

The Sartori Family

Breakfast Keynote and Master Class with Paola Piizzi and Sarah Sartori

Saturday, April 23
9am EST

"Sartori invented the alphabet of the mask and the grammar of the body."

Paola Piizzi

Join mother and daughter, Paola Piizzi and Sarah Sartori, for a presentation about the Sartori family's history, starting with Amleto and his collaborations with Jacques Lecoq in the creation of the neutral mask, and continuing with his son Donato Sartori. Paola Piizzi and daughter Sarah, who direct the Museo della Maschera Amleto e Donato Sartori and the Centro Maschere e Strutture Gestuali, will describe the evolution of the Sartori masks and their methodology. In addition to their talk, the Sartoris will give a Master Class that all are welcome to watch. In the second session on Saturday, they will interact with participants (who have applied and been accepted to the master class). Anyone can watch these sessions—and we encourage you to. All can gain valuable insights from their comments. Translation provided by Eleonora Mancuso.
