defendant would have understood as being illegal at the time of their alleged illegal action before allowing the case to go forward. This shift in legal doctrine would completely ignore the bedrock legal doctrine of stare decisis and legal precedent, and prohibit courts from benefiting from past decisions, both mandatory and persuasive, that would apply to the case at bar.

This will completely erode Qualified Immunity because it places far too much subjectivity into the decision whether to bring forward cause of action against a public employee. A finder of fact will be left to make their decisions in a vacuum, without the benefit of fairness and established legal precedents.

Secondly, I oppose S.2800 because of the changes it makes to the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act or "MCRA." Currently, under the MCRA, a plaintiff's case may only go forward against a public employee for acts that interfere with the exercise and enjoyment of [a citizen's] constitutional rights, as well as rights secured by the constitution or laws of the Commonwealth, where such interference of constitutional or statutory rights were achieved or attempted through threats, intimidation or coercion.

The proposed changes in § 10(b) of S.2800 completely delete the requirements of threats, intimidation and coercion be present in a public employee's alleged violation of the plaintiffs constitutional rights. This will, in effect, open the flood-gates for causes of action to be brought in Massachusetts state courts under the MCRA under this weakened standard. As you are aware, causes of action that lie under the MCRA are eligible for consideration of awarding attorney's fees if there is a favorable verdict for the plaintiff. What will stop unscrupulous plaintiffs and their attorneys from filing suit under this weakened standard in an attempt to exact a quick settlement that includes attorney's fees? The gatekeeper will be asleep at the wheel, as the finders of fact will have no way to dismiss these frivolous claims before they make their way into court.

Finally, please consider the families, children, spouses and public employees themselves when making your decisions regarding this piece of flawed legislation. Qualified Immunity was established to shield public employees who act in good faith from frivolous and exhortative lawsuits. The erosions of S.2800 will place hardworking and dedicated public employees in a position where personal liability could apply in situations where it never should. Are their homes, college savings accounts, retirement accounts and personal assets so un-valuable that they should be forfeited to settle damages in these cases? Our public employees, especially our police officers, deserve better.

I implore you to take more time and truly consider the far reaching implications of this bill. There is no doubt that there are things that need to change in law enforcement, but this is not how they should change. A bill that is filed as a knee-jerk reaction in an attempt to solve a real problem will only create more problems. Discussion, conversation, debate, opposition and objection, are all cornerstones to our democratic process. We must use them, even embrace them, in order to find a solution to police reform that is both meaningful and pragmatic.

Very truly yours,

Candace Berrena

To Whom it may concern:

Many have been outspoken in protest to police brutality through the black lives matter marches across the nation. This has obviously been a catalyst in drafting legislation like this bill and other similar bills. As a city councilor for 4 terms over the last 12 years, I have come to appreciate our local law enforcement personnel

And have had conversations with commissioners, chiefs, captains, sergeants, and officers. I fully rely on their expertise to manage the police department. They live here and know the community and the management and commissioners know the department well. Well enough to train and operate effectively and without bigotry towards any group. This bill, although having good intentions to reform our law enforcement, is managing local police on a state level. This is once again state government overreach and micromanaging. I implore you to let the local police departments continue to train and manage their teams. I encourage you to perhaps form a task force consisting of a mix of local police and experts in law enforcement that will take the next year or so to improve our system. This will bring real change if needed in the departments across the commonwealth instead of creating more legislation that is redundant and frankly a disrespect to the hard work that each local law enforcement entity carries out on a daily, weekly, and monthly basis. They know how to enforce the law effectively and fairly, train the team, discipline, watch for injustice, promote their staff, etc.

Let's not allow a few incompetent cops amongst nearly 700,000 across the nation to drive overreaching legislation. Stop reinventing the wheel that is driving our law enforcement system very well in our commonwealth and instead give local departments a platform on how to improve on an already successful system.

I oppose this bill wholeheartedly and speak for several residents and other elected officials who have spoken to me.

Respectfully Yours,

Nicholas J. Morganelli Jr.

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: Police reform

To whom it may concern,

I have been a police officer for over 14 years now and I must say that resent developments are very troubling! Qualified immunity does not just effect us, but all social servants that choose to help people in need. This immunity protects our personal property while we perform the duties of first responders. Please protect this! It will only hurt the people that you are attempting to help with this bill.

As for eliminating due process that has been fought for through collective bargaining, it's shameful. I beg you to please slow this process down and take the time to get input from people that are in the know. Get this right! Civilization as you know it depends on it! Please allow us as police officers help you restore order and attempt to move forward in the right direction. A knee jerk reaction to loud and small group should not be cause to change laws that have been I acted through collective bargaining.

Thank you for hearing this on my behalf and all my other brother and sister officers that stand on the front lines to keep you and everyone else safe!!!

Subject: Vote NO

To the Ways and Means Committee of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

My name is Erin Callahan and I live in Milton, MA. I am writing this letter to voice my concern that again no public hearing was held on this matter and it lacks transparency.

The people I know who are police officers are the most compassionate and caring people I know. I trust them to protect my family and community. The police departments in Massachusetts are some of the best in the country and represent what policing should look like around the country. This bill is a slap in the face to the hard working and professional police officers and their families. This bill is not reform. It is a rushed bill to pander to the few who believe what happened across the country applies to Massachusetts. It is disheartening and shows the lack of respect the politicians of Massachusetts have for their constituents.

I am submitting this letter as my written testimony. I write to you today to express my strong opposition to the hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth and encourage you to vote AGAINST Senate bill 2800 submitted to the House of Representatives. It deprives police officers of Massachusetts any basic protections afforded to all other public employees in Massachusetts. It is a rush to judgment being developed behind closed doors. Issues of policing, health and human services, and race are too important to be rushed. Of the many concerns, the following in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety because police officers may become more concerned about personal liability than public safety.

The proposed changes to QI will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues. Unintended and unnecessary changes to QI will hamstring police officers in the course of their duties because they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions. Officers may second guess doing what is necessary for public safety and protecting the community because of concerns about legal exposure.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse, and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and policy participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally nontransparent.

The original version of the bill was over 70 pages and had multiple changes to public safety sections of the general laws. It was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for Senators to digest/caucus and receive public comment. This process was a sham.

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased.

The Governor and support of the bill promised to use the 160 or so professional regulatory agencies as a guide for police certification. The senate instead created a board without precedent. The 15-member board proposed to oversee, and judge police officers includes no more than six police officers and four of those police officers will be management/Chief representatives. The remainder of the committee will be dominated by groups critical of law enforcement, if not parties that regularly sue police and law enforcement. The civilian members on the board will lack any familiarity with the basic training, education or standards that apply to police officers. All the other 160 boards include a strong majority of workers from the profession supplemented by a few individuals to represent the general public. Imagine if police officers were appointed to a board to oversee teachers licenses!

4. The removal or any change to Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques that all police personnel unequivocally support.

All police organizations support major parts of the bill: strengthening standards and training; having a state body that certifies police officers; banning excessive force techniques and enhancing the diversity process. Once we have uniform standards and policies and a statutory ban of certain use-of-force techniques then officers and the public will know the standards that apply to police officers and conduct that is unaccepted and unprotected by QI.

This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets.

5. Police Officers Deserve the same Due Process Afforded to all Other Public Employees

Public employees and their unions have a right for discipline to be reviewed by a neutral, independent expert in laborrelations - whether an arbitrator or the Civil Service Commission. This bill makes the Commissioner's decisions or the new Committee's decisions the final authority on certain offenses.

We should affirm the right of all employees to seek independent review of employer discipline at arbitration or civil service.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,

Erin CallahanFrom: Jaclyn Rambarran <jaclynr61@gmail.com>

Testimony in support of:

Bill S.2800- An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color

Submitted by:

Jaclyn Rambarran

109 N. Sturbridge Rd.

Charlton, MA 01507

Rep. Aaron Michlewitz, Rep. Claire D. Cronin, and members of the House Committee on Ways and Means and the Joint Committee on the Judiciary for the police reform bill above:

My name is Jaclyn Rambarran and I am a resident of Charlton, MA. I am writing to voice my strong support for Bill S.2800.

Bill S.2800 is important because it holds police in this state more accountable for their actions, shifts necessary resources into communities of color, and begins the difficult work of reducing institutionalized violence. This nation's policing system, which includes the police force of the Commonwealth, was born of the Night Patrol of early America, which had the goal of returning escaped slaves back to their owners. The modern policing system is flooded with racism and oppression of society, inundated with unchecked implicit bias, inadequate training, lack of accountability, racist quotas, cultural insensitivity, and a lack of diversity. While the bill is not comprehensive in reforming the state's policing, it is a necessary step in the right direction.

Black Americans, which comprise 13% of the U.S. population, are victims in 26% of police shootings. Law enforcement kills black Americans at 2.8 times the rate of white non-Latinos, and 4.3 times the rate of Asian Americans. Despite the increased attention in recent years, only about 1% of police officers involved with these deaths are charged with a crime, and even less are convicted. I've witnessed this lack of accountability for police officers in my hometown.

Earlier this year, ex-trooper David Wilson, former police lieutenant from my hometown of Charlton, was involved in an overtime scandal resulting in his unlawful gain of $31,000. He will serve NO jail time for this heinous crime. While this particular case does not involve overt violence towards communities of color, it speaks great volumes to the biases in our justice system, the fact that many officers work unchecked, and the needs to both hold police accountable for their actions and reallocate financial resources (that currently end up, unlawfully, in the pockets of cops) into communities of color, which grapple with underfunded and underdeveloped community assistance programs. I think this is abhorrent. I am disappointed to see this Commonwealth historically not hold our police officers to a higher standard, and Bill S.2800 will begin the long process of reforming the system such that this higher standard is instituted.

I respectfully urge you, Reps Michlewitz and Cronin, and the members of the joint committees to support this very important legislation.

Thanks.

Jaclyn Rambarran

Subject: [External]: Please pass a strong omnibus bill to increase police accountability

Dear Rep. Domb

As your constituent, I'm writing to ask you include three essential measures in any legislation on police accountability and racial justice. Please prohibit violent police tactics, impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is not immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights. Banning violent police tactics is meaningless if there is no way for people to hold the police accountable when they break the rules. Victims of police brutality deserve justice.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing. The dangers of face surveillance and systemic racism in policing will not evaporate in mere months. The moratorium on the use of this technology should not be lifted until the legislature enacts meaningful regulation to guard against racial bias, invasions of privacy, and violations of due process

Massachusetts has an opportunity to be a leader in this nationwide movement—and as your constituent I implore you to take that opportunity to do the right thing. We need to deliver racial justice to Black and Brown people in our state, and that starts with baseline police accountability through robust legislation.

Please work to include the above provisions in the final version of this bill.

I strongly support the Senate's police reform bill and it is imperative that the House include these provisions in their version of the bill:

- The same limits to qualified immunity that the Senate included. This is vitally important to protect the constitutional rights of Massachusetts residents.

- Amendment 108, which prevents schools from sharing personal information about students into local, state, and federal databases.

- Amendment 65, which bans tear gas, a chemical weapon banned in warfare.

- Amendment 80, which gives superintendents and school committees the ability to authorize a school resource officer, rather than the current unfunded mandate for every district to have SROs. Districts should have local control over their own budgets and policies.

Subject: Reforming Police Standards

Good Morning

Thank you for reading my email statement. I would also like to thank all of our police men and woman for keeping our country, state and communities safe.

I am writing today to ask for changes in police standards with respect to restraints, actions taken for minor infractions of the law and profiling based on race.

I work in the public schools as a School Adjustment Counselor and we are trained in restraints. We first try de-escalation when a student is dysregulated. We try to put the student at ease, listen, acknowledge feelings and try to calm the individual down. If this does not work we try the least invasive restraint and only escalate to a four point restraint, where four people are involved (which officers could have easily done with George Floyd, Eric Garner for example) only if the student becomes a danger to themselves or others. During any restraint we must let go of the student after a certain amount of time (typically 2 minutes or less) to see if the student continues to be unsafe to himself or others. Any restraints over two minutes need to be reported. At no time do we put a knee or choke hold on a student. If a student seems to be in need of medical care during the restraint we immediately get the nurse involved and get her/his recommendations. I would like to see our police use the same protocols and reporting system. Any restraints that may kill someone should be eliminated and considered illegal.

I would also like to mention that a suspect for a minor infraction (selling cigarettes, fell asleep in line at a drive through, potentially using counterfeit money, etc.) and they run away, let them run. The police can pick them up at another time. The police have access to everyone's home address. I doubt someone would leave the state for selling lose cigarettes. I do not understand why the police would shoot those individuals or hold them for 8+ minutes watching the suspect die.

I am also advocating for a more diverse police force . In addition, anti-racist training for all police department members - which should include black history and white privilege allowing for open discussion about race to acknowledge and break down any implicit biases to prevent further profiling and unnecessary police tactics.

Thank you for reading.

Subject: PLEASE HELP POLICE!!!

It came to my attention that last night the MA Senate passed the bill to end qualified immunity for police officers. I am appalled that the legislature of such importance was passed without a public hearing.

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

A horrible death happened in Minnesota and everybody condemned it. But why the whole profession of policemen is punished for that? I talked to Brookline police and there has been not a single incident of police brutality for the years of existence of Brookline police. Massachusetts police in general is an exemplary organization. Why are you in such a hurry of changing the law? This new law will harm not only police but the whole population of Massachusetts.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

Subject: S.2820 Written Testimony

Senator Collins,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

municipalities, from frivolously lawsuits. This bill removes important liability protections essential for all public servants. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Subject: [External]: Please pass a strong omnibus bill to increase police accountability

Dear Rep. Domb

As your constituent, I'm writing to ask you include three essential measures in any legislation on police accountability and racial justice. Please prohibit violent police tactics, impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is not immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights. Banning violent police tactics is meaningless if there is no way for people to hold the police accountable when they break the rules. Victims of police brutality deserve justice.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing. The dangers of face surveillance and systemic racism in policing will not evaporate in mere months. The moratorium on the use of this technology should not be lifted until the legislature enacts meaningful regulation to guard against racial bias, invasions of privacy, and violations of due process

Massachusetts has an opportunity to be a leader in this nationwide movement—and as your constituent I implore you to take that opportunity to do the right thing. We need to deliver racial justice to Black and Brown people in our state, and that starts with baseline police accountability through robust legislation.

Please work to include the above provisions in the final version of this bill.

Sincerely,

Roy Regozin

My name is Emily and I am a resident of Brookline, MA. I am writing to voice my strong support for Bill S.2800.

Bill S.2800 is important because it includes more accountability for cops and reallocates resources for communities of color, something that I think we have all seen is absolutely essential. Communities of color have disproportionately suffered the impacts of aggressive policing, and with little money invested back into their community programs, it perpetuates a harmful cycle and disenfranchises massive amounts of our community. I have been paying close attention to legislation that attempts to redress these wrongs, and I will continue to do so now that my eyes have been opened to this injustice. I know I am not alone in this.

I respectfully urge you, Reps Michlewitz and Cronin, and the members of the joint committees to support this very important legislation.

Thank you.

Subject: Testimony re S.2820

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

First, thank you for your time and attention to these matters.

I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I particularly support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you, again, for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

Earnestly,

Subject: testimony re: S.2820

I'm writing in support of the Senate's police reform bill – S.2820. The House should make it a priority to pass a similar bill soon, so that it can get through conference committee and be signed into law as soon as possible.

We urgently need: limits on the use of force, a ban on racial profiling, and the end to nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases; a state-wide certification board and training standards; mandates for the collection of racial data for police stops and the duty to intervene when officers witness officer misconduct; a requirement for civilian approval of military equipment purchases; and an allowance for the governor to choose a colonel from outside the state police. Local school superintendents must be allowed to determine whether police or school resource officers are more helpful in their own area. Unlimited qualified immunity for police officers must end. If police officers engage in misconduct that has not previously been established as egregious in case law, they should not be immune to prosecution. I support the bill's approach to these matters and all provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus and believe that it is a matter of extremely urgent concern.

Subject: S.2800 Testimony

Hello:

I am writing to urge the House to follow the leadership of overpoliced communities, victims of police & corrections abuse, and formerly and currently incarcerated people, and should modify S.2800 to achieve the following goals:

- * Abolish Qualified Immunity
- * Ban Chokeholds (no exceptions for intent) [Senate amendment 58], require decertification, termination of officers
- * Ban Tear Gas [original draft of Senate amendment 65], destroy existing supply
- * Include corrections officers in the definition of law enforcement, and subject them to the same standards of licensure and all restrictions on use of force
- * Remove the position of Sheriff from the "community policing and behavioral health advisory council" [Remove Senate Amendment 40]
- * Prevent law enforcement from unilaterally suspending the decertification process for up to 1 year and restore the standard determining a loss of license to the "preponderance of the evidence" [Remove Senate Amendment 54]
- * Require data transparency in juvenile justice [Include Senate Amendment 3]
- * Decriminalize homelessness [Include Senate Amendment 10] [incorporate text of SB.2735, S.2717, S.2576, +$50M to line item 7004-9316]
- * Raise the Age of Juvenile Jurisdiction and stop automatic prosecution of teenagers as adults [Include Amendment 17]
- * End pretextual stops [Include Senate Amendment 31]
- * Compensate wrongly convicted individuals [Include Senate Amendment 37]

* Permanently ban face surveillance [Include Senate Amendment 64] and bar RMV from using the technology

* Remove the $10M cap from the justice reinvestment fund and expand participation from community organizations [Include Senate Amendments 81, 84, 95]

* Limit long-term suspension and expulsion [Include Senate Amendment 93]

* Ban No-Knock Warrants [Include Senate Amendment 119] with no exceptions

* Require decertification result in ineligibility for rehires, transfers, or pensions

* Abolish the gang database

* Expungement of all juvenile records and cannabis offenses

* No new police funding

* Incorporate the text of H. 4652 (the Decarceration Bill)

* Incorporate the text of S.1372 (No Cost Phone Calls)

* Incorporate the text of S.1379/H.2047 (Strengthen Visitation)

* Incorporate the text of H.4607 (An Act Relative to Parole)

* Incorporate the text of S.2641 (Driver's Licenses for All)

* Incorporate the text of HD.5166 (Emergency Housing Stability Bill)

* All Four State-Level Points of MA BLLC Plan

* Resolve to provide for a "Special Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training" to study and make recommendations concerning the implementation of a Peace Officers Standards and Training (POST) system. (H2146 written by Reps Holmes and Vieira was hyper boosted from a Commission to an actual POST bill, initially filed by the Governor and passed by the Senate. The original Senate bill has some better language, for example around NOT paying police bonuses for taking trainings. However, the amendment 54 was EXTREMELY PROBLEMATIC in that it raises the bar for the standard determining a loss of licence from "preponderance of the evidence" to "clear and convincing.")

* Civil Service Exam Review and Oversight: An Act to Reform Civil Service Exams, H2292 Rep Holmes bill, sent to study, should be converted to a Commission.

* Commission on Structural Racism: An Act establishing a special commission on structural racism, H1440, Holmes; Collaboratively redrafted by Nika Elugardo in conjunction with incarcerated family, advocate, and administration representatives. Passed as Amendment #16 in S.2028

* Adopt clear statutory limits on police use of force, including choke-holds and other tactics known to have deadly consequences. Require independent investigation of officer-related deaths. Require data collection and reporting on race, regarding all arrests and police use of force by every department. Rep Miranda's bill.

(I note that the text of withdrawn Senate amendments is available on request, though it does not live on the public site.)

As a Black resident of the Commonwealth, I note the context of this bill: amidst the Coronavirus pandemic, there is a pandemic of racial injustice. Before the pandemic, according to a Boston Globe survey of a number of cities in the Greater Boston region, the household median net worth was $247,500 for whites and $8 for US Blacks. According to the Prison Policy Initiative, Black people make up 10% of the Commonwealth's population but 26% of its prison population. Combined, Black and Latino people make up 17% of the population but 50% of the Commonwealth's incarcerated population! We are also disproportionately impacted by COVID-19. Communities have asked for the speedy release of those held in prisons, with little success. People who should have their input on this legislation are locked in cages because the legislature failed to release enough people from prisons and jails to allow for social distancing; some have died. Those who are surviving, thus far, are in an economically precarious state due to inadequate federal, state, and local assistance and cannot keep informed on rapid legislative developments that involve no proactive community outreach. This legislation is being undermined by compounding governance failures.

I further note that the Legislature failed to center organizations led by or serving impacted people - including Families for Justice As Healing and Black & Pink Boston - so as to have a policy-making process driven and informed by those residents closest to the pain of our current criminal legal system. I would like to quote the People Not Prisons Coalition's remarks on the Senate bill:

If the Massachusetts legislature were serious about protecting Black lives and addressing systemic racism, this bill would eliminate cornerstones of racist policing including implementing a ban without exceptions on pretextual traffic stops and street stops and frisks. The legislature should decriminalize driving offenses which are a major gateway into the criminal legal system for Black and Brown people and poor and working class people. Rather than limiting legislation to moderate reforms and data collection, the legislature should shut down fusion centers, erase gang databases, and permanently ban facial surveillance by all state agencies including the RMV. [We] also support student-led efforts to remove police from schools.

S.2820 will cause more harm than good by increasing spending on law enforcement through training and training commissions, expanding the power of law enforcement officials to oversee law enforcement agencies, and making no fundamental changes to the function and operation of policing in the Commonwealth. Real change requires that we shrink the power and responsibilities of law enforcement and shift resources from policing into most-impacted communities.

The way forward is to shrink the role and powers of police, fund Black and Brown communities, and defund the systems of harm and punishment which have failed to bring people of color safety and wellbeing. S.2820 does not help us get there.

Please do not let this session end without passing legislation that addresses the harm caused by incarceration and separating families who are disproportionately Black and Brown.

We need to release people from jails and prisons who are most vulnerable to COVID-19 by passing H.4652; provide no cost calls to incarcerated people by passing S.1372;

strengthen visitation to our incarcerated community by passing S.1379/H.2047;

and make sure the parole board has members with social work and mental health backgrounds by passing S.4607.

[We] also support a harm reduction approach to substance use rather than more criminalization and punishment. Please pass S.2717 to establish safe consumption sites in the Commonwealth.

We also need to increase access to driver's licenses in Massachusetts to prevent people from coming into contact with law enforcement, so please pass S.2641.

Black and Brown communities in the Commonwealth have been hit hardest by COVID19 and we need real protections to keep people in their homes. Please pass HD.5166 to prevent mass evictions.

In the coming budget negotiations, please focus on shifting resources away from policing and incarceration and into Black and Brown communities.

I thank you for your consideration and encourage you to be deliberate in your proactive outreach to incarcerated people, formerly incarcerated people, and those in overpoliced communities as you draft this and subsequent legislation.

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives: I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership. Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated. Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status. Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers. I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation. Sincerely,

Subject: Pass a Strong Police Accountability Bill with Key Provisions from S.2820

Dear Chairs HWM & Judiciary,

I urge you to pass legislation that establishes real oversight and accountability for police.

Our law enforcement system is rife with systemic racism that manifests in poignant police murders of unarmed black people, brutality and excessive use of force, unlawful arrests, and unnecessary police contact. The House of Representatives and Senate should ultimately pass a bill that ends qualified immunity in most instances, reduces and oversees police use of force, removes police from schools, expands juvenile expungement, and establishes funds to improve re-entry from incarceration.

The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

This is an urgent matter. Please pass a bill that includes at a minimum the provisions of the senate bill.

Subject: [External]: Please pass a strong omnibus bill to increase police accountability

Dear Rep. Domb

As your constituent, I'm writing to ask you include three essential measures in any legislation on police accountability and racial justice. Please prohibit violent police tactics, impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is not immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights. Banning violent police tactics is meaningless if there is no way for people to hold the police accountable when they break the rules. Victims of police brutality deserve justice.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing. The dangers of face surveillance and systemic racism in policing will not evaporate in mere months. The moratorium on the use of this technology should not be lifted until the legislature enacts meaningful regulation to guard against racial bias, invasions of privacy, and violations of due process

Massachusetts has an opportunity to be a leader in this nationwide movement—and as your constituent I implore you to take that opportunity to do the right thing. We need to deliver racial justice to Black and Brown people in our state, and that starts with baseline police accountability through robust legislation.

Please work to include the above provisions in the final version of this bill.

Sincerely,

I'm a resident at 20 Pleasant St, Medford, MA, and my phone number is (631) 521-3458. I'm writing to testify in support of the police reform bill being considered by the House. The Senate bill, while not perfect, went a long way towards offering solutions to several particularly egregious problems with policing in Massachusetts, and I hope the House can pass a bill that's as close to the Senate version as possible. In particular, I'm calling on you to keep the limits on qualified immunity that the Senate bill imposes. It's important to give victims of abuses by police officers more recourse to obtain justice.

Sincerely,

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership.

Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP.

To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated.

SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated.

Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status.

Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers.

I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:
My name is Michelle Cuff. I am a resident of Medway. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

I support this bill because action is necessary NOW to protect black and brown lives. Thinking "that can't happen here" is not a strategy for success. It is wishful thinking. The specifics of this bill are a starting point, a minimum of what can and should be done. Please quickly act to pass this bill and consider doing more in the future.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Subject: In Support of law enforcement

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Elizabeth Melisi-Huckins and I live at 22 Gould Street Wakefield MA. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Melisi-Huckins

Subject: Pass SB.2800, Reform, Shift, Build Act

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:

My name is Cortni Desir. I am a resident of Medford and a member of March like a Mother: for Black Lives. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

Our country's police system was built on a foundation of state violence and white supremacy. As an urban planner, I understand the devastating effects this has had on our communities, particularly for Black, Indigenous, and People of Color. As a mother, daughter, wife, and sister, not a day goes by that I do not fear for the safety of my black family should they have an encounter with the police. The overreliance on police violence and our racist criminal justice system has gone unchecked long enough - it's time for Massachusetts to be a leader in dismantling these systems.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Sincerely,

Cortni Desir

Subject: S2820 Bill

To whom it may concern,

My name is Anthony Sousa and I work for the North Andover Police Department. My cell phone number is 978-790-4883. I am writing to voice my concerns over the proposed bill.

A couple years ago I responded to an unconscious person who was not breathing. Once I got there I started performing cpr on the person to get them breathing again. At one point during chest compressions I could hear ribs break. It is something that happens when you are performing cpr. With the Emts there as well we tried everything to get a pulse back for that person. That person subsequently passed away later that evening.

Had that person lived and the new bill was in place, I would be looking at a law suit because I had broken a rib. Qualified immunity protects public servants when they are acting in good faith. We have strict guidelines and policies that we have to follow in order to fall under the protection. It is not absolute immunity meaning that because of being a police officer we are covered under anything. There is a threshold that we must abide by while working. If we are outside of that I.e. break policy, break the law, etc. then we are not qualified for immunity.

Eliminating qualified immunity in the bill will hesitate officers to perform on the job. Most of the officers here in Massachusetts have had and continue to have some of the best training in the country. Please take out any language regarding qualified immunity and keep it the way it is.

Also, with the Due Process. If this law passes you want a civilian panel to advise on what was right or wrong? I can agree with a couple, but you need to people who have had some law enforcement background in it. As a civilian yourself, can you tell me what the totality triangle is? How about Graham vs. Connor? If you want a panel I get it, but put people who have law enforcement background in it.

In the end if these two amendments were to pass, you will see a lot of people leave the public sector. I love my job and love helping people when it is possible. I can go home to my wife and know that I did something good for someone that day. If these are passed you will have a worse outcome than you have predicted. The public works sector will ultimately quit because they do not want to be sued. Just food for thought. I read an article about Colorado the other day. Colorado which recently passed a similar bill if not exact, is trying to redact the qualified immunity within a couple weeks!

I wish you the best of luck. Please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,
Anthony Sousa

Subject: S.2820

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Subject: Fwd: Testimony on S.2820

To: Representative Aaron Michlewitz, Chairperson, House Committee on Ways and Means

Representative Claire Cronin, Chairperson, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Hello, my name is Virginia Guenette with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 16 Maple Street, Lenox, MA 01240. I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- * Implementation of Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

I urge you to adopt the Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity. This reform will allow the few applicable cases to be heard by a jury without being dismissed because the particular violation of 4th amendment rights by a public official, such as a police officer, has never been previously contemplated by a statute or a court precedent. Those cases deserve to be heard on their merits, not thrown out using a non-statutory legal doctrine. It is simply outrageous that those who have suffered from the egregious violations of police officers cannot get their day in court.

In addition, it is clear that qualified immunity reform will not have devastating financial impact on any police officers as they are indemnified by the municipalities that employ them. Any such claims are not based on fact and should not be considered as you consider this reform.

Thank you very much.

Subject: [External]: Please pass a strong omnibus bill to increase police accountability

Dear Rep. Domb

As your constituent, I'm writing to ask you include three essential measures in any legislation on police accountability and racial justice. Please prohibit violent police tactics, impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is not immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights. Banning violent police tactics is meaningless if there is no way for people to hold the police accountable when they break the rules. Victims of police brutality deserve justice.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing. The dangers of face surveillance and systemic racism in policing will not evaporate in mere months. The moratorium on the use of this technology should not be lifted until the legislature enacts meaningful regulation to guard against racial bias, invasions of privacy, and violations of due process

Massachusetts has an opportunity to be a leader in this nationwide movement—and as your constituent I implore you to take that opportunity to do the right thing. We need to deliver racial justice to Black and Brown people in our state, and that starts with baseline police accountability through robust legislation.

Please work to include the above provisions in the final version of this bill.

Subject: Testimony in support of reforming police standards

Hello,

I am writing in support of S.2820, An Act to Reform Police Standards and Shift Resources to Build a More Equitable, Fair and Just Commonwealth That Values Black Lives and Communities of Color.

It is undeniable that systemic racism has created the world we live in today and that people of color – and Black people in particular – are targeted by police and the criminal justice system. The murder of George Floyd has led to one of the largest social protest movements in the history of the United States and the call for dramatic changes to our society cannot be ignored.

We can not continue to work for ineffective, reformist policies that don't stop the ongoing and sometimes lethal harm that our police forces are creating in our communities. It is time to meet the moment and institute lasting, dramatic changes to ensure that police officers are held accountable and to reinvest the inflated policing budgets into the kind of social services police so often are called to perform in our communities.

Massachusetts needs to reckon with it's shameful history of colonization and segregation – something so often buried and ignored in our history books – by taking the steps today to create a more just and equitable society for all of its residents. This legislation could be a stepping stone on the path to justice.

Thank you,

Subject: Qualified Immunity & Police Reform

Hello!

To whomsoever it may concern: I'm a student at Northeastern University, and I strongly support the bill on the floor of the House this morning.

We are in a period of change and transformation - this is not a time to hold ourselves to old standards, it is a time to hold ourselves accountable. We need to be actively seeking out police reform, and this is a really big step in the right direction. There are hundreds and thousands of people like me - students - who are proud to be from Massachusetts, a place where revolution was born, where political activism and progressive viewpoints have always been a key aspect of our identity.

I urge you to pass this bill - you may not see it, but the country is watching to wait for you to make the right call here. You can help to set the precedent for a safer future for ALL Americans.

I pray that you will hear this.

Dear Representative Driscoll,

I am a resident of Milton. I, like any decent person, was horrified to watch George Floyd's murder. I realize that people in the law enforcement profession have caused a great deal of damage to minority communities in the past and I am hopeful law enforcement will be better in the future. I am saddened that it took Mr. Floyd's murder to get people moving.

I am gravely concerned about a few of the items put forth by the Senate and I am entrusting the House will consider and correct these matters. One item that I feel will have an immensley negative impact the on the police profession is ending qualified immunity. Police officers make split-second decisions in rapidly evolving and dynamic situations, and they do so to protect the public. Qualified immunity does not and should not protect them should they violate clearly established law, or prove to be incompetent. Qualified immunity does however, shield police and many other public officials, including yourself, from frivolous lawsuits.

In a recent study done by UCLA, researchers found that courts only accept a qualified immunity defense around 12% of the time.

Ending qualified immunity will ultimately hurt communities and the hiring of our police. It will be harder to attract quality candidates to effect the change that the profession needs. This comes at a time when candidate pools are undoubtedly already at all-time lows. We desperately need to attract the best people from our communities to work in law enforcement. Ending qualified immunity for police will be counterproductive to that. Please consider opposing ending qualified immunity for police.

I am also concerned that the Senate's bill takes away due process in disciplinary matters. A right that the Supreme Court has upheld in all civil and criminal cases since the birth of our nation, and a right that organized labor has fought for since its inception. The Senate wishes to create a disciplinary review board without law enforcement representation to sit in judgement after-the-fact to judge an officer's reasonableness. Reasonableness being the key operating term set forth by the Supreme Court in many landmark use of force cases. Unless politicians and activists can say that their knowledge supercedes the US Supreme court, then it becomes essential that the review boards are compromised at least partially by law enforcement.

How can a community activist evaluate and speak to reasonableness regarding a job they know nothing about, except as an uninformed observer?

I ask you to help law enforcement effectively keep our communities safe. The unintended consequences of the Senate's bill will reap a whirlwind of consequences for our communities if left unchecked by the House.

Sincerely,

Jen Davis

To whom it may concern,

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public record of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke-holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Jennifer Burnham and I live at 1 Bishops Way North Reading. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Subject: I support passage of the senate police reform bill in its current state

Specific areas that I would like to see included in the final bill:
* The state wide commission for certification and review.
* The duty to intervene if witnessing misconduct
* Banning racial profiling and collecting racial data on police stops
* The senate's modification of qualified immunity for police officers to exclude egregious misconduct from immunity to prosecution.

But mostly I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving this work your attention and priority.

Testimony in support of:

Bill S.2800- An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color

Submitted by:

Madeline Bilis
37 Sawmill Rd.
Dudley, MA 01571

Rep. Aaron Michlewitz, Rep. Claire D. Cronin, and members of the House Committee on Ways and Means and the Joint Committee on the Judiciary for the police reform bill above:

My name is Madeline Bilis and I am a resident of Dudley, MA. I am writing to voice my strong support for Bill S.2800.

Bill S.2800 is incredibly important for communities across Massachusetts, including mine. It will increase accountability for our police, something that has long been overdue, and encourage less aggressive behavior toward communities of color.

Limiting qualified immunity is essential in this state. Right now, the system of penalizing incompetent police and police who've committed crimes is broken. Qualified immunity only helps these kinds of police keep their jobs despite wrongdoing. Limiting it will not prevent police from doing their jobs - it will finally protect civilians from police who think they're above the law.

I feel that our police have too much power, and that police culture can become toxic if not kept in check by the regulatory measures outlined in S.2800. I personally know a police officer in Worcester who refers to people who live in Worcester's Main South neighborhood (a disadvantaged area home to people of color) as "creatures." That's not the attitude of all police, of course. But as someone who is fortunate enough not to have encounters with the police very often, I still know a police officer who thinks this way. I fear this speaks for their attitudes overall, which largely and negatively impact communities of color.

Something needs to be done to hold police accountable. S.2800 is the first step.

I respectfully urge you, Reps Michlewitz and Cronin, and the members of the joint committees to support this very important legislation.

Thank you,

Madeline Bilis

Subject: S.2820

Dear Representative Hogan,

As your constituent, I am writing to share my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. It is my hope that you join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

However, I am extremely concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present state is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are a few of my main concerns:

1. Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

3. POS Committee: The POS Committee must include more rank-in-file police officers and experts in law enforcement. If your goal is to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, it is crucial that there is an understanding of law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

Finally I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most educated and sophisticated officers in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820. Doing so will allow the men and women in law enforcement to be treated with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Though I am well-educated, I am having difficulty fully understanding the fine details of S.2820, but I do want to write to let you know that I am in full support of efforts to "reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color."

The systematic oppression of people of color is as old as the day when Europeans first arrived on the shores of the New World, and defies all that the United States Constitution promises.

As a lifelong voting citizen of Massachusetts, proud of our liberal and progressive reputation, the reforms in this bill are long overdue.

Thank you for your attention to this matter. I am working for and looking forward to a more equitable society for all Americans.

Please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820.

Section 10. Immunity. Probably the most damaging thing to do to police, taking it away. Hi, my name is Teodora Laptiste, a mother of two wonderful black male children that deserve to receive protection and respect by all police officers. We need to teach/train our officers not to automatically assume that a person of color is guilty before being found innocent.

We all deserve equal treatment. It has been too many years of unconscious and conscious teaching of racism towards people of color. It is time to stop, listen and properly react towards positive charges. Do pass this reform. Thank you.

Subject: Opposition to Bill 2820

>> Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

>>

>> My name is Cristina Wilson and I live at 28 Saint Paul Street in Wilmington, MA 01887. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to House Bill 2820/Senate Bill 2800. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work hard every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

>>

>> ?????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

>>

>> ?????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

>>

>>

>> I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt.

>>

>> Another really concerning part about this bill is the broad and far reaching language which it has. The bill was so hastily put together that its language in regards to collective bargaining and qualified immunity applies to all public sector employees. All public labor unions in the Commonwealth lose their effectiveness. Firefighters, DPW workers, and even Teachers are now on the hook personally if someone does not like the job they have done.

>>

>> The Massachusetts Senate passed this bill in order to say that they are doing something, and in doing so insulted every citizen of this Commonwealth. This bill was not passed by means of a fair and democratic process. Instead it was a pathetic attempt to pander to vocal special interest groups which do not understand the intricacies involved in law enforcement. Why did they not have an open dialogue with members from the community and law enforcement? There is nothing that we as police would like more than to be able to communicate with our community members in a constructive and respectful way in order to provide a public service that is fair, just and safe for everyone involved. Senate Bill s2800 is not the means to have those conversations.

>>

>> I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

>>

>> Sincerely,

>>

>> Cristina Wilson

Subject: Opposition to Bill #S2820

I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to Bill #S2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement (fire, doctors, nurses, EMT's and teachers) efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and there are so many parts of this bill that are unjust.

This bill has immediate and long term detrimental ramifications on the men and women that serve our state, especially our police. This bill has not been transparent, vetted or had the full due diligence that it deserves. This bill, as written, is forcing far reaching changes that will impact every single resident of the Commonwealth and furthermore it is being done in a vacuum while only giving consideration to a small and loud group of people.

For lawmakers, representing the people of this state, engaging in back door politics, is unacceptable and despicable. The majority of people follow the rules, laws and do the right thing. We, those people, and the men and women in Blue deserve more than just a knee jerk reaction bill. We urge you to do the right thing.

I read through the bill, yes I actually did, and realize most people & most elected officials never do. Not only are there quite a few parts I disagree with, but I think it is absolutely disgraceful that changes of this magnitude, to a bill like this, are being rushed without thoughtful consideration as to both sides of the situation. This bill as proposed is reckless and this is a recipe for unintended consequences that will have a negative impact on this entire state and the residence of it. Your constituents should have a say and be heard. As elected politicians I urge you to represent all constituents and do what is morally and ethically right for all of the people and all communities you serve and not for personal political agenda and gain.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously unrealistic lawsuits. I am quite sure you understand the importance of immunity because as written in the current bill, elected officials made sure their immunity was preserved and not tampered with (seems a bit self serving).

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

Massachusetts has some of the most elite and world class police forces around. Your vote and the "going along with the herd" mentality, is going to destroy what has been built. Years of blood, sweat, and tears on the backs of officers that work hard every single day, to protect all of our families (including your own). The large majority of police officers do great things for their community, that go far above and beyond the call of duty and they do this because they love the job and believe in good.

That fact that legislation is being thrown together and hastily moved through the system to pacify a small group of people that are threatening and destructive to our communities, is very concerning. As an elected official, I ask that you represent the silent majority and DO NOT PASS THIS BILL in its current form.

Let's be very careful not to create a profession that will find no applicants or willing bodies to do the work very much needed. Lets not forget there are bad people in EVERY profession (Including politics), so let's not persecute an entire profession that a few bad apples find their way into, just as we don't persecute the masses of any other profession.

I know as elected officials you and all of your colleagues can do much better than this and we the people demand that of you and are looking to hold our House of Representatives accountable to fix the shortcomings of our Senate. Please remember to represent the great people of this state and not bow down to the people that don't care about our cities, town, flag, country. I would ask that you please remember who your constituents are and think long and hard before you vote.

My hopes are for you to be the leader you were voted in to be and stand behind and back the good men and women in our police forces throughout this state. The men and women in blue that go to work to protect and serve us. That put their life on the line every single day for us.....we all owe it to them.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they so deserve.

Good morning,

My name is D'Angelo Fernandez. I am a resident of Worcester Ma and have been for my entire 31 years of life. I am a graduate of Worcester Public Schools and Worcester State University. I am Hispanic male, Puerto Rican, and proud member of the minority/black/brown community. I am a father to a beautiful daughter, son to amazing parents and sibling to those who are members of that community as well. I am a former Worcester Public Elementary school teacher and current Worcester Police Officer.

I am writing to you in hopes that my voice will be heard just as loudly as those who are in the streets. The bill S.2800, now known and numbered as S.2820, CANNOT move forward as written. I must express my fear for my community, myself and my family if it does. It has been extremely difficult to watch and to listen to this process. The speed at which this bill is being pushed through and how few of the actual people it affects know about it is truly unfair. We are watching with our own eyes as some of these abrupt decisions are ruining communities around the country. We are extremely fortunate here in Massachusetts. We should be proud and be looked at as an example for law enforcement. We are one of the best, most educated and forward thinking. Let's not penalize our community for tragic events that happens miles away.

As this bill is most likely going to continue to move forward I urge that we at the very least adopt the amendments filed in the Senate bill in regards to Qualified Immunity, Due process/ Collective bargaining and the make up of the POSAC Board. These are extremely significant amendments and again, at the very least, ensure that the police in our state can continue to serve and protect our communities as effectively as we have.

Respectfully,

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I write in support of S.2820. I urge you to pass an even stronger version of this bill into law. In particular, I would like to see the final bill completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no-knock raids; these militarized police tactics have no place in our commonwealth. And we should have clear legal standards for police behavior and employment: the final bill should set standards for decertifying officers that behave badly on the job, as well as eliminating qualified immunity. An enormous number of Massachusetts residents have turned out in recent months to protest violent and racist police behavior both nationwide and here at home. People want to see that officers can be held accountable for their actions. This is the right moment to have Massachusetts law reflect those concerns.

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives: I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership. Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated. Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status. Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers. I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation. Sincerely,

Subject: Testimony for House hearing on police reform bill

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to urge the House to keep many of the provisions in the police reform bill that recently passed the Senate. In particular, please retain the limits on qualified immunity for police officers that are present in the Senate bill--this is absolutely vital for protecting the rights of citizens and disincentivizing police officers to use excessive force. Please also keep amendment 65, which bans tear gas. Tear gas is a chemical weapon already banned in warfare, so it's outrageous that many police forces around the country have used it against US citizens, and all the more egregious considering we are living through a pandemic that attacks the respiratory system. Please also retain amendments 80 and 108, which protect the rights of students against our criminal justice system.

As a mother, sister, niece and aunt of law enforcement workers I just want to ask you

Do you put you life on the line every day when you go to work?

Do you put you families lives on the line everyday when you go to work?

Can I sue you for no other reason than I don't like how you did something?

Or is the state going to back all your decisions that you make.

If this bill passes our state is going to be a mess because no one is going to want to be a police officer, firefighter, nurse teacher what is going to happen when all of these people walk off the job? When these people who put their families and lives of the line everyday realize that no one is protecting them or supporting them why would they want that profession?

As a mother who hasn't slept in a month because of worry whose son was on a motorcycle in Boston during the protest and rallies, whose son has had bricks, frozen water bottles and fireworks thrown at him, whose son was yelled at spit on push around and could not do anything about it and didn't have the support of officials and then had to go home to his family and act like everything was fine.

I beg you do not let this bill pass just because it is an election year. I beg you to stop this craziness before it is too late. I beg you to start supporting our first responders before it is too late and we have none.

I hope your family doesn't need to call or use a first responder in a real emergency and no one shows up.

Please I beg you do not let this bill pass.

Sir, as a law enforcement officer for over 20 years, serving the Commonwealth, I am very concerned, as are my co-workers about the proposed changes to the qualified immunity coverage that protects us. We are counting on you, our elected official, to stand up for what is right, and back us... those that have devoted our lives to protecting others. I am not against all police reform, some of it is a good idea. I am against, as you should be, the knee jerk reaction to George Floyd and protests, where some politicians are rushing to show some that they will hold the police more responsible. Our qualified immunity is not without exception as it stands. If you do something flagrant, you will not be protected, as you shouldn't be. The job is hard enough without feeling like our elected officials and government doesn't stand behind us.

I really hope you will testify, and stand up for us that protect the citizens of the Commonwealth, without consideration of sex, color, race, sexual orientation or political stance. I thank you for your consideration on this matter.

Subject: Police Reform Bill

I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Subject: Re: Reform-Shift-Build Act

Hi -

I am writing to voice my wholehearted support for the Reform-Shift-Build Act. As a resident of Massachusetts, I get to see and celebrate diversity every day. We are a community made up of many cultures, representing the full spectrum of race that this globe offers. My family and I have fed from that spectrum and we have given back as well. Right now, we are not safe. We have been unsafe for quite some time. We will remain unsafe as long as the current state of policing is maintained.

Our State and Nation face a long postponed reckoning with race., We must keep a stern dialogue with how we police one another as part of that reckoning. The Reform-Shift-Build Act opens that dialogue in unprecedented ways. Stringent certifications, inroads towards banning excessive force, review boards staffed by community, and a stronger stance against surveillance technology are just some of the impressive pieces we will be bringing to the state with this Act. Perhaps the most impressive piece to this is a focused reform to the doctrine known as "qualified immunity."

Passing this act while keeping the reform of qualified immunity attached to it would be historical. It would send the appropriate message to the Nation. If we as a people are to be policed, it must be under an entirely reimagined officer. There are glimpses of good in all of us. There are glimpses of good in our law enforcement. But there is also an unspeakable bad in all of us. As it permeates all of us by degrees, so too does it fester in our law enforcement.

I have witnessed firsthand what can occur when unchecked racist thought and sentiment spills into human behavior. There is no thermometer check for hatred, dislike, annoyance, ambivalence. And that temperature rises and subsides throughout a life. Thoughts are truly free, and should not be governed. Action is governed. But actions are rooted in those thoughts. The action to take another's life, to choke another out, to abuse another, to dominate another, to correct another, without impunity is what I believe qualified immunity too often permits.

Reform, and regulation are necessities for police in Massachusetts and everywhere. But the protective mask of qualified immunity must fall. We face consequences as citizens. Those consequences do not police our thoughts, but they force us to think twice, or even just once before acting. For too long has our police force acted without impartial thought when it comes to another's life and rights.

I am asking you to support the Reform-Shift-Build Act for my family, friends, for Massachusetts, and for the entire United States of America. I am asking you to share my voice with your fellow legislators, and amplify it yourself in your championing of this Act.

Thank you for your time.

Please consider my letter against S2820 today..

I hope this request finds you all safe and well during these trying times..

I'd like to forward my stand AGAINST S2820 as presented to you.

The senate version of this bill as written will seriously undermine public safety by limiting police officer's ability to do their jobs while simultaneously allowing provisions to protect criminals. Furthermore, the process employed by the Senate to push this through with such haste, without public hearing or input of any kind, was extremely undemocratic and nontransparent.

Police across the commonwealth support uniform training standards and policies and have been requesting more training for years.

The Senate version of a regulatory board is unacceptable as it strips officers of the due process rights and does away with protections currently set forth in collective bargaining agreements and civil service law. The Senate created a board that is dominated by anti-police groups who have a long-detailed record of biases against law enforcement and preconceived punitive motives toward police.

The FOP will not support any bill that does not include the same procedural justice safeguards members of the communities we serve demand and enjoy. Also their proposed makeup of the oversight board is one sided and biased against law enforcement. It is unlike any of the 160 other regulatory boards across the Commonwealth and as constructed incapable if being fair and impartial.

What the Senate has tried to do is pass a knee jerk reaction to an incident which occurred half a country away that everyone agrees was egregious, the FOP nationally and in this state quickly condemned it.

Massachusetts police officers are among highest educated and trained in the country

This bill directly attacks qualified immunity and due process. Qualified immunity does not protect bad officers. It protects good officers from civil lawsuits. We should want our officers to be able to act to protect our communities without fear of being sued at every turn, otherwise why would they put themselves at risk? A large majority of law enforcement officers do the right thing and are good officers, yet there is a real push to end qualified immunity to open good officers up to frivolous lawsuits because of the actions of a few who, by their own actions, would not be covered by qualified immunity anyway. It just doesn't make any sense why we are endangering the livelihood of many for the actions of a few.

Changes to qualified immunity would be unnecessary if the legislature adopted a uniform statewide standard and bans unlawful use of force techniques which all police personnel unequivocally support.

In closing...

If the senate bill is passed in its current form the costs to municipalities and the State will skyrocket from frivolous lawsuits and potentially having a devastating impact on budgets statewide.

Thank you for your thoughtful consideration on the behalf of all Public Safety personnel serving our Commonwealth.

Subject: Testimony against Senate Bill S2820

My name is Jeff Dufour and I am a long time resident of Tewksbury, Massachusetts.

I am writing today against Senate Bill S2820 as written, and in support of the First Responders in Massachusetts; the people whose job it is to keep us safe, as we go about our daily lives; jobs that many of us, including myself, could not do.

Every day these heroes go to work, often not knowing what the day will bring or what they may experience. Many nights on the evening news I hear about the incidents that these people have faced; but I am just a spectator, hearing a recap of the day's events as if they were the final sports scores of games played; but our First Responders are not spectators. They are the participants in these events. They are the people who were actually at the scene of the crime, or the accident, or the fire.

These men and women are the people that we depend on to run towards situations that the rest of us would choose to run from; they focus when we would rather look away. And at the end of the day, when their shifts are over, these superheroes return to their true identities: mother, father, daughter, son, coach, volunteer, neighbor, and friend.

Senate Bill S2820 is a gut punch to those who often wear bulletproof vests as part of their job. It is a vote of no confidence, by their employer, to the thousands of outstanding police officers in Massachusetts. It is punishment of the innocent in retaliation for crimes committed by criminals in other parts of the country.

Senate Bill S2820 removes basic protections necessary for law enforcement to do their jobs. While other states are passing legislation to add protections for police officers, including protections from "bias motivated intimidation" (Georgia HB-838), we in Massachusetts have introduced bias motivated intimidation against the police into our legislation. We are removing the protections in place for our officers when they are falsely accused and sued, while other states are introducing the ability for officers to sue their accusers.

Senate Bill S2820 is a myopic response by the legislature submitted with the hope that doing something quickly, albeit with total disregard to the lasting effects of their actions, will defuse a current explosive situation. While this action may provide a brief respite for our legislators, allowing them to focus on their reelections, the unintended consequences of this bill could be devastating.

Senate Bill S2820 is a symbolic document designed to show commitment by the legislature to a social cause. The intent is honorable, but there are better ways to accomplish this. S2820 demonstrates support for one group of Massachusetts citizens by punishing another. This is unacceptable.

I recommend Senate Bill S2820 be withdrawn.

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is David Claudio and I live at 165 Pearl st Chelsea, MA 02150. I work at the Suffolk county House of Corrections and am a Correctional Officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????????????????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????????????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

David Claudio Jr. From: susan fall <susiefall@yahoo.com>

(S.2800)

Dear Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin,

I write to you as a recent law school graduate who will be practicing in Massachusetts and who looks forward to applying the laws that you help shape.

While I hope that you and your colleagues in the House take inspiration from the Senate's decisive action yesterday in passing the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800), I understand that changing the status quo can be difficult. In this spirit, I am writing to let you know that I am among the countless residents of Massachusetts who support this bill. The Reform, Shift + Build Act is a small but significant step towards combatting systemic racism. I am personally confident that not only will it make our justice system more accessible and equitable, it will save lives.

I appreciate that efforts to restrict qualified immunity have been particularly controversial. While I personally cannot speak much to the doctrine's complicated local and national history https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A\_\_theappeal.org\_qualified-2Dimmunity-2Dexplained\_&d=DwMFaQ&c=lDF7oMaPKXpkYvev9V-fVahWL0QWnGCCAfCDz1Bns\_w&r=uoevGInjCfTlguYncQubxpi5R6db\_gq1YmKr0SCk2EnIiuk13zIs16rchf\_GkGDD&m=N0cKp6ZJpmq6DI0bK9xGqeOMX7jTxn5zwwQjxTfvHsA&s=rHde4GN2CPrAa7yhNeLlL7DJRfh19mqTHw\_PhybOs6M&e=>, I can say that our civil justice system (and in particular, our tort system) has evolved to achieve two goals: 1) to cause those with the ability to limit preventable harm to internalize the risk of that harm; and 2) to help make whole those who have been harmed. Qualified immunity in its current form subverts both of these goals. At the very least, this act provides an opportunity to see whether changes to the doctrine work and whether they will be successful when implemented on a national level.

Thank you both for the work you do in making our Commonwealth an example to the world of a community that recognizes its shortcomings with grace as it strives towards justice and progress

Sincerely,

David Sackstein, Cambridge, MA

Representative Mark,

In my 31 years as a police officer/supervisor I have never written to a representative before asking for consideration on a bill, however, this bill has parts that has so much drastic change that I have officers in my office daily contemplating early retirement or out right resignation for fear of losing their life's savings, being imprisoned for or unfairly fired from their jobs because of false accusations.

Honestly, my wife, whom is also a police officer, and myself had many conversations ourselves over the past month. We are good officers who truly believe in community policing and have spent three decades practicing honest police work. We only need 4 more years to see our full retirement and we are, quite frankly, scared of what the future holds in this profession. Our only hope is that maybe, doubtfully though, that legislators would pass the 25/75 retirement plan, or offer a five year incentive plan to help us get to a decent retirement for all the years we put in.

Most of the bill, I have no problem with. We don't choke anyone in Massachusetts, never been taught to and never practiced them, I've never even seen them done. Our department doesn't even own tear gas or have dogs for crowd control. I do however have a big fluffy Saint Bernard that we use to comfort victims though.

Law enforcement officials have begged for additional training, over the last five years we have gone through a lot of mandatory and additional training on implicit bias and history of racism... I have no problem getting more, in fact, we should also get more training in other areas of law enforcement as well. For decades. the towns/cities, legislature and the Governor have under funded police training and cut educational benefits, so this is more than welcomed!

I think a cadet corp for the state police is a grand idea. We lose a lot of qualified people because of age discrimination based on the age restrictions to get firearm permits (21). I started law enforcement when I was 18, which seems young now, but I was impressionable and was taught the love of our community at an early age.

However, and I have no doubt you knew where I am going with this, because it's just wrong....

Qualified Immunity is there to protect officers and other public officials from frivolous lawsuits. The cost of defending one self from a lawsuit, wether just or not, could bankrupt an officer. There are plenty of groups of people that would purposely tie the hands of good police officers by waging litigious war against public officials. Prisoners could do the same against good hardworking correctional officers and parents of failing children against teachers. As a supervisor of police officers, I find myself trying to keep our officers proactively protecting our neighborhoods, I truly feel that passing a law that offers less protections for officers will only encourage them to become less proactive and more reactive, like firefighters sitting at the firehouse waiting for the call to work. Society needs our officers on the street encouraging lawful behaviors and being a deterrent for criminal behaviors. Reactive policing devastates communities, one only needs to look at Chicago or NYC in recent weeks to see how bad, how quickly cities deteriorate when officers step back.

Due process. How can we ask our officers to do their jobs without hesitation, without at least offering them at minimum, due process when they are accused of wrong doing. Why, if the commission will be legitimate, is the state afraid of offering due process to police officers. Officers can and are fired now for wrong doing, however the management must be legitimate and follow a fair course of process in order to impart discipline. Policing offers due process to the citizens we serve, but we can't be offered the same protections from the commission? What is the legislator afraid of, a fair process? Is it fair to say that the politics of a newsworthy event could sway the commission to act unfairly? Why would there be no appeal process? A lengthy investigation could cost an innocent officer ten of thousands of dollars in legal fees and loss of wages. Shouldn't an officer at least be allowed to have wages while being investigated by the commission, if not, the commission could use the length of an investigation as a weapon to bankrupt an innocent officer.

Two days ago, was the second anniversary of the death of Sergeant Michael Chesna. Sgt Chesna was attacked and killed by a person with a rock. Without a doubt, when encountering a suspect armed only with a rock, he hesitated. Not only was he killed with his own firearm, but the incapacitated officers firearm was used to kill an elderly innocent bystander. Every day, with only the threat of the bill looming, I am already witnessing officers hesitating to do their jobs. Good experienced police officers are leaving, Greenfield had three sudden retirements in the past two month alone with another, one of our best community police officers, on the verge. Our best officers, the "good ones", are already leaving. I know, as a progressive democrat, that you suddenly support defunding and abolishing the police, but this is not the way to do it. Legislation like this only effects the "good" police officers, as the "bad ones" don't care to begin with. Please know, that no one hates a "bad cop" more than a "good cop".

Thank you for taking the time to read this, I purposely didn't use a form letter as I wanted to talk from the heart. I truly love this profession, our community members and my city, I hate to lose it all.

Subject: Proposed Amendment to S2820

Good morning-

Please accept this proposed amendment to section 49 of S2820. This section prohibits schools from sharing information law enforcement with the exception of sharing of information for the purposes of completing a report pursuant to sections 51A or 57 of chapter 119 or filing a weapon report with the local chief of police pursuant to this section. (lines 1113-1115).

The S2820 language fails to take into account the provisions of chapter 119, as well as the role of a probation officer (and schools) in child requiring assistance (CRA) and care and protection proceedings (C&P). Pursuant GL c. 119, 21A, a CRA petition can be filed for a child between the ages of 6 and 18 who: (i) repeatedly runs away from the home of the child's parent, legal guardian or custodian; (ii) repeatedly fails to obey the lawful and reasonable commands of the child's parent, legal guardian or custodian, thereby interfering with their ability to adequately care for and protect the child; (iii) repeatedly fails to obey the lawful and reasonable regulations of the child's school; (iv) is habitually truant; or (v) is a sexually exploited child.

GL c. 119, s. 39E requires, once an application is initiated, that the clerk "request the chief probation officer or a designee to conduct an immediate inquiry to determine whether in the officer's opinion the best interest of the child require that assistance be given." In the course of this determination and especially where petitions involve truancy or failure to obey school regulations, it may be necessary for a juvenile probation officer to obtain information from the child's school. The current language of S2829 could prohibit this.

In C&P cases, GL c. 119, s. 24 permits a person to petition under oath the juvenile court alleging on behalf of a child within its jurisdiction that the child: (a) is without necessary and proper physical or educational care and discipline; (b) is growing up under conditions or circumstances damaging to the child's sound character development; (c) lacks proper attention of the parent, guardian with care and custody or custodian; or (d) has a parent, guardian or custodian who is unwilling, incompetent or unavailable to provide any such care, discipline or attention.

If it is adjudged that the child is in need of care and protection, GL c. 119, s. 26 permits a judge to allow a child " to remain with a parent, guardian or other custodian, and may require supervision as directed by the court for the care and protection of the child." All supervision required pursuant to this section is conducted by juvenile probation officers. If the child is of school age, this supervision may necessarily involve contact with the child's school. In fact, a probation officer would be derelict in their duties if they did not contact a child's school to confirm that the child's custodian was sending them to school. The current language of S2820 could prohibit a school from sharing this crucial information.

