

CHINS Task Force Data Collection

Proposal for Outside Technical Assistance

The following is a proposal for the use of an outside source to help us focus our efforts. This proposal includes two components -

1. Designing targeted collection tools to support the data collection process
2. Assisting the group in the development of an analytical strategy

To accomplish this, a team would meet with information management staff from relevant agencies in May. Through in-person interviews and subsequent review of materials, the team would evaluate the MIS structures, assess the quality of collection, and review existing queries and reports housed in the relevant agencies.

Based on this “diagnostic review” of current data capacity, the team would then draft data collection tools and queries to support the CHINS planning process.
