Epic

SOFTWARE DEVELOPMENT

As a software developer at Epic, you'll work at the intersection of two incredibly challenging fields: medicine and technology. You'll identify problems, find solutions, and create innovative software affecting the lives of over 70% of all Americans and 250 million patients worldwide.

We hire people who can handle real responsibility, and then give it to them. We take your input seriously. You can expect to have ownership of meaningful and challenging projects right away.

Epic's campus is located just outside of Madison, WI, a city that regularly ranks among America's best places to live for young professionals and families. Whether you're an avid ultimate Frisbee player or a big fan of live music, love the idea of biking to work or challenging your friends to a game of D&D, Madison is full of great things to do.