Additionally, Section 49 of S2820 also potentially conflicts with both GL c. 119, s. 69 and 69A which specifically permit schools to share information in specific circumstances:

Section 69. The superintendent of the public schools in any town, any teacher therein, and any person in charge of a private school, or any teacher therein, shall furnish to any court from time to time any information and reports requested by any justice thereof relating to the attendance, conduct and standing of any pupil enrolled in such school, if said pupil is at the time awaiting examination or trial by the court or is under the supervision of the court.

Section 69A. When a person has been committed to the department of youth services, the court, the probation officers, and other public and police authorities, the school authorities, and other public officials shall make available to said department all pertinent information in their possession in respect to the case.

We respectfully request, if the House does adopt section 49, that it strike out, in lines 1113-1114, the words:- "Nothing in this paragraph shall prohibit the sharing of information for the purposes of completing a report pursuant to section 51A or 57 of chapter 119..." and insert the following words: "Nothing in this paragraph shall prohibit the sharing of information pursuant to the provisions of chapter 119 of the general laws..."

This very simple proposed amendment would eliminate these conflicts with chapter 119 and permit probation officers to carry out their duties while always working towards the best interests of the child.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment-

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

July 16, 2020

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Tyler Estrella and I live at 120 Hood ST, Fall River MA 02720. I work at the Bristol County Sheriffs Office and am a Correctional Officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tyler Estrella

Our firm represents the MBTA Police Association and MBTA Sergeants Association. Both our clients and our firm oppose this bill in its current form as it frustrates the police's ability to execute their duties safely. While we agree, some reform is necessary, this bill is being rushed without public hearing and the valuable input of law enforcement officials who have dedicated their lives for the protection of our entire community.

We encourage you to delay this bill until a public hearing can be held and testimony of law enforcement professionals be heard. Thank you.

Very truly yours,

Subject: Citizen in Support of Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800)

Hi,

I am a resident of Boston, MA (Dorchester) and I support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800).

I have been a proud resident of Boston for 8 years now. My pride comes from being a part of a community whose local government is at the forefront of states passing legislation that is just, progressive, and tackling hard topics when necessary. The law has been too soft on police guidelines until now, and Boston citizens are being disgustingly affected by such - living in constant fear of police, not getting the support needed when in trouble, being attacked or abused by those who should be trusted, and in some cases, being killed. Boston and MA have made the correct choices to defend its citizens in the past, and I hope you are able to step up and do what is right in this case as well - regardless of the heat and political games I am sure are occurring.

MA deserves better.

It's time to eliminate qualified immunity, ban chokeholds, reallocate state funds to communities disproportionately impacted by the criminal justice system, and allow the Mass AG to file lawsuits against discriminatory police departments.

This needs to be done now. Lives are on the line and there is no time to delay.

I hope to see this legislation pass so I can continue to be a proud resident.

Thank you,

Emily Blackwell

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Dear Members of the House,

As both an attorney and a police officer, I am deeply concerned with An Act to Reform Police Standards (S2820). I am a fourth-generation police officer and I am proud to continue my family's tradition of protecting, serving, and helping people. We have seen policing in Massachusetts advance and evolve to a professional level envied by other states. One of the biggest factors to this was the Quinn Bill. It encouraged officers to become better educated and receive more money for their education. A well-educated officer has a better understanding of their actions and various culture issues. A better paid officer is less likely to do something that would jeopardize their livelihood.

My wife is a first generation American and I have seen bias and prejudice against her and her family because of their last name and the color of their skin. I and my family applaud removing bias and racism from policing and wish it could be removed from every profession. That being said, we believe certain parts of S2820 will be damaging to this goal. As written, it will set policing back sixty years. By removing qualified immunity, you will see good, educated, and well-trained officers leave their department in droves for fear of being sued over trivial issues. Good candidates will go elsewhere for the same reason. The departments will be forced to hire less qualified candidates prone to do the very things you're trying to prevent.

More training and creating a certification process are great ideas, but the review board described in the bill is troubling. Civilians with no legal background should not be appointed to such a board. The board you are setting will be influenced by politics and agendas instead of the pursuit of justice. The experts in civil service has done a good job for many years and should be allowed to continue, especially if a certification process is created.

I urge you to ignore the hype and look at the facts. As it stands now policing in Massachusetts is a standard the rest of the country should strive for. It could use some tweaking, but the current bill will destroy it and crime and violence will devastate this great state.

Thank you,

Jack Cullen

Subject: 2800 Bill

Hello,

My name is Carla Cerullo and I have been a citizen since 2009. I never liked politics and try not to get involved in arguments or discussions. However, this year has been particularly hard on all citizens and things need to change. People need to be heard. I believe Bill 2800 should be voted by the citizens instead being passed by senate without the public's input.

Bill 2800 was created without collaboration of police departments. I am worried that taking away qualified immunity will hurt many police officers trying to do their job. Police officers have to make split second decisions and not to be worry if they will get sued. Surgeons when performing surgery have a signed consent stating all things that can go wrong. They can performed surgery knowing that even if something goes wrong unintentionally, they are protected with that consent. How is a police officer supposed to perform their job? They will hesitate to perform.

I am not saying they shouldn't be hold accountable for actions such as the murder of George Floyd, but police officers see people at their worst. They put their lives at risk every day to protect ours. There are good and bad people in all professions. Police officers just like doctors, nurses, and teachers should have higher standers but what cost? They have worry that they can lose their life saving every time they respond to a call.

When the Boston Marathon bombing happened, police officers were praised for their actions. Did we forget about that?The police is not the only sector that needs reform. People need reform.

People are thought to hate. Hate a different skin color, gender, race. Hate is in the core. Until we, as a nation, learn to accept that we all have red blood running through are veins, hate will still exist. I am not sure if you will take time to read this, but I am telling you what I teach my girls about racism. Always be kind and respect people.

Subject: Opposition to bill .2820 - Chesna and Sgambato

Dear Honorable Members of the House Committee on Ways and Means,

Our names are Cynthia Chesna of 106 Henrys Lane, Hanover and Allison Sgambato of 30 Hickory Lane, Hanover. Eight years ago today, as our husbands, Michael Chesna and Joseph Sgambato, began the Boylston Police Academy, we began our own unique journey as police wives who had to face the unimaginable. As your constituents, we are sending this letter of opposition in regards to portions of bill S. 2820, also known as, the "Rebuild, Shift + Build Act" that passed in the Senate during the early morning hours of July 14, 2020.

Today, both of our husbands should have started their eighth year as Patrolmen for the Weymouth Police Department. Sadly, it is the third year that Joseph has faced this day without his friend, coworker and fellow Army Veteran, Michael. Even more sobering is that this yearly milestone falls just one day after Michael was killed in the line of duty on July 15, 2018. Our hope is that sharing our experience as part of the ever growing "Blue Family" will help others listen to truly understand, and not just respond. We want to be a part of the solution. There are some portions of the bill that we wholeheartedly agree with, but there are others that we do not. Respectfully, we ask for you to please listen, watch and think about the information that we have shared within this document. Please, help us create communities that are fair, just and safe, for ALL people across the Commonwealth.

The first thing Joseph said, as he was getting ready to leave for work this past July 14th was "that bill passed." Yes, it did. "That bill," which was sheepishly passed at 4:30 am, while most of the Commonwealth was asleep, has major drawbacks that can lead to dangerous outcomes. Why was there no public comment or input from critical stakeholder groups? More importantly, why were our police officers, the ones whose lives are directly impacted, not given a chance to educate Senators about the good that they do, or share their own personal experiences? The answer, unfortunately, is most likely because this would have humanized our men and women in blue. Instead, it makes it easier to see our officers as badges and uniforms rather than mothers, fathers, sons, daughters, sisters and brothers. Despite all of this, our Police Officers continue to show up, shift after shift, day after day, to protect and serve those who brazenly show them the ultimate sign of disrespect - assuming that the horrific actions of a few are indicative of all.

We are angry. We are angry that the PEOPLE who wear the badge have been deemed the enemy. We are angry that our Officers are being held accountable for an act that they did not commit. We are angry that this "bill" passed one day before Michael was murdered at the tail end of his shift and never made it home. We are angry because two years ago, when the horrific events that occurred in Weymouth made national news, the Commonwealth turned into a sea of blue, as it should have. The very elected officials who showed up to express their condolences and vowed that there would be justice, have now drastically swung the pendulum to the other side. So now we ask, what about Michael, did his life matter? We can tell you that it absolutely did and still does! Watching two children, who were the light of their father's life grieve each day is horrific. As a state and country, we need to do better and we need to do it for Michael and the sickening amount of other officers who never made it home to their families at the hands of repeat offenders.

Being in an elected position is an honor and privilege. The constituents that each individual represents were entrusted to be the voice for their communities. Sadly, we do not believe that is the case for all. The members of the Senate who passed this bill appear reactive and indecisive. While making decisions that impact people's families, homes and financial stability, the residents of Massachusetts cannot have their representative easily swayed. While we are not veterans in the political venue, we can confidently say that we are ones in the daily life of being part of the world wide Blue Family.

At this time, we would like to take the opportunity to address the major parts of this bill that we oppose. The first is the use of excessive force. We would like to be very clear that we do not condone or believe that recent situations across the country are acceptable. They should have never happened, what happened to Michael should have never happened. By removing potential life saving options, which should only be used when absolutely necessary, we run the risk of burying another officer. Please, provide additional training regarding these measures and the deadly impact that they can have. Those who intentionally deviate should be held accountable. We ask you to please understand that when officers leave their homes, those who love them hope and pray that they return safely at the end of their shift. Sadly, this does not always happen and the effects are crippling.

On the morning of July 15, 2018, multiple 911 calls were made to the Weymouth Police Department regarding an erratic operator. In order to truly comprehend our viewpoint on this matter, we urge you to listen to the July 15th radio transmission from the Weymouth Police and Fire Departments. What you will hear is a gut wrenching play by play of how drastically a situation can change from seemingly trivial to a matter of life and death. The audio can be found by clicking this link:Weymouth Police/Fire Radio Transmission - 7/15/18
<[Before the commentary of "well that is the job they signed up for" begins, we kindly ask you to stop. There is not one person who took the oath to be a Police Officer and thought they would witness their brother](https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A__www.telegram.com_news_20180717_scanner-2Daudio-2Dweymouth-2Dpolice-2Dradio-2Dtransmissions-2Dmorning-2Dof-2Dofficers-2Ddeath&d=DwMFaQ&c=1DF7oMaPKXpkYvev9V-fVahWL0QWnGCCAfCDz1Bns_w&r=uoevGIInjCfTlguYncQubxpi5R6db_gq1YmKr0SCk2EnIiuk13zIsl6rchf_GkGDD&m=XWsoesxoBa9Qm29rbpL_-g2QDLv5HwsVrI12QN7cGM&s=wqHQJjjmoYrLPgqJqdlNCRph-hyk-ogiqzhoqs6pssE&e=>After listening to the audio, it is abundantly evident the trauma, terror and life changing grief that those who were directly and indirectly involved in that situation will carry for the rest of their lives.<div data-bbox=)

in blue being brutally murdered, with his own duty gun, right in front of their eyes. We also do not believe there is anyone who thought that they would be performing CPR on their coworker and friend with approximately ten bullet holes to their head and torso while the suspect was still running around and holding the gun. During the radio transmission, it is clear that despite everything, the officers still held their duty to serve and protect and render aid for the suspect.

Did the accused individual have a bullet wound to his leg? Yes. Did it impact his ability to try and further evade the police? No. There is photographic evidence, which is publicly available, showing that the accused individual did not have additional marks or injuries aside from his leg wound. If there was EVER a situation that displays the level of training and professionalism that our officers possess, this would be it. In fact, many Weymouth Police Officers were recipients of the Robert Dana Award, which is given annually to Massachusetts Police Officers who demonstrate distinguished service for their heroic actions on that horrific July morning.

Our sincere hope is that you are beginning to understand why this bill feels like a slap in the face and is disrespectful to those who gave the ultimate sacrifice and the families and friends they left behind. Please, let us say it one more time, even after witnessing the murder of their brother, along with that of an innocent 78 year old bystander, the police STILL provided medical care to the individual who unleashed hell in South Weymouth two years ago. They STILL treated this person with respect. Despite it all, they STILL did not use more force than absolutely necessary. These individuals represent the majority of Police Officers across the Commonwealth who take their oath, livelihood and the value of human life very seriously.

A candlelight vigil was held for Michael on July 18th, 2018. Thousands of people attended to pay tribute to a true American hero. During the Vigil, the Chief of the Weymouth Police Department at the time, Richard Grimes, gave a speech. Please click the link provided below to watch the portion that is directly linked to the topic of excessive force (link: Chief Grimes Vigil Speech <https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A\_\_www.masslive.com\_news\_2018\_07\_hesitation-5Fgets-5Fofficers-5Fharme.html&d=DwMFaQ&c=lDF7oMaPKXpkYvev9V-fVahWL0QWnGCCAfCDz1Bns\_w&r=uoevGIInjCfTlguYncQubxpi5R6db\_gqlYmKr0Sck2EnIiuk13zIs16rchf\_GkGDD&m=XWsoesxoBa9Qm29rbpL\_-g2QDLv5HwsvVrI12QN7cGM&s=3MfQsk6oykksi04KVF5cUU0EXfbMKLnUfrr-kjkCfNo&e=>>). The quote that will forever be remembered is when Chief Grimes asked "is a rock just a rock?" Up until Michael was killed, if a person was ever holding a rock and had been shot, the backlash that would have ensued would have caused mayhem. Here is the bottom line and Chief Grimes stated it perfectly, "hesitation gets officers harmed" and in the case of Michael, it gets them killed.

This leads us into the portion of the bill that includes police licensure, ongoing training and certification. We firmly believe in accountability for all. What we do ask is that it is fair. Those who have never been in a life or death situation and had to make a split second decision to either protect themselves, which runs the risk of becoming the next poster child for the war on police, or your family sobbing as your name is inscribed into the Police Officer's Memorial, might not be the best to judge. The group responsible for making the decision that will impact someone's career and life path should be based on credentials, merit and experience. While the group does include some individuals with expertise in the area of policing, it also includes those who do not. We are by no means disrespecting those who hold degrees and certifications in highly specialized areas. What we are asking is that our elected officials understand that being an expert and being in the trenches are two drastically different experiences.

Is there another profession that is licensed by those who are not a part of it each and every day? As far as we know, there is not. The reason for this is because it is the fair and just thing to do. The statement of "no one hates a bad cop more than a good one" is true. Those who do not abide by the morals, ethics and oath they took in other professions do not tarnish the reputation of an entire organization. Unfortunately, this is not the case for our Police Officers, they pay dearly for the poor choices of a few. Society continues to paint their profession with the sweep of a broad brush and it must stop! Imagine the feeling of leaving your loved ones each day and despite being honorable, you are hated, harassed, threatened (yourself and your family), called derogatory names, physically attacked and in some situations killed because of the horrific actions of a few in a situation that you do not support or find acceptable. How maddening for the many who are being demonized based on the actions of a few.

The officers who are the majority are now about to lose their qualified immunity. The notion that qualified immunity protects police officers who intentionally make poor choices could not be further from the truth. Qualified immunity, as written in the current bill, applies to all those in the public sector, not just police. A very watered down definition of qualified immunity is that it protects those who are acting in the best interest of another, with no intent to harm. Taking away qualified immunity puts public employees in an extremely vulnerable position because it allows for them to be sued personally through the civil court. One of the examples being widely shared is regarding CPR. Those who are trained in CPR know that more often than not, it ends with the unresponsive person having broken ribs. At the end of the day, those who have suffered an unresponsive episode typically are not angered over broken ribs, considering the alternative. People who believe that others are inherently good cannot fathom suing someone over this, but there are others who can and will. If we are in the practice of basing the intent of a group on the harmful actions of a few, then not just Blue Families, but other public servants better buckle up, because we are in for one heck of a ride that will inevitably end up with families crashing into legal fees and debt. Not to mention the many good people who will consider leaving their jobs because the legal representation for frivolous lawsuits would cost more than they make in a year. Furthermore, those who hang their hat on "this is what they signed up for" regarding any sort of difficult situation will be forced to change their rhetoric, because there is not going to be many signing up to do any job that places so little on the value of their life.

Speaking of the value of life, please, let's seriously discuss this topic. Many officers carry around demons of which they never speak. The painstaking screams from the parents of a young child they could not save, a teen who they could not help with drug addiction despite providing resources and support, or the domestic violence victims they routinely see with increasing physical and emotional scars which become progressively worse over time. These situations can cause sleep disturbance, anxiety and post-traumatic stress disorder, along with secondary trauma. There have been several officers across the state over the past few years that have silently battled alone and ended up taking their own lives. So please, by all means, bring on the training, but we beg for it to be relevant to the issues Police Officers face in 2020. If you want to know what they are, ask them in a way that allows them to respond anonymously and honestly, so you get to the heart of what they need. We do not know any officer who would balk at more training to help them do their job in a safer way for not only themselves but the community they serve.

Furthermore, the notion of having social workers take on specific calls is wonderful in theory, but with limited means to protect themselves, we fear how badly this will end. Training in verbal de-escalation is a great tool for all who interact with the public to know and utilize as part of a repertoire of skills, not in isolation. Again, please think of Michael and how quickly the 911 calls regarding an erratic operator turned into his untimely death. Situations evolve and change quickly, can we have the police work in collaboration with social workers to better meet the needs of individuals and ensure safety? More importantly, how can we show the human side of our Officers, because we promise they are empathetic, caring and want to see their communities thrive.

We believe that at the end of the day, good will prevail. Those who took an oath to protect and serve, especially here in Massachusetts, do not hesitate to do so for the people of the communities they serve. We must ask the question though, do they hesitate when it comes to protecting themselves, their families, homes and livelihood? Was it hesitation that caused Michael to be killed with his own duty weapon? The answer will never be known. Please remember Michael and the words shared at his Vigil. "Hesitation gets officers hurt" and even worse, it gets them murdered. Please, do not let another Blue Family bury their loved one who died at the hands of a criminal. Most importantly, please do not let Michael's death be in vain, but let it be a constant reminder of why Police Officers need to be able to make snap second decisions without the fear of legal repercussions. Moving forward, we sincerely hope that the portions of this bill that aim to create a safer, more inclusive Commonwealth are passed after thoughtful input from all necessary stakeholders. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Stripping Law Enforcement of qualified immunity takes away their protection and due process. This state is in for some tough times if that happens. It would be safer for police and fire to do the bare minimum if this bill is passed and the public deserves more!!

Subject: Senate Bill 2820

Dear Chief Michlewicz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Jillian Parent and I live in Westminister, Massachusetts. As a constituent of this Commonwealth, I am writing to you today to voice my concerns and opposition to Senate Bill 2820.

First and foremost, I want to express my disgust as to Minneapolis Police Officer Derek Chauvin's actions. With that being said, the bill that you are now considering in response to what happened to George Floyd is neither progressive nor will it fix the problem.

You see, I am married to a Correctional Officer from this Commonwealth. An Officer who was brutally attacked by more than a dozen inmates on January 10, 2020. As a result of the senseless violence he faced that day, he sustained serious physical and emotional injuries which have resulted in multiple hospitalizations and surgeries. His injuries have completely changed our world.

The assault on my husband was directly correlated to the Criminal Justice Reform Act you passed in 2019. That Act took several years to develop, but, in the end, it was still flawed. It is my hope that you did not anticipate what happened to my husband to occur because of the passage of that Act. With that said, I ask that you slow down before taking any hasty measures in your attempt to solve police brutality.

Let me explain how this new Bill could have changed things for my Husband had it been passed in January:

Qualified Immunity: The day my husband was attacked was chaotic. While fighting for his life, had my husband or any Officer attempting to save him, injured an inmate in the process, they could be subjected to civil litigation. That means, today, not only would he be struggling to heal physically and mentally, but we would also be struggling financially— all in the name of doing his job.

Less than lethal tools: If you watch the video released to the media, the inmates only stopped their savage attack, once additional officers arrived to help. Among those Officers were tactical units that possessed “less than lethal tools.” Without those tools, there would have been no incentive for the inmates to stop their attack. I truly believe my husband would be dead today if the inmates were given even 30 more seconds to carry out their plan. In fact, the first thing he said to me when I arrived at the Hospital was, “I thought I was going to die.” That’s how close to death he was.

Civilian Oversight: Civilians are not equipped to make decisions on a topic they do not know fully understand. Unless they have worn a uniform either inside a prison or on the streets, I do not believe they can make a fully informed decision on how, if, or why a certain action was taken. I believe we can agree that neither you nor I would have known what to do on January 10th, had we been in my husband’s shoes.

While I respect your attempt to make this Commonwealth safer for all, the Bill as it currently stands is nothing more than punitive towards the members of law enforcement within our community. I ask that you keep in mind that law enforcement officers are among the constituents you seek to keep safe in your decision.

Just as you made an error passing the, albeit well intentioned, 2019 Criminal Justice Reform Act, Senate Bill 2820 will lead to issues that you have not even contemplated at this point. I think it's time that politicians begin to understand the ramifications of their actions when they make decisions on topics which they lack the knowledge to understand.

This bill will not solve any problems. Please re-consider the passage of this Bill and rather than make a haste decision, reform this Bill so it can actually solve the problem at hand.

Respectfully,

Jillian Parent

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

This Bill is extremely dangerous and will put not only our officers in danger but civilians as well. You have a chance to right thing here otherwise I fear a lawful society will cease to exist.

To Whom it May Concern:

I am an active voter Waltham, MA and I firmly support a strong and comprehensive police reform bill to be passed before the end of this congressional session. This bill should align with the goals of S.2800 to reduce the risk of police misconduct, increase police accountability and shift the focus from prosecution and punishment to the now seemingly quaint ideas of protection and service. I hope that the House will draft and pass a bill with language closely aligned with S.2800 to allow Massachusetts citizens to be protected and served by their police forces as soon as possible.

Subject: Proposed bill S.2820

Dear House of Representatives,

My name is Mary Pietrantonio and I live at 8 Drury Lane, Wakefield, MA 01880. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Mary Pietrantonio

- The same limits to qualified immunity that the Senate included. This is vitally important to protect the constitutional rights of Massachusetts residents.
- Amendment 80, which gives superintendents and school committees the ability to authorize a school resource officer, rather than the current unfunded mandate for every district to have SROs. Districts should have local control over their own budgets and policies.
- Amendment 108, which prevents schools from sharing personal information about students into local, state, and federal databases.
- Amendment 65, which bans tear gas, a chemical weapon banned in warfare.

Dear Chair Claire Cronin and Chair Aaron Michlewitz

My name is, Dennis J McNulty, I am a lifelong resident of the state of Massachusetts. I am not affiliated with any groups. I am a concerned, honest, working family man. Looking to help our nation. I apologize if this letter goes a little astray at times. I'm writing quickly during a work break.

What is happening right now in this country is extremely sad. With Covid-19 and the rise of hatred toward multiple organizations, for the first time in my life, I am scared for our country. We need to support our law enforcement, we need to support our first responders, and we need to support our people. All people, not just the people who are making loud noises.

Massachusetts is one of the leaders of this country. We need all our leaders to step up and show the country how strong we really are. Be the powerful people we know you can be. I can only imagine the political stress/pressures you all have been incurring over the last, oh boy, years. BUT, We need to get back to basics. Common sense, morals, and accountability. Hold people accountable for their actions, I feel we have lost that. We cannot worry about hurt feelings. If someone has done something wrong, they need to be held accountable for their actions. We need to rid the hate from peoples hearts. That is going to be extremely hard! We should be able to have conversations with one another, without interruption, without yelling in anger, without making the other person feel like they are nothing because of the way they feel. That is America. Our veterans fought for that right. Please reconsider passing the Senate Bill 2820. It needs more time to be revised. Qualified immunity needs to be revised, the selection committees need to be reviewed, school documentation withholding from law enforcement for investigations. Amongst other things. I'm not a lawyer, I'm blessed enough to be working through this pandemic. There is no way I would be able to read through and completely understand 89 pages with a ~48 hour window. So, please reconsider this Bill. Stop, take the time to get it right the first time. Set the example for other states. I sincerely appreciate your time and consideration.

Subject: Please Pass the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800)

Dear Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin,

I write to you as a Boston resident and business owner.

While I hope that you and your colleagues in the House take inspiration from the Senate's decisive action in passing the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800), I understand that changing the status quo can be difficult. In this spirit, I am writing to let you know that I am among the countless residents of Massachusetts who support this bill. The Reform, Shift + Build Act is a small but significant step towards combating systemic racism. I am personally confident that not only will it make our justice system more accessible and equitable, it will save lives.

I appreciate that efforts to restrict qualified immunity have been particularly controversial. While I personally cannot speak much to the doctrine's complicated local and national history, I can say that our civil justice system (and in particular, our tort system) has evolved to achieve two goals: 1) to cause those with the ability to limit preventable harm to internalize the risk of that harm; and 2) to help make those who have been harmed whole. Qualified immunity in its current form subverts both of these goals. At the very least, this act provides an opportunity to see whether changes to the doctrine work and whether they will be successful when implemented on a national level.

Thank you both for the work you do in making our Commonwealth an example to the world of a community that recognizes its shortcomings with grace as it strives towards justice and progress.

Sincerely,

Subject: Pass a Strong Police Accountability Bill with Key Provisions
from S.2820

Dear Chairs HWM & Judiciary,

Dear Chair members,

I am a resident of East Boston, a district in Senator Boncore's region and I strongly urge you all to pass legislation that establishes real oversight and accountability for police.

I grew up in Dorchester and now I call East Boston my home. I am floored by the hospitality of my neighbors and the sense of community that's here. I wish to keep staying in Boston and I have lived here my whole life, but growing up here I know that the criminal justice system is not in support of my community.

Our law enforcement system is rife with systemic racism that manifests in poignant police murders of unarmed black people, brutality and excessive use of force, unlawful arrests, and unnecessary police contact. The House of Representatives and Senate should ultimately pass a bill that ends qualified immunity in most instances, reduces and oversees police use of force, removes police from schools, expands juvenile expungement, and establishes funds to improve re-entry from incarceration.

The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

This is an urgent matter. Please pass a bill that includes at a minimum the provisions of the senate bill.

Sincerely,

Good morning. My name is Robert Sweetland, I am a police officer in the City of Quincy. I have to strongly voice my opposition to the current bill before the House Of Representatives that would make drastic changes to our profession. I shall say that I am open to change when it comes to change in certain aspects. More training in all subjects always helps us deal with individuals who live or visit our communities. Our society changes everyday. There is no issue with us changing for the better. I say that, in order for us to do our jobs effectively and professionally, we can not be handcuffed. Over my 30 plus years, I have seen a lot. Most individuals we deal with cooperate, a lot do not. This brings us to use our training. From verbal commands to deadly force. We never know how a situation will play out. It may come to using deadly force. We took an oath to uphold the Constitution and the laws of the Commonwealth. We take that seriously. Qualified immunity is one aspect that protects us from frivolous law suits and lets us do our job to the best of our abilities. Removing this will harm this profession.

We work hard every day to protect our law abiding citizens from the criminal element. We need this bill to be defeated. The majority of men and women who put on the uniform everyday are outstanding police officers and do this job with the utmost professionalism. Please let us do our jobs, not hinder. Thank you very much for your attention in this matter.

Subject: Pass SB.2800, Reform, Shift, Build Act

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:

My name is Lubna Omar. I am a resident of East Boston and I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

I am supporting this because the safety of my community depends on it. I live in an overly policed neighborhood and we don't feel safe with the police. The power of the police remains unchanged and unchecked. I have a 9-year-old Black boy and it is painful to have such hard conversations on police brutally when he shouldn't be worrying about that. But unfortunately, that is the reality of Black mothers in this country. We are EXHAUSTED and it is time to act and pass this bill to keep Black boys like my son. Everyone now wants to tackle systemic racism. That conversation starts with reforming the police and holding them accountable.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Sincerely,

Subject: S2820 Comments

To Whom It May Concern;

I stand against bill S2820 as has been presented to the Senate.

The senate version of this bill as written will seriously undermine public safety by limiting police officer's ability to do their jobs while simultaneously allowing provisions to protect criminals. Furthermore, the process employed by the Senate to push this through with such haste, without public hearing or input of any kind, was extremely undemocratic and nontransparent.

Police across the commonwealth support uniform training standards and policies and have been requesting more training for years.

The Senate version of a regulatory board is unacceptable as it strips officers of the due process rights and does away with protections currently set forth in collective bargaining agreements and civil service law.

Massachusetts police officers are among the highest educated and trained in the country.

This bill directly attacks qualified immunity and due process. Qualified immunity does not protect bad officers. It protects good officers from civil lawsuits. We should want our officers to be able to act to protect our communities without fear of being sued at every turn, otherwise why would they put themselves at risk? The vast majority of law enforcement officers do the right thing. Yet there is a real push to end qualified immunity to open good officers up to frivolous lawsuits because of the actions of a few who, by their own actions, would not be covered by qualified immunity anyway. It just doesn't make any sense why we are endangering the livelihood of many for the actions of a few.

Changes to qualified immunity would be unnecessary if the legislature adopted a uniform statewide standard and bans unlawful use of force techniques which all police personnel unequivocally support.

If the senate bill is passed in its current form the costs to municipalities and the State will skyrocket from frivolous lawsuits and potentially having a devastating impact on budgets statewide.

Respectfully,

Subject: comments

I am looking forward to addressing police misconduct, addressing racial discrimination, and bringing more justice into our criminal justice system. This is a timely and important topic and I am pleased that Speaker DeLeo has made addressing it one of the top priorities of the House.

I come to this issue as former prosecutor, a litigator who has prosecuted and defended civil rights cases, and has worked extensively as an employment lawyer working representing employees and employers in the public and private sectors, often involving accusations of discrimination.

First, I fully support the Black and Latino Caucus' publicly stated priorities, particularly the banning of certain police tactics such as chokeholds, no knock warrants, and use of tear gas as well as the banning of the use of face surveillance. None of these tactics should not be used on civilians at all in our state. I hope we can address all of them.

Second, I also wanted to add some specific comments on the S.2820. One of the most important issues to address accountability is to create the licensing provisions for police that the Senate proposed. The licensing of police officers, which is separate from whether a department can hire them, retain them, or discipline them, by a separate state entity with full powers to investigate is one of the best ways that we can make police more accountable.

I support repealing and replacing the qualified immunity standard as the Senate proposed. I was proud to vote for a similar proposal out of the Judiciary Committee this year and watch that bill advance through the House. This change will allow some victims who cannot recover for a constitutional violation to recover. Because all or almost all police are indemnified in Massachusetts, I do not view this as a police accountability issue.

If you have any questions, please let me know.

Best regards,
Jay

Subject: S2820 Bill

July 17, 2020

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin:

We, first of all, want to applaud the Speaker for having a virtual hearing on this bill and allowing the public and all interested parties to voice their opinions and ideas. The times are difficult for all of us and we appreciate that, unlike the Senate, the House is doing its best to have a thoughtful and thorough exchange of ideas on this most important issue. We thank you for the opportunity to submit testimony on behalf of the Boston Police Detectives Benevolent Society relative to Senate Bill 2820 "An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color."

We want to begin by expressing our disappointment in the concept of an omnibus bill as put forth by the Senate. The issue of police standards, training and accountability is complicated enough without jamming it into a bill with a myriad of other equally complicated public policy and important public safety issues some of which have already been rejected in other bills that have been voted upon and enacted by both branches and signed into law by the Governor. This, coupled with them not having a hearing, and only giving the Senate membership a couple of days and a few hours of caucus explanation of an almost 80 page bill certainly wasn't in the public interest and could hardly be called a transparent and open process.

That said we want to unequivocally state that we abhor and condemn in the strongest possible terms the outrageous conduct that has occurred in OTHER states and join we all right thinking Americans in urging that those involved be held accountable to the maximum extent of the law. We also want to be on record as supporting the general concepts of police accountability and training as core principles put forth by the Governor and the Black and Latino caucus. More precisely we support the banning of use of force techniques such as the "choke hold" etc. except in incidents where the life of the officer or a citizen is in jeopardy. We support uniform statewide training, standards and protocols. We have no problem with certification of police officers and decertification as long as it is fair, unbiased and due process is exercised. We support the duty to intervene. We encourage the accreditation of ALL departments which will hold the municipalities accountable and go a long way to insuring that the quality of public safety is maximized.

We believe that the main spokespeople for the Senate bastardized these core principles with false and misleading statements and half truths and a total abandonment of the concepts of fundamental due process and equal rights for all which have been the heart and soul of the civil rights movement that we all support. It seems that there are some in the Senate who believe, and in fact have demonstrated by their actions, words and votes, that equal rights should not apply to police officers in the line of duty. Specifically they want to create a POSAC board that is dominated by groups who have a stated anti law enforcement bias and preconceived punitive motives toward police. The board ,as proposed in S.2820 ,is unlike any of the Commonwealth's 160+ regulatory boards that the Governor, our own local Rep. Holmes and Sen. Chang Diaz ,among others , have repeatedly and publicly stated are the models for a Board which should be used for law enforcement. Now they want to treat police differently and unfairly. The proposed composition of POSAC is fundamentally incapable of providing regulatory due process. Furthermore the proposed members are completely devoid of sufficient law enforcement experience to create training policies and standards since, unlike members of the other 160+ boards, they do not have sufficient experience in the field of law enforcement.

Next ,Qualified Immunity: Their number one rationale for this, beside the stated economic punitive motive, is that it is necessary for accountability for police. Nothing could be further from the truth. Adoption of uniform statewide training , standards and policies coupled with statutory banning of use of force standards provide the necessary guidelines to define the reasonableness standard that is necessary to eliminate QI as a defense in civil cases against police officers. You do not need to change QI and open up a pandora's box of unintended consequences . The chief spokespeople in the Senate debate were lawyers and we have been told that the plaintiffs' bar is salivating at the prospect of the changes they have proposed. It will be a new cottage industry of unnecessary ,frivolous and nuisance law suits against all public employees not jut police officers which will cost the municipalities tens of millions annually. We propose a commission of experts to analyze this and present the legislature with all of the necessary information needed to make an informed decision as to how it should proceed on this very complex issue. Even senate proponents admitted it was complex and there wasn't enough institutional knowledge to answer all the questions. In fact it took the leadership a couple of days of prodding to admit to the membership that it applies to all public employees. A basic fact that most shop stewards from the public employees unions could answer. Despite repeated assertions from the senate that this was a "stand alone" bill and was "fully vetted" by all interested parties at a public hearing nothing could be further from the truth. It was a three line section in a larger civil rights bill that did indeed have a hearing but, according to attendees, did not have any testimony pro or con. It should also be noted that the Firefighters and other public employee unions support a commission or no action on QI. This suggestion will not impact the fundamental purpose of the legislation and in fact will make it even better.

Lastly S2820 contains some dangerous concepts which will have serious consequences for public safety. The change in the no knock warrant process will most certainly protect drug dealers, kidnappers human traffickers, money launderers and other criminal enterprises from prosecution. Furthermore common sense dictates that the potential consequences flowing from changing such an important tool in major criminal prosecutions should not be made without providing the opportunity for input from all the key stake holders in the criminal justice field. Law enforcement ,the DAs and the Judiciary should have had the specific opportunity to thoughtfully weigh in on the impact of a public safety policy change of this magnitude. This is especially true with the opiod crisis and what the scourge of drug abuse is doing to our minority neighborhoods. The so called gang profiling section ignores the devastation that gang activity in the schools of our minority neighborhoods where children are bullied, exposed to drugs at an early age, beaten up and worse, yet the senate limits the use of informatation which could help improve this unconscionable situation that discourages our children from not only learning but actually going to school. The limitations on the immediate use of facial recognition technology and other sophisticated technology which is so necessary in the fight against terrorism and organized retail theft that is devastating our local business both large and small is incredibly short sighted. This is especially true since the city of Boston and it's environs is one of the top 5 or 6 potential terrorist targets in the country. This is another example of why an omnibus bill on such an important policy as public safety masked as a police accountability bill is wrong. Suffice it to say these are issues which deserve a thorough vetting not just being lumped into an omnibus bill with limited focus on the consequences of their adoption. We are more than willing to provide more information related to these issues but in the interest of your time will conclude with the thought that we appreciate the opportunity to relate these concerns and are available to provide any more information upon request.

Subject: Please support our law enforcement

Good morning,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I implore you to take a moment and consider these following notes.

I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

I am adding my voice to those who support equity and justice for our Black and brown community members and who believe it is way past time to allow these communities to live free of fear.

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

Thank you.

Subject: Testimony Re: S. 2820

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

An 80-year-old white woman who volunteers as a reading coach for 1st graders at Martin Luther King K-8 School, I care deeply about the way African-American kids experience life in Boston. I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I particularly support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local superintendents of schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

Sincerely,

Rosemary R. Walton

Subject: Police Reform Bill S2820

Good morning,

I have been a police officer with the Worcester Police Department for the past 19 years, and had been promoted to Sergeant 3 years ago. This is a career that had always wanted, and have thoroughly enjoyed since appointment.

Bill S2820 as it is originally drafted does not instill confidence in my ability to effectively, safely and legally continue to do the job for which I was appointed.

I respectfully request that "Qualified Immunity", as well as Due Process and Collective Bargaining be very seriously considered. Two very important items that allow police officers to confidently perform their duties legally and appropriately without fear of termination and legal action against them. I would also request the makeup of the POSAC board include members that are qualified, objective and competent in their ability to render decisions which affect the livelihood of hard-working and honest police officers.

Respectfully,

Michael J. Stott

Subject: Testimony on Policing Legislation, Bill S.2820

Dear Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin,

Thank you for accepting written public testimony relating to S.2820. My name is Harold Peter Sousa Jr. I have been a Massachusetts State Trooper for 3 years and I previously worked for the Massachusetts Department of Corrections for 6 years. This statement was written by my wife, Courtney Parsons, and I.

It has been a disheartening few weeks, and it is extremely discouraging/frustrating that testimony was not accepted regarding S.2800. It feels like this bill is being rushed so the public does not have a chance to weigh in. When we reached out to our Senator, Barry Finegold, the response that we received was lacking. We reached out to him regarding proposed amendments to the bill and it was clear that he brushed it off and did not fully read the email - we are strong supporters of both racial justice/equality and some aspects of police reform (where it makes sense). But for some reason, we are made to feel like we cannot support both. If this bill will truly make a difference and have a positive impact, the people who it impacts the most should be able to contribute to it and express their opinion.

Over the past several weeks, cities and states across the United States have implemented drastic police reforms. Many of these communities have seen a staggering increase in violent crimes. S.2820 will not only have a negative effect on Law Enforcement agencies, but the communities we took an oath to protect.

On the topic of police reform specifically, there are several sections in the bill that are dangerous and will have serious negative consequences if the bill is passed as written. The sections that are most concerning are the following:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, and experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

The law enforcement officers in Massachusetts are some of the most well trained in the country. If we limit their training opportunities and make it even more dangerous to do their jobs, it will reduce the already limited pool of qualified candidates. Many officers are already discussing retirement and others are concerned for their futures.

For those who are quick to judge law enforcement officers based on egregious behavior of a select few, please consider the safety of the officers who do what they were trained to do. Also, we ask you to think about what law enforcement and their families go through daily.

If the opportunity arises, we would be happy to discuss our thoughts in person or over the phone.

Thank you again for your consideration,

Testimony in Support of Police Accountability in S.2820

Dear Rep. Cronin, Rep. Michlewitz, and members of the Committees,

I submit this testimony in strong support of the accountability measures in S.2820. Above all, I urge you to retain or strengthen the modification to qualified immunity and the bans on use of force, including chokeholds, tear gas, and no-knock warrants, as well as the moratorium on facial recognition software.

I also strongly support repealing the state mandate to have police officers in schools and the expungement of criminal records for youth.

We in Massachusetts are not immune to police brutality, as the US Department of Justice exposure of Springfield most recently demonstrated. Police brutality and racist harassment can happen anywhere.

We need to correct the flaws in the state's qualified immunity bill so that the courts can rule on cases presenting new situations. No woman should ever fear that she will be forcibly taken by the police to a hospital for an invasive search of her vagina only to have her claims of redress denied.

While I strongly support the above provisions to increase accountability in the Senate bill, I have concerns that I hope the House will be able to address:

- 1) Review of police misconduct and possible decertification should be removed from the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee and vested in an independent civilian review board. The current set-up, as I understand it, has the Committee making decisions about whether to decertify officers, and the Committee has 6 of 14 members from law enforcement. Successful civilian review boards need to be independent from law enforcement.
- 2) The evidence on whether body cameras improve the outcomes of police-civilian encounters is lacking. The millions of dollars anticipated for body cameras would be better spent in the community reinvestment fund.

Thank you for your attention to this testimony. I hope that the Legislature will pass strong police accountability measures this session.

Sincerely,

Rachel Roth

Excerpt:

“Increased funding for body-mounted cameras is often put forth as a measure to reduce law enforcement violence because of the presumed increase in transparency and accountability offered by these devices. An oft-cited example of body cameras’ success is in Rialto, California, where reports of use of force by law enforcement dropped by 50% in the first year of body camera implementation and citizen complaints dropped by 88%. However, more representative studies have shown harmful associations of use of force with body camera use or no associations at all. A national study of more than 2,000 departments revealed a statistically significant association between wearable body cameras and a 3.6% increase in fatal police shootings of civilians and no significant association with use of dash cameras. The largest and most rigorous randomized controlled trial on the use of body cameras, conducted by the District of Columbia’s

Metropolitan Police Department, showed that wearing body cameras had no statistically significant effect on use of force, civilian complaints, officer discretion, whether a case was prosecuted, or disposition.

Issues related to policy, protocol, and intentional sabotage raise additional questions about the efficacy of body- and dashboard-mounted cameras in decreasing law enforcement violence or increasing accountability for perpetrated violence. One third of police departments using body cameras do so without written policies, which may give officers discretion over their use and lead to selective recording. Most existing policies on body cameras do not guarantee that law enforcement agencies must make footage publicly accessible, and many other policies are inconsistent or unclear. Recordings may also be deleted by police; in Chicago, 80% of dash-camera video footage was missing sound due to error and "intentional destruction." Even when key events are recorded, these videos do not necessarily increase accountability because of the cultural, institutional, and structural barriers described above."

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(2) Qualified Immunity: Qualified Immunity does not protect problem police officers. In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Good morning and hope all is well. This is Robert P. Ciampa a retired Assistant Clerk Magistrate at Suffolk Superior Criminal Court . I clerked hundreds of criminal trials in the 20 years I served in Suffolk County and retired three years ago. In those twenty years I never saw a case that involved what happened in Minneapolis. I hope this bill does not take away what police need to do their job as they should. There are some people that would like to have a state with police not doing what they are supposed to. Massachusetts has probably the best trained and educated officers in the country. One bad police officer in another state should not paint all other police officers with the same brush. I felt obligated to write you and could not stay silent. Police are sworn to protect and serve the people and I am afraid that this bill will not allow them to do this. The judicial system has worked just fine for all the people and will continue to do so. This state and the police departments within it are not broken, please don't break them. Thanks for your great service in the Great and General Court.

Requiring a police officer to document age, race, gender, and physical characteristics will lead officers to police by quota. Why, because the law sets no expectation of what will be an acceptable statistical aberration. Imagine if the legislature had the same requirement for its members. Each member would be subject to investigation for statistical aberration from the demographics of their district. The law also sets of 5 committees with unclear responsibilities and accountability. The committees should represent the characteristics of the community not with focus on minority representation or advocacy representation ACLU or NAACP. The training and re-certification is a good step. Tragically this law is being raced through without adequate community input.

Subject: An Act to Reform Police S2820

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin:

My Name is Adam DeAngelis and I am a Police Officer in Lowell Ma.

I wanted to thank you for the opportunity to write to you on behalf of the upcoming police reform bill, S2820. I would like to voice my strong opposition to this bill. If this bill is passed as is, I believe it will be detrimental to law enforcement officers throughout the commonwealth, while also causing a mass exodus of quality police officers out of the profession.

The first of my concerns, is the issue with qualified immunity. Qualified Immunity is in place to protect the actions of the officers that are acting in good faith in order to properly serve our communities. Without qualified immunity many of the officers will be second guessing their actions, which could cause the officers harm or those they are trying to serve to be harmed. We would also literally be putting our families well being on the line. I love this job and serving the people of my community but without qualified immunity, I wouldn't be able to continue this career because I cannot and will not jeopardize my family and their wellbeing.

The second concern I have is the over site committee. I feel that if there is a committee in place to over see the actions of police, they need to be trained and experienced law enforcement officers. These board members should be experienced in a variety of subjects to include, use of force, defensive tactics, and firearms training, just to name a few. It would be inconceivable to me to have an over site committee over law enforcement that has little to knowledge and/or training on how we are trained or understand our policies and procedures.

The last concern of mine is the fact that the POSAC would assume jurisdiction after only one year regardless of the status of any local investigation, not only infringes on the rights the rights of the officers involved but denies them their due process.

In closing, officers are not against police reform. We feel that the bill that is being past is a hasty knee jerk reaction to the horrific and tragic event that happened in Minneapolis.

Thank you for hearing me on this matter,

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership.

Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status or gang membership to any law enforcement authority.

To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated.

SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated.

Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status.

Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers.

I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Sincerely,
Andrew B. Robertson

Subject: Opposition to S.2820

I write in opposition to S.2820. A bill which the Senate passed in the dead of night borrowing a page from the playbook of the gentleman from Kentucky in the US Senate. Surely that is not who the Commonwealth would like to emulate.

The bill creates commissions, committees and councils ensuring plenty of appointments for friends of elected officials without creating any meaningful improvements.

Civil actions as expanded under section 11I will even in the best of cases, merely give the rich another way to avoid consequences for the actions. As an example see the way Robert Kraft has avoided punishment in Florida, while others guilty of the same actions have not.

Surely it is not the intent of the Commonwealth to give the rich a way to take advantage of our public servants by attacking them personally?

Should all members of the state legislature be held personally responsible if they vote in favor of a law which violates the Constitution?

The legislature should instead consider tools, training and transparency. Give officers the tools (including human resources) they need. Give them the training - don't expect a combination lawyer, social worker and mental health doctor if you don't provide the training. Ensure there are enough officers so situations can be safely de-escalated. Finally transparency will give people the confidence that Internal Affairs offices do their job and reinforce that the Commonwealth's officers are some of the finest in the nation.

Thanks,
Tom

Subject: Work in a Child Psychiatric Unit

Hello,

I am a clinical social worker at a Child Psychiatric hospital in an acute residential unit. The children we work with are In crisis and are emotionally and behaviorally dysregulated which often results in aggressive outbursts directed towards themselves and others. These children are suffering and often have had traumatic life experiences that have burnt out their stress response systems locking them in a constant state of alert and dysregulation. The road ahead of them is long. The work we do requires great skill and a deep understanding of the context of these children's behaviors. We work tirelessly to manage our own affect, engage in deescalation and grounding interventions and respond to the human souls inside these activated bodies with deep empathy and compassion. Our children leave our program and return to a community that often misunderstands them and responds to them with fear and violence. Their need is a community that holds them, tolerates their distress and gives them hope, not one that offers punishment, shame and condemnation. Please consider this testimony and those of my colleagues as you determine a new plan for community based crisis response that does not rely on police force but on crisis teams that are funded and trained to keep these children safe in their communities and allow them to heal.

Sincerely

Worcester Police Department

Good Morning to all who read this,

I am a Worcester Police Officer that has served my community for approximately one and a half years. It was hard to watch the senate pass such a life/career changing reform bill at 430 in the morning with no public hearing. In my personal opinion, this reform bill contains Anti-Labor legislation. It will remove our rights to due process and collective bargaining and has also set up a licensing board that will not allow any law enforcement or anyone with any training, experience or background in law enforcement decide our futures. Its unfortunate that the vast majority of the community are mostly unaware of what is transpiring before them. Most of the people that I have interacted with and spoke to were unaware that this reform bill even existed. The main things that I feel need to be amended in this Anti-Labor reform bill are our representation on POSAC, due process and right to appeal(collective bargaining), and our qualified immunity.

Thank you for your time.

Subject: Transforming Public Safety

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,
MA can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in MA, public records of police misconduct, a duty of intervene policy and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

Subject: Concerned Citizen

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a Standards and Accreditation Committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage.

Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure, and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Subject: I urge you to oppose SB2820, especially Section 49

Hello,

I urge you to oppose SB2820. SB2820 includes language that would make it illegal for School Resource Officers to report students who are or are suspected to be MS-13 gang members to ICE.

Gang members who attend our middle and high schools have opportunities to recruit members. Frequently, young adults are placed with much younger students because of their lack of formal education. This dangerous provision would not allow our school resource officers to report suspected gang members to law enforcement.

Section 49 of the proposed bill would prevent school officials from reporting suspected gang membership, thereby putting school officials, teachers and students at the mercy of gang leaders.

The radical Massachusetts State Senate has gone way overboard with this bill! Please House members protect law and order to protect Massachusetts from the horrific and unAmerican danger this bill would pose.

Very, very Concerned,

To members of the Massachusetts state house,

I Amanda Hecht, a resident of Florence Massachusetts. In the current climate of the black lives matter movement it is exceptionally important that we start limiting and even eliminating qualified immunity from the police departments. We need to start holding police officers accountable for their actions. I find it galling that recently a police officer was fired for sharing the instagram post of her niece at a black lives matter rally. Yet the police officers who beat a Black man to near death were only put on administrative leave then reinstated recently. Qualified immunity must be eliminated as it gives police officers undue protection and prevents true investigation into their conduct.

Subject: Written Testimony Only - Reforming Police Standards

I want to thank everyone who reads this in advance, for the time to read my written testimony.

I agree that training needs to be increased for all Police Officer and Troopers.

However, there are still many issues with this bill that will destroy policing in this state. I have been in Law enforcement for 24 years, as a local police officer and now as a Trooper for the past 15 and half years.

Over the last decade I have seen the attacks on law enforcement escalate and the affects are quite obvious but rarely addressed. Police officers and Troopers are discouraged from working.

I took my first police test in 1989 for the Massachusetts State Police with nearly 36,000 other applicants. The last Massachusetts State Police test there was only 6800 plus applicants.

People no longer want to join this profession. This bill as written, and especially with the elimination of Qualified Immunity, will not only further reduce attracting quality applicants, it will drive out veteran Officers and Troopers with years of knowledge and skill.

The results of violent crime rising across this country and right here in the City of Boston, will continue. Two weeks prior, there were 7 murders in one week. As a resident of the City of Boston fear that the crime wave of the 90's and early 2000's that plagued this City and state, is not far off.

Below I have attached an article written on qualified immunity and how vital it is to law enforcement

I hope you will continue to support Law Enforcement

I have attached an article written on qualified immunity and how vital it is to law enforcement

The United States Supreme Court has demonstrated remarkable understanding of the very difficult and dangerous challenges that confront law enforcement officers on the streets of America today. The Court's strong interest in protecting our nation's domestic sentinels is displayed in decisions which recognize and support a "qualified immunity" legal defense for officers who must defend themselves in lawsuits arising out of life and death street confrontations.

The Court eliminated entirely any consideration of the subjective intent of the public official at the time of an alleged constitutional transgression and focused exclusively on the actual objective facts related to the official's conduct. By eliminating consideration of an official's (including a law enforcement officer's) subjective intent, the Court made it much more difficult for a trial judge to refuse to dismiss the case against an officer prior to trial.

The Court observed that the goal of the qualified immunity defense was to allow for the "dismissal of insubstantial lawsuits without trial." [2]

This statement makes clear that law enforcement officers are entitled to qualified immunity when they have a reasonable basis to believe that their conduct was constitutional, even if their actual conduct falls somewhat short of the constitutional standard.

a Puyallup, Washington police officer, attempted to arrest Haugen for felony drug violations. Haugen entered a Jeep parked in the driveway of his mother's home and locked its doors. The Jeep was facing the street. There were two vehicles parked in front of the Jeep. Each one had two passengers inside. One contained a three year old child.

Officer Brosseau pointed her firearm at Haugen and ordered him out of the Jeep but he ignored her. She hit the driver's side window several times with her pistol. The window shattered and she hit Haugen in the head with the butt of her sidearm. Undeterred, Haugen started the Jeep and began to move forward. Brosseau jumped back and as the vehicle continued to move forward, she fired one shot through the rear driver's side window. This shot hit Haugen in the back.

After being shot, Haugen maneuvered the Jeep out of the driveway and drove down the street for a short distance before stopping. He later pleaded guilty to felony eluding of a police officer. By so doing, he admitted that he was guilty of driving in a "wanton" and "willful disregard" for the lives of other people.

Haugen sued Brosseau in federal court pursuant to 42 U.S.C. §1983 and alleged that she used excessive force. Brosseau asserted the qualified immunity defense. The trial court judge ruled in her favor and dismissed the suit. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals reversed and remanded the case for trial.

The Ninth Circuit ruled that the shooting was excessive and violated the Fourth Amendment because Haugen did not represent a threat of serious bodily harm to Brosseau or others when he was shot. The Circuit Court also ruled that the state of the law was clearly established at the time and that no reasonable officer could believe that the shooting was lawful.

The Supreme Court reversed. The Court observed that the Ninth Circuit ruled that Officer Brosseau's conduct violated both prongs of the two-part qualified immunity test:

1. that she violated the Constitution (Fourth Amendment) and
2. that the law in these circumstances was "clearly established."

The Supreme Court expressed "no view as to the correctness of the Court of Appeals' decision on the constitutional question itself." [11]

The Court framed the particular issue in this case by asking, "whether [it is permissible] to shoot a disturbed felon, set on avoiding capture through vehicular flight, when persons in the immediate area are at risk from that flight." [12] <

In Mullenix, a Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) Trooper shot and killed Leija to end a high speed pursuit. Leija attempted to avoid arrest by engaging law enforcement officers in a dangerous high speed pursuit. During the chase which lasted 18 minutes, he traveled at speeds between 85 and 110 mph. He called a police dispatcher twice during the chase, claimed he had a firearm and threatened to shoot pursuing officers if they continued the pursuit. Police officials ordered the use of spike strips to be deployed under an overpass along the road that Leija was traveling on. An officer was positioned under the overpass to carry out the order.

Mullenix, the DPS Trooper, was positioned on top of the overpass and fired six rifle shots at Leija's vehicle as it approached on the road toward the overpass. Leija was hit by four of those shots and died.

Mullenix was sued by Leija's survivors, who alleged excessive force in violation of the Fourth Amendment. Mullenix asserted the qualified immunity defense but the defense was rejected by the trial court judge and the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. The Fifth Circuit ruled that Mullenix violated clearly established law by using deadly force upon a fleeing felon who did not present a sufficient threat of harm to officers or others. The Supreme Court reversed.

The Court was highly critical of the Fifth Circuit for using a much too broad generalized standard in determining that Mullenix violated clearly established law. The Court observed that the Circuit Court used the standard originating in Tennessee v. Garner, 471 U.S. 1 (1985) which held that deadly force is not permitted against an unarmed and non-dangerous fleeing felon. The Court ruled that the clearly established law inquiry "must be undertaken in light of the specific context of the case, not as a broad general proposition."

The Court noted that, "Mullenix confronted a reportedly intoxicated fugitive, set on avoiding capture through high-speed vehicular flight, who twice during his flight had threatened to shoot police officers, and who was moments away from encountering an officer [under the overpass] at Cemetery Road. The relevant inquiry is whether existing [legal] precedent placed the conclusion that Mullenix acted unreasonably ... 'beyond debate.'" The Court ruled that clearly established law was not violated because it was not beyond debate that Mullenix acted outside the parameters of objective reasonableness. The case was dismissed in favor of Mullenix on qualified immunity grounds.

Conclusion

The Supreme Court's decisions in Brosseau and Mullenix are significant for several reasons. First, they once again demonstrate the Court's continued determination to give police officers the benefit of doubt when reviewing their split-second life changing decisions from the entirely safe contours of judicial chambers. Second, they reaffirm the Court's willingness to use the qualified immunity defense to adjudicate police use of deadly force cases at the pre-trial stage of litigation and spare officers from the monetary and emotional burdens of protracted discovery and trial. Third, they demonstrate the extraordinary value of the qualified immunity defense to police officers who use deadly force in the performance of their duty, even in cases where the need for such force was not absolutely clear cut and obvious.

These cases were by no means "slam dunk" victories for the involved police officers. Nonetheless, the Supreme Court evaluated the efficacy of the officers' assertion of qualified immunity in the particular circumstances of each case and ruled that their conduct did not violate clearly established law.

The value of the qualified immunity defense to law enforcement officers in use of deadly force cases cannot be understated. It is crucial for attorneys representing officers in civil rights litigation to completely understand the full contours of the qualified immunity defense and use it to successfully defend their police officer clients.

Subject: Proposed bill S2820

Dear Mass Legislators,

I believe the rush into pushing S2820 without input from our current police force is not a good idea. I do believe here in Mass we have the best trained police and to pull them out of areas they have been present in with adversely do more harm. I believe this bill needs more time and input rather than rushing to pass this during this anti police climate the US is currently under

Subject: S.2820 Opposition

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(2)Qualified Immunity: Qualified Immunity does not protect problem police officers. Qualified Immunity is extended to all public employees who act reasonably and in compliance with the rules and regulations of their respective departments, not just police officers. Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolous lawsuits. This bill removes important liability protections essential for all public servants. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3)POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: S.2820 - urging support for police reform bill

Subject line: Testimony re S.2820

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I particularly support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

Subject: S.2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the house ways & means and judiciary committees,

I'm writing in favor of S.2820 to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass the bill into law and strengthen it. I believe that the final bill should completely eliminate qualified immunity ( a loophole that exists only to help law enforcement avoid accountability), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas (which can't even be used in war zones, why is it allowed to be used here on citizens?!), chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Subject: S2820 An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color

Dear Sir or Ma'am,

I am a full-time sworn Police Sergeant at the Melrose PD and would like to introduce myself:

- Husband, father, son, brother, uncle. Police Officer for over 12 years, Supervisor for the last 5 of those years.

- Enlisted Marine Corps Reserves 2000-2013, attained rank of Gunnery Sergeant; 2 Iraq tours. Commissioned Officer in MAANG Infantry (2013-present), taking Company Command next month of the HHC 1-181 Infantry in Worcester. Our company just finished 75 day orders taking care of Veterans affected by Covid-19 in the Holyoke Soldiers Home and other elders in facilities throughout the Commonwealth.

- BS Marketing, Bentley University 2001; Masters in Criminal Justice, Anna Maria College.

- Board of Directors President, Lt. Norman Prince Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #1506 Melrose; "Big Brother" (Big Brothers Big Sisters of Massachusetts) to Michael.

I have never (not once) deployed any tools on my duty belt outside of training. There have been numerous calls where I could have (according to MPTC training and our department policy) sprayed pepper spray or struck assaultive people with a baton. I've also never had to strike/punch/kick or attempt any other violent action. Melrose Police has zero use of force complaints. Zero allegations of any bias or racial profiling. We receive very few complaints overall, very rare complaints of rudeness (typically resulting from directing traffic) which has improved over the years. I have never charged any person for Marijuana, criminally or civilly. It leaves me wondering what exactly should we be doing different. What are we the police doing wrong in Massachusetts? In the MPTC run Transit Academy in Quincy (23rd MPOC) Oct 2008-Apr 2009 we learned "verbal judo" and command presence. We've been "deescalating" long before it became a buzzword.

I live in Melrose where I work, I love my neighbors. We treat people encountered at work as neighbors. In my duties as an OIC booking prisoners, it is common for people to tell me candidly they've never been treated so good. Kind of a cool concept, we respect people in Melrose and then we usually get respect in return. The beautiful finished product is earned public trust. The badge is not mine, my Melrose neighbors own the badge. They trust me to wear it and speak for them with authority if necessary. The best cops, and leaders in general, are always looking for problems to solve. Interaction with the public which is required for problem solving, will be perceived as just not worth the new unknown risk this legislation will bring. As a Supervisor, it is impossible to force officers to take that risk. The subsequent suffering is the community's to bear. Especially, in the inner city.

Boston Police are excellent at working with the community and getting guns out of kid's hands. They accomplish this almost daily without anyone getting hurt and while operating within the US and Massachusetts Constitutions. The result is an incredibly low murder rate in comparison to other urban areas around the nation. Boston Police Commissioner Gross said his officers took more than 700 guns off the street in 2019, this resulted in 38 reported homicides, compared to 56 in 2018. 29 of the killings in 2019 were fatal shootings, compared to 48 fatal shootings in 2018 (<https://www.bostonglobe.com/2019/12/31/metro/boston-homicides-were-down-2019/> <https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A\_\_www.bostonglobe.com\_2019\_12\_31\_metro\_boston-2Dhomicides-2Dwere-2Ddown-2D2019\_&d=DwMFAG&c=1DF7oMaPKXpkYvev9V-fVahWL0QWnGCCAfCDz1Bns\_w&r=uoevGInjCfTlguYncQubxpi5R6db\_gq1YmKr0SCk2EnIiuk13zIs16rchf\_GkGDD&m=FTOxT2VQd1aL8TS15m8JIZnqCDCwx6Ns4har62wTn-c&s=dQZBGuzvN3tBlA\_3XGVH5gs3tbuTOVLeVyOIcUgQRuI&e=> ). Other states should be reforming to how we in the Commonwealth do business! Please correct me where I am wrong. I write to you on behalf of the kids in our urban areas, as I'm genuinely concerned they will suffer unintended consequences this legislation will inevitably bring.

The POST certifications and additional training are beneficial, please consider removing the changes to qualified immunity. Feel free to contact me any time for further discussion.

Very Respectfully,

Subject: Support Senate Language in the House Police Reform Bill

To: Representative Aaron Michlewitz, Chairperson, House Committee on Ways and Means

Representative Claire Cronin, Chairperson, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

I am Janet Gottler, a resident of Arlington, MA, and an active and motivated volunteer organizer with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I am writing to urge you and the House to pass strong police accountability measures that include:

- * Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * A commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

PLEASE do adopt the Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity. Currently applicable cases cannot be heard by a jury as they are dismissed because the particular violation of 4th Amendment rights by a public official, such as a police officer, had not been previously contemplated by a statute or a court precedent. Those cases deserve to be heard on their merits, not thrown out using a non-statutory legal doctrine. It is time to put an end to this outrageous injustice preventing those who have suffered from the egregious violations of police officers from getting their day in court.

Do not be swayed by claims that qualified immunity reform will have devastating financial impact on individual police officers as they are indemnified by the municipalities that employ them. Any such claims are not based on fact.

We are calling for real reform to bring justice to our communities.

Thank you.

Janet M Gottler

Representative Claire Cronin, Chairperson, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Hello, my name is Pavlik Mintz with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 23 Turning Mill Rd, Lexington, MA. I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- * Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

I realize that Qualified immunity reform is a challenging issue. But it is essential that citizens have recourse based on the facts of their case when they are subject to abuse by the police, without their cases being dismissed out of hand due to the current qualified immunity practices.

Thank you very much.

Subject: Testimony SB2820

Chairman Michlewitz, Chairwoman Cronin and Members of the House Ways and Means and Judiciary committees,

Please accept this letter as the written testimony of the Worcester Police Patrolman's Union with regards to SB2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color, which has been passed by the Senate and is now before your committee

I have been a Worcester Police Officer for 24 years and I am writing to you on my concerns and requesting your assistance with S. 2820. Police are not resistant to change and to make our communities safer that we Protect and Serve. That being said this bill is a toxic anti labor bill and will tie the hands of police officers across the state, which will result in a negative impact on the communities that we serve and protect. If passed this bill will see GOOD police officers retire, Good police officers just walk off the job, and Good police candidates will not take this job and we will be left with those that this Bill is trying to prevent because there will be no choice but to hire anyone willing to work. This bill was thrown together hastily and did not have any open dialogue with the community or law enforcement professionals on how to make policing better. This Bill removes Due Process and Qualified Immunity from Police who make mistakes and are acting in good faith; it also means you can be fired without any appeals process basically removes Civil Services and Collective Bargaining Rights. This also means that attorneys that make a living on suing the police are licking their chops and you will see more frivolous lawsuits and complaints against police officers which will result in terminations because of no due process and Police Officers are sued personally. Police Officers are judged for decisions made in a split second; Police Officers should be judged by a jury of their peers or people with knowledge and have gone through some type of training process in policing so they can make an educated and informed decision.

I have broken down the Bill further for you and added some information about the state of Massachusetts compared to other states.

- * changes dozens of laws, creates and funds many new agencies and Commissions
- * eliminates collective bargaining rights of police officers
- * removes authority from City's and Town's to control their own employees
- * removes the rights of police to monitor gang activity in schools
- * removes the due process rights of public safety officers
- * exposes police officers and their families to personal liability even when acting in good faith
- * will open the floodgates for frivolous lawsuits against Municipalities and increase the cost to taxpayers to defend those cases
- * puts the lives of police officers in danger unnecessarily
- * creates a police licensing board that is staffed by organizations who sue our communities and advocate for the elimination of police services

Why are you considering passing such sweeping changes without a public hearing - what happened to transparency in Government? What happened to the voice of the citizens?

DO NOT OVERLOOK THE SUCCESS OF MASSACHUSETTS POLICING

Don't believe the misinformation about the alleged need for emergency police reform here in Massachusetts - in reality, Massachusetts is a success story on Police Training and use of force results - even according to those groups advocating national police reform. Our educated police force, competitive wages and mandatory training have produced excellent results.

For example, Massachusetts is among the very best in the nation when it comes to police use of deadly force:

- * Massachusetts has one of the lowest annual rates for deadly use of force incidents in the Nation - at only 1.2 incidents per million people.

- * Massachusetts Cities have excellent records when it comes to deadly force - In Worcester, there have been ZERO deaths caused by police since 2013 (excluding a taser related incident which was ruled a drug overdose)

- in fact, Worcester has an annual citizen complaint rate of only .0002% out of 140,000 calls for service. In Lowell, there has been only one police related death (justified) in that same time period.

* During this span, the police have successfully handled many millions of calls for help, often involving, volatile and violent individuals, without incident.

* Most Massachusetts Towns have had no law enforcement related deaths during the tracked time period.

* When anti-police groups present data of people killed by police, they include people like the Boston Marathon Bomber, and others who murdered police officers during incidents.

Before passing a bill creating new state agencies and destroy the morale and success of our public safety officers - is it too much to ask that you first take a look at how police in Massachusetts are performing? Have you looked at your own constituencies - the Towns in your district to see what needs changing, and what is working?

WHAT DOES THE PROPOSED POLICE REFORM BILL DO?

The proposed massive Police Reform Bill IS NOT BASED ON MASSACHUSETTS performance history and NOT BASED ON MASSACHUSETTS DATA.

The proposed bill will destroy the morale of our police departments, will put our officers' safety at great risk, and will expose them and their families to personal liability, will generate thousands of frivolous lawsuits to be paid for with taxpayer money, and even has provisions to pay the lawyer's fees for people who sue our communities.

For example - the legislation:

* Creates and funds at least 6 new Agencies, Commissions or Committees

- * Eliminates Civil Service Protection only for Law Enforcement Officers; (Sections 41-43)

- * Prohibits School Department Personnel from Providing Information to Law Enforcement regarding gang activity and affiliation; (Section 49)

- * Expands the rights of individuals convicted of multiple crimes to expunge records of those crimes

- * Requires that a lengthy record (receipt) be generated related to virtually any interaction between a police officer and a member of the public; (Section 52)

- * Creates - but does not fund - mandates upon municipalities to gather, track, organize and report data, as well as unfunded training mandates; (Section 52)

- * Creates a Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to govern the conduct of police and judge police officer conduct but - unlike every other professional licensing board - is made up of individuals nominated by groups which openly advocate against law enforcement. It would be similar to staffing the Board of Pharmacy with anti-vaccine advocates or staffing a medical board with lawyers who sue doctors. The Board of Plumbers is made up by a majority of plumbers. The Board of Accountancy is made up by a majority of Accountants. Same goes for nurses, electricians, etc. Law Enforcement should be no different and the committee that can take away our careers should not be populated with nominees that include law firms who claim to have made millions suing cities and towns and their police departments (Lawyers for Civil Rights, Inc.) or the ACLU. (Section 6).

- * This bill effectively eliminates collective bargaining rights for police officers - the employees that need it most given the difficulty of their job. This anti-labor, anti-employee bill essentially removes (only for police) the right to be disciplined only where there is just cause - a right enjoyed by virtually every other public employee in our state. (Section 6)

* This bill creates a cottage industry for lawyers and another unfunded mandate upon Cities and Towns by greatly expanding liability on municipalities and officers. Under this Bill, every time a Court grants a motion to suppress evidence - because of any technical violation of the Fourth Amendment for instance - a per se violation of the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act will be created. The proposed Bill even provides for attorney fees to prosecute these actions. (Section 9). Even officers acting in good faith will be liable.

* This bill purports to regulate the Use of Force by Law Enforcement Officers without any recognition that police officers often must make split second decisions, often under extreme stress. Good faith actions will result in lawsuits and can result in the loss of a career. Even if those actions were deemed appropriate by an internal or District Attorney's review, the new committee can decide on their own to end a career. Nowhere in the bill is there acknowledgement that the reasonableness or necessity of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene and not from the perspective afforded by 20/20 hindsight. (Section 55). It is easy to make decisions in the comfort of a lawyer's office with the benefit of video, hindsight and knowledge of the actual outcome of an event. The law has recognized for years that hindsight judgment is unfair and not practical for the officer who may be faced with life or death situations in the heat of the moment.

These are only a few items of concern. Passing this bill without a public hearing, without considering how we are doing here in Massachusetts, without considering the impact of this massive legislation, without even a thought of how it will impact that thousands of police officers and their families, is not only negligent, but will have a residual negative impact that our state and our families cannot afford.

Feel free to contact me and discuss this matter further or if you have any other questions. Thank you for your time and dedication to resolve the challenges we are currently facing.

Respectfully,

Daniel Gilbert

Subject: S.2820 opposition

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: S2820 Bill

Rep. Aaron Michlewitz,

I am sending this email to ask you not to support Bill S2820 in its current form. This bill will have many unintended consequences as it was hastily pushed through as a knee jerk reaction to current events.

The notion that opening individual officers to lawsuits would keep them "honest" is ludicrous. This would only make Officers less likely to do their job and hesitate in a job that often requires split second judgements. This also give criminals an avenue intimidate police from doing their jobs as they will sue any Officers trying time stop crime in the cities and towns they work in. I currently work in a city with a high crime rate, and it would be cities like mine that would be hit hardest if this bill were to pass.

I have been Police Officer for 15 years and can attest to the high level of training which we have received already. I know fellow officers that have transferred to different parts of the country. Those Officers only had to complete two week training courses to familiarize with the local and state laws as our training was already greater than what they would have received in another academy.

I have also been a Use of Force and Defenseive Tactics Instructor, certified by the MPTC. I can say from training and experience that we have a well thought out and comprehensive training policy. As an instructor we welcome the thought of more training and could look at ways to further improve training.

In closing I ask that you reject this bill as it will undo many policies and laws that were written into law over many years and forever change them in a few weeks time. It will removed due process for Law Enforcement and afford criminals tools to benefit their criminal enterprises at the expense of the citizens of the commonwealth.

My name is Laura Sheppard-Brick, I'm a Massachusetts resident submitting testimony for the House hearing on the police reform bill.

I strongly support many provisions of the Senate bill and it is imperative that the House include these provisions in their version of the bill:

- The same limits to qualified immunity that the Senate included. This is vitally important to protect the constitutional rights of Massachusetts residents.

- Amendment 80, which gives superintendents and school committees the ability to authorize a school resource officer, rather than the current unfunded mandate for every district to have SROs. Districts should have local control over their own budgets and policies.

- Amendment 108, which prevents schools from sharing personal information about students into local, state, and federal databases. Schools should be safe places for all students.

- Amendment 65, which bans tear gas, a chemical weapon banned in warfare. This chemical weaponry should never be used against humans, especially civilians.

To whom it may concern,

I hope this letter finds you well during these troubling times. I know you are faced with many great pressures and difficult decisions. As your constituent, I'm confident that you'll maintain the highest level of integrity in regard to your handling of this bill.

Being a police officer is perhaps the most noble profession in this country. Men and women volunteer to put their lives on the line for us, all of us. Even the ones that despise them.

The death of George Floyd is nothing short of a complete tragedy. I haven't met anyone that disagrees with that. Additionally, I believe that Derek Chauvin should be punished to the fullest extent of the law. I'll repeat that, I believe Derek Chauvin should be punished. We all feel that way.

What we (the silent majority) do not believe, is that we should we should make policing any more difficult than it already is. Police officers are under an incredible amount of stress. Making split second decisions that are put under a microscope and broken down into days and weeks of discussion in courtrooms. These decisions are hard enough to make. An officer acting in good faith should not have to carry the burden of worrying about losing their livelihood to frivolous lawsuits and false accusations. Let's give the men and women protecting YOU and YOUR family the basic legal protections they need to perform their duties.

In regard to licensing and a committee, I believe this could partially be a step in the right direction. However, I think we should be cautious when selecting committee members. We need experts, we need nothing but the best. We need people with law enforcement experience, people familiar with use of force models. Not just a committee made up of citizens who oppose the police.

Policing has always been a constantly evolving profession. Law enforcement agencies have continuously changed policies, procedures, and philosophies to better serve and satisfy their communities. There's no doubt that there's always progress to be made. However, I think we can do a lot better than a rushed bill that was politically driven and designed for the sole purpose quieting an angry mob of protesters. I live in a city in MA, and I don't want my city to look like the ones on television that are being destroyed. We ALL need the police, including all of you. They need our support.

In the paragraph above I put "silent majority" in parentheses. I did this for a reason. I feel that many of the elected officials have grossly underestimated the amount of people who oppose many aspects of this bill, and fully support the police. The silent majority are the ones shaking their heads in disbelief at reckless behavior that's been accepted all over the country. The silent majority doesn't believe we should cater to an angry mob. The silent majority are the ones talking about which elected officials are supporting this bill.

I'd like to express my gratitude for accepting input from the citizens of the Commonwealth. I'm confident that all of you support law, order, and safety for our families. Thank you for the job that you do.

Subject: S. 2820 An Act to Save Black Lives by Transforming Public Safety

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,
I believe that systemic racism is an issue in this country and in this state, and believe that Massachusetts needs to take action to address it. I have been encouraged by people I respect to take a stance supporting this particular bill but have not researched all of its nuances. So I will say what I do support and trust my legislators to put forward whichever legislation best serves.

I do support our police, value their lives, and understand they need some protections.

I do believe that police in this country, however, have been militarized to the point of losing trust and effectiveness.

I do believe we need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts.

I do believe that we need more universal, systematic (probably statewide) training and licensing of police to better ensure consistent, proper training and accountability.

I do earnestly believe that we need a duty to intervene policy.

I do believe that no-knock warrants, if EVER warranted, should be extremely limited.

I do believe that choke holds should be banned.

I need more information on the use of tear gas and other tools used for crowd control and dispersal crowds and guidelines for their use.

I do believe that in order to earn the trust of its citizenry, the police department needs to be more transparent about discipline. I know that any institution can be difficult to change, and am reminded of Newark which took the drastic step of eliminating its police force in order to reform it.

I do believe that some funds and the services that go with them which now often default to police could more effectively be used by other agencies. I also believe that in today's climate, the legislature and governor need to show that they are listening and responding to the concerns of its citizens, and that they need to be transparent about the decisions they are making and why.

I trust in my legislators to make wise decisions based on more information than I have at my disposal.

Subject: Senate Police Reform Bill

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

I am writing in support of S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. The House must enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools, as municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill S.2820, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. However, if police officers engage in egregious misconducts, they should be immune to prosecution, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I trust that a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July.

Thank you for considering my testimony, and giving attention to this important priority, in addition to all the other important issues the House is addressing at this time.

Sincerely,

Subject: Police Reform

Good morning,

I am writing to you today as a resident of Weymouth and as the daughter of a local police officer. I have gained lots of knowledge about the Police Reform Bill that was recently passed by the Senate. The subject of Qualified Immunity is one of the major concerns I have, as well as many law enforcement families. Qualified Immunity is said to protect police officers from "frivolous and "factless" lawsuits while doing their work. If Qualified Immunity is eliminated, officers will be more hesitant to make necessary arrests and actions in fear of being faced with a frivolous lawsuit that will affect them and their families. There are already many safeguards in place (Constitutional laws, federal laws, department regulations, etc.) that police officers have to follow and do a good job doing so. Adding this more stressful consequence will make officers more hesitant to do what needs to be done, which will result in less proactive policing.

By writing to you, I am asking that the Legislature approaches police reform with "common sense" and that the result does not discourage police officers from doing their job. If they are afraid of them and their families being hurt by lawsuits, proactive policing will simply cease to exist.

Respectfully,

Molly Duran

Subject: Concerns to SB2820

Dear Chair Aaron Michelwitz and Chair Claire Cronin, please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820—An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color:

I concur with all the excellent points made by Chief Farnsworth and Chief Kyes in their joint response to this bill dated July 16, 2020. I would only add that the collateral damage to all Massachusetts communities should Qualified Immunity be eliminated would be devastating. I envision a mass exodus of first responders, as they will no longer be able to obtain homeowner's insurance. I also envision that the burden of indemnification (for qualified immunity purposes) falling on each community which will in turn drastically increase insurance premiums for the individual communities. As such, operating budgets will need to be slashed to account for the premium increases, resulting in service reductions, or in the alternative, large tax increases.

I would respectfully request that before such drastic measures take place, we take the time to look at the entire picture and debate the long-term consequences of such actions. I see no long-term benefits of passing this comprehensive bill in such a rushed fashion. I would implore the legislature to engage in conversation with your law enforcement professionals on these matters. I think that if you took the time to really listen to what we have to say, you would see that we are not too far apart on many of these important issues. I thank you for your invitation for discourse on these important matters.

Subject: Opposition to Bill 2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Ruth Barbosa and I live at 61 Hancock St Dorchester, Ma. I work at Suffolk County Sheriff's Department and I am a correctional officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ???????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Subject: Pass SB 2800 Police Reform

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:
My name is Marian Klausner. I am a resident of Brookline and a member of March like a Mother: for Black Lives. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety. I support bans on chokeholds, de-escalation tactics, prohibitions on the use of facial recognition, limits on qualified immunity for police, and redirecting money from policing to community investment. I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement. Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Subject: Please pass a strong omnibus bill to increase police accountability

Dear Chairs Aaron Michlewitz and Claire Cronin and Rep. Tommy Vitolo,

I am writing to voice my support for the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800) bill which has recently passed the Senate, and to ask you to include three essential measures in any House legislation on police accountability and racial justice. Please prohibit violent police tactics, impose meaningful restrictions on qualified immunity, and ban the use of discriminatory face surveillance.

Massachusetts is not immune to systemic racism in policing. It's long been clear that Black people in the Commonwealth are over-policed and under-served. Meanwhile, police are rarely held accountable for corruption or serious misconduct. This moment presents a significant opportunity for racial justice, and we should seize it.

First, please implement strong use of force standards as set out in Rep. Miranda's bill, An Act to Save Black Lives, including complete bans on the most violent police tactics.

Second, impose strict limits on qualified immunity to ensure that police can be held accountable when they violate people's rights. I believe this is absolutely crucial, both as a mechanism of accountability and as a way to further peace and justice in the Commonwealth. A government entity with the power of force which is currently entrusted to the police must be kept in check by the power of the people and communities they serve. The ability to hold members of law enforcement responsible for their actions in a court of law is essential for this balance of powers, and I believe we must have this ability in Massachusetts. Banning violent police tactics is meaningless if there is no way for people to hold the police accountable when they break the rules. Victims of police brutality deserve justice.

Finally, please support an unequivocal ban on the use of dangerous facial recognition technology that would supercharge racist policing. The dangers of face surveillance and systemic racism in policing will not evaporate in mere months. The moratorium on the use of this technology should not be lifted until the legislature enacts meaningful regulation to guard against racial bias, invasions of privacy, and violations of due process.

Massachusetts has an opportunity to be a leader in this nationwide movement—and as your constituent I implore you to take that opportunity to do the right thing. We need to deliver racial justice to all people in our state, and that starts with baseline police accountability through robust legislation.

Please work to include the above provisions in the final version of this bill. Thank you for your time and service to the people of Massachusetts.

Sincerely,

Subject: Bill S2800

Good Morning,

As your constituents, We write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. We hope that you will join us in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

We are, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

July 17, 2020

Dear Mr. Speaker and Chair, Representative Claire Cronin,

I feel compelled to weigh in on S2800. As a newly elected House member I have pledged to listen to my constituents regarding issues and ideas they might express that may guide my decision-making. Where we may not always agree, I have the responsibility to know what folks are thinking and be prepared to address their concerns.

Among the several hundred communications I have received regarding Police Reform, talking with the dozens of persons, both police and concerned citizens, I have not received a single message hailing the virtues of this Bill. The focus has been solely on the dangers, in their opinion, of altering Qualified Immunity thus exposing not only police but others to the effects over time. All of these messages obscure the multiple benefits of this legislation regarding Police Reform: training, certification; accreditation; uniform guidelines; use of force; duty to intervene, and so forth. These aspects of the Bill will do so much to put our policing on the right path.

Like others I feel strongly that, to allay concerns, correct misinformation and generally show the good faith of the Legislature to enact a Bill that supports our long term goals, to effectively achieve Police Reform, and to address their concerns we should consider placing Qualified Immunity into a study committee with a time certain within which to bring forth findings.

Respectfully submitted:

Subject: Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800)

Chair Aaron Michlewitz & Chair Claire Cronin,
My name is Joy Mikhail and I am writing to you to address the Reform, Shift, + Build Act (S.2800). Of major importance within this bill is the point of qualified immunity (QI), which is what made it possible for Derek Chauvin to still wear his badge after facing 17 complaints, one of which was a fatal shooting. It is eventually what allowed Chauvin to brutally murder George Floyd in broad daylight and remain free until the world started demanding justice. It is what prevents victims and their families not to have a day in court. It is what shields the racist cops and allows them to violate the civil liberty of Black and Brown lives. We cannot talk about dismantling systemic racism in policing without reforming the QI. Police accountability starts with getting rid of QI.

I have the honor of serving the city of Boston as an educator in the Boston Public School system. As a member of the Brown and Black communities, both in my own, personal life, as well as in my professional life, I implore you to consider the importance of eliminating QI. I understand there are many issues of systemic racism that will not be completely remediated for my own generation, but I advocate for my young students' and my own children's generation, that they will live a life where some systemic racism is dismantled, especially within an area such as QI, where the answer seems so clear. I advocate so they can live a life with less fear, more power, where their voices are heard, and their lives are valued.

Thank you and I trust you will do what is best for the marginalized in your community.

Best,

Subject: URGENT!! S. 2820

With great urgency I ask that you exercise the utmost scrutiny to the police reform bill before you.

I have never had a complaint filed against me in nearly 20 years of service as police officer in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. I think that's the type of officer you strive to have in policing. I have boxes of cards and letters from the community and I have kept nearly every one as a reminder of the positive impact I have on people's lives. Nobody in my family was in law enforcement. Not one person. In fact, most of my family vehemently tried to persuade me against it. Still, after serving 4 years active duty in the U.S. Army, deploying Desert Shield and Desert Storm, I returned to Massachusetts to continue to serve yet again on a local level. When people say they support our troops but hate police, it blows my mind! In many cases, you're talking about the exact same person!

I am one of 3 females on my department. I have always been treated with respect and the utmost dignity. The men I work alongside are professional and respectful to a fault. I'm proud to belong among them in this noble profession.

The public, however has not always been so respectful. I've been called every name you can imagine. Every vulgar thing you can say to a woman has been hurled my way. I've been kicked, punched, spit on, concussed, threatened, and indecently assaulted. My family has vicariously endured this as well. The most that has ever been done over all these years to any person who has physically assaulted me or threaten to kill me and/or my entire family was probation! Even if they were already on probation, guess what happened? Just a little longer probation. What message does that send to the officer? I can tell you; it sends a message loud and clear that we aren't worth anything and our families don't mean much either! Our injuries are not taken into consideration and are "just part of the job". This is entirely unacceptable! Before now, NONE of this made me consider leaving this profession or walk away from my duty.

If you wonder why we are hyper-alert and suspicious of everyone, it's because we lose officers every day across our nation. We get the Officer Down alerts and it feels just a little bit closer. It's because courts are regularly turning people loose who are violent, carrying guns, ...stolen guns, repeatedly! We know we will surely be encountering those people; we just don't have the benefit of knowing in advance, it could be anyone at any time. I can't tell you the shock I am in when I encounter someone who is one their 2nd, 3rd, 4th or more illegal gun charge walking around free in society! What!? The public is not aware that this is even happening! We know it's happening and what these folks are capable of, and they have learned that minimal consequences, if any, will follow. The public doesn't have the benefit of this insight unless they unfortunately fall victim. These are people that have no respect or regard for us, the public or even themselves!

The same is true for the soaring mental health problem. What I'm saying is that all of these problems are continuously dumped back on police and the involved agencies are letting us down! We are in a lose-lose situation where we are being set up to fail. Police cannot cure all that ails society, but we sure are taking the bulk of the blame for it, including race issues and claims that we are not "trained" enough. If I may agree in the training regard that when we routinely are called to a group home or ½ way house for someone that the trained professionals can no longer handle. Are we somehow supposed to be trained beyond the level of mental health professionals in that field? If it's beyond their scope, how would we ever become trained well enough that we surpass the career training of these mental health professionals?

Repeated calls to these situations are often violent and are among the most dangerous and challenging we face. Many group homes are housing people in residential area that are way beyond their ability and scope to treat in that type of environment. We are fully aware that we are likely going to be put in a situation where we need to protect ourselves and others but that any physical contact with these parties will be viewed as unnecessary or excessive. At times we have to take an officer off the road to ride in the ambulance in order to protect the paramedics, while they fight and spit, putting everyone at risk of biological hazards or injury.

Meaningful change needs to occur in our mental health response! Mental health related calls have exploded. They are the bulk of what we deal with now. If there is a belief that some funding should be moved from policing to social programs, and those programs include a SERIOUS mental health initiative, we are on board! Those calls however, need to be shifted away from police and toward those mental health agencies. They need to be removed from police responses, because that's where your calls will go bad and the liability comes in for the officer, agency and community. The things that nobody wants to deal with, routinely land in our lap. Go deal with it, but afterwards, "we don't like how you dealt with it". It's because it should not have been the police dealing with it in the first place.

Mental health is the root of the vast majority of our most serious issues. If you properly deal with mental health, you avoid the consequences of mental health problems. We have a "lack of coping skills" in this country. When people can't properly "cope", they hurt themselves, they hurt others, they abuse drugs and alcohol, self-medicate. This in turn causes people to commit property crimes, get involved in drug activity or commit offenses to accommodate the lifestyle. It all truly comes back to not being able to properly cope in life and the result of that struggle.

Again, I cannot stress enough that we are failing at dealing with this key issue and we have been for a long time! Officers are routinely put in a position to take someone into custody for drugs/alcohol/mental health for a civil commitment against their will.

The revolving door spits these folks back out without any meaningful assistance. I've personally taken some of the same individuals dozens of times. Now they are angry at the family members and they are angry at police. This doesn't make it easier. It makes it a lot harder!

Again, a recipe for disaster that does nothing to help anyone involved, builds frustration and creates a dangerous situation for everyone involved.

This reform bill that threatens qualified immunity and threatens to potentially bankrupt me and my family, makes me want to leave policing immediately.

I know I'm asked a lot of in policing, even risking my life and safety. I went into it knowing that. What I didn't know was that now they'd be asking me to potentially sacrifice my financial security on the whim of someone from the public making a claim against me, who wouldn't hesitate to lie or embellish the incident, after all, they're already willing to assault me and threaten me. Now place some monetary incentive behind it and you can imagine the potential.

How much is too much to ask of someone from their job? Well, I'll tell you that being at risk of criminal charges, and losing your assets when you believe you are doing the right thing, would be your answer. Where is the upside to this profession now? What is the incentive to keep doing the honorable thing when you are constantly vilified regardless of how you conduct yourself? Even when you're right, you could now be wrong based on a point of view from people who don't understand the pressure and circumstances of this job and what people are actually willing to do, even to a female (I'm someone's Mom).

I have been part of the CISM Peer Support Team for about 5 years. I don't get paid for this. I do it because it's important to help people. I care about the mental health of the folks in this profession who see the most gruesome, heinous, unimaginable things out there, all while trying to juggle their own lives and the inevitable struggles that come with it. A lot of folks are suffering from what they have had to respond to. This causes lasting detrimental effects. Poor mental health causes poor decision making. Not a good combination when you must do it quickly and often!

I urge you to rethink this bill and some of the extreme things it's asking of our men and women in blue. I implore you to at the very least, see that this bill includes Critical Incident Stress Mgmt. and Peer Support Programs, and preserve our due process and qualified (not absolute) immunity. Our officers are being vilified for the actions of officers we've never even met and probably never would. I can think of no other profession that is punished across the board in this manner. We drop everything to come to everyone else's aid when they need help. Who will come to our aid? Who is helping us?

At the bare minimum, officer mental wellness needs to be a priority. We are going to need it!

I'm a member of our department's hiring board. It's a time consuming, rigorous, careful process. Over the past few years, the quality and quantity of candidates has dropped substantially. The best candidates, not surprisingly are going to jobs with better working conditions, hours, respect and pay. I worry what kind of candidates would now be willing to step up to do this job, as most intelligent, talented people will undoubtedly pass on this.

We welcome opportunities to improve our tactics and raise the standards of our chosen profession. The public needs to bring their standards up as well!

We no longer seem to be teaching respect and law-abiding behaviors. Every call we go on now is a debate or worse. It has become a sport to challenge officers in even the most minor interaction. We didn't get the benefit of safely working from home, time off or incentive checks during this COVID-19 crisis. We did what was asked of us despite the risk to ourselves and our families. We enjoyed a brief moment of gratitude from the public and then just like that, the sickening act of one distant officer made every single one of us monsters. Is that a best practice for raising the bar in any profession? Is that really how it's supposed to work?

It makes me sad for society going forward.

There are a lot a good people in our community, and many of them work alongside me. Our communities will lose compassionate, upstanding, professional officers who have years of experience and formal education. Many volunteer in the community or commit quiet acts of kindness that nobody ever hears about.

I ask that you do the right thing and consider the impact this will have on the men and women who give so much to people, who at times care so little for us.

Respectfully,

Subject: Written Testimony for Reforming Police Standards

Hello,

I would like to speak on the part of this bill that limits qualified immunity. I, as well as many vocal classmates of mine, are in wholehearted support of limiting qualified immunity.

We are a law and order society. No one is above the law, not even police officers. While we all respect the work that they do, there are systemic problems with how bad police officers are able to infringe on a person's constitutional rights, and be protected from the justice system they are supposed to enforce.

Cops have been given immunity in cases where they have clearly crossed legal lines. For example, immunity was granted after an officer shot an unarmed 15 year old, shooting a man with cerebral palsy, and killing a teenager due to excessive handcuffing. Qualified immunity almost always allows officers who are in clear violation of the Constitution to face no legal repercussions. That is of course, unless there is a precedent to charge an officer in that situation. But how do you establish this precedent when every officer gets off on qualified immunity?

Imagine if a regular person broke the law, and used, "I didn't know I broke the law" as their defense. That isn't an excuse. Except it is, for the one group of individuals who are supposed to enforce the law.

I applaud the senate for passing this measure and I urge the house to do so as well. Ending qualified immunity allows police officers to be held to the same standard as everyone else. This will allow those most affected by police brutality to be able to collect compensation for instances where their rights are violated.

Thank you,
Christopher Brady

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership.

Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP.

To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated.

SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated.

Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status.

Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers.

I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Sincerely,

Subject: Bill S 2820

To Whom It May Concern,

Please accept this as my written testimony on Bill S 2820.

As I am strongly concerned with many aspects of this bill. Today I will focus on the potential removal of Qualified Immunity.

Although it would be removed for more than one profession, it is clear that it is a direct attack toward police officers. I am so dismayed, disgusted, I just don't have enough words. What is the goal here? To punish police for infractions they have not committed?

Before this came to the table, I wondered why anyone would want to take this position. Police and their families were always targets. Police have always been hated and their families living in fear. Now they have to live in fear of losing everything they work for if they help us. I think about instances where officers perform CPR as they are always first on scene. Will they still do this? At what risk? Everything they do must be reviewed. I would think the only way they would be safe would be in the case of doing absolutely nothing. Overlooking all crime. But can they then be sued for that?

There was an officer in our town who told a business owner to stop what he was doing, as he was taking money from predominantly elderly women. He cried racism. In a case like this, He could own that officer's house if that bill passes. Further, I read posts stating he is still doing it. Who can stop it without losing their livelihood? Nobody. As we all know, there are endless examples just like this.

This bill is detrimental to all citizens. Please think about who is pushing this. What do they contribute in a positive manner? We are always asking police to contribute in a positive manner. Yet we are going to take away their ability to contribute at all.

There is no good work an officer can do without being the target of potential lawsuits. Every person arrested thinks they are innocent. If this ruling passes, the reality is, there will be an increase in crime and a drop in arrests. There will also be a mass exit of qualified officers and a shortage of new, quality officers. If we are attempting to abolish police all together, then I think this must be the correct route.

I am a realtor and I have been hearing all week, "I need to get out of this state." What happens when we lose taxpayers? Are others coming here in droves? I tend to doubt it. Who will pay for the insurance police will have to purchase to cover frivolous lawsuits?

This bill is disturbing, insulting, shameful and and dangerous. I ask that you reject it.

Thank you for your time,

Subject: constituent input

We hope you will consider our heartfelt input on the Police Reform Bill. We lend our strong voices in support, especially on the provisions for treating youth as youth.

Please have the state recognize the brain-science and data and raise the age at which emerging adults are processed in the juvenile system from 18 to 20 years-old.

This is a key area we see our young people, especially our young men of color, get derailed. In all the many efforts to promote racial justice and reform our criminal justice system, we need to prioritize not pushing our children into adult jail and serving them in a more developmentally appropriate juvenile system. Only 25% of Massachusetts' young adult population is Black or Latino, but 70% of young adults incarcerated in state prisons and 57% of young adults incarcerated in county jails are people of color. We need to get them out and keep them out.

The DYS census (juvenile system) is down and there is existing capacity to do this. The outcomes are better, education is required in the juvenile system, and we prevent young adults from being crippled by CORIs- all of which is better for public safety and the lives of young people.

Thank you, Amy Schectman

Subject: Testimony for Police Reform Bill S2820

Distinguished Representatives,

Thank you for making time for citizen input on this bill, S2820. I feel as though I have a unique perspective as a clinical social worker working in the mental health field at a psychiatric unit for children in Brighton, MA.

S2820 will more effectively position law enforcement to act with only the tools, tactics, and mentalities appropriate for the job. My time in social work and in the Boston community informs this position. In my career, I work to deescalate those with mental illness without utilizing physical management. On the unit, we train and re-train all those interfacing with the children and families regarding doing everything we can to not physically manage individuals, as we know this can further re-traumatize them. Our clients often come in after their families have called the police when their children are in mental health crises. Often, unfortunately, they have negative experiences with the police who are not trauma informed and put hands-on quickly as an intervention. Unfortunately, families of color have more negative experiences with the police than other populations I serve. Families in crisis that I work with have also had many dangerous and impactful violence continue to occur and not gotten mental health treatment soon enough due to fear of calling the police and having them come into their homes. Individuals often first encounter the police in a crisis and this can change the trajectory of their openness to continue to get help.

S2820 is an important step forward in the long overdue process to establish officer accountability and modernize and humanize law enforcement. I know that many officers who wear the uniform do so with the best of intentions and a similar desire to myself, to serve the community. However, the fear and anger felt by so many, especially marginalized people, is a predictable consequence from generations of tolerance of cruel and ineffective policing. The distrust that many of my patients and families have of the police manifests in the perpetuation of poverty, generational trauma, and the inability to access community resources and supports. As a Massachusetts citizen who has also dedicated her career to the safety and well-being of her community, I urge you in the strongest possible terms to pass this bill into law.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: Comment on Police Reform Bill

Honorable State Representatives

First and foremost I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your public service and allowing me to submit written testimony on behalf of your law enforcement community in the Commonwealth relative to Senate Bill 2820.

I have been a sworn police officer in the Commonwealth for sixteen years. I am proud to be a member of this profession and look forward to coming to work every day to serve the citizens of Massachusetts. Some days are better than others, but I have never considered another career. One thing gets lost with the politicization of police reform and the recent events that have occurred in the United States. The vast majority (I'm guessing nearly 100%) of police officers are outraged at the events that occurred earlier this year in Minneapolis, Minnesota. I think you would be hard pressed to find anybody, especially police officers, that don't believe the Officer responsible for the death of George Floyd should be punished and harshly.

Another area that is lost on a lot of people is that in the nature of police work, we often must make decisions with whatever scenario we have in front of us and that decision must be made within minutes if not seconds. We proudly take on this challenge, but it is a challenge that is often forgotten when the events are revisited and replayed days, months, and/or years later with the benefit of time and reflection.

With all of that said I want to share with you that I strongly stand AGAINST S2820 in its current form. The senate version of this bill as written will seriously undermine police officers' ability to do their jobs while simultaneously allowing provisions to protect criminals. Furthermore, the process employed by the Senate to push this through with such haste and without public hearings or input of any king was extremely undemocratic and nontransparent.

With the information I shared with you above regarding the day to day challenges we face, most of us welcome uniform training as well as a uniform set of standards and policies. Quite honestly we have been requesting more training for many years.

The Senate version of a regulatory board is unacceptable as it strips officers of the due process rights that are afforded to every other citizen of the Commonwealth. The regulatory board as proposed also does away with the protections currently set forth in collective bargaining agreements and civil service law. The Senate created a board that is dominated by anti-police groups who have a long-detailed record of biases against law enforcement and preconceived punitive motives toward police. The proposed makeup of the oversight board is one-sided and biased against law enforcement. It is unlike any of the 160 other regulatory boards across this Commonwealth. I do not see how an oversight board of this makeup could be considered to be fair or impartial.

In my opinion what the Senate has tried to do is pass a knee jerk reaction to an incident which occurred half a country away and that as I alluded to, everyone agrees was egregious.

This bill directly attacks qualified immunity and due process. Qualified immunity does not protect bad officers, it protects good officers from civil lawsuits. We should want our officers to be able to act to protect our communities without fear of being sued at every turn, otherwise why would they put themselves at risk? A large majority of law enforcement officers do the right thing and are good officers, yet there is a real push to end qualified immunity to open good officers up to frivolous lawsuits because of the actions of a few who, by their own actions, would not be covered by qualified immunity anyway. It just doesn't make any sense why we are endangering the livelihood of many for the actions of a few.

Changes to qualified immunity would be unnecessary if the legislature adopted a uniform statewide standard and bans unlawful use of force techniques which all police personnel unequivocally support.

If the senate bill is passed in its current form the costs to municipalities and the State will skyrocket from frivolous lawsuits and potentially having a devastating impact on budgets statewide.

I want to end this message as I began it. I have been a sworn police officer for sixteen years. During those years I have come to work every day and done my job to the best of my ability. I have never been disciplined and take the position I have and the authority granted under it very seriously. I approach every situation and scenario as its own and try to use my discretion to solve a problem not to punish or be punitive.

The legislature of this Commonwealth and quite frankly the United States as a whole, MUST understand that if these types of anti-police bills are passed into law you are punishing a community of almost 800,000 police officers for the reprehensible actions of a small fraction of this group. I implore you to work WITH the law enforcement community in the Commonwealth. You will find a group of people who welcome training, standards, and even a review or oversight board. But, they must allow us to exercise our rights under collective bargaining and the right to due process.

Despite the negative tone that police reform is being approached with, it does not have to be. Your law enforcement officers ARE part of the solution, not the problem.

Respectfully,

Subject: Written Testimony S2820

Good Morning;

1. I write today as a citizen who has served as a Police Officer in the Commonwealth since 1973, Chief of Police in Wenham, 1984-1995, Chief of Police in Yarmouth 1995-2008, Chief of Police Director of Safety at Stonehill College, 2008-2019. Police Academy Director 2019-2020, and Adjunct Professor at Stonehill College, North Shore Community College and Cape Cod Community College. In addition, I have served as the President of the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association, the Essex County Chiefs of Police Association and the Cape Cod Chiefs of Police. Internationally, I have served as a Board Member for the International Chiefs of Police Association. My professional career has brought me to be a Lecturer on Community Policing, Police Ethics and a number of related Policing topics around the Country. As a Consultant, I have worked for over twenty years as an Assessor for the hiring of Command Staff of multiple ranks, in over 200 Police Agencies. I will be brief in my comments in an important effort to provide meaningful information;

2) In 2020, we already, Nationally experience a serious problems and a steady decline in the recruitment and the retention of quality employees. A National expert on the topic recently said, "the hiring pool has now become the hiring puddle" This "knee jerk" attempt at Police Reform legislation in Massachusetts, will certainly drive high quality young people away from the profession. The risk of injury, civil liability, or even the death of the Officer will be perceived as too great, or risky. These quality young people will chose other careers, they will steer away from Public Service, if the proposed legislation passes as written.

3) The Senate Bill view on Qualified Immunity is wrong. The reality of Qualified Immunity is totally misunderstood. Qualified immunity does not serve to protect illegal actions by Police Officers. Rather, it safeguards all public officials in situations where the law was unclear and does not give adequate guidance. A member of the Senate recently wrote to me that the killer of Mr. Floyd in Minneapolis maybe set "free" because he has qualified immunity. That is totally wrong, he is criminally charged and the idea that he could be freed is fueled by the false narrative that is now pushing for the rapid and not well thought out Police Reform legislation.

4) I support the effort for POST (Police Officers Standards and Training) requirements for Police Officers, this Nationally, started in our Country in the 1960's and the Massachusetts has shown little or NO interest in the effort. In the last ten years, I have testified at the State House on POST and have supported the de-certification of rogue Police Officers. The POST efforts were always deferred out to ultimately experience a slow death somewhere in the legislative process. Frustrating at best ! Now we are rushing to accomplish what we should have made law in the 80's or 90's, the current motives are suspicious, at best. Municipal Police Training in Massachusetts has been an embarrassment for years. Always underfunded and constantly operating in a deficit. A study of Local Police training performed by Attorney John Scheft of Law Enforcement Dimensions, several years ago, showed we were the forty ninth lowest, per capita in funding Police Training. Compared to the rest of the Nation, this is deplorable and has now only improved slightly. At the same time Chiefs and Police leaders were testifying yearly for funding increases in the Municipal Police Training budget. Unfulfilled promises followed. Sadly, today we rent or borrow classrooms across the Commonwealth to provide Recruit or In-service training. Most specialty training Programs have been eliminated to lack of funding. The Executive Office of Public Safety and Security did away with Police Accreditation in the 1990's. Thankfully a group of creative Chiefs have restored this effort, away from Government within a private corporation. Suddenly, we are again speaking about the need for Accreditation, decades after not supporting the concept. I find that suspicious, as well.

5) We in Massachusetts have survived while underfunding training, short changing all training programs and our community policing programs. The survival of our Officers and our citizenry has been miraculous and has been due to the fact we have great Police Officers, men and women that go to work 24/7 protecting our communities. They do this so very well, everyday. We are not Minneapolis, or Georgia or Texas. We employ good Use of Force policies that do protect all of our citizens and our Officers alike. Tactics like chokeholds are not found in those policies ! I can accept the need for reform, in our World today we need to listen to and work with the entire Community, everyday. It can be said that the Men and Women of Law Enforcement want reform as well. Please do not make our hardworking Men and Women scapegoats for Racism or years of Government inattention to the real problems and issues of our Society. Your Police Officers will accept change to build a more, equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color. You cannot thrust these changes forward because of actions that occurred in other States.

6) As a citizen of the Commonwealth, I ask that you take the time, listen to all sides of the issues at hand and have a thoughtful deliberation. Do not rush the process, if you do, the damage will be felt in our profession for decades to come.

As a resident of Massachusetts and your constituent I very strongly urge you to vote against the Massachusetts Bill to Reform Police, S2800.

I have read much of Massachusetts S280 and I believe that if the public were given the proper chance to voice their opinions you would find that a vast majority of your constituents would oppose many aspects of this bill. Including taking away due process for police, removing qualified immunity, making it more difficult for schools to share data with police and sending "Community Development Professionals" to respond to police calls. I believe these changes, among others, will have grave consequences for the people this bill is intend to help.

I would also like to voice my concerns about how quickly this bill was written and pushed through. Often I hear of many bills, that have far less impact on society and our institutions, that are "held up in committee" or waiting on multiple studies, research, expert testimony and public hearings before a vote is taken. But this bill seems to have skipped the typical process.

Hello, Representatives!

I'm writing as an individual citizen strongly in favor of the passage of this bill.

I don't know which provisions are in response to specific identified problems in the Commonwealth and which are preventative, but specific aspects of the bill that I enthusiastically support include those bringing more accountability for officer actions:

- * limitation of qualified immunity;
- * exempting some aspects of personnel records from privacy constraints;
- * limitations on no-knock entrance that includes *excluding evidence* obtained improperly through them;
- * various "knew or should have known" common-sense phrasings;
- * the provision for a statewide certification body and process.

Plans for uniform body cam practice; receipts for traffic stops; banning of chokeholds; restraint on use of chemical weapons, rubber bullets, and dogs; more bars to militarization of LEO resources—these also all strike me as excellent goals, and I hope the bill passes substantially as it stands.

Sincerely,
Claudia Mastroianni

PS: My proofreader's eye caught something but I wouldn't want it to jeopardize the overall passage of the bill: on page 9 there doesn't seem to be anything specified for how the LEO below the rank of sergeant will be nominated. If this is actually a problem it is presumably easily amended later. From: crista nardone <cristanardone17@gmail.com>

Dear Senator,

My name is Crista Nardone and I live at 28 Prince Path, Sandwich MA. As your constituent, I write to you today to express staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong in many ways.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

Subject: Public Comment Police Reform Bill

Honorable Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing you in hopes that you will consider my position on bill S. 280.

My name is Nick Zeoli and I am a Lieutenant for the Rockland Police Department as well as the Union President for the Superior Officers, Local 175 NEPBA.

You have before you a bill that will have considerable negative implications for Law Enforcement for years to come. This bill as written is seriously flawed and in my opinion is a "knee jerk" reaction to events that have occurred in other parts of the country and does NOT reflect policing as we know it in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

I am asking that you NOT support this bill as written since it changes Qualified Immunity to the detriment of Police Officers. These changes will create large numbers of state law claims against public employees in state courts, claims that could easily be dismissed by Federal judges but could now cost cities and towns significant monies which will further strain already tight municipal budgets.

I am also troubled by the statements of legislators who say that local indemnification will protect officers. This is not true. Indemnification is DISCRETIONARY for municipal police officers.

I also do not feel that the due process rights of officers should be put in the hands of political boards made up with members, many of whom have no Law Enforcement background. These boards should have as a majority, appropriate Law Enforcement Professionals. This would be consistent with the make-up of other professional boards.

I have been a police officer for nearly 27 years and have found it to be a rewarding and honorable profession. The Officers that I work with are true professionals and work hard every day to protect the citizens and property of our community. We continue to do our job day in and day out to the best of our ability and under some of the most challenging circumstances. This bill however will put an unnecessary burden on an already strained profession and for the first time I have started to hear Officers question whether it is worth staying in Law Enforcement.

I ask that you Honorable Ladies and Gentlemen consider what I have mentioned and have the courage to stand up for what is right and judge the Law Enforcement Community of Massachusetts using factual data garnered from events in Massachusetts and not on events that have happened outside of the Commonwealth nor misinformation about alleged need for emergency police reform.

Respectfully submitted,

Lt. Nicholas P. Zeoli

Subject: Bill No. S2820 Police Reform

I am writing to you today regarding the police reform bill which unfortunately passed in the MA Senate and is now in the House of Representatives for debate.

In Massachusetts, we have been very fortunate that the overwhelming majority of our local police officers are not prejudice and treat everyone equally.

We do NOT want our state to become like the radical states of California, New York, Minnesota, Oregon and Washington, and the City of Chicago!!

I understand many items that will be included in this bill, and it is way too extreme and needs to be reviewed and openly discussed in detail. For example:

- * Removing authority from cities and towns to control their own employees
- * Removing the rights of police to monitor gang activity in schools...REALLY??? I guess the Senate didn't care about protecting our children!!
- * Removes protecting our police officers from personal liability when they are acting in good faith and under extreme duress. How many of us put on a uniform every day that makes us a target for any and every unstable person out there?
- * Removes their collective bargaining rights

This bill is pandering to a radical group of the public who do NOT represent the majority of the citizens of Massachusetts.

Our public safety will be dramatically and negatively affected because we will lose many of those dedicated members of law enforcement as a result of the unfair treatment. This bill also makes them unable to perform their duties of keeping us safe.

I will not be able to support any incumbent who supports this bill in its current state or any similar radical bill such as this.

I hope the House of Representatives is able to make many needed changes to the Bill they received from the Senate that will protect the police officers' rights as well as the public.

Thank you.

Dear Madams and Sirs,

With great urgency I ask that you exercise the utmost scrutiny to the police reform bill before you.

I have never had a complaint filed against me in nearly 20 years of service as police officer in the commonwealth of Massachusetts. I think that's the type of officer you strive to have in policing. I have boxes of cards and letters from the community and I have kept nearly every one as a reminder of the positive impact I have on people's lives. Nobody in my family was in law enforcement. Not one person. In fact, most of my family vehemently tried to persuade me against it. Still, after serving 4 years active duty in the U.S. Army, deploying Desert Shield and Desert Storm, I returned to Massachusetts to continue to serve yet again on a local level. When people say they support our troops but hate police, it blows my mind! In many cases, you're talking about the exact same person!

I am one of 3 females on my department. I have always been treated with respect and the utmost dignity. The men I work alongside are professional and respectful to a fault. I'm proud to belong among them in this noble profession.

The public, however has not always been so respectful. I've been called every name you can imagine. Every vulgar thing you can say to a woman has been hurled my way. I've been kicked, punched, spit on, concussed, threatened, and indecently assaulted. My family has vicariously endured this as well. The most that has ever been done over all these years to any person who has physically assaulted me or threaten to kill me and/or my entire family was probation! Even if they were already on probation, guess what happened? Just a little longer probation. What message does that send to the officer? I can tell you; it sends a message loud and clear that we aren't worth anything and our families don't mean much either! Our injuries are not taken into consideration and are "just part of the job". This is entirely unacceptable! Before now, NONE of this made me consider leaving this profession or walk away from my duty.

If you wonder why we are hyper-alert and suspicious of everyone, it's because we lose officers every day across our nation. We get the Officer Down alerts and it feels just a little bit closer. It's because courts are regularly turning people loose who are violent, carrying guns, ...stolen guns, repeatedly! We know we will surely be encountering those people; we just don't have the benefit of knowing in advance, it could be anyone at any time. I can't tell you the shock I am in when I encounter someone who is one their 2nd, 3rd, 4th or more illegal gun charge walking around free in society! What!? The public is not aware that this is even happening! We know it's happening and what these folks are capable of, and they have learned that minimal consequences, if any, will follow. The public doesn't have the benefit of this insight unless they unfortunately fall victim. These are people that have no respect or regard for us, the public or even themselves!

The same is true for the soaring mental health problem. What I'm saying is that all of these problems are continuously dumped back on police and the involved agencies are letting us down! We are in a lose-lose situation where we are being set up to fail. Police cannot cure all that ails society, but we sure are taking the bulk of the blame for it, including race issues and claims that we are not "trained" enough. If I may agree in the training regard that when we routinely are called to a group home or ½ way house for someone that the trained professionals can no longer handle. Are we somehow supposed to be trained beyond the level of mental health professionals in that field? If it's beyond their scope, how would we ever become trained well enough that we surpass the career training of these mental health professionals?

Repeated calls to these situations are often violent and are among the most dangerous and challenging we face. Many group homes are housing people in residential area that are way beyond their ability and scope to treat in that type of environment. We are fully aware that we are likely going to be put in a situation where we need to protect ourselves and others but that any physical contact with these parties will be viewed as unnecessary or excessive. At times we have to take an officer off the road to ride in the ambulance in order to protect the paramedics, while they fight and spit, putting everyone at risk of biological hazards or injury.

Meaningful change needs to occur in our mental health response! Mental health related calls have exploded. They are the bulk of what we deal with now. If there is a belief that some funding should be moved from policing to social programs, and those programs include a SERIOUS mental health initiative, we are on board! Those calls however, need to be shifted away from police and toward those mental health agencies. They need to be removed from police responses, because that's where your calls will go bad and the liability comes in for the officer, agency and community. The things that nobody wants to deal with, routinely land in our lap. Go deal with it, but afterwards, "we don't like how you dealt with it". It's because it should not have been the police dealing with it in the first place.

Mental health is the root of the vast majority of our most serious issues. If you properly deal with mental health, you avoid the consequences of mental health problems. We have a "lack of coping skills" in this country. When people can't properly "cope", they hurt themselves, they hurt others, they abuse drugs and alcohol, self-medicate. This in turn causes people to commit property crimes, get involved in drug activity or commit offenses to accommodate the lifestyle. It all truly comes back to not being able to properly cope in life and the result of that struggle.

Again, I cannot stress enough that we are failing at dealing with this key issue and we have been for a long time! Officers are routinely put in a position to take someone into custody for drugs/alcohol/mental health for a civil commitment against their will. The revolving door spits these folks back out without any meaningful assistance. I've personally taken some of the same individuals dozens of times. Now they are angry at the family members and they are angry at police. This doesn't make it easier. It makes it a lot harder!

Again, a recipe for disaster that does nothing to help anyone involved, builds frustration and creates a dangerous situation for everyone involved.

This reform bill that threatens qualified immunity and threatens to potentially bankrupt me and my family, makes me want to leave policing immediately.

I know I'm asked a lot of in policing, even risking my life and safety. I went into it knowing that. What I didn't know was that now they'd be asking me to potentially sacrifice my financial security on the whim of someone from the public making a claim against me, who wouldn't hesitate to lie or embellish the incident, after all, they're already willing to assault me and threaten me. Now place some monetary incentive behind it and you can imagine the potential.

How much is too much to ask of someone from their job? Well, I'll tell you that being at risk of criminal charges, and losing your assets when you believe you are doing the right thing, would be your answer. Where is the upside to this profession now? What is the incentive to keep doing the honorable thing when you are constantly vilified regardless of how you conduct yourself? Even when you're right, you could now be wrong based on a point of view from people who don't understand the pressure and circumstances of this job and what people are actually willing to do, even to a female (I'm someone's Mom).

I have been part of the CISM Peer Support Team for about 5 years. I don't get paid for this. I do it because it's important to help people. I care about the mental health of the folks in this profession who see the most gruesome, heinous, unimaginable things out there, all while trying to juggle their own lives and the inevitable struggles that come with it. A lot of folks are suffering from what they have had to respond to. This causes lasting detrimental effects. Poor mental health causes poor decision making. Not a good combination when you must do it quickly and often!

I urge you to rethink this bill and some of the extreme things it's asking of our men and women in blue. I implore you to at the very least, see that this bill includes Critical Incident Stress Mgmt. and Peer Support Programs, and preserve our due process and qualified (not absolute) immunity. Our officers are being vilified for the actions of officers we've never even met and probably never would. I can think of no other profession that is punished across the board in this manner. We drop everything to come to everyone else's aid when they need help. Who will come to our aid? Who is helping us?

At the bare minimum, officer mental wellness needs to be a priority. We are going to need it!

I'm a member of our department's hiring board. It's a time consuming, rigorous, careful process. Over the past few years, the quality and quantity of candidates has dropped substantially. The best candidates, not surprisingly are going to jobs with better working conditions, hours, respect and pay. I worry what kind of candidates would now be willing to step up to do this job, as most intelligent, talented people will undoubtedly pass on this.

We welcome opportunities to improve our tactics and raise the standards of our chosen profession. The public needs to bring their standards up as well!

We no longer seem to be teaching respect and law-abiding behaviors. Every call we go on now is a debate or worse. It has become a sport to challenge officers in even the most minor interaction. We didn't get the benefit of safely working from home, time off or incentive checks during this COVID-19 crisis. We did what was asked of us despite the risk to ourselves and our families. We enjoyed a brief moment of gratitude from the public and then just like that, the sickening act of one distant officer made every single one of us monsters. Is that a best practice for raising the bar in any profession? Is that really how it's supposed to work?

It makes me sad for society going forward.

There are a lot a good people in our community, and many of them work alongside me. Our communities will lose compassionate, upstanding, professional officers who have years of experience and formal education. Many volunteer in the community or commit quiet acts of kindness that nobody ever hears about.

I ask that you do the right thing and consider the impact this will have on the men and women who give so much to people, who at times care so little for us.

Respectfully,

Dear Mr Cyr,

My name is Kimberly Cuzzo and I live at 53 Falmouth Sandwich Rd Mashpee Ma. <x-apple-data-detectors://0> As your constituent, I write to you today to express staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve. There is a silent majority that supports our officers which I hope will be considered when it come time to show your support.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Cuzzo

Subject: Pass Police Reform

Dear Rep Michlewitz and Rep Cronin,

Please pass police reform that includes:

- * Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification (POST)
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

By using the current Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity the individual officer will not suffer devastating financial impact since the cities that employ them have indemnified them. This will actually encourage the types of structural fair and safe protection practices appropriate for 2021 and beyond.

The few applicable cases being allowed to be heard by a jury without dismissal due to 4th amendment rights on the basis of it never having been heard previously by a statute or court precedent seems an outrageous offense to those who may have suffered extreme police violations and then again punished by not being allowed judicial review in our democracy.

Please base your vote on the facts of current indemnity by municipalities as above as you consider the police reform so essential at this time.

Thank you.

Subject: Pass a Strong Police Accountability Bill with Key Provisions from S.2820

Dear Chairs HWM & Judiciary,

I urge you to pass legislation that establishes real oversight and accountability for police.

Our law enforcement system is rife with systemic racism that manifests in poignant police murders of unarmed black people, brutality and excessive use of force, unlawful arrests, and unnecessary police contact. The House of Representatives and Senate should ultimately pass a bill that ends qualified immunity in most instances, reduces and oversees police use of force, removes police from schools, expands juvenile expungement, and establishes funds to improve re-entry from incarceration.

The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

This is an urgent matter. Please pass a bill that includes at a minimum the provisions of the senate bill.

Subject: Support for Reform, Shift, + Build Act (S.2800)

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

My name is Carlos Lopez and I am a resident of Somerville, MA. I work in healthcare in Burlington, MA, and I attended school at Tufts University in Medford, MA.

I am writing to support Bill No. S2820 to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

I am a Latinx person, and it brings me to tears seeing all the instances of police misconduct, and misuse of force that end up unnecessarily hurting and killing disproportionately Black people and Latinx people. I do not feel safe calling the police in case of an emergency, because I fear the police will escalate things rather than de-escalate a situation. I fear police will hurt someone or kill someone that should have rather been arrested or taken to the hospital immediately for care.

This is why it is important to pass this bill to hold police in MA accountable for their actions by limiting qualified immunity in use of excessive force. It is also important to defund the police departments and fund social programs that will benefit Black communities and communities of color.

I urge you to pass this Bill as a start to equitable justice, and that more reform keeps coming to the floor.

Thank you for your time and service,

Subject: S2820

Esteemed Representatives,
I am writing you to express my concern about Bill S2820. As a law enforcement professional for 32 years I feel eminently qualified to offer an opinion on this groundbreaking opportunity to literally change the face of law enforcement. I recognize minority concerns as a minority within law enforcement. As a female I have sought injunctive relief in the past and welcome inclusivity and diversity.

This is an opportunity to improve recruitment and training making this bill a positive force. In Massachusetts we have avoided many of the issues that have occurred in our country by virtue of our highly educated and trained officers. In the past our state encouraged these dedicated professionals to seek higher educational degrees through pay incentives. Our academy training is accepted throughout much of the country as it exceeds most other state's requirements. That being said, we welcome any and all training opportunities which make us better at our jobs.

Qualified immunity is essential to police officers being able to perform their duties. We are tasked with difficult situations without the benefit of time to contemplate options. Allowing diminished protection from frivolous civil law suits allows us to act without hesitation. Hesitation can endanger ourselves and the public we swore an oath to protect.

Eroding the long standing collective bargaining nature of employment fails to protect the hardworking members of law enforcement. Eliminating competitive entrance examinations and allowing alternative entrance requirements fails to provide the most qualified candidates for employment. Please focus on more recruitment efforts to seek out qualified candidates. Phillips Academy in Andover has a program for summer education of inner city youths in Math and Science (MS Squared). This pool of talented driven inner city youth striving to succeed is a pool of untapped candidates who may not have considered a career in public service, more specifically in law enforcement. After school outreach programs and internships offer an opportunity for youth to interact with law enforcement in a positive context rather than the negative ones that are more prolific. Encourage individuals to be the change from within actually change the literal face of law enforcement to reflect diversity not by insulting people by lowering standards but rather by encouraging a greater pool of qualified applicants.

Allowing promotions to be arbitrary in nature by dropping several candidates below on the list created by competitive examinations allows for further politicization of our command staff. The competitive examination process was created to lessen the impact of politics within what should be a separate entity. The unique nature of Massachusetts as a long standing supporter of organized labor makes an outside appointment of a titular head of the State Police a thinly veiled attempt to erode collective bargaining and further politicize law enforcement. The inclusion of Chapter 22C revisions is ill advised.

Any review board should encompass people with a background within the particular field they are being tasked with reviewing. A basis of knowledge within the applicable field is essential in making accurate, fair and equitable assessments as to whether the actions being reviewed are reasonable from a reasonable officer's standpoint. This is in compliance with at least four US Supreme Court decisions. 20/20 hindsight with unlimited time is an unfair advantage. Allowing review by appointees without a basis of knowledge would be akin to allowing someone with no medical knowledge to serve on a medical review board for a malpractice issue.

Racial profiling statistics on traffic stops have been kept by the State Police for over twenty years. A report is generated to each unit/station commander each month and any officer assigned to their command whose statistics exceed 2 standard deviations above the statistical population demographic for their permanent assignment require review. The commanding officer must look at each issued citation, determine the location etc and determine if that officer is in violation. For example I am stationed at Belchertown, I have been assigned a federally funded speed enforcement detail on Route 2 in Fitchburg. The issued citations during this assignment result in my statistics being more than two standard deviations above statistics for Belchertown. Upon review the location of Fitchburg is noted and an analysis of the demographic for that area indicated that the results are within the acceptable mean. For twenty years these statistics have been kept and analyzed.

This profession is a technical one, but we can not lose sight that it is at times an extremely dangerous and physical one as well. Training is key. Education is key. Recruitment is essential.

When called upon we proudly stand and serve. When hated we still stand and serve. We are the same people the public loved and venerated after the Marathon Bombing. I urge you all to resist the temptation to create knee jerk reaction, quickly crafted legislation, which often times is not effective and creates ineffective faulty laws. You have the advantage of time and resources please use that time wisely.

Subject: S.2820 Opposition

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolous lawsuits. This bill removes important liability protections essential for all public servants. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Cronin,

I am writing to you to voice my support for S2820. It's imperative that we make this first step toward racial justice. We've seen too many times abuses of our neighbors at the hands of law enforcement. I have also been personally affected by a lack of accountability in law enforcement. I ask that you preserve the language creating an independent and civilian majority police body, limit qualified immunity, and reduce the school to prison pipeline by removing barriers to expunge juvenile records. People of color, the youth, and so many more groups deserve better.

I also ask that you strengthen the use of force standard, fully prohibit facial surveillance technology and lift the cap of the justice reinvestment fund.

I am writing in regards to the the bill being proposed allowing police officers to be sued in a civil suit. We are going to lose good officers which will put us all at risk. In today's anti police climate this is only going to make things worse. The vast majority of our police officers are good honest people who risk their lives to keep us all safe. There are people who make a living suing people and this will be an open invitation to go after law enforcement looking for a payday. Why would anyone want to choose law enforcement for a career if this is allowed?

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:

My name is Lubna Omar. I am a resident of East Boston and I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

I am supporting this because the safety of my community depends on it. I live in an overly policed neighborhood and we don't feel safe with the police. The power of the police remains unchanged and unchecked. I have a 9-year-old Black boy and it is painful to have such hard conversations on police brutally when he shouldn't be worrying about that. But unfortunately, that is the reality of Black mothers in this country. We are EXHAUSTED and it is time to act and pass this bill to keep Black boys like my son. Everyone now wants to tackle systemic racism. That conversation starts with reforming the police and holding them accountable.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Sincerely,

Lubna Omar

Subject: S2820 should not pass

My name is Stephen Ryan and I live at 43 Kelly Way, Canton, Ma. My phone number is 617-293-3117. and I am a private citizen expressing my dissatisfaction with Bill S2820.

1) This conversation is too important to "rush" into without proper AND extensive debate and dialogue. Public hearings are part of our democracy and the idea that an email received by a certain deadline provides little opportunity for the public to be heard on this issue.

2) While I agree there is room for a discussion on policing improvement, this bill simply goes too far. We should respect those that put themselves in harm's way every day and afford them the same Due Process as every other citizen.

3) Ironically, this bill will MANACLE the very people who have been hired to protect and serve our communities.

4) The POSAC (Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Commission) would be made up of far too many lay people (especially because those appointed would be from historically anti-police groups). In my opinion, POSAC should be made up of only other law enforcement members. Would a surgical review board involve a bookkeeper to determine if a surgeon did or did not perform correctly? To think that members of the general public could put themselves in the officers' positions on the streets and dictate what the proper response should be is outrageous and ridiculous!

5) Finally, the most offensive part of this bill changes the "Qualified Immunity". If officers are going to be held personally responsible, there will be a mass exodus from law enforcement and far fewer candidates to replace the departed. Officers that remain on the job will be restrained and therefore reluctant. This bill will seriously undermine public safety by limiting police officers' ability to do their job. Crime WILL GO UP and our communities WILL BE LESS SAFE.

There is no doubt that the events surrounding George Floyd horrified our nation but this bill is an attempt to "punish" all of the great men and women in law enforcement for the bad act of one.

I urge you to vote AGAINST S2820.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

Stephen M Ryan

To whom it may concern,

I am a 20 year resident of Massachusetts, and for the past 10 years have worked in the City of Boston as an early intervention specialist. I am writing in support of the senate police accountability bill, especially section 10 regarding qualified immunity. On June 16th, the Supreme court declined to reexamine qualified immunity. This move makes it clear that the court feels it is the responsibility of congress and/or individual states to act on this matter. Qualified immunity erodes our communities access to life and liberty, and weakens the safety of all of our community, especially people of color. Our own high court said in 2016 that black men may have cause to run from police. Of course they do, the police are armed with guns and can shoot to kill with immunity. Who does that protect other than the police themselves? The police are charged with saving and protecting lives, so are doctors. We have the right to file a malpractice lawsuit when a doctor makes a mistake that leads death or injury. How can we not have the same right when police make mistakes that lead to the same consequences? I have personally supported countless Black and Latinx mothers and fathers to raise their children to meet their highest potential. How can they do so as they move through life in fear that the people who are charged to protect them can and do kill them with immunity? Police violence against Black and Latinx community is a public health crisis that must be addressed in our country. Ending police immunity is a vital step in that process.

I am sending this email to support many of my friends who are law enforcement officers in this state. I also believe this is the right thing for all of our citizens.

I would like to weigh in on the bill that is currently in the House, S. 2820. As it stands, the Senate dropped the ball by keeping police wide open for frivolous law suits by eliminating qualified immunity. As you know, unlike absolute immunity which is something you all are given and enjoy, qualified immunity is given to police officers who do their job the right way. Not rogue officers or cops who break the law. Because of that, I urge you not to pass this bill, but if you must, I ask you to keep qualified immunity.

Another ball dropped by the Senate was something that is rightfully given to all citizens of the commonwealth and this great country, and that is due process. Essentially, by eliminating due process in their bill, the Senate has deemed all police officers second class citizens. That's is outrageous, bogus and downright wrong. Please do not pass this bill, but if you must keep all due process in and please do not deem us second class citizens. In a time when the bad guy is the good guy and the good guy is the bad guy, we need your help.

I pray that you have the courage to be a beacon in a time of darkness and be the anti-panderer and keep these two important aspects in this bill if you must pass it.

Please do not be anti police, please do not open all cops in the commonwealth to frivolous law suits, please be a leader and hear the voices of your constituents and do the right thing.

Thank you ALL for your service.

Subject: S.2820

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Subject: Police Reform Bill S.2800

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

I am writing to you today as a wife and daughter of law enforcement officers to express my extreme concern with the passing of this Bill. As a resident of Bridgewater, I strongly believe that the passing of this Bill will not only put my family at risk, but it will deteriorate the relationship that men like my husband and father have worked so hard to create with the community. Police officers are respected people that put their lives and the lives of their families second to protect the lives of others in need. My two year old son deserves to grow up in a state where other children can learn to idolize those who help the public just as he does. In clear conscience, I felt as though I needed to express my opinion as this Bill does not only effect the lives of the men and women that wear a uniform, but it also effects their husbands, wives, children and other family members.

I understand that progress needs to be made in this state as a whole, but as the Bill stands today I am asking you to vote NO.

I thank you for your time and consideration with this decision.

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin, please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color".

MACLEA seeks to include a representative of the Association to serve on the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee created by section 6 of Senate Bill 2820. MACLEA's member departments are responsible for the safety and wellbeing of the hundreds of thousands who live, learn, work, and visit our member institutions. We are in favor of the creation of a Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee (POSAC) and our representation on this committee would add valuable insight and information. It would also ensure that the safety and security of all of those on campuses across the Commonwealth are the highest priority.

Subject: Senate Police Reform Bill

Dear Senate Members,

I am a municipal employee for 34 years and for the last 25 years have been working as a 911 operator/dispatcher. My personal experience with Police, Fire and EMS is extremely positive. I am part of a proud team joining together with the same goal to save lives. We are a family working professionally 24/7 to get the job done.

The Senate Police Reform Bill is destructive to public safety. There are incompetent people working today in every profession. This bill will never right any harmful, injurious act done in the past. It is sure to raise the statistics of police officers killed within our own state of Massachusetts. These men and women go to work everyday to protect you. The Senate has the opportunity now to protect all of us.

Someday you or your family may have to call 911. The excellent response time and service you now receive may disappear. What is their incentive? Police, Fire, EMS and 911 dispatchers should never fear being sued or having to lose their homes just trying to do their jobs. What is next? Are we going to terminate the Good Samaritan Law?

Please consider the large groups of genuinely hard working, law abiding people who will be hurt by this bill. We do not deserve to be the victims of a reactive government and suffer life changing consequences.

In Unity,

Melissa Sullivan

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Dear Mr. Michlewitz and Ms. Cronin,

My name is Rose Cardarelli. I had written to my rep Ken Gordon to ask him to oppose Bill S2800. He told me to write to you before 11 am today in order to provide testimony.

I am strongly opposed to this bill, as I believe it seriously impacts how police officers can perform their duties as well as public school personnel. These are my reasons:

I currently work in a public school in the town of Lexington. This bill also affects the staff of any public school with the current language of eliminating school resource officers. It also provides for the qualified immunity protections to be removed from school staff. I honestly don't know who will want to go into any of these service vocations if they do not have the protection that they need. School resource officers play an important role within the school community. I also have been a court reporter in Middlesex County for over 30 years and I know too well the level of crime in many cities throughout the Commonwealth. These resource officers have helped troubled youth and gang members over the years, and as such, have improved the relationship between the police and these young men and women. Removing them is a horrible decision.

I also have a daughter who is a teacher, and she lives in South Boston. I remember the days when you never went to Southie, as it was more of an Irish mob type of place, as well as the North End of Boston. Back then the mob made sure they took care of their own, and this bill will bring that right back into our society. I am worried for the safety of my daughter and for the future of my other children as well as grandchildren.

I also ask that it be debated in the light of day and not voted on in the dark of night.

This bill is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage.

It will cause many good officers to leave due to the new burdens and make it harder to recruit individuals into law enforcement. S 2800 establishes a review committee with overly broad powers, including the power of subpoena, in active investigations. The current language sets the groundwork for unconstitutional violations of a police officer's 5th amendment rights against self-incrimination (see Carney vs Springfield) and constitutional protections against "double-jeopardy".

Qualified immunity protections are removed and replaced with a "no reasonable defendant" qualifier. This removes important liability protections essential for the police officers we send out on patrol in our communities and who often deal with some of the most dangerous of circumstances with little or no back-up. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers up to personal liabilities so they cannot purchase a home, a car, obtain a credit card, or other things for the benefit of them and their families. Good luck with police recruitment. I was with a Somerville police officer this past weekend who told me that basically they have been told not to arrest anyone. This is just great. What happened to if a criminal commits a crime, they are arrested! When did we become a society that lets anything go, tearing down of statues, defacing religious artifacts, etc. When will it stop? I'm scared. Do we want Boston to become like New York City is right now? Where police officers are assaulted doing their jobs but the criminal gets bail immediately. I do not want this in our beloved Commonwealth. I want officers to be able to do their jobs without fear of being prosecuted in criminal court AND civil court.

In addition S 2800 failed to follow normal and appropriate legislative process of holding public hearings to accept testimony from citizens and experts.

I ask that you vote NO when S.2800 comes to the House of representatives for the reasons stated above, and others.

I agree that police reform is important and needs to be addressed but passing a poor bill for the sake of passing a bill is not in the best interest of the Commonwealth.

The actions of one bad police officer should not warrant what is going on now in our country. He was arrested and charged. The police department he works for should also be charged, as he was accused of 19 other infractions. Why was he still on the force?

I appeal to you as a mother and a public school servant, as well as a court reporter for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to vote against this bill.

Thank you,

Rose Marie Cardarelli

?Good morning,

Thank you for an opportunity to submit a written testimony regarding S2820. As a proud and dedicated police officer for the town of Paxton, and union President, I am saddened and concerned for the future of my profession and the ability to serve my community in a safe and protected manner.

We go out everyday to protect the peace and tranquillity that our ya paying residents expect. We do that by the obvious reactive policing, but also through our efforts to reduce possible future crime through proactive efforts.

A small minority of people with a lot of attention right now are doing everything they can to turn this country upside down through anarchy. They're not your voting base. We, the good, the kind, the calm, the quiet voters of all ages, races, religions, political affiliations want safe communities to simply raise our families and live in peace. The good people of this state don't want to handcuff their police by undue and uninformed regulation by people who have no idea what how to police or how to keep a community safe.

Decertification process:

Taking away our full due process rights through the current POSAC process is wrong. This erosion of our due process essentially gives the suspects we arrest more protections than we're afforded. Since when do we consider the police guilty until proven innocent?

Makeup of the board:

Any responsible person would agree that a board such as what's being proposed in this legislation must be made up of those who know the role they're overseeing, not in concept but in actual experience.

Qualified Immunity:

Taking away my qualified immunity is taking away my professional protection from the ability to frivolously bring financially impactful personal lawsuits that affect my ability to earn and the ability to provide for my family. Like so many other propositions that are brought forth for consideration this one cannot be rammed through without study. Doing so would be misguided and reckless. This matter must be put to a study which will show that it protects good officers. The bad officers like Chauvin And others in Minneapolis who murdered George Floyd would not have been protected by our QI, not should they have been. A study will show this.

This is the chance for our elected officials to show they believe in reasonableness and that they protect those good men and women that protect them by putting their lives on the line everyday. We always want to do what's right and still do it even though it's often dangerous and perilous to our personal safety. We believe in something bigger than ourselves. Help us continue to do this without fear.

Dear House Committee on Ways and Means,

Hello my name is Marc Quitadamo and I have been a Worcester Policer Officer for approximately 5 years. I thank you to allow public written testimony relative to House Bill S.2820. Unlike the Massachusetts Senate, it is important to allow public testimony, without narrow time constraint, to allow all sides to be heard when the legislature attempts to deal with such an important like Law Enforcement Reform. All too often rushed legislature typically results in ineffective legislature/statutes.

As a police officer and registered voter I ask that you support the following issues of S.2820;

* Qualified Immunity (QI) - The Senate Bill significantly alters the language would eliminate Qualified Immunity for Police Officers and many more public employees (i.e. correctional officers). At minimum a committee should be established to study the resulting profound effect on Law Enforcement if QI was eliminated. The Senate bill significantly alters language that has been historically supported by federal case law.

* Due Process / Collective Bargaining for Police Officers - The Senate Bill as written will remove the right of due process for police officers. It will eliminate the right to be heard by an independent and neutral arbiter which has been the our right for more than 50 years.

* Police Officer's Standards & Accreditation Committee (POSAC) - The proposed Senate Bill establishes the aforementioned committee which will have power to decertify an officer when complaints are filed, reviewed, and adjudicated. My issue with this proposal is the make-up of the committee, which will be mostly civilians with no experience or knowledge of law enforcement practices. Like all other professions (doctors, dentists, teachers, and all public employees) our goal is to ensure the make-up of the committee (at minimum the majority) include law enforcement <[Respectfully,](https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A__www.google.com_maps_search_30-2BLeela-2BLane-2B-2B-250D-250A-2BRochdale-2C-2BMA-2B01542-3Fentry-3Dgmail-26source-3Dg&d=DwMFAQ&c=1DF7oMaPKXpkYvev9V-fVahWL0QWnGCCAfCDz1Bns_w&r=uoevGInjCfTlguYncQubxpi5R6db_gq1YmKr0SCk2EnIiuk13zIsl6rchf_GkGDD&m=tCPJ22ry5Xi2Rqw0zuzuaVGof-QdERLl20OqSFhDemM&s=nwA6FTCgbvJYcAsGxGCjrW7h86PD5dMu4zXuWs_6XAA&e=> representatives and/or civilians with law enforcement background, degrees, and/or experience.<div data-bbox=)

Subject: Opposition to Bill S.2800

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to you in opposition of Bill S.2800 as it currently stands.

I do agree with a certification program, as I am a Nurse Practitioner and understand the importance of upholding certain standards to maintain my professional license. I also agree with the additional training and standards set regarding our minority populations. I feel our entire country needs additional teaching on racism, sexism, ageism, gender identity, and sexual identity.

However, I am very much concerned about the limitations on a police officer's qualified immunity. I feel that there needs to be legal protection on these officers in some way. Just as there is malpractice insurance place for medical professionals, police officers deserve the same amount of protection. If an officer is put in a situation that requires a split-second decision for their own safety or the safety of others, they should not be penalized in a way that could put their family, finances, and personal safety in harm's way.

I am also concerned about this bill taking away and/or limiting certain tactics required to subdue a dangerous person, such as pepper spray, tear gas, and physical maneuvers. I do feel that strict training requirements are necessary for proper use and understanding of these tactics, as they have the potential to be used inappropriately. However, many towns and cities of Massachusetts do not have partnered officers in their cruisers. Therefore, these officers are acting alone in many situations until back up can assist, if they can even reach for their radio to call for back up. These officers need to make quick decisions to maintain the safety of themselves, any bystanders, and the person that they are dealing with. They need to be able to use certain physical tactics in these situations. Talking to dangerous people in an attempt to calm them down is not enough, and in many situations can make things much worse. I also feel that all officers should be paired up in cruisers, not only for immediate back up, but also as an extra pair of eyes and a "whistle blower" should an officer inflict unnecessary force on another human being.

I do understand and absolutely agree that it is time for reform, however I feel this bill is being rushed through without enough thought and guidance by those who have performed the job day in and day out. However, as the wife of a police officer who is truly in this field to serve and protect, and deserves protection himself, I urge you to give more consideration to this bill before allowing it to pass. I truly believe there will be serious unintended consequences to the police force should this bill pass as written.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Hilary Flynn

Hello, my name is Barbara Burg, with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 59 Chesbrough Road, West Roxbury, MA 02132. I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- * Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

I urge you to adopt the Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity. This reform will allow the few applicable cases to be heard by a jury without being dismissed because the particular violation of 4th amendment rights by a public official, such as a police officer, has never been previously contemplated by a statute or a court precedent. Those cases deserve to be heard on their merits, not thrown out using a non-statutory legal doctrine. It is simply outrageous that those who have suffered from the egregious violations of police officers can not get their day in court.

In addition, it is clear that qualified immunity reform will not have devastating financial impact on any police officers as they are indemnified by the municipalities that employ them. Any such claims are not based on fact and should not be considered as you consider this reform.

Thank you very much.

Good Morning,

I am writing to to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2800. I am a lifelong Mass resident and democratic voter. I believe this bill goes too far. I do understand the pressure lawmakers are under to pass a Police reform bill. This bill is more of an Anti-Police Bill. Our Law Enforcement Officers do a great job. Several Months ago they were praised for their work. What changed in Massachusetts? Nothing! We can not judge a whole proffession because the action of a few. There are over 800,000 Officers in the U.S.. There are millions of encounters everyday. We only hear about the very few that we all agree are terrible. We would not disband or defund our legislature because of corrupt officials in other states. Please think about the ramifications of this bill. I believe it will negatively impact the people it is desienged to help. I know you will have tough choices to make over the next week or so. Good luck.

My name is Mary Valerio. I am a resident of Clinton at 13 Candice Street. I am writing to ask that you craft a bill similar to the version from the Senate on police reform. There needs to be accountability and clarity in policing. I would also ask that you add corrections officers to this as well as abuse has happened in our prisons as well, Our prisons in Massachusetts are nearly 60% Black and Brown. It is time that we took seriously the calls for reform. Clarity and oversight are badly needed. Please act to remedy the situation that exists now. This will restore confidence in the police and will make us all safer. I have confidence that you will act.

Subject: S2820, Please Read

Sirs and Ma'am,

My name is Thomas Pratt, and I am writing to ask for consideration with house bill S2820, especially in relation to the issues of qualified immunity, due process, and the makeup of the POSAC board.

I am a Sergeant Detective with the Boston Police Department. As a middle manager, I feel this bill will be detrimental to the City of Boston, citizens of the Commonwealth, and visitors and tourists. As a supervisor in the police department, I am tasked with motivating the officers in the busiest district in the city, if not the state. This bill crushes the morale of honest, hardworking police officers who genuinely want to help the community they serve.

Qualified immunity is protection against frivolous lawsuits against police officers. Though many people do not understand what it means, it is a protection for police officers who act within the scope of their office. This does not protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights.

Our country and our state were built on the idea of due process. Why are we now trying to deny that same due process to police officers?

The POSAC board will include persons who have a well-known dislike of police officers. As an accused party in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, you are given the opportunity to challenge jurors who will decide your fate, putting people on a board just because of their affiliation to an organization goes against the ideology of being judged by a jury of your peers.

Other professions in the Commonwealth who have licenses are judged by their peers, nurses by nurses, doctors by doctors, lawyers by lawyers, people with experience in their field. Why will this board be so biased that a police officer won't be given the same rights as someone who is accused of rape or murder? People in these other professions do not have to make a split-second decision, which can affect so many people's lives. They are given the opportunity to be judged by a jury of their peers, people with experience in their chosen fields.

I am asking you to look at this bill with an open mind and see that this hastily thought out bill is just that, hastily thought out. This bill not only includes police officers but every municipal employee in the Commonwealth. This is meant to crush organized labor and contracts that were bargained for with a give and take.

This is just a brief summary. If you have any questions, please reach out to Michael Muse, our legislative assistant. Mr. Muse has been working at the State House for decades and is well versed in all of these issues and more.

Thank you for taking the time to read this. I am also available if you have any questions, please feel free to reach out.

Respectfully,

Thomas N. Pratt

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

My name is Tisya Mavuram and I'm a Cambridge resident. I'm writing to demand the legislature pass S.2820 as quickly as possible to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law and strengthen it.

I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor. In this crucial moment in history, it's more clear than ever that we need to fundamentally change the relationship between our communities and the police, and nothing less than these reforms will do.

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I'm writing to express my support for Senate Bill S.2820, to reform our criminal justice system. The bill as it stands today is a good first step in the very much needed reform of our policing practices.

I believe that during the debate in the Senate on S.2820 and their review of many amendments to the legislation, they have crafted a bill which shows an excellent compromise over the most controversial portions of the legislation. While I would prefer to have a bill which completely eliminates qualified immunity, the use of teargas, chokeholds and no-knock raids, I believe that adoption of S.2820 as passed by the Senate is an excellent step toward the type of policing that all Massachusetts citizens wish to see.

Thank you for all of the work that you are doing during the pandemic. Since there are so many issues which need to be resolved, I also hope that you seriously consider continuing the Legislative Session past the July 31st deadline so that you have the ability to address the issues that we are facing with the opportunity for fully-considered debate.

To: Representative Aaron Michlewitz, Chairperson, House Committee on

Representative Claire Cronin, Chairperson, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Hello, my name is Ted Greenwood with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 66 Winchester Street, Brookline, MA 02446.
I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- * Implementation of Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

I urge you to adopt the Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity. This reform will allow the few applicable cases to be heard by a jury without being dismissed because the particular violation of 4th amendment rights by a public official, such as a police officer, has never been previously contemplated by a statute or a court precedent.
Those cases deserve to be heard on their merits, not thrown out using a non-statutory legal doctrine. It is simply outrageous that those who have suffered from the egregious violations of police officers cannot get their day in court.

In addition, it is clear that qualified immunity reform will not have devastating financial impact on any police officers as they are indemnified by the municipalities that employ them. Any such claims are not based on fact and should not be considered as you consider this reform.

Thank you very much.

Subject: Police reform

Good morning,

Hi, my name is Zachary Porter. I have been a Police Officer for 10 years in the Town of Middleboro. I am writing to you today out of concern for the proposed reform bill. I am very concerned with the ideas that are being proposed and how to change police work.

Police work is an extremely difficult profession, we are required to not only enforce the law, but we are now social workers, mental health workers, peace officers, and EMT's. There are many hats the modern day police officer wears and there is a lot to be expected of us.

There are many situations that we rely on good faith to help people or make the right decisions. Qualified immunity protects us and gives us the confidence that we need to make split second decisions that are extremely hard for us to make.

Things that concern me are simple, such as, I could be called to a house by a husband or wife who is being abused. There is visible evidence that someone had just been assaulted, such as welts, bruising, or cuts. So as a Police Officer I do what is required of me by the state of Massachusetts and arrest the abuser. I have done what the State has told me and now have taken away someone's civil liberties and rights by placing them under arrest.

Now we end up in court, and the spouse who was the victim decides that they do not want to testify and the case gets thrown out. Now, without a doubt I will be sued by the arrested person for taking away their rights because, technically nothing happened the night they were arrested.

This bill opens Pandora's box and allows the good men and women in Police, Fire, and the schools. To have their lives stripped from them for doing work in good faith.

I believe in change, I really do. But, let's be logical about this. The criminal justice system is extremely weak here in Massachusetts. There are many instances where you arrest someone on Friday and you arrest them again on Monday because nothing happens. This is a vicious cycle. We continually deal with the same people because the courts do not hold them accountable. Why do we not hold those who commit crimes accountable? If we did Officer Sean Gannon and Officer Michael Chesna would still be alive.

Police have been vilified over the past 6-8 years. There are thousands of cops who do a phenomenal job day in and day out. With that being said, at these times i do not want to be a Police Officer. I signed up to make a difference in my community, I did not sign up to be hated. I do understand there are bad apples in every bunch but the vast majority of cops are good at what they do.

If this bill passes, I will resign and find something else to do. Those are just the facts. We work long hours, nights, weekends, and holidays to provide for our families I will not put everything that I worked hard for achieving for my wife and son on the line because I did my job.

Thank you for your time,

Zachary Porter

Middleboro Police Department

Subject: Thoughts to share on Police Reform Act

Importance: High

To the Members of the House Committee on Ways and Means:

I am writing to voice my concerns on the Police Reform Act that is about be debated in House. I am the wife of a law enforcement officer we have a sweet 2 year old daughter who deserves to be considered as part of this reform as well. I think what many people don't understand about police is that it is a family commitment. This is not just a 9-5 job that you go to and come home like everyone else. This is a commitment a family makes to the citizens of this state. We sacrifice a lot for the greater good and I hope that is not lost on you or any other trusted legislator. While reform is something the system so desperately needs to address years and years of systemic racism, I beg you to think critically about ALL the items that are in this bill before you decide to cast your vote. I believe there are some well-intentioned items in this bill and there are also some not-so-well-thought-out plans included, which is what I really want you to consider.

As legislators it is your duty to ensure bills are fair, well-researched, with good intention, and above all change things for the better. I have reached out to Senator Crighton's office and Rep. RoseLee Vincent to share these thoughts as well. As a law enforcement family our biggest concerns are Qualified Immunity and non-police review boards.

All I ask is that you put yourself into a police officer's shoes for a moment. Think about all the dangers and/or tough decisions they must make daily to uphold their Oath to protect the public. In a moment's notice and without hesitation many of these officers must make decisions with nothing but a moment's notice. They put their lives on the line daily to ensure you and everyone else in the Commonwealth are safe, even if this means risking bodily harm or even worse their life. I would hate to see these officers have to add another complicated layer into their split second decision making. Should their Qualified Immunity be revoked, they would have to think of all the possible ramifications if they act because they could be subject to personal liability for their actions. This affects not only the officer, but potentially their family. How could my husband, who is well-educated, well-trained, and well-intentioned ever do his job properly if he were constantly worried about a frivolous lawsuit? Would we really want police to stop acting or hesitate because of this? Why should they be personally liable for doing their job? This does not exist in other professions, why should it exist in policing? For instance, are doctors personally liable for their malpractice cases? Physicians are personally protected from their professional actions by their insurance - what mechanism would there be for police to protect their assets/family should Qualified Immunity be removed? I think you can see where I am going with this, I beg you to think critically about this amendment.

My second concern is regarding non-police review boards. How could people who are not trained and/or educated in policing police actions? Should police actions be reviewed ABSOLUTELY, but do we let just anyone make those judgement calls? For instance, medical review boards contain medical professionals that assess a physician's actions based on their experiences and education which seems appropriate. Having a board to review police actions is not inherently a problem it's the composition of the review board that is worrisome. If these review boards exist they must contain those who are experienced and educated in law enforcement for that process to remain fair. If every day citizens want to make police-related choices they should take the civil service exam and apply. It would be completely unfair to expect an ordinary citizen to be able to assess a situation when they have no point of reference. My point being, we are all looking for reform but does that mean we make the process unfair to one group to make a statement?

We need reform to address systemic racism, but I don't think rushing a bill through is a good way to obtain lasting results. There needs to be more research and more input from stakeholders before something like this is passed through. We are not against reform, we welcome it. The police officers in this state are some of the most educated in the country. We beg you to consider these facts before you decide to act with a vote for a quick fix. These problems need more than a band aid.

Most sincerely,

Subject: S2820 testimony

I want to share my concerns about S2820.

I am proud of the forward thinking police department in Attleboro which is my district. They have the "POP" team that has officers without guns help people suffering from addiction and other mental health concerns locate treatment and, if necessary, even drive them to treatment. They co-organized with Fuller Hospital a monthly drop in center with local non-profits including addiction and domestic violence. And when there was a BLM protest in Attleboro there was no uniformed presence. When they marched to the police station the chief came out and listened and in the end took pictures with protesters arms around him.

Like most of us, they welcomed the Black And Latino Caucus goals. Training has always been a priority even if limited by budget constraints. Every one of them is just as sickened as all of us by the George Floyd death. Certification would only label them as one of the 99% of police who have never punched someone in the face. And added training would help them be more aware of racial bias and racial injustice. Most saw this as a way to make policing better, more effective, and more sensitive to the community.

However, the changes to QI in the Senate bill sent a chilling message to them. Now they are scared. Suddenly senior police are filling out retirement papers. Younger officers are talking about divorce so their assets can be in the wife's name. And many are thinking about previous careers and maybe there is a safer way to earn a living. I've been to the local police roll calls and all of them feel betrayed. They worked through COVID. Daily they deal with the craziest and most confrontational people in our community. And they would like to know that we have their back.

As a current union member I am troubled by parts of this bill that limit disciplinary appeals and takes away bargaining rights. These are hard won rights that generations of teachers, carpenters, steelworkers, and firefighters count on. As a teacher I feel that unless you have been in a classroom last period on a hot Friday afternoon with 30 fifteen year olds trying to convince them that Pythagorean theorem is way cool you don't know my job and I should have a voice. Much the same policing is a very different job and they deserve a voice. We should not ever be diminishing these rights for anyone. Even the groups that represent minority police do not support these changes. They do little to advance racial justice but take a lot away from a small group of workers.

I think my biggest concern is the changes to Qualified Immunity. I've listened to lengthy explanations of the historical context and the legal cases and maybe there is reason to change it. But this is way, way too hasty. ACLU claims it only affects police but MMA lawyers claim it affects every public employee including teachers nurses and others. I know that when I was a teacher lawsuits were always a threat that we dealt with.

Also the changes in this bill around QI clearly negate the role of civil service. The police chief in Attleboro has complained that civil service procedures have made it difficult to hire and we are presently short staffed. And it's possible that by changing civil service we could change hiring and promotion procedures to help balance racial injustice. Maybe we should tackle this but not with a week's notice.

And ACLU may claim that indemnity clauses will protect police officers from financial harm but that is not true. I listened to a detective yesterday who was sued and exonerated but, while the case was pending for two and a half years all his assets were frozen. This was a young, married officer with children. He may not have had the threat of paying any possible judgement but he certainly suffered financially during the process. And I can't confirm but I'm hearing that not every community has this indemnity insurance.

I really, really appreciate all the hard work you are doing on this legislation. It would be very wrong to ignore the George Floyd incident and the very real issues of the BLM movement. But I cannot support hastily decided changes to QI that would have such a detrimental effect on all public employees. There are so many unintended consequences to that and we really need a more deliberative and comprehensive review. Please advance this legislation without QI.

Subject: Fwd: Qualified Immunity

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Mark Ryan and I live at 25 Nevada Road, Tyngsborough, MA . I own and operate Ryan Automotive Service located in Tyngsborough, MA. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????????????????????????????????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Mark Ryan

Good Morning Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

Thank you for your efforts on SB 2820.

I ask that you please add a requirement to make special police officers subject to public records requests.

It is vital that they too be held accountable to the public, just like any other police officer. There must be transparency in any law enforcement matters.

Thank you for your consideration,

Subject: Police Reform Bill 2820

Good morning,

I'd first like to introduce myself... my name is Sarah Sargent, I am 31 years old, living in Princeton, Massachusetts & I am a Special Crimes Detective for the Worcester Police Department. I am the proud daughter, granddaughter, niece, and cousin of Law Enforcement Officers.

I have always had a passion for social work, but as I journeyed through obtaining my Bachelors Degree in Sociology & Criminology from Suffolk University, I realized that I would have the most effective and positive impact on my community while being on the front lines, as a Police Officer.

Once on, I helped to start the Crisis Intervention Team, the Opioid Task Force, I worked directly in our poorest neighborhood with the highest crime rates, and I eventually became a Detective, solely investigating crimes against our most vulnerable... Sexual Assaults victims, Children, the Elderly, and the Mentally Disabled, as well as being one of the few specialized investigators for Human Trafficking.

Aside from work, I am approaching 10 years with my "Little" from Big Brothers Big Sisters. We were paired together before I became a police officer and she has seen me through it all. As she goes into her Senior year of college, studying Criminal Justice, I am so proud to say that she will be doing an internship with me this fall, as she hopes to continue a profession in the Criminal Justice system upon graduation.

I don't say any of this to boast, I say this all to show you a GLIMPSE of what can be accomplished in under 6 years of being on the job...Six. The good that can be done, the change that can be made, the lives that can be positively impacted, the people who can be helped.

I also say this to you so that you can understand, that despite all of these things I have listed, I write this letter to you, defeated, heartbroken, and disappointed. I never thought at any time in my career, I would consider stepping away... and especially not after only 6 years.

This Senate Bill that has been passed puts myself and my fellow Officers throughout the Commonwealth in great danger & I can promise you that, if passed, Policing as we know it will change forever. The Bill is an anti labor legislation and it removes our right to due process, collective bargaining and inserts a board that has no training, experience or background in law enforcement. We need the amendments that were filed in the senate bill to be adopted.... Qualified immunity, Due process/collective bargaining and the make up of the POSAC board.

I fear if you allow this bill to pass, we will see what has happened in other parts of the country... Officers retiring early, low staffing, uneducated applicants. And beyond that, crime rates raising, proactive policing minimized, the trust between the police and the public, wash away.

I am proud of the Worcester Police Department for always being one that goes above and beyond; setting the standards for others and always striving for excellence. We work hard, we are good people, and we love our city... and I think that easily shows in our crime rates, community outreach, & repeated positive responses to our ever-changing world.

I have read and reread the bill many times. I know for a fact that we are willing to sit down at the table and be a part of this. But this is not a bill that should be taken lightly and this is not a bill that should be rushed through.

I thank you for allowing written testimonies to be submitted for this public hearing and I hope that you will take the time to really listen to the voices coming through on them.

I love my job and I hope to continue helping people for the rest of my career... but, right now, we need you to help us. There is a better way to do this.

Thank you.

-Sarah Sargent

I have been a Quincy Police Officer for 15 years and proudly serve the citizens of Quincy. This was a job a dreamed of since the age of ten. I have held positions in patrol, school resource, detectives and various community outreach programs.

I strongly urge you to not pass this bill which will have a negative impact on my professional and personal life. I took this job knowing that my life is on the line but now to have to worry about frivolous lawsuits is difficult to accept. I am married with two children and I am scared that we could lose everything by a lawsuit filed against me for doing my job. As you are aware, qualified immunity protects police officers who are NOT violating statutory or constitutional rights. By abolishing this, police officers will be sued at a rapid rate. These frivolous lawsuits could be used as a form of harassment against officers who acted responsibly. This could cause an officer to second guess themselves and hesitate. Our jobs require split second decision making and allows no room for hesitation when your life is on the line. Please consider voting no on this bill for me, my family and all the other police officers in Massachusetts.

Subject: Reform Bill Friday 17 July 2020

Legislatures,

I offer the following for your immediate actions, put this Police Reform Bill into committee where it can be discussed equally and fairly in order to structure a "Bill" which is solid, not one that in its beginnings is roaring for amendments/changes almost immediately.

We, in Massachusetts have the great opportunity to have a snap shot of what the future will look like, ie; New York City-the prominent minority civic leaders are calling for a re-do because of a knee jerk reaction. They are not the only jurisdiction.

Several years back, law enforcement was mandated to complete an extra form when encountering the public on traffic/pedestrian stop, basically it was a state wide and to answer the question, racial profiling by police. A year or so after this began. law enforcement was told they can stop. I can not offer an explanation as to why it was stopped because, no information as to why was given. My own speculation, its was determined after totaling the numbers, there was no evidence of systemic racial profiling in a illegal or criminal manner. Has any member looked for this information and if not, why not, and maybe that information should be brought up in this discussion.

The following are some issues I see from what I have been able to gather from the Senate bill and hope the House does not follow suit;

POSA Governor's Bill H.4794 - In current form, Officers are not entitled to a Fair and Professional Process that respects Constitutional Due Process

Due Process (DP)- Failure to modify appropriately to ensure Constitutional protection will lead to lengthy litigation

- Continue utilizing the processes that have been in place for decades to ensure due process: o IA/Discipline by Chief?Independent Arbitration/Appeals?Then the Oversight POSA Board. They can then review ALL facts/investigations/facts & questions of the case.

- Revocation shouldn't be mandatory - what's point of a process if outcome is pre-determined?

- Sustained IA findings alone cannot trigger revocation - employee is entitled to Due Process and Sustained IA is simply a charging document. Process should not be instituted until discipline is final.

- Non-appealed termination cannot trigger revocation - should wait until process is finalized.

- By allowing municipalities to complete disciplinary process, Committee will receive full record to consider. This will AVOID the need for a COSTLY new bureaucracy. If Committee is going to adjudicate first, there will need to be an entirely new system created, which will be costly and infeasible in the middle of a recession/possible depression.

Composition of the Committee

- Recommending from 14 to 13-person make-up. Boards should always have odd number for appropriate voting when needed. We have been suggesting 8 LE Members and 5 Non-LE members.

- Suggestions for Non-LE: Retired Superior Court Justice, Experts in Use of Force and FA analysis and discharges and Criminal Justice Academic

- Suggested LE- Stayed with much of the Gov proposal based on largest departments and calls for service daily. AG or designee, Colonel of SP or designee, Commissioner of Boston Police or designee, Massachusetts Minority Law Enforcement Designee, Mid-size Dept. Chief. And, instead of one LE Labor Group, we are suggesting three. We want fair representation, diversity and input on the panel. Who knows the needs and reality of the men and women on the street, then the labor leaders themselves?

For the eight law enforcement members, we recommend:

- The Attorney General or her designee;
  - The Colonel of the State Police
  - The Boston Police Commissioner
  - The Chief of a Mid-sized Municipality who is a Person of Color
  - The President of MAMLEO
  - The President of SPAM
  - The President of the BPPA
- A representative from the Massachusetts Law Enforcement Policy Group
- Officers should be judged by those with LE experience - Same as Doctors, Lawyers, Nurses, Teachers, etc. You don't have independent oversight boards made of community activists to revoke certifications for any of these professions, why would policing be any different?
- Committee should not be dominated by Chiefs - must include more representation from Police Employee Orgs that know the day to day realities of street duty.
- Non-Law Enforcement Members should have experience with CJ system

Use of Force - So called "choke-holds" are currently barred by many depts, including Boston. However, any prohibition should recognize an exception for when the use of deadly force is authorized. There should be "no absolutes". We can never say never. In life or death situations, chokehold may be better than use of a duty weapon.

Accreditation: Process of standardizing policies across the Commonwealth using industry best practices. It is currently overseen by the Massachusetts Law Enforcement Accreditation Commission, which was established in 1994. If all depts. will now be accredited, then should be overseen by this Commission.

Qualified Immunity (QI): Should not be changed. This is truly a false narrative and seems to be a money grab. If a police officer commits a crime and or acts not in good faith, AS YOU ARE AWARE, they are not covered. QI is a doctrine that shields police officers and all public employees (and other governmental officials) from personal liability in civil lawsuits unless they violate "clearly established" legal principles. In cases claiming excessive force, an officer's use of force must be reasonable under the law.

I am curious why there are two standards unlike police officers who are only protected by QI in certain situations -- usually where they have to make split-second decisions in tense and dangerous situations -- some governmental officials such as judges, prosecutors, and members of Congress get absolute immunity.

As you can see throughout the Country, officer's of all ranks are retiring before they ever thought they would and not all because they had a urge to go fishing. I also have had personal conversations with law enforcement officer's in this State and they are ready to pull the plug because everything is being stacked up against them (wouldn't you). I am not saying some reform or change is not a good thing but do it in a manner that takes all the factual information into account to make respectable reform. If not it will certainly end in court.

The few thing above about amendments are not all inclusive of the issues in the Senate bill and I am sure you have heard from plenty of law enforcement so I wont get into that anymore.

I deplore you to bring everyone to the table, social distance, keep your masks on and actually meet. Have a discussion with all interested stake holders. Just do not throw those that are attempting their best to keep all our communities safe under the proverbial bus. Its the unattended consequences that do more damage, as mentioned above regarding New York City or potentially worse. This State may have some flaws but overall is better State than most.

Respectfully,

Donald Allison

Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

I am writing to submit testimony regarding S. 2820. I am very concerned with many of the provisions that could endanger police officers' lives, the lack of public involvement and transparency. Our goal for creating this new law is to make people safer and more accountable that includes everyone, including police officers. There is no reason to rush a bill based on a reaction to a political movement. We need to hear from experts. We need to hear from black and brown police officers. We need to hear from the public. Together in a timely manner, we can make significant changes that will help all our communities.

Subject: Officer Concerns for our well-being

We are writing to express our position on Massachusetts Senate bill S.2800. We support holding our public servants accountable and addressing systemic racism in society. However, the bill proposed by the Senate has been written without consideration of all parties involved. It paints all law enforcement across the country with the same brush not considering how it applies locally. We need to identify the problem using research and data locally to make informed decisions on changes to the law. Furthermore, the bill will have a significant impact on already strained state, city, and local budgets. Moreover, there are numerous unintended consequences of what this bill will do to our society that need to be discussed.

This bill creates a certification board that needs offices, a large number of personnel, vehicles, and employs its own investigators, all of which will be an enormous cost to taxpayers. We do not support the Senate's proposed system and rather support the POST system that was proposed by Governor Baker. Our second concern is the bill appears to eliminate the reserve intermittent police academy. This academy trains part-time town, city, and college police officers and sheriffs. Without this academy it will by default abolish small town and college police departments across the Commonwealth and defund many other departments. Small towns and cities will not be able to afford to hire full-time officers. These small departments are critical to providing community policing on the local level.

We do not support any changes to qualified immunity. The institution of a body camera program statewide is not practical as it is not needed in many areas of Massachusetts. This is because the vast majority of departments have very few serious use of force incidents and few if any citizen complaints. The institution of a body camera program is an unfunded mandate that does not address the costs to local taxpayers for the purchase, storage of data, maintenance, processing of court and public record requests, etc.. Lastly, a lateral vascular restraint aka chokehold should be restricted, however it should not be eliminated from use and left for those life threatening and deadly force situations.

We ask that this bill be tabled until adequate input is provided by local and state officials as well as conduct thorough research and utilize evidence based methods of instituting a wide sweeping new law. Further, an economic impact study should be completed to help fully understand the cost of all the changes outlined in this bill.

Respectfully submitted,

The dedicated Men and Women of the Duxbury Police Department.

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership.

Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP.

To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated.

SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated.

Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status.

Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers.

I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Honored Representative,

For as far back as my children can remember, they have been attending award ceremonies honoring the heroic actions of my husband, their father, Trooper Keller Williams. He is named in the 150th Anniversary Massachusetts State Police Commemorative Book as "one of the most highly decorated troopers on the State Police".

My husband has given his heart, soul, blood, sweat and tears to serving the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for over the last 16+ years. His service has taken him away from our family countless times so that he could aid in the assistance and ensure the safety of others. To say that the high stress of his job has been a hardship on my entire family would be an understatement.

We are his biggest supporters and to us he will always be our hero. The S2820 Bill not only further jeopardizes the safety and well-being of an already high risk situation, but also paints these heroes out to be villains. That is deplorable. It also speaks mountains to my very impressionable, newly registered voters, 21 and 18 year old daughters who have lived their entire lives, growing up watching these heroes risk their lives every single day, only to be stripped of their rights by the very government we elected to keep them safe.

I ask you, What is their incentive to leave their families everyday and risk their lives to serve a community, when the cost of helping could put their entire families livelihoods at risk? Who will save us from heinous acts of crime and violence if the criminals have more rights than the enforcers of the law? What will this do you the mental health of the heroes that have sacrificed everything only to be betrayed by their leaders?

I implore you to respect and protect them from the unreasonable and excessively punitive amendments (immunity) to S2028.

Sincerely, Mandi Safford Williams (wife of Trooper Keller Williams and sister of Trooper Chelsea Safford)

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. My husband, uncle and brother being some of them. Do not turn your back on the very ones who risk their lives daily to protect everyone, including those who do not have respect or care for them.

Thank you.

It would be very dangerous to the public and the economy to defund the police. So I request no Police defunding. I would however eliminate the tremendous waste and inefficiency within the department. One example is to eliminate over staffed police detail. Which is a problem that has been going on for many years. And make the Police that are there do their job. And not be on their cell phones. Another answer is to use lower paid workers to do the same job. All this waste is passed down to the consumer. Run the police department like a company that is worried about their bottom line. Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives: I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership. Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated. Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status. Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers. I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation. Sincerely,

Subject: Written Testimony Re: S 2800

Good morning,

My name is John Noberini and I reside at 6 March Rd., Wilmington, Massachusetts. I am writing to you to voice my concern again that again no public hearing was held on S. 2800 and given no other choice, I am submitting this letter as my written testimony. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my disagreement with any hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth and encourage you to vote against Senate bill 2800 submitted to the House of Representatives. It deprives police officers of Massachusetts any basic protections afforded to all other public employees in Massachusetts. It is a rush to judgment being developed behind closed doors. Issues of policing, health and human services, and race are too important to be rushed. Of the many concerns, the following in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety because police officers may become more concerned about personal liability than public safety.

The proposed changes to Qualified Immunity will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues.

Unintended and unnecessary changes to QI will hamstring police offices in the course of their duties because they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions. Officers may second guess doing what is necessary for public safety and protecting the community because of concerns about legal exposure.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse, and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and policy participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally nontransparent.

The original version of the bill was over 70 pages and had multiple changes to public safety sections of the general laws. It was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for Senators to digest/caucus and receive public comment. This process was a sham!

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased.

The Governor and supporters of the bill promised to use the 160 or so professional regulatory agencies as a guide for police certification. The senate instead created a board without precedent. The 15-member board proposed to oversee, and judge police officers includes no more than six police officers and four of those police officers will be management/Chief representatives. The remainder of the committee will be dominated by groups critical of law enforcement, if not parties that regularly sue police and law enforcement. The civilian members on the board will lack any familiarity with the basic training, education or standards that apply to police officers. All the other 160 boards include a strong majority of workers from the profession supplemented by a few individuals to represent the general public. Imagine if police officers were appointed to a board to oversee teachers licenses!! The removal or any change to Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques that all police personnel unequivocally support.

All police organizations support major parts of the bill: strengthening standards and training; having a state body that certifies police officers; banning excessive force techniques and enhancing the diversity process. Once we have uniform standards and policies and a statutory ban of certain use-of-force techniques then officers and the public will know the standards that apply to police officers and conduct that is unaccepted and unprotected by QI.

This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets.

Police Officers Deserve the same Due Process Afforded to all Other Public Employees!

Public employees and their unions have a right for discipline to be reviewed by a neutral, independent expert in labor relations - whether an arbitrator or the Civil Service Commission. This bill makes the Commissioner's decisions or the new Committee's decisions the final authority on certain offenses. We need to affirm the right of all employees to seek independent review of employer discipline at arbitration or civil service.

Thank you so for your attention to this extremely important matter.

Sincerely,

John Noberini

Subject: SB2820

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin, please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

I am the Chief of Police for the City of Northampton. I support, and many in my police department and community support, policing reform initiatives including the addition of mental health crisis responders, the addition of a POST program that creates a database of former and current police officers and that certifies and de-certifies officers, and improving training and education opportunities in the area of fair and impartial policing, the history of racism in the United States, and procedural justice.

Under my leadership at NPD, we joined President Obama's White House Police Data Initiative and committed to making policy and police data transparent. We completed the IACP's One Mind Campaign to improve how we are responding to people in mental health crisis. We brought educational courses to our agency to learn more about Fair and Impartial Policing, De-escalation, and Implicit Bias. We started the Drug Addiction and Recovery Team (DART) program, which provides follow-up harm reduction services to individuals struggling with addiction. We adopted a model policy on Use of Force that includes all of the elements in the "8 Can't Wait" reform initiative. We've changed our recruitment and hiring practices and have increased the diversity of our staff. We made these changes on our own over the past five years motivated not by outside reformers, but based on our own insight from working within the field.

I'm sharing this with you because we are a progressive department that is always striving to best serve our community by providing professional and respectful public safety services to all. While some aspects of SB2820 are reasonable, the proposal to dramatically change and potentially abolish qualified immunity for police officers and other public servants, is something that I strongly oppose. My concerns include the potential dramatic rise in the number of state court actions, the significant financial impact on municipalities, public employees working in a state of uncertainty until courts interpret the new qualified immunity language, and the increased challenge of retention and recruitment of highly qualified officers. That last concern is my most significant. In a time when very few people are seeking to enter the field of policing and when the applicant pool is already shrinking, this change has the likelihood to decrease applicant numbers even further. This would be coming at a time when we are seeing people leaving the field completely by retiring early or transitioning into new career fields after years in policing. There is a critical need for exceptional individuals with a service-oriented, guardian mindset to join the field of policing.

We embrace reform. We value the need to examine and assess how policing services can be improved. However, it is imperative that any reform measures be thoughtfully studied and that there is an opportunity for input from many stakeholders. Change is more likely to be successful if it is evidence-based and is born out of a collaborative effort.

Thank you.

Subject: Testimony re: Qualified Immunity

Dear House Representatives,

I write you as a concerned Braintree citizen and ER nurse at the Carney Hospital. I feel altering qualified immunity alienates the very people this bill is trying to represent. Scaling back policing, or scaling back the incentive to do real work, is going to be detrimental to the safety of neighborhoods already struggling. I've worked 15 yrs at Carney and have seen several young men and a few women die in my trauma room from gunshots and stabbings. One thing I have heard from families is why couldn't the police have stopped it. I'm sure the police are trying hard. I see the gang and drug units as well as marked cruisers all over the place. Doing stops, using dogs to search, and trying to get that next gun off the street. I feel, if qualified immunity is gone, proactive policing will be gone with it. Why would these fine officers who do the right thing risk their families financial future ruffling feathers and risking lawsuits? Now they can simply respond to 911 calls and process crime scenes and maybe go find a bad guy. Either way, they get paid. The last thing I want to see is increases in violence and lawlessness which I truly fear if qualified immunity is altered. Remember, any public official or officer who breaks the law forfeits their immunity. So taking this away only hurts the good officers!

Respectfully,

Keith Greener

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Dear Hon. Representatives,

The Massachusetts Senate has recently passed a massive police reform bill without a public hearing. This bill was largely authored by people who consistently oppose police services. As a constituent, I request that you take the following action before your colleges on the House side vote on any such bill:

1. READ THE BILL;
2. ASK HOW POLICE DEPARTMENTS IN YOUR DISTRICT ARE ACTUALLY PERFORMING AND THE COMMONWEALTH PERFORMS AS A WHOLE.
3. AT A MINIMUM, HOLD A PUBLIC HEARING ON THE BILL TO HEAR WHAT THE PEOPLE A BILL LIKE THIS WILL EFFECT/IMPACT.

THESE ARE VERY MINIMAL REQUESTS BEFORE PASSING SUCH MASSIVE LEGISLATION THAT HAS SUCH A HUGE IMPACT.

DO YOUR OWN RESEARCH BEFORE YOU VOTE! You have been presented with a 71-page Bill that:

- ? changes dozens of laws, creates and funds many new agencies and Commissions
- ? eliminates collective bargaining rights of police officers
- ? removes authority from City's and Town's to control their own employees
- ? removes the rights of police to monitor gang activity in schools
- ? removes the due process rights of public safety officers
- ? exposes police officers and their families to personal liability even when acting in good faith
- ? will open the floodgates for frivolous lawsuits against Municipalities and increase the cost to taxpayers to defend those cases
- ? puts the lives of police officers in danger unnecessarily
- ? creates a police licensing board that is staffed by organizations who sue our communities and advocate for the elimination of police services

Why are you considering passing such sweeping changes without a public hearing and research - what happened to transparency in Government? What happened to the voice of the citizens?

DO NOT OVERLOOK THE SUCCESS OF MASSACHUSETTS POLICING

Don't believe the misinformation about the alleged need for emergency police reform here in Massachusetts - in reality, Massachusetts is a success story on Police Training and use of force results - even according those groups advocating national police reform. Our educated police force, competitive wages and mandatory training have produced excellent results.

For example, Massachusetts is among the very best in the nation when it comes to police use of deadly force:

? Massachusetts has one of the lowest annual rates for deadly use of force incidents in the Nation - at only 1.2 incidents per million people.

? Massachusetts Cities have excellent records when it comes to deadly force - In Worcester, there have been ZERO deaths caused by police since 2013 (excluding a taser related incident which was ruled a drug overdose) - in fact, Worcester has an annual citizen complaint rate of only .0002% out of 140,000 calls for service. In Lowell, there has been only one police related death (justified) in that same time period.

? In Marlborough, where I am a police officer in the last 10 years there has been only one law enforcement related death. The shooting was found to be justified. We have an average of over 500 arrests a year and less than 100 of them each year requires any use of force. The stats of our department show that the use of force incidents are highest among Caucasian population, followed by Hispanic and then finally Black population at less than single digit percentage.

? During this span, the police have successfully handled many millions of calls for help, often involving, volatile and violent individuals, without incident.

? Most Massachusetts Towns have had no law enforcement related deaths during the tracked time period. In almost 8 years of being a law enforcement officer in Marlborough there have been zero Law enforcement related deaths.

? When anti-police groups present data of people killed by police, they include people like the Boston Marathon Bomber, and others who murdered police officers during incidents.

Before passing a bill creating new state agencies and destroy the morale and success of our public safety officers - is it too much to ask that you first take a look at how police in Massachusetts are performing? Have you looked at your own constituencies - the Towns in your district to see what needs changing, and what is working?

WHAT DOES THE PROPOSED POLICE REFORM BILL DO?

The proposed massive Police Reform Bill IS NOT BASED ON MASSACHUSETTS performance history and NOT BASED ON MASSACHUSETTS DATA.

The proposed bill will destroy the morale of our police departments, will put our officers' safety at great risk, and will expose them and their families to personal liability, will generate thousands of frivolous lawsuits to be paid for with taxpayer money, and even has provisions to pay the lawyer's fees for people who sue our communities.

For example - the legislation:

? Creates and funds at least 6 new Agencies, Commissions or Committees

? Eliminates Civil Service Protection only for Law Enforcement Officers; (Sections 41-43)

? Prohibits School Department Personnel from Providing Information to Law Enforcement regarding gang activity and affiliation; (Section 49)

? Expands the rights of individuals convicted of multiple crimes to expunge records of those crimes

? Requires that a lengthy record (receipt) be generated related to virtually any interaction between a police officer and a member of the public; (Section 52)

? Creates - but does not fund - mandates upon municipalities to gather, track, organize and report data, as well as unfunded training mandates; (Section 52)

? Creates a Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to govern the conduct of police and judge police officer conduct but - unlike every other professional licensing board - is made up of individuals nominated by groups which openly advocate against law enforcement. It would be similar to staffing the Board of Pharmacy with anti-vaccine advocates or staffing a medical board with lawyers who sue doctors. The Board of Plumbers is made up by a majority of plumbers. The Board of Accountancy is made of by a majority of Accountants. Same goes for nurses, electricians, etc. Law Enforcement should be no different and the committee that can take away our careers should not be populated with nominees that include law firms who claim to have made millions suing cities and towns and their police departments (Lawyers for Civil Rights, Inc.) or the ACLU. (Section 6).

? This bill effectively eliminates collective bargaining rights for police officers - the employees that need it most given the difficulty of their job. This anti-labor, anti-employee bill essentially removes (only for police) the right to be disciplined only where there is just cause - a right enjoyed by virtually every other public employee in our state. (Section 6)

? This bill creates a cottage industry for lawyers and another unfunded mandate upon Cities and Towns by greatly expanding liability on municipalities and officers. Under this Bill, every time a Court grants a motion to suppress evidence - because of any technical violation of the Fourth Amendment for instance - a per se violation of the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act will be created. The proposed Bill even provides for attorney fees to prosecute these actions. (Section 9). Even officers acting in good faith will be liable.

? This bill purports to regulate the Use of Force by Law Enforcement Officers without any recognition that police officers often must make split second decisions, often under extreme stress. Good faith actions will result in lawsuits and can result in the loss of a career. Even if those actions were deemed appropriate by an internal or District Attorney's review, the new committee can decide on their own to end a career. Nowhere in the bill is there acknowledgement that the reasonableness or necessity of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene and not from the perspective afforded by 20/20 hindsight. (Section 55). It is easy to make decisions in the comfort of a lawyer's office with the benefit of video, hindsight and knowledge of the actual outcome an event. The law has recognized for years that hindsight judgment is unfair and not practical for the officer who may be faced with life or death situations in the heat of the moment.

These are only a few items of concern. Passing of this bill without a public hearing by the Senate, without considering how we are doing here in Massachusetts, without considering the impact of this massive legislation, without even a thought of how it will impact that thousands of police officers and their families, is not only negligent, but will have a residual negative impact that our state and our families cannot afford.

As your constituent, I request and expect that you will represent me, and that you will do your due diligence. Please read and understand the bill. Please research how your own district's police officers are actually doing. Please hold a hearing. If you would like or need to I would be happy to discuss the issues and policing in general, via e-mail, phone (508)272-7324 or in person at your convenience.

We intend to hold ourselves accountable, and we trust that you will do the same.

Sincerely,

Resident of 105 Prospect St, West Boylston, MA and Registered voter.

Subject: Testimony re S.2820

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

I am writing in support of S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. The House must enact a similar bill as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July. I have engaged in multiple conversations on the Senate's policing reform bill in many online venues since May 25 2020.

I support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools, as municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill S.2820, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the taxpayers in their municipalities. However, if police officers engage in egregious misconducts, they should be immune to prosecution, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I trust that a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July.

Thank you for considering my testimony, and giving attention to this important priority, in addition to all the other important issues the House is addressing at this time.

Sincerely,

Chairman Michlewitz, Vice-chair Gartlick & Ways and Means Committee members,

I am writing to urge the committee to reconsider passage of S.2820. The bill was hastily written and has too many dire consequences for the citizens of the Commonwealth and for police officers. I am not against some reforms and review of current policies and procedures, but reactionary legislature, without thoughtful consideration of the complexities and consequences is irresponsible, reckless, and negligent; it does no justice for our citizens or our public servants.

I urge that you vote no for this bill, as submitted and currently written.

Subject: Written testimony for S2820

My name is John T. Clark and I have been a police officer in the State of Massachusetts for 26 years. During this time, I have seen the job change immensely. I became a police officer because I believe in the system and in protecting the citizens of the Commonwealth and visitors to the best of my ability. I have performed this job with honor and integrity, serving as a detective for 20-plus years, and I now as a police supervisor. Never once have I ever treated anyone any different related to their race, sexual orientation, financial status, or for any other reason. I treat people the way I would have wanted to have been treated if the roles were reversed. I am not a judge and have faith in the jury system, due process, the constitution, and the rights of the accused.

Having said this, I have reviewed this legislation that is being proposed and cannot believe this is the path that Massachusetts is taking, specifically qualified immunity. I feel that if a police officer does not have the protections under qualified immunity when they are doing their job in a honest and constitutionally correct manner and still have the ability to be personally sued by someone when they have done nothing wrong is alarming. This will handcuff police and from doing amazing work they already do, and honest police officers shy away from doing their job due to the fear of an unsubstantiated and frivolous lawsuits. Officers will be in fear that any action will result in a lawsuit and this will diminish the ability for victims to be protected and for communities to be safe. If an officer is constantly paying to defend themselves for doing their job, they will not be able to survive financially with the little money made doing this work. Officers do this job in the care of serving the community and making them safer for every citizen.

I do not believe that this will change the few officers in this nation who are police officers for the wrong reasons and actions obviously have effected all police by tarnishing the profession by being involved in egregious acts against other human beings. These individuals and acts make me disturbed and I question how these people ever became police officers or even why they did in the first place. Obviously for the wrong reasons. I am proud to say that the training received by police in Massachusetts is by far the best in the nation. This bill was forced through with little transparency or collaboration with police stake holders. Please consider taking the time to really study the effects purposed in the bill and how it will effect the safety of our communities.

Respectfully Submitted,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

- (1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

- (2) Qualified Immunity: Qualified Immunity does not protect problem police officers. Qualified Immunity is extended to all public employees who act reasonably and in compliance with the rules and regulations of their respective departments, not just police officers. Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously lawsuits. This bill removes important liability protections essential for all public servants. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Subject: Regarding S.2820

Good Morning

My name is Rena Lukoski and I live at 82 Hillside Circle in Hanover, MA. I write to you today with regards to S.2820. This is a bill that has become the focus of many in our Commonwealth. Most particularly, it has become the focus of Police/Law Enforcement officers, those that love them and those that support them.

I write to you as a supporter of Police/Law Enforcement Officers. When I look at S.2820 as it stands now there are pieces that are acceptable and appropriate when I think of the bill as one with an end goal of constructive Police/Law Enforcement reform. While here in our Commonwealth we have some of the best trained Police Officers in the country I do still support enhanced training and appropriate certification standards that apply to individual officers. There is always room for more training and education in any job. I also support accreditation of police departments. Certification of individual officers and accreditation of departments both help with the maintenance of high professional standards for all. I also support the proposed ban of the use of excessive force by police officers as well as the proposal that every individual officer has the duty to intervene if they witness excessive force. These parts of S.2820 seem to me to be what a bill about constructive police/law enforcement reform should aim for.

Unfortunately when I look at S.2820 as it stands now there are also pieces of it that do not provide for fair and unbiased treatment of Police Officers. Most importantly, the removal of Qualified Immunity for Police Officers is unfair and potentially dangerous. The removal of Qualified Immunity will not serve to stop misconduct of Police Officers. It will not serve to change those Police Officers who are not inherently good. It will, instead, impact the ability of Police Officers to do the job they were trained to do in a safe and effective manner. The removal of Qualified Immunity will impact good Police Officers. The removal of Qualified Immunity will also impact all public employees, even those who are not Police Officers. This part of S.2820 is not reflective of a bill about constructive police/law enforcement. The removal of Qualified Immunity should NOT be part of the final police/law enforcement reform package.

As I stated, there are parts of S.2820 that are acceptable and appropriate to be included in a bill with an end goal of constructive Police/Law Enforcement reform. The full package of the bill as it currently stands before you is NOT acceptable. If Legislation such as that tied to S.2820 is to be effective, appropriate and just for all citizens of our Commonwealth it takes time along with careful thought and consideration. Quick and rushed decision making like that which occurred in the Senate passage of this bill does not serve the all the citizens of our Commonwealth. It only served to hurt some citizens of our Commonwealth and promote personal and political agendas. I do appreciate the willingness of the House to hear from the citizens of the Commonwealth prior to beginning debate and discussion on it. Input from the public is important with regards to a bill that stands to potentially impact all of the public.

I urge you to take the time that is necessary to make the best decision for ALL citizens of our Commonwealth, including Police Officers and their families. S.2820 as it stands now is NOT just and equitable. S.2820 should NOT be passed in the House as it is currently written. I urge you to correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in Law Enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Rena Lukoski

Hello,

My name is Ashley Austin and I am a resident of North Adams, MA. I am writing to express that we need to put an end to qualified immunity. Police accountability is extremely important and the public has a right to know that when the people hired to keep us safe are the ones in fact harming our communities that justice will be served. No one is above the law. This is priority number one and a bill needs to be passed that benefits the greater good and not a group that has decided time and again that they are abusers of power.

Thank you for taking the time and urge you to think of ALL of Massachusetts residents in regard to this issue.

If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Subject: Public Hearing Statement re Senate 2820

To the House Committee on Ways and Means, while written statement on such an important topic is a poor substitute for actually verbally voicing our input as "We the People," I submit this statement in lieu of actively sharing it in a public hearing regarding Senate 2820...

The "war on cops," is a scourge on our country since the false narrative that police are the primary threat to the safety of black lives, that they are racist monsters in search of the opportunity to abuse and even kill people who are black. This "war on cops" is alive and well in the over-reaching bill the Massachusetts Senate rushed through under cover of darkness and with no public hearing.

I am Nancy Gallant, wife of a Massachusetts State Police Sergeant Rob Gallant who has 26 proud years of service to our commonwealth and his fellow citizens that has included plenty of risks assumed during 18 years at Logan International Airport where he transferred immediately after 9/11 when the risk of anthrax and the threat of terrorism in the then soft target of airports were so great. He spent 13 of his years at Logan as a bomb detection dog handler including many hours spent in the city during those harrowing hours and days following the Marathon Bombings. He fits the now-forgotten saying of our public safety heroes who run toward the danger.

Rob recently was promoted to sergeant and now works the midnight shift in A Troop, often as the shift supervisor for the entire troop overseeing a large number of squared-away, young troopers who are the age of our own young adult children. I have NEVER feared for his safety more than now, the very real figurative target on the backs of LEOs never bigger because of the false narrative of law enforcement being permanently tainted as being born out of slavery and basically a bunch of uneducated, poorly trained and racist thugs. Rob's is the same position worked by Tulsa PD's Sgt. Craig Johnson, recently shot repeatedly and killed at a "routine traffic stop" one of so many LEOs murdered in the last 2 months that I have lost count. Sgt. Johnson was backing up a young, rookie officer who survived gun shots to his head and has a long rehab road ahead but at least he isn't paralyzed like 2 other LEOs who recently survived attacks on their lives including Officer Mark Priebe who was run over by a man who woke up and decided to "run over a cop" a few weeks ago.

When Rob leaves for work, I think about Sgt. Johnson and all of the departed LEOs killed in the line of duty, many assassinated, even set up in ambushes, these intentional murders of cops being on the rise since this marxist-led BLM's false narrative against the police started. Along with all of the physical assaults happening to LEOs every single day at "peaceful protests" like the one this week where baseball bats were handed out and NYPD cops beaten, the murders of so many "good cops" are on the hands of all of those who, knowing the real stats, still feed into that "false narrative" that "all cops are [racist] bastards" and can be disrespected, attacked, beaten and killed and certainly should be stripped of any authority and protections they have to do their job.

This "war on cops" rages on right here in Massachusetts. Now, instead of acting on the opportunity to develop more training to improve already high police standards, instead of efforts to foster more positive relationships between law enforcement and the inner-city disadvantaged communities and instead of shining a light on the needs there where gang violence is destroying the lives not only of the gang members but of all of the innocent people robbed of their rights to live their lives fully, we saw in the Massachusetts Senate an inflation of the false narrative against the police and a shift that now also includes actually empowering and protecting the criminals even as the increase in crime, violence and lawlessness is destroying our country.

It isn't just possible but necessary as you show respect and concern for the black community to show respect and concern for the vast majority of law enforcement while adding more training on de-escalation and other important skills and putting in place measures to identify those who tarnish the badge.

I am not just concerned about the diminished safety of our LEOs that will only get worse with the passage of an over-reaching bill, but also the safety of my fellow citizens. No demographic will be impacted more by a weakened police force than inner-city disadvantaged communities as evidenced by the horrendous increase in crime and murder that has taken place in the last several weeks in other cities across our country as police have been forced by "democrat" mayors to stand down and their funding and protections have been stripped.

Further to that concern for the inner-city communities, as well as all of our commonwealth's youth, removing school resource officers or reducing their ability to effectively perform their duties is yet another over-reach that ignores not only the value of those SROs as a positive community connection with young people but ignores, normalizes and even seems to accept and then expunge the criminal activity of some young people in schools. That is just shocking in the backdrop of lawlessness we are all witnessing. The police are not the bad guys. Ignoring the real sources of lawlessness and crime is a disservice to the citizens of our commonwealth who respect and abide by the law, appreciate the role of law enforcement and just want to live our lives with the freedoms our Constitution provides us to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Respectfully Submitted,

Nancy Gallant

Subject: Reform Bill before House of Representatives

Good morning,

I am writing regarding the Police Reform Bill before the House of Representatives. I am concerned that it was hastily written because of current events, instead of being written clearly and unbiased for the best situation for all (citizens, first responders, etc.).

Police officers should not be judged for the actions of a few situations. I do believe it is unfair to take immunity protection away for police officers. Singling police officers out is hypocritical. Other first responders, as well as government officials and employees are indemnified. Should it be eliminated for them, as well?

There seems to be a lack of support for the positive acts (protecting citizens, solving crimes, diffusing domestic disputes, community policing, etc.) by police officers.

Please do not not vote hastily based on the current environment, but with serious thought and insight. Thank you.

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

We've seen too many times the abuses of our neighbors at the hands of law enforcement. I ask that you preserve the language creating an independent and civilian majority police body, limit qualified immunity, and reduce the school to prison pipeline by removing barriers to expunge juvenile records. I also ask that you strengthen the use of force standard, fully prohibit facial surveillance technology and lift the cap of the justice reinvestment fund. Hello,

I'm a Massachusetts resident submitting testimony for the House hearing on the police reform bill. I strongly support many provisions of the Senate bill and it is absolutely imperative that the House include these provisions in their version of the bill:

- The same limits to qualified immunity that the Senate included. This is vitally important to protect the constitutional rights of Massachusetts residents.
- Amendment 65, which bans tear gas, a chemical weapon banned in warfare.

I'm a Massachusetts resident submitting testimony for the House hearing on the police reform bill. I strongly support many provisions of the Senate bill, and in particular, I feel strongly that the House should include the same limits to qualified immunity that the Senate included.

There is now clear and abundant evidence that qualified immunity puts community members in danger by allowing police in many cases to ignore public safety, the letter and spirit of the law, and even citizens' constitutional rights. If we want our rights and our safety respected, we need our government to limit qualified immunity. Please follow the Senate's lead in doing this.

Subject: S.2820

Good Morning

My name is Nicole Poznauskis and I live at 16 Hillside Circle in Hanover. I write to you today with regards to S.2820. This is a bill that has become the focus of many in our Commonwealth. Most particularly, it has become the focus of Police/Law Enforcement officers, those that love them and those that support them.

I write to you as a supporter of Police/Law Enforcement Officers. When I look at S.2820 as it stands now there are pieces that are acceptable and appropriate when I think of the bill as one with an end goal of constructive Police/Law Enforcement reform. While here in our Commonwealth we have some of the best trained Police Officers in the country I do still support enhanced training and appropriate certification standards that apply to individual officers. There is always room for more training and education in any job. I also support accreditation of police departments. Certification of individual officers and accreditation of departments both help with the maintenance of high professional standards for all. I also support the proposed ban of the use of excessive force by police officers as well as the proposal that every individual officer has the duty to intervene if they witness excessive force. These parts of S.2820 seem to me to be what a bill about constructive police/law enforcement reform should aim for.

Unfortunately when I look at S.2820 as it stands now there are also pieces of it that do not provide for fair and unbiased treatment of Police Officers. Most importantly, the removal of Qualified Immunity for Police Officers is unfair and potentially dangerous. The removal of Qualified Immunity will not serve to stop misconduct of Police Officers. It will not serve to change those Police Officers who are not inherently good. It will, instead, impact the ability of Police Officers to do the job they were trained to do in a safe and effective manner. The removal of Qualified Immunity will impact good Police Officers. The removal of Qualified Immunity will also impact all public employees, even those who are not Police Officers. This part of S.2820 is not reflective of a bill about constructive police/law enforcement. The removal of Qualified Immunity should NOT be part of the final police/law enforcement reform package.

As I stated, there are parts of S.2820 that are acceptable and appropriate to be included in a bill with an end goal of constructive Police/Law Enforcement reform. The full package of the bill as it currently stands before you is NOT acceptable. If Legislation such as that tied to S.2820 is to be effective, appropriate and just for all citizens of our Commonwealth it takes time along with careful thought and consideration. Quick and rushed decision making like that which occurred in the Senate passage of this bill does not serve the all the citizens of our Commonwealth. It only served to hurt some citizens of our Commonwealth and promote personal and political agendas. I do appreciate the willingness of the House to hear from the citizens of the Commonwealth prior to beginning debate and discussion on it. Input from the public is important with regards to a bill that stands to potentially impact all of the public.

I urge you to take the time that is necessary to make the best decision for ALL citizens of our Commonwealth, including Police Officers and their families. S.2820 as it stands now is NOT just and equitable. S.2820 should NOT be passed in the House as it is currently written. I urge you to correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in Law Enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Nicole Poznauskis

To whom it may concern,

I am a Labor Relations Representative from United Public Service Employees Union that represents employees in Massachusetts that would be affected by the senate police reform bill. We represent dedicated employees in all aspects of service to their towns from drinking water, water treatment, to police and dispatchers. They play a vital role for their community to keep people safe. They go above and beyond in the performance of their duties each and every day, but like all of us they are not perfect. They can make a mistake, and that is why the law has protection built in for these individuals. They go to work each day using their training and licensing that they have acquired over the years to protect and serve the public but now we are talking about taking away their protection. How is this fair to these people who were recently hailed as heroes during the height of the pandemic in our state. They perform a vital role in our society and deserve your backing for their protection. This bill would not serve the greater good and would unintendedly hurt these individuals. We strongly urge you to reconsider enforcing this bill due to the impact that this will have on these dedicated workers.

Subject: Pass a Strong Police Accountability Bill with Key Provisions from S.2820

Dear Chairs HWM & Judiciary,

I urge you to pass legislation that establishes real oversight and accountability for police.

Our law enforcement system is rife with systemic racism that manifests in poignant police murders of unarmed black people, brutality and excessive use of force, unlawful arrests, and unnecessary police contact. The House of Representatives and Senate should ultimately pass a bill that ends qualified immunity in most instances, reduces and oversees police use of force, removes police from schools, expands juvenile expungement, and establishes funds to improve re-entry from incarceration.

The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

This is an urgent matter. Please pass a bill that includes at a minimum the provisions of the senate bill.

Subject: OPPOSITION TO BILL S. 2800

To the Ways and Means Committee of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

My name is John Callahan and I live in Hyde Park, MA. I am writing this letter to voice my concern that again no public hearing was held on this matter and it lacks transparency.

The people I know who are police officers are the most compassionate and caring people I know. I trust them to protect my family and community. The police departments in Massachusetts are some of the best in the country and represent what policing should look like around the country. This bill is a slap in the face to the hard working and professional police officers and their families. This bill is not reform. It is a rushed bill to pander to the few who believe what happened across the country applies to Massachusetts. It is disheartening and shows the lack of respect the politicians of Massachusetts have for their constituents.

I am submitting this letter as my written testimony. I write to you today to express my strong opposition to the hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth and encourage you to vote AGAINST Senate bill 2800 submitted to the House of Representatives. It deprives police officers of Massachusetts any basic protections afforded to all other public employees in Massachusetts. It is a rush to judgment being developed behind closed doors. Issues of policing, health and human services, and race are too important to be rushed. Of the many concerns, the following in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety because police officers may become more concerned about personal liability than public safety.

The proposed changes to QI will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues. Unintended and unnecessary changes to QI will hamstring police officers in the course of their duties because they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions. Officers may second guess doing what is necessary for public safety and protecting the community because of concerns about legal exposure.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse, and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and policy participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally nontransparent.

The original version of the bill was over 70 pages and had multiple changes to public safety sections of the general laws. It was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for Senators to digest/caucus and receive public comment. This process was a sham.

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased.

The Governor and support of the bill promised to use the 160 or so professional regulatory agencies as a guide for police certification. The senate instead created a board without precedent. The 15-member board proposed to oversee, and judge police officers includes no more than six police officers and four of those police officers will be management/Chief representatives. The remainder of the committee will be dominated by groups critical of law enforcement, if not parties that regularly sue police and law enforcement. The civilian members on the board will lack any familiarity with the basic training, education or standards that apply to police officers. All the other 160 boards include a strong majority of workers from the profession supplemented by a few individuals to represent the general public. Imagine if police officers were appointed to a board to oversee teachers licenses!

4. The removal or any change to Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques that all police personnel unequivocally support.

All police organizations support major parts of the bill: strengthening standards and training; having a state body that certifies police officers; banning excessive force techniques and enhancing the diversity process. Once we have uniform standards and policies and a statutory ban of certain use-of-force techniques then officers and the public will know the standards that apply to police officers and conduct that is unacceptable and unprotected by QI.

This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets.

5. Police Officers Deserve the same Due Process Afforded to all Other Public Employees

Public employees and their unions have a right for discipline to be reviewed by a neutral, independent expert in laborrelations - whether an arbitrator or the Civil Service Commission. This bill makes the Commissioner's decisions or the new Committee's decisions the final authority on certain offenses.

We should affirm the right of all employees to seek independent review of employer discipline at arbitration or civil service.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,

John Callahan

Subject: S.2820

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously lawsuits. This bill removes important liability protections essential for all public servants. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Emily Saucier

Subject: SB2820 Reforming Police Standards

To whom it may concern,

I am writing as a resident of Massachusetts who is concerned with the unintended consequences of many portions of this bill. I have been in public service for 15 years and have a graduate degree in Public Administration. I have also been involved in collective bargaining, grievance processes, disciplinary hearings, and observed criminal court cases involving public servants.

Since learning that the Massachusetts Senate passed this bill, I have been trying to read through it in its entirety. The bill is extensive and has widespread impacts on policing in the Commonwealth. There are also implications for all public servants in the Commonwealth. Over the course of the prior few days I have only had an opportunity to read through the bill once. I would need to read this bill again in its entirety several times and have extensive time and discussion to get a clearer sense of what the implications of passing this legislation would be. However, the deadline for public comment at this stage has been open for barely over 24 hours and ends in close to one hour. That is not sufficient time to absorb this material and understand the related impacts.

I am curious how many of you have read this bill in its entirety and understand all the related implications?

There are racial inequities throughout this State and Country that obviously need to be dealt with. These issues have come to a head over the prior 8 weeks, bringing much needed attention to the issue. However, from what I have read this bill radically changes what is already a very taxing occupation. Police officers, like fire fighters and other public servants, become a "catch all" responding to the many and varied calls for service from residents of the Commonwealth. The incidents that are responded to require a great deal of training and documentation. While the oversight and training that is described in this bill is at its core well intentioned to strip away bias and inequity, it adds a burden to police officers that is going to have long term, negative repercussions.

In addition to the burden on police officers is the issues that this creates in regard to collective bargaining, discipline, and civil service. This bill institutes a wide array of changes that represent material changes in the working conditions of law enforcement. At the local level, the impact of the changes will result in contractual negotiations becoming bogged down with attempts to find common ground with municipalities on how to implement and compensate for the sweeping changes outlined in this bill. As an example, mandating an additional 40 hours of training annually and completing a State recertification process, while continuing to complete all of the already required training for law enforcement and EMT duties is going to be extremely costly to municipalities that are already struggling to balance budgets in the face of the impacts from COVID-19. The Town of Nahant, where I reside, is barely able to address the many competing budgetary needs in a good year. This year will bring about service cuts and delayed infrastructure projects. A community like Nahant cannot absorb the costs associated with this bill. The 11 person police department in Nahant does not have the staffing to take on the additional required reporting and statistical data gathering that this bill requires.

Removing civil service from the process of discipline of a civil service employee is wrong. Civil Service is a necessary protection for employees of the Commonwealth. In addition to creating a level playing field for job applicants, and for promotional opportunities, it allows for a process to review disciplinary action. Stripping away those steps in the process creates an unbalanced system. I have seen poor employees who were correctly disciplined and discharged through this process. I have also seen this process provide a check against an individual who was abusing their public position to attempt discipline and discharge employees who were exercising their right to speak up against policies that placed the public at risk. Removing that process is dangerous and shortsighted.

This bill should not be moved forward towards legislation without a much more involved discussion regarding its impacts. That discussion must involve all stakeholders. All sides must be allowed to be heard and the public must have an opportunity to fully understand what each portion of this bill will mean for their community and their law enforcement. As elected public servants yourselves, you owe the residents of the Commonwealth that opportunity.

Thank you,

Gentlemen:

Below is a letter I sent to Rep Thomas Walsh concerning the police legislation under consideration.

To summarize, I suggested that police not be used to compromise a person's rights of self defense: Illegal seizure of firearms from legal gun owners and legal protection of the police from retribution by the officer's superior for refusing to obey an unconstitutional order.

Also, in this crazy environment I would like to suggest that frivolous complaints against police be treated as a crime and penalties be imposed on the fraudulent complainer.

Thank you for considering my ideas. I trust that the Committee enact a meaningful solution.

Sincerely,

Stanley A Hoff

Hi,

It's me again. This time with a question and opinions.

Question: In this period when police are subject to blatant criticism and abuse, why do they engage in unlawful actions against the people who would support them? I am referring specifically to the case in St Louis where two law abiding people, Mark and Patricia McCloskey, were harassed by police after they protected their lives and property against an unruly mob while armed with a rifle and a handgun. The police seized the legally owned firearms based on an illegal, politically motivated 'search warrant'. This action rendered the McCloskey's absolutely vulnerable to onslaughts by the mob. 'Only acting on orders'. That defense became obsolete as the Nazi War Crimes Trials in Nuremberg in 1945. A policeman is sworn to uphold the constitution and obey the 'Lawful' orders of his superior officers. The order was in direct violation of the 4th Amendment. Bad news.

Any law presently under consideration should have specific safeguards against confiscation of a firearm from a citizen who is threatened in like manner. There should also be protection for an officer who refuses to obey an illegal order.

There! I've said my piece.

Sincerely,

Stan Hoff

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives: I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership. Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down qualified immunity in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated. Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status. Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers. I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, and 52, as well as amend Section 63 to have more police representation. Sincerely,

Subject: In support of the current Police Reform bill

I would like to write in support of the police reform bill that is being considered. I urge you to pass the bill. While I support many elements of the bill, here are the parts that resonate most with me:

Licensing: Police officers have a job that requires a tremendous degree of professionalism and they wield great power - this should be a licensed profession. Good police officers who follow the law and their operating procedures will no doubt have no problem maintaining their license.

Allow communities to not have police officers in schools: This is a very important point for me. My daughter will be starting school soon and I am very afraid to have her attend a school with a police officer. The "tools" available to police are violence and or detention / arrest. This is an appropriate tool set for some situations, but it is completely inappropriate for a school setting. I do not want my daughter and her classmates to live under the constant threat of state sanctioned violence.

Requiring officers to intervene if another officer is using unnecessary force: How this is not already a law is concerning, so there is no time to waste in getting this passed. If I was in an airplane where the pilot was disregarding safety procedures, I would be horrified to learn that the expectation was the co-pilot would not intervene. Given that if a police officer is using unnecessary force it is illegal for the victim to attempt to stop the officer, it is clearly up to the other police officers to intervene.

On a personal note, I would like to add that the current level of police violence, blatant disregard for the law, us vs. them mentality and a shocking lack of accountability has created a situation where I am personally afraid of all police.

Subject: Opposition to 2028

I'm writing to express my opposition to S. 2820 The hard working men and women of Massachusetts Law Enforcement deserve an open hearing on this legislation. The selfless individuals who serve our diverse communities have earned the right to be heard on these issues. Forcing this legislation through without careful consideration will not accomplish what it's intended to. Improvement can always be made but the problems with regards to today's issues are not a result of policing in our Commonwealth.

Our minority communities are not calling for these changes and they will be the ones hurt most by them. Officers deserve basic protections from frivolous law suits to enable them to do a difficult and dangerous job. I fear the lack of these protections will paralyze our police and prevent them from serving our communities for fear of second guessing and the unfair liability to their families.

We need to support our law enforcement and stop treating them like the enemy. The call for this "reform" is based on lies and I hope the good men and women that we have elected will see the truth, acknowledge the facts and choose to make the necessary amendments to this bill.

Subject: PLEASE USE COMMON SENSE REGARDING THE POLICE REFORM BILL

To the members serving in the Massachusetts State Senate & House of Representatives:

I am extremely dismayed with the contents of the recently passed Senate Bill S.2820. I am very supportive of improving standards and requirements for police officers in our state so long as they are reasonable and feasible. I am not alright (nor are most people) with arbitrarily changing MGL in what is essentially an attempt to handcuff and limit the ability our 14,000+ highly educated and highly trained police officers here in Massachusetts to safely and effectively perform their jobs - which is to enforce the rule of law in a fair and impartial manner.

Make no mistake about it, the underlying premise of this rapid and sustained push for upheaving the longstanding rules, regulations and legal protections codified by statute is to discredit our hardworking police officers and attempt to make their jobs impossible to do. Massachusetts is already among the top of all 50 US states when it comes to police standards and training. California is one of the only other states that comes close to our current standard on a statewide level. We currently require all of our full time police officers - from Barnstable to Boston to Pittsfield and everywhere in between - undergo rigorous training and screening and selection regimen as dictated by the state Municipal Police Training Committee. They are required by MGL and CMR to attend an MPTC Academy program that is 800+ hours length and includes a wide ranging and thorough curriculum.

Similar to that, Massachusetts State Police troopers attend a separate residential police academy that lasts just under six months in duration and is more than 1,100+ hours in instructional time. The MSP training academy is extremely rigorous and challenging. It is among the best in the nation. The residents of our commonwealth should be extremely proud of the men and women that we currently have working in law enforcement to serve our communities on a daily basis.

As far as reform, the eye of the Legislature should focused on the bloated and mismanaged state Trial Court system - which is in desperate need of "reform". In addition to that, the various (11) state run Sheriff's Departments perform an admirable and noble job, but they are also in dire need "reform" as they operate with little to no oversight. They are each an independent state agency, each of which is incredibly expensive to operate - especially considering they all perform duplicate tasks that are simultaneously being administered and payed for by the state Department of Correction.

I am EXTREMELY concerned at the proposed legislation as it targets fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill is straight up OUTRAGEOUS and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are several areas of concern that need to be revised and addressed:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you for your consideration,

Hello,

I am writing in support of this legislation. As a member of the League of Women Voters, and in line with my strongly held principles and beliefs, I advocate against systemic racism in the justice system and support preventing excessive force and brutality by law enforcement. No one is above the law, and that includes those who enforce the law.

I urge you to support the inclusion of the following measures:

HD.5128, An Act Relative to Saving Black Lives and Transforming Public Safety, State Representative Liz Miranda bans choke-holds, no knock warrants, tear gas, and hiring abusive officers; creates a duty to intervene and de-escalate and requires maintaining public records of officer misconduct.

HB.3277 An Act to Secure Civil Rights through the Courts of the Commonwealth, State Representative Michael Day, which ends the practice of qualified immunity, making it possible for police officers to be personally liable if they are found to have violated a person's civil rights.

It is imperative that action is taken on the issue of police violence. I implore you to act and include these measures.

Subject: S.2820

Good Morning,

My name is Lori Masciovecchio and I live in Bridgewater, MA. I write to you today with regards to S.2820. This is a bill that has the attention of many in our Commonwealth. Most particularly, it has the attention of Police/Law Enforcement officers, those that love them and those that support them.

I write to you as the wife of an active Weymouth Police Officer. Years ago, Police Officers were respected and appreciated for the job they did. As the wife of a Police Officer in today's world things are different. Like all police wives, I watch my husband leave and hope and pray that he comes home safely every day. My last words to him every time he leaves are "be safe - I love you". In our world this is "normal" but not everyone lives in the same world we do, not all wives and children need to say "be safe" when their loved one leaves for work.

I also write to you as a member of a larger family - the Blue Family. This week, Wednesday July 15 to be specific, my Blue Family and I remembered one of our own, Sergeant Michael Chesna. On July 15, 2018 this husband, father, son, brother and uncle who just also happened to be a Police Officer was murdered. I will never forget where I was when I received the initial call about Mike. I will never forget where I was when I learned that news that Mike had died. I will never forget attending Mike's wake and funeral with my husband, my Blue Family and the Chesna Family. Sitting in St. Mary of the Sacred Heart Church in Hanover with my fellow police wives is something none of us will ever forget. A police wake and funeral are things NONE of us ever want to attend again.

As I noted above, S.2820 has caught our attention. There are pieces of S.2820 that are acceptable and appropriate when we think of a bill with a goal of constructive Police/Law Enforcement reform. Like many, I support enhanced training and appropriate certification standards that apply to individual officers. I also support accreditation of police departments. Certification and accreditation both serve as a commitment to excellence in training and promote each individual's and department's maintenance of the highest professional standards. Certification and accreditation also serve to enhance public confidence. Public confidence, and I might offer respect, is critical to police officers being able to do their job on a daily basis. I also support the ban of the use of excessive force by police officers as well as the proposal that every individual officer has the duty to intervene if they witness excessive force. These parts of S.2820 all make sense when we focus on the idea that this bill is about constructive police/law enforcement reform.

S.2820 has also caught our attention because there are pieces of it that do not allow for the fair and unbiased treatment of Police Officers. Most importantly, the removal of Qualified Immunity for Police Officers is unfair and potentially dangerous. Qualified Immunity, as I understand it, does not excuse criminal conduct. It is, instead, a legal protection offered to all public employees and serves as a protection against losing one's home or life savings in a civil suit. As many people know, Police Officers need to make in the moment decisions every day when they put on their uniform. If they don't make those decisions quickly enough they face the very real chance of death or injury. Police Officers CANNOT do the job they were hired to do safely and effectively if they are worried about liability. They CANNOT do the job they were hired to do safely and effectively if they are worried about losing the home their family lives in. They CANNOT do the job they were hired to do safely and effectively if they are worried about how they will support their loved ones. Is there a chance that Sergeant Michael Chesna chose not to use his weapon on the morning of July 15, 2018 because he was worried that such use would have been viewed as use of excessive force? Was he worried that if he used his weapon he could potentially lose his family's home? The answers to those questions we will never know. It does seem reasonable to assume, however, that had Sergeant Michael Chesna chosen to use his weapon to shoot Emanuel Lopes he would still be here today. He would still be here with his family who miss him every single day. Police Officers need to be able to make quick decisions and act in good faith without fearing that each and every decision they make could lead to a lawsuit against them. Police Officers who are forced to stop, pause and think about potential liability before they act are Police Officers whose lives are at risk. The removal of Qualified Immunity should NOT be part of the final police/law enforcement reform package.

As I stated, there are parts of S.2820 that are acceptable and appropriate when we think of a bill with a goal of constructive Police/Law Enforcement reform. The bill as it currently stands before you is NOT acceptable as a total package. If Legislation such as that tied to S.2820 is to be effective, appropriate and just for all citizens of our Commonwealth it takes time along with careful thought and consideration. Reactive and rash decision making do not serve the citizens of our Commonwealth. The early acts in the Senate to rush a vote on this bill and to not study pieces like Qualified Immunity further have been extremely disheartening. I appreciated those Senators who called for more time and for a closer look at the bill in order to produce a product that was fair and just for all citizens of our Commonwealth. I also appreciate the willingness of the House to hear from the citizens of the Commonwealth. Legislation such as S.2820 impacts all citizens so all of those citizens should be allowed to share their thoughts.

In closing, I urge you to take the time that is necessary to make the best decision for ALL citizens of our Commonwealth. We have some of the most well trained Police/Law Enforcement Officers in the country. They need to be able to do the job they were trained to do in a safe and effective way. I urge you to correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in Law Enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Lori Masciovecchio

Hello,

I am a resident of Boston, MA and I fully support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800). It is time to pass legislation that supports the people that live here and makes it a safer place for all residents. Massachusetts has often set the standard on "radical" and progressive decisions - like being the first state to legalize gay marriage - and I hope you will continue to set the standard by passing much needed police reforms. I hope to see this legislation pass so I can continue to be a proud resident!

Thank you,

I am writing to submit testimony regarding S. 2820. I am very concerned with many of the provisions that could endanger police officers' lives, the lack of public involvement and transparency. Our goal for creating this new law is to make people safer and more accountable that includes everyone, including police officers. There is no reason to rush a bill based on a reaction to a political movement. We need to hear from experts. We need to hear from black and brown police officers. We need to hear from the public. Together in a timely manner, we can make significant changes that will help all our communities.

Dear Chairs Aaron Michlewitz and Claire Cronin.

My name is Terence J. Downing, a 13-year patrolman with the City of Taunton Police Department. Thank you for allowing me to provide testimony on House Bill 2820. Taunton is a diverse community with a population close to 60,000 and I am proud to wear the police uniform and serve the community where I was born and raised. Police want to be included in the discussions that have a direct impact on our health, safety and livelihood. In the midst of all the debate, police officers are still being ambushed, attacked, shot at and killed at an alarming rate. We have concerns over stripping away our legal collective bargaining rights and opening to the door to allowing police officers and their families to be subjected to frivolous, nuisance and retaliatory lawsuits seeking revenge against an officer who made a lawful decision. I've raised my three children to respect and honor everyone, and they have done the same with their own children. I lead by example on the streets of Taunton along with my brother and sister officers. I ask that you listen carefully to the police officers of Massachusetts and adopt a bill that includes our concerns. Thank you for listening.

Thank you for this opportunity. I urge the Ways & Means Committee and the House to support this bill, with some revisions.

First, the language on choke holds is not sufficiently specific in order to achieve its goal of removing that as a response option. It should be amended to do so. The same could be said for the use of tear gas.

Facial recognition needs to be banned permanently.

Qualified immunity is a practice that actually reduces trust in police.

It's a simple concept - if I do not trust an officer to protect all members of the public, at all times, regardless of the situation, then there is an inherent barrier to essential trust.

Finally, the review board must be independent and any move to reduce that independence would again reduce trust.

Thanks for your attention to these matters

Subject: Support for S. 2920 and for a comparable bill in the House

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

I am writing to express support for S.2820, the Senate's police reform bill. I urge the House to enact a similar bill and get it signed into law by the end of July.

I support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers.

Most importantly, I hope the House and Senate can agree on a good police reform bill which will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

July 17, 2020

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Ernesto Andrade and I live at 13 Harrison st New Bedford, MA 02740. I work at Bristol County Sheriff's Office and am a Correctional Officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Ernesto Andrade

Subject: Support S. 2820 and Reform Qualified Immunity

Dear Chair Michlewitz, and honorable members of the Committee,

I write today in support of the S. 2820 the Reform, Shift, and Build Act. Please support a strong bill that improves police accountability, including:

- * A ban on racial profiling and racial data collection on all traffic and pedestrian stops, including ones that do not result in a citation;

- * Creation of the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to certify and decertify police officers, and to ensure that police officers who commit misconduct cannot simply move from town to town and remain officers;

- * A moratorium on the use of facial recognition technology;

- * Restrictions on the use of tear gas (which the Geneva Convention holds to be a chemical weapon, the use of which is banned in warfare) and other use of force policies; and

- * Reform of qualified immunity so that officers are no longer immune from violating our basic constitutional rights.

Most importantly, please retain the qualified immunity reform in Section 10 of S. 2820. Under current law, a plaintiff virtually cannot sue unless a previous court has found that the exact same conduct, in the exact same circumstances—no matter how egregious—was a constitutional violation. This includes situations such as the one Senator Brownsberger described in detail on the Senate floor in which officers in Massachusetts forced a woman to have her vagina searched. Civilians deserve the ability to hold police officers accountable for egregious violations of their rights.

Good morning,

I just learned that the public hearing/ email will only be accepted until 11:00am today. I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you

Subject: S 2820

Dear Representatives,

Thank you for taking the time to read and consider my input as it relates to S.2820. My name is Jessica Strasnick and I live in North Andover. I am the mother of three small children and my husband is a police officer. In addition, I have the honor and privilege of working each and everyday with law enforcement officers throughout the Commonwealth and with victims of violent crimes.

Last week when I first read the proposed bill being presented to the Senate I was in shock that members of our Commonwealth, people that were elected to make sound and responsible decisions to better our communities actually thought this bill was a good idea. That shock has turned to anger, sadness, confusion and fear over the past week. There has not been a night that I don't wake up thinking about it and worrying about the catastrophic effects this is going to have on our communities, our children and our safety.

The supporters of this bill are talking about stripping police of qualified immunity as if qualified immunity protects police and allows them to do bad things. That is not the case at all and if any of you are sitting here and believe that you should be ashamed of yourselves. The only ones that have that type of immunity are you. Qualified immunity protects GOOD police officers for doing what we as a society hope and expect them to do. Bad officers who do bad things already aren't protected and can be held liable. Our law enforcement officers need and deserve qualified immunity to properly do their jobs and protect the citizens of the Commonwealth. Please remember OUR police are who we are talking about, not those in other parts of the country. Massachusetts is NOT Minnesota.

Another important consideration that no one in favor of this bill seems to be talking about or caring about is the detrimental effect this will have on victims of crimes in our communities. Without qualified immunity police will not arrest or investigate anyone. Why would they with the risk of being held personally liable?

Think about the child rape victim who finally has the courage to report to police the years of abuse she has been living with. All the police officer has is her word. Unfortunately this is the case with most child sexual abuse cases because of delayed disclosures. Now that perpetrator likely won't be charged because if the officer can be held personally liable for arresting the perpetrator if he is found not guilty or the case gets dismissed why would he take the chance? That child's voice and safety will be taken away as a result of this bill.

We are still in the midst of a huge opiate problem. People are dying throughout the Commonwealth at an alarming rate because of these drugs. Do you think police officers are going to risk liability for executing a search warrant on a fentanyl dealer's home? Absolutely not! In the back of their mind there will always be the concern a judge may suppress what was found and they will be sued. Drugs will run rampant on our streets and people will continue to die.

Everyone is complaining about fireworks going off at all hours and want the police to get them to stop. Have you talked to any police officers about how they are being treated when they respond? They are being threatened and sworn at all these calls. If they try to stop people for lighting them off and get attacked and someone gets arrested an officer should risk being personally liable? Why should someone be put in that position?

I could go on and on. The reality is that the people who are going to be the most harmed are the people this bill is supposed to be protecting. Take a look at who makes up the majority of murder victims, the rape victims, and other serious assault victims.. day in and day out our police work tirelessly for justice for them and their families. This bill is not looking out for victims at all.

The supporters of this bill want to prohibit school officials and school resource officers from sharing gang information with police. Do you have any idea how dangerous this is for our communities? Law enforcement officers are able to prevent so many shootings and so many deaths in our communities by having this valuable information and being proactive. This information protects our communities and saves lives.

I think more training is a great idea and I am sure every law enforcement officer would agree. Training makes people better and we can always be better no matter what our job is. A think a review board could be a good idea if set up properly. The way it is written now is not the right way to do it. You are going to have a police review board made up of people that have no law enforcement background or experience? Are they going to attend a police academy? Are they going to participate in the same training as our police? Have these people ever even done a ride along? I have. I have watched how our police are treated, what they have to deal with and how dangerous the most innocent seeming encounter can actually be. Until you have the knowledge, training and experience as to what really happens you can not and should not be the person making passing judgment. When a doctor's judgment is called into question isn't his/her conduct reviewed by other doctors to see if it was reasonable? When a lawyer's judgment is called into question isn't his/her conduct reviewed by other lawyers to see if was reasonable? Why should police be treated any differently?

I can only imagine the pressure you are all receiving from all sides. The way I see it is if a bill creates such a divide in our communities from all views it is not a bill that is in the best interest of anyone. There is so much potential with a bill like this if it was done properly and responsibly. Throwing this together without any real or meaningful research or discussion is not only irresponsible but it's dangerous. This is really a missed opportunity for some real and positive change in our communities.

I urge you to take a step back and get this right because what is currently before you is far from that. Both our communities and police are depending on you to put your political motivations aside and do what is actually right for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Thank you for your time.

Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin,
I'm writing to state my opinion that Bill S2820, has many excellent sections; however, a Bill of this importance with longterm consequences, should be fully vetted, hearings held, and input from the law enforcement community enlisted. The Senate passage of this Bill, in the wee small hours of the morning, without benefit of the proper usual procedures, does not reflect well on our democratic system.
I urge you to delay passage of this Bill until it can be carefully researched, vetted, and amended as necessary.

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

It should come as no surprise that I too am hearing from my constituents through email, and many more in person, about their concerns regarding the magnitude of this bill and the timeframe with which we are expected to enact this legislation. While many acknowledge that there are positive sections of the bill, I share the concerns of many about now eliminating qualified immunity. As you know, an individual can currently access the federal court system to file a complaint against a police officer or department. We should not eliminate qualified immunity.

Additionally, I need clarification on the impact this bill has on civil service and about the appeals process on decertification. It is my opinion that we need a full vetting of this legislation and that we should take advantage of the next several months to craft a comprehensive bill where all stakeholders have the opportunity to participate.

I appreciate the time, hard work and emotion so many have expended to get to this point. I am hopeful that we will ultimately come to a fair resolution for all.

Thank you,
Tom Walsh

Re: Public Testimony Concerning the Police Reform Bill (S. 2820)

Dear Representatives Michlewitz and Cronin:

I write to provide public testimony to you, and through you to the Honorable Members of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Joint Committee on the Judiciary, regarding S.2820, "An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color" (the so-called "Police Reform Bill").

First off, I would like to sincerely thank you for opening up an opportunity for the public to provide comments to your committees regarding this legislation prior to its consideration by the House of Representatives. I respect your willingness to hear from different public viewpoints before this bill is debated by the House. I am extremely concerned and troubled by the lack of accountability and democratic process demonstrated by your colleagues in the Senate when they recently debated and passed this bill without any opportunity for public comment. Public input on legislation is essential to the success of our democratic process. On all matters, our government must live up to its foundational purpose of being, in the words of Lincoln, an institution "of, by, and for the People."

I also would like to make it very clear up-front that I have serious concerns about certain specific provisions of the existing Police Reform Bill, but that I generally support the passage of legislation to reform standards applicable to policing in our Commonwealth.

I spent forty years working as a police officer in the Town of Yarmouth up until my retirement in late 2019. I rose up through the ranks of the Department from working as a seasonal Summer Reserve Police Officer to eventually becoming Deputy Chief of Police. Essentially, I spent a great deal of time as a rank-in-file officer and then working in a supervisory capacity, so I saw different viewpoints within the law enforcement system. My son, Alex, also continues to work as a police officer in the Town of Yarmouth.

During my many years of police work, I can honestly say that I was always proud to wear the badge of a police officer, and that I constantly regarded the men and women around me as not only persons of integrity and professionalism, but also as true heroes. Police officers go to work every day not knowing if they will return home safely due to the hazards of their occupation. They work long hours and staggered shifts, often away from their families overnight and during holidays. They venture out to patrol the streets when darkness and inclement weather keep everyone else indoors. They subject themselves to enhanced risk of cardiovascular disease and mental illness due to the stressful circumstances they deal with every day. They volunteer themselves to answer the call whenever something goes tragically wrong in the normal routine of daily life which we all take for granted. Incredibly, police officers do all of this for one noble and selfless purpose - to protect and serve their community.

As someone who wore the badge and blue uniform of a police officer for four decades, these words are more than just mere platitudes. In my days of service, I responded to countless motor vehicle accidents and serious crime scenes. I was there for people to talk to when they were the victim of a crime or when they or a cherished loved one were seriously injured. And, tragically, I know what it feels like when a police officer within your own department is murdered in the line of duty.

One of the best ways to prepare officers to deal with such rigors in the field is to provide law enforcement with adequate training. For years, I worked with the Massachusetts Municipal Police Training Committee (MPTC) to train fellow police officers on issues including proper crisis intervention, the use of force, the investigation of crimes, and the prevention of cruelty to animals. In my opinion, officer training is essential to the successful performance of officers' missions. This is an area that has been seriously neglected over many years. To the extent the Police Reform Bill increases resources, support, and opportunity to better train police officers for the challenges that await them in the field, I wholeheartedly agree we need such training.

Obviously, there is also more at stake. Our state - our nation - has been profoundly moved by the recent deplorable acts of certain police officers in Minneapolis responsible for the killing of George Floyd, together with similar tragedies elsewhere. These acts were committed by bad people, people who dishonor the badge they wore and the community they swore to protect and serve, and who do not represent the high integrity of the people I was privileged to work with. Nevertheless, their acts have not only shaken our communities to their core, but also caused law enforcement to re-examine best practices.

Again, I believe training is key to help officers prepare to deal with difficult situations appropriately and to avoid tragic acts like those in Minneapolis. I also strongly condemn any act by any officer that constitutes police brutality, or the application of force or abuse of power on the basis of racial bias or any other suspect classification. There is absolutely no place for hate or bias in our society generally, much less in our police departments. And, while I trust that the horrible wrongs committed by officers in Minneapolis are rare and not indicative of police generally, that does not make them acceptable.

It is a worthy goal of the Police Reform Bill to make sure that we do everything possible to prevent racism and police brutality, and that any such incidents are dealt with appropriately. There are some provisions of the bill, such as a ban on choke holds, that make sense and should be passed. However, I also believe the Legislature should take care not to over-regulate police in the performance of their duties in the best interest of public and officer safety. Let us be careful not to overstep and overreact to current events, however well-intentioned our response. Current events bring forth a needed opportunity for reexamination and reform, and there should be a demand for the highest levels of accountability by all public servants, including our police. But, we should resist calls to defund our police or undermine their ability to properly and responsibly perform their work as professionals while in the field.

One example is the amendment added to S.2800 by Senator Jehlen, which would severely restrict the ability of local school districts to share information with police departments, even if there is reason to suspect a student is a gang member. I do not expect teachers to act as cops. However, policies like this are reckless and irresponsible. In the name of public safety, this amendment should be removed from the bill. Likewise, as a former school resource officer myself, I strongly encourage you to maintain a police presence in our schools. School resource officers perform an incredibly important function in the name of school security, and they build important bridges between police and youth. These relationships are very important in the name of restoring trust and confidence between officers and students.

Massachusetts is one of few places where there is not a certification / de-certification program for police officers. I am not necessarily opposed to the creation of such a system here, so long as it is well-composed. It goes without saying that any officer who is not properly credentialed or who falls out of favor with expected standards should not serve as an officer, whether or not there is a certification system. However, I also believe this system should rely heavily on professional expertise to make its judgments. Also, the system should be crafted such that it does not undercut existing civil service and collective bargaining rights. In my view and experience, not only does civil service generally work, it also provides important local discretion while also giving a hiring preference to veterans who have served our nation.

With that in mind, I also have concerns about the removal of qualified immunity protections for law enforcement. Right now, qualified immunity protects a variety of public employees from having to defend themselves against frivolous lawsuits and claims that are without merit. This is an important protection. Qualified immunity does not shield fundamentally bad people from real claims lodged against them for actual wrongdoing - nor should it. While I am open to the idea that our Commonwealth might need a better system to determine the merit of individual claims to make sure that wrongs are properly addressed, I also believe that qualified immunity protections should not be entirely removed for law enforcement officials in the performance of their duties.

Our police serve a critical function to preserve order and protect citizens in our society. As such, they must always represent the highest and best standards of our community. Constant reexamination of best practices, along with the adoption of reforms when needed, is a good thing. This is personally very important to me, both as a former police officer and also as the parent of someone who still wears the badge. But, police officers must not be undercut in the performance of their work. As a general matter, police deserve our support and encouragement, not our ire. While I acknowledge the need for certain reforms, I also proudly continue to "Back the Blue." I sincerely hope the end product of your deliberation will be a bill that supports these principles and of which we can all be proud.

Thank you for your consideration of these comments.

Sincerely,

Steven G. Xiarhos

Chairman Aaron Michlewitz

Chairwoman Claire Cronin

An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just Commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

I write to express my desire for you to consider some information during your hearing on the above proposed legislation. I have served as a police officer in the Town of Hanover for the past 40 years, 38 of those years as a full-time police officer. I have been the Chief of Police for the past 12 years. I am a level 3 instructor in multiple subjects (cultural diversity, hate based crimes, problem solving, community policing, juvenile issues and domestic violence) at several MPTC police academies. I hold a BA in Criminal Justice from Stonehill College (1982) and a MS in Criminal Justice Administration from Western New England University (2002). I currently serve on the Board of Directors of Plymouth County Outreach. I have presented in 2019 at the U. S. House of Representatives Office Building on behalf of Plymouth County Outreach specifically regarding community engagement and partnerships. In March of this year I presented at the Bureau of Justice Assistance Opioid Abuse Program National Forum in Arlington, VA.

In Hanover, the department similar to many other departments has adopted the principles established in the President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing. All officers have completed training on fair and impartial policing, implicit bias, leadership, procedural justice, mental health first-aid and de-escalation tactics. These specific topics support many of the principles that were established in the President's Task Force.

We have a very robust and cooperative School Resource Officer Program with our partners in the Hanover Public Schools and the South Shore Technical High School. Our partnership is guided by the legislation enacted in 2014 under the Safe and Supportive Schools Law. These officers serve as role models in our schools and community while providing safety and security.

The Hanover Police Department participates and reports to the FBI National Use of Force Data Collection Registry. The department began reporting monthly when the initiative was launched in 2019.

The Hanover Police Department is a member of Plymouth County Outreach. Plymouth County Outreach is a multi-faceted collaboration of the 27 municipal police departments in Plymouth County, as well as Bridgewater State University Police Department, working together to make treatment more accessible to those suffering from Substance Use Disorder. Each department commits to assign Outreach Officers, who will respond, usually within 12-72 hours to the residence of the overdose victim in plainclothes and an unmarked cruiser, alongside a PCO Recovery Coach, licensed clinician and/or social worker. Each department also assigns data designees to work to keep the Critical Incident Management System updated. All officers are certified to administer Naloxone and the department provides this important overdose reversal drug. The program was recognized and the department received the International Association of Chiefs of Police Leadership in Community Policing Award in 2018 for these efforts.

Through a grant from South Shore Health, P.A.A.R.I. is partnering with Plymouth County Outreach to enhance their program to launch the nation's first county-wide Hub model. The HUB model aims to assist those struggling before they reach a crisis point, and to provide outreach and linkages to care for individuals at acutely elevated risk for a variety of behavioral health concerns. The new model is designed to increase collaboration, reduce calls for service, and improve access to care for those struggling with substance use disorders, mental health concerns, and a variety of other risk factors. The model launched earlier this month during five days of training for Plymouth County law enforcement officers and field personnel (outreach officers, recovery coaches, resource and partner clinicians, social workers and others). Representatives from ten police departments outside of Plymouth County also attended the training to prepare to launch the model in their own communities in the future.

While serving on the Southeast Massachusetts Police Chief's Training Advisory Board I have supported and lobbied for improvements to police training facilities, increased course offerings and regular funding sources for essential police training. I agree with and have endorsed a fair and comprehensive Police Officers Standards and Training (POST) certification process for all police officers in Massachusetts.

In 2010, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts saw fit to eliminate the police career education incentive program, commonly referred to as the

"Quinn Bill". The elected officials in the town of Hanover worked in a collaborative manner to fund the program locally in order to maintain a well -educated, professional police department. This was a true collaboration with members of the police department bargaining unit forgoing any salary increases for a period of 3 years in exchange for continued local funding of career education incentive funding by the town. The objective has been achieved. In a department of 30 officers, 9 officers hold Master's Degrees, 14 officers hold Bachelor's Degrees, 3 officers hold Associates Degrees and 2 officers are working towards degrees.

I strongly oppose any attempts to categorically label police officers in Hanover or the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as being discriminatory or inherently bias. Attempts through legislation to interfere with the police department's ability to protect our communities or provide professional services are not acceptable. Much of the current discussion involves actions and responses which occurred thousands of miles from Massachusetts.

I am committed to efforts that are supported by evidence based improvements to our profession. If there is to be any effective change in the profession of policing, all aspects of the criminal justice system must be involved. Courts and corrections should be considered relative to any systematic change. Government must commit to adequate funding for costs associated with any requirements placed on local communities.

I believe the mission statement which was a collaborative effort of department members best describes the department's objective in the community. It provides a standard each and every officer is held to every day. Interestingly these are not new words, the mission statement was adopted in 1999.

The Mission of the Hanover Police Department is to prevent crime, preserve order, and to protect the rights, lives and property of the citizens of Hanover. We will cultivate partnerships within our community to identify and effectively respond to the diverse, ever-changing social and cultural demands. Together we will accomplish this with emphasis on integrity, fairness and professionalism.

It is my hope that as the House of Representatives debates this proposed legislation some of the important information provided by professionals in the law enforcement community will be considered and debated in an open and public forum. It is important that both citizens and members of the legislature have an accurate understanding of what law enforcement standards are in the Commonwealth. This is a debate which deserves to be open and available to members of the public as well as the profession of policing and public safety.

Thank you for taking the time to consider this testimony.

"Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin, please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color".

I stand with the Mass Chiefs of Police on this matter. There are many sections of the Bill that will have a detrimental impact on Norwell if not addressed, including sections having to do with Special Police Officers (POST), School Resource Officers, Accreditation, Qualified Immunity and training. The negative impact this will have on our profession will be catastrophic. The amount of officers that will leave will the profession will be dangerous for cities and towns never mind the recruitment will be near impossible-who would want this job?

Thank you for the opportunity to weigh in with our concerns and recommendations and hope that you would give due consideration to what we has been proposed and outlined in more detail with the Mass Chiefs of Police letter. It is truly a critical time for Public Safety.

Sincerely,

Chief Ted Ross

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership.

Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated.

Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status.

Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers.

I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Sincerely,
Robert Aufiero

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820. An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

Subject: Immediate attention for bill S.2800

Dear Aaron Michlewitz and Claire Cronin,

?I am writing in great opposition to Bill S.2800. I believe this bill was hastily thrown together in an attempt to please protestors. I fully believe there is always room for reform and the actions of a few cops have been despicable, but this bill will not solve the problem. Not to mention, it not only negatively effects police officers, it also effects fire fighters, nurses, educators, etc. I am disgusted by the lack of respect the men and women who put their lives on the line are receiving from politicians. Do you not remember when Barack Obama praised the Boston Police Department?

Below are three issues that need to be revisited and rewritten.

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants. Due process and the appeal process are fundamental rights for all US citizens. You cannot take this right away from one job sector.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

(4) Schools can no longer give information about students to law enforcement officers. Youth spend majority of their time in schools, so teachers learn a lot about their personal lives. Sometimes they learn things that must be reported. Taking this option away from educators can put the teachers and youth at risk.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2800 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Caitlin Byrne

Subject: S2820

Dear Honorable Committee Chairs:

I am a resident of Hudson, MA and I oppose the Senate bill that was passed with regard to police reforms. It is not a reform bill it is a dismantling of law enforcement in our communities and it will make communities unsafe.

Just a mere 8 weeks ago we were applauding our first responders for working through a worldwide pandemic. We were requesting they drive by with their lights and sirens on to lead "Happy Birthday" car parades during stay at home orders.

Unfortunately the vast majority of our judges and elected DA's act more like criminal advocates than part of the criminal justice system. There is no telling how damaging or far reaching this legislation could be. Below are some issues to consider related to actual Law Enforcement issues. Bills like this will result in more violence, lower quality policing, and greater divide between police and the community.

BILL:

Allows a person to institute and prosecute a civil action for injunctive and other appropriate relief for infringement upon their rights by a person acting under color of law.

Specifies that qualified immunity shall not apply to claims of monetary damages under the Massachusetts Civil Rights Act unless no reasonable defendant could have had reason to believe that such conduct would violate the law.

Consequence:

The consequences of this portion of the bill reach beyond our streets and into the court rooms. When someone envisions a civil rights violation they picture Rodney King being arrested in the street. They don't think of a gang member stopped for a legitimate reason. Having his vehicle towed because the registration is expired. Then subsequently being charged with the illegal large capacity firearm located under his seat during a motor vehicle inventory prior to towing.

Unfortunately when a judge decides that the towing of the vehicle may have violated department tow policy for some reason the inventory is invalid or dismissed. Now the firearm, which is still very real, is lost and the charge disappears. It used to end there....cops lose in court, the defendant is not punished, and the gun is off the street.

Under this new Bill however, it appears the Officer may be "per-se" guilty of a civil rights violation for search and seizure. That individual officer, back-up officer, or supervisor may now be liable for "appropriate relief" all because a judge disagrees with the towing of a vehicle. Further cops will now push ADA's for enhanced prosecution of formerly "dismissable" violations. Charges like resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, and A&B on a police officer were all likely to be dismissed based on the severity of the act or resulting injury. Now it is unlikely any officer will agree to have charges dismissed, especially when force was used, and potentially expose themselves to financial liability. Unfortunately this will likely affect those members of the community this bill seeks to protect at a much higher rate.

BILL:

*Clarifies that a person may petition for expungement of more than 1 record pertaining to certain charges or cases that occurred before the person's twenty-first birthday.

- Allows a person to re-file a petition for expungement if such petition was denied before the effective date of this act solely because the petitioner had more than 1 record as an adjudicated delinquent or adjudicated youthful offender or of a conviction.

But.....

- Requires the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to maintain a publicly available searchable database containing information about a law enforcement officer's appointing authority and certification status.

- Requires the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to maintain a publicly available searchable database containing de-identified information about complaints filed against individual law enforcement officers.

Consequence:

This is simply the concealment of criminal records and exposure of non-criminal complaints against officers. Cops are criminals and Criminals are not. This is also a nice response to the likely outcome of the previously discussed portion of the bill. While now more likely to be charged with crimes those individuals can also have them expunged from their record. All it means is more court/overtime/waste and fundraising for the criminal justice system. All on the backs of minority communities. In addition if there is a database the likelihood of bad actors and paid activists to assert a complaint against individual police officers will skyrocket in an attempt to remove as many of them from serving the public as possible in this climate of defund the police. It is a back door way to accomplish that goal.

BILL :

- Requires law enforcement officers to record statistical data whenever a person is stopped and frisked or searched.
- Requires a law enforcement officer to provide a receipt after a stop of a vehicle or pedestrian that did not result in a citation.
- Requires a police department to do a quarterly review of each officer's stop and search documentation and the entire department's stop and search data.

Consequence:

Any legislation regarding motor-vehicle stops has a direct effect on proactive policing and the seizure of Drugs and Guns. Restrict or hamstring police in the use of interdiction stops and you will see an immediate rise of gun violence and violence specifically related to gangs and drugs. Increased liability and rumored "per-se" civil rights violations, if seizures/searches are dismissed in court, will destroy violent gang suppression and VICE Narcotic units.

For politicians and wealthy communities this rise in violence will only be seen on TV. For those, largely minority black/hispanic communities, the violence will be in their neighborhoods taking their children. This is seemingly a simple concept but not the only unintended consequence for poor minority communities.

The legislature has also sought to eliminate the "verbal warning" from the tool belt of Officers. As the assault on officer discretion continues this is another element of the bill that is completely ill conceived.

-Minority Black/Hispanic communities account for some of the poorest areas in our State. Poor people drive older model vehicles.

-Those vehicles are more likely to have a broken windshield or rear view mirror, no blinker, headlight taillight out, no blue tooth capability. The people living in those communities are also struggling to pay for vehicle registration, inspection stickers, and license fees. All are reasons for potential stops.

-Now those stops under new legislation will require detailed paperwork and a receipt. The recourse for officers, to protect themselves from unfounded complaints, will be to issue a citation and allow the operator to fight it in court.

-As tickets pile up on drivers from poor communities they see their licenses suspended and are now subject to arrest while simply driving to work to pay their tickets.

How is this helping? It is a nice fundraiser for the state and Courts though.

You're seeing the direct effects of this in New York City as the city spirals into chaos, infants and children in minority neighborhoods shot and killed, all to further a political agenda. Now we're seeing leaders of the Black community asking for those units disbanded by the Mayor of NYC be reinstated so halt the bloodshed. Is that what we want for Massachusetts? I know it's not what I want to see as someone who resides in one of the poorer communities in Massachusetts.

Who will want to be a police officer if our lawmakers continually make them the scapegoats and villains? I have many friends who are officers and family members. They want out and they're the good ones. They're going to bide their time, avoid making any arrests, and retire or find a new career. Enough is enough. Every person with an ax to grind and those with political motives will sue cops indiscriminately.

If you pass this, which I plead you not to, include a database of those individuals that sue every police officer so that the officers know what they're dealing with. If you don't I can assure you one will be created by the officers themselves since these are personal civil lawsuits. I guarantee you it will be the same names over and over. This will also open up the ability of officers to sue the people they arrest if they are injured as well. It's a double edged sword.

Officers are acting on behalf of their communities i.e. "the state". They can't afford to pay for "malpractice" insurance like a doctor who can add it into the cost of doing business and pass that on to insurance companies. Officers do not make a lot of money. This bill also takes qualified immunity away from firefighters, EMT's and nurses. What a way to treat those individuals on the front lines of a pandemic. It's so disheartening.

I ask that you reject this ill conceived bill and maintain qualified immunity for our police, fire, EMT's, nurses and all of those folks that are serving our community and trying to make it a better place to live for everyone.

Sincerely,

Subject: S.2820 Testimony

Dear Chairman Michelwitz and Chairwomen Cronin,

Please allow me to introduce myself. My name is Mark Benoit. I am the father of three, a husband and a brother. I spend many of my off hours working with the youth of my community. I have been a Police Officer for twenty years and I am the Vice President of the Grafton Police Alliance, the union that represents the Patrol Officers and Sergeants of the Grafton Police Department. I am writing to you on behalf of the Men and Women of the Grafton Police Alliance. Thank you for allowing us to be heard.

This legislation is attempting to fix a problem that we do not have in Massachusetts. Let me explain further. To the best of my knowledge the last time a Massachusetts Police Officer shot an unarmed person was more than 40 years ago, June 21, 1979 to be exact. That Police officer, Hiram Estremera, was prosecuted and sent to State Prison. I have attended the Police Academy and yearly in-service training for approximately twenty years and I can tell you that in all my years on the job "chokeholds " have never been part of the training and is not an approved technique. Moreover, I do not know of any incident in which a Massachusetts Police Officer used a choke hold. What has been part of the training is dealing with the mentally ill, Procedural Justice, Use of Force and De-escalation...

While on the topic of De-escalation, this is nothing new. When I was starting my career in law enforcement in the late 1990s it was called Verbal Judo. But there is one important factor, both the Police Officer and the suspect must both de-escalate for it to work.

This Bill will also severely limit Qualified Immunity leaving Police Officers personally liable. It is unreasonable that Police Officers be held personally liable for split second decisions made in the line of duty. This will result in officers hesitating and putting themselves and the public at risk. The Supreme Court has ruled that the Police have no duty to protect individual citizens, therefore why would any intelligent Police Officer put themselves in harms way, due the right thing and lose everything to a civil lawsuit, when there is no liability in inaction.

Another major issue with this Bill is the lack of due process for Police Officers facing discipline or decertification. Police Officers like all public employees are entitled to have a fair, reasonable and objective investigation into any accusations of wrongdoing. This includes the ability to appeal any decision to a neutral arbitrator. This bill removes these basic protections afforded to all public employees.

S. 2820 creates the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee. This in itself is not an issue however; this Bill will create a Licensing Agency that will NOT be made up of a majority of industry professionals. Massachusetts has various Licensing agencies and boards for many trades and occupations and they are made up of professionals from their respective occupations with a minority stake on such boards made up of lay people. 2820 does just the opposite with the overwhelming majority of the 15-member committee having ZERO experience in policing. This would be like having a Police Officer make up the majority of the Board of Registration in Medicine, or having Landscapers in charge of the Board of State Examiners of Plumbers and Gas Fitters. It makes no sense whatsoever.

I can tell you that in more than 20 years as a Police Officer I have never seen morale this low. Every Police Officer I know, myself included, is talking about retirement or contemplating changing careers. The Police Reform Bill is nothing short of an attack on Police Officers and it will be those we serve and protect who will be most affected.

Respectfully,

Mark Benoit

Representatives;

I'm writing in support of the Police Reform bill passed in the Senate yesterday, S.2800. I urge you to pass this through the House as soon as possible, and get it through a conference committee and signed by Governor Baker by the end of July.

I particularly support the Senate bill's approach to the creation of a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limits on use of force, the duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct by another officer, banning racial profiling and mandating the collection of racial data for police stops, civilian approval required for the purchase of military equipment, the prohibition of nondisclosure agreements in police misconduct cases, and allowing the Governor to select a colonel from outside the state police force, as well as all of the provisions requested by the Black and Latino Legislative Caucus. These reforms will be a very important step in lessening the disastrous effects of systemic injustice in the treatment of non-white minorities in the Commonwealth.

I support allowing local Superintendents of Schools, not a state mandate, to decide whether police officers (school resource officers) are helpful in their own schools. Municipalities should be able to make this decision for themselves.

I also support the Senate bill's small modifications to qualified immunity for police officers. Under this bill, police officers would continue to have qualified immunity if they act in a reasonable way, and they would continue to be financially indemnified by the tax-payers in their municipalities. Police officers should not, however, be immune to prosecution if they engage in egregious misconduct, even if case law has not previously established that this particular form of misconduct is egregious.

Most importantly, I hope a good police reform bill will be enacted by the end of July. Thank you for giving attention to this important priority, along with all the other important issues the House is addressing.

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

I write to you in support of S.2800.

Blacks, indigenous, and people of color suffer systemic racism in our society, including in Massachusetts. The police is one of the primary tools used to enforce white supremacy against BIPOC. The video of George Floyd's murder at the hands of a police officer is example of police violence against Blacks.

The only way this violence will stop is for the government, who is the organization responsible for the police, to set new rules and stop this violence. S.2800 is a start to prevent the use of excessive force and brutality by law enforcement.

I also urge you to include the following measures in the comprehensive bill:

HD.5128, An Act Relative to Saving Black Lives and Transforming Public Safety, State Representative Liz Miranda

<[HB.3277 An Act to Secure Civil Rights through the Courts of the Commonwealth, State Representative Michael Day which ends the practice of qualified immunity, making it possible for police officers to be personally liable if they are found to have violated a person's civil rights.](https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=https-3A__www.facebook.com_voteliz_-3F-5F-5Ftn-5F-5F-3DK-2DR-26eid-3DARAoqrvxbqxcHkbaGFFDal2duSLy5lzQwskyvWjSckN0ysQRjD-5FhYuVo9hUS8qQ7GsXpQxRtDfuqyFxu-26fref-3Dmentions-26-5F-5Fxts-5F-5F-255B0-255D-3D68.ARCpDWxSSsBCAr4mlQWUG89eamUATJiOejOVVzTb-5Fh5TYPotPwTxxZ2JtqfZoMTFI-2D1fSGgJE-5FAdM69hnlW0GxpWGCmB-2DDeQIkK4gMQFDv9KdbZTqybbTQab81GKdWQqCJl6NpVz0rWrm5Tat7OE-2Dj1U99acZZdP8YctIDWcI-2DQfxYjvYfn5aO-5F-2DtZqgE1N7OCvfaYTnFPi6&d=DwMFaQ&c=1DF7oMaPKXpkYvev9V-fVahWL0QWnGCCAfCDz1Bns_w&r=uoevGInjCfTlguYncQubxpi5R6db_gq1YmKr0SCk2EnIiu k13zIs16rchf_GkGDD&m=sYiWt-LfFIiltOeSJDgOsmCCiDjqnKBlxGVPW0kX-es&s=E9Ah_AJh5hYcE1lFWuPL_hDYscq4M1cjmW7zv3Ifh04&e=> bans chokeholds, no knock warrants, tear gas, and hiring abusive officers; creates a duty to intervene and to de-escalate and requires maintaining public records of officer misconduct.<div data-bbox=)

I am a constituent from Stow, MA. I have grave concerns about the passing of bill The Act to Reform Police Standards S2800 as it stands. I don't believe it will have the effect you would like and believe it will have unintended consequences.

I have worked in poor neighborhoods of Dorchester, Mattapan, and South Boston. At that time, the wonderful residents I visited in their homes to help take care of their children, would let me know that they didn't feel it was safe to take their children to the playgrounds. Not because of police, but because of gun violence. There were in fact shootings during the day at the playground, BEFORE police were called to the scene. People at that time were asking for more police and I remember people being upset that police "wouldn't come into their neighborhoods".

Passing this bill without qualified immunity will most certainly turn good people away from becoming police officers. Many people would not want to put their families and livelihood that they have worked so hard for put at risk over a frivolous lawsuit. We have good samaritan laws to protect those who administer CPR. I think police officers who are trying to help should be extended this same privilege. I am sure you understand the importance of this as you have absolute immunity.

Our country is based on due process. Innocent until proven guilty. This does not matter if the person is a police officer or not. Improving and being more stringent so that EVERYONE gets due process is the answer, not removing this right for police officers.

I respectfully ask that you do not pass bill The Act to Reform Police Standards S2800.

Respectfully a consistent voter,

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership.

Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP.

To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated.

SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated.

Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status.

Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers.

I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation.

Sincerely,

Mark Farrell

Representative Claire Cronin, Chairperson, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Hello, my name is Laura H. Pawle with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 159 Concord Ave., Cambridge.

I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- * Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism

- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

The time for action is NOW. Thank you very much.

Subject: Strong Opposition to many parts of S.2820!!

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Subject: S 2 8 2 0

Dear Representatives,

I thank you for your time and diligence in this matter. This is the most important bill, which needs the most attention and consideration in our recent history. The unintended results from this law will impact not only law enforcement, but all of our communities, and most importantly our children's futures. I write to you not only as a diligently voting constituent, but also as a first generation proud immigrant, US Marine Corps Veteran and Law Enforcement professional for over seventeen years. My training and experience spans years of service honorably enforcing the law in the Armed Forces, Federal facilities, local Massachusetts Police Departments and now Massachusetts State Police for over nine years. I take immense pride in serving my community and this great Commonwealth of ours.

Aside from the key concerns outlined in detail below, I fear that these laws will dramatically impact all of us in ways that could be irreversible. The reason it strikes such fear into me is that ultimately everything boils down to dollar signs. For years I have seen chiefs of police and colonels beg and plea for appropriate funding for training, equipment, and recruited personnel. Each and every year the police budget line item has been on the chopping block. Whenever there was a cut to be made, police departments suffered that loss. Not only lacking appropriate training and equipment funding but being stripped of what was already insufficient. Under Gov. Patrick, MSP did not see a Recruit Training Troop in 6, SIX years!! That sacrifice and burden ultimately fell on the shoulders of the rank and file, but the commonwealth as a whole suffered and continues to pay dividends for those decisions. Fast forward to 2020 and we are hearing cries to "Defund" the police, when images of inappropriate training and tactics are clearly displayed on national media and social platforms. Please keep in mind that as all of our United States are independent and sovereign jurisdictions, those departments thousands of miles away are also far from the quality of police we are so fortunate to have serving us here in Massachusetts. If as proposed S 2820 goes into law, we will absolutely see drastic deterioration in the quality of police services, quality of personnel seeking the profession and most importantly immense deterioration in all of our safety. Simply put, look at what is happening in New York. If you disagree and say, "That's New York, it will never happen here." Then please subscribe to the same logic and say "That's Minneapolis, it will never happen here!" We as law enforcement professionals feel this fear, not only because we suspect that the aforementioned negatives will come true, we wholeheartedly know they will. We work these streets, we live in this environment each and every day, and not simply through the camera lens of the local TV News station.

Having spoken to several professionals in the insurance industry, it is very clear that police officers already have a difficulty obtaining home owner's policies, since some companies will not insure them simply because of the risks and liabilities that come along with the profession. Here we have those that put on a uniform and go out into the night serving and protecting our communities doing an honorable job, but yet they struggle in obtaining insurance for their homes where their loved ones lay their heads. How unfair and quite honestly disgusting is that? If Qualified Immunity is altered in any way, NO INSURANCE COMPANY WILL COVER Law Enforcement member's home policy. Now we are stripped from the right to own a home in this great land and our pure pursuit of happiness. The insurance wholesalers are licking their chops at the bit to sell additional liability policies to officers at $7,500/ year for 1 Million in coverage. Some of us already struggle with putting bread on the table and now have to worry about yet another expense that will be inevitable if S. 2820 passes unchanged and we public servants lose Qualified Immunity. If my personal liability insurance expenses do not tug at your heart strings, I assure you that frivolous suits will not stop at simply taking my house and property, they will continue to pass that expense onto the cities, towns and the state when they go after all of our tax dollars.

I believe in good police service and know that accountability is absolutely necessary within our profession. Peace, Safety, Equality and Justice are all stitched into the fabric of every civilized society and we as citizens of Massachusetts should absolutely strive for same. What I cannot understand is that S. 2820 is calling for Equality and Accountability through MSP construction detail assignment procedural changes. What does Construction Details and Safety have to do with racial equality and police accountability? The sly tactics of union busting and stripping bargaining power from associations through maniacal laws is absolutely sickening. Again, allow those that do the job, and live in the environment 24/7 <x-apple-data-detectors://1> continue to service the commonwealth, and not a civilian agency that has no business in law enforcement. This agency will simply incur another needless and careless expense.

Sir Robert Peel, the father of modern policing wrote that "Police are the Public and the Public are the Police". We are the public, we are citizens of this great land and we deserve the same rights under the constitution as anyone else. We as public servants deserve due process and should be treated with the same justice as anyone else being "accused" of improprieties. Why should we pick and choose who deserves protection under the law? Are we all not created equal? With that said, when cases go to trial, the defendants are judged by jurors of their peers. When Law Enforcement members go before a panel of POSA, it too should be their peers in Law Enforcement that do the job, work the streets, walk the beat and serve the community.

We, as the voting public, tax paying residents watch the actions of Beacon Hill. We take note of what happens up under with careful examination, since we understand that it effects us a great deal more than what happens on Capital Hill. Please take note of my points within this communication, to include the detailed explanations below when you draft the house version of the bill.

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. Subject: Police reform

To whom it may concern:

As a lifelong resident of Massachusetts I would like to express my displeasure with the current police reform bill that was passed through the Senate. While I do not oppose A reform of the police and criminal justice system, the amendments laid out before us would more negatively impact our communities than provide positive change.

Specifically taking away qualified immunity for police officers will result in those officers being afraid to take proper action while enforcing the law. Please officers will be deterred from doing proactive work which will result in an increase in crime across the state. Qualified immunity does not protect an officer who violates the law while conducting his or her duty. I believe that there needs to be open dialogue between the state and police unions across the state in drafting a better proposed reform bill.

As a RN I had to obtain a college degree in nursing, take and pass a national standardized test and every year since take required continuing education credits.

We require similar paths for doctors and teachers.

I think it is time we require police officers, of all ranks, to do the same.

Subject: S2820 SHOULD NOT PASS!

My name is Judie Flynn and I live at 43 Kelly Way, Canton, Ma. My phone number is 617-412-7073 and I am not part of any organization. I am a private citizen expressing my dissatisfaction with Bill S2820.
1) This conversation is too important to "rush" into without proper AND extensive debate and dialogue. Public hearings are part of our democracy and the idea that an email received by a certain deadline provides little opportunity for the public to be heard on this issue.

2) While I agree there is room for a discussion on policing improvement, this bill simply goes too far. We should respect those that put themselves in harm's way every day and afford them the same Due Process as every other citizen.

3) Ironically, this bill will MANACLE the very people who have been hired to protect and serve our communities.

4) The POSAC (Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Commission) would be made up of far too many lay people (especially because those appointed would be from historically anti-police groups). In my opinion, POSAC should be made up of only other law enforcement members. Would a surgical review board involve a bookkeeper to determine if a surgeon did or did not perform correctly? To think that members of the general public could put themselves in the officers' positions on the streets and dictate what the proper response should be is outrageous and ridiculous!

5) Finally, the most offensive part of this bill changes the "Qualified Immunity". If officers are going to be held personally responsible, there will be a mass exodus from law enforcement and far fewer candidates to replace the departed. Officers that remain on the job will be restrained and therefore reluctant. This bill will seriously undermine public safety by limiting police officers' ability to do their job. Crime WILL GO UP and our communities WILL BE LESS SAFE.

There is no doubt that the events surrounding George Floyd horrified our nation but this bill is an attempt to "punish" all of the great men and women in law enforcement for the bad act of one.

I urge you to vote AGAINST S2820.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

Subject: Senate Bill S2820

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

I ask that you support amendments 114,116,126,134,129, and137 to the Senate Bill S2820. The amendments deal with due process and fair representation on the board as well as uniform accreditation standards. I support enhanced training and appropriate certification standards and policies that promote fair and unbiased treatment of all citizens, INCLUDING POLICE OFFICERS. The original version of the bill undercuts collective bargaining rights and due process. These amendments are an attempt to improve the bill in these areas. They do not lessen the training protocols and standards or general accountability for law enforcement as originally proposed. Thank you for your time and consideration.

These are the important points that I would really like to highlight and bring to everyone's attention:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety. The false narrative that QI prevents the public from suing Pos and holding them accountable which dominated the senate debate masked provisions in the bill which will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues. Not only will the unintended and unnecessary changes to QI hamstring police offices in the course of their duties due t the fact that they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions but hidden in the bill are various provisions which will protect drug dealers, human traffickers, gang activity in minority neighborhood schools ,organized retail theft and terrorists.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and professional participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally non transparent. The original version of the bill was over 70 pages, had hundreds of changes to public safety sections of the general laws and sound public policy sections ,it was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for the members to digest/caucus and receive public comment thus creating a process which was a sham.

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased. The senate created a board that is dominated by groups who have stated anti law enforcement biases and preconceived punitive motives toward police. The board as proposed is unlike any other of the 160 professional regulatory boards in the Commonwealth that the Black and Latino Caucus and its individual members as well as the Governor repeatedly and publicly stated should be used as the example of the model o be use. Its composition is fundamentally incapable of providing regulatory due process. Furthermore, the proposed members are completely devoid of sufficient experience in law enforcement to create training policies and standards unlike members of the other 160 professional boards.

4. Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques which all police personnel unequivocally support. Once we have uniform standards and policies and the statutory banning of use of force techniques both the officers and the individual citizens will know what is reasonable and have a clear picture of what conduct is a violation of a citizen's rights and that conduct cannot be protected by QI. This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets. Police officers are already subjected to suits and suits that are successful when their conduct warrants it. There is no legitimate need to change the law particularly when we get uniform standards

John Gilmore

Subject: Important House Vote

Good morning Representative Mahoney,

We just wanted to send our thoughts as taxpayers in your area, We feel very strongly about the Criminal Justice Bill that is presently in the House. The bill as it is worded now is going backwards for our brave law enforcement professionals who protect our community. We are fortunate to have extremely intelligent and highly trained professionals that go out everyday and put themselves in harms way so that the community can live without fear. They leave their loved ones at home and their families have to pray that they make it home safely. They do this because they love their careers and the community that they protect. The law enforcement community has made great strides and now a lot is at stake. Massachusetts has the best trained law enforcement officers in the country and the issues that have taken place in other parts of the country are unfortunate and deplorable that do not happen here where the officers are partners in the community. These officers have made partnerships with the young disadvantaged youths who need it the most. To take away some of the tools that have been achieved like qualified immunity without due process or collective bargaining is anti labor union and we feel that taking a knee jerk reaction would harm all taxpayers in Massachusetts and it is not the democratic way. If the bill pass as it is written law enforcement as we know it will change and not for the better. We ask that you and your colleagues take all the time that is necessary to make an intelligent and informed decision. To pass a bill of this magnitude without due process for all citizens of this state is a mistake that will have long standing repercussions for years to come. So please take your time with this extremely important decision that will impact ALL citizens of Massachusetts.

Sincerely,

Subject: 1199SEIU S.2820 Testimony

July 17, 2020

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

Thank you for the opportunity to testify on S.2820, An act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair, and just Commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color. We are committed to working with you and all stakeholders to ensure we pass meaningful police and other reforms furthering our goal of racial equity.

As frontline healthcare workers, we are committed to delivering quality healthcare services to all people and to eliminating social determinants of health based on what one looks like, how much money one earns, and where one lives. We know that racism is a public health crisis.

Consistent with our mission, 1199SEIU is committed to building a racially, economically, and just world. We advocate for policies and investments that will help dismantle racism and end police brutality that has threatened Black lives. We support and advocate for policies that are centered on Black voices and experiences.

We have developed several principles on reform efforts that reflect both our member's lived experiences as a multi-racial union and the concrete policy priorities of organizations and coalitions led by communities of color and elected leaders of color. These principles informed our support of S.2820 and shape our policy priorities for the upcoming House debate.

In this moment, we must accelerate transparent, accountable police reform, which includes:

- * Establishment of a strong, statewide police certification, de-certification, accountability and oversight process
- * Statutory limits on use of force including, banning of choke holds
- * Require independent investigations of deaths and injuries resulting from officers
- * Limiting police use of face surveillance technology until the state enacts regulations
- * Reforms to qualified immunity, including redefine the standard of clearly established law
- * Expand youth expungement

Further, it is critical for us to increase community voice by ensuring any laws or reforms enacted are reflective of the demands of communities of color and Black lead organizations that have historically led this work and to help create and support spaces for communities to impact on-going systemic reforms.

We understand there is much debate on the impact of this bill on public employees and collective bargaining rights. During Senate debate we were supportive of the clarifying amendment adopted to ensure indemnity protections remain for public employees and continue to be supportive of this provision. We do not believe the potential limited impact on collective bargaining rights outweighs the urgency and necessity of passing these reforms. The impact of inaction on our Black and Brown lives is far greater—we must make difficult decisions in the pursuit of justice and equity for all.

Again, thank you for your time and careful attention to these critical and urgent issues. As always, we are ready to work with you to ensure any final bill moves all of us towards our shared vision of an inclusive and just Commonwealth.

Sincerely,

Tim Foley, 1199SEIU Executive Vice President

Subject: S.2820

Good morning,

I'm not going to copy and paste a paragraph or two like I'm sure thousands of your constituents have done, and like I've done for other "battles" I've been passionate about.

What I am going to do is ask you, with all of the respect in the world, to reconsider all aspects of S.2820.

I've always had the utmost respect for those in public service, especially our police officers. I told myself I would never marry one (or active military) because I couldn't help thinking, "what if something happened, and it left me raising children all on my own? It left my children without a father?" Well, I'm sure you know this by now, but you can't help who you fall in love with. So yes, I married a police officer (and Veteran). He has worked incredibly hard since well before the day we met. He currently serves the city of Revere as an officer in the Criminal Investigation Division as well as on the North Metro SWAT team (the team, if you recall, that was able to apprehend Dzhokhar Tsarnaev after the Boston Marathon Bombings).

Parts of S.2820 brings these fears that I had to a greater likelihood. I, like most, watched too much "cop tv" before realizing how far away from reality they are. No, most officers aren't shot at on a daily basis. And most officers aren't involved in high-speed chases more often than not. But they are put in danger in many other ways. Situations that make a single second too much time to waste when trying to decide if you'll be able to make it home to see your family again.

I think many of us are well aware of frivolous lawsuits to all professions. For example, we've seen a drastic decrease in those applying to medical school simply because the malpractice insurance is just too high. Law enforcement officers do not have salaries even close to that of physicians. Removing Qualified Immunity and forcing these officers to obtain their own private insurance would bankrupt police families. Removing Qualified Immunity would allow an increase in abuse toward police officers, resulting in injuries that could be life or career threatening. Removing Qualified Immunity will without a doubt increase frivolous lawsuits against police. Imagine a police officer handcuffing a suspect, and now that suspect decides that he or she has PTSD from being in the back of a police car and not having the ability to use her hands. Ridiculous, but it seems to be the way things are heading.

I beg you to reconsider the points in S.2820. I beg you to discuss this with our other representatives and ask them to say no to dismantling qualified immunity as well. You have many more amazing police officers than bad ones. This will effect their families, their livelihood, and most importantly, the safety of the community.

I am more than happy to discuss this with you further if you would like to hear from someone this would directly effect; the wife of a very good police officer.

Thank you for your time,

Amanda Gibson

Dear Chair Michlewitz, and honorable members of the Committee,

I write today in support of the S. 2820 the Reform, Shift, and Build Act. Please support a strong bill that improves police accountability, including:

- * A ban on racial profiling and racial data collection on all traffic and pedestrian stops, including ones that do not result in a citation;

- * Creation of the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to certify and decertify police officers, and to ensure that police officers who commit misconduct cannot simply move from town to town and remain officers;

- * A moratorium on the use of facial recognition technology;

- * Restrictions on the use of tear gas (which the Geneva Convention holds to be a chemical weapon, the use of which is banned in warfare) and other use of force policies; and

- * Reform of qualified immunity so that officers are no longer immune from violating our basic constitutional rights.

Most importantly, please retain the qualified immunity reform in Section 10 of S. 2820. Under current law, a plaintiff virtually cannot sue unless a previous court has found that the exact same conduct, in the exact same circumstances—no matter how egregious—was a constitutional violation. This includes situations such as the one Senator Brownsberger described in detail on the Senate floor in which officers in Massachusetts forced a woman to have her vagina searched. Civilians deserve the ability to hold police officers accountable for egregious violations of their rights.

Sincerely,

Daniel Joseph

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

I am very concerned about the issue of police violence and the use of unnecessary force by police officers against citizens of color. Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

Thank you,

Anne Erde

Subject: Testimony for the House on Police Reform in Massachusetts

Dear Representatives Aaron Michlewitz and Claire Cronin,

I would like to first thank you for hearing my testimony and allowing me to express my thoughts regarding our police reform. I am a resident of Somerville, Massachusetts. I was born in Boston and have spent my entire life, including upbringing, education, and career thus far in Massachusetts. I am a Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner, working with children and adolescents in crisis and have been doing this work for the past 12 years.

Working with children, adolescents, and their families in crisis has opened my eyes to how much of an impact our health care, welfare, education, and police systems (among other systems) have had on this population. As a health care and mental health provider, I, along with my colleagues, am trained in Crisis Prevention - the word Prevention is very important. In my line of work, I am constantly working with people in extreme emotional distress and at times these people are aggressive and dysregulated. Yet we manage to help provide support and care to these patients with compassion, empathy, and avoid hands-on intervention as much as possible. When we use hands-on or physical intervention, we are required to follow strict guidelines in order to reduce the risk of harm to ourselves and others. The goal is always to help provide immediate safety and this is only used as a last resort, if the person is actively trying to hurt themselves or others and we were unable to deescalate using non-physical intervention and de-escalation techniques. Physical intervention is certainly not without risk and we have noticed over time that as we have utilized less and less of this intervention within our program, there has been a decrease in escalations, our patients have been able to reach a level of stability and return home more quickly, and there have been less staff injury.

Unfortunately, many of my patients and their families have had negative experiences with their local police. While working in various psychiatric facilities in Massachusetts, I have had first-hand experience of how the police have worked with some of my patients. I have seen children with known mental illness taken by police in handcuffs (from a psychiatric facility to an Emergency Room in order to have further psychiatric evaluation). These children were not committing crimes and needed additional mental health treatment and therapeutic interventions. I have seen police use physical force, ignoring the advice of mental health professionals about the risks of using physical intervention with a child, a person with mental illness and trauma, and specific risks for the individual, including asthma or obesity, placing the person at increased risk for asphyxiation.

On discharge from the psychiatric program and when I work with children and their families around creating safety plans for when they are back home and in the community, our recommendations often include contacting their local police department when in crisis and if they are at immediate risk. However, these children and families do not always feel safe or comfortable calling the police for help. They have shared stories of trauma associated with police brutality, particularly patients and families of color. I am currently working with a 6 year old male with a history of trauma who expresses his experiences and emotions through play. This child's play consistently includes themes of good versus evil and a sense of wanting to protect others and be protected. The police in his play do not represent protection, safety, or comfort but rather, he fears the police. This child is 6 years old. So what do these children and families do when in crisis, including being at risk of harm to self or others but they feel that the risk of police involvement or intervention exceeds their current risk? What does that say about our current system?

According to a study conducted in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts by the National Institute of Mental Health (grant MH-65615), which included examining the arrest records of 13,816 individuals receiving services from the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health from 1991 to 1992 over roughly a ten-year period. In this study, approximately 28 percent of the cohort experienced at least one arrest and the number of arrests for those individuals ranged from one to 71 (Fisher et al., 2006). According to the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI), 2 million people with mental illness are booked into jails each year and approximately 15% of men and 30% of women in jails suffer from serious mental illness (NAMI, 2020).

It is essential that the police force have requirements in place to have ALL police trained in crisis prevention and minimal use of physical intervention. This testimony is not about a dislike or disrespect for our police officers. I have friends and family in the police force and I have also had positive experiences working with police throughout my career. This includes the Boston Police Department helping us recently with a child who ran from our psychiatric program. The police officers at the scene allowed the mental health professionals to continue to work with the child, as we were also on scene, and to provide support based on our expertise. These police officers were compassionate and heard our concerns, allowing us to continue to do our jobs and help keep this child and everyone else safe.

This testimony is to advocate for appropriate training for ALL police with regards to use of physical intervention, de-escalation techniques, and how to effectively work with people who suffer from mental illness. It is also essential for ALL police to have training with regards to racism within the police system and how to provide safety and protection for EVERYONE in Massachusetts, including Black and Indigenous People of Color. These trainings need to be mandatory. There need to be consequences for those who do not follow the guidelines in place to help keep everyone safe, this must include use of physical force or physical intervention. If people are injured or killed at the hands of police, there need to be thorough, independent, and non-bias investigations.

Thank you again for hearing my testimony and taking my experiences and concerns into consideration.

A concerned citizen,

Emily Buck

Subject: OPPOSE BILL S.2820

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Hello,

My name is Christine Powers with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 4 Lester Place, Jamaica Plain, MA 02130.

I am a social worker in the state of Massachusetts working at Boston University providing outpatient therapy for adults. Part of the National Association of Social Workers Code of Ethics states - "(a) Social workers should engage in social and political action that seeks to ensure that all people have equal access to the resources, employment, services, and opportunities they require to meet their basic human needs and to develop fully. Social workers should be aware of the impact of the political arena on practice and should advocate for changes in policy and legislation to improve social conditions in order to meet basic human needs and promote social justice."

I believe it is part of both my civic duty and my ethical duty as a part of the social work profession to urge the House to pass reform that includes -

- * Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

Police violence and structural racism needs to be addressed now, before another black life is lost.

Thank you very much.

It's time to pass these much-needed, overdue reforms in how police officers are certified, how they interact on our streets with residents and how our courts will consider their actions when they are charged with using excessive force, breaking the law or otherwise abusing their power. It also notably includes provisions that would reduce student criminalization and cut off the school-to-prison pipeline. The past six weeks have brought into clear focus how much these, and the many other reforms included in the bill are needed.

The voices of black and brown MA residents must be heard and the time is now! For too long, racial profiling, harassment, inexplicable brutality and wanton disregard for human lives has been all too prevalent in the policing of POC. It is time to begin to right what has been an accumulation of injustice done to families and communities.

I urge the committee to report this bill out favorably and that the House members take swift action to pass it thereafter.

Thank you for your consideration,

Subject: House Bill 2820 Police Reform

Dear Members of the MA House of Representatives,

While there are many needed and valid improvements included in the police reform bill S2800 I find certain of these amendments problematic.

The majority of police officers are good officers and while egregious behavior can never be tolerated, these men and women, who put their lives on the line every day to protect each and every one of us, deserve qualified immunity so every interaction with the public, when people's behavior can be so unpredictable, doesn't have to include the thought "am I going to be sued for my actions or should I just let this go?" It takes only 1 second for an individual to travel 19 feet. A police officer then has 1 second to decide on their reaction. If police have to worry about lawsuits this will compromise their ability to react speedily and appropriately. Once police can no longer be proactive, crime will increase. This portion of the bill was rushed through Senate. It needs further study.

Allowing the public access to the police officer database makes all police officers a target. It puts them at a disadvantage as knowledge of a complaint provides fodder for further complaints, whether or not the first complaint is justified. It can also place their families at risk. Unsatisfactory performance should be dealt with by a supervisor, not the public, where there is so much ignorance about what this job entails.

Police deserve our support and respect. No one will want to be a police officer if we continue to bow to extremist's demands. By failing to protect the people who protect us, all of the citizens of this state are at risk. Please stand up for them.

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives: I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership. Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated. Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status. Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only

3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers. I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation. Sincerely,

Dear House,

I am writing you to express my utter disappointment with bill S2820. With that said, I thank you for allowing public and personal input in this matter. I feel as though you have create a pathway for due diligence that your colleagues in the senate failed to do. As a born democrat, I find their actions extremely detrimental not only to the safety of our community but to the future of the Democratic Party in this state. I find it hard to believe a person that was "on the fence" looked as their actions as inclusive and adherent to democratic values. The right was in the right when confronting a bill that will greatly affect this state going forward. A monumental piece of legislation that will have a deep impact on party affiliation if not pushed with bipartisan support. I have major concerns with the bill. The anti-labor rhetoric that is palpable as I read. This state's principles should not be circumvented due to the noise of a few. It is evident in Massachusetts we are reacting to a national hysteria that is not supported by statistical analysis here in this state. Officers are highly educated and trained as well as paid accordingly. I reject the notion that the police are brute enforcers of subjective law. Officers respond to a plethora of situations at the behest of State and local official expectations. Officers do so in a society of constant surveillance and entitlement. Qualified immunity protects the vetted, trained, and monitored from the radical, irrational, and ill willed public. An officer that breaks the law is held to the same standard if not higher as those in society. There shouldn't be any confusion about that. Finally, a expert committee with the power to impact an officers livelihood should be comprised of just that. Colleagues that are are experienced and trained with the expertise far beyond that of an average citizen. I thank you for time and ask you reject the hysteric rhetoric that is not supported by the good and common people of this state.

My name is Sarah Henderson I am a resident of Boston and a member of March like a Mother: for Black Lives. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

I am deeply concerned about racial profiling, the militarization of local police departments, and the school to prison pipeline. All of which disproportionately impact low income and communities of color. Without legislation prohibiting facial recognition and limiting qualified immunity excessive force will continue to present unnecessary and unethical risks to men, women, and children of color. Let's please ensure that there is necessary funding and political leverage to support the passing of this bill.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Subject: OPPOSITION TO BILL S. 2800

To the Ways and Means Committee of the Massachusetts House of Representatives:

My name is Camille Provenzano and I live in Hyde Park, MA. I am writing this letter to voice my concern that again no public hearing was held on this matter and it lacks transparency.

The people I know who are police officers are the most compassionate and caring people I know. I trust them to protect my family and community. The police departments in Massachusetts are some of the best in the country and represent what policing should look like around the country. This bill is a slap in the face to the hard working and professional police officers and their families. This bill is not reform. It is a rushed bill to pander to the few who believe what happened across the country applies to Massachusetts. It is disheartening and shows the lack of respect the politicians of Massachusetts have for their constituents.

I am submitting this letter as my written testimony. I write to you today to express my strong opposition to the hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth and encourage you to vote AGAINST Senate bill 2800 submitted to the House of Representatives. It deprives police officers of Massachusetts any basic protections afforded to all other public employees in Massachusetts. It is a rush to judgment being developed behind closed doors. Issues of policing, health and human services, and race are too important to be rushed. Of the many concerns, the following in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety because police officers may become more concerned about personal liability than public safety.
The proposed changes to QI will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues. Unintended and unnecessary changes to QI will hamstring police officers in the course of their duties because they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions.

Officers may second guess doing what is necessary for public safety and protecting the community because of concerns about legal exposure.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse, and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and policy participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally nontransparent.

The original version of the bill was over 70 pages and had multiple changes to public safety sections of the general laws. It was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for Senators to digest/caucus and receive public comment. This process was a sham.

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased.

The Governor and support of the bill promised to use the 160 or so professional regulatory agencies as a guide for police certification. The senate instead created a board without precedent. The 15-member board proposed to oversee, and judge police officers includes no more than six police officers and four of those police officers will be management/Chief representatives. The remainder of the committee will be dominated by groups critical of law enforcement, if not parties that regularly sue police and law enforcement. The civilian members on the board will lack any familiarity with the basic training, education or standards that apply to police officers. All the other 160 boards include a strong majority of workers from the profession supplemented by a few individuals to represent the general public. Imagine if police officers were appointed to a board to oversee teachers licenses!

4. The removal or any change to Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques that all police personnel unequivocally support.

All police organizations support major parts of the bill: strengthening standards and training; having a state body that certifies police officers; banning excessive force techniques and enhancing the diversity process. Once we have uniform standards and policies and a statutory ban of certain use-of-force techniques then officers and the public will know the standards that apply to police officers and conduct that is unacceptable and unprotected by QI.

This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets.

5. Police Officers Deserve the same Due Process Afforded to all Other Public Employees

Public employees and their unions have a right for discipline to be reviewed by a neutral, independent expert in laborrelations - whether an arbitrator or the Civil Service Commission. This bill makes the Commissioner's decisions or the new Committee's decisions the final authority on certain offenses.

We should affirm the right of all employees to seek independent review of employer discipline at arbitration or civil service.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,

Camille Provenzano

The Honorable Rep. Claire D. Cronin

Chair, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Re: Testimony in Support of Police Accountability -- Use of Force Standards, Qualified Immunity Reform, and Prohibitions on Face Surveillance

Dear Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin,

As a primary care physician caring for people experiencing homelessness in Boston, I write in strong support of the many provisions in S.2820 designed to increase police accountability. In particular, our organization urges you to:

1. Adopt strict limits on police use of force,
2. End qualified immunity, because it shields police from accountability and denies victims of police violence their day in court, and

3. Prohibit government use of face surveillance technology, which threatens core civil liberties and racial justice.

As a physician taking care of unhoused people, many of whom are living with substance use disorders, and mental health challenges, including complex trauma, I have borne witness first hand to the harms of a police force that is not held accountable to their mandate to protect and serve the least of us with dignity and respect. I have seen first hand physical evidence and heard stories from my patients of both physical abuse (one schizophrenic woman that I care for had her arm broken by a police officer in recent years, another was pinned to the ground during arrest while other officers taunted him.). I see surveillance cameras being used in spaces that are meant for harm reduction and public health interventions. It is unclear if such technologies are being used for "safety" or to criminalize and jail people who use drugs, many of whom are people of color and all of whom are homeless. I could go on. Many of my patients have been so traumatized by negative interactions with police, that they do not trust our health center's security team, which makes providing health care to this community more complicated and difficult.

George Floyd's murder by Minneapolis police brought hundreds of thousands of people into the streets all around the country to demand fundamental changes to policing and concrete steps to address systemic racism. This historic moment is not about one police killing or about one police department. Massachusetts is not immune. Indeed, Bill Barr's Department of Justice recently reported that a unit of the Springfield Police Department routinely uses brutal, excessive violence against residents of that city. We must address police violence and abuses, stop the disparate policing of and brutality against communities of color and Black people in particular, and hold police accountable for civil rights violations. These changes are essential for the health and safety of our communities here in the Commonwealth.

Massachusetts must establish strong standards limiting excessive force by police. When police interact with civilians, they should only use force when it is absolutely necessary, after attempting to de-escalate, when all other options have been exhausted. Police must use force that is proportional to the situation, and the minimum amount required to accomplish a lawful purpose. And several tactics commonly associated with death or serious injury, including the use of chokeholds, tear gas, rubber bullets, and no-knock warrants should be outlawed entirely.

Of critical and urgent importance: Massachusetts must abolish the dangerous doctrine of qualified immunity because it shields police from being held accountable to their victims. Limits on use of force are meaningless unless they are enforceable. Yet today, qualified immunity protects police even when they blatantly and seriously violate people's civil rights, including by excessive use of force resulting in permanent injury or even death. It denies victims of police violence their day in court. Ending or reforming qualified immunity is the most important police accountability measure in S2820. Maintaining Qualified Immunity ensures that Black Lives Don't Matter. We urge you to end immunity in order to end impunity.

Finally, we urge the House to prevent the expansion of police powers and budgets by prohibiting government entities, including police, from using face surveillance technologies. Specifically, we ask that you include H.1538 in your omnibus bill. Face surveillance technologies have serious racial bias flaws built into their systems. There are increasing numbers of cases in which Black people are wrongfully arrested due to errors with these technologies (as well as sloppy police work). We should not allow police in Massachusetts to use technology that supercharges racial bias and expands police powers to surveil everyone, every day and everywhere we go.

As a physician caring for unhoused people, the majority of whom are Black and Latinx, the most crucial health intervention that I can make is to assist them in obtaining supportive, low threshold housing, access to healthy foods, dignified, high quality substance use disorder treatment, job retraining and educational resources, and mental health services. But there is no room in the budget for such services, if so much of our city and state budget goes to policing and imprisonment.

There is broad consensus that we must act swiftly and boldly to address police violence, strengthen accountability, and advance racial justice. We urge you to pass the strongest possible legislation without delay, and to ensure that it is signed into law this session.

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice-Chair Day, Vice-Chair
Garlick and House members of the Judiciary and the House Ways and Means Committees,

Thank you for your commitment to racial justice and to the bright futures of young people in our

As a tax-paying resident of the commonwealth, I urge you to support
Juvenile Justice Data, Raise the Age, and Expungement.

1. Require transparency in juvenile justice decisions by race and ethnicity (as filed by Rep. Tyler in H.2141)
2. End the automatic prosecution of teenagers as adults (as filed by Rep. O'Day in H.3420)
3. Expand expungement eligibility (as filed by Reps. Decker and Khan in H.1386 and as passed in S.2820 §§59-61)

Thank you for defending and protecting the students of Massachusetts. I look forward to hearing back from you about how you

Subject: Pass a Strong Police Accountability Bill with Key Provisions from S.2820

Dear Chairs HWM & Judiciary,

I urge you to pass legislation that establishes real oversight and accountability for police.

Our law enforcement system is rife with systemic racism that manifests in poignant police murders of unarmed black people, brutality and excessive use of force, unlawful arrests, and unnecessary police contact. The House of Representatives and Senate should ultimately pass a bill that ends qualified immunity in most instances, reduces and oversees police use of force, removes police from schools, expands juvenile expungement, and establishes funds to improve re-entry from incarceration.

The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

This is an urgent matter. Please pass a bill that includes at a minimum the provisions of the senate bill.

Sincerely,

Emily Benson

Subject: Police Reform Bill

Hello,

My name is Ezra Fischer and I'm a home owner in Arlington, MA. My phone number is 732-429-8802. I'm writing to urge house to pass the bill that got through the Senate as is, or stronger. In particular, I am concerned about these parts of the bill:

* The same limits to qualified immunity that the Senate included. This is vitally important to protect the constitutional rights of Massachusetts residents. If we do nothing else, we have to change qualified immunity, which makes police officers essentially above the law.

* Amendment 80, which gives superintendents and school committees the ability to authorize a school resource officer, rather than the current unfunded mandate for every district to have SROs. Districts should have local control over their own budgets and policies.

* Amendment 108, which prevents schools from sharing personal information about students into local, state, and federal databases.

* Amendment 65, which bans tear gas, a chemical weapon banned in warfare.

Thank you,

Ezra Fischer

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:

Thank you for your leadership. My name is Lili Ibara am a resident of Jamaica Plain and a member of March like a Mother: for Black Lives. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

Massachusetts should do these basic things to ensure the safety of all residents.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Subject: Support S. 2820 including Qualified Immunity Reform

Dear Chair Michlewitz, and honorable members of the Committee,

I write today in support of the S. 2820 the Reform, Shift, and Build Act. Please support a strong bill that improves police accountability, including:

- * A ban on racial profiling and racial data collection on all traffic and pedestrian stops, including ones that do not result in a citation;

- * Creation of the Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee to certify and decertify police officers, and to ensure that police officers who commit misconduct cannot simply move from town to town and remain officers;

- * A moratorium on the use of facial recognition technology;

- * Restrictions on the use of tear gas (which the Geneva Convention holds to be a chemical weapon, the use of which is banned in warfare) and other use of force policies; and

- * Reform of qualified immunity so that officers are no longer immune from violating our basic constitutional rights.

Most importantly, please retain the qualified immunity reform in Section 10 of S. 2820. Under current law, a plaintiff virtually cannot sue unless a previous court has found that the exact same conduct, in the exact same circumstances—no matter how egregious—was a constitutional violation. This includes situations such as the one Senator Brownsberger described in detail on the Senate floor in which officers in Massachusetts forced a woman to have her vagina searched. Civilians deserve the ability to hold police officers accountable for egregious violations of their rights.

Subject: S.2820

Please help.

As your constituent and a parent with two sons in Massachusetts law enforcement professions, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Hughes Pack

Subject: Testimony on the Policing Omnibus Bill S.2820

Dear members of House leadership,

S.2820 does almost nothing to prevent state violence against Black people or stop the flow of Black people into jails and prisons.

I believe S.2820 will cause more harm than good by increasing spending on law enforcement through training and training commissions, expanding the power of law enforcement officials to oversee law enforcement agencies, and making no fundamental changes to the function and operation of policing in the Commonwealth. Real change requires that we shrink the power and responsibilities of law enforcement and shift resources from policing into most-impacted communities. The definition of law enforcement must include corrections officers who also enact racist violence on our community members.

Instead of funding for police training and commissions, communities need investments in businesses, jobs, healthcare, mental health, parks, transit, arts, community programs, and so much more.

If the Massachusetts legislature were serious about protecting Black lives and addressing systemic racism, this bill would eliminate cornerstones of racist policing including implementing a ban without exceptions on pretextual traffic stops and street stops and frisks. The legislature should decriminalize driving offenses which are a major gateway into the criminal legal system for Black and Brown people and poor and working class people. Rather than limiting legislation to moderate reforms and data collection, the legislature should shut down fusion centers, erase gang databases, and permanently ban facial surveillance by all state agencies including the RMV. I also support student-led efforts to remove police from schools.

The way forward is to shrink the role and powers of police, fund Black and Brown communities, and defund the systems of harm and punishment which have failed to bring people of color safety and wellbeing. S.2820 does not help us get there.

Thank you,
Tara Miller, Allston MA

To the members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives,

I ask that you please listen to the many MA police officers reaching out as we voice our displeasure over the recently proposed police reform bill.

I believe the members of the POSAC committee should be represented by members of law enforcement, as they are the only ones that have the proper knowledge and experience to set the standards for professional policing.

I also feel the decertification process presented so far infringes on our collective bargaining and right to due process.

Lastly, qualified immunity is a necessity for all public employees. This is a very complicated topic that must be addressed with the appropriate amount of time and effort. It should not be rushed.

Thank you for your attention regarding this matter.

Subject: Bill SB 2820

Good morning,

My name is Gerard Shea and I am a Firefighter. I am writing to you today in regards to the recent Bill Which is now assigned SB 2820. This Bill that is under review and looking to be pushed into actual legislation is troublesome to myself as a member of a municipal organization, not only myself, but to all other members as well. Whether that be Police Officers , Firefighters, Teachers , Nurses, etc. As you see I capitalized all of them due to their importance in our community. Although we all agree that changes need to be made throughout our nation to address certain situations regarding racial equality and justice for all in a fair and equitable manner, this Bill to me is an attack on the 99.9 percent of good Police officers. We are all aware that there are some officers that should not be on the force and that some have acted inappropriately. We all also know that these type of people exist in every type of field. With that being said , it just isn't fair for our states Police officers and I mean all of them , to be lumped into this because of the actions of another Police Officer in a different state.

The men and woman of law enforcement in this state do a fine job day in and day out to protect our communities in Massachusetts. Now we are looking to take their job security and push them to a place where they are not going to want to act due to the fact that every bit of scrutiny will come down on them and they could potentially lose their job for doing there job. Not only that but they can be held possibly into a civil lawsuit, if qualified immunity is attacked. I feel that individuals in public and maybe even some elected officials don't quite understand what qualified immunity is and just attack whatever they feel necessary to appease themselves. Qualified immunity is what gives us protection from any John Doe from suing us and taking our houses due to us acting a certain way during performing our duties, and what I mean by that is what if we are attacked while given emergency medical care , and someone decides from a far that they are going to film us, and it is perceived we are in a fight. Well that individual is now going to potentially sue us for what he claims is assault and what ever other nonsense they can come up with to get a pay day. Well, qualified immunity prevents that from happening. I consider it "reasonable immunity " because it only makes sense that we are protected from potential nonsense that may arise from emergency situations. Not all emergencies are pretty , by nature they are not, that's why they are emergencies, and sometimes things can go in a certain direction that are not ideal however not controllable. To take away a Municipal employees protection and life security on the whole is outrageous. The men and woman who serve our municipalities have families , children , husbands , wives , bills to pay, and we're going to potentially put them in a situation where they could lose everything if they don't have the proper protection they need in the judicial process? We can not do that, we can not allow it. I ask that you all reconsider this Bill or at least fine tune it to a point where we can all agree that everyone is still protected and the needs of the community are being met. Thank you

I am simply asking for you to slow down and to at least listen to members of law enforcement, school officials, health officials, etc about what they think the consequences of these changes will be. Please give the people who these changes will affect a chance to tell you what they think.

Some of these changes can be implemented with little or no consequences. However some will destroy our communities and endanger the vulnerable.

Lastly, Taking school resource officers out of schools is ridiculous. The only reason we are not reading about school shootings is because of covid. Cops in schools is not a problem, it's an answer.

Subject: Police Reform

Dear representative Aaron Michlewitz and representative Clair D. Cronin,

We raise our voice in strong objection to the provisions in the Police Reform Act that will restrict qualified immunity for police in Massachusetts. The negative effects of such provisions are obvious - frivolous lawsuits against the policemen who attempt to use legitimate force against the people who violate the laws This, inevitably, will make police less willing to enforce the laws (the major function) and to impede their recruitment efforts. This is a disaster in the making, in our opinion.

Please consider changing the incoming legislation in the way that does not have these extremely negative consequences.

Respectfully

Subject: 2820 Qualified Immunity

Good morning,

I am emailing you to voice my opposition to Police Reform Bill regarding the removal of Qualified Immunity for Police. I've been in correspondence or have called Senator Keenan , Senator Tarr, Representative Mariano and the Governor to express my sincere concern what the ramifications of this provision will do to EVERYONE in our beautiful state of Massachusetts. Since March 15, when the Governor put the state in lockdown we have been told , " thank our first responders " they are ESSENTIAL people in ESSENTIAL jobs. This is how our legislators and politicians thank them. I see and read of other major cities defunding and not supporting the police. I see and hear of deaths of innocent citizens and attacks on the police who are trying to help. I don't want to see the beautiful state that we live in look like, New York, Chicago, L.A, and Portland. I view this bill as being very hurried with no thought at all to all of the citizens of our beautiful state of Massachusetts. This issue isn't should not be about what happened in another state, party affiliations or a movement. There is so much going on here and in the country. The Boston Police Department is looked at as an example of how to police. That is what President Obama said of them. I find it troubling that in a matter of months the people that represent all of us have a change of opinion. If you are determined to handcuff our Police, Firefighters, Nurses and any one else who may try to help and aid us, I suggest you put yourselves, the Governor into this bill and ALL OF YOU lose your Qualified Immunity. This just is not right. I want to thank Senator Tarr for letting me know of this hearing. I just started back to work last week and I'm not in the situation to take a day off to be there in person today. Thank you for listening and please understand I'm just a very concerned citizen about where the direction our Beautiful state is going. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Honorable Representatives,

I am the proud mother of a highly decorated State Trooper, Keller Williams, who has been awarded three Medals for Valor. He is currently on the Violent Fugitive Apprehension Section which apprehends the most dangerous criminals in our society often requiring split-second decisions to accomplish this important mission safely and successfully.

It terrifies me that the Qualified Immunity amendment could result in a deadly distraction while performing his perilous duty. I implore you to keep the Qualified Immunity intact.

Please insure that our courageous Law Enforcement Officers are provided Due Process as every other citizen is granted. It is the fair and right thing to do.

Common sense dictates that you include experts and rank-and - file members of the law enforcement community to bring their first-hand knowledge and experience to a POSA Committee.

I am trusting you with the safety and well-being of my beloved son and his fellow law enforcement colleagues. Bring understanding, compassion, and respect for the commendable, demanding service our brave men and women provide every day to your vote amending and correcting S2820.

Subject: please vote no to s. 2820

To members of the house and all others whom this message may concern,

I am taking the time to respectfully ask you to stand against the proposed police reform bill s.2800, now s.2820, that has passed in the Senate. I know that you have received a lot of outreach both for and against the bill, but I believe it is not only in the interest of our local police, but all of our state's residents, that we do not allow this bill to proceed further.

I have received a copy of the seventy-two page bill, I conferenced with a senator for two hours (one that strongly supported and voted for the bill), and watched the voting process live. I was appalled by the statements made by many in defense of the bill, and the outlandish examples given to persuade others into supporting the nullification of qualified immunity. I believe that much of the public is misinformed, not only in regards to what qualified immunity really means, but also the fact that this not only affects police, but all municipal workers. I think that they are also misinformed about the other amendments and things that are included in the bill aside from the qualified immunity piece.

I am an educator in middlesex county, which is an inner-city demographic, that can be characterized as being very diverse. I am concerned with this bill as it directly relates to me in my position in many ways. In terms of qualified immunity, I fear for my job. I have, on various occasions, been made aware of instances in which students have wrongfully accused teachers of being racist. For example, there have been times in which students who were simply moved to the back of the classroom in order to dispel an argument or negative behavior have claimed that they were moved simply because of their race. Although this action may seem as one that would be deemed inconsequential, I believe that in today's climate, even this instance could bring about a problem for a teacher.

When diverging from the topic of qualified immunity and moving onto school safety, I think there are also measures that are very troubling for me and my staff. The bill advocates for the removal of school resource officers from the building, while advocating to replace them with school adjustment counselors. While I recognize the value in school counselors, I do not think that school resource officers should be replaced, and I believe this for a few reasons. Firstly, school resource officers are vital in the event of a school shooting. They are vital when it comes to detaining a student who may be violent towards others. They are vital when it comes to breaking up large scale fights within our building. There are simply situations that a school counselor cannot adequately hand on his or her own.

As having been a victim of sexual assault at 17 during my junior year of high school, I relied on the security that my school resource officer provided for me.

At the time, in having filed a temporary restraining order against my perpetrator, my school resource officer very literally saved me and my sanity. I conferenced with many school adjustment counselors concerning my situation. They provided me with a lot of mental help that I valued greatly. However, it was solely the school resource officer that made me feel PHYSICALLY safe in my school environment. I fear for the children who may have a restraining order against a parent, another family member, or a perpetrator, as in my case, who will feel the loss of this physical protection in a place where they are meant to thrive.

I am deeply concerned with a portion of the bill that discusses officers' ability to communicate about gang members. In my opinion, this is an attempt to protect the criminal, and not the potential victims. I think that this lack of communication will also create a more dangerous environment in schools, as schools are largely a place of recruitment for gang leaders.

I am an educator who is in a relationship, and lives with, a police officer. Given the current climate of our country, and more specifically of our state, I am deeply concerned with what we have "going against us." I am concerned for our welfare and security within our jobs, and what that could mean for the trajectory of our lives. I plead with you to vote down this bill. There is room for improvement in policing. I think everyone can agree to that. However, maintaining a level of respect for our officers and all municipal workers is vital in order for us to come together as a people to improve in unison. Let us vote this down, have a discussion together with all sides being represented, to come to a solution we can all stand behind.

Respectfully submitted,

E.B.

I'm writing to express my opposition to the police reform bill recently passed by the Senate. While I understand why the state legislature is acting, I'm not happy about how it is acting. Hastily passing a bill with no public hearings that has the potential for serious negative unintended consequences does not seem to be a responsible way to legislate. Please consider the unintended consequences that the legislation will have as it stands.

To whom it may concern,

Please reconsider the ending of qualified immunity for police, nurses, and fire fighters that is part of Bill S2820. Eliminating qualified immunity will prevent these heroes from doing their jobs, which is saving our lives. For example, if you are in a car accident and the car is burning, a police person or firefighter might pull you from the car but in the process injure your spine. Without qualified immunity you could sue the rescuer, so why should one joined the police or fire departments if there's this risk. Yes there are a few bad apples, but don't destroy the whole department. We don't want to be like NYC or Portland.

Subject: Do Not pass S.2820

Dear representatives,

Please do not pass this rushed bill from the Senate the way It is written. Many concerns inside of this bill will not only effect police work but all other public servants. Qualified Immunity has never protected officers who violated the law or constitutional rights. It protects public servants who, in the scope of their duties, did something under good faith and prevents them from frivolous law suits. Removing QI will only result in a massive stop to proactive policing and public servants protecting and saving citizens because of the fear that they'll be sued.

There are also concerns with the removal of the use of force standard "reasonable officer" and changed to "reasonable person". An officer has training and experience that the regular citizen does not when It comes to violent encounters. Officers can tell by body language and indicators of an impending attack and can't prevent them. With the change to this language, you will place officers in a situation where they need to be assaulted first before allowing them to defend themselves or others.

Please do not pass this bill and speak to ALL stakeholders that will be affected by this bill!

Sincerely,

Nathan Hawkins

To Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

I strongly support many provisions of the Senate bill and it is imperative that the House include these provisions in their version of the bill:

- The same limits to qualified immunity that the Senate included. This is vitally important to protect the constitutional rights of Massachusetts residents.
- Amendment 80, which gives superintendents and school committees the ability to authorize a school resource officer, rather than the current unfunded mandate for every district to have SROs. Districts should have local control over their own budgets and policies.
- Amendment 108, which prevents schools from sharing personal information about students into local, state, and federal databases.
- Amendment 65, which bans tear gas, a chemical weapon banned in warfare.

Subject: Raising the age at which individuals enter the adult justice system

Dear Committee Members

I am writing to you today to request that you and your colleagues in the MA House of Representatives consider an amendment to the Police Reform bill that recently passed the Senate to raise the age at which emerging adults are processed in the juvenile system from 18 to 20 years-old.

This is a key area we see our young people, especially our young men of color, get derailed. In all the many efforts to promote racial justice and reform our criminal justice system, we need to prioritize not pushing our children into adult jail and serving them in a more developmentally appropriate juvenile system. Only 25% of Massachusetts' young adult population is Black or Latino, but 70% of young adults incarcerated in state prisons and 57% of young adults incarcerated in county jails are people of color. We need to get them out and keep them out.

The DYS census (juvenile system) is down and there is existing capacity to do this. The outcomes are better, education is required in the juvenile system, and we prevent young adults from being crippled by CORIs- all of which is better for public safety and the lives of young people.

Moreover, this change is supported by research into cognitive development and brain science.

Adolescents' brains are measurably different from adults. Adolescents are more likely to be influenced by peers, and engage in risky and impulsive behaviors. Courts, agencies and practitioners should use this knowledge to ensure a developmentally appropriate response. An overly punitive approach leads to more offending:

Toxic environments, like adult jails and prisons, increase problematic behaviors and recidivism. Teens and young adults incarcerated in Massachusetts' adult correctional facilities have a 55% re-conviction rate, compared to a similar profile of non-incarcerated teens whose re-conviction rate is 22%.

In short there are many reasons to amend the Police Reform Bill to make the justice system both more fair and more effective.

Thank you for your consideration.

July 17, 2020

The Honorable Rep. Aaron Michlewitz Chair, House Committee on Ways and Means

The Honorable Rep. Claire D. Cronin Chair, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Re: Public Testimony on S.2800 to the House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice Chair Day, and Vice Chair Garlick,

On behalf of the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), a 1947 Nobel Peace Laureate, I am writing to request your consideration to expand the existing expungement law (MGL Ch 276, Section 100E) as the House takes up S.2800 to address Racial Justice and Police Accountability. S.2800 includes this expansion and we hope you will consider it as it directly relates to the harm done by over-policing in communities of color and the over-representation of young people of color in the criminal legal system.

Our criminal justice system is not immune to structural racism and we join you and all members in the great work needed to set things right. The unfortunate reality is that people of color are far more likely to be subjected to stop and frisk and more likely to get arrested for the same crimes committed by whites. Black youth are three times more likely to get arrested than their white peers and Black residents are six times more likely to go to jail in Massachusetts. Other systems where people of color experience racism are exacerbated, and in many ways legitimized, by the presence of a criminal record. Criminal records are meant to be a tool for public safety but they're more often used as a tool to hold communities of color back from their full economic potential. Expungement can be an important tool to rectify the documented systemic racism at every point of a young person's journey through and past our justice system.

We also know that young adults have the highest recidivism rate of any age group, but that drops as they grow older and mature. The law, however, does not allow for anyone who recidivates but eventually desists from reoffending to benefit. Young people's circumstances and cases are unique and the law aptly gives the court the discretion to approve expungement petitions on a case by case basis, yet the law also categorically disqualifies over 150 charges. We also know that anyone who is innocent of a crime should not have a record, but the current law doesn't distinguish between a dismissal and a conviction. It's for these three main reasons we write to you to champion these clarifications and now is the time to do it.

Since the overwhelming number of young people who become involved with the criminal justice system as an adolescent or young adult do so due to a variety of circumstances and since the overwhelming number of those young people grow up and move on with their lives, we are hoping to make clarifying changes to the law. We respectfully ask the law be clarified to:

* Allow for recidivism by removing the limit to a single charge or incident. Some young people may need multiple chances to exit the criminal justice system and the overwhelming majority do and pose no risk to public safety.

* Distinguish between dismissals and convictions because many young people get arrested and face charges that get dismissed. Those young people are innocent of crimes and they should not have a record to follow them forever.

* Remove certain restrictions from the 150+ list of charges and allow for the court to do the work the law charges them to do on a case by case basis especially if the case is dismissed of the young person is otherwise found "not guilty."

Refining the law will adequately achieve the desired outcome from 2018: to reduce recidivism, to remove barriers to employment, education, and housing; and to allow people of color who are disproportionately represented in the criminal justice system and who disproportionately experience the collateral consequences of a criminal record the opportunity to move on with their lives and contribute in powerfully positive ways to the Commonwealth and the communities they live, work and raise families in. Within a system riddled with racial disparities, the final step in the process is to allow for as many people as possible who pose no risk to public safety and who are passionate to pursue a positive future, to achieve that full potential here in Massachusetts or anywhere.

Dear Judiciary Committee:

I am writing with hopes you will consider reevaluating keeping the indemnification clause in the reform bill and keeping the protections in place for our officers. I don't feel officers should be personally held liable or sued for doing their job of protecting you, me and our families. A friend of mine (an officer on the Boston Police Dept) wrote a very powerful statement about qualified police immunity and its importance to our officers and why, which I included in this email (see below). All I ask is that you read it in it's entirety. It not only is impactful but opens our eyes to what our officers encounter on a daily basis to protect and serve the great citizens of Boston. They spend their days and nights protecting us, who is going to protect them if our political leaders aren't?

From a friend and officer serving our great city of Boston MA:

"Two years ago in our own back yard, a US Army combat veteran, a husband and father and a professional Police Officer was murdered by an "unarmed person". After being struck in the head with a large rock and rendered unconscious, he was disarmed and his weapon was used to kill him and an elderly woman in the neighborhood who was just sipping her morning coffee.

Since we'll never be able to ask him, we don't know if he hesitated to use force because he didn't want to be the next police-related dramatic headline... after all it was "just a rock", not a knife or a gun. Perhaps thoughts of being benched and investigated and unable to provide for his young family were all factors.

The fact is events such as Ferguson, MO and other sensationalized events have created doubt in many officers. They may survive the fight but will they survive the witch hunt after? And how do we Thank this warrior for paying the ultimate sacrifice? We go after qualified immunity for those still here serving with pride, dignity and respect.

Sure, there are bad apples as there are in any field, any job. Cops are a cross section of society. Absolutely, there is room for improvement and those who are in the wrong need to be held accountable. The answer is not to vilify an entire profession and go after qualified immunity...one of the very few things that is still right about public service (for now).

Understand the concept before you demand that it is removed. Believe me, qualified immunity does not give police officers carte blanche to violate policy and law. And unions do not defend cops who act outside the scope of their duties or who are grossly negligent or violate the law. Qualified immunity protects the few who are willing to risk virtually EVERYTHING that is important to them to help complete strangers. It doesn't give them a veil of anonymity to hide behind a badge like some coward in the Midwest. It protects them from the harsh reality of incidentals that happen in the course of performing a vital public service.

The reality is the average citizen doesn't interact with the police during their best hour. Bad shit happens in life. When people lose the ability to control a situation, they call on police to take charge and restore calm and order. Sometimes it isn't pretty.

We are already experiencing an unprecedented recruitment and retention crisis in American law enforcement. Why on earth we want to exacerbate that problem is beyond me. The vast majority of professional police officers don't tolerate shitty cops either and we are willing to accept some changes. Just don't force this rushed bill through the house and make it law. You will not be happy with the results in the short term and the long run.

Some examples of when police are called...

Your car slides off an icy road into a ditch and you need help. Now the responding officer has to navigate the same road conditions and gets in a crash on the way to help you. Driving a government owned vehicle on government time clock but you think they should be personally liable for an on duty crash with no negligence or intent to do harm?

A member of your household isn't breathing and police/fire/ems are simultaneously dispatched. While providing life-saving chest compressions, a rib is broken. Someone in the family isn't happy about the broken rib even though the loved one lives. Now the individual first responders can be sued?

Just everyday examples. I won't even get into the egregious examples of actual criminals who fight cops and are injured in the process of unlawful activity and while resisting lawful arrests. That may be too unpleasant for some people to think of...

Pay attention to what's going on folks. Be careful what you wish for. None of us, not even the cops, want government overreach or big brother watching everything....but the reality is a society without police will crumble under anarchy. Open your eyes and your ears. READ. Understand concepts. VOTE. Participate in the process. Stop blindly following party line and actually do your homework on issues.

And not that it's anyone's business, but I'm not an "evil Republican"..... there really is no such thing as a Republican in Massachusetts anyhow. I'm a registered Independent who votes for individuals based on issues. Sure I tend to be more conservative, but again it's Massachusetts so doesn't mean much to the political machine."

Thank you for reading this and I beg you to reconsider this bill.

Sincerely
Michelle Bickerton

Subject: Voicing my Opposition to S.2820

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Allyson Jaena and I live at 21 Hart Street, Wakefield, MA.

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth.

It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms.

While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws.

Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification, and/or correction.

Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation.

Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing.

In closing once again I implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

Allyson L. Jaena

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I am writing in support of S2820 but to urge the House to pass a stronger version that includes eliminating qualified immunity for police officers. The House bill should also ban use of choke holds, tear gas and no knock raids and introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers. This is a moment when the attention of the public is rightly on reforming our criminal justice system to end racial injustice. I urge you to strengthen and pass S2820 now before this session ends. We will all be watching.

Subject: Police reform

Hello

I'm writing to state that I wholeheartedly oppose the police reform bill as passed by the Senate earlier this week.

The bill as I see it will make Massachusetts far less safe as it will handcuff police officers from doing their job effectively. I am afraid for this state and our entire country as to what will happen if we take away the ability for police to carry out their regular duties.

Please do not let this bill pass as it stands. Something this drastic can not be decided on the whim of a knee jerk reaction to one incident thousands of miles away. There needs to be conversation from all sides with all options being weighed out.

It's time to protect those who protect us.

Thank you for your consideration.

Chair Aaron Michlewitz
Chair Claire Cronin
Rep. Norman Orrall

I hope this written testimony finds you all well - as I am sure you can all guess, I am you writing in opposition of certain aspects of S.2820. I have included Rep. Orrall on this testimony as I am his constituent.

To serve as a brief introduction, my name is Robert Stephanian and I am a Sergeant (I.D. Officer II) in the Bureau of Criminal Investigation (BCI) at the Plymouth County Sheriff's Office. This title may resonate with all of you as it is no secret that former Rep. Rhonda Nyman, now employed by the Sheriff's Office, has been assisting with championing a bill (H.2333) that would afford I.D. Officers in BCI the same Group 4 retirement benefits that our fellow law enforcement officers throughout the Commonwealth enjoy.

The intention of bringing up H.2333 is not to distract from the testimony of S.2820 at hand, however I would like to point to my first issue with the new legislation: Section 6 of S.2820 (Line 266) lists among its definitions of law enforcement officers in the Commonwealth "deputy sheriffs". This is great, and this is accurate, however this discounts the lack of equality (i.e. retirement classification, 111F injury-on-duty protections, etc.) that deputy sheriffs are currently faced with, and it is my hope that if we are to be held to the same standard going forward that this be amended so that we may also be compensated with equal benefits.

Second, I would like to express my displeasure with Section 10 and Qualified Immunity (QI). I have taken the time to conduct my own research, to read opinions on this from both sides, and to read opinions that legal experts have rendered in recent days. To hastily enact any law(s) that change QI as we know it today will undoubtedly have unintended consequences, and my only request would be that if the legislature is so focused on this change that they at least have a 90-day study conducted so that we may all defer to the true subject-matter-experts.

I apologize that this testimony is very brief and matter-of-fact. Since the window has opened for this testimony I have wanted to write this - yet I find myself trying to get my voice heard at the last minute due to the nature of this job. In the past forty-eight hours I have worked my regular shifts and have also acted as a search manager coordinating the search for a missing young man in Canton that is still ongoing. I would welcome the opportunity for further public input at a later date if possible - as this window has made it nearly impossible for me to properly state my thoughts on this matter.

In closing, I want to make it known that I do agree reform is needed, I do agree that Black Lives Matter, and I do agree that law enforcement needs to be held accountable for their actions. In contrast, I wholeheartedly disagree with caving to the pressure of this political climate by quickly passing omnibus legislation such as this that has not been properly vetted. As I mentioned previously, this is only a mere subsection of what I would have liked to include in my testimony, however my duties to those I serve have taken precedent during this short window and have not allowed that happen.

Respectfully,

Sergeant Robert Stephanian

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

liability protections essential for all public servants. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. HOUSE WAYS AND MEANS AND JUDICIARY COMMITTEES
TESTIMONY IN SUPPORT OF

Bill S.2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color

July 17, 2020

Honorable Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and the members of the House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees,

As a coordinator for the Greater Haverhill Indivisible and a member of the Indivisible Movement in Massachusetts, I am writing to you in support of Bill S.2820 (" An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color"). Greater Haverhill Indivisible is an independent and nonpartisan grassroots organization focused on local advocacy about 600 members in the area, which works to promote an inclusive agenda based on racial, environmental, social and economic justice.

As you know, the present language of the bill shifts some funding from policing and prisons to education and workforce opportunities that promote equity. It also includes several overdue reforms. The bill strengthens the use of force standards and increases de-escalation training. It creates a majority-civilian Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Commission (POSAC) that would certify and decertify officers. It establishes stronger oversight and limitations on the procurement of military equipment. It bans racial profiling and places a moratorium on racist facial recognition technology. And it includes measures that would reduce student criminalization and cut off the school-to-prison pipeline. These last six weeks have brought into clear focus how much these, and the many other reforms included in the bill, are needed.

I also would like to emphasize that we are in no way against our police officers or deny the value of service police departments provide for each and every city. We recognize that officers have demanding jobs and are often faced with dangerous situations and greatly appreciate their willingness to sacrifice their lives while they protect and serve our communities. However, when officers break the law, use excessive force, and otherwise abuse their power, they should be held civilly liable for their misconduct. I urge House members to keep the current language of the Senate bill that places limits on qualified immunity intact.

I strongly urge the House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees report this bill out favorably, and that members of the House chamber take swift action to pass it thereafter.

Thank you for your consideration.

Subject: Bill S2800

To Whom It May Concern,

My name is Kaitlin Porter, and I am the wife of a 10 year veteran of the Middleboro Police Department. My husband, Zachary Porter, has proudly served as a Patrolman for his hometown since 2012, after paying his own way through the Plymouth Police Academy. He has wanted to do this job since he was a child, after watching his uncle work for the same department for years. He wears his uniform with pride, does his job knowing he could sacrifice it all at any moment to save another person's life, also knowing that he is protected to do what it takes to save a life.

He has done the impossible job of informing our neighbor that his daughter was killed by a drunk driver; he has seen entire families lose their lives in accidents, doing everything he can to save them from a crushed vehicle after a head on collision; he has talked people down from suicide; he has saved life after life from drug overdoses - an ever-growing problem in this state and country. He has seen more than your eyes would ever want to witness, and this reform bill is attempting to take away all the GOOD that police officers can do on a DAILY basis.

Bill S2800 would not allow my husband to perform any duty of his job without fear of civil lawsuit, so why would anyone want to stay? If your child were to go into anaphylaxis at the park, and a police officer arrived before EMS, you would want them to administer life-saving EPI-PEN, would you not? Bill S2800 would make them think twice about doing anything beyond their scope due to fear of civil litigation.

Police officers, who have a duty to serve their community, should not do so with their hands tied behind their back, with the fear that everything they have worked so hard for will be taken away in an instant for simply doing their jobs.

What happened to George Floyd is an absolute tragedy, but I can assure you, bad cops like that are few and far between and 99.9% are good, hardworking people who signed up for the job so they can HELP people, regardless of skin color. This bill you are trying to pass has nothing to do with Black Lives Matter or equality across communities of color, it's a way to take away the power of the police, but at the end of the day if you do that, there will be no one left to protect us, in all communities.

Cities who have already moved to defund the police and police reform bills are seeing gun violence in excess of 200% over last year's statistics. I urge you, do not let Massachusetts fall into that gory statistic. If you want to be the change, do not pass a bill at 4 am without the input from the community it directly affects. If you cannot put yourself in a dangerous situation and fully understand how you can handle it, then do not try to pass a bill without understanding it's direct cause and effect.

I appreciate your time in reading this email. I urge you to reconsider the removal of qualified immunity for police officers, as it would result in an inability for police officers to proactively do their jobs to the fullest and therefore the communities in the Commonwealth would not be protected to the extent they are now. Massachusetts would turn into another state of chaos, and that is not what this country needs. We need to come together and support those who protect us, because if you ask any police officer in this state, they do not care what the color of your skin is or what community you live in, they were sworn to protect you, and they cannot do so under Bill S2800.

Thank you,

Subject: Pass SB.2800, Reform, Shift, Build Act

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:

My name is Kerri Babish. I am a resident of Medford, MA and a member of March like a Mother: for Black Lives. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

As a citizen, a parent and a former educator, I support this bill for a number of reasons. When I was teaching, our staff was trained annually on de-escalation strategies that focused on maintaining the safety of ourselves, the student exhibiting unsafe behaviors, and bystanders (other students and staff). Only a small number of staff were trained and allowed to use restraint maneuvers and these could NEVER involve anything that might impair a student's airway. If this sort of training and moderation in use of force can be expected of teachers (as well as other professionals, such as nurses and health aides) working with vulnerable populations, why should it not be expected of our police.

Again, as educators we are required to certify (and recertify frequently) with the state. Additionally, we are not shielded from consequences of actions that bring harm to those we serve. Should we not be able to expect the same from our police?

It is time to hold our police to the same level of expectations and scrutiny that we hold our other public servants.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Sincerely,

Kerri Babish

I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Subject: Policing Reform

Hello,

My name is Nida Shuttari and I am a resident of Boston. I am hopeful things will get better but first we must all hold ourselves into account. One thing I really hope is that we can have increased police transparency and accountability. Maybe police officers could keep a daily log of events and someone could overlook this log. If something seems skewed, there should be greater conversations as to why this is happening. We could have more community discussions together to better understand one another. Also, I hope for less use of violence and more community engagement/building.

Thank you for the opportunity to voice my thoughts!

Best,
Nida Shuttari

Apt2 mattapan Ma. I work at the Suffolk County Sheriffs Department and am a Correction Officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified

Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Keisha Jagroop

Subject: Police Bill S.2820

To whom it may concern:

My name is Michael Hoffman, and I am a resident of Westford, MA. I am emailing to say that I support the policing bill, S.2820, recently passed by the Massachusetts senate and that I specifically support limiting qualified immunity for police officers.

My wife and I are both teachers, and I have several doctors in my family. All of us can be held accountable for actions we take in our professional lives in a court of law. Why should police be different?

Although teachers and doctors perform jobs that are significantly less dangerous on a day-to-day basis than a police officer, these professions all carry a consistent risk of lawsuits, so I do understand the difficulties of working in a field where a well-intentioned mistake could bring about legal trouble. I will not lie and say that having the ability to just hand wave away any issue sounds appealing, but I believe that such a lack of accountability would make me a worse teacher and my family members worse doctors. The knowledge of my culpability under the law ensures that I watch for signs of home abuse in my students more carefully (as I am a mandated reporter) and that I am even more vigilant against disciplinary issues that could lead to student injury (as such an event could put me in legal trouble, if I were negligent).

Qualified immunity has its place and was granted to police officers with good intentions, but it has clearly become a system that can be abused to make police officers feel above the law. None of us should be above the law--especially not those who are paid to uphold it. I therefore ask that you vote for this bill and continue the fight to remove systemic racism in our policing force. Thank you for your time.

Best,

Michael Hoffman

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections. In a troubled economy, asking this community to carry additional insurances and worry to their already stressful jobs is an abomination.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

On a personal note, I feel this bill is reactionary rather than being of action. It is overcompensating for actions of officers not even in the state of Mass. Trust your training practices, trust your employees. As a former teacher, I look at it as punishing an entire class for one child's decisions. Does reform need to happen? Of course, everything can be better in almost every job on the planet. This is by far overreaching and needs to be reigned back. Taking qualified immunity away won't help bad people, it will only hurt the good people that care about their job and the communities they love.

Thank you,

Subject: My opinion on the bull..I mean bill you snakes passed in the dead of night.

First let me say to all senators...I wish you all put this much effort in any and all bills drafted in the Commonwealth. But we all know that wont happen. Anyway...

My name is Dena DiMarzo and I am extremely curious why 30 voted yes on the police reform bill. And I would like to know why the 3 coward Senators voted present? I understand you all have a cushy job with tons of perks but do you have any idea what it's like to go out and fight crime every day? Every night? Run into burning buildings? Treat the sick? Have you ever missed family functions or child milestones just to PROTECT THE PUBLIC? Do you have any idea what it's like to live in a violent neighborhood WHEN NOONE SPEAKS OUT AFTER SOMEONE...even children ARE SHOT DEAD? So tell me something Senators, what are your reasons for voting yes for this bill? Boston, in my opinion is the best police force along with the best commissioner that city has ever seen, so explain to me and the VOTERS why this bill is such a good idea? How much police brutality is really in Lexington? Winthrop? Belmont? Ipswich? Statistics show that Massachusetts has one of the lowest police brutality complaints and police muder/shootings IN THE COUNTRY!! Why are we as a STATE not praising and encouraging other states to follow our police procedures. Facts dont lie! So why would you and your cronies decide this at 4 in the morning and without a public hearing? Please explain to the voters of Massachusetts why ALL public officials including judges, district attorneys or even you and your buddies are not included in the immunity portion of this bill? I think if all 30 senators who showed such strong work ethic in getting this done in 24 hours and put so much work into this bill, you would all be willing to stand up and put yourselves in the same bill as the people who serve and protect. Limited immunity should also be handed to you and the rest of you snake politicians. You passed this bill in the dead of night and its disgusting. I know I wont get an answer but I will be looking into each and every one of your campaign contributions and see what first responder services donated to your campaign. This way, that will give you a solid number on the amount of money you should be giving back. We as a people, should be standing up for our amazing low record of police brutality. We should be praising the men and women that run into burning buildings and especially in today's covid crisis..nurses should be paid double. But, I'm speaking to a politician..and in your cushy neighborhood and on your beautiful street and in your lovely summer home or gated residence im sure you must come across so much crime to be such a strong advocate for this bill. What you and your fellow "for the people" cohorts did with this bill was a waste of time was an absolute disgrace. Reform comes with public opinion and real discussions. Not snakelike actions to disarm a class of people..thought we are trying to make MA a better place? This bull just divides us and the police further apart. LOOK AT THE STATISTICS!!! You want to ban choke holds, then have a PLAN IN PLACE to help police subdue an unruly criminal. You want racism training, fine, but to take away their immunity to stand up for one cause is not fair and it's not what Massachusetts is about. Please enlighten me with your response..I'll be waiting holding my breath.

As a nurse at Mgh I am Greatly opposed Limiting qualified immunity aspect of this bill. As I do agree that SOME police reform is needed this is not the way. Opening up all first responders to civil suits is reckless and in no way beneficial to us or the people of this commonwealth. Having entered into this career because of The desire to care for the public in the best way possible I truly believe that this will hinder the care and decisions we as the front lines make everyday. I ask you to reconsider and take more time to review what a devastating impact limiting qualified immunity will have on ALL, nurses, firefighters and police officers. There is little room for any of us to be second guessing our actions and decisions when someone's life/health is at stake.

Subject: Testimony on Police Reform Bill

To Whom It May Concern:

I'm a Massachusetts resident submitting testimony for the House hearing on the police reform bill. I strongly support many provisions of the Senate bill and urge the House to include these provisions in your version of the bill:

- Qualified immunity must be limited. This is vitally important to protect the constitutional rights of Massachusetts residents.
- Amendment 80, which gives superintendents and school committees the ability to authorize a school resource officer, as opposed to the current unfunded mandate for every district to have SROs. Districts should have local control over their own budgets and policies.
- Amendment 108, which prevents schools from sharing personal information about students into local, state, and federal databases.
- Amendment 65, which bans tear gas, a chemical weapon banned in warfare.

It is imperative that you keep these important provisions in the bill. We are watching, and we know the danger is real that the House might pass a watered-down bill that does little to actually change policing and protect Black and brown and other marginalized communities. Please do what is right for your most vulnerable constituents and for us all.

Thank you,
Rachel Gordon

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is Samantha Gasbarro and I live at 36B Valley St Wakefield, MA. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,
Massachusetts can take a positive step forward to help end systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820. This Act will help reform police standards and move resources to build a more equitable, fair, and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color. Please provide our communities with strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, chokeholds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons. Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms. It is so important to protect all families in Massachusetts.

Dear Representative Michlewitz and Representative Cronin,

My name is Annahid (Anna) Dastgheib-Beheshti and I am a resident of Brookline, MA. I am writing in support of Senate Bill S.2820. Over the years, the ability of our City and Town governments to create and manage policing that meets the needs and aspirations of our communities has been dismantled by the non-statutory judge-made doctrine of qualified immunity, the Chapter 150E collective bargaining law, and the Joint Labor Management Committee statute. Together, these essentially eliminate local government options for effective police accountability.

This bill provides important legislation that begins to return those rights to our communities. It also creates a much needed system for the training and certification of police officers, and makes other necessary changes to law and policy to improve and enhance the accountability of policing in the Commonwealth. This is landmark legislation that would help transform how law enforcement is practiced in Massachusetts, with a long overdue focus on racial equity in our justice system.

Thank you for your consideration on this matter.

Good Morning,
I am emailing to speak about my deep concern about the Police Reform Bill, S. 2820. I am currently in the Army National Guard and am active Police Officer in Massachusetts. This bill is what I perceive as an anti labor legislation. It removes our rights to due process, collective bargaining and inserts a board that has no experience, background or knowledge of what Police do on a day to day basis. Nurses, accountants, doctors all have review/certification boards that consists of people, atleast partially consisting of individuals with some type of experience or back ground in that profession.

Recruiting and retention will become a bigger problem than it already is in a non desirable occupation this day and age. The lack of qualified immunity in the daily performance of my duties makes me question my position. The fact that I will have to worry about paying for a lawsuit, frivolous or not and risk my home, children's welfare and just anxiety that the senate passed that is saddening. I have seen numerous cases where a judge has let a violent, career criminal back on the street that resulted in a serious injury, some deaths (even Police Officers in this state) with immunity from being held liable at all.

I deeply appreciate your time for reading this. I hope the House of Representatives puts deeper thought, input and consequences if the bill is not amended. Thank you again for your time and consideration.

Very Respectfully,

My name is Samantha Tennaro and I write to you to express my support for our many first responders who put their lives on the line for the Commonwealth every single day. As the House and Senate consider legislation revolving around public safety, and in particular police reform, I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity - legal safeguards that have been established over decades and refined by the some of the greatest legal minds our country has known. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability. Qualified immunity is the baseline for all government officials and critical to the efficient and enthusiastic performance of their duties. Qualified immunity is not a complete shield against liability - egregious acts are afforded no protection under the qualified immunity doctrine. Further, qualified immunity is civil in nature and provides no protection in a criminal prosecution. The United States Supreme Court and the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts through numerous cases have continued to uphold the value and necessity of qualified immunity. To remove or modify without deliberative thought and careful examination of consequence, both intended and unintended, is dangerous. Due Process and Qualified Immunity are well settled in the law and sound public policy dictates that the Legislature not disturb these standards - certainly not in this bill so abruptly and certainly not without a vigorous debate both in the Legislature and in the court of public opinion.

We must remain focused on passing legislation that includes a standards and training system to certify officers, establish clear guidelines on the use of force by police across all Massachusetts departments, to include a duty to intervene, and put in place mechanisms for the promotion of diversity. This does not detract or reject other reforms, but rather prioritizes those that can be accomplished before the end of this legislative session on July 31st.

Please join me in demanding nothing less than sound, well-reasoned and forward-thinking legislation.

Thank you.

To: Representative Aaron Michlewitz, Chairperson, House Committee on Ways and Means

Representative Claire Cronin, Chairperson, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Hello, my name is Samuel P. Porter and I am with the Greater Boston
Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 241 Perkins Street, Boston, MA 02130. I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- Civil service access reform
- Commission on structural racism
- Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- Qualified immunity reform

I urge you to adopt the Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity. This reform will allow the few applicable cases to be heard by a jury without being dismissed because the particular violation of 4th amendment rights by a public official, such as a police officer, has never been previously contemplated by a statute or a court precedent.
Those cases deserve to be heard on their merits, not thrown out using a non-statutory legal doctrine. It is simply outrageous that those who have suffered from the egregious violations of police officers can not get their day in court.

In addition, it is clear that qualified immunity reform will not have devastating financial impact on any police officers as they are indemnified by the municipalities that employ them. Any such claims are not based on fact and should not be considered as you consider this reform.

Thank you very much.

Subject: Support for Police Reform Bill S.2820

Dear MA House of Representatives,

My name is Tara McKenna and I am a resident of Westford. I am writing to encourage you to support the police reform bill S.2820. I believe that police need to be held accountable for their actions, especially in light of the Black Lives Matter movement and the fact that too many black people have been killed due to police violence. I do not think police should be protected by qualified immunity, which has been used to protect police who have abused their power. No one, not even our police, should be above the law.

Thank you,

Subject: Please support our heroes

Mr. Tarr,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill: (1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: Reject Senate Policing bill SB 2820

Dear Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives: I am writing to ask you to reject the Policing Bill, SB 2820. It endangers public safety, removes important protections for police, and creates a commission to study and make recommendations regarding policing with a lopsided membership. Section 49 alters our education laws to prohibit school officials from reporting immigration or citizenship status to any law enforcement authority or GANG MEMBERSHIP. To think that school authorities would be prohibited from telling the police that a student might be a member of MS-13 or any other dangerous gang is extremely dangerous. Section 49 should be eliminated. SB 2820 endangers our police by dramatically watering down "qualified immunity" in Section 10. This provision should be eliminated. Section 52 should also be eliminated as it hinders an officer's ability to protect our roadways as well as him- or herself by not allowing them to ask someone who they have stopped about their immigration or citizenship status. Section 63 creates a fifteen-member commission to make recommendations on policing. But, only 3 of the 15 are associated with policing. It should have more equal representation of law enforcement officers. I oppose SB 2820, and at a minimum, it should specifically eliminate any provisions similar to sections 10, 49, 52, and amend Section 63 to have more police representation. Sincerely,

Good Morning,

I am Former Lowell City Councilor Karen Cirillo and I thank you for committing to confront racial injustice in our communities. I am writing asking you to urge the Speaker to include these youth-focused policies in the House race equity bill. These proposals will address racial disparities in our justice system and hold law enforcement accountable when interacting with young people in our communities and in our schools:

* Require transparency and accountability by reporting race/ethnicity data at each major decision point of the juvenile justice system, as filed by Rep. Tyler (H.2141). Require law enforcement and other juvenile justice agencies to report data on young people at major decision points with the juvenile justice system to improve the state's policy and planning. For too long, we have waited for transparency

These provisions passed in S.2800 amendments 25 and 80.

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I'm writing in favor of S.2820, to reform our criminal justice system.

I believe that during the debate in the Senate on S.2820 and their review of many amendments to the legislation, they have crafted a bill which shows an excellent compromise over the most controversial portions of the legislation. While I would prefer to have a bill which completely eliminates qualified immunity, the use of teargas, chokeholds and no-knock raids, I believe that adoption of S.2820 as passed by the Senate is an excellent step toward the type of policing that all Massachusetts citizens wish to see.

Thank you for all of the work that you are doing during the pandemic. Since there are so many issues which need to be resolved, I also hope that you seriously consider continuing the Legislative Session past the July 31st deadline so that you have the ability to address the issues that we are facing with the opportunity for fully-considered debate.

Best regards,

Subject: Senate bill 2800

Hello,

I am writing in to give you my thinking of senate bill 2800.

First I'd like to ask, are any of you police officers? Have family in law enforcement? Friends in law enforcement? I'd like you to think of them in this time, and realize how much of a burden you are putting on them.

I am a police officer. I have worked for my police department for four and a half years. I have worked inside the high school protecting, answering calls, deescalating situations for two of those years. I'd like you to think of me before voting on this bill.

When I am asked why I became a police officer, my answer is and has always been, to help people. I wanted to help people my whole life, I take pride in it. I want you to now think of what will happen if you pass 2800. I can no longer help people, because now I have to think of my family, my children, my house, my livelihood. I can no longer help someone seek refuge from their abuser, because I will be sued. I can no longer help someone's child, maybe your child, or your friends child, who is choking, because I could be sued. I can no longer protect you from someone breaking into your house, from violently assaulting you, because now I have to worry about how I will feed my family, my children. Will this be the time I get sued? This will constantly be in the back of my head, and my coworkers heads.

I want you to take a moment to imagine if this bill passes. Honestly. Think about the reality. A mass exodus of police officers. No new recruits. Who would want this job? It's already thankless enough, now add on the reality of being sued. Ask yourself, would you honestly take ANY job where you could be sued over absolutely everything and anything? You would be lying to yourself if you said you would. And you would be naive to think that no bad things would happen to you. Because in reality, if this bill passes, you have to realize no more cops will come to help you. Are you prepared to take down your own home intruder? What about all of those domestic violence victims? Who will help them?

I want you to take into consideration how hard it is already to find new recruits for this job. It takes MONTHS to find people, who pass background checks, physical checks, and mental tests. Now add in the removal of QI, you can bet that those numbers are going to plummet. I hope you are all prepared to protect yourselves and your family.

Do you know what the elements needed to commit a crime are? A willing offender, a target/victim, and an opportunity. Take a step into a criminals shoe. They'll know that the police in Massachusetts won't respond to things due to fear of being sued. Right there your opportunity has sky rocketed. Massachusetts will be the perfect place to commit crimes now, I hope you are ready for those repercussions.

I sincerely hope you think of all that this bill will bring to Massachusetts, mainly the bad, before you vote on this. Because I sure will not be staying in policing, or Massachusetts for that fact, if this passes.

Sincerely,
Rebecca
Attleboro Massachusetts

Subject: Testimony in support of Senate bill S.2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

I am writing in support of Senate bill S.2820.

Over the years, the ability of our city and town governments to create and manage policing that meets the needs and aspirations of our communities has been dismantled, including by the non-statutory judge-made doctrine of qualified immunity, and the Chapter 150E collective bargaining law and the Joint Labor Management Committee statute that together eliminate local government options for effective police accountability.

This bill provides important legislation that begins to return those rights to our communities. It also creates a much needed system for the training and certification of police officers, and makes other necessary changes to law and policy to improve and enhance the accountability of policing in the Commonwealth. This is landmark legislation that would help transform how law enforcement is practiced in Massachusetts, with a long overdue focus on racial equity in our justice system.

Thank you for your consideration on this matter.

Sincerely,

Subject: Police Reform

To: Representative Aaron Michlewitz, Chairperson, House Committee on Ways and Means

Representative Claire Cronin, Chairperson, Joint Committee on the Judiciary

Hello, my name is Cara Steinborn with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 13 Kernwood Ave in Beverly. I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- * Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

It is crucial that we work toward ending systemic racism and the systems of oppression that exist today. We have to make changes to support the BIPOC of our wonderful commonwealth.

Thank you very much.

Subject: S.2820

Good Morning Mr. Rodrigues,

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Subject: LEGISLATION TO CHANGE QUALIFIED IMMUNITY FOR PUBLIC SERVANTS

Dear Reviewing Official:

I'm hoping that the citizens can count on your support to fix the severely flawed legislation labeled S2800.

If qualified immunity is changed from its current definition, the safety of the public will be severely jeopardized.

It is unfair and immoral to change current collective bargaining agreements without negotiations

When you view these considerations along with other problems with the bill, no one will desire to be (or will be able to afford to be) a police officer, firefighter or nurse.

Look around the country and see what's happening. New York City Police Officers are retiring in droves. Minneapolis Police Officers are leaving on medical stress. Atlanta Police Officers stopped answering calls on shifts.

Do you really want inevitable similar events to occur here in the Municipalities of Massachusetts?

If the subject bill passes in its present form, no young person with any sense of self-preservation will enter public service.

When the police are gone, there will be no one to protect innocent civilians of all colors from the evil that the political radical left refuses to acknowledge.

Please consider your actions on this issue extremely carefully. Be completely aware of the unintended consequences. The Citizens of the Commonwealth do not want to live in a society of complete chaos due to the inability of public servants to do their jobs. Your careful review and consideration is critical.

Sincerely

Robert Gillan

Subject: I oppose Bill S2800

As your constituent, Paula Wiseman of East Walpole, I am writing to you today to express my strong opposition to S.2800 which was passed by the Senate. I ask that you oppose this bill as constituted when it is debated in the House of Representatives. This bill is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities. It will cause many good officers to leave due to the new burdens it imposes and will likely only encourage poor candidates for the job.

S2800 establishes a review committee board with overly broad powers, including the power of subpoena, in active investigations. Review boards typically review a process or an event after it has occurred for the purpose of implementing a change. Reviews should not be conducted during the course of an investigation as that would in all likelihood jeopardize the investigation. Why is this language part of the bill?

The current language sets the groundwork for unconstitutional violations of a police officer's 5th amendment right (see Carney v. Springfield) and constitutional protections against double jeopardy. Qualified immunity protections (which are really the hallmark of sound and reasonable protections against frivolous lawsuits) are removed and replaced with a "no reasonable defendant" qualifier. This removes important liability protections for the police officers we send out to protect our communities and who often deal with the most dangerous of circumstances with little or no backup. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open up officers to personal liabilities the likes of which they cannot withstand. That is a standard that makes no sense and are unnecessary as current laws today adequately address any overreach by law enforcement officers.

I am also demanding that this bill be debated in the light of day and not in the cover of darkness. If you have to resort to sneaking a debate and vote in the middle of the night, then I assert it is "prima facie" a bad bill and "prima facie" bad faith on your part as my Representative.

In summary, this bill is ill conceived, and quite frankly, it is a cornucopia of drivel. If you could set aside for one moment your partisan loyalties, perhaps you will admit to yourself that it is a bad bill and bad policy. Further, how can you or any other Representative reform something of which you know little. Until and unless you have taken substantive police training, I would again ask that you oppose this bill. While I agree that some policing reform should be addressed (good policing should always be evolving as new things are learned) but passing a poor bill for the sake of passing a bill is not in the best interest of the good people of Massachusetts.

I would also encourage you and all your colleagues in the House to perhaps live in a poor urban community with a high crime rate for one month before you decide to change something about which I am going to assume you have little to no knowledge or experience.

For all the reasons stated above, I ask that you oppose this bill.

Sincerely,

Paula Wiseman

Subject: Testimony on Policing Bill S.2800

Dear Chairs and Members of the Committee,

There is a gap in the Senate policing bill that I hope you will address

Several years ago when I was first elected as a town councilor, the police chief invited me to take a tour of the police facilities in Watertown. As we were touring the building he described some of the training that they did with the police and one aspect of the training struck me as counter-productive at the time, but now, in retrospect, strikes me as horrific. He told me about how they trained the police to deal with "dangerous" situations and as he talked, it became clear to me, that in our relatively small town, with almost no gun violence, the police officers were trained to be afraid! In our peaceful town, they are trained to see the people they are supposed to protect as potential deadly threats. And our town is not alone - all police are trained this way.

In a WBUR interview this week, Michael Sierra-Arévalo described what an officer told him about their mental state when making a simple traffic stop.

"... One officer in Elmont proposed to me the hypothetical, 'You don't know if the person that you're stopping is coming from a murder or if they've just finished kidnapping somebody.' You don't know. And so this uncertainty is core to their understanding of what makes every interaction dangerous. You simply do not know. And the potential cost is so high that they must take steps to keep themselves alive."

People keep asking why these officers keep killing people and the answer is very simple because we train them to act from a place of fear and when you let fear control your responses, you kill people.

I strongly encourage you to look at the way we are training our police force and end the use of trainings that promote the preparedness of using violence in just about every situation that can possibly be considered dangerous - which in their current training is just about every interaction with the public.

When you consider your bill on policing in Massachusetts, please consider dis-allowing this type of training in order to receive certification from the state.

I am including a few links that further elaborate on this problem.

Representative Claire Cronin, Chair of the Joint Judiciary Committee

House Ways and Means and Judiciary Committees Boston, MA 02133

This letter is written testimony regarding the Police Reform Bill

While I believe some reform is needed in law enforcement, this legislation as written has serious flaws and is not in the best interest of law enforcement or the citizens of the Commonwealth. My concerns relate not only to substance but to process.

Regarding process, this proposed legislation came out of committee in the Senate without a public hearing, some debate and vote was not done in the light of day but after midnight with a vote taking place at 4:30 AM. While I appreciate the House scheduling a hearing, I disagree with the House requesting testimony just being submitted by email. It limits discussion and free flow of ideas. Much more can be learned through oral testimony and questions by legislators.

It appears that substance is taking a backseat to speed of passage of this legislation. It does not seem passage is being done in a manner that is thoughtful and deliberate manner. Rushed legislation is flawed legislation that will have long term negative consequences.

Regarding substance I will just focus on a couple sections which I have concerns.

How is an amendment included in the bill that bans schools from collaborating with law enforcement to identify students who are known gang members. This clearly is not in the best interest of student safety let alone public safety. This is a recipe for disaster.

I believe the qualified immunity section of the senate bill that removes this protection for law enforcement is a drastic and dangerous overreach because it wrongfully puts them at risk for lawsuits targeting their personal assets. Currently we live in a litigious society.

Law enforcement as a whole seems to be being punished and attacked for the actions of a small minority.

Many seem to have very short memories, just a few weeks ago police officers were hailed among the COVID heroes.

It was on July 3 the officers from multiple departments rushed into harms way at the South Shore Plaza to protect the public when individuals decided to shoot at each other.

Thank you for your time

To whom it may concern,

Not sure when they say don't paint one group w a broad brush and here we are. We are having a hard time now trying to fill positions with qualified people and now you want to take away or alter Qualified Immunity. Talk about handcuffing us, it is a tough enough job as it is never mind to think now you could lose your house for doing your job with good intentions. I really hope the House drafts a much better bill that allows us to keep what we have with collective bargaining, Qualified Immunity and most importantly Due Process. Thank you and please think if this does pass good chance we will look like NY.

Subject: Police reform

Generally speaking I have a lot of respect for our police. The system has imposed endless responsibilities, and expectations, and this is wrong:

Police, and policing has to go under a heavy review and reform. We live in a country where civilians are allowed to carry gones. This situation makes it extremely difficult for police to fight crime, and at the same time to protect themselves from getting shot or injured. We need to pull our resources wisely, and dissect the situation. Not all the 911 calls require to have the police presence directly, but for a backup.

I happened to call 911 twice yesterday.
Both of the situations were required for EMTs to get involved with the presence of Boston police. Luckily everything went smoothly.

Teaching the public to comply with rules, and conduct of civility is a major task for those of us who want to see reforms in our society. It takes two to tango.

Thanks for the opportunity.

Good morning Chairs Michlewitz and Cronin, and Members of House Ways and Means and the Judiciary Committee:

It has come to our attention that your committees are being asked to increase transparency for special state police officers with inclusion of the following change to the public records law in SB 2820:

SECTION 1. Chapter 66 of the General Laws, as appearing in the 2016 Official Edition, is hereby amended by inserting after section 21 the following section:-

Section 22. A document made or received by special state police officers as defined in Chapter 22C, including but not limited to, special state police officers as defined in sections 51, 56, 57, 58, and 63 shall be considered a public record under this chapter and under clause twenty-sixth of section 7 of chapter 4 and subject to all applicable exemptions. See attached social media posts from July 16, 2020.

As a courtesy, we are writing to acknowledge that the Human Society of the United States (HSUS) is party to litigation currently before the New Hampshire Supreme Court regarding the distribution of photos taken during the execution of a search warrant they assisted with resulting in the seizure of dogs. The question before the court is whether the distribution of those photos online to solicit donations to the non-profit resulted in a violation of the defendant's constitutional rights to a fair trial and privacy. The docket can be viewed here.

Our recommendation is that you not include changes to the public records full vetting by legislative committee and a public hearing process to fully understand the consequences of such a change in law here in Massachusetts.

I am Anne Licciardello, a resident of Arlington, MA, and an active and motivated volunteer organizer with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I am writing to urge you and the House to pass strong police accountability measures that include:

- * Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * A commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

PLEASE do adopt the Senate language to reform the legal doctrine of qualified immunity. Currently applicable cases cannot be heard by a jury as they are dismissed because the particular violation of 4th Amendment rights by a public official, such as a police officer, had not been previously contemplated by a statute or a court precedent. Those cases deserve to be heard on their merits, not thrown out using a non-statutory legal doctrine. It is time to put an end to this outrageous injustice preventing those who have suffered from the egregious violations of police officers from getting their day in court.

Do not be swayed by claims that qualified immunity reform will have devastating financial impact on individual police officers as they are indemnified by the municipalities that employ them. Any such claims are not based on fact.

We are calling for real reform to bring justice to our communities.

Thank you.

Subject: Pass SB.2800, Reform, Shift, Build Act

Dear Chairman Aaron Michlewitz & Co-chair Rep. Claire Cronin:

My name is Teaka Isaac. I am a resident of Roxbury and a member of March like a Mother: for Black Lives. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

Transformation of police departments, their role and relationship to our communities requires a change in culture, accountability, training, policies and practices. It also requires STRONG leadership and transparency! Without organizing and authentically engaging our black and brown communities to build new systems centered around people from this population and persons with lived experience of oppression by the Police system of MA - nothing will change.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment.

I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

Sincerely,

Teaka Isaac

Subject: Written Testimony for S2820

Honorable Chair Aaron Michiewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

My name is Jennifer Bartak, and I am a police supervisor in Deerfield Massachusetts. I have had the privilege to serve my community since 2003. Working in the town in which I was raised has been such a rewarding opportunity to give back to the community that has given so much to me. I go to work everyday with compassion, empathy, integrity, and an open mind to keep striving to be better.

First let me start by saying what happened in Minneapolis to George Floyd was deeply disturbing. I was speechless, angry, confused, and saddened for the senseless loss of his life. I was so angry at the Minneapolis Police Department for allowing that officer to still be on the streets terrorizing the community. It made me question my identity as a police officer, and I contemplated leaving the profession. However, I saw that all of my coworkers were feeling the same anger and sadness I was and it led me to remember why I chose this career. I chose this career to be a change for the positive in the world. I chose this career because I deeply care about my community, and strive to make each and every interaction as compassionate, respectful, and empathic as possible, even in a person's darkest life moments. I want to be on the forefront of making the criminal justice system better for everyone and finding solutions and avenues to difficult problems. I believe that Massachusetts has some of the best officers in the nation and our training model should be a catalyst for a national standard moving forward.

I have some grave concerns about S2820 and how it will impact policing and the safety of citizens in Massachusetts. No officer in Massachusetts feels that the policing can't improve and we can work to do better. We want the communities we serve to feel trust in their police departments, and some things outlined in this bill will work to achieve this. I believe having a recertification process for working officers is a positive way to make sure each officer is receiving the most current and up to date training. After the shooting of Michael Brown in Ferguson Missouri, I started to do my own research on how other States train their police. I was disturbed to find that many states have a police academy that is less than four months and no training thereafter to keep officers current on national trends and developments. I was relieved to learn that in Massachusetts, we do it right. Our officers are held to a high training standard from day one attending the MPTC or MSP academies. We have yearly classroom and hands on training in-service which needs to be completed by each working officer. Many officers starting the profession come through the doors with a bachelor's degree or higher. I feel that in S2800 and S2820, these standards were not even looked upon or even researched when pushing the training outlined in the bill. I also have concerns that moving to a POST state would inevitably lead to the loss of "part-time" officers. Working in a smaller community, my department has only nine full-time officers and relies heavily on the part time staff to fill in almost sixty shifts a month. Moving to a POST would all but eliminate part-time employees. In the larger cities, this is a non issue, but for the small hilltowns in the western and central part of the State, you would see many departments dissolve and rely on the State Police for coverage. This would increase response times to emergencies and towns would lose the community aspect of knowing who their police are in their communities.

I was also taken back about the "optional" school resource officer portion of the bill. During the criminal justice reform act implemented a few years back, it was mandated that school districts bring in school resource officers (SRO). Our town did this, and we have seen such a positive outcome from having an SRO in the schools. We were all taken back by this positive effect, and our SRO deeply cares about the wellness of the students. Our SRO goes above and beyond for these kids, sometimes helping them purchase items needed with his own money, or bringing them to doctors appointments on his own time because the family does not have the means to. In S2820, I was also concerned about not allowing school officials to inform police about juveniles who are suspected to be getting involved in gang activities. Who is this protecting? Clearly not the student, other students, teachers, staff, or families in the school district. If an SRO is aware of possible gang activity, then this gives them the opportunity to get involved with the student and show them different avenues, or to find out what is going on at home to make a child want to get involved with a gang.

My next concern was about the data collection portion of the bill. If every single interaction with a citizen needs to be documented and put into a database, or citizens receiving a receipt of the interaction, police are going to be losing valuable time they could spend focusing on other community concerns. After the passage of the hands free bill earlier this year, data collection was a major portion of the new law. Obviously, the pandemic stuck, and the State and police departments have not had the same amounts of interactions to analyze the data. There are many avenues already in place to obtain police interactions data points, and these can be explored instead of making an interaction with a citizen prolonged collection data for the State.

The bill talks about having cameras worn by each officer and honestly, I am a huge proponent for this. In today's modern world of everything being recorded, and with the national hostile attitude towards police, I feel having a recorded record will help citizens will feel their departments will have more transparency. It will also protect officers who are doing amazing police work everyday in the Commonwealth. However, recording systems are costly, and smaller towns finding the funds to buy the systems and technology is going to be difficult. Please consider more grants and funding to help all Massachusetts officers get cameras implemented, as well as clear and defined language in the legislature on what is for public dissemination and what is not. For example, I got into a house for a medical emergency, information seen and obtained there would fall under HIPPA. Or I respond to a domestic disturbance or sexual assault and my camera is on, if a neighbor or landlord wants to know what happened and requests this information through the freedom of information act, is the camera footage subject to be released? Please make the language clear and concise on this.

Finally, I wanted to address qualified immunity (QI). As the law as it is written currently, if a public servant violates someone's civil rights, or is subject to an excessive use of force incident, QI is lost. In the bill as it is written in S2820 leaves very vague language on QI, which will only open the door for numerous and frivolous civil lawsuits. I have never been subject to an excessive use of force or a police misconduct complaint, but I fear that with QI removed, and the vague language left for interpretation, any interaction can be "perceived" one way and now I am open to a civil lawsuit. It will be costly to defend myself, as many towns do not have the budget to pay for this. With the passage of S2800, I have already seen myself second guessing decisions on calls, and this could lead to getting hurt, or even killed. I have said for years that police are emergency social workers. We respond to sometimes violent and chaotic scenes, and we need to act quickly and then find avenues to solve the problem. This may mean the arrest of a domestic violence suspect, rendering aid to a drug overdose victim, removing children from abuse households while waiting for assistance from DCFS, and a host of other scenarios. Please do not forget, police are the first ones through the door in these chaotic situations. I would be remiss if I did not say that some of the things we witness changes the core of your person. I have seen deceased decomposed bodies, abused and sexually exploited children, horrific crashes, and I have to hold strong with families who try to make sense of it all. I have also cried with the loved ones of victims who try to come to grips with the incident. It is easy for everyone to sit back and point fingers at police on how we are doing it wrong, although they are not the ones who go through the door into the unknown and try to make a horrible situation better. Removing QI will only make it harder for us to perform our emergency social work to the community. We will be second guessing every single move, or not providing adequate protections to victims and families because we are concerned about a civil lawsuit to follow. If an officer acts outside of the law, is negligent, violates someone's constitutional rights, or uses excessive use of force then QI is removed and the officer should be punished accordingly. Please don't make officers concerned to do their job they have been trained so well to do.

I am proud to be a police officer in Massachusetts. I am proud of the fact that if you become a full time officer in Massachusetts, you can work in any other State in the nation because our training is so superior. Let's build on this. Let's not allow the incident in Minnesota or other States change what we do so well here. We can improve, we can always do better, and every day we strive for this. As I outlined, some parts on S2800 and S2820 will hinder police with protecting their communities. This bill was rushed through without adequate collaboration with the stakeholders immediately affected by these changes or even transparency. You have the opportunity to make this bill something other States can model their own reform on. Please take the time to really research, collaborate with stakeholders, community leaders, and Police Chiefs State wide to make this bill the pillar of modern policing. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully Submitted,

I am a firefighter/EMT of the past 5 years working on an ambulance. This bill was hastily written and in my opinion is absurd. Politicians don't know the risks of walking into a situation at 0300. We face risks and dangers everyday in our job while we work alongside police. There are changes that need to be made to this bill. I needs input from those that actually work in these positions, all the public servant employees who this will affect should have a say. Please take into consideration the trickle affect this will have on all of us. No more middle of the night secret votes. You work for us, it's time to act like it.

Hello, my name is Nicholas Hayes-Mota with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 51 Langdon St, Cambridge (02138). I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- * Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force
- * Qualified immunity reform

Thank you very much.

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill: (1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Good morning representatives,

I write to make sure that you are informed by the events of yesterday in New York City.

The city council passed, and the mayor signed, a measure that does most of what you are contemplating with this bill. The head of the New York State Police responsible for NYC immediately withdrew all of the state police who are policing in NYC and would be subject to this new law. You are playing with fire and will be held responsible by the electors if you pass this bill and the obvious consequences appear.

Respectfully,

Subject: S2820: Pass Meaningful Police Reform!

Dear Chairs Aaron Michlewitz and Clare Cronin,

I am writing as a Massachusetts voter, imploring you to keep the Senate's proposed policing reforms by passing bill S2820.

This bill would strongly limit qualified immunity, a practice which routinely allows police forces across the country to get off scot-free for murder and assault of Black and Brown bodies. Allowing victims of police brutality to sue for damages is a good first step to eliminating qualified immunity entirely.

Further, I believe it is high time to pass stronger use-of-force standards, preventing police from using tear gas or chokeholds, as well as prohibiting no-knock raids like the one that caused Breonna Taylor's murder.

I also would press the chairs to look hard at the way police interact with our schoolchildren. Having been a young adult in public schools five years ago, I do not see a reason as to why the kinds of issues found within schools could not be handled by trained staff such as school counselors, mental health professionals, or social workers. Doing so would help cut off the school-to-prison pipeline which devastates young Black people's lives and the health of their communities.

Further, I would ask that the chairs take the courageous step to fully prohibit facial recognition technology in its use by law enforcement. These technologies are an unambiguous infringement on civilian privacy, and are already threats to rights of free speech and free assembly.

Finally, I implore the chairs to create an independent, civilian-majority police certification and decertification body. This cannot be a body from within the police force; it must be fully independent and able to dole out meaningful checks and consequences on police power and behavior. Only a civilian review board will be able to take us forward towards the goal of minimizing police and their harm to Black and brown communities.

Sincerely,

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

Please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820 - An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color".

I writing you as a Police Officer.

The tumultuous events this country has dealt with over the past several months have been hard on all of us. Police Officers were hailed as heroes only a few short months ago during the beginning of the pandemic. More recently, we have all been grouped together and vilified because of the actions of one bad cop on the other side of the country simply because we wear a similar uniform.

I am urging you to closely inspect the language in the bill S2820 you will be debating about police reform. Massachusetts police officers have long been better trained and better equipped than many other parts of the country.

The specific language on Qualified Immunity is problematic for all of us. The existing language of qualified immunity does not defend the wrong doings of officers. It only defends actions taken that another reasonable officer in a similar situation would do as well. If this is changed there will be a mass exodus of law enforcement. We are not paid enough to go out and buy private liability insurance, and to be honest, I doubt most insurers would want to write that policy. This will have major negative implications in a career that is already under appreciated and under paid.

Any Officer will tell you no one dislikes a bad cop worse than a good cop, that being said it is imperative that police officers are given due process during any desertification process. A board of civilians will not be able to examine what is the right or wrong thing because they do not have the expertise or knowledge of police work to make an educated decision. Our Commonwealth has boards made up of experts in the field who makes decision on cases of misconduct for lawyers, doctors, barbers and dentists but for some reason when it comes to police this decision is going to be given to a civilian.

Please, I am asking for your support in re writing this bill and having experts in the profession of police work to aid in the process so we are able to have a bill the achieves the desired goals of this bill without undesired consequences.

Comments on S2820 from Bill Cohen, private citizen, 20 Taft Ave, Maynard, MA

For the past 41 years I have been working as an electrical engineer designing computer and communication systems that hopefully make the world a better place to live in. This past decade, most of my colleagues have been from other parts of the world, a very talented set of individuals. They migrated to this country from Asia, Africa, and even Haiti. They are migrating not only for the technical prowess of this country and commonwealth, but also because of the promise of a more equitable society. One where their families can live in a state where freedom of expression and fairness dominate.

The legislation contained in S2820 is important to show that people on the margins are not to be treated as lesser citizens than people with power and money. People that do not look European can go about their business in Massachusetts without fear from the Police.

It is important in every organization to continuously improve the quality of that organization. My engineering company constantly improves on the quality standards and procedures. S2820 will improve the quality and standards of police departments across the commonwealth. Change is always hard to deal with. There will be a lot of push back as there was in my private firm when policy changes were instituted.

The twentieth century way of doing business will not work in today's twenty-first century world. We need to move forward with the S2820 legislation to create a better living environment for all the peoples of this commonwealth.

Thank you for considering my opinion.

Subject: Police reform Bill - repeal it

Hello,

I am writing to you as a concerned citizen of Massachusetts as well as of the United States of America.

Please stop the current police reform Bill and vote against it.

We the people do not want our police to be subject to false accusations and scrutiny that the compromise of qualified immunity will bring.

This is not the time to compromise on public safety.

There is too much tumult in the world to compromise the position of the police in Massachusetts nor in the rest of the United States.

We stand by and should cultivate a civil society and the police are our first line of defense.

Massachusetts police are doing a great job and have not been at the center of any of the civil unrest going on in the country.

Protect Massachusetts, it's citizens as well as the duty of our police that we truly cherish and need.

Sincerely,

A concerned citizen and supporter of the police across this great nation as well as within the United States of America.

If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Hello, my name is Amy Shulman Weinberg with the Greater Boston Interfaith Organization (GBIO). I live at 25 Copley Street in Brookline . I am writing to urge you and the House to pass police reform that includes:

- * Implement Peace Officer Standards & Training with certification
- * Civil service access reform
- * Commission on structural racism
- * Clear statutory limits on police use of force

* Qualified immunity reform

Thank you very much

Subject: Police Reform

Dear Committee Members,

Please allow me the privilege of introducing myself, my name is Kenneth W. Hughes, and I am a retired Lieutenant of the Arlington, MA Police Department. I am sending this correspondence to you because I see great troubles ahead if the legislation that you are currently entertaining in regards to police reform is passed in its current form. Most notably, the elimination of "Qualified Immunity" piece of the bill will severely hamper how policing is done in the future. I acknowledge the noble intent of this legislation for many of our State Legislators is for greater accountability of policing in Massachusetts. I too believe in accountability, in policing, as well as in all other professions. Legislation with the scope and impact of police reform should not be hastily rushed through the legislative process but instead is worthy of thorough deliberation by all sides of this highly emotionally-charged issue. Contrary to the belief of some, there are many control measures already in place that hold police officers accountable for their actions, and that if properly used, would guarantee what most good people want, fair and equal protection under the law without having to eliminate "Qualified Immunity". The Civil Rights of ALL people are guaranteed under the United States and Massachusetts Constitutions and there are many Federal, State, and Local laws and Regulations that further support that guarantee. Having been a law enforcement officer for over 26 years I vehemently resent the characterization that the Criminal Justice System is "Systemically Racist" throughout. That belief is such a broad-brush attempt to tarnish the image of so many people who have given so much to protect and serve ALL people. I am not a racist and I was part of the Criminal Justice System. I worked with some of the finest police officers in Massachusetts and they were not racists either. By logical extension of the "Systemic Racism of the Criminal Justice System Theory " that would imply that not only those that not only those people who enforce the laws, but by also those people that try, judge, and even write the laws are racists and should therefore be also eliminated from "Qualified Immunity". I am not naïve enough to believe that the Criminal Justice System is perfect, it does have its share of problems, and those problems should and must be addressed but not in a "throw out the baby with the bath water" approach. Eliminating "Qualified Immunity" of police officers will drive many good people out of a noble profession and make those who chose to remain more tentative to respond in a situation in which will get themselves and others hurt and killed. Let cooler heads prevail, slow down, have more open hearings , bring all sides to the table , expand Education/Training and enforce existing Laws and Regulations in a humane and impartial manner. If you would like to discuss this matter with me please do not hesitate to contact me. Thank you.

Sincerely Yours,

Kenneth W. Hughes,

Retired Arlington, MA Police Lieutenant

The State House
Boston, MA 02133

Dear Chair Cronin, Chair Michlewitz, Vice-Chair Day, Vice-Chair Garlick and House members of the Judiciary and the House Ways and Means Committees,

Thank you for your commitment to racial justice and to the bright futures of young people in our Commonwealth.

As a resident of the commonwealth, I urge you to support Juvenile Justice Data, Raise the Age, and Expungement.

1. Require transparency in juvenile justice decisions by race and ethnicity (as filed by Rep. Tyler in H.2141)
2. End the automatic prosecution of teenagers as adults (as filed by Rep. O'Day in H.3420)
3. Expand expungement eligibility (as filed by Reps. Decker and Khan in H.1386 and as passed in S.2820 §§59-61)

Thank you for defending and protecting the students of Massachusetts. I look forward to hearing back from you about how you voted on this bill.

Dear Honorable State Representatives,
I am the Vice President of the IBPO Local 504 Worcester Police Official's Union.

?I am respectfully writing to you asking that you do not support Senate bill 2800-2820 as it is currently written.

This bill has so many far reaching dangerous affects on policing and organized labor in this bill.

If passed in its current form this bill gives the POSAC board the right to take away an officers livelihood without Due Process. The make up of the POSAC board needs to be made of individuals who have the background, training and education in law enforcement, not members who have never walked a day in any of our boots.

I ask you this question, is there any public or private sector profession that doesn't have an allegation/ complaint investigated by an internal employer prior too going to a board; e.g. nurse/lawyer/dr/judge, are all afforded the opportunity to be heard before their employer. If the employee's complaint was sustained they had the right to appeal their complaint before a full panel/civil service commission for final disposition The senate & governor's bill eliminates this process thus taking away our rights to arbitration & due process. How can this POSAC board have the ability to conduct investigations and subpoena people without having any experience on how to even conduct an investigation? We were hired as civil service employees which gave us the right to arbitration. This senate legislation takes that right away without bargaining, which is another violation of union rights under collective bargaining. The Governor Baker's own admission when asked about this at his press conference he stated he would visit elimination of Civil Service at a later time, really, then how did this happen now?

This senate legislation weakens the standard on the Qualified Immunity. With all the debate that took place in the senate, we really believe amendment 137 should have been adopted and placed in a study where the right vetting could take place, with the right people with experience in this particular field.

In conclusion we are respectfully asking that when you do vote on any legislation you consider all the facts that have been presented to you. As it's been mentioned so many times, there isn't one police officer who condoned what happened to Mr.Floyd but it must be stated, it didn't happen here in our commonwealth and we shouldn't have our profession turned upside down. We have stated many times there are things in the senate bill we have no issues with, body cameras, no choke holds, more training.

After 26 years on the Worcester Police Dept I've never thought I would see the day when this noble profession would have so many individuals jump to conclusions that are not supported by real data. Prior too May 25th, police officer's & other front line personnel were being called hero's for actions being conducted during Covid-19. On May 26th we became the enemy and it's just not right. The things that have taken place in our commonwealth to police officer's, our families and across our nation is disheartening to say the least. We hope this legislative body will make the right decision and fix the other sides calculated mistakes.

Respectfully,
Sgt Anthony Petrone

Subject: S. 2820 Reforming Police Standards

Good Morning;

I am writing with respect to S. 2820, and other police reform bills that may be proposed, one of which is Qualified Immunity.

I found the changes were rushed through by the Senate, without careful understanding of each and of what Qualified Immunity is and what it already does not protect police from.

Qualified Immunity protects not just Police Officers but all Government Officials from personal liability of civil lawsuits UNLESS HE OR SHE VIOLATES "Clearly established "legal principles.

Due Process - Police Officers as well as all citizens should be given DUE PROCESS in disciplinary proceedings.

Police Officer Standards and Accreditation Committee - Committee should be objective, with members who are actively working in Law Enforcement, both as Administrators and working on the Front Lines.

If we continue to attack our Police as being done now, both physically and by harmful legislation, we will not get the GOOD Police, we will lose.

No Good Cop likes a Bad Cop.

My son is a well educated Good Police Sergeant who I am so proud of and he is being attacked and treated unfairly by a few BAD cops.

Get the Bad Cops but not at the expense of our Good Cops as if you do this, we all lose.

Subject: Testimony in support of Senate bill S.2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

I am writing in support of Senate bill S.2820.

Over the years, the ability of our city and town governments to create and manage policing that meets the needs and aspirations of our communities has been dismantled, including by the non-statutory judge-made doctrine of qualified immunity, and the Chapter 150E collective bargaining law and the Joint Labor Management Committee statute that together eliminate local government options for effective police accountability.

This bill provides important legislation that begins to return those rights to our communities. It also creates a much needed system for the training and certification of police officers, and makes other necessary changes to law and policy to improve and enhance the accountability of policing in the Commonwealth. This is landmark legislation that would help transform how law enforcement is practiced in Massachusetts, with a long overdue focus on racial equity in our justice system.

Thank you for your consideration on this matter.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Columbus

Dear Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

The MA Senate has recently proposed a massive police reform bill that it intends to pass without a public hearing. This bill was largely authored by people who consistently oppose police services. As a constituent, I request that you take the following action before voting on any such bill:

1. READ THE BILL
2. ASK HOW POLICE DEPTS IN YOUR DISTRICT ARE ACTUALLY PERFORMING
3. AT A MINIMUM, HOLD A PUBLIC HEARING ON THE BILL

These are VERY MINIMAL requests before passing such massive legislation that has such a huge impact.

As your constituent, I request and expect that you will represent me, and that you will do your due diligence. Please read and understand the bill. Please research how your own district's police officers are actually doing. Please hold a hearing.

We intend to hold ourselves accountable, and we trust that you will do the same.

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Clair Cronin,

I am writing in regards to the S.2820 Reforming Police Standards bill that is passed MA Senate. The measure, in my opinion, is counterproductive and would not lead to improving public safety especially in the current environment of elevated public unrest. I urge you to reconsider the bill.

Subject: S.2820 - REJECT THIS BILL

I write to you today to express my strong opposition to the recently filed S.2820. This bill is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of this bill:

This bill authorizes for treble damages if a police officer is found to have submitted a false pay record. This would make police officers the ONLY public employees subject to this punishment. The courts will have a field day in overturning this.

This bill the POSAC Committee is granted broad powers, including the power of subpoena, in active investigations- even when the original law enforcement agency has conducted it's own investigation. The current language sets the groundwork for unconstitutional violations of a police officer's 5th amendment rights against self-incrimination (see Carney vs Springfield) and constitutional protections against "double-jeopardy".

Qualified immunity protections are removed and replaced with a "no reasonable defendant" qualifier. This removes important liability protections essential for the police officers we send out on patrol in our communities and who often deal with some of the most dangerous of circumstances with little or no back-up. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers up to personal liabilities so they cannot purchase a home, a car, obtain a credit card, or other things for the benefit of them and their families. Good luck with police recruitment.

Regards,

Jamie St. Martin

Subject: Bill S.2820

July 17, 2020

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Stacey Wood and I live at 12 Mount Vernon street Saugus. I work at the Suffolk County Sheriff's Department and am a corrections officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. Please take serious consideration of the full ramifications this could have if it were to pass. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Stacey Wood

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this letter as an extremely concerned, frightened, and disappointed resident of Massachusetts. This bill essentially strips our police officer of the ability to do his/her job. Citizens are now on their own, and this is through no fault of the law enforcement officers. Who can blame them for not taking any risk and endangering themselves? No one will be standing up to defend them. They are automatically guilty of abusing their authority before the facts of the situation are even provided! Officers are retiring from many departments at an alarming rate. NO ONE wants this job! People say we need educated officers, well you just lost them. And the opportunity to provide officers with additional training along with expectations and detailed consequences has been lost. Good officers will be hard to find. The new "recruits" wanting this job will be criminals and other simply bad people wanting a legal gun in their hands.

I have been in education for over 20 years and I cringe at mandates from those who have no experience or knowledge in that field. I sense that this is happening to our law enforcement field. Has anyone talked to them? Of course there are bad cops. They need to be removed with a zero tolerance policy. But this is not the time for politicians to cave to these outrageous global demands. If this increase in crime we are witnessing right now is any indication, I shudder to think of how many lives will be lost in the coming weeks and months if this continues. This is the time to come together and communicate with all concerned. Voices need to be heard and talked through calmly, rationally, and realistically.

Thank you for your time.

Good Morning

I am writing to you today in disappointment regarding the bill the senate passed regarding the Police Reform. This bill is an anti labor legislation. It removes due process, collective bargaining and qualified immunity. All key components to a steady and secure job, to which police officers deserve. It also inserts a licensing board with little to no experience. Any board in charge of any group of people should be trained, experienced and respected by the people it licenses.

Subject: Regarding defunding the law enforcement

Hi,

As a female business owner that immigrated from Syria, and America welcomed and made me feel safe and protected as a female and a citizen, i know the value of having law enforcement protecting us.

My story of how the police officers stood by me and all Bostonians to protect and serve since the day i moved in here 12 years ago cannot described in words the appreciation and respect that i hold for them

I got attacked by 2 men to rob me 8 years ago, and police was there for me and protected me and even drove me home, and made sure i am safe.

A year later My friend was lost and we reported her, the police went above and beyond to find her but unfortunately someone already killed her.

And boston marathon bombing them e cannot even describe how we could have overcomes it, if it wasn't for law enforcement keeping us safe.

I see homeless needs help or ppl on drug needs help i call police they are there for them with EMS in seconds

We own business and the rioting that happened last month made us think do we really need less policing, businesses have lost a lot due to the DA low on crimes, and they keep repeating the same assaults on law obeying citizens because of the DA do not prosecute policy

It's not right or fair for low obedient tax payers that all they want is a safe environment to live in.

We are all in for more police training but no to defund the police

Just 3 days ago i got attacked by a male around 9:45 pm walking on newbury street, cussing on me for walking on the sidewalk, and didn't hear the honking as he was riding his bike on the side walk while empty streets, he even threaten to hit me, is that what the mayor and governor wants citizens to not feel safe anymore in their city, to businesses free the city !

They are attacking our religion and churches
I do not feel safe anymore after 12 years here as a citizen and a woman, if the governor and mayor do not step up and help us soon all of us will flee the city and the state to a state that values its citizens

Please start prosecuting offenders and do not defund the police

Boston and MA rise with its safety and without it will turn to another big crime city

Thank you

To whom it may concern:

As your constituent, I write to you today to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity. This bill in its present form is troubling in many ways and will make an already dangerous and difficult job even more dangerous for the men and women in law enforcement who serve our communities every day with honor and courage. Below are just a few areas, among many others, that concern me and warrant your rejection of these components of this bill:

(1)?Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law demands the same rights of appeal afforded to all citizens and fellow public servants. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability.

(2)?Qualified Immunity: Qualified Immunity does not protect problem police officers. Qualified Immunity is extended to all public employees who act reasonably and in compliance with the rules and regulations of their respective departments, not just police officers. Qualified Immunity protects all public employees, as well as their municipalities, from frivolously lawsuits. This bill removes important liability protections essential for all public servants. Removing qualified immunity protections in this way will open officers, and other public employees to personal liabilities, causing significant financial burdens. This will impede future recruitment in all public fields: police officers, teachers, nurses, fire fighters, corrections officers, etc., as they are all directly affected by qualified immunity protections.

(3)?POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include more rank-and-file police officers and experts in the law enforcement field. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, experts in law enforcement should oversee practitioners in law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Thank you,

Subject: Police Reform Bill

I am asking for you to not support S.2820 as written. This bill was hastily written, with insufficient public comment. More so, it will impede law enforcement officers to fulfill their duties as they do today. Massachusetts has some of the best trained officers in the U.S. If this bill passes as written, all officers will now be second guessing every decision they have to make, which could take precious seconds away from them, possibly resulting in serious injury or death, either to themselves, or the public they are trying to protect and serve. Almost every officer I know, of which I am father to two of them, are considering leaving the profession they love if this bill passes as written. Again I ask you not to support this bill. Thank you.

Subject: NEW BILL S 2820 OPPOSITION

Dear Rep. Aaron Michlewitz and Rep. Claire Cronin,

My name is LISA SAWYER and I live at 20 VALLEY STREET, WAKEFIELD, MA 01880. As your constituent, I write to you today to express my staunch opposition to S.2820, a piece of hastily-thrown-together legislation that will hamper law enforcement efforts across the Commonwealth. It robs police officers of the same Constitutional Rights extended to citizens across the nation. It is misguided and wrong.

Like most of my neighbors, I am dismayed at the scarcity of respect and protections extended to police officers in your proposed reforms. While there is always room for improvement in policing, the proposed legislation has far too many flaws. Of the many concerns, three, in particular, stand out and demand immediate attention, modification and/or correction. Those issues are:

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Fair and equitable process under the law. The appeal processes afforded to police officers have been in place for generations. They deserve to maintain the right to appeal given to all of our public servants.

(3) POSA Committee: The composition of the POSA Committee must include rank-and-file police officers. If you're going to regulate law enforcement, up to and including termination, you must understand law enforcement. The same way doctors oversee doctors, lawyers oversee lawyers, teachers oversee teachers, law enforcement should oversee law enforcement.

In closing, I remind you that those who protect and serve communities across Massachusetts are some of the most sophisticated and educated law enforcement officials in the nation. Let me remind you that in 2015 President Obama recognized the Boston Police Department as one of the best in the nation at community policing. I again implore you to amend and correct S.2820 so as to treat the men and women in law enforcement with the respect and dignity they deserve.

Sincerely,

My name is Melissa Ganley. I am a resident of Somerville, MA and a member of March like a Mother: for Black Lives. I am writing this virtual testimony to urge you to pass SB.2800 the Reform, Shift, Build Act in its entirety. It is the minimum and the bill must leave the legislature in its entirety.

I believe that many of our systems, including how we have come to police our communities, are set up to disenfranchise people of color. I believe that this bill is a first step in ensuring that all people, but particularly our black and brown neighbors are safe. Black lives matter and we must put an end to practices that allow the police to murder black folks in the street without repercussions.

This bill bans chokeholds, promotes de-escalation tactics, certifies police officers, prohibits the use of facial recognition, limits qualified immunity for police, and redirects money from policing to community investment. I urge you to ensure that all aspects of this bill are intact. We are in a historical moment and this bill ensures that we in Massachusetts meet the demand of this movement.

Thank you for your consideration of your request to give SB.2800 a favorable report.

As a parent of a mixed-race toddler, the idea of someone -- whose job it is to PROTECT my child -- causing my child bodily harm makes me ill. And as an extension, it makes me ill to think of ANYONE's child being treated that way. White communities are already policed way less than Black communities and are "safe." We need to invest the same money and time into Black and Brown communities because they matter, too. It's important that we ban violent restraint and encourage de-escalation for the humanity of us all.

Subject: Senate Bill S2820

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

I ask that you support amendments 114,116,126,134,129, and 137 to the Senate Bill S2820. The amendments deal with due process and fair representation on the board as well as uniform accreditation standards. I support enhanced training and appropriate certification standards and policies that promote fair and unbiased treatment of all citizens, INCLUDING POLICE OFFICERS. The original version of the bill undercuts collective bargaining rights and due process. These amendments are an attempt to improve the bill in these areas. They do not lessen the training protocols and standards or general accountability for law enforcement as originally proposed. Thank you for your time and consideration.

These are the important points that I would really like to highlight and bring to everyone's attention:

1. The senate version will seriously undermine public safety. The false narrative that QI prevents the public from suing Pos and holding them accountable which dominated the senate debate masked provisions in the bill which will have a serious impact on critical public safety issues. Not only will the unintended and unnecessary changes to QI hamstring police offices in the course of their duties due t the fact that they will be subjected to numerous frivolous nuisance suits for any of their actions but hidden in the bill are various provisions which will protect drug dealers, human traffickers, gang activity in minority neighborhood schools ,organized retail theft and terrorists.

2. The process employed by the senate of using an omnibus bill with numerous, diverse and complicated policy issues coupled with limited public and professional participation was undemocratic, flawed and totally non transparent. The original version of the bill was over 70 pages, had hundreds of changes to public safety sections of the general laws and sound public policy sections ,it was sent to the floor with no hearing and less than a couple of days for the members to digest/caucus and receive public comment thus creating a process which was a sham.

3. Police support uniform statewide training standards and policies as well as an appropriate regulatory board which is fair and unbiased. The senate created a board that is dominated by groups who have stated anti law enforcement biases and preconceived punitive motives toward police. The board as proposed is unlike any other of the 160 professional regulatory boards in the Commonwealth that the Black and Latino Caucus and its individual members as well as the Governor repeatedly and publicly stated should be used as the example of the model o be use. Its composition is fundamentally incapable of providing regulatory due process. Furthermore, the proposed members are completely devoid of sufficient experience in law enforcement to create training policies and standards unlike members of the other 160 professional boards.

4. Qualified Immunity is unnecessary if the Legislature adopts uniform statewide standards and bans unlawful use of force techniques which all police personnel unequivocally support. Once we have uniform standards and policies and the statutory banning of use of force techniques both the officers and the individual citizens will know what is reasonable and have a clear picture of what conduct is a violation of a citizen's rights and that conduct cannot be protected by QI. This will also limit the potential explosion of civil suits against other public employee groups Thus reducing costs that would otherwise go through the roof and potentially have a devastating impact on municipal and agency budgets. Police officers are already subjected to suits and suits that are successful when their conduct warrants it. There is no legitimate need to change the law particularly when we get uniform standards

To The Chair of the House Committee on Ways and Means, Rep. Aaron Michlewitz, in cooperation with Rep. Claire Cronin, Chair of the Joint Committee on the Judiciary ,

I am writing to you today to express my concerns with bill S2820 that is before you and I sincerely hope that you will not let this bill move forward as it stands. I am extremely disappointed and concerned at how the Senate moved this through so quickly without any public hearings or transparency in the matter. I have faith that you will not do the same.

This letter expresses my personal views and not that of my employer or department.

I immigrated to this country in 2001 with my family from Albania. Growing up in a poor country definitely had its challenges, one of them being police violence. What I witnessed in my childhood, pushed me to make a change in the world, and growing up in the City of Boston and seeing the numerous positive interactions police officers had with the community, pushed me to become a police officer in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

I currently work at a community college in Boston, which has given me the opportunity to help so many people, including many Albanian immigrants. I can sincerely say that although policing as a whole does need some changes and reform, the many police officers I have worked with and trained with in this state, show up and do good every single day for their communities. Many, myself included, give their ALL to this job so that they can make a difference. The passing of this bill, would put these same officers in jeopardy, and many reconsidering staying in the profession, myself included.

This bill directly attacks qualified immunity and due process. Qualified immunity does not protect bad officers, it protects good officers from civil lawsuits. We should want our officers to be able to act to protect our communities without fear of being sued at every turn, otherwise why would they put themselves at risk? A large majority of law enforcement officers do the right thing and are good officers, yet there is a real push to end qualified immunity to open good officers up to frivolous lawsuits because of the actions of a few who, by their own actions, would not be covered by qualified immunity anyway. It just doesn't make any sense why we are endangering the livelihood of many for the actions of a few.

When people ask me why I became a police officer, I have a cliché answer, to make a change and help people. If this bill passes as it stands, how can I still go out there with the same passion, while fearing that I will be held liable for just doing my job in good faith? I give more to this job than sometimes I do to my family, but this bill would put their lives in jeopardy too by removing the protections and due process I am currently afforded for simply doing my job.

As I stated earlier, reform is needed, but I stand against S2820 as it is currently presented because it undermines public safety by limiting our officer's ability to do our jobs effectively. Police officers across the state support uniform training standards and policies and we have always pushed for it because it improves our quality of policing. We are already some of the most educated and best trained officers across the country. However, we do not support our due process rights and qualified immunity being taken away. Changes to qualified immunity would be unnecessary if the legislature adopted a uniform statewide standard and bans unlawful use of force techniques which all police personnel unequivocally support.

The senate version of a regulatory board is unacceptable as it strips officers of due process rights and does away with protections currently set forth in collective bargaining agreements and civil service law. Their version of a regulatory board would be made up of people that are anti-police and have an explicit bias against police, which would make any reasonable person believe that it will not give officers a fair chance.

If the senate bill is passed in its current form the costs to municipalities and the State will skyrocket from frivolous lawsuits and potentially having a devastating impact on budgets statewide. On top of the negative financial impact, many police officers will leave the profession to protect their families, and I think it will be extremely hard to get people to fill their spots.

I love this job, I truly truly do. I am part of a Community Engagement Unit at my department because I love helping my community. This has been an emotional time for me because of the chance that I might have to make the hard decision of whether I can stay in this profession or not, knowing that I will not enjoy any other job as much as this.

Please do not move this bill forward as is. There are many positive aspects of the bill, but the negative aspects, such as removal of due process and qualified immunity for ALL PUBLIC EMPLOYEES not even just police officers, far outweighs the good.

Thank you for taking the time to listen to me. I hope you will do the right thing.

Sincerely,

Bill S.2820 An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just Commonwealth that values black lives and communities of color.

I am perplexed at the rush to pass such an important piece of legislation at 4am without public hearing, but more so at the over reaching to include all public services EXCEPT yourselves from qualified immunity. Disgraceful.

You have included in the bill nurses, firefighters and other public service members yet the reason for the bill was Police reform due to police brutality of colored people. So if I understand this correctly a nurse can now be sued by a patient for care they received while under her care. As a result the nurse and her family could lose their home or be financially ruined because of her attempt to care for a patient. An 18 year old lifeguard could mistakenly injure a person in while saving their life while rescuing them from riptides and can be sued. Imagine being 18 years old and being sued while working a summer job that pays maybe $20 an hour because you in good faith rescued a person.

As legislators you have a job to enact laws that protect all lives and pass bills for police reform for all people. You have again shown how out of touch you are with the real world. Most cops are good cops but I agree that there are others that are not. Pass reforms for more training and accountability and a system for tracking complaints and disciplinary actions.

As for "no knock" I would suggest you go with a police office and you knock and nicely announce you have warrant and to open the door. Live the life of a police officer or undercover agent or a member of the gang force for a week. Let's knock and announce ourselves so the criminal has time to flee or perhaps retrieve a gun and shoot randomly at the door. Or maybe you could ride along and respond to a domestic violence call and see what actually occurs.

On another note voting "present" should not be allowed in any bill or piece of legislation EVER. Imagine if a police officer reports for duty and is just "present". Vote yes or no and if you need more time then put a motion forward for that. For the love of all things good take the necessary to get this bill right for all people.

I implore as the sister of a retired State Police Trooper and mother of an aspiring Nurse that you take the time to have public hearings and hear from ALL stakeholders for such an important piece of legislation.

As a parent of two Law Enforcement officers, Virginia Beach PD, please consider that the systemic racism referenced in the MSM only applies to a small number of police officers. The only provision, that I've seen thus far, that I can absolutely get behind is a citizens review board for problematic officers. Note that the Chief of Minneapolis PD stated that he's hogtied most of the time by the Union. In only 10% of cases is he able to properly discipline, that would mean fire/dismiss, overly forceful officers..

As a side note.. My daughter was one of 5 first responders to last years VB Courthouse shooting. She's an outstanding officer who if she sees something says something to get things rectified..

Please lets not be to hasty in correcting a problem that might not be as pervasive in Massachusetts..

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin,

Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

Massachusetts should be a leader on these issues across the country.

We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons.

Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

July 16, 2020

Dear Chair Michlewitz and Chair Cronin,

My name is Kristin Hicks and I live at 163 Rockland St, North Easton MA. I work for Suffolk County Sheriff's Department as a correction officer. As a constituent, I write to express my opposition to Senate Bill 2820. This legislation is detrimental to police and correction officers who work every day to keep the people of the Commonwealth safe. In 2019 the Criminal Justice System went through reform. That reform took several years to develop. I am dismayed in the hastiness that this bill was passed but I welcome the opportunity to tell you how this bill turns its back on the very men and women who serve the public.

????????????????????? ??????????????????: Qualified immunity doesn't protect officers who break the law or violate someone's civil rights. Qualified Immunity protects officers who did not clearly violate statutory policy or constitutional rights. The erasure of this would open up the flood gates for frivolous lawsuits causing officers to acquire additional insurance and tying up the justice system causing the Commonwealth millions of dollars to process such frivolous lawsuits.

????????? ?????????? ?????????????????? ??????????????: The fact that you want to take away an officer's use of pepper spray, impact weapons and K9 would leave no other option than to go from, yelling "Stop" to hands on tactics and/or using your firearm. We are all for de-escalation but if you take away these tools the amount of injuries and deaths would without a doubt rise.

????????????????????? ??????????????????????: While we are held to a higher standard than others in the community, to have an oversight committee made of people who have never worn the uniform, including an ex convicted felon is completely unnecessary and irresponsible. When this oversight board hears testimony where are the officer's rights under our collective bargaining agreement? Where are our rights to due process? What is the appeal process? These are things that have never been heard or explained to me. The need for responsible and qualified individuals on any committee should be first and foremost.

I am asking you to stop and think about the rush to reform police and corrections in such haste. Our officers are some of the best and well-trained officers anywhere. Although, we are not opposed to getting better it should be done with dignity and respect for the men and women who serve the Commonwealth. I ask that you think about the police officer you need to keep your streets safe from violence, and don't dismantle proven community policing practices. I would also ask you to think about the Correction Officer alone in a cell block, surrounded by up to one hundred inmates, not knowing when violence could erupt. I'm asking for your support and ensuring that whatever reform is passed that you do it responsibly. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Subject: Public Comment for bill S2820

Thank you Chairpersons, Representatives, Senators, Committee members, and interested citizens for the opportunity to voice my opinion regarding S. Bill 2820.

My name is Stephanie Duggan, a person who was born and raised in the beautiful state of Massachusetts, and who is now a mother, wife, and homeowner choosing to raise my family in this state. I'm also the wife of a Police Officer, who loves his community and who strives to be the greater good in the world every day - in or out of uniform. Being a Police Officer, I'm sure you are all willing to admit, is a very high stress job in the best of times, never mind the climate now where Police are seen as the enemy and racist as a whole. But even on the hardest of days, the officers I know take solace in the lives they have saved, and the positive impacts they have had on the people in the community, or neighboring communities.

When we saw bill S. 2800 pass through the Senate our hearts hurt and we felt betrayed by the Senators. We felt concerned that the life we built together and everything we have worked and sacrificed for is at risk now. To "water down" qualified immunity and blur the language so it's not clear what it stands for or protects now is a slap in the face to the amazing officers in our state, as well as all public employees. The doctrine exists for a reason. Whether people want to admit it or not, there are bad people in the world, and if this weakening of qualified immunity stands there will be people who take advantage of that. Please reconsider this portion of the bill.

Another issue I have is with the lack of Due Process and attack on Collective Bargaining. To eliminate Due Process for Police Officers and put sole discretion in the hands of the "Accreditation Committee" is unfair and un-American. Every single union has the right for disciplinary actions to be reviewed by a neutral arbitrator. Police officers should not be exempt from this.

My final issue I want to voice today is that this bill would create a Licensing Agency in which the majority of the members are not Police Officers. To only require 1 member of the board to be a Trooper or Patrol Officer is unjust. There needs to be more representation of people who actually do the job patrolling the streets on this board - as there are with other Licensing Boards in the State.

Thank you for your time, and thank you to the Senators and Representatives who were brave enough to stand up for our Law Enforcement Officers when the popular thing now is to vilify them and punish them as though they are all evil people. I would recommend to anyone listening to my words and perhaps rolling their eyes, to request to go for some ride-a-longs at some of our Police Departments across the state to "take a walk in their shoes" and gain some perspective on what it means to be a Police Officer.

Respectfully,

Stephanie Duggan

My name is Daniel Ford. I am 69 years old and have been a resident of Mass my entire life. I am currently still teaching high school and have taught in Mass for nearly 30 years. I have never felt stronger about an issue than I do about this bill. This is the first time that I have requested ANYTHING from the people that represent me. I am an English teacher, so I could write 3 or 4 pages about the outrageous things requested in this bill.. Please be aware that I have queried most of the 60 teachers that I teach with ( I have been at my current high school for 16 years) and over 90% of them are firmly AGAINST this bill... Everyone feels awful about what happened to Floyd! The police need improvements..

So do teachers, firemen, nurses and even representatives... Thanks for your time.. Dan Ford

My name is Michael Donahue and I write to you to express my support for our many first responders who put their lives on the line for the Commonwealth every single day. As the House and Senate consider legislation revolving around public safety, and in particular police reform, I hope that you will join me in prioritizing support for the establishment of a standards and accreditation committee, which includes increased transparency and reporting, as well as strong actions focused on the promotion of diversity and restrictions on excessive force. These goals are attainable and are needed now.

I am, however, concerned at the expansion of this legislation, targeting fundamental protections such as due process and qualified immunity - legal safeguards that have been established over decades and refined by the some of the greatest legal minds our country has known. Due process should not be viewed as an arduous impediment, but favored as a bedrock principle of fundamental fairness, procedure and accountability. Qualified immunity is the baseline for all government officials and critical to the efficient and enthusiastic performance of their duties. Qualified immunity is not a complete shield against liability - egregious acts are afforded no protection under the qualified immunity doctrine. Further, qualified immunity is civil in nature and provides no protection in a criminal prosecution. The United States Supreme Court and the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts through numerous cases have continued to uphold the value and necessity of qualified immunity. To remove or modify without deliberative thought and careful examination of consequence, both intended and unintended, is dangerous. Due Process and Qualified Immunity are well settled in the law and sound public policy dictates that the Legislature not disturb these standards - certainly not in this bill so abruptly and certainly not without a vigorous debate both in the Legislature and in the court of public opinion.

We must remain focused on passing legislation that includes a standards and training system to certify officers, establish clear guidelines on the use of force by police across all Massachusetts departments, to include a duty to intervene, and put in place mechanisms for the promotion of diversity. This does not detract or reject other reforms, but rather prioritizes those that can be accomplished before the end of this legislative session on July 31st.

Please join me in demanding nothing less than sound, well-reasoned and forward-thinking legislation.

Thank you for your consideration.
Michael Donahue

Subject: S2820 Concerns PLEASE READ

Dear Senate and State Representatives,

I am sending this email regarding S2820. I would like to first start off by saying how deeply disappointed and appalled I am that this bill was even a viable option in taking steps towards preventing police brutality. These men and women are putting their lives on the line for YOU every single day. They wake up and decide to go to work and be you and the communities protection and now with this bill all you are doing is preventing them from doing their one sole duty, enforcing the law and protecting their fellow citizens. Let me ask you a question, do you think if this bill is passed an officer is going to risk their entire life, not just their life but their families and all of their belongings, just to arrest some gang member in a neighborhood for someone to witness it and decide to sue them because they weren't "comfortable" with the arrest that was made. Say this gang member was a cold blooded murderer, rapist, pedophile, etc., and the officer who made the arrest gets sued for it; That is not just disgusting to only me but the other half of the community that is feeling fear and loss of protection in our towns, states, or cities. If this bill were to pass, you would not only lose many officers of the law, but the sole support of any politician to sign off on this. I come from a family of law enforcement. I have had diagnosed anxiety from an extremely young age due to my father leaving the house everyday in a bullet proof vest, not knowing if he will ever come home again. He's been in countless shootings, one where his cruiser was pelted with over 50 bullets, one where he had to save a fellow officers life after being shot multiple times from inside his cruiser with an automatic rifle. He has searched for missing children, and came upon a locked car in the woods filled with carbon monoxide with a mother and her child inside.. the mother attempting to kill them both. I wake up every day not knowing if I will ever see my father again. Now, due to this bill, my anxiety has never been worse, watching the news hearing about 5+ law enforcement officers being murdered a day. I am so disheartened to have to even be sending this email. You are giving anyone the option to sue my father and take our home, belongings, everything away from us solely based on my father doing his job. That is utterly terrifying. My father is an outstanding law enforcement officer, he is decorated with the highest of medals, including the medal of valor in which Brian Ashe presented him with. My aunt is also a Massachusetts State Trooper, it had been her dream to get into the academy and she was one of the best there. She has officially been a trooper for a year this past June, and now due to this bill I'm sure all of law enforcement are contemplating why they should stay in this profession; Risking their lives, all to lose everything in their's because someone didn't like the way they did something during an arrest, raid, etc. All this outrageous bill is doing is causing more fear, more anarchy, more confrontation, more separation in communities. This bill is not beneficial, for anyone, including the oppressed. Please reconsider and continue allowing our only source of daily protection to do their job correctly without being penalized. There are other solutions to our day to day problems, this isn't it. All this is doing is causing a larger divide among communities. Please reconsider for the sake of not only law enforcement but the citizens who are absolutely terrified of this bill passing. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Logan Williams, daughter of Trooper Keller Williams and niece of Trooper

Subject: Testimony for Bill S.2820

Attachments: Bill_S.2800.eml

Importance: High

As your constituent, I write to you to express my strong opposition to many parts of the recently passed S.2820. Attached is a letter expressing my views in regards to qualified immunity as it pertains toward police, which I have emailed to Senator Julian Cyr. I am equally concerned about the further expansion of this legislation targeting the fundamental protections of due process.

(1) Due Process for all police officers: Stripping police officers of any due process of law negates everything the justice system represents. The legislature cannot deem rights that are granted to all citizens be forfeit to others simply for choosing the profession of law enforcement. Full protections of the law which are afforded to all people through the US Constitution and the Constitution of Massachusetts cannot be viewed as annoyances and impediments to be ignored or discarded simply because they may become inconvenient in an unknown future disciplinary action.

(2) Qualified Immunity: As I expressed in my email to Senator Julian Cyr (see attached file) with regard to qualified immunity towards police, qualified immunity is a necessity for law enforcement professionals. Any stoppage of the freedom of movement by a police officer is considered an arrest, from a motor vehicle stop to actually placing a person in custody (for any arrest-able offense). If any court decision is found in favor of the defendant (from not responsible to not guilty), then the officer who stopped that person is now guilty of violating that persons rights and can be subject to a civil action against him/her. Qualified immunity IS NOT absolute immunity. Officers can still face civil litigation for violating peoples rights. Officers can still face criminal charges for violations of the law. Qualified immunity doesn't protect an officer from either of the these. Qualified immunity protects municipalities and officers from frivolous and vexatious lawsuits. As stated in my email to Sen. Cyr, the repercussions of eliminating qualified immunity is unfathomable; from the loss of existing police officers to the inability to recruit qualified replacements. It is unconscionable to put police officers in a position to be afraid of losing their reputation, job, pension, property and face financial ruin for correctly and professionally performing the job demanded of them by the municipality for which they work. Lastly, all the other municipal professions in the public field that rely on qualified immunity for protection (corrections officers, fire fighters, EMT's) will face this same dilemma. It is the job and responsibility of the State Senators and Representatives to protect the people who serve the public.

(3) POSA committee: The POSA committee must include police officers. Law enforcement is not an abstract that one can assume knowledge of. Law enforcement requires vast amounts of academic study of state law, federal law, criminal procedure, practical applications, as well as the appropriate use of force. Along with departmental policy, departmental rules and regulations and many other aspects, a person must know Massachusetts training standards. Knowledge of the U.S. Constitution and the Constitution of Massachusetts is needed as well. Placing persons without expert knowledge in a position where they have the power to terminate the employment of a police officer is a miscarriage of responsibility, due process and justice. Police officers must be on this committee to provide expert knowledge in the field of law enforcement.

I repeat to you all my closing to Senator Cyr. Sir, I beseech you, please remember the officer's you want to sanction are the same one's you called hero's when the marathon was bombed. We are the same one's who kept our cities from becoming conflagrations and restored order when businesses were looted just last month. When other cities were out of control, the law enforcement professionals of this state kept not just order, but peace. We no longer feel we have the support of the Legislature. To do our jobs we have to have the ability to do so without fear or threat of being sued for enforcing the laws of the Commonwealth.

We feel abandoned by the people who charge us with performing a duty and attacked by the very people we protect. Having legislature brought against the police as a punitive action based on the behavior of an officer's actions in another state is reprehensible. We are not any of these things that are screamed into our faces.

Have the courage to stand by us. We are honorable, hard working and professional. We deserve the right to work without fear of losing our financial future.

Thank you,

Garry Turgiss

To the judiciary Committee on the public hearing on bill S2800 and S2820. Here are the facts on what's going to happen if QI and due process are eliminated. What the senate passed was a slap in the face to all the men and women that wear the uniform in the Commonwealth. Here in Commonwealth I believe that the men and women do a fantastic job in policing. I would hope that what happen thousands miles away ( Minnesota) would not be a rushed judgement on this issue. QI and due process would not just effect police officers. It would effect a number of government jobs stated below. I understand that change is need in certain areas. But not in QI and due process.

I hope you take a hard look at what the police do in the commonwealth and what a great job they do!

Thank you,
Nat Mele.

Dear Honorable State Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts:

From the outset, I wish to thank you for providing us the opportunity for input into this enormous and vital piece of legislation. I firmly believe that legislation of this importance and with its far reaching affects, needs to be contemplated fully and should allow the input of stakeholders and members of the public general. The middle-of-the night, 11th hour deliberations with zero public input represented a shocking demonstration of government at its worst. I respectfully commend this body for allowing the input of those who will be most affected by this landmark legislation.

Senate Bill #2800, in the form that it was secretly enacted outside the purview of the public is not only anti-police it is decidedly anti-labor. It is malicious and is intended to punish police officers for the sins of criminals masquerading as cops thousands of miles away. The police officers serving within the Commonwealth and particularly within my department, are a cut above and do not deserve this pejorative treatment. As currently written, the bill removes qualified immunity, strips police officers of due process procedures, and negates civil service collective bargaining gains that these officers have bargained for for years. In sum, it is punitive and destructive of the high quality of policing that the citizens of this Commonwealth enjoy.

I am a 35 years veteran of the Worcester Police Department and have risen through the ranks to the position of Deputy Chief of Police and have been so positioned for over 10 years now. That said, I believe that I am a considerable stakeholder and can properly "weigh-in" in this debate.

In the interest of your valuable time, I shall be concise and to the point in my requests:

Qualified Immunity: The doctrine of QI as it is currently in operation protects police officers and other public officials in situations where the law is unclear and does not give them adequate guidance. It DOES NOT PROTECT incompetent or officers or public officials acting intentionally in an unlawful way. Abolishing QI will have tremendous negative and unintended consequences for all Massachusetts citizens to include the police and public employees. I respectfully submit that QI as is currently stands, has NEVER served to protect incompetent officers or public employees or where those that have acted in an intentionally wrongful way. This proposal is nothing short of vindictive, is anti-police, anti-labor and will serve to harm officers and public employees where they act in good faith in the course of their duties.

Due Process/Collective Bargaining: Portions of this proposed bill serve to negate and erode the bargained-for and legislated gains of police officers individually and collectively by their unions have acquired insofar as due process and civil service protections. The so-called POSAC Committee will have the authority to deprive an officer (and by extension his family) of his career and livelihood by virtue of tribunals of POSAC board members where decisions may be rendered by simple majorities of hand selected members. By contrast, criminal defendants at court for the most minor and simplest of charges have their fates decided by juries where the decision must be unanimous and to a standard that well exceeds that of the POSAC board. I respectfully assert that the stakes of an officer losing his livelihood often trump that of criminal defendants facing the most minuscule of criminal charges. Accordingly, the decisions of this boards needs to be unanimous and to the standard of surety beyond a reasonable doubt.

Make up the POSAC Board: The proposed bill goes a long way to describe the make-up of the POSAC Board insofar as race and other situational characteristics. Nowhere in this proposal are listed the qualifications of the Board. Knowledge of police operations, procedural law, use of force expertise, are not at all mentioned, nor is the need for impeccable judgement. I do certainly "get" and respect the need for diverse representation, but so-called "box-checking" should only take place AFTER the bona fide qualifications inherent in this important Board are attained insofar as background, skill set and judgement. Physicians, lawyers and virtually all other professional groups are governed by those with the respective professional qualifications they sit in judgement of. The work of police officers is very often captured in split second decisions of life and death situations. It is only fair that the 20:20 hindsight evaluation of an officer's actions be conducted and evaluated by persons who have operated under these intense conditions.

I respectfully ask that this bill be voted down or at the very least, the aforementioned elements be amended significantly.

Very truly yours,

Dep. Chief Edward J. McGinn, Jr.

Good afternoon

My name is Jena Brown and I am the proud wife of a Dennis police officer who also happens to be a combat veteran serving two tours for this country as well as responding for Hurricane Katrina, and the ice storm in western Massachusetts here at home. To this very moment he continues to serve his community daily, it is not something he takes lightly, or with little regard nor is it something that stops once he takes his uniform off and comes home to us. My husband bleeds blue for the job, he loves being able to help people, offer advice and make the communities we ALL live in a better, safer place. His brothers and sisters in a blue are like family to us all, he stands by them and supports them through every call, every arrest and every hateful, hurtful remark from the public. He upholds his oath that he took and he does it with respect for EVERY SINGLE HUMAN BEING HE COMES IN CONTACT WITH.

Just over two years ago I watched our governor, representatives and senators stand at Sgt Sean Gannon's funeral and vow to support our police officers, offer more training, make benefits better and to make sure they knew at least in the state of Massachusetts they were valued and supported. Two months later we watched it AGAIN for Sgt Michael Chesna. Thousands of police officers from around the country were present both of those days to honor two men who gave their lives trying to keep our communities safe (both of who's murderers have not been brought to trial YET, but i digress). They heard you all talk about how you would support and stand for our officers. their families heard it, their CHILDREN AND WIVES heard IT. Every house i passed had a blue light on it, or a blue line flag or sticker on their cars, departments were actually turning away food because it was so abundant, meals were comped for officers and their families everywhere they went. JUST OVER TWO YEARS AGO EVERYONE LOVED law enforcement, valued what they did and who they were. They were said to be some of the best and Thank you's were being said constantly. How soon we forget. Forgotten they have for two years almost to the day that Sgt Michael Chesna was horrifically murdered, the massachusetts state senate in the early morning hours, without ANY input from those most affected, no public hearing, a rush to judgement, a rush to create a 70 page bill was passed, forever changing the way in which police and emergency personnel can do their job safely, efficiently, and proactively.

Most of the responses we have received when questioning this bill which directly affects our families were "we were misinformed", "85% of the bill was agreed on but 15% which held the most controversial issues was not but in the end that was not enough to hold the bill", and my personal favorite "this bill although bad in language will help systematic racism." I have watched Senator Fattman's speech on the senate floor, and it brings tears to my eyes every single time i watch it. His passion and support for law enforcement, and their families while also understanding the racial problems our communities face was heart warming and so very needed. If you pass this bill you can be certain that a mass exodus of police will take place, and make no mistake it will be the " good ones" that leave. The oath they take will no longer have the meaning to them as they are not protected or supported from those they should be. I would not be able to have my husband, my heart walk out the door to a job that he cannot do to the best of his abilities without constant fear of retaliation. He has saved more lives of all ages during his eight years with dennis than any of us ever will in a lifetime, and yet this bill ties his hands to be able to perform in the way he best knows how... to PROTECT AND SERVE. My children watch their dad leave every day to go to a thankless , stressful, heart wrenching job , they kiss him goodbye, hug him, always tell him to "be safe and i love you" at the very young ages of 6,7 and 2 they understand how important that last hug and i love you is. They understand it could be their last. They are proud of the man their daddy is, the way he treat so people, the respect he gives people, they stood tall and proud at a "back the blue" rally as people screamed swears at them and flipped them off, simply because they wanted to show support for their dad. This bill only allows those swears and vulgar actions to ring true.

I watched recently as eight new graduates became full time officers at Falmouth Police department my heart broke for them, the excitement in their eyes, the pride they felt as they were about to step out in their communities for the first time ready to put in to practice what they had learned over the last 6 months. My heart broke as this bill passed on the senate essentially sending these new, excited, and hopeful officers into the fire without protection from those very people they are trying to help. Taking away qualified immunity from our officers who leave their families day after day to do their jobs is absolutely atrocious. To think you expect them to perform higher than they do now, without more training, more support, more officers to work shifts and lower call volume while simultaneously taking away their protection makes absolutely NO SENSE AT ALL. Would you work in conditions such as that? Would you want to work in a place where you make a law and get sued for doing your VERY job asked of you? I highly doubt it. At a time when phrases such as "defund the police" and " All Cops Are Bad" is plastered all over signs, social media, the news, and usually with almost every interaction they come across lately, I would like to think our highest ranking officials in massachusetts would not echo that sentiment by creating a bill such as ma s2800. I sincerely that you read this all, that something i said makes you think twice about the current police reform bill. I also hope that you LISTEN to the concerns from those affected most with the outcome of this bill. If possible offer a seat at the table for the law enforcement community, the community agencies of color, law enforcement families, I for one would LOVE to sit and create a reform bill that helps ALL members of our community the safest, and most productive way possible. giving the communities who desire change, and wish for a seat at the table to talk should be accepted. Make this a bill we can all go to bed at night and know we did not rush it but instead had patience, knowledge, correct data, and understanding of the actual issues creating racism in our communities. Blaming one profession is easy, because you don't have to look at yourself, it's a finger point a judgement but it's wrong. Creating a bill with training, mental health, support and building or strengthening community relationships is what is needed, the current bill will only drive communities further apart and leave them defenseless because when the " watchers of night are no longer darkness has no keepers". I do not envy your job, the pressure involved i only ask that you treat this bill as if it was YOUR family at stake. Thank you for your time, should you have any further questions or wish to talk I am always available 508-280-8209. i attaches a picture of our hero and the kids so when you sit on the House floor you picture our officers as dads, brothers, husbands, mothers, sisters and most basic as human beings and not replaceable robots.

God Bless

with love and gratitude

Dear Rep. Cronin and Rep. Michlewitz,

I support S.2820, the Senate's recently passed police reform bill. I urge quick House support of similar legislation, advancing through the conference committee for execution by Governor Baker near the end of July.

As a member of the International Association of Chief's of Police, I recognize this as a watershed moment when reform is essential to maintain public confidence in law enforcement. The status quo is not sustainable in the public eye, and ultimately policing stands or falls based on public trust and respect. Without reform, policing is at risk.

The Senate bill is cautious. It creates a state-wide certification board and state-wide training standards, limit the use of force, establishes a duty to intervene if an officer witnesses misconduct, bans racial profiling, mandates collection of racial data, sets civilian approval to buy military equipment, prohibits NDA in misconduct cases, and for the first time allows for outside State Police lead.

Devolving SRO deployment decisions to local Superintendents of Schools (not the state) is another appropriate and important provision.

Changes to qualified immunity are also modest. This bill maintains qualified immunity for sworn officers for reasonable behavior, with continued indemnification by tax-payers. Police officers would no longer be immune to prosecution for egregious misconduct.

Lets get this done by the end of July.

Hello,

I am a resident of Boston, MA and I unequivocally support the Reform, Shift + Build Act (S.2800).

Massachusetts has always been on the forefront of states passing legislation to support the people that live here and we've never shied away from decisions that seemed radical at the time. I have always been proud of - and bragged about - MA being the first state to legalize gay marriage, and I hope to see us continue to make the right choices ahead of the curve and set the standard for the rest of the country to follow. It's time to eliminate qualified immunity, ban chokeholds, reallocate state funds to communities disproportionately impacted by the criminal justice system, and allow the Mass AG to file lawsuits against discriminatory police departments. I hope to see this legislation pass so I can continue to be a proud resident.

Thank you,

Shannon

Subject: Qualified Immunity

Dear Chair Aaron Michlewitz and Chair Claire Cronin,

Please accept the following testimony with regard to SB2820 - an act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color.

I writing to you in regards to the proposed changes in "Qualified Immunity" for police officers. I have been a police officer for approximately twenty two years, and a police chief for approximately one and a half years. I'm sure you are aware, I am not alone in my serious concerns over this subject. In my opinion, the senate was very quick in making a decision on this matter, without doing their homework, and without giving any regards to the burden it would place on police officers and their families, as well as the municipalities they work for. The Massachusetts senate never seems to be on the side of law enforcement, and in my opinion, acted too quickly on this matter, simply to answer the demands of these protestors and activists without thinking this through. My hope is that the house will seriously consider the ramifications this will cause, should these changes to qualified immunity be allowed to pass. As you know, qualified immunity has never served to protect the illegal actions of police officers. It is meant to give officers a layer of protection when they act in good faith, and truly believe in their hearts they are doing the right thing when performing their jobs. Police officers, in the course of their duties, very often have to make split second decisions. To now have to be concerned that they may lose everything they have worked for, just for merely answering a call for service, is just plain wrong on so many levels. This is going to force officers to second guess every decision they make when they encounter these difficult and sometimes violent situations for fear of losing their careers, and possibly their homes. Abolishing or amending qualified immunity will most definitely have a negative impact on not only police, but all public employees, courts, and citizens as well. Another serious concern should be the financial impact this will have on cities and towns. The lawsuits that will result from this change will cripple municipalities financially. To punish all Massachusetts police officers for the negative actions of a few police officers in other parts of the country is quite frankly unfair, and unreasonable. If this is allowed to pass, you will see a major negative change in the way policing is performed on a daily basis. Police officers will have to worry that any day could be their last day on the job if they know they aren't protected by qualified immunity. How can you expect a police officer to perform his job with enthusiasm, without the worry of being terminated or possibly sued for simply just doing his job. My hope is that you will give this serious consideration for the good of all concerned.

Respectfully,

Chief Rick Rindels

Hi,

My name is Alba Oliver and I live, vote, and work in Brighton. Thank you Chair Cronin and Chair Michlewitz for your time.

This bill would Ban chokeholds, Requires racial bias training, Limits militarization, Adds certification of police officers, Makes changes to qualified immunity and the bill must be passed in its strongest possible form to save lives, advance civil rights, and safeguard liberties."

This bill would needs to pass because I have close friends and as a Latina, and person of color, I have witnessed how my boyfriend has been racially profiled and how police has used forced to unnecessarily restrained him while he had been complaint. I have witnessed on numerous occasions how police use force and target minoritized folks and arrest them. This bill needs to pass to assure that our civil rights are being counted and taken into consideration. This bill will make changes on qualified immunities and I believe it would hold police accountable. This bill will require racial bias trainings and I believe racial profiling would decrease tremendously and we will have a more just criminal system.

The US Census shows that White people make up the majority of population in the U.S and yet people of color are still disproportionately killed by police. Black people are three times more like to be killed and 1.3 times more likely to be unarmed when killed. Boston is no different. Black people are disproportionately killed by police

Thank you again Chair Cronin and Chair Michlewitz for your time and I am asking you to give this bill a favorable report and offer your support to see this bill become law in Massachusetts.

Sincerely,

Alba Oliver / Stabilization Mentor

Subject: URGENT. PLEASE HELP POLICE!!!

It came to my attention that last night the MA Senate passed the bill to end qualified immunity for police officers. I am appalled that the legislature of such importance was passed without a public hearing.

The very idea that such a thing as removing qualified immunity from police can be seriously proposed, let alone voted for 30 to 7, seemed totally absurd just a few months ago. Qualified immunity of elected officials and members of the law enforcement community is the bedrock principle of any government. Without it, no government institution would be able to function. And policemen, due to the very nature of their work, are the most vulnerable group.

This shameful legislation is unfair, immoral, and harmful to the extreme, especially to the people of color, whom it's supposedly designed to help - this group needs strong law enforcement and police protection more than anybody. By taking away qualified immunity from police the Commonwealth of Massachusetts essentially declares itself non-governable territory. Scores of policemen will retire, which is already happening. And nobody will be interested in joining the police force - the group that not only is unjustly vilified but now even deprived of any legislative protection.

A horrible death happened in Minnesota and everybody condemned it. But why the whole profession of policemen is punished for that? I talked to Brookline police and there has been not a single incident of police brutality for the years of existence of Brookline police. Massachusetts police in general is an exemplary organization. Why are you in such a hurry of changing the law? This new law will harm not only police but the whole population of Massachusetts.

In the strongest possible terms, I urge you to keep qualified immunity for MA police officers intact.

Subject: S.2820

Dear Chair Michlewitz, Chair Cronin, and members of the House Ways & Means and Judiciary Committees,

I'm writing in favor of S.2820, to bring badly needed reform to our criminal justice system. I urge you to work as swiftly as possible to pass this bill into law and strengthen it.

I believe the final bill should eliminate qualified immunity (a loophole which prevents holding police accountable), introduce strong standards for decertifying problem officers, and completely ban tear gas, chokeholds, and no knock raids like the one that killed Breonna Taylor.

Subject: Bill S. 2800

Chairman Michlewitz and Chairwoman Cronin, Massachusetts can take a bold step towards ending systemic racism in policing by passing S. 2820, An Act to reform police standards and shift resources to build a more equitable, fair and just commonwealth that values Black lives and communities of color. We need strong use of force guidelines for police in Massachusetts, public records of police misconduct, a duty to intervene policy, and bans on no-knock warrants, choke holds, tear gas, and other chemical weapons. Please pass a bill that includes each of these critical reforms.

Subject: Senate Police Reform Bill 2820

Massachusetts Senate,

I am writing this in regards to the Senate Police Reform Bill S2820 for resisting any changes in qualified immunity which will have negative interference on a police officer while he or she is conducting their duties of saving life or stopping a crime from happening.

This police reform bill will have officers second guessing themselves while conducting their duties under extreme stressful conditions. This is very dangerous for police officers and as well for the public because they will not be confident of their duties and hesitant of upholding their position to protect and serve the community.

Therefore, people who are victims of violence or crimes will lose their confidence in the police to protect them from harm's way. The public will believe that police officers will not be performing their jobs at their highest capacity. This will be extremely dangerous for people who are mentally or physically vulnerable and they rely on law enforcement to keep them safe.

This bill will also jeopardize a police officer's livelihood because when they are performing their duties they have the worrisome of being sued individually by a person. When those possibilities arise their families who care for them or rely on them for financial, mental, or physical support will greatly be negatively impacted.

I write this letter again to not support the Senate Police Reform Bill 2820 that will be unsafe for the public and restricts officers from serving their community at their highest potential. This bill must not change for the safety of our community. Thank you.

Respectfully,

Daniel Phan

Subject: Pass a Strong Police Accountability Bill with Key Provisions from S.2820

Dear Chairs HWM & Judiciary,

I urge you to pass legislation that establishes real oversight and accountability for police.

Our law enforcement system is rife with systemic racism that manifests in poignant police murders of unarmed black people, brutality and excessive use of force, unlawful arrests, and unnecessary police contact. The House of Representatives and Senate should ultimately pass a bill that ends qualified immunity in most instances, reduces and oversees police use of force, removes police from schools, expands juvenile expungement, and establishes funds to improve re-entry from incarceration.

The shielding of law enforcement from accountability for violating people's rights through qualified immunity is unacceptable and irresponsible. Police should be held to professionalism standards that limit misconduct similar to doctors or lawyers, who cannot commit malpractice with impunity. Additionally, we need to stop surveilling juveniles with police in schools, collect data, and let young people expunge records related to mistakes they made as a child. If we invest in communities of color and hold police accountable for their misuse of power, then we will have safer communities, less crime, and more respect for the justice system.

This is an urgent matter. Please pass a bill that includes at a minimum the provisions of the senate bill.

Sincerely,
